PREDICTIONS ARE IDLE

No Telling When Congress Will Adjourn.

"LOCKOUT" IN GOVERNMENT WORKS

No Agreement Reached at the Conference Between Appropriation Advocates and Opponents Yesterday—The Charges of Watson Still the Sensation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Senators who have kept tally of those of their associates still within reach confidently expect to be able to muster a quorum to-day, and they hope between now and Wednesday to be able to come to some adjustment with the House as to the Sundry Civil bill so as to permit of adjournment between August 1 and 10.

The Senate leaders are determined not to attempt any other business which can possibly cause delay. Mr. Hawley of Connecticut has served notice on his colleague that, if they find themselves waiting, he will address them on the tariff to-day, but not otherwise. Mr. Allen of Washington has an important local bill in regard to certain Indian lands lying near the present city of Tacoma, which the white men wish to get hold of. He asks the Senate to dispose of this in some way, and the Senate is inclined to accede to the request.

The notice paper contains numerous bills and joint resolutions subject to call, which may be taken up for oratory, but not for action, this session. Torrid weather of unusual intensity and the approach of a Presidential campaign, which it is conceded will be very closely contested, have made Senators eager beyond precedent for a speedy adjournment.

First sessions of previous Congresses have been prolonged far into September or even October with less restiveness on the part of Senators than is now apparent. Many of them have matters at home which need looking into.

Reliance is placed upon the magnitude of indefinite variety of the interests involved in the Sundry Civil bill to bring about a speedy termination of the national "lock-out." Of course, the stopping of those great workshops here in the Capital, the Government Printing Office and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, (where all the bank notes and revenue stamps are printed), and of the costly and many officered semi-scientific bureaus of geological and coast and geodetic surveys are first to attract attention.

But the lockout goes much further. It includes the life-saving station, and all the lighthouses; the quarantine stations, hospitals, etc.

The bill takes in everything, down to the monthly gas bill at the White House and the feeding of the animals at the National Zoo Appropriations for all these purposes stopped at midnight Saturday and stringent provisions of the revised statutes prohibit any obligation being incurred for any of these accounts in advance of an appropriation.

Representative Dockery, a member of the Appropriations Committee and representing the opponents of the World's Fair appropriation, held a conference yesterday with Representative Hopkins (Rep.) from Illinois, a friend of the appropriation, with a view to arriving at an agreement upon the subject.

Mr. Dockery presented a proposition to allow the Sundry Civil bill to pass the House without the amendment for the fair, it being agreed in the House that a bill carrying the $5,000,000 appropriation shall be introduced and made a special order for the first Tuesday of the next session of Congress, and that it be also understood that a cloture rule shall be reported, if necessary, to fix the day and hour for a final vote on the bill.

This proposition, Mr. Hopkins stated, was not fair to the exposition, as both the House and Senate had voted for the World's Fair item, and he thought the responsibility for delay should rest on Mr. Holman and the filibusters who were acting with him.

Furthermore, said Mr. Hopkins, it is a question whether the World's Fair management can raise the money necessary to carry forward the work on the buildings and other matters needed, while waiting, with a doubt about the appropriations hanging over them.

No agreement was reached.

Mr. Hopkins says he and the friends of the Fair will continue to antagonize Mr. Holman's resolution to continue the Sundry Civil appropriations of last year. He has stayed here through the hot weather of July, and he has come to the conclusion that he will stay through August and see that the Fair gets what has already been appropriated for it, and which some people are trying to get away from it.

It is idle to predict a day or hour for final adjournment, for no one can tell when it will come. It may arrive suddenly, or the House may linger for days.

Speaker Crisp was seen to-day by a reporter and asked if he found an end to Congress in sight.

"None whatever," he replied. "I cannot predict when Congress will adjourn. It is now only a matter of endurance on both sides, and no one at this time can say which will give in."

"But a resolution for a rule setting a time for a vote has been introduced; will it be reported and thus end filibustering?"

"Most certainly not," replied the Speaker.

But the subject of adjournment, the World's Fair appropriation bill and other matters have to a great extent been subordinated by the wholesale charges of intoxication made by Congressman Watson.

The fact that Judge Cobb of Alabama, declares that he is one of those referred to as being drunk in the House, and as he is generally noted as a fire-eater, trouble is expected for Mr. Watson and the outcome is anxiously awaited.

By some it is asserted that Mr. Watson is seeking free advertising for his book in which the charges have been printed.

Others are of the opinion that he may be able to prove the charges, which will be anything but a pleasant reflection upon this Congress.

Mr. Watson does not appear to be in the slightest degree disturbed over the excitement he has caused, but maintains a calm and very confident air. He declined to talk about the matter this morning other than to reiterate his assertions that he could prove all he had said.

That the matter has caused the biggest row the House has gotten into in a long time there is no denying, and the indications are that the attempt to ignore and hush up the matter, that at first gave promise of success, has failed. So far Judge Cobb of Alabama, who made the erratic speech in the Noyes-Rockwell contested election case last spring, is the only man brought into the investigation by name, and this was owing to the efforts of his friends to exonerate him from the charge of being stimulated to the point of incoherence when delivering his speech.

The opening session of the Investigating Committee attracted little attention from members, because it was thought that the inquiry into Watson's charges would be perfunctory, and that the rash Georgia defendant would be whitewashed in the most approved style. This action has been made impossible, however, by the dragging of Judge Cobb's name into the case by his colleague, Col. Oates, and there is no telling now where it may all end. As far as can be ascertained, only one man has threatened to thrash Mr. Watson, the others evidently thinking that the safest way to keep themselves in the dark is to maintain a profound silence.

WORLD'S FAIR COMPROMISE.

A Plan By Which It Can Get the Money Without a Direct Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Representative Terry of Arkansas has introduced a compromise proposition to help the House out of the World's Fair difficulty. The idea is to permit the World's Fair people to coin, free of all expense, so much silver bullion—say ten or fifteen millions—into silver half dollars.

The bill provides that the presentation of the silver bullion requisite for the purpose by the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized, the same to be coined into silver half-dollars of the same weight and fineness and to have the same qualities in all other respects as the silver half dollars now authorized by law, and to be of such design and stamped and engraved with such inscription as shall designate their value as coin of the United States, and also make them suitable souvenirs of the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.

The coin shall be free from all seigniorage and cost of mintage to the government, and such silver bullion shall be coined from time to time as the same shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Treasury. And such souvenir coins made therefrom shall be turned over to the proper officials of the World's Columbian Exposition until the number of silver half dollars so coined shall amount to $15,000,000, and said half dollars shall be full legal tender for all debts, public and private, as is now provided by law for the silver half dollar.

The bill will probably meet with the approval of Mr. Holman and other members of the House who opposed an outright appropriation for the World's Fair.

MARS ON CLOSER VIEW.

The Lick Telescope Fails to Verify Schiaparelli's Discoveries.

LICK OBSERVATORY, Cal., Aug. 1.—The giant telescope presented to the University of California by James Lick is making a record for itself during the present opposition of Mars. For several days observations of most valuable character have been obtained by the Mount Hamilton astronomers.

The near approach of the planet and its consequent brilliancy and size at this time have enabled observers to utilize the full powers of the instrument with most intesting results.

Drawings by all the astronomers exhibit numerous changes in its principal characteristics since the celebrated sketches made by the Milan astronomer Schiaparelli.

Many of his details are shown to have no existence in reality. None of the so called "canals" are cobbled or "gemintd" as he depicted them.

Duke of Manchester Dying.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Duke of Manchester is dying. He is in Ireland, at Tanderagee Castle, where he went some time ago with an idea that he might there, away from the haunts of which he is alleged to have been too fond, have a chance to recover his shattered health. He is only 39 years old, and his wife is Consuels, daughter of Don Antonio Yznaga, of New York and Cuba. He has three children. His illness is supposed to have been aggravated by the recent suit successfully brought against him by Bessie Bellwood, a variety actress, who alleged that she had supported him for years, and who recovered a large sum.

The Proposed Catholic Chautauqua.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The Buffalo members of the Advisory Committee of the Catholic Chautauqua Association are making strenuous efforts to have the assembly grounds located on Grand Island, a few miles down the Niagara River. The proposition meets with great favor among the people interested in Grand Island property, and it is not improbable that sufficient land for the purposes of the assembly will be donated. The Grand Island Improvement Association will take the matter in hand.

Howling Dervishes Allowed to Land.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The thirty Dervishes, who arrived on Friday from Khartoum and who were detained pending an investigation have been allowed to land. They came from Central Africa, Egypt, Syria and Turkey. They are all Mohammedans and are dressed in their native costumes. They have been brought here to give exhibitions of dancing, acrobatic feats, etc. After giving exhibitions throughout the country they go to Chicago where they will be a feature at the Columbian Exposition.

Almshouse Fired By Lightning.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 1.—The County Almshouse at Georgetown, Sussex county, was struck by lightning Saturday evening and destroyed by fire. Four of the inmates are reported to have perished in the building. The loss will be about $40,000. Insurance partial. The storm was the most terrific that has visited Sussex county this season.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

COOL WEATHER AGAIN.

The Average Temperature During the Hot Wave Exceeded All Records.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—With the mercury ranging from 67 to 70 this morning, life is again bearable. Last night it was cold enough to make a light overcoat comfortable. The average temperature for the eight days during which the hot wave prevailed was 91 degrees, exceeding all previous records.

One hundred and sixty bodies were received at the Morgues since the beginning of the hot spell.

This is the daily record: Sunday, 6; Monday, 27; Tuesday, 19; Wednesday, 16; Thursday, 31; Friday, 21; Saturday, 30.

It is a curious fact that, as compared with excessively hot periods in past years, the number of deaths among the unknown which are the result of heat prostrations is unusually small.

The number of deaths reported at the Bureau of Vital Statistics for the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m. Saturday was 295. This is the largest mortality for one day in twenty years Not since 1872 has there been such a high mortality for one day.

In that year there were 300 deaths in one day. The next highest number of deaths was on July 13 of this year, when 260 were reported. The deaths for the week numbered 1,434. This is also the largest number of deaths in one week since the week ending July 6, 1872, when 1,591 persons died in this city.

The next greatest number of deaths for one week was during the prevalence of the grip in the week ending Jan. 11, 1890, when the number of persons who died was 1,424.

Of the 1,591 persons who died during the week ending July 6, 1872, 212 were killed by sunstroke. There were 90 deaths from sunstroke during the past week in this city.

Over in Brooklyn the loss of life and prostration from the heat was unprecedently large. Of the thirty-two prostrations reported by the police Saturday twenty-one resulted fatally. The hospital in the City of Churches are overcrowded and the ambulance attendants and horses are worn out from constant work night and day throughout the entire week.

The prostrations among the workmen of the Williamsburg sugar refineries during the past week have exceeded 500. But two of the large sugar houses are in full operation.

The Havemeyer establishment employs nearly 1,400 men. Of these more than 400, or nearly 33 per cent., have been carried out since the coming of the hot wave.

The Brooklyn sugar refinery employs about 450 men. Of these between seventy and seventy-five were compelled to quit work.

The numbe rof deaths during the week from heat in Jersey City, Hoboken and Newark, especially the latter city, exceeded any other week's record in many years.

At Baltimore, Md., there were 475 deaths during the past week. The number of deaths for the corresponding week of 1891 was 207. Never before in the history of the city have there been so many deaths during the same period of time.

AN ELECTRIC CAR HELD UP.

Help Arrives Before the Highwaymen Get Any Money.

PATERSON, Aug. 1.—A car on the Central Electric Railroad was held up by six members of the Creame gang last evening.

They stopped the car on the road leading from Passaic to this city. They overpowered the conductor and cut off the electric current. There were only two passengers on the car, and they rushed for help. When help arrived the roughs beat a retreat.

One of the gang, William Walsh, was captured and put in jail. The police are on the track of the rest of the gang. The gang failed to get any money.

BUNCOED 2,500 CHICAGOANS.

They Thought They Were Investing, But Were Only Getting Swindled.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Twenty-five hundred persons living in Chicago and vicinity allege that they have been swindled out of $30,000 by James L. Strauss, a former newspaper man. Strauss got tired of assignments about a year ago and organized the "People's Investment Company." Ten warrants were sworn out against him and his partners last night for fraud and embezzlement.

He offered to pay 30 and 40 per cent. for the use of small sums for a short period. The only security was a certificate showing the victim were entitled to a certain sum at a stated period.

Brickmaking Season to Close.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 1.—There are indications that the brickmaking season along the Hudson river will come to a sudden close. Some of the yards at New Windsor and other points have already shut down. The brickyards all have their sheds about full, there having been enough brick made to supply the demand until next spring.

Mr. Gladstone's Illness.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The report that Mr. Gladstone had been taken suddenly ill threw the Liberals into a state of consternation. Inquiries regarding Mr. Gladstone's illness, brought out the information that the coming premier had been attacked with a severe chill, but that he would likely be around all right in a day or so.

Mrs. Harrison's Improvement.

LONG LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The cooler weather here has had an improving effect upon Mrs. Harrison. The unusual heat of the past few days has been depressing to those in perfect health, and necessarily a drawback to persons like Mrs. Harrison, recovering from a long siege of illness.

DOES IT MEAN THE END?

Reported Break of Union Men at Homestead.

DIVINE SERVICE INSIDE THE MILL.

Nearly 400 of the New Workmen Assembled in Worship—Chairman Frick So Near Recovery that He Expects to Go to His Office This Week.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—The first important break in the ranks of the skilled laborers at Homestead is likely to take place to-day. Saturday night there was a meeting of 25 of the skilled men, several of them members of the Almagamated Association. The situation was discussed and it was decided that there was no hope of winning the strike. A committee was appointed to wait on Mr. Potter, the superintendent, to ask him on what terms they might come back.

The committee called yesterday afternoon and was cordially received by Mr. Potter, who told them of the rules the company had adopted as to the treatment of the strikers, and that he meant to adhere to them. If they would abide by these rules he could find places for them.

They expressed themselves favorably and said there would be another meeting to-day when they would make their report. The committee thought the terms would be accepted and that the 25 would go to work.

Mr. Potter, in an interview this morning, said:

"I think the break is coming very soon. By the end of the week we will probably have as many men as we can provide places for. When the men propose to return as openly as the 25 skilled men whose committee called here, a general stampede is not far distant."

The constables say that they have located several of the Homstead men for whom warrants have been issued and that they will make a number of arrests to-morrow or next day. Three of the original seven men charged with willful murder have not yet been apprehended. It is now believed they have left this part of the country.

Secretary Lovejoy this morning refused to state whether the company had shipped any of its new product of steel from Homestead, or to what places it had been consigned, fearing he said, that the information might arouse the railroad employes to enforce the threatened boycott.

DIVINE SERVICE AT THE MILLS.

Nearly 400 Non-Union Men in Attendance. Further Trouble Expected.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 1.—The strike of the Homestead steel workers has been characterized by many interesting features, not the least novel of which were the religious services held in the mills yesterday. With the great cogging and beam. mill for a chapel, with 100 armed and uniformed watchmen on guard, and with over 1,000 soldiers within hailing distance, 380 non-union men attended divine worship at 11 o'clock.

The services were conducted by Rev. Clarence Adams of the First Baptist Church of Franklin, Pa., who is chaplain of the Sixteenth Regiment. His wife, the only woman present, occupied a chair in the congregation and helped lead the singing. Near her sat Superintendent Potter. The men were provided with typewritten copies of three hymns.

It is reported that eight or ten families occupying company houses on Shanty Hill have decided to disregard the notices to get out. They declare that if their household goods are to be taken out the Sheriff's deputies will have to do the work. It is thought that when the work of eviction begins some lively scenes will ensue.

Officers in command of the brigade say they expect trouble within the next two or three days. On what grounds they base their fears they will not state. One of the officers said that word had reached headquarters that the locked-out men were quietly planning to get at the non-unionists in the mill, and that an attack would surely be made soon.

A Philadelphia dispatch says: General Snowden's statement that the authorities of the State will eventually have to join in actual battle with anarchy and the commune as a result of the Homestead disturbance has made a profound impression here.

Gen. Snowden says that he was astonished during his stay at Homestead at the large number of letters and periodicals which reached him from all quarters breathing anarchy and revolution. He said:

"The people may as well make up their minds that the eruption at Homestead indicates the presence of disease in the body politic which extends far beyond anything of which they have conceived, and, instead of criticising the efforts of spirited and patriotic officers to preserve discipline in the ranks of the soldiery, they should do everything in their power to uphold them. I believe that the hour is not far distant when peace and order will have to be enforced at the point of the bayonet."

Thinks He is Marked for Death.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—J. N. Nixon, who was an important witness in the hearing when Judge Magee held Sylvester Critchlow, a Homestead striker, charged with murder by Secretary Lovejoy of the Carnegie Company for trial for first degree murder, thinks he is "marked" for death by the strikers because of his evidence. He has made information before Alderman McMasters, charging Emory Speer, a striker, with conspiracy, and Speer has been arrested and confined. Dixon claims there are many others in the plot to murder him, and has Constable Weber employed to learn their names.

Frick Nearly Well.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—Information from the residence of Mr. H. C. Frick this morning is that the victim of the attempted assassination, is now practically well of his injuries. Yesterday Mr. Frick was out of his bed, dressed and moving about in his room, and was the recipient of the congratulations of many callers. Mr. Frick said this morning that he expected to visit his office during the week.

A Colombian Gunboat Captured.

PANAMA, Aug. 1.—News from Barranquilla, United States of Colombia, is to the effect that the Colombian gunboat Lapoya has been captured in Venezuelan waters by the warship La Justice. The Lapoya was carrying arms from Colombia to the Venezuelan Government.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

CANADA AFTER NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Dominion Quietly Working to Annex the Island.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The absorption of Newfoundland by Canada is beginning to be looked upon as an event not far distant, and already an agitation with that end in view has been started here and in Montreal. There is every reason to believe that the Dominion government is quietly lending official countenance to the scheme, though for palpable reasons, publicity is avoided at the present juncture. The time, however, is considered auspicious for such a consummation, inasmuch as Newfoundland and Canada, at present, are on very friendly terms, whereas a month ago, each regarded the other with distrust and unfriendly feelings.

The prompt manner in which Canada responded to the call for aid when the city of St. John's was laid in ashes was the stepping stone to the present annexation movement. Over $1,000,000 have already been subscribed toward the relief of the townspeople of St. Johns, and the Canadian Government has exerted itself uncommonly in connection with raising and forwarding this fund. Many honeyed messages have passed between the Canadian and Newfoundland Premiers.

For the present the hand of the Federal authorities at Ottawa is not apparent, but a still hunt is in progress, and properly instructed agents, having a thorough knowledge of Newfoundland, will go with the relief ships, remain on the island, and establish there a propaganda having for its object immediate closer relations, and ultimately annexation between Newfoundland and the Dominion, as well as to seek to turn the thoughts of the Newfoundland people from their present endeavors to establish closer trade relations with the United States.

The Iron Hall Receivership.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Dr. George E. Bill, manager of the Boston office for the Massachusetts branch of the Iron Hall, and a member of the Massachusetts Board of Supreme Deputies, was seen in reference to the reported application in Indianapolis for a receiver for the order. Dr. Bill said it was impossible that such peculation as was charged could occur. The funds are not centralized, and therefore not obtainable in such amounts as alleged. There are no accrued debts such as are stated, and the reserve fund Andrew relate is not under the control of the bank in Philadelphia with which Mr. Somerby is connected.

Eastward Movement of Grain.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The eastward movement of flour and grain from the west through Buffalo for the month of July shows an increase of 505,734 bbls. of flour and 6,567,351 bushels of grain, estimating flour as wheat, as compared with the same month last year. The imports of grain since opening of navigation were 72,869,918 bushels as compared with 49,240,697 in the same period last year, and are the largest on record.

The American Victim of the Avalanche.

HINGHAM, Mass., Aug. 1.—The American who was reported by cable as having been killed by an avalanche while crossing the Grundenwald Glacier at Interlaken, Switzerland, was Mr. John Augustus Robbins, brother of James H. Robbins of this place. He was 51 years old, and a member of the firm of O. W. Bullock & Co., of Springfield, Mass., manufacturers of watchmaking tools. He leaves no family.

"Yankee Dan" Sullivan in New York.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 1.—Messrs. Faulkenberg, Richardson and Rich, officers of the steamer Pilgrim, Fall River line, report to police that they have seen fugitive "Yanke Dan" Sullivan, who is wanted in Providence for the murder of Mr. Haswell. He was walking up West street, New York shortly before the boat left for this city. All three men are well acquainted with the suspected man.

Massachusetts Labor Party.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The Socialist-Labor Party has nominated a full State ticket. John Orvis, who was a co-worker with Wendell Phillips and William Lloyd Garrison in the Anti-Slavery movement, is the candidate for Governor. For more than 50 years he has been active as a writer and agitator. The State Committee puts the labor vote in the State at from 20,000 to 30,000.

Clinton's First Electrocution.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Final arrangements have been completed at Clinton prisn for the electrocution of Joseph Wood. The prisoner still maintains his calm demeanor and undoubtedly will do so until the end. Chaplain Cheeseman visits the condemned man frequently, but Wood cares little for religion. Wood's father and brother were indicted as accessories to the murder and will be tried at the next term of court.

Will Be Arrested as Soon as Well.

SCRANTON, Aug. 1.—Robert Prondleck and James Hall, both of this city, who fought forty-six desperate, bloody rounds with bare knuckles at Chinchilla, Lackawanna county, four miles from Scranton, early Saturday morning, are in a serious condition, and will be arrested as soon as they are able to leave their beds.

—The next regular examination for second and third grade teachers' certificates for Union county will be held at Westfield, Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6.

—The next excursion from Plainfield to the seashore will be that of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational churches, to Asbury Park, Friday, Aug. 5.

—The borough's new fire-gong was blown on trial Saturday night. A great many did not hear it, but it is thought it will give satisfaction. It is 4 feet high and 8 inches in diameter.

—James Hall, a drunk and disorderly tramp, was arrested on Duer street at 2 a. m. Sunday. Marshal Pangborn locked him up, and in the morning judge Crosley gave him ten minutes to get out of town.

George Taggart and his wheel started for Boston last night on the "Puritan". They will spend a week or two among the quaint old coast towns down Cape Ann way, and the livelier neighborhood of the Hub.

—The employes of the Potter Press works had an enjoyable clam-bake at the Fanwood road-house, Saturday. The bake was in charge of Lewis DeCamp and Thomas Buckley. There was a large attendance, and all had a fine time.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. E. C. Mulford and her youngest two daughters are at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Brockway, mother of W. T. Kaufman, is ill from sunstroke at Belmar.

Ex-councilman E. B. Clark and family are enjoying Belmar's summer delights.

John Bushnell and family, of Central avenue, are at White-Face Inn, Lake Placid.

Wm. Moore of Fairhaven, Wash., is visiting at his old home, Fifth street and Broadway.

Mrs. J. F. Sheppard and daughter, of Orchard place, will spend the month of August at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ross, of Grant avenue, will spend a few weeks at the West End, Long Branch.

Arthur Dean of THE PRESS job-printing department has gone to his old home in Connecticut for a week's vacation.

Ed. Boland, engineer of the Plainfield electric light works, has given up his position and returned to Pittsburgh.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allen was gladdened this morning by the advent of a bright and bouncing baby boy.

The Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn, pastor of the First Reformed church of Newark, will preach in Trinity church, Plainfield, next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Leggett returned from their wedding trip last evening, and took possession of their new home at 104 West Front street.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, left town to-day for Bailey's Island, Maine, where he will spend a portion of his month's vacation.

Messrs. L. E. and O. G. Waring were passengers on the steamship Portia which was injured by a collision Saturday night. They abandoned their pleasure trip and returned home after the damaged vessel came back to her dock.

A mid-summer night's lawn festival will be given at the home of the Misses Wyckoff, 112 West Eighth street, near Plainfield avenue, Friday night. There will be no admission fee, but the proceeds of the evening will be given towards paying off the remainder of the Trinity Reformed church debt. It is hoped that the members and friends of the church will patronize the affair liberally. The festival will be given under the auspices of the young ladies of the Sunday-school committee of the Y. P. S. C. E.

DID MACK'S $2 DO IT?

SOMERVILLE'S MANAGER RAISES THE UMPIRE'S WAGES

And the West Enders Get Two Runs on a Foul Tip, That Win the Game—One of the Somerville Players Protested.

Those who followed the advice and accepted the warning of THE PRESS, and stayed away from the game at Somerville, Saturday, were saved the shame and spared the indignity of having paid their admission into manager Mack's box office for the privilege of seeing themselves robbed of a game again. THE PRESS told the people last Friday that "the Indians who live there will take your good money and treat you to a dose of Somerville methods". And that's just what the Indians did!

If there was ever a case of highway, barefaced robbery, even in the annals of the many games the Somerville team has "won" by dirty playing or the special and exclusive ways of its manager, that of Saturday was one and the most audacious. Before the game manager Mack of the Somervilles promised umpire Hopkins $7 although he had been engaged for the season by the league for $5. Manager Keller of the Plainfields heard of it and asked Mack by what right he took upon himself the authority of raising the wages agreed upon. Mack replied, "Because it's hard to get umpires." But it was n't hard for him if he got one for $2!

So the game opened with the two contesting clubs standing in this relation to umpire Hopkins, as he viewed it—Somerville wanted to raise his price but Plainfield would n't consent. It is in a semi-professional umpire's nature to be influenced sometimes by just such conditions. Whether he was or not, everybody must judge for themselves. The facts are that in the third inning, with Farrell on third base, Harkins on second and two out, Field, who was at the bat, jumped back to get away from an inshoot and the ball struck his bat, caromed on top of Hofford's mask and bounded over under the scorers' table. The Plainfield catcher did not go after it any more than other catchers go after the scores of fouls out of their reach. Then came the moment of Hopkins's temptation. Pitcher Murphy testifies that the umpire who stood right behind him first said "dead ball". But meanwhile Farrell and Harkins started for the home plate, and Hopkins hesitated. By the time they had scored, however, the umpire had made up his mind and to the frenzy of Plainfield's friends and the wonder and surprise of every soul on the ground except Mr. Mack, Hopkins ruled it was a passed ball and both runs should count. And as Harkins expressed it afterwards: "The prettiest part of the thing was, I never went within ten feet of third base on my way home." He supposed of course he would be sent back on the foul.

But to show the great mistake of Hopkins as an umpire, is his action as soon as he realized that everyone present felt sure he had stolen the game for Somerville. Before that he had punished pitcher Murphy unmercifully on balls and strikes, but during the rest of the game his attempt to "square himself" by calling Murphy's wildest balls strikes, was preposterous. Why he was ever engaged by the league is a mystery, in the face of the fact that when the Oritani team in a game that Hopkins umpired just previous to his coming to the Central league, left the field because of his decisions, he left, too, and called it a draw, "because", he said, "I had a good many friends in the team and I did n't want to give the game against them".

The Plainfield team played one of its prettiest games and were only beaten by the narrow margin of one run. It is ever so. Let the Crescents be in magnificent form; let them put up the very best game they can; yet something occurs when they play the West Ends that is not looked for. Either the Somervillians play a little bit better and are a little more lucky, or else fate will take a hand and win it for them. Try as they might after the second inning, Saturday, the Crescent players were unable to get further around the bases than the first corner. Twice did Hofford make a safe hit, only to be left because there was no one to follow him who could hit the ball. In the fifth, with two men out and "Chic" on first, Brady came to the bat and struck viciously at three of Anderson's double, duplex curves, retiring the side. In the fourth, Turner, the first hitter, lined the ball safely into right but got no further than first because though the next three men hit the ball far out into the air, it would always drop right into the outstretched paws of the Somerville fielders. Although Hofford made the only error charged to either side, still he played the game of his life. The little captain tried heart and soul to tie the score, and he would have done so in the eighth inning had he been followed by anyone who could hit. After pitcher Murphy had fouled out, Hofford hit safely. Then Brady, upon whom so much depended, came up and plunked the ball for fair but it dropped into Jocko Field's hands. Gentle Willie, who always gets in his hit except when he meets the West Ends, then rolled one along the ground to Farrell. Jack picked it up and tossed it to Harkins, and a despairing groan went up from the Crescent contingent.

The Crescent triumvirs who control the Plainfield ball team, pay a small sum monthly to a tall raw-boned fellow called Bob Murphy, who in return pitches sundry curves, twists and drops for the other league teams to break their backs over and ruin their eyesight with. This young fellow, who by the way, is one of the most innocent-looking chaps in the world, earned every cent of his fat salary Saturday by keeping the batting proclivities of the hard-smashing West Enders down to five little measly safe hits—widely scattered. Pete Anderson, of the West Ends, also got off easily. He had his speed with him and by putting on steam now and then when necessary, fooled all of the Crescent men except Hofford, Turner and Bonner. Sneeden, in a real white sweater, sat with manager Keller on the bench and offered valuable suggestions to his daring and lucky brother twirler.

Not nearly as many Plainfielders dropped their quarters in the window and passed through the turnstile on Saturday as did a month ago, and the wisdom and truth of THE PRESS's advice of Friday evening was taken by a great many. Those who did come saw a truly fine contest and a great pitchers' battle, but the new stand where the 400 of the two towns were wont to sit, was scarcely half filled, and the boast of the West End man who said that before the season closed Plainfield would have paid for the stand three times over, looks far from consummation. The old stand and the bleachers, as well as the greensward in front, were well filled with a shrieking, howling mob, who not only shouted at every good play made but at the players as well. It costs but little to go to Somerville and see a game when car fare can be had for nothing, and the fifty odd who went by coal train from this city saw the best game of their lives for the modest sum of twenty-five cents.

The story of how the game was won and lost, apart from Mr. Hopkins's share in it, need not take up a great deal of space. Did you ever see "Gentle" Willie run? If you have n't you've missed a veritable treat. "Gent" gave an exhibition of sprinting Saturday that was well worth the price of admission to the Plainfielders. It all happened in the first, the only inning in which Plainfield scored. It was something which roused the cranks to frenzy, made "Doc" Kennedy disgusted with life, and caused William Murphy to puff and pant with exhaustion. After Hofford had gone to the bench, when the fly he knocked to right had been squeezed by Field, and Brady had been retired from Farrell to Harkins, "Gent" grasped his bat and began to paw up the turf around the rubber. Someone in the crowd yelled "Put it over!" and Kennedy said "Let him hit it!" but Anderson would not and Willie walked to first on balls. A moment later he stole second. Turner was the next man up. Anderson threw a ball right across the plate and Turner sent it just over shortstop's head. Then it was a race for life and the water keg, Murphy came dusting around from second like a runaway elephant. At third base his eyes looked like two door knobs, while his tongue hung out of his mouth and his golden mustache drooped from sheer lack of strength. But when Ryman's throw got by Kennedy, and captain Hofford told Murphy to race for the plate, the tired left-fielder, with a look of anguish, spurted up the base line to the rubber and fell in a heap after scoring the only run of the game. It was the greatest trial of his life. He dragged himself to the water keg and took in a supply such as a camel does after two weeks' fasting, while the Plainfield people shrieked themselves hoarse. The West Ends' runs in the third began by Farrell getting a base on balls after two men were out. Then Harkins stepped to the plate with a glitter in his eye which betokened danger. He looked as big as a house and as strong as an army mule. The third ball pitched he met squarely and it sailed over the fence one foot fair and good for two bases. Farrell was now on third and Harkins on second. Right there is where Hopkins won the game for the West Ends as told above.

Before the game when manager Keller found that manager Mack intended to play Jocko Field of the New Yorks, he immediately gave notice that he would protest the game on the ground that Field had not been released by the National league and could not, according to a rule passed by the N. J. C. B. B. League, play in the game. Mack, however, insisted in keeping him in, and Keller will put in his protest at the next meeting. However, Field did not materially help the West Ends to win, as the work he had to do in the field most any schoolboy could have done. At the bat he hit safely once, but beyond stealing second he got no further, as Kennedy, Ryman and Murray were easy put-outs. The score:

NOTES.

No catcher was ever struck in the mask by any ball except a foul tip.

Brady fielded a safe hit from right field in time to beat the batter at first. This has never been done before in the Central league, and not more than once a year anywhere else.

Anderson was easily hit by the Crescents but the fate that follows Plainfield in her games against Somerville, caused all the former team's long drives to drop in some West Ender's mitten.

Leidy hit the hardest hit of his life during the game of Saturday. Nobody thought the grounds would hold it, but Carbonell happened to be playing forty feet beyond his position, way down in the fence corner, and got it by dumb luck.

Murphy pitched a great game, and well scattered the few hits that Somerville got—only once were there two in the same inning. Sneeden was out of condition again but he could n't have done as well, probably. He showed a black spot on his arm where he says a pole fell on him when he was "loading hay" last week. It begins to look as if he was afraid to pitch against the Somerville team.

THE PRESS is in receipt of a number of communications all to the effect that it was manager Keller's duty to take his team from the field and to refuse to play after such a decision. Now that the game is lost it is very natural for all to say so; but at the time what would have been gained by it? The umpire would have given the game to Somerville, whereas by staying the Crescents had six innings left in which to beat the one run against them.

GREAT TIME AT UNION VILLAGE.

Rousing Celebration and Banner Raising in Honor of Democratic Candidates.

The Democrats from all around the neighborhood gathered at Union Village Saturday night and had a rousing demonstration. An enthusiastic ratification meeting was held, called to order by Henry Rogers of the Press staff and presided over by the Hon. Thomas Lane, editor of the Summit Record. Mr. Lane made a stirring speech, and the Hon. James E. Martine of Plainfield delivered a masterly oration. The Democratic candidates and platform were heartily endorsed. A monster banner bearing fine portraits of Cleveland and Stevenson, was flung to the breeze, there was a beautiful display of fireworks, and enjoyable refreshments were served at the home of Mr. Carrott, who with Mr. Frazier and others are to be credited with the honor of having by their liberality made the affair so glowing a success. There was a big cannon at hand, and its salutes awoke the mountain echoes. All had a glorious time, and it was considered a great night for the triumphant Democracy.

NORTH PAINFIELD RAPID TRANSIT.

The Borough to Profit by Plainfield's Experience.

Some people seem to have misunderstood communications that have appeared in these columns recently, concerning marvelous new "inventions" in the matter of street railway propulsion, as being sincere propositions to introduce such methods into use in the borough. The articles were merely clever satires, aimed at the North Plainfield authorities for their alleged slowness in securing rapid transit, and are not seriously intended. The fact is, as stated by Mayor W. L. Saunders in an interview, that the North Plainfield authorities are biding their time in accordance with the wish of the people. Mr. Saunders says that the majority of North Plainfielders are at present pre-judiced against the trolley. The idea is to wait and judge of Plainfield's experiment. If the experience here proves the trolley the superior method of propulsion, then North Plainfield will probably adopt it also. The delay is merely that of judicious investigation.

I have not used all of one bottle yet. I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the nauseating dropping in the throat peculiar to that disease, and nose bleed almost daily. I tried various remedies without benefit until last April, when I seen Ely's Cream Balm advertised in the Boston Budget. I procured a bottle, and since the first day's use have had no more bleeding—the soreness is entirely gone.—D. G. Davidson, with the Boston Budget, formerly with Boston Journal.

CLARE LOSES ANOTHER GAME.

Such Pitching as Sharrott's Would Have Made Westfield Victor, But It Came Too Late, When the Glass-Arm's Mischief Was Done.

Clare again proved himself an uncertain element in Westfield's playing, Saturday. Westfield won the game against Elizabeth in the first inning, and lost it through Clare's weakness in the sixth. The Ripleyville boys started in with a flourish, hit Francis freely, and demoralized the fielders. Three good hits, a stolen base, and four wretched errors by Elizabeth, account for the five unearned runs. Then Francis braced up; the fielders steadied down; and in each of the subsequent innings only three men got to the bat, except in the third inning when four men got a chance at Francis's curves but gained nothing. Clare went all to pieces in the sixth inning, showing as in the Somerville game that he is unreliable. Sharrott went into the box, and the positions of the other players on the team were changed around, but it was too late. Sharrott pitched a great three innings, striking two men out in the seventh, one in the eighth, and three in the ninth, of the total nine men who faced him. Moorehead was the only man who succeeded in hitting him safely. But even Sharrott's great work could n't recover the lost ground, for Elizabeth had the lead, and Westfield could not hit Francis. The game was tame and one-sided until the eventful sixth. From then on to the end it was sufficiently exciting, and especially interesting as being a battle of the pitchers, each doing his best work and striving to excel. Quite a delegation from Plainfield enjoyed the sport. The score:

NOTES.

Myers is a dandy third-baseman, and is an acquisition to the Elizabeth team.

Warner was taken sick when Clare broke down, and Smith went behind the bat where he held Sharrott without a break.

McIndoe made his second error of the season, in muffing an easy fly, but he redeemed himself gloriously immediately afterwards by making a superb running catch of a sky-scraper that was very difficult to capture.

Elizabeth was very despondent after the first inning, and the rooters refused to shout 'cause they considered the game a "dead easy" loss. But when the excitement of the sixth began and the runs came piling in, Bowes was jubilant with joy, and the crowd shrieked itself hoarse

DAMAGES FOR CYCLISTS.

The Plainfield Water Company Settles the Wheelmen's Suit.

The members of the Mercury wheelmen, who recently met with an accident on Westfield avenue by running into a heap of earth left by the contractors who were laying the water main of the Union Water company of Plainfield, and who employed W. H. K. Davey to represent them as counsel, have settled their claims for damages against the company without suit. The company has paid all expenses they have incurred by reason of the accident, and in addition has made an allowance for their loss of time equal to what they would have earned. The settlement gives general satisfaction, and is considered preferable to an airing of the whole matter in court.

WHEELMEN, BEWARE OF CRANFORD.

Contemptible Treatment of Cyclists by Village Hoodlums.

Cranford is making a bad name for itself among the wheelmen. That is to say that the contemptible acts of some rascals which have occurred in Cranford of late have been such flagrant violations of law and order that cyclists are timid about entering that thriving village.—Elizabeth Journal.

The above item refers to the tying of rope across the roads at sufficient height to throw the rider off his machine. It is reported that several wheelmen have had the spokes of their wheels broken and their machines otherwise damaged by these toughs throwing stones at the wheelmen as they pass through Cranford. Why can't the Cranford authorities put a stop to these things?—Westfield Standard.

Mayor Saunders to Speak.

The Fourth Ward Democratic club will have a rousing time in T. A. B. hall tomorrow evening at 8. Mayor W. L. Saunders of the borough will address the meeting, which is a sufficient guarantee that it will pay all to attend.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

IRON HALL MEMBERS INDIGNANT.

A Jealous Attack on the Order Republished in Two Plainfield Papers.

The Plainfield branch of the order of the Iron Hall, of which Vincent W. Nash is chief justice and F. P. Storr is accountant, is justly very indignant at the attack made upon them by the News and the Courier of Saturday. The order has a large membership in this city, as everywhere, and is very prosperous. One of the supreme officers says concerning the attack:

"The information that an application has been made for a receiver for our order does not worry me in the least, as any one can make such an application; but there will be trouble for the accuser when the matter comes up in court. I do n't know who has caused this trouble, but I am sure it has started from jealousy. The allegations are made against us at Indianapolis, and it will be a difficult matter to get ahead of us in an Indianapolis court. We have about 70,000 members in this country and Canada; we have paid away about $6,952,000 in sick and final benefits, and we have over $2,000,000 left in undoubted securities. There are about 8,000 of our members in Philadelphia alone, organized into sixty-four branches. Since our order was started in 1881, we have conducted everything on a square basis and have a clean record."

A DISPUTED VICTORY.

The Score in Plainfield's Favor, But a Discrepancy Claimed by the Jerseys.

The New Jersey Athletic club's cricket eleven played the Plainfield St. George's eleven at Bergen Point Saturday. The game was closely contested, and at the end the score was announced 83 to 81 in favor of the Plainfield team. In looking over the score after congratulating their visitors, the New Jerseys discovered that an error had been made in the tally of runs, whereby the Plainfields were credited with three runs more than they were entitled to on a particular play. The mistake was generally admitted, but too late to change the announcement of the result. Deducting the three runs the game would have been a New Jersey Athletic Club victory by the score of 81 to 80. The score as recorded, however, was:

Westfield Notes.

Minor C. Baldwin will take a trip to San Francisco.

It is pleasing to hear the school trustees talk favorably of raising the curriculum of the High school to the standard of the college preparatory course. It goes without saying that Westfield owes it to herself to raise her public schools to the level of the schools of Plainfield and Montclair.

Appleton Morgan, LL. D., is winning renown by his editorial work on the Bankside Shakespeare. The critics, those gentlemen whose business it generally is to be dissatisfied with all literary work and workers, seem to be unanimous in his praise. Mr. Morgan is an acknowledged authority, in this country, on Shakespeare and his plays.

The committee that was in charge of Westfield's Fourth of July festivities this year has come to grief financially. A considerable portion of the money subscribed to defray the expenses of the celebration, has not been paid in; and the committee despair of collecting it. On the Fourth the rocket went up looking pretty; now the stick has dropped.

Getting so near to the university and the college reminds one of the remark overheard at the station the other morning, that "the Harvard graduate who has been writing letters to the Leader, cannot write good English". It is suggested that the author of this remark read Richard Grant White's criticism of Addison's phraseology, so that he may learn tolerance for unfortunates who wield the pen, by learning how rare a thing undefiled English is.

A moderate number of New York and Brooklyn people come to Westfield for the summer months, but they are not so many as those who leave Westfield for the mountains or the seashore. Ocean Grove is the favorite resort with Westfielders. Many families have cottages there for the summer, while others, American fashion, take a flying trip to Mr. Bradley's delightful resort once or twice a week, as opportunity offers. A Westfield woman said recently, speaking of a meeting with friends in the Catskills: "It was a delightful surprise to us; we felt very much at home—just as if we were in Westfield or Ocean Grove." This illustrates the statement that Westfield has a large delegation at the Grove.

Strikes at the root—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That's the reason so many different diseases and disorders yield to it. They all have the same beginning—there's a torpid liver or impure blood. And they all have the same ending—they're cured, by this remedy.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness; the most obstinate Skin and Scalp Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, Eczema and kindred ailments; the worst forms of Scrofula—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages; every blood-taint and disorder, no matter how it came—all are cured by it.

It's the only medicine for all such diseases that's so positively certain in its effects that it can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, the money is refunded.

Nothing else can be "just as good." It may be better—for the dealer. But he isn't the one who needs help. Beware of spurious imitations or dilutions, offered at less prices.

MILLS INTERCEDED.

The Evangelist Urged the Erring Minister to Return and Repent, But Instead of Forgiveness He Finds Prosecution.

The Rev. Nathaniel Nicolai, a German Presbyterian minister, who weeks ago disappeared from Elizabethport, and who, it was subsequently learned, had forged three checks, has made two visits to his former parish, the last on Saturday.

He talked to several persons, saying he came back to ask forgiveness and make restitution. Saturday evening he was at the residence of Henry Pfarrer, his elder, and the church treasurer, whose signature he forged. The latter refused to revealed the result of the interview.

Rumor has it that Pfarrer was not disposed to accept Nicolai's plea. Nicolai on absconding traveled to Oakland, Cal., where he confessed to B. Fay Mills, the evangelist, who was last winter in Elizabethport conducting a revival. Mills, it is alleged, advised Nicolai to return and make restitution.

The evangelist has corresponded with some of the Presbytery who deposed Nicolai, and advised, if he was penitent, to aid him. The parishioners say Nicolai will be criminally prosecuted.

A Man of Feeling.

"Beg pardon, ma'am," said the tramp on the back porch, removing his hat, "but was not that man who just left your door the collector for the ice company?"

"He was, sir," replied the lady of the house, wonderingly.

"I did not recognize him at first, but I suspected he was something of the kind. He had a bill, perhaps?"

"He had, sir. And I paid it."

"Then, madam," rejoined the tramp, his eyes moist and his chin trembling with sympathy, "be it far from me to add to the desolation and misery of an already devastated household! I will carry my request for a light collation to some more fortunate neighbor."

And he drew his shiny coatsleeve across his eyes, swallowed a sympathetic sob, backed down off the porch, clambered over the line fence on the left, and disappeared.—Chicago Tribune.

He Weighed His Words.

He was a ponderous preacher, or rather his sermons were ponderous, and the young people of his congregation were prone to complain of them.

"I always weigh well what I say in my sermons," he said to a fair young parishioner with a sharp tongue.

"Indeed!" she responded, quickly. "Do you use hay scales?"—Detroit Free Press.

A GREAT FEDERATION

All the Railroad Labor Associations to Combine.

THE CONVENTION AT WILKESBARRE

Engineers, Firemen, Switchmen and Telegraph Operators to Unite in the Near Future—Western Men a Unit for Consolidation—Opposition in the East.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 1.—As the result of the convention yesterday of representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Firemen, the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, and the Order of Railway Telegraphers and Ladies' Auxiliary, it is almost certain that these orders will in a short time be merged into one federation, thus making the strongest association of workmen ever organized.

The largest delegations were present from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. The west was poorly represented.

The morning session was secret and held in the armory. The object of the convention was stated, namely, to discuss the advisability of consolidating the orders under one head. It is said that the scheme was favorably received by all and will be put into effect in a very short time. The engineers in the Western States are almost a unit for consolidation.

There is some opposition among the engineers in the East, who do not like the idea of being called out on strike when the brakemen or telegraphers have difficulty with their employers, but the opposition of the Eastern men, it is said, will be overcome without difficulty.

The session was harmonious. Addresses were made by C. W. Wilson of Phillipsburg, N. J., Grand Chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen on the Reading system, C. H. Wilkins of Chicago, Assistant Grand Chairman of the Railroad Conductors Association; A. B. McMahon of Buffalo, Chairman of the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

In the afternoon a public meeting was held, at which 6,000 people were present. Master Workman Powderly delivered a 20 minute speech. He said it was the duty of railroaders to unite under one head. In unity there was strength. The railroads unite and pool their interests. They do it for their own protection. Their employes ought to have the same privilege. If workingmen don't protect themselves nobody else will.

Powderly denounced the Pinkerton men of Carnegie & Company. He was loudly applauded.

Mayor Nichols also delivered a speech. Father McAndres, a Catholic priest, spoke in favor of moderation.

NICOLAI ASKS FORGIVENESS.

Elizabeth's Erring Pastor Anxious to Make Restitution.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 1.—The Rev. Nathaniel Nicolai, the former pastor of the First German Presbyterian Church of this city, who disappeared suddenly two months ago after forging three checks here and who returned Saturday night, says that he came back to ask forgiveness and make restitution, if possible. He called at the residence of Mr. Henry Pfarrer, the treasurer of the church, whose name he had forged, and begged to be forgiven. Mr. Pfarrer, it is understood, is loath to forgive Nicolai, who, in addition to forging his name, borrowed several hundred dollars from him.

When Nicolai left Elizabeth he went to Oakland, Cal., he says, where he planned to meet the Rev. B. Fay Mills, who was conducting a series of revival meetings. Mr. Mills knew of his wrongdoing and urged him to return and seek forgiveness. Mr. Mills at the same time wrote to several of the clergymen of the Elizabeth Presbytery, who recently, after a trial, deposed the absconding pastor from the church, suggesting that if Nicolai returned he be assisted.

The Verdict in the Mitchell Case.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 1.—The verdict of insanity rendered by the jury in the trial of Alice Mitchell for the murder of Freda Ward meets with general approval here, and the recommendation that the girl be confined in an asylum, as she is believed to be too dangerous to be at large, satisfies those who were skeptical as to her being of unsound mind. It is likely that Miss Mitchell will not be taken to Bolivar before the latter part of the week. Lillie Johnson, her alleged accomplice, will probably never be tried. She is said to be dying of consumption.

U. S. S. Alliance to Return to This Country.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—It is stated at the Navy Department that Rear Admiral Harmony, in command of the China station, will within a few days order the U. S. S. Alliance to return to the United States. The crew of the Alliance have about served out their time of enlistment, and the vessel, on her return to San Francisco, will be put out of commission. Nothing is known at the Navy Department about the Alliance being unseaworthy, as the result of her being ashore on the breakwater at Yokahoma.

Prince George and Princess Mary.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—"Land and Water" says the report of the engagement of the Duke of York, son of the Prince of Wales, and heir presumptive to the British throne, and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, is untrue. The betrothal of the Duke to the Princess May, daughter of the Duke of Teck, who was betrothed to the Duke of Clarence and Avondale at the time of the latter's death, will be officially announced soon.

For a Monster Bicycle Tournament.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 1.—The Asbury Park Wheelmen have completed arrangements for a monster bicycle tournament to be held on their new grounds here on August 5 and 6. The entries for the different races include many of the crack riders of this country, Arthur A. Zimmerman, the world's champion, being entered for several of the events.

Thinks It Will Be Declared Invalid.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Senator John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin, is in this city. He gives it as his opinion that the apportionment bill passed by the New York Legislature will be declared invalid, and that the fall election will be held without change in the boundary lines of the Assembly districts.

RUSSIAN CRUELTY.

Chains Used for Jewish Prisoners by the Czar's Underlings.

The Jews in Russia are still being expelled from their homes and compelled to reside in a restricted area in that country, called the "Pale of Settlement." The accompanying illustration, says London Black and White, represents the chains by which they are often handcuffed—frequently to the vilest criminals—and led through the public streets by Etape, i. e., on foot—for hundreds of miles to the "Pale," or, in case of protest, to Siberia. The prisoners are coupled together by the right or left hand, and a long line being formed of manacled pairs, they are connected throughout by means of a chain which passes through a padlock attached. Thus each prisoner is chained to his fellow and the rest of the convoy. This method of dealing with a people whose only or chief offense seems to be that they will not enroll themselves as members of the Orthodox Greek church, will come as a revelation to English readers; but, unfortunately, the facts are only too well attested. Where the Jews consent to be converted they are permitted to live more or less unmolested; but the minute legal restrictions which hem in every action of the Jew, and compel him to obtain police sanction for everything he desires to do, renders him a ready subject for blackmail, and he can live only by bribery. The poverty of the bulk of these people has now reached that stage where bribery is impossible. Hence the restrictive laws are enforced with all possible rigor, and the Jews are now being sent to the "Pale" in larger numbers than ever. The following novel advertisement, which needs no comment, is taken from the official Moscow Government Gazette, 1892: "The Moscow government administration hereby give notice that they will sit to receive tenders on the 22d of January, to be retendered for the 27th of January, for the manacling and unmanacling of prisoners in the Moscow central forwarding prison and the prison hospital."

CURIOUS OLD CRAFT.

The Famous Whaling Vessel "Progress" Now in Chicago.

One of the most interesting features of the marine exhibit at the world's fair will be the timeworn and stormbattered whaling ship Progress. This ancient bark is now in Chicago.

The Progress was manned by a crew of Portuguese sailors picked up at New Bedford, under charge of Capt. Gifford of the same place. She is old style and bark rigged; that is on the fore and main mast she has square sails. On the mizzenmast is a fore-and-aft sail with a gaff topsail similar to some of our lake schooners. The vessel came with bare masts, the ship being towed all the way from Boston. On her davits she carries six large whaleboats, all of which have seen actual service, and each one is provided with a full equipment of gaffs, spears and other paraphernalia used in hunting the giant of the sea. These boats are made sharp at both ends so they can be driven either forward or back, as emergency may demand.

This old ship has a history. She has made seventeen successful trips around Cape Horn and forty times she has crossed the icy waters of the Arctic ocean. In 1869 the Progress joined the Arctic fleet and in the great storm of 1871 all met disaster excepting the Progress, which returned to New Bedford with three hundred sailors, seven captains, five women and three children, the only survivors of the wrecks.

A House Built of Human Skulls.

All lovers of grewsome, uncanny and horrible tales well remember the story of Timor and his famous "Pyramid of Skulls." The butchery which resulted in the building of that horrible edifice is recalled by the recent discovery near Nisch, Servia, of a building wholly constructed of human skulls and bones. It is in the form of a square, about sixteen feet high and is composed of fifty-six piles of deatheads and crossbones, there being seventeen skulls and as many pairs of crossbones in each pile. When or by whom it was erected is still a mystery.

An Immense Meteoric Stone.

An aerolite of immense size fell the other day into the Caspian sea, near the coast of the peninsula of Apcheron, on which Baku, the Russian oil city, is located. It is lying in water of a depth of nearly thirty feet and stands seven feet above water. As it must have sunk into the soft ground to the depth of some feet, the stone cannot measure less than forty feet in height. It made a terrible noise when coming down, and kept the water boiling to a great distance for a long time.

RACING AT NIGHT.

An Experiment Tried With Complete Success at St. Louis.

A week's trial at St. Louis has demonstrated the fact that horse-racing by electric light is no longer a matter of speculation or experiment. The results of the initial attempt at South Side park show that the scheme is eminently successful from all standpoints. One evening a number of eastern capitalists were present and went away satisfied after what they had seen that this idea could be successfully carried out provided, like any other form of amusement, it took with the public. The attempt to run horses at night by artificial light is not a late one. It has been tried repeatedly before in this country, France and England, but the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says never with any great success.

The course by night presents a striking picture. Everything is dazzling white; stands, fences, posts, in fact everything around the place that will stand a coat of paint or whitewash has been treated to a bright coating of white. Under the steady glow of the incandescent lights the effect is bewildering. Around the track at a height of twenty feet runs a wire strung like the trolley of an electric railroad. Along this at a distance of twenty-five feet are strung clusters of incandescent lamps, the space between them being so short that a man walking under them would cast no shadow on the ground. There are four lights in each cluster, and the current put in them is up to their fullest capacity. They have four times the intensity of the incandescent burner. In addition to this circular constellation giant search-lights are placed to illuminate the turns. These powerful lamps throw a very penetrating ray, making the gaudy colors of the jockey's clothing as distinguishable as in broad daylight. So powerful are the rays of these lamps that a peculiar arrangement is made use of to muzzle the rays in order to prevent shadows. In addition to this the grand stand is one blaze of light, making the home stretch bright as day. The effect from the grand stand is really beautiful. The broad track encircling the inclosure lies sharply defined under a circle of light beating down on it with such fierce intensity that the most minute depression is defined.

BLAINE'S SUCCESSOR.

Hon. John Watson Foster, the New Secretary of State.

Mr. Foster is an Indianian, having been born in Pike county, March 2, 1836. He received his education at the Indiana state university and the Harvard law school, and began the practice of law at Evansville in 1856. He served through the war in the western armies of Grant and Sherman, and was commander of the advance brigade of cavalry in Burnside's expedition to East Tennessee. After the war Mr. Foster became editor of the Evansville Daily Courier, and was appointed postmaster of that city in 1869. His diplomatic experience began in 1873, when he was sent by President Grant as minister to Mexico. He was reappointed to that position by President Hayes in 1880, but in 1881 was transferred to St. Petersburg, which post he resigned to attend to private business. He established himself at Washington, where he enjoyed an extensive legal practice in international cases. President Arthur appointed him minister to Spain, where he served from February, 1883, to March, 1885. He negotiated a commercial treaty with that country, which, however, was rejected by the United States senate, and was withdrawn by President Cleveland. Afterwards Mr. Foster went on a special mission to Spain to reopen negotiations for a modified treaty, but he was unsuccessful. During the administration of President Harrison he has been constantly consulted about the conduct of foreign affairs and has occupied the most confidential relations with the president.

Holy Lands of All Religions.

Christians call Palestine the Holy Land because it was the birthplace of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, as well as of our religion. To the Mohammedans, Mecca, in Arabia, is the Holy Land, it being the scene of the nativity of Mohammed, the savior of those who believe in his doctrine. India is the Holy Land of the Chinese and other Oriental Buddhists, it being the native land of Sakya-Muni, the Supreme Buddha. Elis, one of the several divisions of the ancient Peloponnesus, was the Mecca and the Jerusalem of the Greeks. The temple of Olympius Zeus was situated at Elis, and sacred festivals were held there each year. The believers in the Sinto religion make annual pilgrimages to Sitsa-Kara, the immense stone pillar where their supreme ruler last stood when talking to men.

Hard of Hearing.

A German professor, whose great book was published at least thirty years ago, was sitting on the left-hand side of a lady at a public entertainment. The lady remarked to her right-hand neighbor:

"I find that the professor is very hard of hearing."

"Yes," was the reply, "he has been that way ever since people quit talking about him and his book."—Texas Siftings.

An Unimportant Item.

He (after an elopement from boarding school)—You led me to infer that you would inherit a hundred thousand dollars.

She—No, I didn't. I said my father was worth that much.

He—Well, but you never said a word about having fourteen brothers and sisters.

She—I didn't suppose you wanted to marry the whole family.—Judge.

Poverty and Wealth.

"When that man came to this town," said a resident to a visitor as an old fellow passed them, "he was so poor he wasn't able to wear a linen collar."

"He doesn't look to be any better off now," remarked the visitor, noting his appearance.

"Oh, but he is," quickly explained the resident; "he's so rich now he doesn't have to wear one."—Detroit Free Press.

Disinterested Advice.

Jack (to his fiancee)—I think of getting a musical instrument, Maud. Say, perhaps, a cornet.

Maud (in dismay)—Oh, no! not that horrid thing.

Jack (in surprise)—And why not, dearest?

Maud (blushing violently)—It makes the lips so hard.—Puck.

Collecting Statistics.

A northern gentleman asked an old negro who was the driver of a cart to which was attached a venerable mule:

"How old is that mule, my colored friend?"

"He am like yerself, boss, pretty well on in life."

"But how many years?"

"Same as you, boss, only two."—Texas Siftings.

It Would Fetch Him.

Tourist (in Kentucky)—That gentleman sitting over there is the most taciturn person I ever encountered. Though I have tried almost every imaginable subject of conversation, I am utterly unable to draw him out.

Landlord—That's Col. Gore; try a corkscrew, suh.—Puck.

Matrimonial Amenities.

"Even the grip has its good points," said pretty Mrs. Jones; "it's apt to make a charming widow of one."

"Well, it'll never make a charming widow of you," said her grumpy husband; "I'd cut my throat before I'd let it do that."—Binghamton Leader.

Disappointment.

She planted in a wooden box some dainty mignonette,
And placed it in the window where the sun was very bright;
But when time transplanting came she found,
to her regret,
A lovely crop of Hubbard squash, the pleasant's fond delight.

—Judge.

He Presumed to Ask.

Young Hankinson—Miss Kitty, may—may I presume to—to ask you—

Miss Kitty—La! Mr. Hankinson! This is so—so—

Young Hankinson—To ask you if my necktie is straight?—Chicago Tribune.

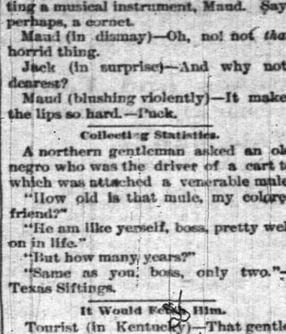
The Happy Maiden.

She (still blushing)—Am I the first girl you ever kissed?

He—No, darling; but you are the last.

She—Am I, really? Oh, George, it makes me so happy to think that.—Life.

A POSER FOR FISH LIARS.



The next time your friend brings home this sort of proof of his success as a fisherman tell him that the camera is the greatest liar on earth, and ask him to explain why his thirteen-ounce pole is not bent.—Chicago Mail.

HER MOTHER SAID NAY

But the Daughter Had a Mind of Her Own.

ASBURY PARK SOCIETY STIRRED UP.

Miss Mabel Tinley, a Well-Known Philadelphia Belle, Elopes With a Postoffice Clerk—Now She Asks Forgiveness—The Mother Prostrated.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 2.—The guests of the prominent hotels here are greatly excited over the sensational marriage of Miss Mabel Tinley, the belle of the Hotel Brunswick, with Richard Roelofs, a young man who was, until lately, a night clerk in the Philadelphia general postoffice.

The marriage occurred on Sunday, and the details have just come out. Miss Tinley is the daughter of the late J. W. Tinley, who was for many years a partner of W. B. Kempster in a large dry goods house in Philadelphia.

Roelofs has been paying attention to Mabel for nearly a year, and followed her here in spite of the objections of her mother, who was strongly opposed to the attachment between them.

On Saturday evening, while a ball was in progress at the Hotel Brunswick, Miss Tinley went out on the balcony with her partner, a Mr. Booze. Roelofs came up to them and had some angry words with the girl. The misunderstanding was soon cleared up, however, when Roelofs learned that the girl's mother had secured possession of and thrown into the street a bouquet of flowers he had sent Mabel to wear at the ball.

Mrs. Tinley learned of this meeting on the balcony and at the dinner table, Sunday, she reproved her daughter, saying:

"I do not want you ever to see that man again."

Mabel indignantly answered: "If you talk to me that way in the presence of all these people, I shall marry him before 6 o'clock."

Then she burst into tears and hurried out of the room. She sent word to Roelofs to meet her, and between 2 and 3 o'clock Mabel came down stairs, said good-bye, met Roelofs outside and the couple went with Miss Sophie Oldmixon to Rev. Frank Chandler's residence, where they were married. They took the first train to Point Pleasant and registered at the Resort House. Mabel at once wrote her mother imploring her forgiveness.

Mrs. Tinley wired back she would receive her daughter, but not with Roelofs, who could never enter her doors.

No reply has been received from Mabel and Mrs. Tinley keeps to her room, almost broken-hearted, hoping for her daughter's return.

SAYS SHE IS TOO GIDDY AT FIFTY.

Mrs. Oliver Elopes for the Second Time With the Same Lover.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Everett Oliver, the wife of a prominent farmer living near Slingerland's, has deserted her husband for the second time within a year. Mrs. Oliver is about 50 years of age, and is the mother of 11 children.

It is believed that she has eloped for a second time with a man named John F. Jones, who is fully fifteen years her junior. When Mrs. Oliver eloped with Jones before they went to Susquehanna, Pa., whither the wronged husband followed them, and after earnest pleading and promises forgave his wife and took her back home with him.

Since Mrs. Oliver's last disappearance it has been learned that she went to Albany and drew from the bank $100 she had deposited. It was also discovered that a few days before she left home she sent a letter to Jones at Jersey City. The inference is that the letter contained instructions for him to met her. Mr. Oliver says she is too giddy for him and he will forgive her no more.

The Latest Egan Story Denied.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—With reference to the story from Valparaiso charging Minister Egan with refusing to press a claim for damages against Chili on behalf of the widow of Antonio Mathien, an American citizen, for the reason, as alleged, that the brutal treatment of Mathien was due to orders from Valdes Carrera, a friend of Mr. Egan, officials at the State Department say that Minister Egan would have no right to present this or any other claim without the authority of the State Department, and that the Department has not been notified of the existence of any such claim.

The Arions' Farewell Concert.

COLOGNE, Aug. 2.—The farewell concert of the Arion singers was given at Guerzenich yesterday and was the greatest success of the series. The enthusiasm of the audience was beyond anything before experienced during the tour. All rose after the last number and gave long continued cheers for the Arions, while great masses of flowers and laurel wreaths were carried to the stage and presented to the performers.

Inspector Evans is an Alien.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Secretary Foster of the Treasury Department has written a letter to William Weihe, president of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Association, upon whose recommendation Frank Evans of Baltimore was appointed an emigrant inspector, stating that it has come to his knowledge that Evans is an alien. Secretary Foster suggests that Mr. Weihe name some one who is a citizen, and he will be appointed in Evans' place.

A Scheme to Control Sealskin Dyeing.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—A special from Victoria, B. C., says that Victoria sealers are entering heartily into the plans of the George C. Treadwell Company, the furriers combine recently organized here. A representative of the company is here now arranging the preliminaries looking to the securing of contract of the sealing market. The project is to control all the raw skins coming in and to clean and dye them in America, thus taking from London dyers and finishers a trade which has been their's exclusively in the past.

Jones Elected in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 2.—Correct returns from various parts of the State show that the straight Democratic ticket, head by Thomas Jones, has been overwhelmingly elected. The returns develope the fact that the bulk of negroes voted for Jones.

DESERTING THE ASSOCIATION.

Sixty of the Homestead Strikers Go Back to Work.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 2.—Homestead striking steel workers are considerably agitated to-day. They have satisfied themselves of the correctness of Superintendent Potter's statement that a number of former employes returned to work yesterday. This evidence of weakening on the part of men who have loudly proclaimed their loyalty to the Amalgamated Association worries the members of that organization, and the streets are filled with strikers discussing the situation with much animation.

That the backbone of the strike has been broken is acknowledged by every one save the members of the Advisory Committee and the more radical unionists. This morning Supt. Potter said to a "United Press" reporter:

"Altogether 60 of our former employes have returned to work and we have been informed that many more will make application for their old places. Twenty-seven of our old men came in yesterday. Twenty-four of them found their places still open, but the others, I am sorry to say, were disappointed. But while they cannot step into their positions they gave up a month ago, these men will be given work."

Secretary Lovejoy said this morning that all Pinkertons beaten and robbed after their surrender at Homestead would enter suits at once against their assailants for highway robbery and assault and battery. The Pinkertons claim all their baggage was stolen. These suits will be directed against Homestead people not strikers.

Mr. Frick passed a comfortable night. He was out of his bed this morning, ate a hearty breakfast, and no doubt will visit his office later in the week. It is said that no more bulletins of his condition will be issued by the attending surgeon.

The Thirty-third street Union mill of the Carnegie Steel Company is in operation, with non-union men, guarded by Pittsburg policemen. The new men were taken into the works under guard at 6 o'clock. The exact number of non-union workmen at the Thirty-third street mill is not yet known to Secretary Lovejoy.

No petition for the appointment of an arbitration tribunal for settlement of the Homestead troubles has been filed in court, nor will there be until to-morrow.

Superintendent of Police O'Mara, District-Attorney Burleight, and Attorney Friedman, have arranged satisfactory bail among themselves for the release of Bauer and Knold, the suspect accomplices of Berkman, and will ask Judge Magee to accept it.

More non-union men were taken to Homestead this morning on the steamer Tide. There were at least 100 in the party.

Anarchistic Talk in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 2.—There are about 500 Anarchists in this city, of whom one Speissenger is the chief local leader. After a period of seeming inactivity these Anarchists have lately grown active. They held a meeting last night at No. 193 Prince street. Gienoess Katz, of New York city, made a speech. In his harangue he said: "May the spirit of Alexander Berkman never diminish. He is noble a man, indeed, to imitate the doings of our Chicago friends. I trust that in the near future we may all become Berkman's."

Iams Has Entered Suit.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 2.—Suit was entered yesterday by the attorneys representing ex-Private Iams, against Gen. Hawkins, Col. Streator and Sergeant Mins, who executed the sentence in the punishment of the soldier. The suits were entered before Alderman Riley.

Peukert Autonomists' Meeting.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Peukert Autonomists met last night to discuss the Homestead affair. Three hundred people were packed into Military Hall, and the customary vituperative speeches were made, Emma Goldman being one of the speakers. Dyer D. Lum also spoke.

MR. HARRISON'S LETTER.

It Will Probably Be Ready Between August 15 and 20.

WASHINGTON, Aug 2.—President Harrison has not yet written a word of his letter accepting the nomination of the Republican National Convention. He will not make even the first draft of the letter until Congress has adjourned and he has gone to join Mrs. Harrison at Loon Lake in the Adirondacks.

The President has talked confidentially with quite a number of prominent Republicans in the past month, and from these conversations and from careful reading of the Minneapolis platform his ideas have taken quite definite form and it will not be difficult for him to give them expression when once he finds opportunity to write the letter.

The usual pressure of business which always attends the closing weeks of a session of Congress has made it impossible for the President to write the letter here. He hopes to have the letter ready between August 15 and 20.

Laundry Girls on Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Sixty-five girls employed by the Quaker City Laundry, Tenth and Locust streets, are on strike because of machines being put in to do their work. The girls discovered that a man foreman had been engaged to run the machines, and they notified the proprietor that if he went to work they would strike. When the foreman arrived they promptly stopped.

Took Seventy-five Grains of Morphine.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 2.—Superintendent Bob Barnes of the Hot Springs police, committed suicide by taking seventy-five grains of morphine. He told his wife what he had done, saying: "I am settled; don't send for a doctor." Death followed in a few minutes.

The Kaiser Arrives in England.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 2.—The Emperor William, in his yacht, the Kaiseradler, formerly the Hohenzollern, arrived here at noon, convoyed by two British men-of-war, which steamed up the channel to meet him. He was received by royal salutes from the ships in the harbor and from the forts ashore, the Spithead forts being the first to sound the thunder of welcome.

New York's Death Record of a Day.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—There were 210 deaths recorded in this city during the twenty-four hours ending at noon.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—The Paris newspapers report that attempts were made to destroy buildings at Versailles with dynamite. The report is not confirmed.

—A band of seven robbers have been secured and shot at Santos Jalisco, Mexico, for murdering Francisco Vallejo and his wife for a small sum of money.

—James G. Shattuck, a Boston horse dealer, aged 52, died yesterday from a kick in the stomach inflicted by Ernest F. Flagg, aged 21. Flagg has been arrested.

—The semi-centennial of the organization of the "Rechobites," a temperance society, will be celebrated by the High Tent in national convention beginning in Washington to-day.

—James McLarney, a yardman in the Manhattan Beach railroad depot, while coupling an engine and car at Coney Island was caught between them and badly injured.

—Professor Hobe, aeronaut, was killed by falling 3,000 feet from his balloon at St. Paul Sunday. His parachute failed to work, and his body was driven deep into the soft ground.

—Returns of the triennial elections in the Provinces of France Monday for members of the Councils General have been received from 1,132 districts. They show a Republican gain of 110 seats.

—The case of J. M. Cross and A. G. McDaniels, who were arrested at Denver on the charge of having robbed President Moffat of the First National Bank of $31,000, was dismissed for want of proof.

—Coinage was executed at United States mints during the month of July as follows: Gold, $5,000 pieces of the value of $1,440,000; silver, 1,042,000 pieces of the value of $569,000; minor coin, 1,900,000 pieces of the value of $19,000.

—Gov. Flower has appointed John Berry, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., one of the managers of the Reformatory for Women, to be established in New York, in Westchester county, in place of ex-Senator Stevens, who declined the office.

—United States Chief Engineer G. W. Raymond of Philadelphia has been appointed one of the Board of Engineers to settle upon the question of a suitable location for a large government harbor on the Pacific coast within the boundaries of California.

—While trying to escape from an officer at Reading, Pa., yesterday, George Hudick, a Hungarian, aged 23 years, jumped into the Schuylkill river and was drowned. He was wanted to answer a charge of assaulting a Jewish peddler. Six hundred dollars were found on his person.

—It is estimated that 18,000 men are now idle in New York on account of the trouble which grew out of the lockout of iron workers by the Iron League because the unions had ordered a strike on the Criminal Court building, where the Jackson Architectural Iron Company employed non-union housesmiths.

Victory for the Reading.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 2.—Judges Schuyler and Reeder, in the Northampton county court, have dismissed the case of Elizabeth S. S. Gummere, et al., vs. the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and others to restrain the Philadelphia and Reading Company from operating the Lehigh Valley road, and asking for a receiver for the Reading. This is the first decision on the "combine" in this State, and it is a signal victory for the Reading.

Back from an Inspection Tour.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Assistant Secretary of War Grant has returned to Washington. While absent he inspected a number of army posts, including Jefferson Barracks, Missouri; Fort Sheridan, Illinois; Rock Island arsenal, and the Watervliet, N. Y., arsenal. He found all the posts and arsenals in excellent condition.

THE FIGHT WILL GO ON

Nothing Gained by the Caucus of Last Evening.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE RESUMED.

A Resolution That the Appropriations of Last Year Hold Over for Four Days Adopted—Overwhelming Evidence in Favor of Judge Cobb.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—If the supporters of the World's Fair Appropriation do as they say they will, nothing will have been accomplished by the Democratic caucus of last night, at which it was voted to postpone consideration of the proposition to appropriate until next December.

Representative McCann of Illinois said this morning that the supporters of the World's Fair Appropriation would continue to press their cause until Congress expired by limitation of law, on March 4 next.

"They will continue," said he, "to insist on carrying out the will of the majority."

Representative Durborrow agreed with the sentiments expressed by his colleague.

If this program be carried out the caucus will merely result in substituting the friends of the World's Fair appropriation in the place of its opponents as filibusterers.

The caucus was held to endeavor to effect an agreement by which the present deadlock on the World's Fair Appropriation clause in the Sundry Civil bill could be broken and a speedy adjournment be brought about. There were about 100 members present, with Representative Holman in the chair.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Mutchler of Pennsylvania, which in effect was that there should be a vote on a separate World's Fair bill, making an appropriation of $5,000,000 in aid of the World's Fair, on the first Wednesday in December next, after six hours debate, and that only 3 amendments thereto should be in order. After considerable discussion this was adopted—69 to 31.

The first business in order when the House assembled yesterday was the resolution presented by Mr. Holman (Dem., Ind.) to extend the government appropriations for four days. He explained the necessity for the appropriation and said the House was confronted with a peculiar situation. The gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Hopkins) had stopped the wheels of the Government by objecting to the consideration of the resolution on Saturday last. Never before in the history of the Government had such a state of affairs existed. He wanted to bulldoze the House, and so objected.

Mr. Reed (Rep., Me.) followed with a characteristic speech and said that the blame for the failure to pass the Sundry Civil bill rested with the Democratic majority and the filibustering against the World's Fair. Mr. Holman was responsible in a large degree for the present condition of things. The appropriation for the World's Fair had the sanction of the Senate and also of 140 members in the House, and there was nothing urged against it except the miserable technicality that some think it ought not to appear in an appropriation bill. The gentleman from Indiana had the boldness to stand up here and charge his sins on other men. A House with 140 Democratic majority was responsible for legislation, and yet Mr. Holman had blamed this matter upon the other side.

After further discussion Holman's resolution was adopted and sent to the Senate, and by unanimous consent was passed by that body.

The flurry in some parts of the government service, caused by the failure of the House, Saturday, to extend the appropriations in the last Sundry Civil bill until August 4, was soon over. When the law governing the case was carefully examined, it was learned that the occasion for a flurry was comparatively limited. At least it was discovered that generous provision had been made for carrying on governmental affairs, and the failure to pass a Sundry Civil bill would not cause widespread disaster.

In case of failure of any appropriation bill, it appears, as stated by experienced authority, all bureaus or departments, the existence of which is necessary for the preservation of life or property, continue to do business under the provisions of the last previous act, and in all departments whatever is necessary to be done for the same end is authorized. By this provision, in case of the failure of Congress to pass a Sundry Civil bill, the life saving service, the hospitals and prisons, the light-house service and the marine hospital service would be maintained on the old basis. In the present instance the Government printing office was the only establishment that did not continue operations as usual. In others the employes assumed all the risk of receiving compensation for their labors, a risk which ended when the joint resolution was signed by the President.

Shortly before noon the special committee of the House investigating the charges made by Representative Watson, of Georgia, that members had been seen on the floor of the House to stagger and reel from drunkenness, resumed its labors.

Ex-Governor Josiah Patterson, of Tennessee, was the first witness called.

He said he had never noticed a member drunk on the floor of the House, and so far as he knew the statement was untrue. He had known Mr. Cobb since his arrival here as a member of the House, and the day that Mr. Cobb made his speech on the Noyes-Rockwell contested election he (Mr. Patterson) had listened to him throughout his argument, which was a very long and exhaustive one. He had seen Mr. Cobb drink from a cup, but as to it containing whiskey he could not state. As to Judge Cobb's being drunk he wished the public to know that it was not true. Witness sat within four feet of Mr. Cobb when he was making his speech.

Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, was the next witness. He said that he was not in the House the day that Judge Cobb spoke.

Mr. Boatner asked him if he had ever seen any member of the House drunk on the floor of the House.

Witness replied that he had never seen such a thing and was of the opinion that such a thing had never taken place on the floor.

Mr. Simpson objected to the question.

Mr. Boatner told him that he could appeal to the committee.

Mr. Simpson—I do not wish to appeal to the committee.

Mr. Watson made a statement to the effect that he was satisfied with the investigation, as it had proved that his charges were true, and that he did not intend to make the charge generally against the House, but only against individuals.

Mr. Bynum said that this House was as sober and dignified a body as he was ever in.

Delegate Marcus Smith of Arizona was next called. He was present when Mr. Cobb spoke on the day mentioned. He was sure that Judge Cobb was sober.

Mr. Boatner asked if he had ever seen members stagger about the House.

Mr. Smith replied that he had not seen any such state of affairs.

Mr. Simpson—Have you ever seen such an instance occur during your service of three terms in the House?

Objected to by Mr. Groat, of Vermont, and Mr. Simpson withdrew the question.

Mr. Smith said that Mr. Cobb, as every member of the House knew, was delicate and of a nervous temperament, and that it was necessary for him to take some nourishment, as it would have been impossible for him to have talked for two hours as he did without it.

General Meyer, of Louisiana, was the next witness. He was of the opinion that Mr. Cobb was sober when he delivered his speech on the Noyes-Rockwell contested election case. He noticed that he was somewhat mixed toward the end of his speech, but that was doubtless due to the frequency of the interruptions which occurred during the colloquy.

Gen. Wise, of Louisiana, clerk to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, said that he listened to Mr. Cobb's speech from the gallery, and was of the opinion that he was perfectly sober.

W. P. Hepburn, Solicitor of the Treasury Department, said that he was at the Capitol specially to hear Mr. Cobb's speech on the Noyes-Rockwell case, and that he had not been able to discover any symptoms of drunkenness about Judge Cobb.

He had known Judge Cobb for years and knew him to be sober and upright. Mr. Simpson objected to Mr. Hepburn testifying as to Mr. Cobb's character.

Mr. Boatner said he hardly thought it necessary to go so far as ——

Here Mr. Watson broke in and remarked: "Yes, so far as the restaurant."

Mr. Hepburn was excused and the committee took a recess in order that members might respond to a call of the House.

Senate Committees Close Business.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Senate Committees have virtually closed business for this session. There are only two of the regular committees that are at all likely to meet again this session, viz.: Appropriations and Judiciary. The remainder of the committees have decided not to hold any more meetings this session.

BLOODY RIOTS IN RUSSIA.

Many Killed as a Result of Opposition to Sanitary Measures Against Cholera.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 2.—Advices from Yashkend give information concerning bloody riots, caused by sanitary measures taken by the authorities to prevent the spread of cholera. Between 5,000 and 6,000 Sarts met in the market place, and after listening to exhortations from their leaders, marched through the streets smashing windows and plundering shops.

About 1,000 rioters surrounded the Governor's house and shouted that they had come to kill him for his oppression of the poor. He fled in disguise, and his house was completely looted.

The military were called out and tried to drive back the mob with fixed bayonets, The mob fought back with pistols and stones, and five soldiers were killed.

The soldiers then fired a volley, killing 60 and wounding 100 or more. About 15 of the rioters have since died of bayonet wounds. The city is in an uproar, and further trouble is feared.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 2.—The cholera is said to be spreading in Moscow, and the people are very angry with the Grand Duke Sergius, Governor of Moscow, both for the failure of the authorities to prevent the plague in that city, and for the harshness with which the local government endeavors to supress all information as to the extent of the ravages of the cholera, expulsion having been threatened and in some instances enforced against persons spreading information on the subject.

Guarding Against Cholera.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Assistant Secretary Nettleton has directed the Collector of Customs at New York, in view of the alleged prevalence of cholera in France, to "refuse to all the entry of rags from France until special authority therefor is received from the department."

ALICE MITCHELL IN AN ASYLUM.

She Was Allowed to Gather Flowers from Her Victim's Grave.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Alice Mitchell was taken to the insane asylum at Bolivar, Tenn., last evening. She first expressed a desire to visit Elmwood Cemetery and view the grave of her victim, Freda Ward. Her request was granted, and in company with her father and mother, under guard of Sheriff McLendon, she was driven to the cemetery. She displayed great emotion, and as she gazed upon the little mound of earth, tears flowed in great profusion.

Before leaving she gathered a handful of flowers from the grave, which she pressed to her bosom and carried away with her.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The monthly public debt and revenue statements, issued from the Treasury Department yesday, show a net decrease in July of $1,197,815 in the public debt, and an increase during last month—compared with July, 1891—of a quarter of a million in receipts and a decrease of two millions and a half in expenditures. There was an increase of $1,050 in the bonded indebtedness, a decrease of $340,966 in the non-interest bearing debt and an increase of $57,909 in the surplus cash in the Treasury. The surplus in the Treasury, including the $100,000,000 gold, greenback redemption fund aggregates $127,050,296.

Zoe Gayton on Her Tramp to Frisco.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 2.—Zoe Gayton, the celebrated woman long distance walker, reached this city at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. She is accompanied by her two companions, William Marshal and J. L. Price, and her cocker spaniel, Beauty. She is on her way from New York to San Francisco, via New Orleans and the Pacific coast. She must cover the distance of 3,861 miles in 167 days or lose the wager of $20,000. She resumed her march at 10:15 o'clock the same evening.

Tracy Off for a Vacation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Secretary Tracy will leave Washington to-day for New London, Conn. At that point he will take passage on board the U. S. S. Dolphin and sail for Bar Harbor, Me., where he expects to remain during the month of August.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Sale of seats for "Hands Across the Sea", begins to-morrow morning at Central pharmacy.

—The city will have to borrow $5,800 this week, in anticipation of taxes, to meet current expenses.

—Don't miss the Democratic rally of the Fourth Ward club at T. A. B. hall this evening. Mayor Saunders and others will speak.

—Detective Frisbie is mad. He claims $19 for shooting dogs which he says captain Grant authorized him to kill, and now the city refuses to pay the money.

—A team of frisky horses did considerable prancing about on Park avenue near the railroad bridge this morning. They were got under control without doing any damage.

—The ordinance to change the name of North Richmond street to Norwood avenue was last night adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

—Sim Kremer, a Hebrew peddler of small articles, was arrested by marshal Pangborn in the borough yesterday for peddling without a license. Magistrate Crosley fined him $2.

—Complaint was made to the common council last night that the sidewalk in front of 29 and 31 East Sixth street was in bad condition and ought to be flagged. The matter of paving was referred to the street committee.

—Land on the Job Male estate on West Seventh street needs curbing. There is some question as to whether the city can do the work and collect from the estate. The question has been referred to the corporation counsel.

—Councilmen Bird, Case, Frazee, Ginna, Johnston, Marsh, See and Weber were present at last night's common council meeting. The council will meet again Aug. 16, to examine and approve the tax assessments for the year.

—Marshal Pangborn caught Annie Mason and James Sullivan in a compromising position in a borough orchard. He arrested the guilty pair, and this morning justice Crosley fined the man $5 and released the woman on her promise to leave town and sin no more.

—Hulett is selling so many pianos and organs that he has hard work to keep his orders filled from the factory. He has met with great success in Plainfield, and he deserves it all, for he sells the best goods, his terms are reasonable, and his patrons are sure of the most courteous treatment and honorable dealing.

Miss Edith and William Gilbert have gone to Southampton.

Mrs. Joshua Martin of West Fourth street is at the Prospect house, Nyack, on the Hudson.

The Rev. H. K. Carroll, LL.D., and Mrs. Carroll left for Pine Hill, in the Catskills, this morning.

Mrs. Albert Hedden of East Fifth street is visiting her daughter in the suburbs of Boston.

Miss Lottie Smith, of the telephone central office, left town yesterday for a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Lizette Harrison, Miss Amey Green and Miss Jessie Stewart will go to Lake George this week.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Doane, of East Fourth street, is very ill with pneumonia.

The Misses Mary and Theresa Heidt, of West Second street, have gone to Kenoza Lake, N. Y., for six weeks.

Mrs. Fred. Haberle and Miss Ida Lorton of West Fifth street are guests of the Wave Crest house, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Wm. A. Woodruff and daughter, Miss Mabel, left to-day for Greenwich, Conn. They will register at the Held House.

Mrs. S. C. Peck returned Monday afternoon from a three weeks' visit among friends in Plymouth and Boston, Mass., and Milford, Conn.

Master Sandford E. Robinson, of Peace street, is enjoying farm life at Flemington, Hunterdon county. He is visiting his aunt, Mrs. J. R. Potts.

Maud Whitehead, infant daughter of James and Elizabeth Hansfield, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held from the residence of the bereaved parents, 324 West Third street, to-morrow afternoon at 2.

The excellent sermon recently preached by the Rev. W. R. Richards on "The Ten Commandments Filled Full by Christ" has been issued in pamphlet form for circulation among the congregation, who were eager thus to preseve its great truths and scholarly interpretation.

Dr. Francis E. Clark, president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, is about to start on a journey around the world in the interest of Christian Endeavor. He expects to visit Australia, China, Japan, India, Turkey, and other countries. Friday afternoon at 2 he will leave the Jersey City depot of the Pennsylvania railroad and it is hoped that a large number of Endeavorers of this and all other places will be on hand to bid him farewell, and wish him God speed.

A GLIMPSE BEHIND THE SCENES.

Something About the Artists Who Will Delight Plainfield People Next Monday Night.

The "Hands Across the Sea" company that is to play in Music Hall next Monday evening had its first rehearsal for the season in the hall to-day. Since its last appearance here the parts have been greatly strengthened, and in the improved form in which the play is to be given this season it is bound to have a reception even more enthusiastic than before. When the play was produced in Plainfield last May it was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience, and this year the house ought to be filled to overflowing.

A PRESS representative had the pleasant privilege of witnessing to-day's rehearsal, and of spending a happy half-hour in personal chat with the members of the company behind the scenes. The company is a veritable happy family. All of the people have a delightful personality, and seem to be most congenial associates. The majority of them have been with the company for several seasons, so that they are a band of old friends together, but there are two or three new faces who have been cordially welcomed to the group.

All of the players speak in the highest terms of affection of their manager, W. S. Reeves. He is first of all a thorough gentleman, and his kind heart, courteous manners and honorable treatment have warmly endeared him to the entire company. With his vast experience in theatrical work, his wide acquaintance in the profession, and his rare good judgment and discrimination, he has brought together a company of players who are perfection in their respective parts, and the play as staged under his management could not but be one of the greatest of histrionic successes.

The story of the play is one that appeals to every finer feeling of the human breast. In it, tender pathos and enlivening humor are carefully blended. Every sympathy is aroused; the undying love that is depicted, the warm affection that binds hearts together though seas divide, the hearty kinship that unites all humanity, the triumphant virtue that ultimately tramples villainous schemings and scoundrelly machinations beneath its feet, are all vividly and thrillingly depicted. The love, the hate, the merriment, are woven skillfully together, and a great play, a polished production, is the result.

Not the least of the contributing causes to the success of "Hands Across the Sea" is the charming personality of the trio of young women who grace the feminine parts. Miss Alice Graham, the leading lady, in the part of Lilian, has excellent opportunity for displaying her remarkable talents. She has been on the stage only four seasons, but her rise has been very rapid, and she is now deservedly ranked among the foremost of the profession. She is a sweet-faced young woman, of very attractive feature and pleasing presence, and off the stage is a most easy and fluent conversationalist. She is most refined in her tastes, and cultured in her manners, and is a great student of literature. Her favorite writers are those two remarkable geniuses, Bret Harte and Rudyard Kipling, on the merits of whose works she is very enthusiastic. She has played with Mlle. Rhea and other leading actresses, and is a great favorite throughout the United States and Canada.

Miss Clara Childs is a new member of the company, and is a great acquisition. She is a woman of fine stage presence and commanding beauty. As the regal Mme. Vallory, in the gilded French salon, she is bound to be a great success. A stage queen of her fascination is well fitted to take the difficult part of "the most beautiful woman in Paris". Miss Childs has won many plaudits in England, and will be most graciously received by the American public as well.

A bewitching little creature is Miss Osterman, who as Lucy won the hearts of the Plainfield people last May and will similarly captivate the large audience of next Monday night. She is a most vivacious young woman, with sparkling eyes and graceful ways. A disposition to be a bit mischievously frolicsome lurks in her dimpled smile. She is the life of the company.

The veteran of the company is William H. Wallis, who is faithful to the lines of Dick Melford. Mr. Wallis is a Philadelphian, and has been for 34 years one of the rare old stand-bys in legitimate drama. In youth he learned the printers' trade, and when he left it for the stage the drama gained much of talent and ability that would have been a credit to the art preservative of all arts.

Basil West, the leading man, is just the fellow to act the heroic Jack Dudley. He is a new member of the company, and has high standing in London, where he has acted at all the principal theatres.

Henry Pierson, who as Robert Stillwood is a most consummate villain, is as clever an actor as treads the boards, and is one of the most genial and whole-souled of men.

William Richardson is the comedian. In the role of Tom Bassett he proves the old proverb that "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine". He is a man of the most kindly heart, and is a companion of rare pleasantness. He is a great lover of Nature, and spends his summer vacations in jaunts through the peerless Berkshire Hills, or along the seacoast, or camping, hunting and fishing on a Cape Cod island which he owns. He is a personal friend of Edwin Varrey, of Plainfield, and considers him one of the finest actors of the present day.

Since the close of last season the scenic effects of "Hands Across the Sea" have been kept staged in Music Hall, and have undergone repairs and repainting, so that the scenery will all be virtually new at the first public production next Monday night.

Proof of Merit.

The proof of the merits of a plaster is the cures it effects, and the voluntary testimonials of those who have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS during the past thirty years is unimpeachable evidence of their superiority and should convince the most skeptical. Self-praise is no recommendation, but certificates from those who have used them are.

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

THE STRIKE BREAKS UP.

Advisory Committee in a Panic and Men Return to Work.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 2.—Last night at the Amalgamated Association headquarters there was great excitement, because it was plain to everybody, even the most sanguine, that the great strike was a failure, and could only last for a few weeks at most.

For several hours the officers of the organization, for whose existence the fight had been begun, were closeted with a committee of the Homestead strikers. It was seen that the men were weakening and wanted to return to work.

The following telegram was sent yesterday by Oglis Childs of the Carnegie company, who is now inside the Homestead mills, to Vice-President Leishman at the Pittsburg offices.

"Hire no more men, send up what you have engaged, but no more."

Immediately upon receipt of this telegram word was sent to all employment offices throughout the country countermanding orders already sent out by the company for non-union men.

At the offices here it was said that this meant that the number of old men desiring to go back to work at the Homestead mills was more than enough to make up the normal complement.

Mr. Curry of the Carnegie Company said in reference to this despatch yesterday evening that the firm had every reason to expect fully 2,000 of the old employes to return. He also said that there were 1,100 men in the mill yesterday evening.

HYMENEAL.

Miller—Thomas.

At the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles M. Ulrich, on Sixth street, the wedding took place last evening of Miss Katheryn Thomas to Edward-Miller of New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Logan Murphy of the Church of the Holy Cross.

The bride was very charming. She wore a plain but handsome traveling suit of tan-color French cloth and white and gold passementerie. The bridemaid, Miss Miller, the groom's sister, wore a beautiful gown of black lace and old-rose satin. The best man was T. F. Hadley of New York. The wedding was a private one, about fifty guests, mostly from New York, witnessing the ceremony. The gifts were numerous and costly.

Mr. Miller is connected with the well-known house of Rattier, Roche & Lebon, of Lyons, France, importers of silk and dress goods.

To Improve Various Plainfield Streets.

An ordinance to widen Sycamore street from Fourth to Fifth to the uniform width of 50 feet was introduced in common council last night. It was referred to the committee on laws and ordinances.

The council issued a decree that the sidewalk at 13 and 15 East Fifth street and 11 Sycamore must be flagged.

An ordinance to macadamize East Sixth street from Franklin place to Richmond street was adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to final passage.

An ordinance to macadamize West Third street from Madison avenue to Plainfield avenue was similarly adopted. The city is to bear half the expense in each case of macadamizing, and in the Third street case the property-owners are to be assessed benefits for the other half. This assessment takes the place of the usual voluntary contributions, which the Third street people have declined to make. Councilman Frazee was opposed to the assessment idea, though he was anxious to see the street macadamized, so he voted against the ordinance.

An ordinance to macadamize Hillside avenue from Putnam to Prospect was adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Base-Ball Babble.

There are still five games to be played between the Crescents of Plainfield and the West Ends of Somerville. Three more league championship games, and two that have been arranged for the morning and afternoon of Labor Day, Sept. 5, on the North Plainfield grounds.

The following is the batting order of the Brighton Athletic club for to-morrow: Schafer, second base; Abercrombie, left field; Gilles, centre field; T. Donaldson, right field; Livingston, shortstop; Crebbens, first base; Donaldson, catcher; Alfonson, third base; Gerrety, pitcher; Evers, extra.

There has been called a special meeting of the Central base-ball league at Elizabeth this evening, upon which occasion it is probable that manager Mack will hear some very unpleasant truths and uncomfortable criticism of his methods. Chas. A. Reed has prepared for submission to the board of managers, a very strong case against the Somerville crook.

Positive knowledge was had at Somerville, last night, that "Jocko" Field of the Somervilles, who was protested by manager Keller, was released one week ago by the Eastern association. A telegram was sent late Saturday evening to the secretary of the Eastern association asking for information on this point, with the result as above stated. Field was released by the New Yorks before he went to Buffalo. This settles the protest question and allows the game to stand as won for Somerville. Field will play with the West Ends next Saturday in this city.

I have not used all of one bottle yet. I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the nauseating dropping in the throat peculiar to that disease, and nose bleed almost daily. I tried various remedies without benefit until last April, when I seen Ely's Cream Balm advertised in the Boston Budget. I procured a bottle, and since the first day's use have had no more bleeding—the soreness is entirely gone.—D. G. Davidson, with the Boston Budget, formerly with Boston Journal.

IN HOT WEATHER,

Another Victory for the Berkleys.

The Actives of Berkley, who have not lost a game this season, played another fine game of base-ball, against the Green Village team, at Green Village, Saturday afternoon, and won even after the Green Village team made ten runs in the first inning. The game was rescued through the steady battery work of J. Burke and R. Rogers. The score;

Our Clothing will bear the closest inspection, and the conservative gentleman in the picture says he can find nothing wrong even in the buttonholes. They (the clothes) are all wool and as wide as you want them.

We have solved the problem of giving greater value for the money than any other clothing house in the state. Our method of doing this is simple enough when you master it, and consists in having cash with which to buy at the very lowest notch, the judgment to know a good thing when we see it and unequalled and extensive manufacturing facilities. Making our own stock at prices away below what our competitors have to pay, we are in a position to offer goods at prices they cannot meet.

SUED BY HIS SECRETARY.

Capitalist Schlicht Now Seeks to Evade His Employe's Judgment.

Paul J. Schlicht, of the firm of Schlicht & Field, founders of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, is involved in financial difficulty with Noel Verrier, of this city, who was his private secretary in a Nevada mining scheme which recently collapsed. The office of the company was in New York, and much of the burden of the routine work fell on Mr. Verrier's shoulders. When the bubble burst Mr. Verrier found himself lacking several months' salary and money which Schlicht had borrowed. He brought suit and obtained judgment. Schlicht paid a portion in cash and gave a note of $160 for the balance. Mr. Verrier got the note discounted and used the proceeds. When the note became due it was protested and he had to pay it. He then brought another suit and secured further judgment, and last week proceeded to execute his claim by attaching Schlicht's household goods at his home in Summit and effecting a public sale. On the day of the sale Schlicht secured a stay by producing his wife's evidence that the goods attached to be sold were her own private property. The sale was therefore adjourned, and the facts of the case are to be heard by justice Nash, who with a jury will decide the question of ownership, and order the sale to cease or continue. Schlicht explains his financial difficulties by the statement that all his resources are invested in a scheme to patent and market a long-distance telephone invention that will "talk" for unlimited distances. The phone is said to be the invention of a Frenchman named Amsterdam, whose rights were obtained by Schlicht.

Schlicht first became prominent as a capitalist by securing from the widow of Mr. Shannon, patentee of the Shannon letter file, the patent rights of the invention, and he and his partner Field made a fortune out of the manufacture and sale of the files. Schlicht then lived at Rochester. He lost much money in the Cosmopolitan magazine, and was forced to sacrifice his elegant home at Orange, to which place he had removed, and where he is said to have lived very extravagantly. He then turned his attention to various schemes, one of which is said to have cost president Thomas Nevins of the Plainfield Street Railway company $2,500. Mr. Nevins, it seems, had assisted Schlicht to that extent, and found that the chattel mortgage he had been holding as security was valueless.

A NEW DANGER OF TROLLEY CARS.

One of Them is Held Up by Six Ruffians in Passaic.

A street car on the Central Electric railway, which runs between Paterson and Passaic, was held up on Saturday night by six ruffians supposed to be members of the Cream Gang. There were only two passengers in the car, but the roughs had to beat a retreat before their intended robbery could be carried out.

Day Nursery Notes.

One of the pleasing events of the summer was the company of little ones from the Day Nursery, with their efficient matron, at the home of Mrs. J. C. Fernald on Arlington avenue, Friday afternoon. The enjoyment of the little tots was beyond expression, as they scampered over the lawn or swung in the hammocks and had a good time generally. The storm eventually drove them to the porches where they enjoyed a lunch and after the sky had cleared away the air was delightful for further play out-doors. Thanks are due to Mrs. Denton for kindly providing conveyance back and forth.

Little dress aprons for children from one to six years of age, will be thankfully received at the nursery in the Crescent rink building over the W. C. T. U. rooms. The following articles will also be acceptable: A crib and mattress, with small pillows; high chairs, little low chairs, underwear, playthings and scrap-books.

The Nursery is one of the best of the W. C. T. U. undertakings and a little help just now will be appreciated by those in charge.

The Madison Avenue Scheme.

The petition of George H. Babcock and Wm. M. Stillman to extend Madison avenue to the brook, was received by the common council last night. Two petitions were also received asking that the engine-house at the head of the avenue be removed. One was from the merchants and property-owners of the neighborhood, including C. Schepflin, A. C. Baldwin, L. L. Manning, S. C. Peck, T. J. Carey, G. E. Williams, O. M. Dunham, Samuel Dreier, James W. Jackson and Wm. C. Boone; and the other was from the M. E. church. All of these were agreed that the engine-house was no longer needed there, since the establishment of fire hydrants, and as a nuisance ought to be taken away. The entire matter was referred to the street committee.

Carry Bells and Lanterns Hereafter.

By sunset this evening the bicycle ordinance over which there has been so much discussion will probably have become a law. It was finally adopted by the common council last night, and will doubtless be signed by Mayor Gilbert immediately. The ordinance was slightly amended on final passage, by inserting a new clause which stipulates that the ringing of the bell shall be whenever the rider is within 50 feet of a crossing where anyone is passing. The lighted lantern shall be displayed from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, and the bell shall be ready for use at all times of day or night.

The fine for each offense of violation of the ordinance shall be not more than $20.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A Free Drinking Fountain.

At last Plainfield is to have a public drinking fountain. The W. C. T. U. is responsible for the enterprise. Mrs. Tomlinson, its president, reported to the common council last night that she had secured the consent of the Society of Friends to have a fountain placed at the curb in front of their meeting-house on Peace street, and had secured free-water privilege from the Water Supply company. All she asked of the council was to assume for the city the responsibility of keeping the fountain clean. The street committee was given power in the matter.

Plainfield's Election Board.

The common council last night appointed the following election board for the coming election:

First ward—George W. Moore, Richard E. Coriell, George H. Carpenter, John J. Kenney.

Second ward—Wm. M. Messerschmidt, John H. Doane, Herbert Stover, L. H. Brown.

Third ward—B. Frank Coriell, M. M. Dunham, Wm. Wright, F. M. Bacon.

Fourth ward, first district—Abram Angleman, Wm. T. Newman, Michael B. Flynn, V. L. Frazee.

Fourth ward, second district—Franklin B. Millington, James B. Martin, Jacob Kriney, Timothy A. McCarthy.

The Peace Street Project.

Councilmen Johnston, Fisk and Case, the special committee on the Peace street extension project, reported to the common council last night that they had been unable to adjust the difference of damages and benefits of several property-owners interested. Messrs. Wm. C. Ayres, E. C. Mulford and Jeremiah Manning where therefore appointed commissioners to assess benefits and damages, and they will meet in the council chamber the night of August 31.

New Horse for Alert Hose.

It has for some time been evident that the horse used for drawing Alert hose wagon to fires is too light for the service, and last night the company sent in an application to the common council asking for the purchase of a larger and stronger horse in place of the present one. The matter was referred to the fire committee with power to make the change.

Fire Hydrant Extension.

The Water Supply company having extended its mains out Central avenue and West Seventh street, the common council last night authorized the erection of two more hydrants on each of those thoroughfares. Hydrants will be erected on East Front street east of Richmond as soon as mains are laid to the houses of private consumers.

The Peace and Duer Street Projects.

The North Plainfield township committee will meet in Spencer's hall, Somerset street, Wednesday evening at 7:30, to consider the Peace and Duer streets extension project, and transact other important business. All persons interested should attend.

Eminently Fashionable.

"Yes."

"Was it a fashionable affair?"

"Oh! decidedly so. It was attended by the very best people. Very select."

"Indeed?"

"Yes; I know they were the very best, for they had a professional reader there, and while he was reading Anthony's oration everybody talked and laughed just as if there had been no reader there."—N. Y. Press.

Tobias Howens—A great deal, sir. It debars me from taking part in any event for money.—Judge.

A Smart Little Woman.

Claude—Becoze I see yo' has yo' frame-work up.—Judge.

There's light ahead for the women who suffer, if they'll only turn towards it. There's a guaranteed remedy for all the delicate derangements, chronic weaknesses, and painful disorders that make women miserable. It's Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and it makes women healthy and strong.

It's a legitimate medicine that's purely vegetable and perfectly harmless—a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, renewing and invigorating the entire system. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

For periodical pains, weak back, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, and all "female complaints" and irregularities, "Favorite Prescription" is a positive remedy—the only one that's so sure and certain that it can be guaranteed. If it don't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

NO CANADIAN REPRISALS

Such Intentions Not Held by the Dominion.

THE CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON

Secretary Foster and Mr. Herbert, British Charge d'Affaires, Discuss the Matter—Sir John Thompson Coming to Washington to See the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The results, if any were reached, of the conference yesterday between Mr. Foster and Mr. Herbert, British Charge d'Affaires, over tolls on the Canadian canals, in connection with the retaliation act passed by Congress, are carefully guarded.

It is said, however, that Mr. Herbet intimated that the discriminating tolls charged against American vessels for using the Canadian canals, while within the letter of the treaty between the two countries respecting the navigation of the canals and the St. Lawrence, was probably not in accordance with the spirit of the document.

He disclaimed any knowledge of an intention on the part of the Dominion government or that of the mother country to enter upon or to authorize a series of reprisals against the United States in case President Harrison acts under the terms of the new law.

He probably recognized if he did not admit the inutility of such a course, as it would at once lead to the entire suspension of a great part, if not the greater part, of the traffic of the Canadian transcontinental line.

It is said at the State Department that the officials there did not know that Sir John Thompson of Canada is on his way to Washington to secure a pledge from the President that he will not issue his proclamation until the opportunity has been given the Canadian Government to hear from England and decide on a line of immediate action.

While President Harrison does not usually act precipitately in public matters, it is probable that whatever delay there may be in issuing a proclamation will be due to a consideration of interests on this side of the border.

DON'T WANT TO BE NUMBERED.

Why Four Hundred Employes Are Striking at Newtown, Conn.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 2.—Four hundred men are on strike at the New York Belting & Packing Company's Works in Newton. The strikers protested against a new check system which was recently introduced by the company. The system requires the men to be numbered, and whenever a man enters or leaves the factory he has to deposit a check bearing his number in a box at the entrance to the factory.

F. C. Jones of New York, manager of the Newtown works, was sent for, and is trying to adjust matters with a committee from the strikers. The New York Belting & Packing Company is a big concern, having factories in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Passaic, N. J., and other places.

At Newtown they have two large factories, and it is about the only industry there. It is though t that the company will not accede to the strikers' demands to remove the obnoxious system. The men appear firm, however.

Confesses to Several Murders.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A prisoner in the jail at Glasgow, Scotland, declares that he took part in the murder of William Sydney, third Earl of Leitrim, who was murdered April 2, 1878, by being shot by unknown assassins, on account, it is alleged, of his practice of seducing the daughters of tenants on the Leitrim estate. Another tale the prisoner tells is that he was engaged in the assassination of William Browne de Montmorency, Viscount Mountmorres, who was murdered near Clonbur, County Galway, Ireland, Sept. 25, 1880. The Earl of Leitrim, his clerk and driver, were shot dead near his lodge, Manor Vaughn, in Donegal.

Balfour's Election Challenged.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A petition has been granted against the return of the Right Hon. James Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and Conservative leader in the House of Commons, as Member of Parliament for East Manchester, on the ground that his election was obtained by bribery and illegal voting, by the wholesale treating of voters and the hiring of vehicles to carry them to the polls. Mr. Balfour was declared elected by 5,137 to 4,749 for Prof J. F. C. Munro, Liberal.

A Summer Villa Burned.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 2—The elegant villa near this place, occupied by A. Blohm as a boarding house was destroyed by an accidental fire during the morning. Loss, $18,000; insured. The house had many boarders, all of whom escaped without injury. Mr. Blohm had his leg badly burned in endeavoring to subdue the flames. The house was a well-known landmark, and was once owned and occupied by the late Albert Speyers the banker.

Prince Bonaparte Wins His Divorce Suit.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Prince Clovis Bonaparte has won his suit for the annulment of his marriage to the woman known as Madame Rosalie Bonaparte. Judgment was given on the ground that at the time of the marriage Madame Rosalie had a lawful husband, Mr. Magone. This decision makes void, on the ground of want of jurisdiction, the decree of a Scotch court, which gave Mr. Magone a divorce from Rosalie on the ground of her improper intimacy with Prince Clovis Bonaparte. It also makes legal the marriage of Prince Bonaparte to the wife with whom he is now living, formerly Laura Elizabeth Scott, and saves Bonaparte from prosecution on the ground of bigamy.

AN AMERICAN EXPLORER.

William Astor Chanler's Expedition to Central Africa.

The Young Adventurer's Daring Trip Through Massailand—The Objects of His Present Journey Are Said to Be Purely Scientific.

We give herewith a portrait of Mr. William Astor Chanler, the young American who is known to all interested in African explorations from his daring trip through Massailand, around Mount Kilima-Njaro, some three years ago. Mr. Chanler is a son of the late John Winthrop Chanler, and is just now the object of wide attention because of his expedition to a section of the dark continent which, owing to the inveterate hostility of the inhabitants, has hitherto defied the most persistent endeavors of all explorers. Mr. Chanler's expedition will start from Lamu, on the east coast, in the territory of the British East African Company. His caravan will muster two hundred rifles. He is accompanied by Lieut. Hornel, of the Austrian navy, who has already traveled in Africa to some extent. The only other white man will be his servant, George Galwin. The objects of the expedition are purely scientific, and the equipment is as complete as possible, including a great quantity of perfected instruments and cases for the preservation of botanical and entomological specimens.

After leaving Lamu the expedition will proceed up the Tana river to Mount Kenia. Thence it will go north, traversing the territory east of Rudolph lake, a tract of country of which nothing is known, except that it is inhabited by warlike Nilotic tribes. This country has been the objective point of many abortive expeditions, and was the scene of the massacre of Baron Van der Decken, and of the more recent and less tragic failures of Revoil, Prince Ruspoli and Ferrandi.

Mr. Chanler believes, according to a cable account, that by entering the country of the Galla and Somals from this direction, and thus taking them unprepared, these fierce tribesmen will be disposed to assist the strangers on to the coast and get them out of the country quickly rather than to drive them back into the interior, where, by stirring up their enemies against them, they might be a source of trouble to the Galla and Somals for years. He hopes that, marching down the Jubba river, he will be able to reach the coast within two years after leaving it, having traveled three thousand miles through the least-known portions of the continent

CHEAP FIRE ALARM.

The Quaint Device Now in Use in a New Jersey Town.

The present illustration is taken from the fire alarm at Boiling Springs, opposite Rutherford, N. J., says the Scientific American. The machinery for striking the gong or ring was made by a blacksmith of the town. The gong is held up in place by means of a ⅝-inch wire rope which goes around the gong and over a heavy piece of timber at the top of the tower. The striking apparatus with bearings are also connected to this piece of timber. These bearings are made of 2x⅝ bar iron and the striking material mostly of ⅝-inch round iron. The L-shaped bell crank, with shaft, is forged in one piece. The lower section of bell and the lever below are joined together by means of a piece of ⅝-inch round iron with a forked connection at the top and bottom. This piece of iron runs through a piece of gas pipe which is bolted to the floor as a support. One end of the lever works inside of a yoke which is bolted to the side of the building. To throw the clapper or ball back the lever is drawn upward, which throws the upright part of crank with forked connection backward, which in turn forces back the clapper. By pushing the lever down the clapper strikes the gong. The gong is a 6-foot tire of a driving wheel of a locomotive, is 1¾ inches in thickness, 6 inches in width and weighs 500 pounds. It yields a deep tone like a bell. On a still night it can be heard about two miles. The clapper weighs about forty pounds.

LOCOMOTIVE TIRE USED AS A FIRE-ALARM BELL.

A Grass Killer.

One of the latest novelties invented is an electrical grass killer for use in destroying grass and weeds along railroad tracks. This useful form of electrocution is the invention of a Memphis (Tenn.) man.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

THE NATIONAL GAME.

Capt. Nash, of the Bostons, Gives Valuable Points.

One of the Best Third Basemen Who Ever Threw Across a Diamond Writes on the Subject—How the Game Should Be Played.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

I have been asked to give an article on the national game, and to discuss infield play with special reference to my own position, third base. As the article is intended for young players I shall try to get down to the basis of good play, and shall not neglect to give a piece of advice just because it may seem commonplace to experienced men. If a young man is trying to learn the game he can afford to read a dozen things that he knows already for the sake of one that he does not know. Since I began to play the game there have been changes due to modifications in the rules, and the general improvement resulting from better methods of training and practice, and from a fuller comprehension of the points of an actual contest. But the most important line of development has led in the direction of a more perfect unity of action. A winning team must now play all together, and the infielders especially must act as one man.

Among the individual qualifications of a good infielder one of the most important is the faculty of accuracy. I doubt whether anybody knows exactly what that is, but everybody knows that some men possess it while others lack it. The man who has it can be depended upon. If he can learn to make a play he is reasonably sure to repeat it. This steady command of the faculties must be possessed by the good infield player. Quick and accurate judgment and a good retentive memory are also essential. The infielder must know the batsman; he must have the power of quickly learning an opponent's peculiarities and then he must remember them. I can recommend nothing more strongly to a young player. Make an experiment with your powers in this line. Next time you go on the field carefully consider what you know about each opposing batsman, if you have seen him before, or if you haven't make an attempt to draw some useful inference from his conduct when he first comes to the bat. Does he hit the ball hard and run to the base slowly? Then you can play deep, take the ball the easiest way if it comes to you, and throw carefully to the base. If he hits weakly but runs very fast you must come in on the ball and snap it over to first with all the speed you can get into it. Balance the batsman's power in this way and you will gain many a point. And don't expect to be a good infielder without paying attention to the individual peculiarities of your opponents. Some young players always wait for a ball, and so lose the fast runners; while others always rush in, and so make many an unnecessary error.

Physically, an infielder should possess activity and a good arm. An arm that can be thoroughly relied upon is a most valuable possession. I play my position deep, on the strength of my arm, and thus cover more ground than I could if my arm were weak. But if it were I should never play deep for the sake of getting balls which there was no chance of my throwing over in time A player should study himself, and never play an infield position too deep for his arm.

In throwing cultivate the muscles of the wrist and forearm. An infielder must be able to "snap" the ball as well as throw it. That is how he makes many of his prettiest plays. And always field a ball with reference to the throw.

I never pick up a ball except in a position to throw unless by an error, for which I condemn myself afterwards. Especially in case of a fumble, pick up the ball in a position to throw it, for you haven't a tenth part of a second to lose. If it bounds high, grab it right out of the air and throw it from the shoulder; if it is on the ground, snap it, and have the snap so fine in practice that there is no luck about its going to the right place. If the fumbled ball is behind you, always turn so that your swing will bring you into position to throw. "Tommy" Burns, whom I regard as one of the brainiest ball players on the field, takes advantage of this principle in a way that gives him many an assist that another man might lose.

In fielding a batted ball the bound is always your first choice, of course, but look out for your runner. If he is fast get in on the ball and take the pickup. That is the second choice. Where you haven't any choice you must prepare for the short bound, as it is sometimes called. There you meet the ball while it is coming up off the ground, and it is the hardest way to handle it, as most players have learned. I call it "fighting the ball," and Long, the Boston shortstop, is the only man I know who seems to like it. He is almost as sure of that difficult play as a man can be of anything. But, for my part, I avoid it, except in practice, when, of course, it must be studied.

Beginners often "fight the ball" this way in a game when care would enable them to avoid doing so. They do not realize the value of making a choice, or are not quick or alert enough to take advantage of an opportunity. There is always a right way to field a ball and there are several other ways that are wrong. Inexperienced players do not carry their head work far enough to take advantage of every possibility when they see a batted ball coming at them. I would recommend that a man should never be satisfied with himself because he has fielded the ball, if he has done it in such a way as to give an unnecessary chance of losing it. Carry this principle as far as it will go. Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well, and if you are going to play the game play every point there is in it. There is nothing too small to be attended to. For instance, I have seen Long, when absolutely unable to handle a fumbled ball in time, kick it into a baseman's hands and thus make the play. This is not accident; he has done it in practice until he is reasonably sure of putting the ball pretty near where he wants it to go. He might not have a chance to do that in a hundred games, and, again, he might save a game by it.

In practice a man should always have a definite idea of improvement. He should know exactly where his weak spots are and should remedy his defects by no haphazard work. Some young players, finding that certain plays come easy to them, devote all their attention to perfecting themselves in those points. But that is not the way to be a player. Practice for your weak points, but don't do any practicing in a game. There the player is all for his team. If he can guard his weakness he must do it. A third baseman who is weak on his right side, who isn't so sure of a ball when he runs to the right as when he runs to the left, should play nearer the bag on that account. And so with every point of play. It is study of himself which makes the best of a man.

One of the hardest things I had to learn was how to touch a runner. It is easy enough to say how it should be done, if the ball is thrown properly and everything works well. But there are about a million different ways that it may happen, and a man must be prepared for any one of them.

As to the values of different infield positions they are too easily perceived to make extended discussions valuable. Second base is undoubtedly the key of the infield. It is the prettiest place to play. The second baseman has one advantage over the others—the runner is always in front of him. He can sweep his eye over the field while he is making a play easier than the third baseman can. He has more ground to cover and more time to cover it in, for he is nearer the first bag. In a general way the necessary qualifications are much the same for him as for the short stop and third baseman; but it does not follow that a good man in one of these places would succeed in another. The requirements are too fine to be profitably discussed, but they are undeniable. The second baseman need not have so strong an arm, but he is then more in need of the sharp, quick tricks of handling and throwing a ball.

In the present method of play the shortstop covers second bag nearly as often as the baseman himself does. He must be equally sure of thrown balls and equally expert in touching a runner. It is in those fine plays near to first bag that the especial excellence of the second baseman may be apparent.

The first baseman must have a quick eye for a thrown ball, and must be resolute and courageous. The duties of his position are perhaps more easily understood than the others, and so I shall not discuss them. I like to see a first baseman practice hard, and not be too anxious to save himself in the case of badly thrown balls. Tucker is one of the most faithful of players in this matter, and much of his success is due to the courage with which he faces any sort of work in a game or in practice. Such persistent work in practice may teach a man something when he least expects advantage. I have noticed this year that Brouthers is landing low thrown balls on the left side better than ever before. He is so well known as a veteran that one might think he had nothing to learn, and yet I am convinced that my observation is correct.

As to training, I recommend the milder methods. A man should never reduce his weight suddenly nor strain himself. Above all he must avoid excesses. Aside from all questions of morality, a ball player cannot afford to drink with the remotest approach to intoxication nor to smoke to excess. The less of both the better for most men. I never smoke immediately before a game and limit myself to a moderate amount of tobacco. These points are just as good for the amateur as for the professional, for we all love the game, and we want to play it as best we can and to keep it in the best repute.

"We always fry ours in Cottolene."

Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc.

Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did,) we said it was "too rich." We finally tried and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

FRICK TO BE ARRESTED

Warrants for Him and Others to Issue To-Day.

COLONEL STREATOR ARRESTED.

The Mill Officials Confident That the Strike is Broken—Anarchist Mollick Discharged—Charges Against Millitiamen—The Pinkerton Killing Inquest.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 3.—Hon. John Fox, one of the attorneys for the Amalgamated Association, is authority for the statement that to-day warrants will be sworn out for the arrest of Chairman H. C. Frick, Secretary F. T. F. Lovejoy, General Superintendent Potter, and four or five under bosses at the Homestead Steel Works, charging them with murder.

Attorney Cox also says that Borough Solicitor Milliken is preparing a number of informations charging several of the militiamen now in camp at Homestead with having insulted the wives and daughters of some of the best citizens of the borough.

The warrants cannot be served upon the militiamen, however, until the men are discharged from service by the Governor.

Mr. Frick continues to improve.

Supt. Potter this morning claims that 282 new men were received and put to work in the mill yesterday. In the party were a number of steel workers. Forty-two came from Cincinnati, but 10 of them refused to go into the mills. Several applicants were refused employment. Mr. Potter reiterates his statement of yesterday that the strike is broken and that the company is the winner. One-third of Battery B and the Sheridan Troop of cavalry broke camp yesterday and started home.

Omcers of the company have sent word to the different cities where agents were employing new men to send no more men. This is reported to mean that enough of the strikers have signified their willingness to return to again equip the mills.

Mr. Curry, of the Carnegie Company, said, in reference to this, that the firm had every reason to expect fully 2,000 of the old employes to return. He also said that there were 1,100 men in the mill to-day.

It was stated by the officers of the company that their action in starting the Pittsburg mill Monday was no deviation from their intention all along. They said they would not begin work in Pittsburg until the trouble at Homestead was over. That they started one of these mills shows simply that they regarded the critical period of the Homestead trouble to be past.

In the criminal court yesterday the cases of Anarchists Bauer and Knold came up. When Attorney Friedman presented his petition, asking that they be admitted to bail, Judge Ewing said:

"I take it for granted that the court has grounds on which to hold these men, but as there is now no possibility of death resulting, I will fix the bail of Bauer and Knold at $5,000, each."

The prisoners remained in the dock while Attorney Friedman and their friends went in search of bail, which they after some difficulty secured.

Attorney W. J. Brennan, for the Amalgamated Association, presented to President Judge Ewing the petition he had prepared for the appointment of a voluntary trade tribunal for the settlement of the Homestead strike.

E. Mollick, the Anarchist baker of Long Branch, N. J., who was brought to this city by Roger O'Mara on a charge of complicity in the conspiracy to assassinate H. C. Frick, had a hearing before Alderman Gripp yesterday afternoon and was discharged, the evidence not being deemed sufficient to hold him.

A Pittsburg striker, one of the men who had gone out on the sympathy strike, said this morning:

"I can only speak for myself, but I am tired of this sympathetic business. I cannot see any reason why we men who have no grievance and no complaint to make should be obliged to sacrifice our positions for the people of Homestead. I would be glad to see them carry their point, but I cannot see why I should remain idle for an indefinite period to help them fight a battle that is now hopelessly lost.

"I don't like to play false to the union, for I am under obligations to stand by it, but it is coming to the point where many of us are seriously considering whether our families have not a greater claim upon us than the union. I shall consider the question carefully, and if my conscience will let me I shall apply for work to-morrow morning."

These views have been growing more and more general for several days past.

The company officers said last night that within ten days all the departments would be running on double time.

Supt. Potter denies the story that there is smallpox in the mill. He says there is a physician constantly in the mill, and there is sickness of no kind among the men. He thinks the smallpox story started with two workmen whom he overheard saying that two men had died of smallpox and that that man Potter had buried them in the mill yard.

COL. STREATOR ARRESTED.

He Waived a Preliminary Hearing and Gave Bail.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 3.—Lieutenant Colonel Streator was arrested yesterday on warrants sworn out by ex-Private Iams, the man who was hung up by the thumbs and had his head partly shaved at Homestead. He was taken before a justice at Washington, Pa., waiving a preliminary hearing and bail being fixed at $500, it was promptly given.

Col. Hawkins and Surgeon Grim are both in camp and consequently exempt from arrest, but State Senator Robbins appeared in their behalf and stated they would surrender at the first opportunity. James Gaffney appeared and offered bail for both. The bond is $500 in each case, and there are two cases against each defendant.

The trials will occur in September.

The New York Building Strike.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The building strikers were reinforced yesterday by several thousand men, who obeyed the orders of the Board of Walking Delegates and quit work. Fully 90 buildings in course of construction have been deserted. The Board of Walking Delegates has declared that it will strike every building in the city if necessary in order that the Iron League may be forced to the wall.

THE ELECTROCUTION OF WOOD.

Death Was Instantaneous—History of the Crime.

DANNEMORA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The first use of the electric chair in Dannemora prison yesterday, by which Joseph, better known as "Cal" Wood, paid the penalty of his crime, was in all respects a success. The current was applied at 11:08.

When Wood reached the chair, the keepers stepped to one side, and without hesitation the prisoner said:

"I want to thank Warden Thayer for his great kindness to me. Also my keepers. My time on earth is not long enough to return my thanks to Judge Whitman for his noble efforts. He has been nearer than a brother to me, and I hope he will live a long life and died happy in the Lord."

As he sat down in the chair Wood said in a strange voice: "God remember me." He repeated this three times while the straps were being adjusted. His last words were: "God bless me," repeated twice.

The fatal signal was given by Keeper Welts of Auburn prison.

As the contact came Wood's body straightened out rigidly and the hands turned upward on the arms of the chair.

Twelve seconds was the duration of the first contact. The second contact was two seconds shorter, and, as it reached full power, a curl of blue smoke arose from the murderer's forehead and an odor of burned rubber filled the room.

This was repeated in the third and fourth contact, each of which lasted six seconds.

The condemned man's death was pronounced by the physicians instant and painless.

Jos. Wood, was convicted Sept. 17, 1891, of murdering his father-in-law, Leander Pasco, a farmer of Warren County, on May 10, 1890.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty, alleging temporary insanity.

The successive courts adjudged him guilty, and Gov. Flower refused to interfere.

On March 2, previous to the crime, Wood had secretly married Pasco's daughter. Immediately after the marriage they separated, each going home. Pasco, who was very severe with his children, was displeased with the marriage and refused to recognize Wood.

About a month later Wood told a neighbor that Pasco, who was then living with his housekeeper, "ought to be put out of the way, so the children could have his property."

After Wood and his wife went to live together they were subjected to some petty annoyance, which they charged to Pasco.

Wood sought to get a warrant for his arrest but, being denied, uttered more threats.

About three weeks later Pasco was murdered by two gun-shot wounds. It was satisfactorily proven that Wood had lain in ambush for him.

FOUR FATALLY BURNED.

An Oil Explosion Creates Havoc Near Springfield, O.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 3.—The Cincinnati division of the Big Four had a bad wreck of thirteen loaded freight cars at Cold Springs, four miles west of here, during the day.

An hour later the wreck, saturated with naptha from a leaking tank, caught fire from someone's pipe. Railroaders, quarrymen and spectators from this city to the number of 250 were working and standing around the wreck.

The flames spread to a naptha tank, from which a tiny stream of oil was spurting.

There was a terrific explosion and the naptha tank shot into the air.

The burning oil was showered all around, and thirty-five men were burned, four fatally. Those four are:

Tom Haines, quarryman.
John Haines, quarryman.
Ernest Wilson, quarryman.
William Crane, Big Four section hand.

The others badly hurt are: Frank Liebold, M. Evans, F. Dannis, L. Wells, A. Zimmer, and L. W. Liebold, railroaders, and Lemuel Shockey, Jack Tobin, Samuel Collin, William Crane, William Kennedy, James Ford, and William Kurtz, quarrymen.

The Honduras Revolution.

PANAMA, Aug. 3.—The steamship Barracouta brings news concerning the closing scenes in the Honduras revolution. Gen. Leonardo Nulla has been completely successful, and ex-President Bogran has been shot, after having been imprisoned for some time in Santa Barbara. Dr. Bonilla is Provisional President, and a new government has been organized.

Slept Sixty Hours.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Minnie Giese, 18 years of age, of this city, has just awakened from a continuous sleep of 60 hours, during which time all attempts to arouse her have been unsuccessful. The doctors pronounce it hysteria. She says that she suffered intensely during her long sleep and remembers everything that transpired while she slept.

A Stay for the Boy Murderer.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 3.—Judge Green of the Federal Court yesterday morning denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Robert Alden Fales, the boy murderer. Judge Green subsequently granted a stay of proceedings and the death watch was removed.

Destructive Freight Wreck.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 3.—There was a serious wreck on the New England road, at a siding near Union City, at 4 a. m. A freight train was leaving the siding for Waterbury, when another freight train going in the same direction on the main track, ran into it. Sixteen cars were piled up in a heap. No one was injured. Seven cars were totally wrecked.

Witnesses in the Pinkerton Killing Investigation Are More Wary.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 3.—The inquest as to the killing of the Pinkerton detectives and a steel worker at the Homestead riot on July 6 was continued at the office of Coroner McDowell yesterday afternoon, and after a score of witnesses had been examined another adjournment was ordered until this afternoon. Since the arrest of Capt. Coon and C. W. Mansfield, who testified to seeing the workmen shoot at the Pinkertons in their barges, the witnesses subpœnaed have grown wary, and while all admit seeing or hearing shooting none will swear who are the guilty parties.

A number of Homestead physicians and the undertaker who had charge of the remains of Morris and Silas Wain were called but told nothing of importance. Elmer E. Beale was the last witness and, although guarded in what he said, gave some important testimony.

He stated that he was aroused on the morning of July 6 by the blowing of a whistle, and heard shooting. Afterwards he went to the river bank with about 500 others and heard more firing. Some one commanded the men to stop shooting and it ceased for a while. Shortly afterwards, he said, about 20 armed men in blue coats came out of one of the barges and stood at the bow. One advanced to the gang plank and called out that they would land in 15 minutes. Somebody on the bank cursed the blue-coats and told them not to come ashore.

Then the leader of the men on the boat shot at the crowd, and the firing was returned by the mill men. Beale further stated that at 9 a. m. the Pinkertons began picking off people who stood on the bank, and he became frightened and ran away. It is not likely that any important testimony will be brought out to-day.

Coroner McDowell states that he will have something to say to the jury, and it is expected the charge will be a scathing one.

CYRUS W. FIELD'S WILL.

He Leaves About $600,000 to Be Divided Among His Heirs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The petition filed in the Surrogate's office at White Plains, asking leave to file the will of the late Cyrus W. Field, shows that the will sets aside $50,000 in trust for the dead man's insane daughter, Alice D. Field, of Pleasantville, N. Y., and directs the remainder to be divided in five equal parts, one to become the property of Grace E. Lindley, the second to go to Isabel Judson and the third to Fanny F. Andrews. The fourth part is to be invested by the executors for the benefit of Edward M. Field, the insane son. The fifth part is to be invested for Cyrus W. Field.

The estate is estimated to be worth $350,000, and life insurance policies for about $350,000 will make the total estate to be divided about $600,000.

FERDINAND WARD TO MARRY.

The Ex-Convict Engaged to a Pretty Young Woman in Connecticut.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 3.—Ferdinand Ward, once Napoleon of Wall street, who recently bade adieu to Sing Sing, is engaged to be married. Ward has sumptuous quarters at the Champion Hotel in East Haddam, of which he was once the owner. He spends but little time there now, however, as he daily drives over here to spend the time with his betrothed.

The young lady who is Ward's fiancee is 23 and very pretty. She is the daughter of a prominent citizen who is very well to do. Ward met the young lady only a short time ago, but it was a case of love at first sight. The wedding is down for the early fall days. The engagement has created much gossip in social circles.

The Charges Against Somerby.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Important developments are looked for in the Iron Hall charges against Supreme Justice Somerby to-night. Mr. Somerby, whose home is in this city, is in Indianapolis and this afternoon he will be given an opportunity to explain away the charges to the Executive Committee of the Order. The Executive Committee, which consists of the supreme officers in different parts of the country meets once a year, and was to have met next month, but owing to the charges against Supreme Justice Somerby and the application for a receiver it was decided to secretly call the committee together to-day in Indianapolis.

Ex-Judge Daniels' Opinion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Ex-Judge Daniels has rendered an opinion, in a letter to Senator Frank Hiscock, holding that the late extra session of the Legislature was without authority to even attempt to reapportion the Senate and Assembly districts, and pronouncing the legislation unconstitutional. He holds that the courts have full power to restrain elections by the new districts, the reapportionment being unconstitutional.

Stabbed to Death.

SCRANTON, Aug. 3.—Anthony Kelly and Thomas Welsh, attacked Arthur Long, teamster while he was returning to his home in Pine Brook during the night and stabbed him in the back, killing him almost instantly. The attack was brought about by a fight Long recently had with Kelly's brother, in which the latter was badly used. The assailants have been imprisoned.

For a Normal School Exhibit.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 3.—Several normal school principals have been in consultation with Col. John A. Woodward, Assistant Executive Commissioner of the Pennsylvania Board of World's Fair Managers, for the purpose of making a normal school exhibit at the Columbian Exposition. Arrangements have not yet been completed.

NO BREAK IN THE HOUSE

All Leaves of Absence to Be Revoked.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONFER

The Homestead Matter Considered in the Senate—Judge Cobb Appears Before the Investigating Committee and Denies the Charges of Drunkenness.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The situation in the House has not changed. All absentees will be notified to return and all leaves of absence are to be revoked. If any absent members shall fail to return or notify the Speaker that they are en route to the Capitol within the ensuing two days the Sergeant-at-Arms is to enforce their attendance.

Three recesses were taken yesterday for the purpose of effecting some satisfactory solution of the question, but nothing was accomplished, although a conference was held, attended by about 70 members, Mr. Dockery (Dem.), of Missouri, presiding.

Several propositions were submitted, but not entertained, and a committee of ten was appointed, five for and five against the World's Fair appropriation, to consider the matter and report at a future meeting.

The committee is composed of Messrs. Bankhead (Ala.), McMillan (Tenn.), McCreary (Ky.), Cummings (N. Y.), and Culberson (Tex.), who are opposed to the appropriation, and Messrs. Durborrow (Ill.), Williams (Ill.), Fellows (N. Y.), Reilly (Pa.), and Shively (Ind.), who favor it.

In the absence of any other business the Senate yesterday discussed the Homestead affair with some warmth and personality, Mr. Hawley (Conn.) in the course of the debate taking occasion to remark that Mr. Palmer (Ill.) "needed a guardian."

At the close of the discussion a much modified resolution of investigation was adopted providing for a special committee of seven to investigate the "employment for private purposes of armed bodies of men in connection with differences between workmen and employer"—the resolution not mentioning either Homestead or the Pinkertons by name.

The special committee investigating the charges made by Representative Watson, of Georgia, that members had been seen on the floor of the House to stagger and reel from drunkenness, resumed its labors yesterday.

Representative Clark, of Alabama, testified that the only instance of drunkenness of members that came within his observation was during the night of the silver debate in the House, when there was, according to his idea, one case.

Representative Cobb took the stand to make a statement in defense of the charges brought against him.

Chairman Boatner called the attention of Mr. Cobb to the charge in Representative Watson's book, which, in effect, referred to the witness, Cobb, as being in a state of mandlin intoxication while making an address to the House, and said the committee was ready to hear what the witness had to say in the matter.

Mr. Cobb said that at the very outset of his speech during the debate on the Noyes-Rockwell contested election case he appealed to the House not to interrupt him, as it was an exciting time in the House, and interruptions of previous speakers had been numerous. He made the remark that it was difficult to answer a multiplicity of questions.

Mr. Cobb laid before the committee the official stenographer's manuscript of the address he made on the occasion mentioned, and pointed out in it the many interruptions which he had to contend with during the course of his speech. He also read from the manuscript a long colloquy which took place between himself and Representative Watson, and then passed over the pages of the manuscript until he reached the point where, according to Mr. Watson, he made use of the words: "Mr. Speaker, where am I at?"

As the stenographer transcribed the phrase it made Mr. Cobb say: "Mr Speaker, where am I in my argument?"

Mr. Cobb continued reading his remarks from the manuscript, and when he had concluded said he would submit his speech to any fair minded man to judge if it was a maudlin one.

He did not intend to deny that his language could be criticised, he was not particular as to that. He had been continuously interrupted, and probably the address was at times disconnected.

In regard to the liquor matter, Mr. Cobb said he would not claim any indulgence on the ground of being a weakling, as he was not. He admitted, however, that he was not as strong as some men. The Noyes-Rockwell contest, continued Mr. Cobb, was an exciting and, to some extent, a bitter one.

"For three days preceding the debate," said Mr. Cobb, "I was engaged in exhaustive labor on the case, in addition to my other duties . . . so that I had but little rest, and when I entered the argument I was not in my usual health."

Mr. Cobb also explained that he had had an attack of the grip, which had affected his throat, and, in order to relieve it, he had told an employe to send to his desk a cup of beef tea, as he wanted a warm liquid.

This was done and, from time to time as he proceeded with his argument, he sent a page to have the cold liquid changed to warm, "and from that circumstance," added Mr. Cobb, "has grown a great deal of trouble."

Mr. Cobb took exception to the testimony of Representative Butler given on Saturday last, which was in substance that Mr. Butler had heard Mr. Cobb say: "Send me more whiskey."

"That is not true," said Mr. Cobb emphatically. "There was brought to me during the argument a little whiskey, and I used it as I would have done under the hand of a physician.

"I sipped it, and if it affected my voice and manner I was not aware of it, as I was as sober as I ever was."

In conclusion Mr. Cobb said he was not responsible for the investigation, and had nothing to do with it. He hoped that when the affair was looked at from first to last it would be seen that it was nothing more than a repetition of the story of the three black crows.

Mr. Watson requested permission to make a statement in connection with that made by Judge Cobb. The committee granted the request. Mr. Watson said he had no intention to bring Judge Cobb into this matter personally; it was a general charge.

After one or two other witnesses had been called the Committee decided to take no more testimony and not report to the House until the evidence was printed.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

A POLITICAL ABDUCTION.

A Kansas County Commissioner Stolen by the People's Party.

ANTHONY, Kan., Aug. 3.—This neighborhood has been excited over the abduction of Amon Farmer, an Alliance member of the Board of County Commissioners, and the attempted abduction of Alex Terrill, a Republican member of the Board. Four or five masked men called Mr. Farmer out of bed yesterday morning and took him into a carriage. This was the last seen of him.

The Commissioners were to have met to make a levy for the payment of the judgment on the old Harper county bonds ordered by the Supreme Court. The leaders of the People's party are in favor of ignoring the order.

50,000 Deaths from Cholera.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 3.—A Russian newspaper correspondent who has just returned from the Russian Caucasus says that the deaths from cholera in that region in the last 30 days number 50,000. In the villages the people are unable to bury their dead, and the bodies lie in the houses for days, polluting the air and spreading the disease. Whole families die without care of any kind, and the first knowledge of their illness is often communicated to their neighbors by the odors from the decomposed corpses.

A Strike Ended.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 3.—The conference between Manager Jones, of the New York Belting and Packing Company, and a committee representing the 400 workmen who struck at the company's Newtown factory has ended in the obnoxious check system being modified. The men will return to work. Concessions were made on both sides.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—A. S. Hepburn, the new Comptroller of the Currency, was yesterday sworn into office and at once entered upon the discharge of his duties.

—Joseph Oberle, 42, of Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday in a hallway on Tenth Avenue, by shooting himself in the head with a 32 calibre revolver.

—Emperor William handled his yacht, the Meteor, in person yesterday in the race for the Queen's cup at Cowes, but was defeated, nevertheless. The Corsair won the cup.

—Arthur A. Zimmerman, the champion wheelman, who last week returned from Europe, where he smashed records and won three championships, was tendered a grand banquet and reception last night by the Asbury Park, N. J., wheelmen.

—The campaign in Maine will be opened by the Republicans on the 17th inst., and Chairman Manley is busy arranging for the meetings to be held in every section and corner in the State. Ex-Secretary Blaine will take the stump and appear all along the line.

—William M. Linfield, who died in Holbrook, Mass., yesterday, was an extensive traveler, having done Europe on foot, and contributed the results of his travels to many newspapers and magazines under the nom de plume of "Knapsack."

—While taking a nap beneath a freight car which contained his household goods yesterday afternoon at Lancaster Junction, Pa., on the Reading & Columbia Railroad, George Donnelly, aged 50, was fatally hurt. A shifter was attached to the car, and Donnelly was dragged some distance.

Charles H. Hall, one of the obliging clerks in the prescription department of Reynolds's pharmacy, returned to his position yesterday after a vacation of nearly two weeks.

John D. Runyon and other prominent citizens have been living on fish for two days out of the fine mess caught by ex-mayor Rockfellow, last Monday, and which he distributed so liberally among his friends.

Virgie Arnold, who is said to be a serpentine dancer of much merit, has been engaged by manager Reeves to appear in the gambling house scene of "Hands Across the Sea", Monday evening, at Music Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wheeler of Netherwood farm lost their infant daughter Verona yesterday. The death occurred at Asbury Park, where the child had been taken for its health. Funeral services will be held at the farm on Mountain avenue to-morrow afternoon at 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doane were bereaved of their infant child at 7 last night. The little one had been ill some time, of cholera infantum, which finally developed into brain fever. It was a most beautiful and lovable child. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon from the home of the parents on East Fourth street.

Marketman Smalley May Die.

Daniel I. Smalley, the North avenue marketman, is lying at his home in North Plainfield, seriously ill. He was taken very suddenly at 1 this morning. At noon he was still unconscious. Drs. Cayman and Zeglio are in attendance. It is hardly probable that he will recover.

PRESSING ON TO VICTORY.

Fourth Ward Democrats Arousing Public Interest in the Burning Issues of the Day.

The drenching rain that prevailed last evening did not prevent an enthusiastic meeting of Fourth Ward Democrats in T. A. B. Hall. The evening was devoted to pleasant personal greetings among the assembled voters, and speechmaking by Mayor W. L. Saunders and the Hon. James E. Martine. Councilman Vincent L. Frazee, president of the Fourth Ward club, beamed genial smiles upon the gathering that dispelled all the dampness and gloom with which the storm sought to penetrate the hall. He cordially welcomed the voters, and gracefully introduced the orators of the evening.

It was a delight to the people to have the borough's excellent mayor with them. He gave them the plain, straightforward facts about the tariff and the Force Bill, and by his clear logic and superior eloquence proved himself a most able and effective champion of the Democratic platform and candidates. He produced indisputable statistics proving that the Homestead troubles were caused by the Republicans breach of promise to the working-men. A tariff that was virtually prohibitory had been put on the productions of the Homestead mills, with the pledge that this would increase the laborers' wages. Instead of increase, there had been decrease. It was such false pledges as these that were bringing poverty to the bone and sinew of the land, that were bringing deserved disaster on the Republican party.

Mr. Saunders produced further proof of his tariff-reform argument in the statement of Mr. Hutchinson of Australia, made personally to him. Mr. Hutchinson is the elected head of the municipal association of Australia to represent that great country at the Columbian exposition. He is an ex-mayor in New South Wales, and one of the most prominent men of that section. New South Wales, he says, is a radical, absolute Free Trade country. The other provinces have adopted the "protective" policy. Yet it is a matter of fact that in Free Trade New South Wales wages are from 15 to 20 per cent. higher than in any of the "protected" colonies, while the price of all such commodities as food, clothing, boots, shoes, and general supplies, is lower. This fact the mayor considered a most telling argument. The testimony was unimpeachable, and the experience of New South Wales could be safely taken as a criterion for any other country. Mr. Hutchinson says that New South Wales imports much machinery of American make, including Baldwin locomotives and agricultural machinery, and would gladly import more but cannot secure exchange for their own productions. For instance, a prohibitory tariff is placed by the United States on merino wool, which can be produced only under the conditions that obtain in Australia, and cannot be raised in this country. That wool is recommended by physicians to be mingled with American wool in the manufacture of garments to protect the body from the rigors of the American climate. Australians want to supply the wool to us. They do not want our money in exchange, but American-manufactured machinery and implements. Fair and free trade of commodities in, that way would most truly benefit the workingman. Mr. Saunders was especially bitter against the Force Bill, whose iniquities he denounced with righteous wrath. He stigmatized it as the measure of infamy. During the evening he illustrated his address with various lively anecdotes, and his hearers continually manifested their appreciation of his fact-bristling arguments and merry humor. When he had done they eagerly crowded about to thank him for his manful defense of the Democracy and greeted him for the fine and thorough gentleman that he is.

Mr. Martine was greeted with vociferous applause that testified to the warmth of affection that exists for him in the hearts of the people. He waxed highly eloquent as the champion of the workingman's cause, and proved himself a master of vituperation against the gross iniquities of that popular fallacy, "Protection". He made many telling arguments against the Republican doctrine, and among other clinching anecdotes told how the father of a poor young Englishman working for him had sent from England a new suit of clothes for his son, and the son had been forced to pay a duty of $14.99 on the suit to get it out of the custom-house. Who paid the tax?—asked the orator, and the audience were well convinced that the tariff was a tax to the consumer and not to the exporter as Republicans claimed.

Mr. Martine's speech was liberally punctuated with his usual flow of funny stories. He was loudly applauded, and at the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was extended to both him and Mayor Saunders.

PLAINFIELDERS OFF FOR DENVER.

Knights Templar With Their Wives and Daughters, Going to the Grand Encampment.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, of this city, will be represented at the 25th Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment of the United States at Denver, by the following members: Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. John Chandler, Wm. H. Sebring and daughter, Miss May Sebring, Thos. H. Keller, John T. Odam, H. Liefke, John Blackford. They will join Hugh de Payens Commandery, No. 1, K. T., of Jersey City, at Elizabeth to-morrow afternoon at 2:30. Their train will consist of four vestibule sleepers, a baggage, dining and lounging or smoking car.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Sebring will extend their trip to California. Mr. and Mrs. Chandler will stop at points in Illinois and also at St. Louis on their return. Mr. Keller will go as far as Texas on business. Other Sir Knights of Trinity regret their inability to accompany their fraters, but wish them an enjoyable trip and much pleasure.

THE CHOIR BOYS IN CAMP.

Happy Times Along the Shore at Merwin's Point.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

CAMP TOWNSEND, MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., August 2.—The Holy Cross choir boys arrived here safely at 9 a. m. The sail up the Sound was enjoyed by all; less noise than last year was made, although the captain had to speak to the boys several times. Sleep was out of the question. We left the steamer at 6 a. m., taking breakfast in New Haven, and went by train to Woodmont at 8 a. m., arriving at the Point at about 9 a. m. The time to-day is being spent in renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. "Who are we? Who are we? We are the choristers from New Jersey!" is being heard quite often during the day.

REPUBLICAN EDITORS AT WAR.

The "News" Accuses the City Clerk of Shirking the Work the Public Pay Him For and of Devoting the People's Time to the "Courier".

There is great need in Plainfield for Clarkson and an olive branch, for more trouble has broken out in the Republican camp. Following close upon the city clerk's attack in his paper on mayor Gilbert, postmaster Pope, John W. Murray, street commissioner Meeker, John Kean's water company, and the electric light people, comes the following assault last evening on the city clerk himself by the editor of Plainfield's Republican ex-organ:

THE NEWS would like to publish the list of bills ordered paid at each meeting of the Common Council, but permission to copy the list, the reporters say, is denied them by City Clerk Runyon, who claims that he cannot have such list so that it can be published with the proceedings and attend to his newspaper work. The city pays him $700 salary, and perquisites which in this case amount to probably as much more. That ought surely to be enough to entitle the city to the undivided attention of the person occupying the office. The public ought to know to whom their money is paid, and, if possible, for what purpose. If the Council exercises wisdom in the payments, as it undoubtedly aims to do, it ought to have the credit, and in any event there should be every facility afforded that the fullest publicity might be given through the newspapers. The opposite course suggests a motive that is not likely to be for the best public interests. Prior to the days of "the combine," THE NEWS was able to give this record each month as a part of the account of the Council proceedings. Taxes were low. As soon as "the combine" got into power, THE NEWS—endeavoring still to faithfully serve the best public interests—was obstructed, and, as if by arrangement with "the combine" the other papers did not publish the expenditures ordered at each meeting, except in a misleading way. Public money was expended lavishly by Council with the favored few. Later, it required considerable increase in taxes to pay for the "combine's" prodigality with its favorites. With the new order of things we sought to resume publishing the list of bills ordered paid at each meeting, yet of the dozen or more meetings held this year we have been unable to get an opportunity only once or twice to even make a list, and then only by persistent effort the following day, and by waste of much unnecessary time. This Council—as in fact every one working for the public good—is interested in having the fullest publicity given to its doings. We would gladly cooperate, but if the Council's clerk is interested the other way, in the language of the Tweed Ring, "What are you going to do about it?" A reporter might copy the list as read off, but the reading is complained of as so indistinct that it is impossible to avoid errors.

A JEWEL FOR SIR KNIGHT KELLER.

Captain Hofford and Other Crescent League Friends Decorate Genial Tom.

A number of Thomas Hazelwood Keller's Crescent League friends, headed by captain Hofford, have purchased a costly jewel of the Mystic Shrine that will be presented to that most popular manager and genial gentleman, to-day.

The jewel, which has been made expressly for the occasion, consists of a selected pair of tiger's claws, richly mounted in roman gold. These are spread and suspended from a Spinx head cut in lava and surrounded by pearls, rubies and other precious stones. Insignia of other high degrees of Masonry are also represented, and all hang from a platinum scimitar.

Mr. Keller leaves to-morrow for Denver where he will attend the grand conclave of Knights Templar. The jewel will probably be presented to him at the ball grounds this afternoon by ex-president Reed of the Crescent league. It cost Mr. Hofford and the other subscribers about $80.

CLERK CROWELL STILL ON DECK.

It Was His Double That Was Cut to Pieces by a Train.

A stranger who bore a striking resemblance to county clerk Crowell, stepped off a train at Rahway last evening and was struck and killed by an express on the other track. His body was frightfully mangled. Walter Loing saw the man get off and, thinking he was the county clerk, yelled "look out, Jack, or you will get picked up".

In a moment the man was under the wheels of the express.

The rumor spread like wildfire. About 8 o'clock word was sent from the county clerk's office to THE PRESS that Mr. Crowell was killed, with the request that deputy clerk Elmore Moffett be notified at once. A reporter went to Mr. Moffett's house and told him. He started for Elizabeth at once, but before leaving Plainfield telephoned to chief Keron. The latter explained the mistake.

Messengers were sent to Mr. Crowell's house to notify his family of his supposed terrible fate. They found him eating his supper, in the best of health, and still in the race with both feet for renomination.

Their Opinion of the Wheel.

A leading physician says: "The bicycle is the greatest natural aid to the cure of nervous digestive troubles that the doctors can recommend. More bicycles and less medicine is the surest cure."

Here is what is said by a Plainfielder who is proud of the fact that nearly all the clergymen of the town are wheelmen: "Riding a bicycle is a graceful, healthful, delightful exercise. It is sometimes objected to as not suited to the dignity of the ministerial office. I am thankful that I live where that conventional view is being lived down."

New Brunswick Home News: "A valued contemporary speaks of 'the dignified and impressive appearance' made by some ladies mounted on bicycles. Never! Ladies on wheels may be charming, graceful, sylph-like or dainty, but dignified or regal—not at all. The stately or the statuesque woman should stay off the bicycle while working at her specialty. The feminine bicyclist can never look like a queen while kicking pedals." Editor Boyd should come to Plainfield and see what charming cyclists Plainfield's young women make.

A Good Time to Buy Clothing.

Twice a year Watson & Co., the celebrated Newark clothiers, make a grand closing out sale of every lot of pantaloons in their immense stock in which the sizes are broken, at $3 a pair.

Handsome English stripes worth $5, $6 and $7 a pair, fine mixtures of equal value in which the beautiful patterns are formed by fine silk threads in various colors woven through the goods and hundreds of choice custom patterns, all cut in perfect fitting form, can now be seen in all their Broad and Market street windows at $3 a pair.

This great closing out sale enables Watson & Co., to open each season with an entire new stock and makes them many new customers, who are never satisfied with any other clothing after they wear Watson's perfect fitting hand cut garments, now so popular among the best dressed young men of Newark, who want the latest fashion plate custom cut all ready to put on.—The Newark Item.

Opening of the Season at Music Hall.

On Monday night next, Music Hall will open its doors to the public for the season of 1892-93 with the well-known and great melodramatic success "Hands Across the Sea", with entirely new scenery, and the same original company as when presented in Plainfield last season to a crowded house. Very little need be said regarding this production as it is still fresh in the minds of the theater patrons of our city. The following is from the Chicago Inter Ocean:

"Hands Across the Sea" is an effective melodrama, fashioned to conventional lines, and embodying most of the well-known expedients and features of a class of plays that have their periods of supremacy and their years of disuse, but with which the public is never entirely done. It is having large and enthusiastic patronage at the Haymarket, where it is well acted and handsomely produced.

Last of the Trophy Races.

The great cycling event in Union county this week, in fact the one of most interest to the wheelmen of the whole season, will be the final contest for the Journal trophy and the championship of Union county. This race will take place on Saturday at 5 o'clock, and the start will be made from the same point on Westfield avenue as the trial heats. Plainfield would have been the winner, had her team not dropped out.

Summary Punishment for the Toughs.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

The Westfield Standard says that a number of wheelmen have had the spokes of their wheels broken and their machines otherwise damaged by stones thrown at them by despicable characters while passing through Cranford lately. The wheelmen of this city are prepared to deal summarily with any such cowardly tough whom they can catch doing these dastardly deeds.

The Storm Not Over Yet.

As told exclusively in THE PRESS, the Central New Jersey base-ball league met at the Y. M. C. L. A., rooms at Elizabeth, last night, and after a session lasting until nearly 11, adjourned to meet on Tuesday evening of next week. It was agreed that the proceedings should be kept secret. On Saturday Hudson will umpire the game at Plainfield and Hopkins will officiate at Westfield.

Patent Sprinklers Save a Woolen Mill.

The shrill blowing of the fire whistle at the Somerville woolen mills yesterday afternoon brought three companies from Somerville and two from Raritan to the scene. A crowd of not less than one thousand people filled the mill yard and adjoining streets.

The blaze occured in the blow room of the picker house and was caused by the passing through the picker of some flinty substance. The loss did not amount to much, although considerable wool and cotton in a raw state were destroyed. The patent sprinklers with which the mill is supplied, did their work in an admirable manner and most of the damage was from water.

The mill property is in the heart of a thickly populated district and is the most important of the town's manufacturing interests. James Brown, jr., is secretary of the company. He said last night that the damage was so slight that he would not make any claim from the insurance companies.

Sued for a Bicycle.

Suit has been brought by A. D. Phillips against Frank Huff for the balance due on a bicycle bought by Huff of Phillips. The brice agreed on was $10. Huff tendered a $100 bill, and as Phillips could n't change it paid $2 in change on account. Phillips has not been able to recover the balance, $8, and therefore brings suit before justice Nash.

A 10-Mile Race for Medals.

A bicycle race open to all will be held Thursday, Aug. 11, from Rogers's wheelmen's headquarters to Westfield and return, a distance of 10 miles. Valuable medals will be given as prizes. The entries will close Wednesday evening, Aug. 10. Apply to Harry J. Milligan at Rogers's.

A Switchman Badly Injured.

Peter Gary, a switchman at Bound Brook, was struck by some shifting cars this morning and severely injured. His hurts are about the head and at the present writing his life is despaired of. He lives in Somerville with his family. He was taken home at noon.

Get something smaller than the ordinary pill. And something that's better. That means Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—they're the smallest and the best; the easiest to take and the easiest in the way they act.

Wonderful things—these tiny, sugar-coated Pellets. They put an end to Sick and Bilious Headaches, Constipation, Indigestion, Dizziness, Bilious Attacks—all the derangements of liver, stomach and bowels. Mildly and gently, but thoroughly and effectively, they cleanse, renovate and regulate the entire system. One little Pellet for a gentle laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're the best Liver Pill ever made, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned. It's a plan peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines. You pay only for the good you get. Can you ask more?

Something else, that pays the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for him—but it can't be, for you.

IS MARS INHABITED?

A Question That May Quickly Be Settled.

ASTRONOMERS ON THE QUI VIVE.

The Planet Will To-Night Be Nearer the Earth Than Before in Fifteen Years—With the New Lick Telescope Great Discoveries Are Anticipated.

LICK OBSERVATORY, Cal., Aug. 3.—The "red star of war" now flaming in the southeastern skies is the chief object of the astronomer's gaze. The present great stir about Mars is easily explained. To-night it will be in opposition—i. e., the earth will come directly between the ruddy planet and the sun, thus affording an unusually favorable and long coveted opportunity for telescopists to scan its features, to watch its two tiny moons, to detect his ice caps and perhaps to determine whether his so-called "canals" really bear any trace of the workmanship of animated inhabitants.

The path of Mars in his journey around the sun is not a regular curve. So great is its eccentricity that when near perihelion the planet is about 13,000 miles nearer the central luminary of our system than when it approaches aphelion. To-night Mars will be near perihelion, and it is only about 35,000,000 miles from the earth—a very short distance for even an ordinary telescope to span.

But the mammoth Lick telescope, magnifying 700 times, brings the red planet to within a range of 50,000 miles, or but a little more than one-fifth of the distance of our own silvery moon.

Moreover, at this period Mars is at one side of the earth, while the sun is at the opposite side—a fact which contributes very considerably to favorable observations of the planet. No equally favorable opportunity for studying Mars will recur till the year 1909.

Are the people on Mars trying to signal the earth?

That is the question which the work of the Lick telescope during the past few days has aroused, as Mars has approached nearer. It will be remembered that Mars only became a subject of extreme importance 15 years ago, when it last approached Earth. At that time not only were its two moons discovered by an American, but wise men in the observatory at Milan were enabled to show almost conclusively that human life existed on the planet. The strides which telescope-making has taken during the intervening years have produced the Lick telescope, and this has not only justified the expectations of its makers, but has already added some startling facts to what was already known about the red orb.

Mars has not only a well recognized atmosphere of its own, but four seasons of the year which follow each other as those of the earth, a degree of warmth closely approximating what is known here, a day of a little over 24 hours, north and south poles with ice and snow and every natural condition apparently which should conduce to the existence of animal life.

The work of Schnaparelli, the ancient Milan astronomer, plays a most important part in the observations now being made at the Lick Observatory. After long and careful observation during the last opposition of Mars, fifteen years ago, he was enabled to map its surface in a way which went far to strengthen the contention of those scientists who maintained that it was inhabited by a highly civilized race.

His work was in effect to show that the surface of the planet had been transformed in a manner unknown in any of the other heavenly bodies. There were configurations, as he demonstrated, which, if they were the work of nature, have been repeated nowhere else, not even on the earth, which Mars so closely resembles.

The canals have been adjudged the work of a superior race of beings, and this theory is augmented by the discovery this week of three great lights in the southwest of the planet which, it is believed, are signals by which the inhabitants are trying to attract attention.

Another Gold Brick Victim.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 3.—Mr. George Gage, a wealthy farmer living just outside of this city was called on Monday afternoon by two men who represented themselves as business men from the mining regions of the far West and was persuaded to buy from them for $6,500 a "gold brick," which they told him was worth $8,000. He came to town, drew money and later brought the brick in to deposit in the Safford bank, where he learned that his treasure was worth about $4, that being the value of a thin coating of gold which concealed the base metal of which the brick was composed. The swindlers escaped.

To Escort Tracy to Bar Harbor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—It is stated at the Navy Department that the vessels of the North Atlantic squadron, now at New London, Conn., viz: The Philadelphia, Concord, Miantanomah and Vesuvius, under command of Rear-Admiral Gherardi will probably act as an escort to the U. S. S. Dolphin in taking Secretary of the Navy Tracy to Bar Harbor, Me. From that place the fleet will go to Bath, Me., where Secretary Tracy will witness the launch of harbor defense ram No. 1.

Wanser Elected Brigadier General.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—The election for Brigadier General of the National Guards of New Jersey was held at the Armory in this city last evening, and resulted in the election of Mayor Wanser of Jersey city to fill the vacancy. It was thought that the election would again result in a tie between Col. Campbell and Col. Wanser, but on the first ballot Wanser got the deciding vote.

Marquis de Mores Held for Trial.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The Marquis de Mores was yesterday committed for trial for manslaughter, and the four seconds concerned in his duel with Capt. Mayer were held as accessories. The duel was fought six weeks ago and resulted in Mayer's death. It was caused by a remark of De Mores against Hebrews.

Pardoned by the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The President has granted a pardon to J. J. Chapman, a United States soldier, who five years ago in a drunken brawl by accident killed a soldier. At the time he was stationed in Arizona, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He has served in jail five years.

The Daughter of a Debtor.

"Well," said the merchant to the young clerk whom he had sent out collecting, "did you have any luck?"

"Some."

FAMED MYRTLE GROVE.

Sir Walter Raleigh's Irish Home in the Market.

A House Built by the Great Navigator in 1588—Beautiful Trees and Shrubbery — The First Tobacco Plant in Europe.

A fine old Elizabethan house of great historic interest is in the market, says the London Pall Mall Budget. It was offered for sale by Messrs. Lumley the other day, but no sufficient offer being forthcoming the property was bought in. The house in question was the residence in Ireland of Sir Walter Raleigh. It was built by the great navigator in 1588, upon part of a large allotment of land granted to him for services in putting down the Desmond revolt. The house is situated in Youghal, in the county of Cork.

It is impossible to tell how long the restless adventurer settled in this quiet retreat. He was mayor of Youghal for two years, and he was certainly visited by his friend Spenser in this his Irish home. "In this spot," writes Mrs. S. C. Hall of the garden at Myrtle Grove, "beyond question have been read portions of the 'Faerie Queene,' long before the world became familiar with the divine conception—

At whose approach the soul of Petrarch wept.

For here, certainly, the immortal bard held communion with his 'deare friend' and brother poet, whom he described as 'the somer nightingale'—

Himselfe as skilful in that art as any.

In the garden there is a group of four aged yew trees, which tradition states to have been planted by Raleigh; and where it requires no stretch of fancy to believe that he has many a time sat, read and talked, or lolled in the summer time, dreaming of El Dorado, in the vain search of which he sacrificed his fortune, and ultimately his life."

The grounds appear to be remarkable for the luxurious growth of myrtles, bays, arbutus and other exotics. Some of the myrtles from which the place received its name exceed twenty feet in height. Here also the first potatoes ever planted in Ireland were grown; and also the first tobacco plant imported by Raleigh. Everyone knows the story of the servant maid who emptied a pail of water over her master, thinking him to be on fire. Whatever truth there may be in the tradition, there can be no doubt that the first pipe of tobacco lit in Ireland was smoked here. The house will thus be seen to be of unique historic interest, and it is to be hoped that it may fall into the hands of an owner who will deal as carefully with it as appears to have been the case in the past. The last proprietor was the late Sir John Pope Hennessy, whose widow is the present tenant.

DUSKY GIRL BRIDES.

Maori Maidens Often Marry at the Age of Thirteen.

The young Maori women are often very good-looking, with splendid black or dark brown eyes, masses of black hair—never wool—snow-white teeth, and supple, round, well-shaped figures and limbs. They develop very early, a girl of thirteen or fourteen being quite a woman and often a mother; and, as they get older, they soon become coarse and ponderous. They are of a laughing, good-natured, amiable disposition, and those who have come within the sphere of their charms say they have wonderfully seductive ways.

It is not uncommon for white men to marry Maori girls; but the instances of white women marrying Maori husbands are extremely few. The half castes are a very handsome race, some of the girls being perfect belles. They are said to combine all the vices of both the Europeans and the Maoris with none of the virtues of either; but that is altogether too severe a judgment.

Many of them are as good as they are agreeable, writes Edward Wakefield in the Cosmopolitan. They are usually delicate and the women bear few children, if any; so that there is no likelihood of a mixed population springing up to any large extent. The process is entirely one of whitening the Maoris, not of blackening the Pakehas.

Neither Boy Nor Girl.

In connection with the announcement of the birth of a child to Countess Dudley, the following incident in connection with the birth of his father is recalled: An old friend of the family called at the town residence in Park lane to learn the news. "Is it a boy?" he asked the gorgeous flunky who opened the door. "No," quoth Jeames. "What, is it a girl?" "No, sir." The old friend became much interested. "Bless me, then, what is it?" The flunky proudly responded: "It's a heir."

WILLIAM J. CAMPBELL.

The Man Who Declined the Chairmanship of the Republican Committee.

William Jones Campbell succeeded George R. Davis as a member of the national committee from Illinois when the latter assumed the world's fair directorship. Mr. Campbell was also elected a member of the executive committee. There was no opposition to his selection for either committee, his fitness being conceded by the rank and file of his party. He has had much to do with shaping legislation in his state during the last fourteen years. He was elected to the state senate in 1878 and reelected in 1882. In 1881, 1883 and 1885 he was chosen president pro tem. of the senate. During the special session which redistricted the state in 1881 he was chairman of both the senatorial apportionment committee and the senate congressional apportionment committee. This was an honor which has never been enjoyed by any other member of the general assembly. In his eight years of service in the senate many measures of consequence were enacted and became laws. Mr. Campbell is credited with activity and energy in behalf of good legislation and in perfecting acts desirable to be ingrafted on the statute books. His opinion was always asked whenever questions of legality or constitutionality were raised. His senatorial colleagues of both parties agree that he was a legislator of exceptional influence.

As a politician Mr. Campbell's power has been repeatedly manifested. He was a delegate in the republican national conventions of 1880 and 1888, and was chairman of the Cook county committee in the latter campaign. In his present position in the controlling body of the party in the nation he is equipped with a thorough knowledge of republican possibilities in Illinois, which will prove of advantage to the committee. Men went to him with their secrets and for counsel and advice. As a rule he did not have to seek for news inside his party. It was volunteered in great measure by those who knew their confidence would not be violated.

One of Mr. Campbell's chief traits is loyalty to his friends. He has avoided being compromised in any of the broils and quarrels in the ranks. This fact is one source of his power. Old-time politicians do not pretend to account for the attraction to Mr. Campbell's presence of all classes of partisans, but say that it has always been so. If a republican of any grade had a scheme or proposed a new departure the party leader to whom the plan was unfolded would ask: "Have you talked with Campbell about that?" or would say: "Well, now, I don't believe you'd better do that till you've seen Campbell."

In personal appearance Mr. Campbell is commanding. Stalwart in physique, his clean-shaven face has a smile for a welcome visitor in which there is no guile. When engaged in conversation he is earnest and impressive and always deliberate in speech. He has an individuality in his manner and carriage. He does not look like anybody else and no one will accuse him of the frailty of aping greater men. He is "Bill" Campbell to those who know him best.

Mr. Campbell is forty-one years old. He was born in Philadelphia, but as he came to Chicago when an infant he is practically a native. He is a lawyer and the senior of the firm of Campbell & Custer and is the counsel of the firm of Armour & Co., whose extensive interests require close attention from the legal adviser.

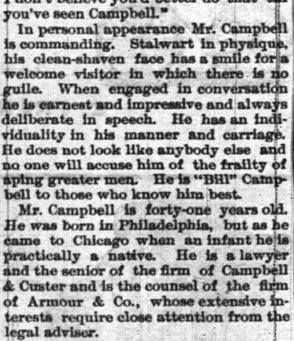
So Near and Yet So Far.

A novel sight was presented the other day on Silver Top in the shape of an immense snow slide, says the Sultan City (Ore.) Journal. Hearing a noise, we rushed out of the tunnel to see it, when behold, in the center of a mass of snow ten rods wide by a quarter of a mile long, we saw, on what appeared to be a large piece of ice, five bears and fourteen goats. Lost in wonder and gratitude at the sight of so much meat coming to us, we simply stood and gazed at the novel sight until one of the boys suggested that a gun might be a good thing to have and started for the camp after one, but before he could get back the slide had plunged over the bluff into the lake, and everything except one bear was covered up in the mass of snow and ice, and he made off as fast as possible, and the rest were covered so deep we could not get at them; however, we expect to get them some time during the summer, as they will undoubtedly be well preserved.

A Persian Mode of Punishment.

An extraordinary punishment, almost equal to that of cutting off the nose, is now in vogue in Persia. It was introduced by the present shah with a view of putting a stop to the petty pilfering that had unbridled sway for hundreds of years. It consists in taking the culprit through the following "course of sprouts," and is said to be very effectual, especially when it has been applied to one guilty of the third offense: The first time a man is caught in the act of stealing he is "bastinadoed" (beaten on the soles of the feet with an iron rod), and made to sign a paper declaring that that will be his last offense. If he forgets this when the soles of his feet quit burning and tries it again, the second offense calls for the amputation of his right hand. If he is still obdurate, and goes at it left-handed, the third and, of course, last resort is decapitation.

CATCHING UP.



Alice—Does Tottie or me have a birthday first?

Mamma—Tottie has one next week—yours will not be for six months.

Alice (resigned)—I s'pose Tottie needs 'em more 'n I do, so she can grow.—Harper's Young People.

They Drew the Line.

Featherstone—I understand that you didn't have any celebration at your church, Uncle Ebony. What was the trouble?

Uncle Ebony—De chief trouble was, sah, dat de parson dat was engaged to preach de sermon instead of opening wid prayer, as is de custom, wanted to open wid a collection for himself an' fambly, sah, an' de congregation disputed de arrangement.—Truth.

Insinuation.

"I've got a washing machine here—" began the inventor.

The capitalist looked at him in the cold, calculating manner common to capitalists, and answered: "Well, if I were you, I'd run right home and use it."

That night the Anarchist Bund received another application for membership.—Indianapolis Journal.

Wonderful Lack of Enterprise.

Levi, Jr.—Fadder, de shentlemans vat buys te tiamond engagement ring yesterday comes py te store to-day ant pawned it.

Levi, Sr.—How vos he look?

Levi, Jr.—All proke up.

Levi, Sr.—Vill you nefer learn to take interest in te bizness. Vy didn't you try to sell te shentlemans a pistol?—Life.

A Spirited Illumination.

Staggers (coming home at two a. m.)—Look out o' thish window, m'dear, and see the glorious aurora borealish.

Mrs. Staggers (waked out of a sound sleep)—Window? That's a mirror you are looking into, and the aurora you see is your own highly-decorated and rum-soaked mug.—Jury.

Technical.

Scrimpitt (to the rich distiller's daughter)—Miss Wrye—Hebe!—What can I do to prove my love?

Miss Wrye—I appreciate the spirit of your offer, Mr. Scrimpitt; but your poverty, I am afraid, renders your love a "spirit above proof," as papa would say.—Truth.

Not Popular.

Mamma—Why don't you play with little Algernon Maythorne?

Small Boy—Oh, he's such a girl-boy, reg'lar fool.

"Does he play with dolls?"

"Worse. He plays with girls."—Good News.

Wanted to Get Out.

"Carley," said Halloway, "you're a clever fellow. Write a book on 'Fifty Ways of Breaking an Engagement without a Breach of Promise Suit,' will you? I find that my fiancee spent $2,000 on clothes alone last year."—Harper's Bazar.

A Possible Cause.

"Harold is very indignant with you, Maud. What have you done to him?"

"Nothing that I know of, except that when he told me last night he never fished for compliments I told him he was wise, because he didn't have the right kind of bait."—Harper's Bazar.

A Mystery Solved.

Mrs. Knickerbocker—I wonder why those people opposite stare over here so much?

Mr. Knickerbocker—I suppose they are trying to find out why you stare over there.—Texas Siftings.

It Might Have Been.

Mrs. Peckham—This paper says that Harry Sharpe is worth two million dollars. Just to think! I refused to marry him once!

Henry Peckham (with a dark brown sigh)—Ah, yes! Some people have all the good luck.—Puck.

An Incompetent Valet.

Miss Highupp—So you have discharged your valet?

Mr. De Chappie—Ya-as. Last Sunday the dull fellow couldn't think up any new excuse for my staying away from church.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Household Martyr.

Wife—Here I am roasting myself to death cooking you a nice steak, and you making fun of me.

Husband—I was only laughing, my dear, to think what an easy thing it is to be burned at the steak.—Texas Siftings.

A New Version.

O, for the wings of a dove,
Just for a wee little week!
I'd go and exhibit myself,
And make a big pile as a freak.
—Puck.

The Borrower Overtaken.

"If you please, Mrs. Covenhoven," said a child, presenting herself before a back-door neighbor, "mother wants to know if you will be kind enough to lend her that bowl full of sugar that you borrowed and forgot to return the other day."—Judge.

Judicial Note.

Judge Cowing—Mr. Clerk.

Sheriff—Yes, your honor.

"Call the names of the absent jury men that are not here, and tell them they needn't wait."—Texas Siftings.

A Good Way.

She—Yes, but how can they manage to make love at Narragansett Pier this summer?

He—Oh, I don't know. In divers ways, perhaps.—Brooklyn Life.

Her Comment.

"Isn't this chrysanthemum a pretty flower?" asked Mrs. Snooper of her four-year-old baby girl.

"Yes'm," replied the tot, "but its hair needs brushin'."—Judge.

When "old Sol" makes all things sizzle,
Drink Hires' Root Beer.
When dull care makes life a fizzle,
Drink Hires' Root Beer.
When you feel a little dry,
When you're cross and don't know why,
When with thirst the children cry,
There's a sweet relief to try—

THE STRIKERS BLAMED

Coroner's Jury Verdict in the Homestead Deaths.

FRICK AND OTHERS GIVE BAIL.

A Small Sized Riot When Two of the Pinkerton Men Charged With Murder Were Brought Out of the Mills—The Strikers Still Confident of Winning the Fight—Carnegie May Withdraw His Donation to Pittsburg—Anarchist Bauer Released.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—The inquest into the deaths resulting from the riots at Homestead was concluded yesterday afternoon before Coroner McDowell. The jury was out about an hour before a verdict was returned. There were no witnesses examined, the only matter being the charge of the coroner.

The return in the cases of the seven strikers who were killed reads almost alike in each one. That on the death of Silas Wain states that "he came to his death while in the company of others in unlawful assembly upon the property of Carnegie, Phipps & Co.'s steel works, Mifflin Township, to prevent the landing of two model barges loaded with Pinkerton guards to protect said property, and he being struck by a missile from a cannon, which had been taken by said unlawful assembly to the Pittsburg side of the Monongahela River and discharged by them, striking and instantly killing the said Silas Wain, and we recommend that said unlawful assembly be certified to the September sessions of the grand jury."

In the cases of the three Pinkerton men similar returns were made in the case of each.

That on the death of T. J. Connors states that it was caused from shock and exhaustion, due to a gunshot wound in the right arm, he being shot by a ball from an unlawful assemblage, and "that said shooting was done by a party or parties unknown with felonious intent; and we recommend that such unlawful assemblage be certified to the September sessions of the grand jury."

No attempt was made by the jury in any of the ten cases to designate the persons by whom the fatal shots were fired further than to declare that there was an unlawful assemblage on the Carnegie property which led to a battle.

Hugh Ross, who was accused by Secretary Lovejoy of murder and riot at Homestead, and who is now out on bail, appeared before Alderman King, of the South Side, shortly before noon and made information, charging H. C. Frick, F. T. Lovejoy, Robert Pinkerton, William Pinkerton, J. A. Potter, G. A. Corey, J. G. A. Leishman, H. M. Curry, C. W. Bedill, Fred Primer, W. H. Burt, John Cooper and F. W. Hinde of the murder of John E. Morris, George W. Rutter, Silas Wain and Joseph Sotax.

The five last names of the accused are Pinkerton detectives. Robert and William Pinkerton are the heads of the Pinkerton Bureau.

The others are Carnegie officials.

The names of Nevin, McConnell and James Dovey, Pinkerton detectives, were added in the afternoon to the list against whom Hugh Ross made informations.

At 2:30 o'clock Secretary Lovejoy and Messrs. Leischman and Curry of the Carnegie Company proceeded to the Court House and presented themselves to Judge Ewing, asking to be admitted to bail.

The court refused, telling them to go and deliver themselves up. Alderman King was sent for.

He soon appeared in court and served the warrants. After listening to the argument by the attorneys, H. C. Frick, Lovejoy, Curry and Leischman were released in $10,000 bail each, A. W. & W. R. Mellon, bankers, going on their bonds.

The attorneys then began to wrangle over the cases of Potter, Corry, McConnell and Dovey.

Court then adjourned until to-day. McConnell and Dovey, who were under arrest, were taken to jail. Potter and Corry were at the hearing, but were not under arrest.

The prosecution makes the assertion that Mr. Potter was on the boat and gave orders to fire, and that innocent men on the outskirts of the mob were specially picked out and killed. The remainder against whom charges were made are accused as accessories.

Andrew Carnegie will himself withdraw his munificent donation to the city of Pittsburg in the event of councils taking any official notice of the resolutions passed from time to time during the past month by trade unions, requesting that body to return the millionaire steel king's donation. Such is, in substance, the statement made by a gentleman closely associated with the Carnegie Company's interest, and he drew his conclusion from a broad hint thrown out by Mr. Carnegie in a communication of recent date to a friend in this city. The reasons assigned are that Mr. Carnegie is on his mettle and that he would regard any official action taken upon these varied resolutions as a personal insult backed up by base ingratitude.

"The impression prevails," said a prominent Pittsburg man, "that Mr. Carnegie still continues to be the executive head of the interests bearing his name. This is not so. He is a heavy stockholder, but takes no part in the executive management of the works. He did not make the gift to Pittsburg as a donation from any of the firms with which he is connected. It is out of his own private funds, consequently the agitation to return the gift now going the rounds, has made the gentleman very angry, and the action designated above is sure to be taken in case he receives any treatment of that kind.

"If such an event transpired it would leave matters in a bad muddle so far as municipal affairs are concerned. The nineteen acres which form the Forbes street entrance to Schenley park were sold to the city at an extraordinarily low price in consideration of the fact that the library proper was to be placed there, and this would enhance the value of the property adjoining and which is owned by Dr. Schenley."

"Do you think Mr. Carnegie would withdraw the gift in the event of the resolutions named being tabled?" was asked.

"The action of councils," he replied, "on the trades union resolutions, whether it be favorable or against, is not the question which gives Mr. Carnegie a thought. The very fact that councils would go into a discussion of the matter is what would impel him to resent the insult in a manner which could not be misunderstood."

Judge Magee yesterday morning accepted bail in $5,000 and released Anarchist Bauer. His bondsmen are Emil Bechel and Earnest Kehrer. When outside the jail Bauer refused to talk. In the case of Knold, Judge Magee said there was evidence that Knold had shown Berkman, who shot Mr. Frick, the location of the Carnegie offices and for that reason bail would be refused until the accused had had another hearing, which was set for next Saturday morning.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—A death notice has been handed in to the newspaper offices announcing the death of the five weeks old child of H. C. Frick. This is the child that it was said would be named for C. A. Dana of New York. This was not done, however, and the baby was named Henry Clay Frick, Jr.

CHARGED UPON THE CROWD.

With Fixed Bayonets the Soldiers Dispersed a Riotous Gathering.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 4.—When it became known in Homestead yesterday afternoon that deputies had entered the Carnegie steel works with warrants for the arrest of Nevin McConnell and James Dovey, Pinkerton detectives, on the charge of murder, strikers to the number of several hundred gathered in the vicinity of the works, but were dispersed. On the depot platform was a crowd of strikers, who began jeering the prisoners. The few militiamen and deputies found themselves unable to handle the excited throng, and the situation grew serious.

Word was sent to Gen. Wiley. Five minutes later a company from the 15th Regiment arrived, fixed bayonets and charged upon the crowd, and arrested Thomas Bowen, who brandished a knife.

When the train pulled up Dovey and McConnell, with several constables, stepped aboard. Major Crawford requested two deputies to take Bowen to Pittsburg and lock him up.

This was not relished by the crowd, which made a move as if to attempt Bowen's rescue, but the bluecoats drove the crowd back. Major Crawford detailed eight members of his command to do duty on the train.

At City Farm station was gathered another body of strikers, but to this place also had been despatched a company of soldiers. The scenes convinced the officers in command of the provisional brigade that, despite the repeated protests of the people of Homestead, the presence of the troops is still necessary.

More non-union men arrived at the Homestead mills this morning and went to work at once. Supt. Potter said that the company was getting all the men it needed.

The strikers profess to-day to feel as confident as ever of winning the fight, and they say that the satisfaction of the mill managers will soon give place to chagrin and disgust when they come to figure the cost of the material which the new men are spoiling. Nearly all the work turned out so far, they claim, is imperfect.

At a meeting last night the men of the mechanical departments of the mills and the day laborers decided to remain firm. David Lynch made an address, in which he said that if the men went back now they would be working at 50 cents a day in a few years.

It is stated to-day by Acting Chairman Crawford of the Advisory Committee that Hugh O'Donnell has gone away for recreation by advice of the committee.

The Quiet Before the Storm.

OTTAWA, Aug 4.—David Keer, a Homestead striker, has secured employment in this city. The trouble at Homestead, he says, is by no means over. The union men are patiently waiting for the withdrawal of the soldiers, when bloodshed would ensue at Carnegies. Keer likened the situation at Homestead at this time to the quiet before the storm.

AFTER BURIED TREASURE.

Searching For Money that a Thief Hid Near Lock Haven, Pa.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Aug. 4.—A sensation has been created in this city by the appearance of two men from Altoona, who state that they are in search of a fortune of $72,000, which a man by the name of Lufold, a noted thief and gambler now serving out a sentence in the Western penitentiary, stated he buried on the mountain above Lock Haven.

The story as told by Lufold is that he obtained the money by theft and gambling, and, fearing arrest, he had one night, while out coon hunting with Merchant Winner of this city, buried the entire amount at the root of an old stump.

Shortly afterward he was arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for 15 years.

He has yet about five years to serve, but he thought with money to employ counsel he might get a pardon, and hence sent the two men to get his buried treasure.

An accurate description was given of the place where the money was alleged to have been buried, but at this writing it has not been located.

Cleveland is Pleased.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Aug. 4.—Mr. Cleveland expresses himself as being very much pleased over the result of the election in Alabama. Mr. Cleveland is in receipt of a congratulatory message from Governor-elect Jones, assuring him of the overwhelming Democratic victory and of the outlook in that section for November. Mr. Cleveland has also received many congratulatory messages of similar character of late from different sections of the country.

A Young Wife Kills Herself.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Augusta Hulbert, a pretty young woman of 22 years, is dead from the effects of a dose of rat poison which she took Tuesday night. Her husband had been out of work for some time and she was unable to make both ends meet. Being neglected by her husband for another woman, she and her two children were in want. She grew despondent and took poison.

IT MAY BE ON MONDAY

Early Adjournment of Congress Now Likely.

DIFFERENCES SMOOTHED OVER.

Both Sides Seem Satisfied With the Plan to Give $2,500,000 to the Fair—A Vote on the Durborrow Bill to be Taken Saturday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The differences which have divided the Democratic majority on the World's Fair appropriation seem to have been harmoniously adjusted and if the plan adopted at the caucus yesterday, after the conference committee reported, be carried out—and there appears to be little difficulty in the way of this—Congress will adjourn early next week, with the chances in favor of Monday as the day.

The preliminary movement in the direction of carrying the Sundry Civil bill and the Durborrow bill through the House will probably be begun during the day. A motion will be made for the reconsideration of the vote by which the House receded from its disagreement from the Senate amendment appropriating $5,000,000. This is the motion contained in the resolution submitted by Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, and its adoption will free the Sundry Civil bill from the World's Fair feature and pave the way for a motion to send it back to conference.

Then the Durborrow bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the fair, now on the calendar, will be taken up and amended by reducing the amount to $2,500,000 as decided upon in the caucus yesterday, the subscription feature eliminated and the bill so changed as to make the latter sum an absolute gift to the Exposition.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock a vote will be taken on the Durborrow bill. Some attempt at filibustering may be made to prevent the bill coming to a direct vote, but notwithstanding the assertion of Mr. Kilgore of Texas and some others that they will fight the gift of any sum if they keep Congress in session continuously until March 4 next, the day the 52nd Congress expires, it is almost certain that the action of the caucus will be carried out to the letter.

A strong feature in the report of the conference committee is the section providing that whether the Durborrow bill be carried or defeated the vote on it shall be regarded as a settlement of the whole question. This means that Congress can adjourn immediately after the programme agreed upon is carried, no matter whether the World's Fair is provided for or not.

When the House opened Mr. Kilgore objected to the approval of the journal in the absence of a quorum and the roll was called, showing 180 members present. The journal was then approved.

Mr. Holman (Dem., Ind.) moved to adjourn, but, being appealed to by several members, withdrew his motion.

Several telegrams from absent members were read at the desk, and the following were excused for illness: Messrs. Layton, O.; Hopkins, Pa.; Coggswell, Miss.; and Morse, Mass.

The regular order was demanded and the speaker stated the pending motion was that of Mr. Bingham (Rep., Penna.) to lay Mr. Holman's motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate amendment to the World's Fair clause was concurred in, on the table.

Mr. Bailey (Dem., Tex.,) moved a recess until 2 o'clock. Lost.

Filibustering was then resumed and, seeing that it was impossible to make any progress, and after several rollcalls, at 12:50 the House adjourned for the day.

The Senate in the course of an hour and a half's session cleared the only three unopposed bills remaining on its calendar and then waited for some sign of agreement from the House on the Sundry Civil bill. A motion by Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota calling on the Secretary of War for a report of all officers court-martialed during the past ten years drew out a rather animated discussion and was shelved, as was also a proposition by Mr. Call of Florida to send a special joint committee to investigate Cuba and other West India Islands.

The Georg Incident.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary Foster of the State Department says that the United States at the time of the arrest of Mr. Georg, an attache of the Swiss Legation at Washington, had officially expressed regret at the occurrence and promised a full investigation of the matter. That investigation is now in progress and when the report of the Governor of Maryland is received, in whose jurisdiction the affair took place, the facts will all be laid before the Swiss Government and this Government make all amends that the facts call for.

Set Fire to His Store.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 4.—The clothing store of Isreal Weinberg was slightly damaged by fire during the night. An investigation by the fire marshall showed that the goods in the store had been saturated with kerosene. Weinberg was arrested, charged with arson, and was held in $5,000 bail. The upper floors of the building are occupied as a tenement by a large number of families, and had the fire gained headway serious results might have followed.

An Electrician Under Arrest.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Wm. H. Cone, electrician of the machine firm of McGarigle & Sweeny is under arrest, charged with grand larceny in taking money belonging to the firm and failing to make it good. McGarigle & Sweeny charge Cone with being an electrical impostor. He was held in $10,000 bail, which was furnished by friends.

ABOUT JOHNSTON ISLAND.

Capt. Roberts Would Like to Know What We Are Going to Do.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Letters from Honolulu declare that the British cruiser Champion arrived there July 25 from her trip to Johnston Island. The island was formally annexed to Great Britain, the British flag being run up. Capt. Roberts, who is part owner of the island, lives here. He said to-day, when asked what he proposed to do:

"What can I do? This matter of American possession of Johnston Island has been before the State Department for 34 years. No patent to the island has been affirmed or denied. No inquiry has been made by the government, regarding the seizure of this American possession by an English cruiser, even though it was announced a week ago. We are now negotiating with Hawaii for a coaling station at Pearl Harbor, and if we obtain it we will be under obligations to that government.

"With Johnston Island we had a place that could have been converted into a station with a harbor large enough to accommodate every vessel in the Pacific Ocean that flies the American flag. England has seen the advantages of Johnston Island and has annexed it. Now what will the State Department do; sit calmly by or stick up for the rights of the American owner?"

A WALL PAPER TRUST.

Formation of a Corporation that Will Control 60 Per Cent of the Business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Merchants interested in the formation of a Wall Paper Trust met in the office of their lawyers, at 47 Wall street, yesterday. The following officers were elected:

Henry Burns, of the Robert Graves Company, President; S. A. Maxwell, of Chicago, vice-president; J. J. Lindsay, of Brooklyn, secretary, and Wm. H. Mairs, of Brooklyn, treasurer.

The corporation will be called the National Wall Paper Company. Its capital will be $14,000,000 in common stock and $6,000,000 in debenture bonds. The organizers paid the State $17,000 taxes for the charter that was obtained May 1 last.

Lawyer Utermyer, for the new corporation, says it is no trust but a corporation that has bought the constituent companies outright.

The new company represents, it is said, 60 per cent. of the wall paper business in the United States.

DEATH OF COL. JOHN A. RICE.

He Was Vice-President of the National Board of Trade.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 4.—Col. John A. Rice, vice-president of the National Board of Trade, member of the commission for revising the State tax laws, and of the commission to prevent anthracite culm waste, died at his home here at midnight, aged 50 years.

Deceased was born in Irvington, N. J., and graduated at Brown University. He was for a long time president of the Scranton Board of Trade and interested in many enterprises.

Among his greatest achievements was his promotion of the unification of all commercial laws and the introduction of the private indebtedness claimed into the recent census. He was also the organizer of the movement to make permanent the Census Department as a basis of representation.

He was connected with many of the leading scientific and mechanical societies of the country.

His Liabilities Greater Than Supposed.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 4.—Thomas Cousins, the Hoyt street shoe manufacturer who assigned Tuesday, to-day places his liabilities at $21,000, or double the amount given out at the time of closing his doors. The assets are placed at $10,000. Mr. Cousins' reason for failing is that during the past year prices have been out and wages advanced so that he could not compete with manufacturers in other towns, who employ cheaper labor. John E. B. Sayre, Mr. Cousins' backer for the past ten years, is assignee. The concern was formerly one of the leading industries of this city.

Shot By Tramps.

OLEAN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Tramps are annoying the little village of Allegheny, four miles west of here. Six of them camped in Wm. Fineriaws barn Monday night, and when he tried to dislodge them they shot him twice. One of the bullets entered his mouth, cutting his lip and tongue, knocking out four teeth, and passing out through the left cheek. The other made a flesh wound on his head. An armed posse is scouring the surrounding country in search of the tramps.

Fatally Hurt by an Explosion.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Five workmen were seriously burned by an explosion of naphtha at the chemical works of H. W. Jayne & Co., Frankford, yesterday. They are Thomas Reach, W. C. Beal, Charles McAleer, Richard Gundivieler and Thos. Flynn. Reach and Beal will die. The sheet iron building in which the explosion occurred was gutted by fire. The loss amounts to $5,000; insured.

U. S. Fishing Vessel Reported Siezed.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 4.—Several rumors have reached here to the effect that American vessels were fishing inside the three-mile limit. It was currently reported to-day that the cruiser Vigilant has captured an American vessel fishing in prohibited waters along the western coast of Halifax, but U. S. Consul Frye has received no confirmation of the report.

A New Reading Extension.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—The Reading Railroad has for some time been anxious to tap Bristol, the largest town in Bucks county, and engineers are now locating a line from the vicinity of Langhorne, to reach Bristol by passing down the Neshaminy by way of Hulmeville. There are large business interests in the Bucks county town.

This Week's Issue of "Truth" Seized.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—By order of Anthony Comstock this week's issue of the publication "Truth" has been seized. Comstock objected to one of the illustrations. He did not think that two women in the picture had enough clothes on.

Riggins Body Arrives at Panama.

PANAMA, via. Galveston, Aug. 4.—Consul McCreary of Valparaiso, has arrived here with the body of Riggins, one of the Baltimore men killed in the attack by the Chillians, last October, and will leave at once for New York.

THE NEW PARLIAMENT

It Will Commence Its Session To-Day.

SPEAKER PEEL TO BE RE-ELECTED.

Possible That the Home Rule Question May be Postponed Until Cooler Weather—Gladstone Will be Heard if Health Permits.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The new House of Commons will assemble this afternoon. The first business will be the re-election of Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel as Speaker. In accordance with Parliamentary tradition the motion for the re-election of Speaker Peel will not be made by a member of the Government, but by a private member.

At a consultation of A. J. Balfour, the Government leader of the House; Aretas Akers-Douglas, the Government whip, and Sir Algernon West, as the personal representative of Mr. Gladstone, it was agreed that the task should devolve upon Sir Matthew Ridley, Conservative member for Blackpool, while Mr. Gladstone will second the motion. Should Mr. Gladstone's poor health prevent his presence at Westminster, Sir William Vernon Harcourt will speak in his stead.

It is possible that Parliament will be prorogued as soon as the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech is concluded, postponing the home rule question until cooler weather.

A petition was yesterday formally lodged against the return to Parliament of Mr. Balfour as a member of the East Division of Manchester, charging bribery, treating, intimidation, undue influence, illegal hiring and general corruption by agents during the electoral contest.

Mr. Gladstone this morning fully resumed work. Mr. Justin McCarthy and Mr. John Dillon called and held a conference which lasted an hour. Yesterday afternoon, for the first time in several days, Mr. Gladstone left his house, going for a drive.

SANTA MARIA SETS SAIL.

The 400th Anniversary of Columbus' Departure Celebrated at Palos.

PALOS, Aug. 4.—Yesterday was the 400th anniversary of the day on which Columbus set sail from Palos westward on his voyage of discovery, and the festivities arranged here for celebrating the day were carried out successfully. The view from the town, however, was obscured by a thick mist, which hung over the river and rendered it impossible to see more than a dim outline of the hulls of the vessels lying at anchor.

The voyage down the river past the monastery of Larabida, on which building the flags of all the American States were flying, to the bar, occupied about an hour. Outside the bar were moored the vessels of the foreign squadrons which had come to take part in the celebration. These vessels were formed in lines, through which the caravel passed amid thundering salutes and deafening cheers.

The mist and the smoke from the guns made it impossible to watch the manœuvres of the caravel, which followed for some distance the route taken by Columbus 400 years ago.

At 9 o'clock the little vessel returned and re-entered the river. The town of Huelva is crowded with visitors, and all the buildings, both private and public, are gaily decorated.

Knocked Out Four Toughs.

NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 4.—Ex-United States Treasurer James W. Hyatt, president of the Roton Point Improvement Company, who is summering at the Point, was attacked yesterday by four drunken Harlem toughs and a lively fight ensued. Mr. Hyatt, who is an athlete and very strong, when he found moral suasion useless, struck out straight from the shoulder with both fists and quickly put his assailants to flight. Mr. Hyatt said that the men had been fighting among themselves, and when he endeavored to restore peace set upon him.

Jaehne Not Pardoned.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A report was in circulation yesterday afternoon that Boodle Alderman Henry W. Jaehne, who is in Sing Sing Prison, had been pardoned by the Governor. Gov. Flower is in Watertown, and a telegram of inquiry addressed to him there brought the reply that there was no truth in the report.

Idaho Mine Trouble.

WARDNER, IDAHO, Aug. 4.—It is stated that the United States troops will remain here for an indefinite period, as the United States Commissioner has warrants for the arrest of 500 men, and it is expected there will be some trouble when the arrests are made. General Conlin has arrived here from Fort Sherman.

Boston Aldermen Placated.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The Boston and Tremont theatres have received their licenses, the Committee on Licenses having received from their respective managers satisfactory explanations as to the objectionable gags which have been sprung at the expense of the members of the City Council.

Forger Hunter Held in $10,000 Bail.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—James Hunter, who five years ago startled the financial world by precipitate flight from this city, after putting out forged paper to the amount of $106,200, has been held in $10,000 bail to answer, having returned unexpectedly on Sunday.

The Kaiser's Yacht Again Defeated.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—In the second day's yacht race, at Cowes, Mr. Jameson's cutter, the Iverna, beat the German Emperor's Meteor by eight minutes, thus maintaining the record of superiority which the Iverna has acquired in a number of previous races.

Confidence in the Iron Hall.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—members of the Order of the Iron Hall held a large meeting here last night, at which resolutions were passed expressing the fullest confidence in Supreme Justice F. D. Somerby, and complimenting him for his valuable services to the order.

Vetoed By the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The President has sent to the Senate a message vetoing Senate bill to amend an act to provide for the bringing of suits against the United States.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The ten-mile race from Rogers's wheelmen's headquarters to Westfield and return, proposed for next week Thursday, has been indefinitely postponed.

—Ensign Edith Marshall will have a great meeting at Salvation hall this evening, and hopes to be able to form a Salvation Army auxiliary among Plainfield people. The attendance should be large.

—Mrs. David Rogers was walking along Grove street last evening when she fell into an unguarded ditch near Craig place. She was badly jarred by the fall, and nearly fractured an arm. The ditch should be covered.

—One of L. A. Hummer's horses backed a truck into a horse attached to a Singer sewing machine wagon in front of THE PRESS office this morning, and cut and scraped the Singer horse so that it bled quite freely. A runaway was narrowly averted.

—To-morrow the Park Avenue, Congregational and First Presbyterian Sunday-schools go to Asbury Park. Go along with them and see the wheelman's grand reception to Arthur A. Zimmerman, champion bycyclist of the world, at their athletic grounds.

—The old established fruit and peanut stand at the corner of Front and Somerset streets has been purchased by A. Lusardi & Co. of 12 North avenue and 31 West Front street. This house has now three fine stands, and those patronizing any one of them are sure of the best goods at lowest prices.

—J. E. Townsend of Westfield has opened a fine marble and granite works at 30 Somerset street, and has taken up his residence on Prospect place, North Plainfield. He leaves his Westfield business in charge of his son. He is an honest, straightforward business man, a man of his word, and in their dealings with him the Plainfield people may be certain of the most honorable dealing.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Wyckoff, of New street, are home again from Long Branch.

Daniel I. Smalley, of Summit avenue, is no better. He is still unconscious and in a critical condition.

After a quick and comfortable trip, Drs. Davis and Fritts and Mulford Estil arrived at Bremen, Thursday afternoon, at 4.

George M. Griffen, manager at A. M. Griffen's hardware store, left town yesterday for a a 10 days' vacation at Gloucester, Mass.

Councilman Charles J. Fisk and family are enjoying a carriage trip through the White Mountains from Bethel, Me., to Woodstock, Vt.

Dr. Frank S. Wells of this city, and Miss Fanny Draper, were married yesterday in accordance with the announcement in these columns.

Master Hervie Doane, youngest son of Plainfield's popular chief engineer, goes to Glenside on Monday, for the remainder of this month.

A. J. Everitt and Mrs. J. D. Eddie, of Madison, Morris county, have been the guests of A. B. King of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Miss Mertie Burton, of Brooklyn, returned to her home to-day after a delightful visit with Miss Hattie Currie, of Arlington avenue.

A delightful sociable was held last evening at the residence of Miss Sadie Addis, in honor of her guest, Miss Lillie Barnes, of Elizabeth.

Sylvanus Hoffman, one of the faithful carriers of THE PRESS, of 198 West Front street, is visiting his aunt and relatives in Califon, Hunterdon county.

The corner-stone of the First Church of Christ will be laid Sunday afternoon at 4:30, on the Grove street site. J. B. Cleaver, the founder of the church, will officiate.

Borough clerk H. H. Brokaw has a fine new wheel. He now rides a Columbia relay racer, weighing only 28½ pounds. It is a regular blue-line flyer, the enamel being blue.

A son and heir has taken possession of the hearts of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Murray of Broadway. His advent was on Saturday last, and he is the brightest and best baby in town.

A. S. Patterson's family have been for some weeks at Water Mill, by the sea, Long Island, whence they will go next week to the homestead among the hills at Patterson, Putnam county, N. Y.

Chief engineer T. O. Doane has been invited by General Spencer to join his party at luncheon at the Governor's Headquarters at the State Camp, Sea Girt, Friday evening, and to attend a reception to the Governor afterwards.

After a lingering illness, the death is announced of Emily F., wife of William G. Brett, of East Ninth street, a prominent member of the Crescent League. She died at the home of Mr. Brett's father, 187 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, Aug. 2, of valvular disease of the heart. She left Plainfield March 24 in search of a renewal of health, and had fought vainly against disease ever since. She was a most estimable woman, and will be sadly missed. Interment will be made at Hillside.

ALL READY FOR THE SHOW.

Everything Auspicious for a Most Successful Season's Opening with "Hands Across the Sea".

Another rehearsal of "Hands Across the Sea" took place at Music Hall to-day; and in the public production next Monday evening the public may be assured of a most smooth and finished performance.

John S. Hale, who takes the part of Hiram Hickory of Chicago, is the efficient stage manager, a most genial and courteous gentleman, and under his direction the play is being most effectively staged and is bound to make a greater hit than even last year. Mr. Hale has formerly been with "The Charity Ball", which delighted a large audience in this city last winter, and the success of that play was largely due to his skill and experience.

James Otley returned this morning from a trip to London and joined the troupe in Plainfield. He will be well remembered here as having admirably filled the role of Joseph Stillwood, the Devonshire land-owner, and in that part again this season will be given cordial welcome by the public.

George W. Parsons, whose home is in Toledo, where lives also the charming young Lucy of the play, Miss Lillian Osterman, is this year to act as Jean de Lussac, a promotion accorded him because of his great success in the part of Count Paul last season. He is a most admirable actor, and his new role offers him excellent opportunity for displaying his remarkable powers.

The new scenery is very handsome, and the scenic effects when witnessed by the public will be superb. They are being prepared under the master-hand of Charles L. Carson, who for five years as scenic artist and master machinist has looked faithfully after the attractions staged by manager Reeves.

Mr. Reeves has been indefatigable in the work of improving the famous melodrama, and will have won many plaudits from the people for his special engagement of Miss Virgie Arnold, the Spanish and serpentine dancer who in "The Spider and the Fly" made so great a sensation last winter. Miss Arnold is only twenty years of age, and is most attractive in form and feature. Her dances in the glare of calcium light are sure to delight the most fastidious. She will appear in the French ball-room scene where reigns that bewitching beauty, Miss Clara Childs, as Mme. Valliere.

The fair young wife of Basil West (Jack Dudley the hero) has consented to appear in one of the feminine roles, that of Polly Reed, and under the stage name of Miss Bessie Edsally is sure to win the hearts of the people. She is a lovely, golden-haired English girl, and is as sweet a Polly as her husband is brave and manly.

Miss Alice Graeme, the leading lady, promises to surpass even herself in the part of Lillian Melford, and will be a great favorite with the Plainfield audience. The sweetness of her personal disposition pervades her stage life, and Lillian is not only lovable for herself but for the strong heroism that characterizes her deeds in behalf of those dear to her.

The good fortune of "Hands Across the Sea" is not only in the indigenous merits of the play, but also in the excellence of the company of artists who are to present it. The play is one of the most powerful of legitimate melodramas, and is to be given a most satisfactory production. The opening night, next Monday, deserves to be a glowing success; and the season will surely be one continual triumph.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Railroad Employes Annoyed by a Foolish Attempt to Cross Tracks in Front of Moving Trains.

F. W. Whitely narrowly escaped death on the rail a short distance above the North avenue station this morning. The 8.15 train for New York was just pulling out of the station, as the 8:17 train for Easton was coming in. Whitely started to walk across the tracks without looking, and everyone expected to see him killed. He realized his peril in time, however, and had the presence of mind to crouch down between the two trains as they sped by.

If persons would keep their eyes open when crossing tracks, and be sure the coast is clear before attempting to cross, they would save the newspapers the pain of writing up horrible accidents, and would save the railroad employes much anxiety and trouble.

PLAINFIELD VS. THE NEW YORKS.

The National League Giants Are After a Game With the Crescents.

Charles A. Reed, manager of the Crescent League ball team, has received a letter from manager Powers of the New York National league team, asking for a game in Plainfield on Friday afternoon of next week. There will be no other game in this city during that week, as the Crescents play in Bergen Point, Wednesday the 10th, and at Elizabethport Saturday the 13th.

It depends, however, upon the public whether the game with the New Yorks will be arranged. It will come high but if manager Reed could be assured of the people's patronage, he would take the risk.

—A whole suit for $2 is the leader that Schepflin & Co. are having a run on just now. But besides that bargain they have a hundred others at equally great a discount.

The Best in the World.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

HOW THE CRESCENTS CAN HIT!

Let Them Keep up This Gait on Saturday, and Somerville is Doomed—Sneeden in Dandy Form—Manager Keller's Jewel.

The handful of people who attended the base-ball game at the Crescent League grounds yesterday witnessed a fine exhibition of ball playing on the part of the Crescents. The game was one-sided, and the Brighton Athletic club was defeated by the score of 14 to 0; but the way the Crescents' batsmen slugged the ball was a delight for eyes sore from weeping over last Saturday's defeat. The men were in excellent trim, and if they only keep themselves in the shape developed by yesterday's practice triumph next Saturday is assured. There was great rivalry between Murphy and Turner as to who should make the best day's record. Turner was leading by one hit; it was the ninth inning, and two men were out. Murphy hit safe, and caught up to Turner. Rather than let "Tuck" get ahead of him again, Murphy deliberately let himself get caught off the base, retiring the side and shutting Turner out of another chance at the bat. Sneeden was in great form, and had fine control of the ball. He would get three balls on a batsman, just to tease him, and then stride him out with great precision. He gave place to Murphy in the sixth inning, to save himself for Saturday against the West Ends. He is in the pink of condition. The most noticeable thing about the game was the lack of spectators. These Wednesday games were arranged especially for the benefit of the business men, who wanted them because they could not get away to Saturday games. It is a shame that they do not patronize the games arranged especially for them. Just before the game manager Keller was presented with the handsome jewel described in these columns yesterday, Charles K. Moore making the presentation speech for the donors, and manager Keller fittingly responded. Clare, Westfield's pitcher, who played at third, did n't distinguish himself. The score:

MAYOR SAUNDERS PROVES THE CASE.

He Shows That the McKinley Bill Did Increase the Duties on the Products of the Homestead Mills Where the Reduction of Wages Was Attempted.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING POST: In your editorial comment yesterday on a letter from Nyack you say: "The principal products of the Carnegie Works, we believe, are steel rails and structural iron and steel". If reference is made to the Homestead works, and it seems that your correspondent so intended, you are mistaken in the statement quoted.

In the "Directory of the Iron and Steel Works of the United States", published by the American Iron and Steel Association, Philadelphia, 1890, the following statement is made:

Carnegie, Phipps & Co., Homestead Steel Works. Product, blooms, billets, structural shapes, bridge steel, best boiler plates, armor plate, and ship and tank plate; annual capacity, 100,000 net tons of Bessemer steel ingots, 40,000 tons of steel plates, and 75,000 tons of miscellaneous steel products.

As a matter of fact, the Homestead mills are not steel-rail mills, and it is well, I think, to set this matter clearly before the public because the Republican press has so often referred to the reduction of duty on steel rails by the McKinley Bill as an answer to the association of the attempted reduction of wages at Homestead with the McKinley Bill.

Now, as a matter of fact, since the Government contracts were taken by the Carnegie Company, the production at Homestead of the finer grades of steel plate has largely increased, so that recently it has been the largest and the most important product of these mills. The "New Tariff Laws" (McKinley Bill), published in pamphlet form by the Tribune Association of New York, gives the old and new rates on "boiler and other plate, iron and steel", etc., as follows:

	Old rate.	New rate lb.
Value between..4 and 7c.	1½c.	2c
Value between..7 and 10c.	1½c.	2 8-10c
Value between..10 and 13c.	1½c.	3½c.

We also find under "Steel Ingots, Billets, and Bars" that the duties on the higher grades have been increased as follows:

	Old rate.	New rate
Value between..7 and 10c.	2½c.	2 8-10c
Value between..10 and 13c.	2½c.	3½c.
Value between..13 and 16c.	2½c.	4 2-10c
Value above....16c.	2½c.	7c.

It may therefore be said that the McKinley Bill did increase the duties on the product of the mills at Homestead. But it has no bearing upon the point at issue when it is claimed that manufacturers of boiler plate, billets, etc., have not been able to get these high prices for their product. Hard times following the McKinley tariff, and the breaking of the beam and other Trusts, have been responsible for this. WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS.

Deacon Reed's Snakes.

Counselor Charles A. Reed has captured one of those queer snakes that live in the sandy soil among the bushes back of his place in North Plainfield, and has had it pickled in alcohol by Dr. R. J. Close Inspection.

Our Clothing will bear the closest inspection, and the conservative gentleman in the picture says he can find nothing wrong even in the buttonholes. They (the clothes) are all wool and as wide as you want them.

We have solved the problem of giving greater value for the money than any other clothing house in the state. Our method of doing this is simple enough when you master it, and consists in having cash with which to buy at the very lowest notch, the judgment to know a good thing when we see it and unequalled and extensive manufacturing facilities. Making our own stock at prices away below what our competitors have to pay, we are in a position to offer goods at prices they cannot meet.

NOW FOR THE FINAL.

Arrangements Completed for the Race that Plainfield Should Have Won—Let All Good Wheelmen Turn Out to See It.

The executive committee of the Union county bicycle clubs held a meeting Tuesday night at the Elizabeth Journal office, to make preparations for the final race for the Journal trophy, which is to take place Saturday afternoon at 5.

Captain Saltonstall, of the E. A. C., was chairman, and T. T. Berdan, of the R. R., secretary.

The first business on hand was the appointment of officials.

James S. Holmes, president of A. C. C. of New Jersey, was unanimously appointed referee.

John C. Wetmore, of Town Tattle, was chosen clerk of the course, because of the excellent work he did at the recent trial heat.

Capt. R. F. Calhoun, of the U. C. R., was selected to act as starter.

On motion the number of judges at the finish was increased from three to five, because it was felt that there would be hard and close and accurate work demanded, in deciding the positions of the racers as they crossed the tape. The following were then selected to fill these very important places: George G. Teller, C. C. C.; Dr. Holmes, U. C. R.; O. T. Peck, R. R.; J. A. Woodward, E. F. C.; Fred. Metcalf, P. Bi. C.

The following were chosen as scorers: Howard Cox, C. C. C.; George Peck, R. R.; Harry Stacey, U. C. R.; E. K. Tucker, E. F. C.; Clarence Little, M. W.

Turners—John L. Crowell, U. C. R.; W. A. Keddie, R. R., and E. G. Drake, E. W.

Judges at the Turn—C. H. Jouet, R. R.; Mr. French, P. Bi. C., and Edward Thornton, C. C. C.

Marshal—Robert Gentle, E. A. C., with power to appoint as many assistants as he deems necessary.

RED, WHITE AND BLUE.

In order that the judges at the finish may be helped in deciding the relative positions of the men in crossing the tape, it was moved that distinguishing colors be worn as well as numbers on the back, and that these colors be on ribbons, not less than two inches wide, worn on the right arm; that the Elizabeth Wheelmen wear red ribbons; the Westfield Athletic club, white ribbons; and the Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers, dark blue ribbons. This resolution was unanimously adopted.

It was again moved and carried that each club not competing in the race be directed to provide five umpires, and the secretary will notify the captains of the clubs to bring the men with them and see that they act in proper capacity.

The work of the umpires in this race will be very important. They are to report to the referee any fouling or any violations of the rules, and particularly any violations of a new rule adopted last night. Any claim of disqualification or any protest made to the referee will be decided upon the report of the umpire upon whose stretch of road the alleged violation took place. As it is expected that most of the riders will be bunched from start to finish it will readily be seen how important is the umpires' work.

A NEW RULE.

Captain Saltonstall offered the following as a new rule: Any rider in this contest who shall willfully attempt to crowd another rider off the road or interfere with or obstruct any other rider in any way, shall be disqualified.

After some little discussion this new rule was adopted unanimously.

It simply means that each and every rider shall be allowed to ride, keeping straight ahead, taking as much room as he needs but not attempting to prevent any other rider from passing him except by fair, fast riding.

Faithfully carried out this rule, and the others already adopted, puts the race entirely upon the merits of the riders as riders; and not upon any unfair or discourteous means or methods.

There is intense interest in the race, all over the county, and there is every prospect that it will be contested with extreme ardor, and will be decided by merit alone. The high character of the clubs and the individual riders precludes any other expectation.

THE RIDERS.

The teams that have been entered are as follows:

Elizabeth Wheelmen—Color, red—Frederick C. Gilbert, Edward Morris, George H. Davey, Allen F. Calkins, Chas. Brown and Arthur P. Campbell. Substitutes—Frank E. Ensworth, William F. Ackor and Arthur G. Drake.

Westfield Athletic Club—Color, white—R. B. Whitehead, Robt. B. Carberry, E. S. Bloodgood, A. H. Barnett, William Chamberlain, A. H. Clark. Substitutes—Edward Brunner, I. Townley, J. A. Brunner.

Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers—Color, blue—Sidney B. Bowman, Henry J. Bauer, R. S. Lagren, George Chumar, Henry Saltonstall. Substitutes—George J. Ames, Frank J. Pope, C. P. Morrell.

All the business having been transacted the executive committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

Nothing now remains but the final race, and the winning of the trophy and the championship.

He Deserves Another Term.

Senator Henry D. Winton, of Bergen county, ought to have no difficulty at all in achieving a renomination. He was the only Democrat in the State Senate who refused last winter to cast his vote for the villainous coal combine bill. That one act ought to give him boom enough to persuade his Bergen county constituents to push him even for the Governorship. When he is meek enough to remain content with his Senatorship there should be no question about the gratification of his desire. There is no reason in the world why the office he has filled so acceptably should be taken from him and given to another.

Great Times at Camp-Meeting.

The camp-meeting at Hyde's grove increases in interest. Last evening the attendance was good, and the service impressive. Week-day services are now held as follows: Prayer and conference, 3 p. m.; preaching, 8-p. m. Next Sabbath will be a great day. There will be good singing and preaching.

NO NORTH BROADWAY.

At Least Another Year's Delay in the Peace Street Extension, and Maybe Then the Disputes Won't All Be Settled.

More vexatious problems have arisen to block the extension of Peace street into North Plainfield, and borough counselor Charles A. Reed says that it will be at least a year before the matter is satisfactorily settled. The chief troubles are caused by the fight of property-holders against assessments. Many protests from those on the North Plainfield side were received by the North Plainfield township committee last night. Messrs. A. P. Voorhees, Elias Allen and W. C. Smith, constituting the committee, met in Spencer's hall, and township clerk Horace Martin read a batch of protests he had received. The protestants were: Gideon Allen, Firman A. Long, Wm. Boe, David N. Force, Frank Wolff, Eugene Moore, Uriah Smalley, Lewis M. Coddington, Herbert E. Rider, C. A. Hudson, J. S. Green and W. S. Hudson. All of these thought that they had been assessed unfairly. They even went so far as to say that the work of commissioners A. J. Winckler, L. E. Barkalew and Jacob Long was illegal, irregular and oppressive. They charged that large farming lands that would be opened up and greatly benefited by the new street were not taxed anywhere in proportion to the vast increase of value they would undergo, while other property was burdened far beyond what it deserved. Messrs. Brock and Lounsbury spoke warmly against the heavy assessments made on their property. They said they did n't need the new street, but had outlets enough already; their property would not be increased one cent in value by the improvement; yet they were asked to pay heavily for it.

Counselor Reed explained that the work of the commissioners had been done entirely in accordance with the law. They had made their report of assessement of damages and benefits, and it was in order for ot jectors to file their protests within 30 days from the date of that report. Many of the present protests had not been filed within the required 30 days.

At this John Goodwin and Lester Horton made a great howl, and jumped on committee, commissioners and counsel unmercifully for not telling them they had only 30 days of grace. To all of this Mr. Reed quietly replied that he was not to blame for anyone's ignorance the law, which everyone was supposed to know. The law had been published, and those who did n't read the newspapers must suffer for their own ignorance.

Mr. Reed said that some of the protests had been filed in time, and that that was sufficient. The next thing to be done was for the town committee to meet with the Plainfield common council, and for a new joint committee to be appointed, consisting of three committeemen and three councilmen, to serve as commissioners of appeals, to review the entire business. All of the complaints must then be heard, and if it be found that any of the protests are just the entire work of assessment must be gone over again and revised. Then if there be further objection those who feel that they are unjustly assessed may certiorari the entire proceedings into the Supreme Court.

After some further discussion in the matter, all in the same vein, the subject was dropped.

The only other important business that came before the committee was the receipt of a petition from George H. Babcock and W. M. Stillman asking for the extension of Madison avenue to Duer street. The petition was filed.

It is the belief of many that there should be no individual assessment for any such improvements as the extension of Peace and Duer streets, but that the expense should be borne by all, by taxation.

There is some opposition to committeeman Smith serving on the new commission, as his wife is one of the property-owners who thinks her assessment too high, and he is therefore an interested person.

Base-Ball Advice from Harkinstown.

(Somerville Messenger.)

If ever a town made an effort to win a game of ball, Plainfield surely did the one on Saturday. Managers Keller and Reed read the riot act to Manager Mack before the game; they protested against Field; Capt. Hofford was going to kill the umpire, and, worse than all, some of the Plainfield press made an attempt to drive the West Ends into bankruptcy by boycotting the Somerville game and hence compel the West Ends to fall back on Billy and Boge and Joe, and the other boys with whom we were wont to beat them a few years ago, and who would still play just for the fun of the thing. But alas! As "in childhood's happy hours they saw their fondest hopes decay", so it was this trip. When the game was finished, the score stood two to one, and the Crescents had the one. They cussed the umpire and they cussed their luck, but they could n't make but the one run.

Allow us to tender a little charitable advice: Stop finding fault with the West End management for getting players who know how to play ball, and hustle around a little, as Louis does, and get some of them yourself. There is no luck in this thing—Providence is always on the side of the heaviest battalions. You have several fair players on the team, who would form a nucleus for a strong nine, and as for the cost, it is nothing. The money you lose betting on your present aggregation would secure you a good team, and up here we consider it worth something to see our local players win. Don't get childish and say it is n't fair to try to strengthen the weak spots in the team, and claim that you have made only one change in the whole season, while, on the contrary, you have gone from Tennessee to Massachusetts in pursuit of a pitcher, and we have had a new one to beat every time we have met you. "Why do the heathen rage and your people imagine a vain thing?" Play ball!

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

NEWS OF THE CAMP.

How Plainfield's Holy Cross Boys Are Faring.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

CAMP TOWNSEND, MERWIN'S POINT, Conn., August 3, 6:30 a. m.—The day at camp yesterday was rather a cloudy one, but nevertheless was enjoyed by all. The boys spent the morning boating, and after luncheon a very exciting game of baseball was played. We received ten visitors yesterday. Everybody was willing to retire early, on account of not having slept on the boat coming up. About 10 o'clock we were visited by a storm, and it is still raining.

"$10 AN HOUR AND PER-QUIS-I-TIES."

The Split Between the Local Republican Leaders, Still Widens—The Editor of the Ex-Organ Regrets That the City Clerk Is Not "Such a Person".

(From Yesterday's News.)

In reply to our criticisms in yesterday's NEWS respecting the difficulties we have met with in securing from the present city clerk for publication and in the public interest a list of bills ordered paid by Common Council, Mr. Runyon telephones that it is impossible for him to give the list of bills or to enable the reporters to get them before or after the meetings so as to include them in their accounts of the Council proceedings. When informed that ex-City Clerk Leonard managed to do it without difficulty, by having the bills in such shape that they could be copied in a few minutes before the meeting was called to order, Mr. Runyon said he did not get at the meeting soon enough, and did not care to remain afterward; that the next day the bills were given to an assistant to make out warrants for the Mayor to sign the same evening to have them ready for payment the following day; that other cities paid their clerks for such work, and the papers for publishing the minutes, and, finally, that he did not think the list of bills of any public interest anyhow. In the latter opinion we of course do not concur. We consider that any matter effecting the public pocketbook ought to be of public interest; that a public official so extravagantly paid—averaging about $40 per meeting, each calling for about four hours' work, including preparing the minutes, $10 an hour, to say nothing of about as much more as perquisities—could afford the very slight inconvenience mentioned, when it is entirely for public information, especially as it need not delay the payment of the bills a moment. As to paying the papers for publishing the Council proceedings we are not aware of any instance except in the case referred to where payment has been asked. The only thing asked is that there shall be a city clerk courteous enough to allow that the public has a right to know something about the doings of public servants, especially when the public is expected to pay for it, in one case at least to the tune of $20 per hour, of actual necessary service, including perquisities. We are sure there is nothing unreasonable in that. We intimated at the time this appointment was made that it seemed a mistake to have the city made an annex to any newspaper office, or for that matter, to any other business that would in any manner interfere with the city business. Our friend has tried to spread himself over too much ground. Less greed would make better digestion and more pleasant existence all around. We would like to see a city clerk who would afford the newspapers every possible facility of getting information for the public. We regret to be compelled to say that Mr. Runyon has not in our judgment proven himself to be such a person.

LIGHTNING'S FREAK.

Came In at the Back Window, Broke up Housekeeping, and Escaped at the Front.

One of the strange freaks of lightning during last Friday's storm was the destruction caused by a bolt that visited the home of James Runyon at Passaic Valley. The lightning crashed through a window in the rear of the house, carrying the entire sash with it, smashed a quantity of furniture and a large mirror, and escaped through another window in the front of the house. No one was hurt.

Drives out — all impurities of the blood, no matter of what name or nature, or from what cause arising, by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Clear your skin with it. Every disfigurement, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst Scrofula, will disappear. It invigorates the liver, cleanses, purifies, and enriches the blood as nothing else can, and promotes all the bodily functions. For all the many and varied forms of Scrofula, and for the most stubborn Skin and Scalp Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, Eczema, Boils, Carbuncles, and kindred ailments, nothing can equal it as a remedy.

The sarsaparillas claim to do good in March, April, and May. The "Discovery" does more than that. At all seasons and in all cases, it's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or you have your money back.

ARIZONA'S STONE AGE.

Interesting Relics of a Long-Forgotten People.

Acres of Historical Rock Paintings—The City of Phoenix Built on the Ruins of an Ancient Town—No Records Left.

That Arizona was inhabited before the dawn of history and by a people, perhaps two races of people, well advanced in the arts of civilization, is beyond question. The traces of their occupancy, writes R. E. L. Robinson in the San Francisco Chronicle, are of the clearest and most unmistakable character, and while the period in which they possessed it and the cause and manner of their expulsion are shrouded in impenetrable mystery, proofs of their presence for perhaps thousands of years are to be found in the caves, mounds, ruined cities and canals which abound along the Salt and Gila rivers from the point of their inception to their confluence with the Colorado. The Little Colorado, the Verde and the San Pedro also show many traces of a people well informed in a certain civilization and who have for at least a thousand years been extinct.

The peculiar dryness of the atmosphere has had a wonderful effect in protecting the ancient relics from the ravages of time. In the mounds which are scattered through the country and which represent ruined houses may be found ollas filled with parched corn and beans in as good a state of preservation as the day they were hidden from the elements by the fearful sandstorm that must have prevailed when they were buried.

The loaves in the ash-covered ovens of Pompeii were preserved on the same principle. The fine sand off the desert must have drifted over everything, and they were thus preserved as the mute historians of a vanished race. Their erection of concrete buildings throughout the country shows these lost people to have been well versed in the construction of edifices adapted to the region and its climatic changes.

By far the most interesting remains of this people are their network of canals which prevail through all the valleys of the territory. The longest is the one tapping the Gila river and which supplied with water the ancient city, now only marked by one standing building. This is the Casa Grande, about which so much has been written and which has excited so much interest among archæologists during the last ten years. This canal was fifty-five miles in length and for most of the distance twenty-eight feet in width, with a depth of sixteen feet. The volume of water taken out of the river must have been immense, for it supported both the animal and vegetable life of a valley containing millions of acres. In places this canal has become filled with drifting sand, but for the most part its course is easily traced.

One of the most notable specimens of these canals is in the Salt river valley, and only three miles from the present city of Phœnix. It taps the Salt river opposite Tempe, and for two miles runs almost parallel with that stream. The old headgate is partly standing, and for this distance the ditch is perfectly open, and all that would be necessary for it to supply the country with water again would be to open the headgate by removing the stones and concrete with which it is filled. Two miles from its head the engineers who located the Maricopa canal made use of the old Aztec ditch, and to-day the water runs over its pebbly bottom just as it did two or three hundred years ago; but how different is the condition of the people it supplies!

The ditch was only nine miles in length and not so large as the one on the desert of the Casa Grande, but it ran through the heart of a city with a population of no less than 500,000.

For miles and miles the mounds, in perfect regular order, tell the tale of houses destroyed by the ravages of time and of a magnificence not excelled to-day. Lieut. Cushing directed his attention principally to excavating in this section during his researches for the New England Historical society, and he was rewarded by unearthing many stone axes, vessels and even skeletons. His conclusion was "that the people must have lived in the stone age, long before the infancy even of the Egyptian civilization."

Phœnix was built on the ruins of this ancient city, hence its name, and not a month passes but some one picks up a stone knife, ax or some other relic, but they are dumb as to the history of their former owners. The only hieroglyphics the lost race have left are those on the painted rocks across the Salt river from Phœnix. They cover the mountainside for acres and they have always puzzled the student and scientist. The nearest apparent conclusion that has been arrived at is that they tell of the martial exploits of their painters and are a history of their tribal wars.

One thing is apparent to the student of things ancient when he looks on these canals and ruined cities permeating both this country and Mexico, and that is that the civilization of Egypt was only in its infancy when these people had been exterminated for centuries.

A FORMIDABLE SHIP.

Description of the New Steel-Armored Flagship "Texas."

The double turreted steel-armored battleship Texas, the first one of that class in the new navy, was launched at the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., a few days ago in the presence of a large number of spectators, including representatives from the navy department at Washington and other officials.

The Texas has been on the docks in the Norfolk navy yard since June 11, 1889. Following is a description of the vessel: Principal dimensions—Length, 300 feet; breadth, 64 feet; depth, 39 feet, 9 inches. The main armament consists of two twelve-inch breech-loading guns.

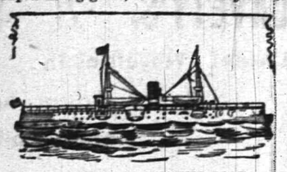
The secondary battery consists of four six-pounders and four three-pounder rapid firing guns, with four forty-seven



THE TEXAS AS SHE WILL LOOK.

M. M. Hotchkiss guns, all mounted on the gun deck behind one and one-half inch plating; two Gatling guns and two thirty-seven M. M. Hotchkiss guns, all mounted on the bridge, the same in the military tops and two three-pounder rapid firing guns on the flying bridge. There are six torpedo tubes; a strong ram bow adds to her offensive powers. The turrets are armored with twelve inches of steel and their bases are inclosed by a diagonal redoubled armor with 12 inches of steel, which also protects the hydraulic machinery for working the guns and the smokepipe casings. A belt of steel armor, 12 inches thick, protects the boilers and engines. The hull is of steel throughout and is built on the cellular system. A double bottom extends under the engines, boilers and magazines and is divided both longitudinally and transversely into numerous water-tight compartments. There are 129 of these compartments. Two second-class torpedo boats are carried, in addition to the usual complement. The ship is lighted throughout by electricity and carries powerful electric searchlights.

The Texas will be used as a flagship, and carry a complement of 368 officers and men. The machinery is being built by the Richmond locomotive and machine works, of Richmond, Va., but will be placed on board the Texas at the Norfolk navyyard. The construction of the Texas was authorized by an act of congress, approved August 3, 1886, and in the spring of 1887 the board of naval experts unanimously declared that the best design was that submitted by William John, an English naval architect of the highest reputation who has recently died. The Texas is the first battleship of the new navy. A single shot can totally disable a cruiser, but the armored battle ship has much greater endurance and can take the risk of receiving the fire of heavy guns, knowing that the vitals of the ship are protected by armor.

A JELLY PALACE.

California Women Contemplate a Unique Exhibit at Chicago.

The women of California are going to build a jelly palace at the world's fair—not a shivering, unsteady structure like a new custard pie, but a solid building, with sides of glasses full of jelly. These glasses will be transparent and of rainbow hues. The building will be 31 feet high, surmounted by a glass ball, 2 feet in diameter, full of jelly. The four arched entrances will form a shrine twelve feet square. The frame of the structure will be the lightest possible steel. It will carry plate glass shelves its entire height. On these shelves the bottles containing jelly of every color will be arranged. Some of them will be set upright and others horizontally, according to the effects to be produced. In the decoration of this novel palace 2,644 glasses, two and one-half inches in diameter, will be used; 966 four inches in diameter, and 1,048 of assorted sizes, making a total of 4,688.

The women estimate that this palace will cost $2,400, of which $1,000 will be for the steel frame. It was designed by Architect A. Page Brown.

He Laughed Once Only.

"I suppose you haven't forgotten that it is leap year," he said, as he took a seat beside her, "and so I must be careful not to lead the conversation in a dangerous direction," and he laughed.

"I had quite forgotten it," she said, with a yawn; "what's the use of remembering it when you never meet a man who is worth proposing to?"

This time he didn't laugh.—N. Y. Press.

A Leading Question.

Deep in logic I've dug,
But my head's in a whirl.
Did the girl lead the pug?
Did the pug lead the girl?

BUSINESS COLLEGE
—AND—
SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,
4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.
WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.
This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

SOLDIERS AWE THE MOB

Bloodshed Narrowly Averted at Duquesne.

MECHANICS KEPT OUT OF THE MILLS

A Foreman Knocked Down a Ravine—Several Hurt on Both Sides—The Duquesne Strikers Lose Their Cause—Potter and the Pinkertons Released.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 5.—Clubs and stones took the place of moral suasion in the strike at Duquesne yesterday, and not until the military was called upon was anything like order restored. The trouble began shortly after 7 o'clock, when 30 men employed in the mechanical department put in an appearance. These men were among those who the day previous signed an agreement to return to work at the company's terms.

Superintendent Morrison informed them when the agreement was signed that no attempt would be made to start the mill until next Monday. He then ordered Foreman William Milslagle to put 30 men to work making repairs. The men selected for the work were promptly on hand at 7 o'clock, but they did not go to work.

Near the entrance to the mill they were met by a crowd of nearly 300 Duquesne and Homestead strikers, the latter having gone from this place during the night. Twelve deputy sheriffs endeavored to keep the mob back in order that the thirty mechanics might pass into the works, but they were soon overpowered and compelled to retreat.

In the struggle, some of the deputies had their maces taken from them. Seeing that to further resist the mob would result in bloodshed, the little band of workmen retreated in good order. This victory encouraged the strikers, and when Foreman Milslagle came upon the scene a few minutes later and attempted to reach the mill gate, he found himself surrounded by a howling, lawless mob, but the foreman, with club in hand, defied the strikers.

Near the gate he found himself confronted by a dozen men. They told him that if he did not turn back he would be killed. Half a dozen deputies then ran to his rescue. They begged of Milslagle to return to his home.

Reluctantly he consented and started for his residence, which stands on the edge of the hill back of the works. He was followed by three men, one of them a Homestead steel worker. When he reached a narrow pathway, running along the edge of a deep ravine, the Homesteader ran up behind him and dealt him a terrible blow on the back of the head. Milslagle was rendered unconscious and rolled to the bottom of the ravine.

He was picked up by friends and taken to his home, where he soon recovered. The assault was witnessed by the mob of strikers, who cheered when they saw Milslagle knocked down. The strikers then caught sight of Boss Carpenter Hugh Boyce hastening toward the mill gate. With a wild yell they started for him with upraised clubs. But the deputy sheriffs promptly executed a flank movement, surrounded Boyce and succeeded in getting him in the mill uninjured.

The crowd surged about the gate, which they threatened to break down if Boyce was not brought out. Before they could carry out their threat the strikers caught sight of several companies of militia swooping down upon them in double quick time. The sight of the bluecoats and the glistening bayonets caused the mob to scatter in all directions.

In a few minutes the entire 16th Regiment, under command of Col. Hulings, was in possession of the place, having reached Duquesne on a special train a few minutes after Gen. Wiley had been apprised of the serious situation of affairs. Col. Hulings ordered the captains of the respective companies to place men on all streets leading to the mill, with orders to allow no one to pass without written orders.

Details were also sent to Oliver and Cochran stations, while a full company took possession of the road in front of the works. Finding themselves at bay, the strikers gathered on the hill above the town, where they contented themselves with hurling imprecations on the heads of those below.

Sheriff McCleary will endeavor to double the number of deputies in Duquesne. Direct telegraphic communication will also be established between that point and Gen. Wiley's headquarters in Homestead.

Carnegie's employes have lost the strike in Duquesne, as 410 of the men have signed agreements to return to work next Monday. Fully half this number are Amalgamated men, who in order not to lose their places have deserted the organization.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

Potter, Dovey and McConnell in Court—Opinions of the Officers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—Supt. Potter and his two assistants, James Dovey and Nevin McConnell, were released on $10,000 bail each in a brief hearing before Judge Ewing, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Potter surrendered himself to the court the moment it was opened. He entered accompanied by his attorneys Knox and Reed and safely passed constables waiting for him at the door. Mr. Potter spent the night pleasantly with friends in the East End.

Alderman King lugged his docket into the court on the order of Judge Ewing, and Mr. Potter waived a hearing. McConnell and Dovey were brought from the jail, and the three were placed in the prisoners' box, viewed by nearly 500 persons, many of whom were workmen.

On the formal application for bail District-Attorney Burleigh addressed the Court:

"I am requested to say, your Honor, that the prosecution will make no attempt to prevent the release on bail of these men."

"I am satisfied," the court replied.

Messrs. A. W. and H. B. Mellon, bankers, signed the bonds. Judge Ewing at first objected to these men signing all the bonds, but he said he would accept their personal bond for forty times the amount without hesitation.

The officials are taking the matter of their position as defendants on the charges of murder very coolly.

Concerning the action, Mr. Lovejoy said: "The company has not and will not disturb itself over these suits. We agree with Judge Ewing that there is very little standing for the plaintiffs in this case.

"When it is alleged we are unreasonable in our refusal to arbitrate with the workmen, it must be remembered that they have conceded us everything, except the right to make individual contracts. One of our reasons for preferring to make contracts with each man, rather than with an irresponsible committee, is that it is a matter of protection to ourselves. We think it is our right to make our contracts in our own way. The bringing of these suits will not change our policy in the least. Our course is fixed and unalterable."

The Carnegie Company officials plainly indicate that they consider their arrest as the consummation of a threat that they would be arrested unless they agreed to arbitrate.

"I think it a joke," laughingly remarked a prominent iron manufacturer, "and a move out of which the Homestead men will reap absolutely no benefit whatever. It will help their own cause in no way and the trend of affairs, which is far more to them than murder trials at present, will not be changed."

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mr. John E. Milholland, on being asked last night if it were true that Hugh O'Donnell leader of the Homestead strikers was staying at his house, said: "The story is a romance. If O'Donnell is in this city I do not know anything about it."

ENGLAND'S NEW PARLIAMENT.

Peel Elected Speaker of the House of Commons—Adjournment.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The new Parliament met yesterday. Although the hour for formal opening was 2 o'clock p. m., groups of spectators assembled about the Palace of Westminster as early as 7 o'clock in the morning.

A crowd at Carlton Terrace watched Mr. Gladstone start for the House of Commons and greeted his appearance with roars of applause. Mr. Gladstone looked much better than was expected and bore himself steadily and firmly.

When Mr. Balfour, the government leader, made his appearance, he received an ovation. John Burns, the labor leader, had a mingled reception of cheers and groans.

At the appointed hour the House of Commons, in accord with the due and ancient form, was summoned to the House of Lords to listen to the royal commission summoning Parliament to meet.

The rush to the upper House was not so dense or disorderly as some times in the past, and the Commons seemed very glad when the antique ceremony was over.

After the return to the House of Commons Sir Matthew White Ridley, Conservative, of Blackpool, moved the election of the Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel as Speaker. Mr. Gladstone seconded the motion in a cordial tone, speaking of Mr. Peel as his life-long friend. The motion was carried without opposition, and the House of Commons then adjourned.

THE CASE OF CONSUL RYDER.

Reported That the Charges Against Him Are Greatly Exaggerated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—It is learned at the Department of State that the telegrams from Europe in connection with the arrest of Consul Ryder at Copenhagen are incorrect.

The American Minister, Mr. Carr, has never reported to the Department that Mr. Ryder was guilty of the charge, nor has he ever recommended his recall.

The charges against Mr. Ryder have been greatly exaggerated in the European press, and some of them are known to be unfounded. He has been for many years in the consular service of the United States; was a gallant soldier, and is now suffering from a wound received in the civil war.

While the Department did not feel warranted in withdrawing him from his post under the circumstances, or evading the results of a legal investigation, his past record called for a suspension of public judgment till the pending trial was concluded.

AN UNRULY HORSE'S WORK.

One Woman Killed and Another Fatally Hurt at Englewood, N. J.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 5.—Two elderly ladies, Mrs. Col. Weld and Mrs. Vaux, of Closter, N. J., met with a terrible accident while out riding last evening. They had been visiting a friend at Alpine and were returning home, when the horse became unmanageable and dashed down a steep hill, the occupants of the carriage screaming frantically for help.

Turning the corner of the road leading to Mrs. Weld's house the carriage struck against a post and was overturned. Both ladies were thrown out and struck upon their heads.

Mrs. Weld was instantly killed, her neck being broken. Mrs. Vaux was so badly injured that it is thought she will die. She has not recovered consciousness, and the doctors fear concussion of the brain.

The Reading to Take Possession.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—It is announced that the Reading Railroad Company will formally take possession of the Buffalo extension of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. For a long time the Lehigh Valley Company has been using the tracks of the Erie road to Buffalo, it paying a large sum of money each year for the privilege. The contract expired last May, but owing to some difficulty the Reading Company did not operate the new road, but instead made a monthly traffic contract with the Erie Company.

People's Party in New Hampshire.

GOT AWAY WITH $15,000.

The Sheriff and Posse Pursuing the Dynamiting Train Robbers.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 5.—It is believed that the band of masked robbers who held up the south bound passenger train near Collis yesterday secured about $15,000.

The robbers compelled the engineer and fireman of the engine to leave their places on the engine and then went to the express car and asked the messenger to open the door of the car.

The messenger refused and the robbers commenced firing dynamite bombs at the door, finally breaking it in.

They then broke open the safe and took out all the money there was in it. The amount of money the robbers got is not known.

The express messenger had several ribs broken by the explosion of the bombs, and the engine was badly disabled. The robbers then escaped.

The robbers were not engaged in their work for more than 15 minutes. Only three were seen, although more may have been engaged in the work. The conclusion that followed the explosion of the giant powder broke the two front windows in the day coach into particles, and many of the passengers thought they were shot.

A brakeman who stuck his head out from one of the platforms when the train came to a stop had a narrow escape, as his cap was grazed by a rifle bullet. The place selected for the robbery was the most favorable for the enactment of such a crime, as there there is no house near or telegraph office between Collis and this place.

As soon as the news of the robbery reached here, Sheriff Hensley, Deputy McArdle and Constable Ashman, with a posse, left for the scene. The robbers, however, have a start of at least two hours over the officers, and their capture within the next day or two is a matter of doubt.

SHE TRIED TO BLOW UP THE HOUSE.

A Chicago Woman's Desperate Attempt to Kill a Broker.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The police are searching everywhere for the woman who on Wednesday night made an attempt to blow up the residence of C. D. Irwin, the wealthy Board of Trade operator on Calumet avenue.

The attempt was made a few minutes after 9 o'clock, and would probably have been successful had not persons passing by frightened the woman, who left a large car. half filled with very high explosive, and ran toward the lake.

The can was discovered a few minutes later, but the finders were afraid to touch it and called Mr. Irwin out. He picked up the can, and on examining its contents, discovered that it was more than half filled with giant powder. In all there was about ten pounds of the deadly explosive, the amount being sufficient, if exploded, to have blown the building to atoms and to have set fire to the debris.

Mr. Irwin says; "I have not the slightest idea who the woman is and cannot imagine why anybody should cherish any ill feelings against me. My firm has no dealing with women, so, whatever motive the woman had it could not be one of revenge for unfortunate investments. I cannot believe that the woman is anything but a crank."

The can and its contents are in possession of the police.

STEVENSON IN LOUISVILLE.

He Speaks at the Dedication of the Watterson Club House.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5.—The opening and dedication of the new Watterson Club house drew together all the leaders of the Democratic party in the State. The Governor and his staff came down from Frankfort, and the Legislature was left without a quorum.

The chief feature of the occasion was the presence of the Hon. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, who came at the invitation of the Watterson Club, and spoke both to a great concourse of people at the Liederkranz Hall and to a smaller gathering at the Watterson Club house, where he was given a reception, and where Mr. Watterson, in spite of his recent severe illness, of which he showed decided traces, also spoke.

Flags and bunting were everywhere. The Watterson Club house was gorgeous with decorations by day and ablaze with illuminations by night. Hon. John Young Brown, Governor of Kentucky, presided over the great mass meeting and introduced Gen. Stevenson to the audience. After the adjournment of the mass meeting Gen. Stevenson gave a public reception.

Wants $15,000 for Libel.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Chief Engineer Cowing of the State prison has brought suit against the Boston "Herald" to recover $15,000 for an alleged libel contained in an article published in the "Herald" Aug. 2. These articles state that Cowing was on intimate terms with certain prisoners; that he allowed them to receive dainties from outside, and after talking with the warden had repeated what the latter said to the prisoners. The article also charges the engineer with neglecting his duties.

Father and Son Drowned.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Charles Stockin and his son, Charles, jr., were drowned last evening in the Niagara river at the foot of Porter avenue. They were fishing off the breakwater when the boy slipped and fell into the water. The father, who held the local championship swimming medal, plunged in after his son, but being handicapped with his clothing and a swift current was unable to reach the boy or return to the shore.

Europeans Leaving Tangier.

TANGIER, Aug. 5.—Reinforcements are arriving for the troops of the Sultan, to enable them to renew hostilities with the rebellious Angherites. The war has caused so much injury to business that many Europeans are leaving Tangier.

MR. HARRISON ASKS IT

Congress Requested to Close Up Business.

HIS WIFE'S ILLNESS THE REASON

An Adjournment To-Night or To-Morrow Probable—A Vote on the World's Fair Bill Is Expected To-Day—Sundry Civil Appropriations Again Extended.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—In deference to the urgent request of President Harrison, Congress will adjourn either late to-night or early to-morrow morning. The President made known his desire for an immediate adjournment to Speaker Crisp in an interview at the White House yesterday, basing the request upon the condition of Mrs. Harrison's health, which makes it necessary for her husband to join her without delay.

It is unusual for the President to make any suggestions concerning an adjournment to the leaders of the House, especially when that body is of the opposite political faith to his own, but in this case there has been no thought of precedent.

For a week past the President has communicated daily with Speaker Crisp, inquiring anxiously concerning the prospects of adjournment. Each day he has sent a telegram to Mrs. Harrison at Loon Lake giving, as nearly as it could be approximated, the date of his departure from Washington. As the President's arrival has been postponed from day to day the strain on Mrs. Harrison's nerves has increased until the most serious results are feared from her present exhausted condition.

In his interview with the Speaker the President offered to spend Friday night at the Capitol if necessary in order that business might be despatched and an early adjournment effected.

The President has also appealed to the Senate, and it is believed to be owing to his earnest request that the intimation has been given that the Durborrow bill will encounter no opposition when it reaches the Upper House.

In discussing the situation Speaker Crisp said this morning.

"I do not see why we cannot get away late to-night. The Durborrow bill will be passed and sent to the Senate before 2 o'clock, and the conference report on the Sundry Civil bill will not occupy us more than an hour or two."

THE STRUGGLE IN THE HOUSE.

Believed That It Is Practically Over—Decisive Vote Probable To-Day.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The storm clouds which have hovered over the House for nearly two weeks have lifted and there is sunlight ahead. Unless something unforseen happens, there is every reason to believe that the fight over the World's Fair item has ended, the Sundry Civil bill will pass, also a separate bill making an appropriation (as a gift) of $2,600,000 for the Fair, and that Congress will adjourn in a few days.

When the House assembled Mr. Catchings, (Dem., Miss.,) from the committee on rules reported a resolution making the day suspension day, which was adopted.

Mr. Holman then submitted a resolution extending the appropriations under the Sundry Civil bill until August 10, which was agreed to.

Mr. Holman offered a resolution that the House should reconsider the vote by which it decided to recede from its disagreement to the Senate amendments in the Sundry Civil bill; insist upon a further disagreement and send it to conference again. He moved its passage.

This proposition was debated by Mr. Bingham (Rep., Pa.) who said that personally he had no information about the action of the Advisory Committee, except that obtained from the public press. There was an agreement on the Republican side of the House that the appropriations should be extended for six days. All preliminary proceedings had been concurred in by the Republicans in order that the Sundry Civil bill should go to conference. He thought the House was entitled to some explanation of the agreement and the plan proposed.

Mr. Reilly (Dem., Pa.) read the proposition and said that in the interest of public business the Advisory Committee had submitted the agreement as the best solution possible under the circumstances. He hoped there would be no obstruction to the proposition, and said that if there was he had no doubt that the necessary cloture rule could be obtained from the Committee on Rules to compel a vote. There had not been a dissenting voice in the caucus of 120 Democratic members.

Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) said that the terms of the agreement were well understood, and that no one had a right to speak for the Committee on Rules. Future action could not be discounted.

Mr. Dingley (Rep., Me.) then desired to know how a vote was to be had, and Mr. Bockery (Dem., Mo.), sotto voce, said they could cross that bridge when they came to it.

Mr. Henderson (Rep., Ill.) could see nothing ahead but a trap. It reminded him of the spider and the fly.

Mr. Reilly (Dem., Pa.) then offered a resolution and asked its passage, that the House should consider the substitute for the Durborrow bill appropriating $2,5000,000 at once and to vote upon it to-day at one o'clock, no intervening motion to be entertained until the bill shall have been finally disposed of. After heated debate the resolution passed by a vote of 187 to 7.

The Stallion Allerton's Injuries.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 5.—The great stallion Allerton, who finished very lame in the third heat of his trial with Delmarch, is so seriously injured that he will be laid up for the balance of the season. His owner, C. W. Williams, of Independence, will lose $100,000 as a result.

A Missing Cashier Arrested.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Frank Middleberg, cashier for DeBois & Ballut, importers, who was reported missing and short in his accounts, was arrested yesterday afternoon in a pool room. He confessed to stealing $1,500, which he says he sunk in pool rooms.

Capt. Hines Very Low.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.—Capt. Hines, leader of the Pinkertons, who was shot July 6 at Homestead and has since been in the Homeopathic Hospital is in a serious condition, and it is thought can survive but a short time longer.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Arthur O'Leary, general agent of Lindsay, Ont., is missing. His defalcation is estimated at $60,000.

—It is announced that John Morley has agreed to take the Chief Secretaryship for Ireland in Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet.

—It is reported that a new play by Sir Edwin Arnold, called "Adzuma, or the Japanese Wife," has been brought to San Francisco for production at the World's Fair.

—William B. Robins, attorney and conveyancer of Philadelphia, has disappeared, and it is alleged that the discrepancies in which he is involved aggregate about $150,000.

—The Russian authorities have ordered that a person who dies from cholera shall not be buried for 24 hours, in order to prove groundless the popular belief that many are buried alive.

—The Pope is reported to have said that he regretted that the priests of Alsace were urging the faithful to forget their native country, and declared that he himself felt a deep affection for France.

—The heirs of the late Samuel J. Tilden have paid into the New York State Treasury the sum of $147,982, being the total amount of taxes under the Collateral Inheritance law which was imposed on the Tilden estate.

THE SCRUTINY OF MARS.

Nothing Startling, So Far, Added to Our Knowledge of the Planet.

VIENNA, Aug. 5.—Assistant Astronomer Hildebrand says that careful observations of the planet Mars were made from the night of July 30 to that of August 2, inclusive, by Herr Palisa, the chief assistant astronomer, and himself.

Owing to the proximity of the planet to the southern horizon, however, the result of the observations was unsatisfactory. The progress of the planet was watched for an hour.

At a point 52 degrees above the horizon snow fields could be seen distinctly extending 90 degrees from Mars' south pole. Immediately under this patch three large, dark groups were observable.

"Perhaps," the astronomer added, "they are continents like those of our earth. The haze which enveloped the lower part of Mars, however, rendered accurate observation impossible. The north pole and the equator were completely obscured."

Destructive Hail Storm.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 5.—The hail storm of Wednesday evening was the worst that ever occurred in this section. The amount of the damage done in the city from window lights broken is estimated at from $5,000 to $7,000. After the hail came a terrific wind storm which leveled hundreds of shade trees in the city. In the country the damage was almost complete to the wheat crops that had remained standing. Some estimate the loss to crops and fruit at $50,000.

Garza's Capture Expected.

RIO GRANDE CITY, TEX., Aug. 5.—If the plans of United States Marshal Paul Fricke and his large posse of deputies do not fail, Catarino Garza, the notorious Mexican revolutionary leader will be in the hands of the law within the next two days. Garza is believed to be corralled on the ranch of Cecilio Salinas, a revolutionist now out on bond, northwest of here.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 5.—For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey: Generally fair; slightly cooler, southwesterly winds.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Generally fair weather, preceded by showers; cooler; southwesterly winds.

For New England: Generally fair; slightly cooler, southwesterly winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Get your seats now for "Hands Across the Sea".

—A special sale of broken candy takes place to-morrow at Pier's.

—It looks now as if the Crescent League had gotten rid of "Gentle Willie" Murphy forever.

—You save money by buying your groceries at the store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association.

—Don't forget that the street cars will be running to and from Music Hall, every evening there is a show there hereafter.

—Here's a confession from the enemy. The Somerville Unionist-Gazette says: "Plainfield never lost a game to Somerville yet, unless they were robbed and they never will".

—You'll have a most enjoyable time if you go to the lawn festival at the home of the Misses Wyckoff, 112 West Eighth street, this evening. The affair is for the benefit of the Trinity church debt fund.

—Allen is having special sale days now. Monday he will take 25 per cent off tin ware. Then he has Mason preserve jars at 70 cents a dozen for quarts; sheet music at 5 cents; Royal tooth powder at 10, etc.

—The regular Christian Endeavor meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held this evening at 8. One or more reports of the recent convention may be expected, and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

—Constable Marsh of Westfield had a drunken woman to take to Elizabeth, the other day, who was so obstreperous that even after he had hand-cuffs and nippers on her, he had to tie her in a wagon and drive all the way.

—The National Democratic committee has rented the fine building at 139 Fifth avenue, New York, for its headquarters. Chairman Harrity has completed the organization of the sub-committees. The Hon. Miles Ross, of the Third Congressional district, represents New Jersey on the Executive committee.

—The new town of Garwood, first told of in THE PRESS, already has a population of 130. They are employes of Doud & Rice, the big contractors of this city. The first building erected in Garwood is a boarding house for the accommodation of these men. They are expected to vote in the fall for Gov. John Kean, jr.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. E. Faber has returned from Warnersville, Pa.

The Rev. Dr. Mitchell is at The Portland, Asbury Park.

Mrs. William E. Lowe and family are at White Face Inn, Lake Placid.

Miss Frances Wilson, of Gloversville, is visiting Miss Force of Duer street.

Daniel I. Smalley is no better this morning and there is doubt of his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Vanderbeek started to-day for a three weeks' visit to Denver.

Ex-councilman and Mrs. F. S. Slater and family left town to-day for Moscow, Pa.

Mrs. Warren Ackerman of Scotch Plains will sail for Europe, Saturday, Aug. 13.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, of Sycamore avenue, returned to-day from the Pocono Mountains.

The wedding of Miss Emma R. Lees to George B. Naylor, both of Plainfield, took place at the parsonage of the Rev. J. H. Parks at Scotch Plains last evening.

A grand progressive euchre party will be given at Hotel Netherwood this evening. The favors will be magnificent, and a rare evening's enjoyment is anticipated.

The wedding of Miss Sarah E. Marlor to John Ogden, both of England, took place at Grace church yesterday afternoon at 4, the Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman officiating.

Otto Arens who removed with his family to Germany, some time ago, will return to Plainfield in a few weeks, probably permanently. He will reside at The Albion.

Charles Arnold of Liberty street has gone to California on a prospecting trip and expects to settle in business there. He is said to have inherited considerable money recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson have closed their home on Crescent avenue, and with their servants have gone to Thousand Islands where Mr. Jackson has recently built a summer cottage.

James E. Martine, of this city, addressed a large gathering at a Democratic ratification meeting in Somerville, last evening. Prosecutor Steele presided. There was great enthusiasm.

The Courier of July 29 said: "Howard Turrill, of Grove street, will sail for Europe to-morrow, to be gone for six weeks. Mr. Turrill is still in Plainfield. He does not sail until to-morrow, Aug. 6.

Charles C. Dunham, who has for a long time been the painstaking and efficient operator at the Postal Telegraph office in this city, was summoned to Clinton a week ago by the alarming illness of his mother, who continued to grow worse until Wednesday, when she died. Mr. Dunham has the warm sympathy of his many Plainfield friends.

FRANK CALLAHAN'S DEATH.

His Mutilated Body Found Beside the Jersey Central Tracks.

Just how Frank Callahan met his death is not known, beyond the fact that he was killed by the cars at the Broadway bridge. His mangled body was found at 10:45 last night, by the crew of Locomotive No. 111, lying alongside the great iron girders of the bridge, and as he had been seen on the street less than an hour before, the accident must have happened after 10 o'clock.

It is presumed that Callahan had been sitting on one of the girders and had fallen to sleep and been caught by a west-bound Blue Line flyer, or had fallen from some freight train, which he was in the habit of boarding while moving.

When the body was found, the right foot was cut off, and the head was slightly bruised, but no other injuries were visible.

The corpse was removed to Casey's morgue, and this morning county physician Westcott viewed the remains and and issued a burial permit. The body was then removed to the home of the young man's parents on East Third street.

Callahan had formerly been a telegraph operator in the Western Union office. Of late he had had no regular employment, and had expressed himself as heartsick and tired of idleness, and was anxious to seek new fortunes in the West.

BAD WRECK AT GREENBROOK.

All Traffic on the Central Blocked for Hours.

A bad tangle of Jersey Central railroad affairs was caused by a wreck at the Greenbrook tanks late last night. A coal train parted, and when the two sections came together again several cars were smashed. Then a second coal train ploughed into the wreck, and in consequence all tracks were blockaded for hours. Trains were stalled all along the line, and passenger trains used the Lehigh Valley tracks between Bound Brook and Roselle, while local passengers between those points on the Jersey Central were forced to use improvised makeshift trains. The wreck was cleared away towards morning by large gangs of men. No one was seriously hurt.

Elizabeth and Westfield Join Hands With Somerville Against Plainfield.

The outcome of the meeting of the Central Base-Ball League managers in Elizabeth the other evening proved very satisfactory to the Somerville people. While the proceedings were secret and no information could be had as to what took place, still THE PRESS is informed that Plainfield's protests resulted in nothing. It is said that Elizabeth and Westfield voted with Somerville, thus defeating any possibility of justice for Plainfield. Another result of the meeting is that managers Reed and Mack don't speak. What the object of secrecy could have been no one knows. The representatives of the different clubs present were Messrs. Reed and Keller of Plainfield, Arkell and Codling of Westfield, Whelan and McCloud of Elizabeth, and Mack and Parmales of Somerville.

NEW FIRE SIGNALS.

Each Company Assigned to Its Especia Territory.

The following order has been issued by the board of engineers of the Plainfield fire department:

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ENGINEER,
FIRE DEPARTMENT,
CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
August 4, 1892.

General Order No. 2.

The engine, hose, and hook and ladder companies will, on and after August 6, at 12 o'clock m., and until further orders, answer all alarms as follows:

Engine company No. 1, Hook and Ladder No. 1, Alert Hose company No. 1, boxes 12, 13, 15, 16, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28 and 41.

Engine company No. 2, Hook and Ladder No. 1, Alert Hose company No. 1, boxes 12, 13, 32, 34, 37, 41, 42, 43, 45 and 47.

Companies not answering first alarms will hold themselves in readiness to respond to second alarms, which will be given by sending in one or more rounds of the box the second time. Engine companies not answering first alarm shall cover all ground left vacant by companies answering first alarm. This order does not change special signals.

By order of the Board of Engineers,
T. O. DOANE, Chief.

Juvenile Base-Ball.

The Arlingtons of this city played the Giants of North Plainfield Thursday morning and defeated them by the score of 13 to 7. It was a very interesting game all the way through. The Arlingtons scored three runs in the first inning, while the Giants were blanked. In the first inning, after a man had made a three-base hit, the Arlingtons' pitcher struck out three men in succession. The features of the game were the pitching of Van Horn for the Arlingtons, who struck out 12, and the pitching of Farley for the Giants, who struck out 7 men, and the catching of C. Sutphen for the Arlingtons. Following is the score by innings:

Arlingtons..	3	0	1	0	1	0	4	4	*	—13
Giants.....	0	1	0	2	1	1	0	1	1	—7

Base hits—Giants, 7; Arlingtons, 8. Base on balls—By Farley, 6; by Van Horn 3. Struck out—By Farley, 7; by Van Horn, 12.

Batteries—Giants—Farley and McLaughlin; Arlingtons—VanHorn and C. Sutphen. Umpires—J. Burke and E. Lynch.

It Will Be Plainfield Against Staten Island, To-morrow.

The members of the Plainfield Cricket club know of no reason for the claim of the N. J. A. C., team that there was an error in the score by which the former won the game at Bergen Point, Saturday. J. P. Thompson of the Plainfield club, who is acting in the absence in Europe of secretary J. S. Higham, told a PRESS reporter that there is no question about the score being correct as published in these columns, and as agreed upon by the scorers of both sides after the game.

The Plainfield club has received a very pleasant letter of congratulation upon their victory, from the Staten Island Athletic club. The latter will send their strongest team to Plainfield to-morrow to win the game that is to take place here.

FRICK AGAIN AT HIS DESK.

PITTSBURGH, August 5.—H. C. Frick, manager of the Carnegie Steel company, reached his office at 10:30 this morning, and at once began work at his official duties.

WHAT THE CAMPERS ARE DOING.

Holy Cross Choir Boys Having a Jolly Time.

CAMP TOWNSEND,
MERWIN'S POINT, CONN., Aug. 4.

Yesterday began the day with a light storm, clearing about 10. Visitors to the camp are very much impressed with the order of the boys and the condition of the whole camp. THE DAILY PRESS from home is enjoyed by all, and we are all anxious to see it first. Tuesday, Will Tallamy was "officer of the day"; Wednesday, Mr. Cooley; and to-day Mr. Mackey. Will Tallamy, Betram Tallamy and Ed. Smith returned to camp at this writing with a bag full of soft-shell crabs, which will please the boys at dinner time. Fred Tallamy was made very happy yesterday by catching a large black fish which weighed two and one-half pounds. Mr. Miner leaves town to-morrow for Naugatuck, to be present at the opening service of St. Michael's new vested choir, which has been in training since April. Master Schutt will sing next Sunday at Naugatuck the solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth", from "The Messiah".

ACCUSED OF THEFT.

A Young Women Loses $100 in the Post-Office, and Has a Young Man Arrested on Suspicion.

Maggie Wierenga came to town this morning and drew $100 out of the bank for her employer, William P. Smith, the New York broker, of Belvidere avenue. She went into the post-office, and laid the money down with some packages on the desk in the corridor, while she stepped over to the stamp window to buy some stamps. When she returned for her parcels, the money was gone. She ran after Wm. Douglass, who had just gone out, and who she claims had been the only one besides her in the office, and accused him of having taken the money. He regarded the accusation as an insult, and gave her his name and references. She swore out a warrant before justice Nash against him, and J. H. McVey furnished bail in the sum of $150. A hearing will be given Aug 9 at 2 p. m. Judge Codington is Douglass's counsel, and is confident of the accused man's innocence.

BUNCOED.

Sad Experience of a Sharp Young Plainfield Man.

A prominent young professional man of Plainfield had an experience with confidence men last Saturday afternoon that cost him $250 in cold cash. The smooth-tongued fellows worked a slick game that would have deceived many a sharp chap, and while the Plainfielder thought he was transacting a legitimate business transaction his money slipped through his fingers into the sharpers' pockets; and not until after the swindlers had gone did the victim realize the delusion. He is sadder and wiser now.

Preparing for a Fine Time.

The social committee in charge of the Christian Endeavor excursion to Poughkeepsie next Wednesday met at the residence of Mr. Hamilton, Dunellen, last night, and perfected plans for the excursion. W. C. Dobbins was chairman, and the others on the committee were: Dunellen Presbyterian—Mrs. Abbott, Miss Boice, W. H. Terry. New Market Baptist—H. Gaskell, Miss Coriell, Miss Moore, Warren Mission—Miss M. Shepard, Miss Rutledge. Seventh-Day Baptist—Henry Boice, Miss Davis, C. Byno.

BY THE WAY.

—Judge Codington imposed three fines this morning, amounting to $13

—Fourteen cars were filled by the excursionists from Plainfield to Asbury Park to-day.

—A great day is expected at the camp-meeting in Hyde's grove Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Harris will conduct the 3 o'clock meeting.

—The Staten Island Athletic club has an engagement at Plainfield to-morrow with the Plainfield Cricket club, and will be represented by a fairly strong eleven.

—Sherwin has got a lot of men's elastic-side, calfskin, hand-sewed welt shoes, the regular price of which is $3 50, that he is going to close out at $2 a pair. Go and see them at once before your size is picked up by someone else.

I have not used all of one bottle yet. I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the nauseating dropping in the throat peculiar to that disease, and nose bled almost daily. I tried various remedies without benefit until last April, when I seen Ely's Cream Balm advertised in the Boston Budget. I procured a bottle, and since the first day's use have had no more bleeding—the soreness is entirely gone.—D. G. Davidson, with the Boston Budget, formerly with Boston Journal.

All women who are overworked, "run-down," or debilitated, need just one medicine—and that is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a broad statement, but facts bear it out. These are the facts:

If you're a weak and delicate woman, then the "Favorite Prescription" builds you up; if you suffer from any of the painful disorders and derangements peculiar to your sex, it relieves and cures. It invigorates the system, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength. All the chronic weaknesses, irregularities, and disturbances known as "female complaints" are completely and permanently cured by it.

These are facts, and they're strong enough to warrant the makers in guaranteeing their remedy. If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms. That proves that nothing else can be "just as good."

IN HOT WEATHER,

When people grow irritable even to the point of breaking out with Prickly Heat, it is plain that something is needed to calm the nerves and tone the system. BEEF, WINE AND IRON WITH CELERY is just the thing—a harmless sedative and tonic. Moreover, if taken at bedtime it conduces to healthy, refreshing sleep. Originated and sold only at

Our Clothing will bear the closest inspection, and the conservative gentleman in the picture says he can find nothing wrong even in the buttonholes. They (the clothes) are all wool and as wide as you want them.

We have solved the problem of giving greater value for the money than any other clothing house in the state. Our method of doing this is simple enough when you master it, and consists in having cash with which to buy at the very lowest notch, the judgment to know a good thing when we see it and unequalled and extensive manufacturing facilities. Making our own stock at prices away below what our competitors have to pay, we are in a position to offer goods at prices they cannot meet.

BOUND BROOK SEES MARS.

Interesting Observations Concerning the Great War Star.

Wednesday evening, though the courtesy of Fred. N. Voorhees, a local astronomer of Bound Brook, a PRESS representative in company with a few others, was permitted to gaze for a few minutes at the planet Mars, which is now attracting attention from not only every astronomer of note but from every curious man, woman and child as well. The night was a most magnificent one, and but for the bright light of the full moon the atmospheric conditions were perfect. Mars as viewed by the naked eye has the appearance of a very bright light set rather low in the southeastern part of the starry firmament. The color is a deep red, and the planet is comonly called the bloody star or war planet. As viewed through the powerful glass, the planet looked fully as large as the moon, the edges being tinged with scarlet, and thence to the centre growing lighter in color. Markings were plainly distinguishable, but just what they were the glass did not bring out. Toward the lower edge of the luminous body a dark shadow gave one the idea that they were gazing at a high mountain, the shadow of which was being reflected on the plains beneath. The two moons of Mars were not seen, as they are so small that a twelve-inch glass is necessary to bring them within range of vision. If this small telescope brings forth such beauties, what wonders must the great glass of thirty-six inches in diameter at the Lick observatory on top of Mount Hamilton show to the sharp and practiced eyes of learned men! For the next two weeks with clear weather wonderful things may be seen by those searching the heavens.

A glance at the moon through Mr. Voorhees's glass showed the lunar body in all of her majesty. To describe it logically would be next to impossible to the uninformed mind, but its appearance to THE PRESS was that of a huge cake of ice dotted here and there with crevices and irregular lines, upon which the light of a huge arc lamp had been thrown. The dark markings known to astronomers as the mountains of the moon were plainly visible. The Bound Brook Chronicle of last week in commenting upon the visit of Mars said that "on Aug. 3 the planet Mars would approach within 17,500 miles of the earth, a thing which has never before happened since the universe began". The editor of the Chronicle is slightly off, as Mars's nearest approach to the earth is about 35,000,000 miles. Perhaps Mr. Mason had in mind the fact that the great Lick telescops would bring Mars within a gazing distance of 18,000 miles.

JERSEY'S MILK IS WATERED.

The Pump the Dairyman's Reliance in Hot Weather.

There has been so much complaint about the adulteration of milk throughout the State that State dairy commission McGuire has been obliged to secure additional deputies and begin an investigation. The continued warm weather has made milk scarce and the demand larger than ever. To be able to supply this demand the pump has been called into service.

Milk dealers have sent to the State dairy commissioner's agent requests for investigation. Many of them do not hesitate to say that the dairymen and the creameries are stretching out the supply with water. This is particularly the case in seashore towns and in the larger cities in Camden county.

It has been discovered that one dairyman has secured from a druggist a composition which is called oyone, which thickens adulterated milk and prevents it from getting sour for several days. Four deputies have been put to work looking up watered milk. None of this adulterated milk has been found in Plainfield.

Neither Does Mr. Dyer Feel Called Upon to Sacrifice His Property.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It having been published in your columns that no one is opposed to the extension of Duer street, that I had given my consent and that I was willing to sacrifice my home for the benefit of the public, I wish to say that I am decidedly opposed to such extension. I have never expressed a willingness to sacrifice my home for the benefit of the public. I make no claim to any such angelic qualifications. If the public foretibly take my home, they should be willing to make such remuneration that the sacrifice would be trifling. Whether they will willingly do that remains to be seen.

All Aboard for Rockaway.

Next week Saturday, Aug. 13, Watchung Lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists, will give an excursion to Rockaway Beach, for which purpose they have chartered the well-known steamer Grand Republic, and have made arrangements with the Jersey Central for cars enough to accommodate well all those that attend. The tickets are selling rapidly, and from the present prospects it will be the excursion of the season. Lodge No. 167, although only about sixteen months old, has now a membership of over ninety, and is rapidly growing. It is composed of the best machinists from Pond's, Potter's and Scott's shops, who enjoy benefits in connection with the lodge, which gives each member $5 a week in case of sickness. Every machinist in the city should not only attend this excursion, but should be enrolled among the members. Tickets may be obtained from members of the lodge and the committee.

CARBY KICKS.

The Dandy Player of Harlinsville Jumps on the Crescent League.

(Somerset Democrat.)

Editor of Somerset Democrat:—After reading the article published in the Plainfield Press of August 1st, I wondered how the public in Plainfield could be so easily hoodwinked as to believe that anybody could buy a game for the paltry sum of two dollars. They (the Plainfield public) cannot see that it is a cry raised by their own managers so that they can escape the criticisms and "roasting" which they and the team they manage would get from the members of the Crescent club who have to foot the $1,000 a month bill which is pretty near what it costs to run the team that was not going to lose a game in the League, but which has made a worse record against Somerville than any other team in former years.

The West End manager has never stooped to such a low trick as to hire away a player from the opposing team on the night previous to a game, which was done two years ago by the Plainfield management in taking O'Rourke from Somerville.

When we beat them the second game by 10 to 9 they raised the cry that we had paid "Gentle Willie" Murphy to sell the game and still they keep him on the team; now is not that consistent?

Two years ago they claim we paid Doran to lose the two games he pitched against us. I wonder what the future will bring out?

Another thing that I want to find out is how a town with the sporting blood which Plainfield has can support a newspaper that will come out and in a cry-baby style tell the public not to patronize the game at Somerville, because it only helps to support the West Ends. I wonder who it is that draws the crowds in Plainfield and helps to swell the depleted treasury of the Crescents?

I honestly think and a good many persons from Plainfield have said that the hair-brained reporter who wrote the article spoken of is not accountable for what he says.

A drowning man will grasp at straws
And base-ball critics scorn the laws
Of decent usage when they claim
A West End man would buy a game.

Yours truly,
I. L. CARBONELL.

New York, August 2, 1892.

Somerville's Bilious Attack.

(Harkinstown Democrat.)

The Plainfield papers act like a lot of school boys. The Press asks if Manager Mack's $2 which he paid the umpire did it, and the Courier has a great deal of nasty talk in regard to the game. The News evidently did n't know what to say, and so said very little. Why can't these people be honest, and give us the credit of winning a game? Of the three games, according to their story, we have not won one.

"It costs but little to go to Somerville and see a game when car fare can be had for nothing, and the fifty odd who went by coal train from this city saw the best game of their lives for the modest sum of twenty-five cents." So says the Plainfield Press. We had a better opinion of the followers of the Cresecents. But if the Press says so, it must be so—they are a set of coal train jumpers, and it is to be expected that they will stoop to any meanness.

A Plainfielder standing on the station platform after the game, said that the West Ends always had a more gentlemanly set of players and followers than the Crescents. That is more apparent at each game. There are some gentlemen who are followers of the Crescents, but they are becoming fewer and fewer. They say they like to see an honest game, well played, but can't stand the tactics of the Crescents.

Dishonorable Ball-Playing Acknowledged.

(Somerset Gazette.)

Keller went back to the bench mumbling to himself like a crazy man. The little sawed-off catcher vividly trembled with rage, while gentle Willie shook his fist in mute anger. This won the game and that is why Plainfield is dead sore at the present writing. And the biggest joke is yet to be told. When Jack Harkins came from second with the winning run he did not go within ten feet of the third bag, so anxious was he to win the game. Hopkins was watching the ball and did not see it, but the whole of Plainfield did hence their rage.

"Dirty Tricks", Says Somerville.

(From The Harkinstown Democrat.)

Talk of dirty ball playing, why that man Murphy, "Gentle Willie", is "in it" every time. The way he interfered with Murray shows he is equal to anything and is willing to play the dirtiest tricks to pleas the management.

To-morrow will be a great day in Plainfield. The West Ends will be there, and the Crescents will have blood in their eye. They will play to win, and put in all the dirty tricks possible, but the West Ends will come out ahead as usual.

Say Murphy Is Ruffianly.

(Somerville Unionist-Gazette.)

The Crescents talk about ruffianly ball playing, but nothing can be compared to the work of the man who made the only run for Plainfield by one of the dirtiest tricks ever perpetrated on a ball field. The Crescent city mob yelled with delight and the Somerville people did not hiss. Had one of our men done the same thing the Plainfield geese could have been heard a mile, but at such playing our people remain silent.

Somerville Says Sneeden's Afraid.

(Harkinstown Gazette.)

The whole amount of Sneeden's not wanting to pitch, is that he has a good reputation in Plainfield, and he does not want to spoil it by going against the West End men.

THE BORDEN MURDER

No Clue to the Slayers of the Aged Couple.

A BROTHER-IN-LAW SUSPECTED.

The Weapon With Which the Millionaire and His Wife Were Mutilated Cannot Be Found—Mr. Borden Was Seen Five Minutes Before the Crime.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 5.—There is absolutely no clue to the murderer or murderers of Andrew J. Borden and his wife, who were found dead in their home on Second street yesterday, both frightfully mutilated about the head and face.

No implements that could have been used in the commission of the crime have been found.

Mr. Borden lay on a sofa in a room on the top floor of the house. His head had been cut, and gashes from four to six inches long were found on his face and neck.

Mrs Borden was in her own chamber on the upper floor, and the condition of her face and head was the same as that of her husband. She lay face down in the bed, which was a veritable pool of blood. The police were notified, and immediately an investigation was begun.

The daughter of the unfortunate couple was the first to make the discovery. She went up stairs after finding the body of her father, and saw that of her mother. She thought her mother had fallen in a swoon, but finding that she, too, was murdered, the girl fled down stairs and fainted.

The police have searched in vain for any clue to the murderer. They spent yesterday afternoon searching for a Portuguese who runs the Borden farm at Gardiner's Neck, and who, it was said, was in the house at 10:45 a. m., a few minutes before the bodies were discovered.

To-day the police say there is nothing in the Portuguese story.

It is reported that word was sent to Mrs. Borden in the morning that a sick friend desired to see her, but she did not go out. It is said that the servant, Bridget Sullivan, says she went into the room to make some inquiry of Mr. Borden five minutes before Lizzie Borden gave the alarm. He was then sitting on the sofa reading a newspaper.

Mr. Borden was a wealthy real estate owner and mill man, and was soon on the street half an hour before he was found dead.

Although the police have no clue, yet their suspicions rest upon persons who were in the family circle, particularly John M. Morse, brother-in-law of Mr. Borden by his first marriage; also on the daughter Lizzie, who first discovered the body of the father. John M. Morse is 55 years of age and came here from Hastings, Ia., two years ago. He became very intimate with Mr. Borden and the latter's daughter, and spent a great portion of his time with them. He came from New Bedford at noon Wednesday and spent the night at the Borden Homestead. He left there yesterday morning at 9 o'clock and was next seen on the premises about 20 minutes after the bodies were discovered. The police say the only motive for murder was gain, else one of the victims might have been spared.

It has been decided to keep Morse under close surveillance until further developments. The murder has caused the greatest sensation here since the Granite mill fire.

THREE KILLED, MANY HURT.

A Strange Accident at St. Paul, Minn., that Did Great Damage.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 5.—Three people were killed and seven badly injured by a singular accident on the West Side at 10 p. m.

Those killed are Mrs. August Adams, Mrs. J. Horn, Wm. Krieger.

Those wounded fatally are Philip Stoehr and 5-year-old son, August Adams, Fred Krieger, Paul Keuk, Henry Ludwig, John Wilrich.

A torrent of water sweeping everything before it with resistless force poured over over the brow of the lower bluff and down upon the level of the Kansas City tracks. Four houses were carried away and five others dismantled and wrecked.

The accident was the result of the late cloud burst.

Upon the hillside, above Prague street, was a deep gully the natural outlet of the water from the country above.

A year ago Prague street had been filled up across this gully leaving a small culvert to carry off the ordinary water.

On Monday there appeared a crack on the lower side of the fill, but there was no thought of any immediate danger, and when the fill let go with a mighty rush and the great body of water swept down upon the lowland below, everybody was taken by surprise.

In ten minutes the whole thing was over and the work of rescue began.

Men, women and children were fished out of the debris and wreck, extending nearly half a mile.

It is possible that the extent of the loss of life may be increased as the work of recovery proceeds.

The Fatal Skipping Rope Again.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 5.—Allie Winterbottom, the 10-year-old daughter of Charles Winterbottom, a prominent citizen of Bridesburg, Pa., died under peculiar circumstances yesterday. The little girl was playing at jumping rope with some other children. She had been jumping for several minutes continuously when she fell dead. The physicians give "overexertion" as the cause of her death.

Want Blaine to Stump Maine.

GROWTH OF SALVATION WORK.

Prominent Plainfield People Join the Army Auxiliary.

A special meeting was held the Salvation Army hall last night. Ensign Edith Marshall, who has charge of the auxiliary department in New York city, was in command of the meeting. A large and sympathetic audience was present, and the service was one of interest and power. The testimonies were bright, and the hymns were sung heartily by the audience as well as those on the platform. Conviction was marked on many faces as ensign Marshall spoke and read the words "Render to God that which is God's", urging all present to do so. At the close one seeker came forward.

After the meeting, a new member was added to the auxiliary league of the Salvation Army. The league now has twenty-five members in Plainfield, many of whom are well-known leading people of the city. It is hoped that before long this number will be more than doubled. Persons of note are joining all over the United States and thus promising to use their influence and money in aid of the Salvation Army. Among these are Dr. Lyman Abbott, Prof. Briggs, Dr. DeCosta, Dr. Henry Wilson.

Weighed Tons, But Crushed No One.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., August 2, 1892.

AN ORDINANCE

To macadamize West Third street from the southwesterly side of Madison avenue to the northeasterly side of Plainfield avenue.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the owners and occupants of the lands, tenements and real estate fronting on or adjoining West Third street in the city of Plainfield from the southwesterly side of Madison avenue to the northeasterly side of Plainfield avenue be and they are hereby ordered and directed within thirty days from and after the date upon which this ordinance shall take effect, to macadamize said portion of West Third street in front of his, her, or their said property with crushed stone for a width of thirty feet, that is to say, for a width of fifteen feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of nine inches, and the Common Council do hereby appoint Robert A. Meeker, Street Commissioner of said city, as the person to superintend the said work and prescribe the manner in which the same shall be performed.

Section 2. That if any owner or owners shall refuse or neglect to comply with the first section of this ordinance within the time specified it shall be the duty of the Committee on Streets of the Common Council of the city of Plainfield and they are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for proposals for the performance of such work to the end that the Common Council may cause the same to be done under and in pursuance of the charter of the city and the general statutes in such case made and provided.

Section 3. That in case any of the said property owners shall fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance and it shall be necessary to make assessments, the commissioners to be appointed shall assess the costs and expenses of said macadamizing upon the land and real estate benefited in proportion to the benefits thereby received. And no lot or parcel shall be assessed more than it is benefited and in case the total cost and expense shall exceed the aggregate amount of assessable benefits, then only so much of such cost and expense as equals the aggregate amount of such benefit shall be so assessed and the remainder of such cost and expense shall be borne by the city at large and paid in the manner provided by law.

Fees—$6.30.

TWO MORE CANDIDATES.

The Leaders of the Prohibition and the People's Parties.

Interesting Career of Gen. John Bidwell, of California, the Cold-Water Nominee — The Eventful Life of Gen. James B. Weaver.

Gen. John Bidwell, prohibitionist candidate for president of the United States, is probably the most shining example of a thorough, though rather sudden, conversion on that subject to be found in the United States. Twenty-five years ago, in his place in congress, he advocated national measures to encourage the production of wine and grape brandy, and predicted that California would ere long enrich the nation as much by exports in that line as she had done in gold. He did much to fulfill his own prophecy, establishing one of the finest vineyards on the coast, but when converted to prohibition he had every vine torn up and the roots burned.

He has had a remarkable and varied career. Born August 5, 1819, in Chautauqua county, N. Y., and taken in early boyhood to Erie, Pa., he went thence to Ashtabula, O., for an education, and then taught school in Ohio and Missouri. In 1841 he was one of the famous pioneer band to California which has furnished so many materials to local historian and romancer. This was the first band of settlers to cross the plains, and was six months on the way from Missouri. All the rest has been told by the general himself in his admirable sketches in the Century Magazine.

He served in the war against Mexico, and was later a brigadier general in the state militia, was the trusted manager of Gen. Sutter, a member of the constitutional convention of 1849, an operator in gold mines and finally a member of congress from 1865 to 1867. He has also served in the state legislature and other local offices. Meanwhile he had secured a tract of some 22,000 acres at Chico, in Butte county, which he has made one of the finest places in the world. He has constructed twenty miles of elegant drives through this tract, which are open to the public six days in the week, but on Sunday the gates are closed.

He was a democrat till the civil war closed, then a republican till after Garfield was elected, and then became an advanced prohibitionist, casting his first vote of that sort for St. John in 1884. Not the least interesting fact about him is that, though nearly seventy-three years old, he has the air and bearing and apparently the vigor of a man of fifty. His wealth is great, and he is very popular with his neighbors of all ranks.

THE POPULITES' CANDIDATE.

Gen. James B. Weaver, presidential candidate of the people's party, otherwise known as the Farmers' Alliance, was born in Dayton, O., June 12, 1833, was graduated at the law school of the Ohio university at Cincinnati in 1854, enlisted as a private at the beginning of the war, and advanced in rank with a rapidity equaled in very few cases. He was elected first lieutenant of Company G of the Second Iowa infantry, attained the rank of major October 3, 1862, and as both his colonel and lieutenant were killed at the battle of Corinth he was made colonel. Finally he was brevetted brigadier general "for gallantry on the field, to date from March 13, 1863."

In 1866 he was elected district attorney of the Second judicial district of Iowa, and in 1867 was appointed assessor of internal revenue for the Fifth distrfict of the state, an office he held for six years. He then edited the Iowa Tribune, of Des Moines, and was elected as an independent republican to the Forty-sixth congress. Men of his way of thinking, however, were even then organizing a new party, and in 1880 he became the greenbackers' candidate for president. Excluding doubtful and fusion tickets he received 307,740 votes. He then resumed private life and professional duties for a time, but in 1884-'86 was reelected to congress.

No man in the Fiftieth congress was better informed on parliamentary rules, as he conclusively proved by holding the house in a deadlock for several days on a question regarding the Oklahoma reservation.

In 1888 he was again a candidate for congress, but was defeated by the republican aspirant.

The Effect of Temperature.

When the thermometer registers 100 degrees the cable which draws the cars on the East river bridge, New York, is seven feet six inches longer than when the thermometer is at zero. The same difference in temperature causes a difference of two feet and six inches in the length of each cable.

WANTS AN OFFICE.

Montana's Bright and Pretty Candidate for Attorney-General.

The spectacle of a female attorney general for a big state is among the possibilities in Montana. The people's party have nominated for that office Miss Ella L. Knowles, the only woman lawyer in the state. The older parties have not yet made their nominations for state officers. The constitution does not say that the attorney general, or any other officer, for that matter, shall not be a woman.

Miss Knowles, who is about twenty-eight years old, was born in Northwood, Rockingham county, N. H., and is the daughter of David Knowles and Louisa Knowles. Her father still resides in the old homestead in New Hampshire, in what is known as the Knowles district. Her mother died when Miss Knowles was 14 years of age. Miss Knowles graduated from the Northwood seminary at the age of 15, and one year later from the New Hampshire State Normal school. Afterwards she went to Bate's college, Lewiston, Me., from which she graduated in the class of '84 with high honors, receiving the degree of A. B. Four years later Bates college conferred on her the degree of A. M. In 1885 Miss Knowles commenced the study of law in the office of Burnham & Brown, Manchester, N. H. She prosecuted her studies there about a year, when, on account of ill-health, she came west and took the chair of elocution and Latin in Iowa college. Being advised by physicians to go among the mountains she went to Helena in the fall of 1887. She taught one year in the central school there and then resumed the study of law. There was considerable prejudice against allowing her to practice. So the little woman went to work among the members of the last territorial legislature, that of 1888-89, and had a bill introduced and passed to admit women to practice law. She was admitted to the bar December 1, 1890. Now she has a practice of which many men would be proud.

A BASEBALL DOG.

He Readily Understands What the Points of the Game Are.

Down on the bluffs at the foot of Nelson court, says the Quincy (Ill.) Herald, a number of boys congregate every evening to play one-old-cat, scrub and other limited variations of baseball, and among the players none is more earnest, skillful and enthusiastic than a Scotch terrier dog that belongs somewhere in the neighborhood. He is none of your aimless and playful puppies, running hither and thither after the ball, but a dog that knows what's what, and attends to a special line of business. His favorite position is behind the bat, and there he will crouch with eyes and ears forward, nerves at their highest tension and jaws wide open, looking for all the world like Mike Kelly, if he had another pair of legs. He will stop a hot ball, and the swinging of the bat never rattles him. He has his eyes on no one but the pitcher, and when the ball leaves his hand he knows it is his. When he catches it he lays it on the plate for some one to throw it back to the pitcher. The other evening while quite a crowd were watching he ran away off to one side and caught a foul on the fly that had sailed away up in the air. It was a play that would have been a credit to Anson himself. The crowd on the bluff above applauded vigorously and the dog wagged his tail in recognition.

He will never bother with a ball until it is back of the plate—in fact, does exactly what a $3,000 catcher does in some of the crack clubs. Almost every evening he goes down there and waits for the boys, and when they choose up sides he feels disappointed if he doesn't get a position. When he is not given a chance to be catcher, he will, if told to do so, stand immediately behind the catcher and make a perfect back stop. When he drops into position then he looks for all the world like an umpire, and is more intelligent than most of them, according to common report. He's a dog catcher, but not a dog-catcher. If baseball in Quincy goes to the dogs here is one recruit already.

So Young to Die.

A strange double suicide has just occurred at Stuttgart. A boy fifteen years old and a girl thirteen, belonging to respectable families, took it into their heads to fall in love. It didn't agree with them, so they drowned themselves.

UNIVERSAL TRUNK

It Can Be Used for Carrying Luggage by Land or Water.

This trunk, which has just been invented, does not differ in appearance from any other ordinary trunk. It is covered with good strong canvas, has an inside tray and is built within the dimensions prescribed by steamer regulation. The edges are made waterproof by an excellent layer of rubber filling. The top and bottom of the trunk have a round opening, which is closed by means of slides easily removed in time of danger. Otherwise the trunk is arranged in the usual way for holding the wardrobe and valuables of the tourist. In time of shipwreck it can in less than a minute be converted into an excellent lifeboat which braves even a heavy sea. In that case the trunk is opened, the inside tray removed and the contents which it is necessary to save squeezed into the side compartments of the trunk. A caoutchouc covering folded around the bottom ring is drawn up and pressed into the slide around the top circle. Thus the trunk becomes perfectly water-proof. The person then steps with both feet into the center hole and draws the trunk up to his hips by means of the outside handles. He is now ready to jump into the water, to brave its dangers without difficulty. The tests which have been made with this ingenious life-saving apparatus have yielded the most satisfactory results. When leaping even from high surfaces the body does not become entirely submerged by water, head and shoulders remaining steadily above.

The trunk, when in use as such, carries easily 300 pounds, and when in the act of serving as a life-preserver the two compartments, which are made perfectly water-proof by the caoutchouc mantle, can still hold several changes and all the valuables the shipwrecked tourist carries with him.

In Search of a Husband.

He—So your friend, Miss Welldo, has gone to Europe, Miss Ethel?

Miss Ethel—Yes. Clara sailed last week with her aunt.

He—She will doubtless have a pleasant time.

Ethel—Yes; still Clara is bent on business rather than pleasure. She has finished her sixth season.—Texas Siftings.

Very Broad, Indeed.

"We are fixin' apour libry, Mr. Bookseller," said Mr. Noorick. "We got eighty-two feet o' book shelves to fill 'nd I kinder thought I'd like to see some o' them French books I've heard about. I understand they're broader 'n most any others, 'nd it'll take fewer of 'em to fill up the space."—Jury.

Fixing the Price.

Harold—Mamma, I have cut the grass with the lawn-mower, and now I want fifty cents.

Mamma—Why, I could have hired a man to cut it for twenty-five cents.

Harold—Yes, but it was twice as hard for me as it would have been for a man.—Chicago News.

An Impossibility.

Rivers—I hear Cholly Lightpate is not going to Europe, after all. Has he changed his mind?

Banks—His mind? Great Scott! His mind? No. He simply isn't going on account of a total lack of change.—Chicago Tribune.

"NO MORE DOCTORS FOR ME!"

They said I was consumptive, sent me to Florida, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, and no tennis. Just think of it. One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Mrs. Pinkham, and in it I found out what ailed me. So I wrote to her, got a lovely reply, told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

WHAT TO EAT

is a difficult problem with many people because but few articles of food agree with them. The doctor says and the result is unpalatable food. The reason the physician objects to grease is because lard is the article most used, and every physician knows that hog lard in any shape is unhealthy and indigestible.

Every one interested in pure and healthful food hails with joy the new product which is composed of pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet—nothing else—not even salt. It is better than either lard or butter for all cooking purposes, and one pound of Cottolene will do as much as two pounds of lard or butter, and it costs less than either.

Every housekeeper that tries Cottolene will find in it just what she wants.

WATSON CALLED DOWN

Rebuked for His Charges of Drunkenness.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The Georgia Representative Recommended to Withdraw His Offending Statements—Jerry Simpson to Make a Minority Report in Favor of Watson's Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The committee appointed to investigate the charges of drunkenness made against members of the House by Representative Watson reports that the charges are utterly false and merit the condemnation of the House.

The report is approved by the three Democratic members of the committee, and, with some qualifications, by Representative Grout (Rep.), of Vermont. The report declares that the committee has no hesitation in declaring that the charges, construed in the sense in which they are made, are false and libellous under the strictest legal definition of those terms; that the charge involving Representative Cobb is contradicted by the witnesses, and there was nothing in the evidence to justify the charges against him.

The committee reports a resolution declaring that the charges constitute an unwarranted assault upon the honor and dignity of the House, and Mr. Grout will recommend its adoption if Mr. Watson refuses to retract or modify his statements.

Representative Grout says in his report that the Republican member of the committee fully concurs in the findings of the majority that Mr. Cobb was not in a state of intoxication in the House while discussing the Noyes-Rockwell election case. Mr. Grout refers to the two charges made by Representative Watson in his book and says in his opinion they were not true. The Representative says that Mr. Watson had Mr. Cobb in his mind when he made the charge that drunken members had discussed grave issues on the floor of the House. This charge is not sustained.

The second charge—That members had reeled about the aisle, is wholly unsupported by proof. No witness testified that he had ever seen such a sight in the aisles or on the floor, and in a strict legal sense this would leave the gentleman from Georgia justly exposed to severe criticism, were it not for the fact that, beyond dispute on one occasion, a member appeared on the floor evidently under the influence of liquor. But all witnesses testified that he was quiet and orderly and no one said he was unsteady in his gait.

In conclusion, Mr. Grout recommends that Representative Watson withdraw his offending statements with feelings and expression of regret, and if he should decline to do so then the Republican member insists on the adoption of the resolution drafted by Mr. Grout which was incorporated in the report of the majority. Hon. Jerry Simpson, the Farmer's Alliance member of the committee, will make a minority report to the House in favor of Mr. Watson's charges.

FOR CUBAN INDEPENDENCE.

Patriots in the United States Said to be Preparing to Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Cuban patriots in the United States are about to strike a blow for Cuban independence, according to a well founded report.

Information has just been received by members of the Cuban Club, in Chicago, regarding the departure of a ship from a port near Key West, Fla., about July 25. Its destination was the "Queen-of-the-Antilles," and it was loaded down with well-drilled and fully equipped men, who are prepared to die for Cuban liberty. Abundant supplies, arms and munitions were on board.

The utmost precautions were taken to prevent the expedition from exciting the attention of the authorities at Key West, in order that no notice should be given to the Spanish rulers of the island.

The afternoon of July 24 and the morning of July 25, a number of small parties left Tampa and Key West in small boats for fishing excursions. At the time no one noticed that the parties were made up of Cubans and Cuban sympathizers.

The fact that there are so many Cubans in Tampa and Key West caused no suspicion of the real object of the fishing excursions.

The little bands had orders to meet at a point twelve miles from Key West, according to the letter received here. At this place there was to be a vessel in waiting for them with ample supplies and arms.

The vessel was there and the men safely got aboard.

The leader of the expedition is undoubtedly Gen. Charles Rolloff, who has been in Florida for more than two months.

Gen. Rolloff was in the United States of Columbia when he received the first intimation that there was a movement among Cubans in this country to aid the patriots of the island in throwing off the Spanish yoke. He speedily made his way to Tampa and Key West, and threw all his energies into the movement.

His presence inspired the clubs with new life, and in a short time there was hardly a Cuban in Tampa or Key West that was not enrolled in a patriotic or revolution club. For these reasons it is natural to suppose that Gen. Rolloff is he leader of the expedition.

It is known that there has been a move on foot among Chicago Cubans to engage in some mysterious expedition.

The letter says that thousands of Cubans and Cuban sympathizers in Key West, Tampa and other towns were awaiting with anxiety for news from the expedition.

Mr. Cady's Queer Monument.

CENTRAL VILLAGE, Conn., Aug. 6.—G. Cady, the veteran dancing master and farmer, has erected a uniquely inscribed monument on his lot in Evergreen Cemetery. On one side is carved a violin and bow, with the words "All ready, Mr. Cady" above and "At Rest" below. On another side is the figure of a cow (Mr. Cady's favorite Jersey), with the inscription: "Rosa—Record, 2 lbs. 12 oz. butter from 13 qts., 1 day's milk."

Blood Shed Over Negro Votes.

MIDDLEBORO, Ky., Aug. 5.—Gray Cloud, a Democratic leader and a member of the Tennessee Legislature for Claiborne county, was shot and killed at Tazewell, Tenn., last night by Newton Clapp, a Deputy United States Marshal and a Republican leader. The fatal dispute arose over the voting of negroes, Cloud claiming that Clapp was unduly interfering. Clapp is now in jail.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE RUMSEY DECISION.

Attorney-General Rosendale Says He Is Not Surprised.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The announcement that Judge Rumsey of Rochester had denied the application of City Attorney Kiehle, of Rochester, for a mandamus to compel the supervisors to make an apportionment of the Assembly districts, under the reapportionment law recently passed, on the ground that the constitutional provisions in certain respects had been disregarded, is a subject of serious discussion among the Democrats.

Simon W. Rosendale, Attorney-General of the State of New York, says, in an interview:

"The decision does not surprise me very much. It is a case of politics all the way through. I believe the reapportionment bill, as passed by the last Legislature, is within the provisions of the Constitution."

"Do you think the Court of Appeals will take that view," was asked.

"I don't know; I hope they will," he replied.

"The citizens and voters of this State have been deprived of a just reapportionment for a good many years, and they have demanded a new apportionment. The last Legislature gave it to them, and I believe that the Democratic majority in the Legislature was obtained chiefly through a desire upon the part of the people to get a proper apportionment.

"I think the apportionment is reasonably fair. Of course, it cannot be expected that there would not be a few exceptions. The act of so large a body of men as the Legislature is not not likely to be as finely drawn in every point as the judicial act of a judge making a decision on a case at law. It is as fair an apportionment as could be made under the circumstances."

NO CAUSE TO WORRY.

Mrs. Harrison Improving in Health at Loon Lake.

LOON LAKE, Aug. 6.—There is absolutely no truth in the sensational reports sent out from Washington that there is any cause for worry over Mrs. Harrison's condition.

She is steadily on the mend, and is able to take daily walks around the cottage she is stopping at.

When seen by a reporter Mrs. Harrison looked considerably brighter and stronger than when she first came here. At the present time mountain air and perfect quiet are her only physicians.

Dr. F. A. Gardener, who came with the President's party from Washington, and who has been aiding Mrs. Harrison, left a few days ago for his summer home at Nantucket.

Although Mrs. Harrison still receives no visitors, she does not fail to take her daily walks. All her meals, however, are carried to the cottage from the hotel.

Last evening Mrs. Harrison took her first drive since she has been at Loon Lake behind W. H. Phillips's famous team of trotters. She was accompanied by Mrs. Dimmick and the nurse. Although the ride lasted but half an hour, Mrs. Harrison appeared to have enjoyed it keenly.

The statements that have gone out reporting Mrs. Harrison's condition as worse are laughed at here, as she is recovering health and strength.

LABOR TROUBLES AT THE FAIR.

The Carpenters May Go on Strike Because They Have to Work Overtime.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Trouble is brewing between organized labor and the World's Fair Company. At the meeting of the Carpenters' Council the business agent made a report which was backed up by the signatures of numerous carpenters employed on the grounds, setting forth that the eight-hour agreement and all other agreements made between the Fair Directory and the labor people were being ignored.

It was said that not only were the contractors violating the agreement, but the commission itself was working men nine and ten hours. A committee was appointed to visit the grounds and make a full investigation. The labor men are much dissatisfied with the way matters are going, and a strike of the carpenters on the grounds is not among the improbabilities.

Comparative Peace in Venezuela.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—At the office of the Consul-General of Venezuela, in this city, it is reported that President Villegas states that that country is nearer at peace than it has been in many years. Gen. Crespo, the revolutionist, is in retreat, closely followed up by Gen. Mendoza. In the State of Andes, one of the possessions of Venezuela, the revolutionary General Coluna has made an unconditional treaty of peace with the head of the army, Gen. Urdaneta. Gen. Urdaneta has imprisoned the revolutionists, and a happy state of peace now exists in Andes.

Will Put a Ticket in the Field.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Executive Committee of the County Democracy held a stormy meeting for the purpose of discussing the advisability of putting a local ticket in the field. The meeting was held with closed doors. After the adjournment it was announced, unofficially, that it had been decided to place a ticket in the field, but that this had been done after a strenuous opposition on the part of some of the members of the committee.

Sentenced for Making Threats.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Albert De Laurens, the Swiss who sent letters to the firms of Baring, Magoun & Co. and Tiffany & Co. threatening to dynamite the members of the Wall street firm and commit suicide in Tiffany's establishment unless his demands for money were complied with, pleaded guilty to both charges in the Court of Special Sessions and was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in the penitentiary.

THE HOMESTEAD SITUATION.

No New Men Coming In—An Employment Agent Assaulted.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 6.—There is no change at the mill this morning, according to the management. No new men have come in, nor are any wanted, as the present men are all that can be trained at present. The directory expects to contract with a number of experienced workers who will be here next week.

School Director Goettle and Samuel McKnight, two Homestead men who went to work in the mill on Sunday, came out last night and both declared they would never go back again. They said that 85 of the new men left yesterday, and that the work of the others is being done in a shiftless manner.

The Advisory Committee claims that Supt. Morrison of Duquesne will find he is mistaken on Monday, and that a large majority of the men will not report for work, having reconsidered their action. It has been decided to maintain a military guard at Duquesne until the authorities are fully satisfied that there will be no further disorder.

Ralph Getty, sub-agent for the Keystone Employment Agency, Pittsburg, came to Homestead yesterday. He had been here three weeks before, and only escaped rough usage by swearing that he would never return.

On his arrival a number of the locked out men spotted him and he was followed and held up. Officer John Walls arrested him, and then Getty protested the crowd wanted to take him to the river and throw him in.

Getty became badly frightened, for probably 100 men gathered around him, and he was glad to be placed in the lock-up, where about 200 persons gathered and hurled threats at him behind the bars. He will be charged with resisting an officer.

THE FRESNO ROBBERS CAUGHT.

Brought to Bay by Hundreds of Armed Men After an Exciting Chase.

VISALIA, Aug. 6.—Two train robbers were captured near there late last night after an exciting chase, during which Deputy Sheriff Whitly was shot in the neck by the fleeing criminals.

The men were tracked from near the scene of the robbery into Visalia and into the ranch house of Chris Evans, who came here from Minnesota some five years ago.

When the officers approached Evans's place the men, who were evidently expecting them, opened fire, and Whitly fell from his horse. Then they jumped on horses and started for the hills. After them followed fully 100 heavily armed men.

Finally when they saw that capture was almost certain they separated and struck off on different roads. Their pursuers divided into two bands, and in a few moments each party came up with their game. Both prisoners showed fight to the end.

DEPEW MAY BE ORATOR.

Breckinridge Angered Officials by Opposing the Big Appropriation.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Owing to the opposition of Congressman Breckinridge, of Kentucky, to the World's Fair bill in the House, the Ceremonies Committee of the fair have decided to take him off the programme. He was selected as chief orator for the dedication ceremonies.

If Mr. Breckinridge either withdraws or is requested to do so, it is probable that Chauncey M. Depew will be appointed in his place, for a number of the committee have been in favor of Dr. Depew from the start, and yielded to the request to put Mr. Breckinridge on only in deference to the somewhat persistent demands of a few World's Fair officials who lived south of the Ohio river.

A THOUSAND WOUNDED.

Five Thousand Rioters in Tashkend Kill the Governor.

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Advices from Russian Turkestan confirm the report of serious cholera riots at Tashkend, a large town of Asiatic Russia. Five thousand natives rose against the Russian Governor, who was directing the enforcement of precautionary measures.

The Governor was literally torn to pieces by the infuriated mob, which retreated into an old mosque when Russian troops came to the rescue. The mob was besieged in the building, which was set afire. Sixty rioters were killed and over 1,000 wounded and captured. Five of the soldiers were killed and 100 wounded.

Wanamaker Good to Militiamen.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6 — Postmaster-General Wanamaker has paid 18 of the employes in his store salaries during the time they were at Homestead with the State National Guard, and will also give each one two weeks vacation. The Postmaster-General has announced that he will provide places in his establishment for all who may have lost their positions in Philadelphia because of absence due to the Governor's call for troops.

Suing for Breach of Promise.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 6.—Miss Bertha Gage, a well-known school teacher of this place, has caused considerable excitement by bringing a breach of promise suit against Thomas Matthews, also of this place, for $50,000 damages. She alleges that Matthews is the father of her one-year-old child. Matthews is a well-to-do young business man about town, and is well-known throughout the county.

Melbourne to Relieve Farmers.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6.—Rainmaker Melbourne has accepted the offer of the Bourbon county farmers, who are suffering from drought, of $300 for a half-inch of rainfall. He will begin operations at once, and engages to bring the desired amount of rain inside of 48 hours.

THE CLOSING SCENES

How the First Session of Congress Ended.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM IN THE HOUSE.

Four Minutes After the Adjournment a Special Train Was Bearing the President Towards Loon Lake—The Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The capitol wears a deserted look, as very many of the Congressmen and Senators have left for home. By to-night only a few will be left in the city.

Four minutes after the two gavels descended in the Senate and House last night, indicating the adjournment, a special train started on its journey northward, bearing the President to his sick wife at Loon Lake.

The capitol was crowded during the last hours of the session with curious sightseers anxious not to miss the interesting scenes that usually precede an adjournment of Congress.

The utmost good humor prevailed on the floors of both Houses during the closing hours, and many expressions of goodwill were exchanged alike between Democrats, Republicans and third partyites.

Expectation of an adjournment filled the galleries of the House at its night session, and the same reason brought an unusual attendance of members. Promptly at 7 o'clock Speaker Crisp called the House to order, and soon after the Durborrow World's Fair Bill, which as amended passed the House in the afternoon, was reported from the Senate.

Mr. Jolley, (Rep., South Dakota,) secured the passage of a Senate measure regulating the times for holding sessions of the United States Courts in South Dakota, and then the private calendar was taken up.

After the passage of several of these bills, Mr. Holman, (Dem., Ind.,) presented the report of the conferees on the Sundry Civil bill. Mr. Holman detailed the nature of the agreement, detailing the items in dispute, and the compromises affected. He said the bill as finally agreed to carried $57,837,428, being $9,000,239 less than the bill as it passed the Senate, and $2,614,246 more than its aggregate when it passed the House. Considering the Pinkerton detective clause of the bill, Mr. Holman admitted that the amendment adopted by the House was a little too broad, and that in the interest of a speedy adjournment of the House the conferees were obliged to accept the substitute submitted by the Senate.

After considerable wrangling the report was adopted, 169 to 14.

McMillan (Dem., Tenn.) offered a resolution (which was adopted) providing for the appointment of a committee of three members to join a like committee of the Senate in informing the President that Congress was ready to adjourn, and to ask if he had any further communications to make. The Speaker appointed Messrs. McMillan, Fellows (Dem., N. Y.) and O'Neill (Rep., Pa.) as the committee.

In the interim between the transaction of further business, the House devoted itself to private pension and relief bills, and a large number of them were passed at locomotive speed.

At 10:40 o'clock the Secretary of the Senate reported that the Senate had adopted the resolution of the House agreed to last week providing for adjournment at 2 o'clock last Monday with amendment providing that adjournment should take place at 11 o'clock Friday night. The resolution as amended was agreed to.

Mr. McMillan, (Dem., Tenn.,) reported that the committee appointed to join a committee of the Senate and inform the President that Congress was ready to adjourn, had performed its duty and the President had said that he had nothing further to communicate.

It was just one minute of 11 when a resolution was offered directing the President to invite the representatives of the nations of the earth to attend the International Arbitration Congress, to be held in Chicago during the World's Fair. This went through without objection. It lacked five seconds of the eleventh hour when a dozen members shouted wildly for recognition, waving papers in their hands, but they were too late. Speaker Crisp announced that the hour of 11 o'clock had arrived, and bringing his gavel down with a bang, declared the first session of the 52d Congress adjourned without day.

A great shout went up from members on the floor; great bundles of waste paper were thrown high into the air and fell in showers on the happy Congressmen, while from the press gallery the deep resonance of the doxology: "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," struck a responsive cord in the floor and gallery and dignified old members stood at their desks amid the showers of falling paper and joined in the hymn.

A great shout of applause went up at its conclusion, and the press gallery choir responded with some verses about Speaker Crisp and ex-Speaker Reed being jolly good fellows and concluded with a musical query of Congress Watson as to what constituted a Congressional jag.

In the Senate, which had been doing nothing all the evening but waiting patiently, Mr. Allison, at 10:25, reported the house adjournment resolution substituting for Saturday, July 30, at 2 p.m., "Friday, Aug. 5, at 11 p. m." The resolution was agreed to and the customary committee of two (Messrs. Allison and Gorman) were appointed to wait upon the President of the United States.

Thanks were tendered to the Vice-President and the Vice-President pro tem (Mr. Manderson) by motions made by Democratic Senators.

At 10:50 the Senate Committee reported that they had waited upon the President, and he had no further business to lay before Congress.

The Vice-President paid a fitting tribute to the two Senators who had died during the session (Messrs Plumb and Barber), and appropriately acknowledged the vote of thanks and then declared the Senate adjourned without day.

Shot Himself After a Spree.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Howard J. Chute, United States seaman in the gunner's class at the navy yard in this city, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. The supposed cause was low spirits after being on a spree. He died three hours after shooting himself.

Ex-Senator Ingalls's Brother Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 6.—Dr. Francis Theodor Ingalls, president of Drury College, is dead of paralysis of the heart. Dr. Ingalls was a brother of ex-Senator Ingalls of Kansas.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

Daring Bank Robbery.

BUSTON, Mo., Aug. 6.—At p. m. four masked men rode up to the bank in this place and two of them dismounted, while the others remained outside. The men, on entering the bank, presented revolvers at Cashier Smith and ordered him to hand over the cash in the bank. The cashier gave the men about $1,200, which they placed in a bag, and, after cautioning Smith to remain inside the building, they left. The men had hardly left the building before Cashier Smith gave the alarm, but, before a posse could be gathered, they had a good start. The men were well mounted.

The Deputy Sheriff Dismissed.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 6.—Sheriff Claude has dismissed James Lowman, deputy sheriff at Bay Ridge, because of his arrest of Albert Georg, a member of the Swiss Legation, charged with the theft of a pocketbook. Lowman did not know what a legation was, nor that it protected its attache from arrest, but Governor Brown demanded his dismissal and would not allow him to resign.

An Escaped Prisoner Caught.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 6.—John D. Hayes, of Yonkers, N. Y. aged, 85, and a fugitive from Fitchburg jail, was recaptured here yesterday afternoon by Detective Hayes and Officer Cawley on Dutton street. After being handcuffed to the latter officer he jumped from the wagon and fought desperately before being locked up.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Assistant Secretary Crounse of the Treasury Department has been nominated for Governor by the Republicans of Nebraska.

—Calvin S. Stowell, past grand commander and generalissimo of Knights Templar of Olean, N. Y., died in Denver, Col., on Friday.

—Henry George's theory of single tax is in practice at Hyattsville, Md., where it has just been sustained by a decision of the Court.

—The New Jersey Democratic State Committee has selected Camden, Sept. 27, as the place and date of the State Gubernatorial Convention.

—At Hastings Center, N. Y., yesterday, Mrs. James Penfield hanged herself. She had been despondent since the death of her mother, a year ago.

—The President has recognized H. W. De Leon as Consul of Chili at Tacoma, and Jose Costa as Consul of the Oriental Republic of Uruguay for the State of California.

—Chicago, Ill., is soon to have an elevated railroad on the plan of those in use in New York city. Ten millions worth of bonds have been floated, and the route has been laid out.

—The Cumberland Oil Company, at Eagle Creek, Pickett county, Tenn., have struck natural gas, which is flowing with a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet a day. The roar of the escaping gas can be heard for miles.

—The Administration has finally decided to clear the Cherokee strip of cattle. Two troops of cavalry, under command of Capt. Michler, have left for the Reno fort strip under orders to drive out all the cattle there.

—The postoffice at Saugerties, N. Y., on the Hudson River, about 12 miles north of here, was burglarized Friday morning. The safe was blown open and money and postage stamps to the value of about $1,200 were taken.

Two Stabbed by an Italian.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—An Italian named Rogani became involved in a quarrel with a number of fellow workmen at Blossburg, Pa., yesterday, during which he suddenly produced a knife and stabbed John Scott and Albert Hughes. Scott was but slightly injured, while Hughes is dangerously wounded, and his condition is precarious.

Foreign Laborers and the Fair.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Representative Durborrow of the World's Columbian Exposition Committee of the House has reported favorably to that body the Senate resolution authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits.

Democratic Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GROVER CLEVELAND,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

Gen. ADLAI E. STEVENSON,

OF ILLINOIS.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Brook avenue is in a very bad condition, and sadly needs repairing.

—For bargains in second-hand furniture, go to Musgraves, 32 Somerset street.

—Those who need teeth extracted must come soon as Dr. Estebrooke will stay in town only next week.

—The school and friends of the First Church of Christ will enjoy an excursion to Papiac next Thursday.

—The project to extend Sycamore street to the Union county line has been permanently abandoned.

—The repairing and painting of Warren engine-house and adjoining borough buildings have been completed.

—Nineteen dogs were captured in North Plainfield in July. Five were redeemed, and the rest assassinated.

—Borough clerk Brokaw was absent from last night's council meeting, and counselor Reed served in his stead.

—Have you seen Captain Hand's new stage? It's a fine one and just what you want with a four-horse team and a big party.

—It will pay you to buy two or three pairs of the shoes Doane & VanArsdale are advertising, and lay them aside for next year.

—At a meeting of the Plainfield coal dealers, last evening, it was decided to advance the price 25 cents a ton, making it now $5.50.

—The borough council will hold a special meeting about Aug. 19, to examine assessor Cooley's books and fix a new tax budget.

—The guests of The Netherwood have engaged a large number of reserved seats for the opening of the season at Music Hall, Monday evening.

—A man named Conrad, employed by Windom & Crowley, was slightly scalded on the throat this morning by the splashing of scalding water.

—Reserved seats for the opening of Music Hall, Monday evening, may be secured at the Central pharmacy, corner of Front street and Park avenue.

—Dr. Estebrooke will be in town until the evening of Saturday the 13th inst., a week from to-day. Dentists and physicians everywhere indorse him and his system.

—The public will no longer have to wallow through mud and mire in Park place and Vine streets. Last night the borough council ordered the thoroughfares to be macacamized.

—Board walks are to be laid by the North Plainfield borough in front of various lands, at the owners' expense, in cases where the owners have not complied with the order to lay the walks.

—It is needless to say that the William Douglass who is accused of picking up a package of money in the post-office, is not William Douglass for so many years with Dr. C. M. Field and now with William Stout.

—Some waggish fellow attached an electric battery to the chain holding the cup at the pump in front of Thorn's on Somerset street, last evening, and those in the joke had lots of fun watching the antics of those who tried to get a drink.

—A most attractive show window is that recently fitted up at Vanderbeek's, 33 Park avenue. If you are looking for fine musical instruments of any variety, or want an excellent organ or piano, Vanderbeek's is just the place to strike a bargain. He does a large trade in choice goods.

—William Douglass, the faithful colored coachman for William M. Stout, of East Front street, very naturally does n't want to be mistaken for the person of the same name arrested yesterday on the charge of theft of money from Maggie Wierenga in the post-office. William is a good honest fellow, and there ought not to be any confusion of persons. The young man arrested is white.

Reducing Trinity's Debt.

The lawn festival given at the home of the Misses Wyckoff, 112 West Eighth street, last evening, was a glowing success. The hostesses were assisted by several young women of the Christian Endeavor society of Trinity church. The lawn was beautifully illuminated, and the event was fairly attended. The distance kept many away. Ice-cream, cake, lemonade and flowers were on sale on tables on the lawn. The net proceeds will be presented to Trinity church for its debt fund.

Juvenile Base-Ball.

A game of base-ball was played on the Park avenue grounds between the Young Gorhams and the East Ends, yesterday, which resulted in an easy victory for the East Ends. The score was 10 to 6. The battery for the East Ends was Hefferan and Kane; and for the Young Gorhams, Peterson and Greene. The umpire was David Martin. The feature of the game was the heavy batting of D. Kane, Scott and Hefferan.

Cost of Road Improvements.

The total cost of macadamizing Myrtle avenue from Washington to Willow, and Willow from Myrtle to Girard, as reported by chairman Neal of the borough street committee, was $399.52. Of this $479 was contributed and the borough paid $517.12. A small sum was raised by the sale of dirt. The total length macadamized was 1,727 feet.

PLAINFIELD'S ROYAL BLUE LINE.

The Street Railway Cars Are Now Expected Any Day.

Special arrangements have been made with the railroad company, to express the Plainfield street cars right through from Philadelphia as soon as loaded on the flat cars at the shops. They were to have been shipped Thursday, but some delay occurred again. Yesterday the company wired the manufacturers to send word the minute the cars left the yard. Up to this morning no word had been received in this city.

Conductors and motormen are on hand to-day in uniform, as ordered. The cars are said by the builders to be the handsomest ever turned out of their shops. The interiors are of the natural wood and brightly decorated. The exterior is of Royal blue with gold tracings. It is believed that they will be here by Monday.

Yester day president Nevins, secretary Riker and general superintendent Passmore, with president Ginna and Johnston of the council, and street commissioner Meeker, rode over the route already laid to inspect the condition of the streets where the rails had been placed. Mr. Ginna did not find fault with the condition of things now, so much as with the delay in bringing that condition of things about. It was explained that it was necessary to take time in rebuilding the streets so that the work could settle properly as it went on.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

C. P. Bull is enjoying Long Island life at West Hampton.

James T. Closson is registered at the Elberon, Elberon, N. J.

P. M. Smith and family, of 117 Madison avenue, are at Southold, Long Island.

Miss Blanche Fellows returned with her mother, yesterday, from Saratoga.

Mr. and Mrs. Garret Q. Packer and family are at Greenport, N. Y., for the month of August.

Miss Anna O. Marsh will spend the balance of the month at the Leslie House, Lexington, Mass.

John H. VanWinkle has gone to the Grand Avenue Hotel, Asbury Park, and will remain there all next week.

Mrs. Dunn and her niece Miss Baker, of 200 Broadway, left town to-day for Asbury Park and the Berkeley Arms.

Chandler W. Riker, secretary of the Plainfield street railway company, and Mrs. Riker, are guests at Hotel Netherwood.

The Rev. E. P. Sprague, D. D., of Auburn, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church to-morrow morning and evening.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Frank Callahan will be held from his late residence to-morrow afternoon at 2:30, and from St. Mary's church at 3.

Augustus Bloodgood, a well-known Salvation Army man, and superintendent of the Newman Mission in Jersey City, has been visiting his old friends here for several days.

The Rev. Charles B. Mitchell writes from The Portland, Asbury Park: "We had 10 days of fine yachting at Nantucket, and are now here for several weeks of surf-bathing."

The Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn of Newark, who is to preach at the Trinity Reformed church to-morrow, is a most eloquent pulpit orator, and is as well-known as an author as he is as a clergyman.

Mayor W. L. Saunders, ever alive to the people's interests, left town to-day for Detroit and Chicago, to investigate into the merits of various rapid-transit methods suitable for adoption in North Plainfield.

A. F. Venino leaves New York for Boston, this evening, in the interest of his book, a Pedal System for the Piano. No work of the kind has ever been issued, although the need of such has long been recognized.

Miss C. E. Fisher of New York now presides over the keyboard at the Postal Telegraph office in Hotel Grenada. She is a most clever and obliging operator, and messages entrusted to her care are sure of speedy and accurate transmission.

Charles Brown, of the First Baptist church, has received a letter from Major D. W. Whittle, the evangelist, extending to Mr. Brown an invitation to engage in evangelistic work among young men in Chicago, during the World's Fair in 1893.

The Rev. F. G. Warnick will close his pastorate with the Mt. Olive church the second Sunday in September. His work here has been a success and the church is left in good condition. A prosperous church in the West has extended an urgent call to Mr. Warnick, which he may accept.

To Accept the Westervelt Bridge.

At the meeting of the Union county board of freeholders, Thursday, a communication was received from Plainfield asking the board to accept as a county bridge the wooden bridge built some time ago over Green brook, on Westervelt avenue. The communication was received, and later on a resolution was offered by Mr. Hubbard to the effect that committee on Plainfield bridges meet a like committee from Somerset county in regard to the said bridge, and to report at the next meeting of the board. The resolution was adopted.

Four Tracks Blocked by the Wreck of the "Maybe".

A large freight wreck occurred at midnight, Thursday, near Greenbrook, blocking all four tracks for at least six hours. The wrecked train was the fast freight known to all railroad men as the "Maybe"—maybe you get home and maybe you don't. When near Greenbrook the breaking of an axel caused the cars to pile up, scattering their contents over the tracks and delaying all travel. No one was injured, and by hard work the tracks were made passable for early morning travel.

HOW HE WAS BUNCOED.

The Sleek Swindler Got Him to Indorse a Check and Then Took Him to New York and Lost Him.

THE PRESS told yesterday of a rising young professional man of Plainfield who had been buncoed out of $250 by a clever swindler. There have been many inquiries as to how so astute a young man was fooled, and as a warning guide to others the facts are herewith given.

It was after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon when the sleek young stranger called at the office of the Plainfielder. He was of most attractive appearance and plausible tongue. He said he represented a large firm in Philadelphia, and produced apparently authentic credentials to corroborate his statement. His house, he said, had sent him out to secure the services of a prominent professional man of Plainfield in a matter of business which would involve one in confidential work in various parts of the State. The person he was seeking (he mentioned him by name) was out of town, but as the business was urgent some one else must be immediately engaged to push it through. Even while he was explaining, a telegraph despatch was brought in by a regular messenger, from his firm, urging him to prosecute the business thoroughly and at once. After further conversation, he engaged the Plainfielder to do the work proposed, and said that he would make a payment in advance just as soon as he could get to the bank and cash a check. He went out, and presently returned and reported that the bank was closed owing to half-holiday observance. The stranger seemed annoyed and disappointed; and the Plainfielder, having a fat fee and big future business in view, offered to hunt up the cashier. By a private signal the two succeeded in gaining entrance to the First National bank. The Plainfielder introduced the stranger to cashier Frank S. Runyon, and the suave young fellow immediately fell into an easy conversation about the prevalence of the name Runyon in New Jersey, stating that ex-Chancellor Theodore S. Runyon did considerable legal work for his house. In due time he produced a check for $250, signed by his firm, and it was readily cashed. The two then went to the telegraph office, and the stranger sent off despatches to people in various parts of the State, telling them to be prepared to give the Plainfield man all facilities for transacting the firm's business in their respective towns. The stranger said he had documents in relation to the matter, in his room in a New York hotel, and had the Plainfielder accompany him to the city to secure the papers. The Plainfielder was left in the hotel office making out a receipt for the money which the stranger said he would pay him as soon as he came back from his room. The Plainfielder waited some time, but the stranger never returned. The Plainfielder at last found that the suave young man had no room in the house, and came home, disquiet reigning in his breast. A few days later the check of the stranger's firm came back to the Plainfield bank marked "no good", and the bank informed the unhappy Plainfielder that he would be held responsible for the amount of the check. He paid the bill like a little man, and swallowed his wrath. He is as cheerful as possible under the circumstances, and has the satisfaction of knowing that the smoothly worked scheme would have fooled many a man of even wider experience than himself.

THANKS TO WILLIAMS AND BRIDGMAN.

The Second Progressive Euchre Party at Hotel Netherwood a Success Through Their Efforts.

The second progressive euchre party of the season assembled in the parlor of the Hotel Netherwood last evening at 9. The game was formally announced by H. W. Williams. Forty-four sat down at the tables prepared for the occasion. The charming prizes purchased for the event by Mrs. Spencer, were subsequently distributed to the fortunate winners as follows:

First prize, Mrs. Donald, plaque.
Second prize, Mrs. Eaton, berry spoon.
Third prize, Mrs. Gerken, scissors.
Fourth prize, Miss Brientnall, gold thimble.
Fifth prize, Mrs. Griffin, vinaigrette.
First prize, Mr. Eaton, etching.
Second prize, Mr. Pyatt, cane.
Third prize, Mr. Meeker, pocketbook.
Fourth prize, Mr. Pierce, silver match-box.
Fifth prize, G. Farlee, stamp-box.

The event was a pronounced success and Messrs. Williams and Bridgman, the managers of the affair, received a vote of thanks from the participants. An air of solid comfort and happiness pervades the atmosphere of this favorite resort. The hotel is well filled with prominent families, and the outlook for the present month warrants the prediction of an excellent termination of the summer season. The hotel will remain open until October. The prospects for a brilliant fall season are exceptionally good. September, the queen month of the year, should bring large accessions to this delightful resort on the Heights. J. A. H.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples; Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could n't see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

Removed—every vestige of Catarrh in the Head, no matter how bad the case, or of how long standing, by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Not only Catarrh itself, but all the troubles that come from it — they're perfectly and permanently cured by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties.

If you could only be sure of that, it's enough.

The proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy try to prove it to you. They are sure enough of it—a record of 25 years, with thousands of the most hopeless cases, has satisfied them—but how can they prove it to you? There's no better way than with money. So they say this, and they mean it: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, we'll pay you $500 in cash. There's a chance that you can't be cured, but it's so small that we're willing to take it."

What more can they say or do to convince you?

Isn't that enough?

ON A HIGH HORSE.

Councilman Neal of the Borough Resigns from the Street Committee Because of a Fancied Affront—A Breezy Time Among Local Solons.

A hook-and-ladder truck company could n't have reached a loftier eminence than that assumed by borough councilman Neal at last night's council meeting. The session was a lively one. Mr. Neal got on his dignity early in the evening, and soon mounted a horse so high that even the burning eloquence of councilman Hegeman could n't touch him.

The trouble was all over the matter of macadamizing Sycamore avenue from Willow to Mercer. B. A. Hegeman, Jane Roome, and others, had petitioned that they be granted the privilege of having the roadway macadamized entirely at their own expense; and after the petition had been referred to the committee on streets and chairman Neal had made an individual report in opposition to it, councilman Hegeman presented a resolution that the petition be granted and that in consideration of the work being done for nothing the borough permit the use of its roller, scraper and plow.

Councilman Connolly offered an amendment that the work must be approved by the street committee. Mr. Neal had already spoken sharply against what he considered a slight and a reflection against not only the street committee but the street commissioner as well, in Mr. Hegeman not mentioning them in connection with the work; and when Mr. Hegeman accepted the proposed amendment, that concession was not enough for the objecting councilman.

Mr. Neal in a very warm speech said that he did not think it just that the public's right to control the repairs of its highways should be abrogated. He added that he could view in no other light but a slight and a reflection the attempt to secure macadamization of the thoroughfare without the proper authorities overseeing the work.

Mr. Hegeman emphatically disclaimed any intention of casting the slightest odium on either the committee or the commissioner. He valiantly championed the cause of the absent petitioners, and said that the borough owed a debt of gratitude to the public-spirited citizens who so laudably and liberally offered to macadamize an important thoroughfare at their own expense. The petitioners deserved a vote of thanks, not a misconstruction of motives, not reproach and insinuation. The Sycamore avenue property-owners, he said, recognized the fact that the borough's funds were limited, and had made their offer out of pure generosity. Sycamore avenue was a "dirt" road. It ran between two well-paved streets, yet was not only a constant mudhole itself, but a contributor of mud, by wheels of vehicles, to the macadamized thoroughfares. The work of macadamization ought to proceed, he urged.

Mr. Neal obstinately opposed the scheme unless the work was to be done by the street commissioner. He said if that official was incompetent he ought to be turned out; if he was competent, he should conduct all the borough street work. He hinted mysteriously that he knew the cause of it all; and he voted no against the resolution.

But councilmen Hegeman, Sebring, Hummer, Needham and Connelly all voted yes; and Mayor Saunders, who had attempted to call Mr. Neal down by saying that the street commissioner was not on trial, declared the resolution adopted.

It was plain to be seen that Mr. Neal was very wroth. He denounced the plot of the macadamizers as instigated by distrust and dissatisfaction of the street committee and commissioner, and said and reiterated that he would have nothing to do with the scheme. He said he had good reasons for taking this determined stand—reasons which it was perhaps best not to ventilate. The work could go on as directed, with the street commissioner's finger out of it, but as for him he washed his hands of the whole matter. He asked the mayor to relieve him from serving with the committe on the work. This the mayor declined to do, saying that that matter could be settled in committee. Routine business was then taken up, Mr. Neal still insisting that he would not serve.

Cranford Natives Getting Ready for the Game.

Arrangements have been made for a great Cranford-Dunellen ball game for this afternoon on the Cranford Casino grounds. At 3:30 the two teams will open up, and the public will have a chance to see what the Cranford players can do against an opposing and clever team. Manager Lent of Cranford says he does not expect the game to be won by the Dunellens unless they prove to be a regular professional team. The two clubs will face each other as follows:

CRANFORD.	DUNELLEN.
McManus, c.	Malone, c.
Johnson, p.	Phillips, p.
Bindenberger, 1b.	Ferris, 1b.
Denman, 2b.	Hickey, 2b.
Rosencrantz, 3b.	McGovern, 3b.
McIntyre, ss.	McCormas, ss.
Randolph, lf.	Fry, lf.
Parvin, cf.	Stryker, cf.
Bourne-Pare, rf.	Bohner, rf.

The Dunellens have a uniform of white shirts, blue knickerbockers, etc., and the Cranfords will appear in promiscuous suits, as the new suits cannot be finished in time. Yesterday the grounds were being prepared, the grass mown down as closely as possible, and the thicket cleared up.

The Best in the World.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

MANKIND'S BENEFACTOR.

Something About Plainfield's Visitor Who Has Robbed Dental Surgery of Pain and Terror.

A big, broad, hearty and pleasant-mannered gentleman welcomed a PRESS reporter at the City Hotel this morning when the scribe sent in his card for Dr. Arthur Ellis Estebrooke. In the mere grasp of the doctor's hand the reporter recognized that this was an unusual being. The doctor's touch was firm and steady as iron, yet soft as a kitten's velvet paw, and gentle as an evening zephyr. It was just such a touch as is needed in performing a surgical operation with success and the least possible discomfort to the patient.

Seated comfortably in the hotel parlors, the reporter enjoyed a delightful chat with the renowned dentist. The doctor spoke frankly but never boastfully of his wonderful achievements.

"It is on record in the dental journals"—he said—"that I was the first to introduce the use of the hypodermic syringe into dental operations. That was in '72, in San Francisco, when I was only 18 years of age. My idea then was scoffed at, but I firmly believed that mine was the coming method, and now it has been adopted and is used by thousands, who follow exactly what I advised 20 years ago.

"The remarkable anæsthetic which I now use so successfully in dental operations is beyond question perfectly harmless, and the most efficacious known. It contains no cocaine, nor other harmful ingredient. The preparation is the product of most painstaking investigation and exhaustive analyses, by which I have made it perfection. With it I can operate successfully upon any patient. Only yesterday I did most gratifying work on a paralytic child 11 years old, whom none of the established dentists could touch. Last July I came on from Boston, by request of the New York dentists who were interested in my work, and at a meeting of themselves and their friends and families I operated on 53 of them, and received the highest encomiums for my work."

Dr. Estebrooke is not only a most excellent dentist but a genuine surgeon as well. He exhibits his old diploma, of dental surgeon, but takes more pride in his diploma won seventeen years ago as a surgeon full-fledged. He had always been a close student of surgery, and during his studies in preparation for securing a diploma in the regular way he was considered not only a superior aid in difficult operations but a master-hand at them, so that the leading professor was wont to say that he already knew all that any college could teach him, in the surgery line. The doctor has kept close up to the times in all developments and improvements in surgical work, and is capable of taking care of any case. Recently he has been engaged largely in conducting minor surgical operations in the Surgical Hospital in Boston, amputating fingers and removing abnormal growths by the use of his famous anæsthetic. He can truly be spoken of as an expert at the head of his profession.

The doctor showed the reporter his wonderful assortment of dental instruments, many of them made to order from his own special designs and forms that are fast being copied by dentists all over the country. By them he can reach and easily extract the most difficult and obstinate remnant of a root, and restore comfort of body and ease of mind to the sufferer. None of the doctor's operations ever causes the least pain; the anæsthetic effectually prevents that; and there are no evil after-effects of any kind.

The reporter asked Dr. Estebrooke why it was that he did not settle in one place, and replied: "Because I am seeking to introduce into all parts of the country a wonderful remedy for suffering mankind, a remedy that no dentist is capable of using without personal instruction. I have to travel to teach, and thus spread my boon among the millions."

The doctor added, however, that he now contemplated making Plainfield his permanent home. He is very fond of the Crescent city, and his wife will join him here at an early date. He says that he believes there are many intelligent people in Plainfield who would undoubtedly gladly give him their work if they were aware of his genuine ability and the rare qualities of his anæsthetic.

The doctor is always developing some new idea for science. Just now he has perfected a marvelous apparatus for the proper administration of chloroform. The model that he showed the reporter was a most ingenious device, a credit to the clever brain that devised it.

TWO BOYS LEFT BEHIND.

Experience of Those Who Miss Plainfield's Excursion Trains.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The experience of two boys of twelve years, left by the excursion train last evening at Asbury Park, is quite different from what the patrons of these popular excursions would expect. The boys were discovered by the officers of the Long Branch division, and forwarded by the 7 o'clock train to Elizabethport. No provision was made for connection with the Central railroad for Plainfield, and these boys found themselves without money at one of the worst stations of the line, at 9 o'clock at night, amid the carousing drunken habitues of this station. The parent of one of the boys, having left the excursion train, and gone back, finding the boys, related the facts to the conductor of the Central division train. Full fare was exacted and paid, except for the one boy, for whom the conductor paid (he said), punching a rebate ticket. It is very evident under the circumstances that these accidents are not anticipated by the committee, or provision would be made for forwarding such waifs home.

HIS FIRST BILL CAUSES A KICK.

And By Resolution the Board of Freeholders "Refers" County Attorney McClure's Claims.

A matter which was the subject of considerable discussion and surprise at the meeting of the county board of freeholders, Thursday, was the presentation of a bill from the county attorney, Wm. K. McClure of this city, for $340.

The attention of the board was called to it by a resolution of Mr. Hunt for a reference of the bill to the auditing committee before its payment.

Mr. Sauer asked for the clerk to read the items, and also the resolution fixing Mr. McClure's salary.

This resolution was adopted on May 1, when Mr. McClure was appointed, and is as follows:

"Resolved, That the salary of the county attorney be fixed at $300, with such extra compensation for services and expenses as may be allowed by resolution of this board."

The surprise of the board was manifest when the items of Mr. McClure's bill were read.

Among the charges were $10 per day for four days' attendance at the meetings of the appropriation committee; $25 for attending the meeting of the board of county assessors; $10 for attendance on several bridge committees; $10 for accompanying special committees to examine a drain pipe at Linden; $25 for a day's inspection with the committee along the Union Water company's route on county roads; $25 for a day at Trenton and conference with attorney general; $10 for a visit to Elizabeth to see Frank Bergen for the board, etc.

Several of the bridge committees said they never had an attorney except to draw a contract.

Mr. Winans wanted to know what the $300 were paid to the attorney for.

Several members answered "for a retaining fee". (Laughter).

Mr. Winans said if he as a member of the board wanted a legal question answered in reference to some county work and asked the county attorney, would his compensation be from the $300 salary, or would it mean $10 extra to the county.

Mr. Moore said there should be a thorough investigation and understanding. At the rate of the present bill the county attorneyship would be the best paying office in the county. He would say, however, in justice to Mr. McClure, he noticed Mr. Wood, his predecessor, drew $1,445 last year.

Several of the members explained that that extra compensation was largely for the great amount of work necessary in reference to the county road business.

The resolution of Mr. Hunt to refer Mr. McClure's bill to the auditing committee, was carried.

A Model Establishment.

The sea-food market of David W. Rogers, 42 West Second street, the only establishment of its kind in Plainfield, is a model to-day that all the world might follow. Extensive alterations recently made at great expense has brought about the perfection of interior arrangements. Separate ice boxes for crabs, lobsters, clams, oysters and fish, have been so constructed that the goods are shown at all times without removing them from their icy atmosphere, and a spray of pure cold water continually washes over the fresh fish spread out upon marble slabs.

Rogers makes a specialty of clams and oysters on the shell packed in crushed ice, and keeps a full line of salmon and other such delicacies.

The Train that Killed Young Callahan.

Conductor Jacob Aicher of the late night Blue Line flyer is sure it was his train that struck and killed the unfortunate Frank Callahan Thursday night. The train did not stop at Plainfield on that run, but at the next stopping-place the engineer found the front of the locomotive spattered over with blood.

Didn't Want a Pony.

Small Boy—Papa, Willie Winker's got a pony.

Papa—Has?

"Yes, and it's the bee-utafulist pony I ever saw."

"You don't say!"

"Just as gentle as can be. I rode on it, an' didn't fall off once. A boy couldn't get hurt on that pony."

"I suppose not."

"It eats hardly anything, too, and doesn't cost much to keep."

"It doesn't?"

"Not anything, hardly. Willie said his papa bought it real cheap."

"No doubt."

"And he said there was plenty more where that came from."

"Humph! Do you want me to buy you a pony?"

"N-o. I was only thinkin' what a nice pony Willie Winkers has."

"Oh!"

"Yes. Willie's got a nice papa, too, hasn't he?"—Good News.

Preferred the Whistle.

Cupid was flying irregularly between them, so to speak, as they were strolling along. He was feeling a good deal like a man going past a cemetery, and was whistling.

"I wish you wouldn't whistle," she said pettishly. "It is positively rude!"

He looked at her a moment and stopped. Then he began to singe softly. He sang for a few minutes.

"Harry!" she said, almost tenderly. His face lighted up with hope. "Please whistle!" she requested pleadingly.—Demorest.

He Laughed Once Only.

"I suppose you haven't forgotten that it is leap year," he said, as he took a seat beside her, "and so I must be careful not to lead the conversation in a dangerous direction," and he laughed.

"I had quite forgotten it," she said, with a yawn; "what's the use of remembering it when you never meet a man who is worth proposing to?"

This time he didn't laugh.—N. Y. Press.

Part of His Duties.

Her Claim Established.

"Fashionable! Why do you call her fashionable?"

"Because she is. She always talks at the theater while the play is going on, her children are kept in the nursery when she's at home, and she never allows herself to be seen in her husband's company."—N. Y. Press.

How Could He Help It?

Meddergrass (of Yaphank)—You've got me charged one dollar for extra gas.

Hotel Clerk—Yes, sir. It was burning all night in your room.

Meddergrass—Well, what's a fellow to do? You've got a sign hangin' there that says: "Don't blow out the gas."—Jury.

His Only Compunction.

Minister (to small boy caught in the orchard)—Doesn't your conscience ever trouble you after you have stolen fruit, my son?

Small Boy—No, sir, but my stomach often does.—Pharmaceutical Era.

A POPULAR WOMAN.

We Often See Her Face and Always Like It.

The Young Lady Who Posed as the Model for the Goddess of Liberty on the Cartwheel Dollar—Talented and Modest.

It is interesting to know that the girl who posed as the model for the Goddess of Liberty which is familiar to the sight of this nation from its position on the face of the many silver dollars of the land, should have been born in the City of Brotherly Love, the "cradle of American independence." It is not only an interesting, but a fitting historical coincidence that this should be so.

Anna Willess Williams, the original of this pictured goddess, was born in Philadelphia during the civil war, says the Ladies' Home Journal. Her mother was of southern birth, the daughter of Dr. Arthur H. Willess, a wealthy slave owner of Maryland, who, while his daughter was still unmarried, suffered financial reverses. When nineteen she married Henry Williams, of Philadelphia, and removed with him to his native city. Mr. Williams soon became affluent, but through some mismanagement he lost all his property, and his daughter, Anna, the youngest of nine children, was born under most adverse circumstances. While she was still but a child her father died, leaving his widow, although in delicate health, with the strongest determination to care for and educate her children, and it was entirely through the endeavors of her mother that Miss Williams received her education.

Early in 1876 the treasury department secured the services of Mr. George Morgan, an expert designer and engraver, who had previously been connected with the royal mint of England. He was assigned to duty at the Philadelphia mint upon the design for the new silver dollar which was soon to be issued. He gave his attention first to the reverse side, for which a design of the American eagle was afterward selected, hoping that a suitable idea would occur to him for the head of the Goddess of Liberty, which, it seemed proper, should be used as the principal figure on the coin. After considerable delay and frequent change of the plan, it was decided that, if possible, the head should be a representation of some living American girl. In the pursuit of his duties Mr. Morgan had been thrown into the society of Mr. Thomas Eakins, an artist of considerable reputation, and the similarity of their interests became the foundation of a warm friendship between them. It was through Mr. Eakins' influence that Miss Williams, a friend of his family, was induced to pose for Mr. Morgan for the designs of the Goddess of Liberty. The sittings took place at the residence of Mr. Eakins, on Mount Vernon street, below Eighteenth, in November, 1876. It was some time before the cap, with its sheath, was decided upon as the ornamentation for the head.

For nearly two years after the issue of the Bland dollar, the model's identity was kept a secret. In the summer of 1879, however, an indefatigable newspaper man discovered and proclaimed Miss Williams' connection with the coin. Since that time the annoyance to which she has been subjected has been constant. Letters, visitors—both to her home and school—and disagreeable personal encounters have been of almost daily occurrence.

Miss Williams' literary talents have found expression in interesting contributions to the current periodicals. Her taste in reading is principally for the philosophical treatises. Carlyle is her chosen essayist, and Howells her favorite novelist. The fine arts also claim her appreciation. She is a devout member and regular attendant of the Baptist church.

In appearance Miss Williams is most attractive. She is below medium height, of graceful figure, with a face worthy the honor bestowed upon it of representing the goddess of her native country. Her complexion is fair, her eyes blue, her nose Grecian, and her hair, which is almost her crowning glory, is golden in color, abundant in quantity and of wonderful lightness of texture, the soft coil in which it is worn being especially becoming. Miss Williams is refined and gracious in her presence and free from self-consciousness. It may be said of her that she combines to a special degree strength of character and purpose with great gentleness and modesty.

Hindoo Witchcraft.

All Hindoos believe in witchcraft, and, in strange contrast to the old believers in witchery, they believe that young and pretty maidens are the chief actors in such uncanny mummery. If crops are blighted, or if a general sickness prevails, they write the names of all the young women of the vicinity on separate tree branches and then immerse the stems of the twigs for four hours and a half in a solution of holy water and aromatic herbs. If one or more of the twigs wither during the specified time, the young women whose name or names are attached thereto are immediately put to death. Thus the influence of the witch is counteracted, the crops saved and health restored.

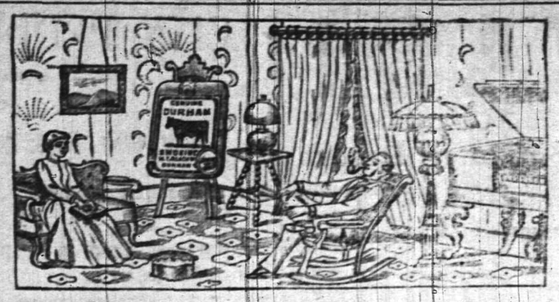
THE IOWA BUILDING.

It Will Be an Ornament to the World's Fair Grounds.

The plans for the Iowa building were designed by the Josselyn & Taylor Company, architects, of Cedar Rapids.

The pavilion will be provided with glass sides and the exhibition of the state will be arranged in the center, where a space 74 by 135 feet will be made available. The main building will be of two stories 64 by 100 feet, but the construction will be such that the two buildings will be of the same general appearance.

It is estimated that the united buildings will afford 16,000 square feet of space, of which over 9,000 feet will be in the pavilion.



Ladies Do you want to keep your husband home at night, and keep him agreeable and pleasant? He must smoke, and yet, you don't like the smell of his tobacco. You can drive him away to his club—out of just such things come misery, unhappiness and divorce. The trouble is that he uses poor tobacco. Coax him to get BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO; its delicate aroma will not be offensive to you, and it will not fill all the curtains, hangings and clothing with that stale disagreeable odor that now troubles you. Keep your husband home, and avoid all risks by having him smoke BULL DURHAM TOBACCO. Sold everywhere.

BLACKWELL'S DURHAM TOBACCO CO., Durham, N. C.

The main entrance will be at the south end of the portion to be erected and will face the wide driveway at that point. At either side of a wide overhanging porch circular pointed towers similar to that on the pavilion are provided. To the left of the entrance is the ladies' parlor, a large circular room with retiring-rooms adjoining. On the opposite side is a general reception-room similar in shape. Between the two is a wide reception hall. Farther on is the commissioners' room, a writing-room, smoking-room and gentlemen's parlor. The second floor will be beneath a steep, sloping roof, something like that of the Woman's Temple. It will be cut up, however, by gables and windows and the effect will be striking. The principal feature of the second floor will be an assembly-room 42 by 30 feet and with a lofty ceiling. At the side near the north end will be a small gallery for musicians. On this floor will also be four sleeping chambers, a press-room, in which to keep files of the state papers, and a library of works by Iowa authors. The State Historical society will have its headquarters in the large circular room at the southeast corner over the ladies' parlor, and adjoining the assembly-room will be the reporters' room.

Colors in China.

The Chinese superstition about lucky and unlucky colors is one that foreign merchants must observe when they attempt to sell their wares in China. The use of black paper as a wrapping for needles has militated against their sale in China. Blue must especially be avoided on wrappers of goods intended for the Chinese market, while red is auspicious.

Mose Schaumburg, the Harlem merchant prince, had his usual annual failure last week. A Gentile creditor was so completely eaten up with curiosity that he asked:

"What porcentage are you going to allow your creditors—twenty per cent., I suppose."

"Ven you suppose I allows my greditors dot much you vash one of de moshly suppositious men I efer met. Five pershent ish more den I am in de habit of allowing dose greditors."—Texas Siftings.

An Ax to Grind.

"Is your father at home?" asked Mr. Smith.

"No, sir," answered Dan; "but you will find the grindstone in the shed."

"I do not care for the grindstone," replied Mr. Smith. "What made you think that I did?"

"Because papa says you never come here unless you have an ax to grind," answered Dan, innocently.—Harper's Young People.

Girlish Philosophy.

Little Girl—I love cats; don't you?

Vinegary Old Maid—No; I hate cats.

"Why?"

"Because they scratch."

"That's because you stroke them the wrong way. You has to treat cats different from folks."—Life.

Done to a Turn.

"Do you kill the germs in the hydrant water, ma'am?" queried the family physician.

"Yes, I try to, doctor."

"You boil the water, I suppose."

"Not now, doctor; it's so easy to bake it!"—Chicago Tribune.

"How I Envy You."

"I hate being alone," said Ethel, as she sat conversing with Chollie; "I like company."

"Indeed," said Chollie, removing his cane knob from his mouth to enable himself to talk. "You surpwise me. I never feel bored when I'm alone. I am satisfied with my own society."

"Then you are more easily pleased than anybody I ever met," she said. "How I envy you!"—N. Y. Press.

Used to It.

Lord Shadycove—Of course I can never be very intimate with your father, he being in trade, but he will not be surprised to find me with some insular prejudices, will he?

Miss Manhattan—Oh, no. Nothing foolish or ill-bred that you can do will surprise him.—Life.

An Adventurer, Probably.

Mrs. Van Jenkyns—I see Mrs. Hoetong is going to have "King Lear" at her next private theatricals.

Mrs. Newrich (mad with envy)—Is she, the affected thing? Do you know, I don't believe he's a real king at all.—Chicago News.

One True Man.

"No," said the milkman, as he took another dipperful from the tealcttle and poured it into the can, "I couldn't look my customers in the face if I used anything but boiled water in my business."—Chicago Tribune.

A Sorry Condition.

"Times is gittin' harder an' harder on the deservin' poor," he said, when the barkeeper invited him not to interest himself in the crackers and cheese. "No free silver, no free trade, no free lunch and no nothin'."—Judge.

BUSINESS COLLEGE

—AND—

SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,

4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

Lard as a Life-Saver

The school boy's composition asserted that pins had saved the lives of many people by their not having swallowed them; so lard has saved the lives of thousands by their having avoided food of which it forms a part. IT IS A MYSTERY STILL

No Clew to the Murderer of the Bordens.

DETECTIVES ENTIRELY BAFFLED.

It Cannot Yet Be Told Whether the Stains on the Axe Were Made By Blood or Rust—The New Bedford Clew Exploded.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 8.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Thomas J. Borden and his wife last Thursday is as deep as ever, and the detectives tacitly admit they are baffled. This morning City Marshal Hilliard submitted to a long interview with a United Press reporter. As to the blood said to have been found on the axe in the custody of the police, he said:

"I don't know whether these spots are blood or from rust. They are of a character that may be taken for either, but until the Boston chemists pass an opinion it would be folly for me to speak. As I told you yesterday, we have four axes in our possession. Two are such axes as farmers use—one is an ordinary chopping axe, the other is what is called a shingle axe. There my be spots of blood on either or all of these, but to-day I cannot say there is the slightest evidence on any of them. There is nothing in the Westport clue reported yesterday.

"I sent men to chase it down to prove it to myself, but after every doubtful point had been cleared up I believed there was no man traveling to New Bedford from this city under suspicious circumstances.

"At this moment I can say there is nothing to connect any members of the family with the murder. We can reach a certain point, but from thence forward things will not match and we cannot make them. A great deal has been said about the fact that no arrests have been made up to this time. These persons in the house have practically been under arrest for the past few days. If I was asked to give a candid opinion why arrests should not be made, I would say that on the present evidence nobody could be held. It would be folly for us to place this family behind bars when so many outside clews are yet to be looked up.

Assistant Superintendent Hanscom of the Pinkerton Detective Agency is here. He was brought here by Counsel Jennings on the part of the family. He acknowledged that the crime is the most mysterious affair he has ever encountered, and will require the best efforts of the criminal force of New England to ferret out.

Mr. Jennings is the family lawyer and is intimately acquainted with the two daughters. From the first he has scouted the idea of the suspicion entertained by the police against Miss Lizzie. Since she appeared in public Saturday afternoon, during the funeral, she has gained many warm supporters in Mr. Jennings' opinion. She is self-possessed, well built, and quite pretty, and would be the last person in the world to be suspected of the heinous offense charged against her.

Great crowds of people congregated all day yesterday in the vicinity of the scene of the murder. Fifteen policemen are engaged keeping the crowds moving and in preventing abnormally curious persons from climbing the fence of the Borden homestead.

The Borden home is still being watched closely and the police surveillance over Mr. Morse, the Misses Borden and the servant will not be removed.

It now seems probable that another autopsy on the Bordens' will be made, as the examining physicians are imagining complications that were wholly unexpected.

Mr. Morse is talking more freely than any person in the family, with the possible exception of Hiram Harrington, who married a sister of Mr. Borden. Mr. Harrington is embittered intensely against the family, and he does not hesitate to say the most unfounded things.

The Pago-Pago Coaling Station.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary of State Foster, speaking of the Pago-Pago coaling station in Samoa, about which there has been some newspaper discussion, said that by a treaty or agreement with Samoa, the United States acquired a right to a coaling station in the harbor of Pago-Pago. In fact the United States had first choice of selection of a site and had taken advantage of it and was now erecting wharves and docks in the harbor. This right of the United States did not exclude Great Britain from also having a coaling station in the harbor. It only gave the United States first choice.

Pursuit of the Train Robbers.

VISALIA, Cal., Aug. 8.—This town is still wildly excited over the last two days' battles with the train robbers. Nearly every able-bodied man has joined the sheriff's posse, and all are out hunting for Evans and Sontag. Those who know the mountain country back of Visalia say that Evans is pretty sure to get away, as he can travel forty miles a day with ease and he knews every trail and canyon. Feeling against the robbers is so bitter that it is almost certain they will be lynched if caught.

To Assist Corbett in Training.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—John McVeay, the well-known Philadelphia wrestler, will in future assist Jim Daly in the training of Pugilist Jim Corbett for his fight with Champion Sullivan. Corbett's strength has increased to such an extent that Daly has become too light for him, hence the change. McVeay is a powerful man weighing 232 pounds. He says that he never saw a fighter in better condition than Corbett is at present.

Hanged Herself With a Towel.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 8.—The body of Mrs. Thomas Early, of Dubuque, Ia., the wife of a prominent Chicago commission merchant, was found hanging by a towel in an out-building attached to a Pennsylvania avenue boarding house late last night. Mr. and Mrs. Early arrived here Saturday. The latter suffered from nervous prostration and was brought to Atlantic City for treatment.

GOMPERS ASSURES AID.

He Cheers Up the Homestead Strikers—O'Donnell's Whereabouts.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, left for New York yesterday. While here he was in conference with the leaders of the Homestead strike for several hours. He refused to talk for publication, but it is understood he assured the officers of the local lodge of the Amalgamated Association that the 700,000 members of the Federation were in line, that the full power of the organization will be brought to bear in behalf of the Homestead steel workers, and that every member will contribute to a fund for the benefit of the strikers.

The Federation, according to Mr. Gompers, will also assist in carrying out the boycott on material manufactured by the Carnegie Steel Company. The Knights of Labor, too, have fallen into line, and the men feel greatly encouraged.

Vice-Chairman Crawford, of the Advisory Board, stated this morning that applications are coming in from all parts of the United States, and that quite a number of mechanics who came out on the strike have thus found employment in union mills elsewhere.

Fully 200 members of the National Guard were sent home last evening. Battery "B" will go to-day, while the Fifth Regiment will probably depart for home to-morrow.

Chaplain Adams, of the Sixteenth Regiment, conducted religious services inside the mill yesterday morning.

There has been such distrust in the leaders owing to the continued and mysterious absence of Hugh O'Donnell, the acknowledged head and front of the Homestead strikers, that the members of the advisory board deemed it expedient to make known the leader's whereabouts.

Vice-Chairman Crawford said in this regard:

"Hugh O'Donnell is at the United States hotel, Boston. He is in the Rub on a secret mission not only of great importance to the workingmen of Homestead but to the laboring people all over the country. If he is successful the trouble will soon be at an end. Further than this I can give you no information."

At variance with Mr. Crawford's statement was the one made by Secretary McConnelly, who said: "O'Donnell is in Boston on private business in no way connected with the Homestead lock-out."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 8.—A Long Branch dispatch says; Chief Layton of this place ridicules the action which was taken by Prosecutor Irvins in commencing proceedings against Chief of Police O'Mara of Pittsburg, to bring that official into New Jersey to answer a charge of kidnapping Frank Mollick, the German baker and alleged Anarchist. Mollick, who has returned to Long Branch, now claims that he was taken to Pittsburg against his will and was refused a hearing at Long Branch when he demanded it. Chief Layton says that Mollick signed a written agreement to go to Pittsburg without a requisition. Prosecutor Irvins, it is understood, will present the case to Governor Abbett and urge the Governor to demand that Chief O'Mara be brought into New Jersey to answer for violating the laws of this State.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY AT JAMESTOWN.

Patrick Towd Shoots George Heath and Then Himself.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The double tragedy that occurred at Fluevanna boat landing here yesterday afternoon when Patrick Towd of Dunkirk, N. Y., shot and instantly killed George Heath of Jamestown, and then shot and killed himself, has created a great sensation.

Towd came to the lake on an excursion accompanied by two women. While at Fluevanna Landing Heath put his arm around the neck of the women who were with Towd. Quick as a flash Towd pulled a revolver and fired point blank at Heath. The latter fell dead at Towd's feet.

Towd realizing his terrible crime, ran into a building nearby and fired four bullets into his own person, expiring in a few moments.

Col. Whitefield to Resign.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. — Col. S. A. Whitefield, who has been connected with the Postoffice Department since the advent of the present administration, first as Second and then as First Assistant Postmaster General, will shortly tender his resignation to the President. He has been elected vice-president and director of the United States Postage Stamp Delivery Company in Boston, Mass., and will take charge of the Western business of the company, with headquarters at Chicago. The business of the company consists of a slot machine to facilitate the sale and distribution of postage stamps to the public.

Says He Threw the Race.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—Edward Durnan, who was defeated in the last heat of the senior single-scull race at the regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen held here recently by Edwin Hedley of the Vespen Club of Philadelphia, has made affidavit that he threw the race. He swears that he entered into an agreement with, and at the solicitation of, John Guinane, Captain of the Sunny Side Boat Club, Toronto, to lose the race in question and to win at Saratoga. For doing this he was to receive half the money that was made out of the bets placed by his confederates.

Little Mary Hayes' Assailant.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 8.—George Enles, the negro arrested on suspicion of having assaulted Mary Hayes, twelve years old, in a swamp near this city Friday, has been identified by Mary Massaur, companion of the victim. The Hayes girl was too frightened to recognize the negro when he was taken before her. There was considerable excitement over the arrest and identification of Enles, and many threats were made to lynch him. He was safely landed in jail.

THE COMMISSIONERS NAMED.

Our Representatives at the International Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The commissioners who are to represent the United States at the coming International monetary conference are officially announced. They are: Senator William B. Allison, of Iowa; Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada; Congressman James B. McCreary, of Kentucky; Ex-Comptroller Henry W. Cannon of New York, and Gen. Francis A. Walker, of Massachusetts.

With the exception of Mr. McCreary these names have all been among those discussed for the appointment.

Senator Allison, of Iowa, has seen nearly 20 years' service in the United States Senate and was eight years a member of the House before his election to the Senate. He is chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, a leading member of the Committee on Finance, and a recognized leader in financial matters. He voted against the Stewart Free Coinage bill when it passed the Senate in July last.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, has been an ardent advocate of free silver. He has not spoken often in the Senate, but whenever he has spoken on finance in that body his remarks have always commanded close and earnest attention. He also is a member of the Senate Committee on Finance.

Mr. McCreary of Kentucky succeeded Mr. Perry Belmont as Chairman on the Committee of Foreign Affairs in the House of Representatives, and has devoted considerable attention to international questions. He introduced the bill which called out the Pan-American Conference in Washington and also the House bill providing for the present monetary conference. He voted in favor of free coinage of silver.

Mr. Cannon succeeded Mr. John Jay Knox as United States Comptroller of the Currency, and resigned to accept the presidency of the Chase National Bank of New York. He is classed as being opposed to free coinage of silver under existing conditions.

General Walker of Massachusetts is a well-known writer on economic questions. He was Supt. of the Tenth Census and was a member of the International Monetary Conference held at Paris in 1878.

The place of meeting of the conference is not yet definitely decided upon. It will be in one of the capitals of Europe—probably either Brussels or Berlin some time in October.

An appropriation of $80,000 was made in the Sundry Civil bill to defray the expenses of the United States Commissioners.

COINING THE FAIR MONEY.

Work Commenced on the Souvenir Columbian Half Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Treasury Department has begun the preparations for coining the five million "Columbian half dollars" authorized by the World's Fair bill.

The designs of the coin have already been selected. The reverse will show the main building of the exposition and the obverse the head of Columbus.

The plaster cast of Columbus was made by A. S. J. Dunbar, sculptor of Washington, from a portrait which is recognized by experts as being as nearly authentic as any that exists and is believed to have been painted for Domenico Maliplero, a Venetian Senator and historian, in 1501.

The work of coining the souvenir "Columbian half dollars" will occupy a month or six weeks.

The bill also provides for the striking of 50,000 bronze medals with appropriate devices and emblems at a cost of $60,000 and 50,000 vellum and impressions for diplomas at a cost of $48,000. These will be entered upon later.

Denial from Archbishop Ireland.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 8.—Archbishop Ireland has made a brief statment touching the report that President Harrison had urged the Pope to bestow the Red Hat upon him. The statement is as follows: "I am much pained by these constant recurring rumors about me. Whether they originate with well meaning but imprudent friends or with sinister minded enemies they result in giving deep displeasure and harming the cause of religion. I repeat what I have said that for all these rumors those who speak them have no foundation for their words. Matters grow worse when it is sought to implicate persons of prominence. These reports are so evidently false on their face that no serious minded persons will heed them."

The Lowell Memorial.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Mr. Leslie Stephen writes to the "Times" that the subscription has been opened for the proposed Lowell memorial. He says that the committee having the matter in charge have already received more than sufficient suppers to insure the insertion of the windows, as planned, in the Chapter House of Westminster Abbey. The character of the commemorative tablet to be placed under the windows, he adds, depends upon the amount of the subscriptions.

To Take Off "Tribune" Boycotts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—At the meeting of Typographical Union No. 6 it was agreed to take off the boycotts from the "Tribune" as soon as all the details of unionizing the "Tribune" have been settled. This consists of the formation of chapels, election of a chairman, etc. As soon as this has been done circulars will be sent to all labor organizations and typographical unions informing them of the fact.

Progress of the Treasury Train.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 8.—The Treasury train, carrying $2,000,000, is due here at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The greatest effort is being made to prevent the public from receiving the details of the passage of the train for fear of robbery. The train's passage so far has been without accident.

HER RECOVERY IS SLOW

Mrs. Harrison's Improvement Not What Was Hoped For.

SHE MAY NEVER RECOVER HEALTH.

The Mountain Air at Loon Lake Has Done Much Good, But Still She Is Far From Well—She Drives Out With the President—Dr. Gardner to Return Shortly.

LOON LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—This morning President Harrison, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Dimmick went out for a drive, and after returning the invalid declared she felt much better.

Mrs. Harrison still takes her meals at the cottage. Dr. Gardner, the physician who attended Mrs. Harrison on her arrival, is no longer here. He has now been gone several days, but it is understood that he will return in a few days. There is no getting around the fact that Mrs. Harrison is still a very sick woman. That she has improved to a wonderful degree is also certain, but the newspaper reports published saying that she was entirely recovered are without sense and foundation.

There are grave fears that Mrs. Harrison is not likely to be again restored to her usual vigorous health. The disease from which she is suffering is one of the stomach. The first evidences of the complaint showed themselves at least six years ago, when she spent the winter months in New York city under the care of a specialist. The treatment she then received seemingly almost entirely removed the disease, and her general health until a year ago, has been good.

She was one of the first of the White House family to succumb to an attack of the grip. The past winter her physician repeatedly warned her that she was exerting herself entirely too much, and advised a total rest from both social and household duties. She kept up, however, until the day came when she was entirely prostrated and unable to rise from her bed.

Her illness from the start was a serious one and excited the most intense anxiety on the part of her family. When she left for Loon Lake she was unable to walk unassisted more than a few steps.

ORR WILL RECOVER.

He Was Wounded by Murderer Reed—The Desperado's Tragic Death.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 8.—It is thought now that Chief of Police Orr, who was wounded Saturday night at Noblestown, Pa. by Murderer Martin Reed, will recover. The body of Deputy Sheriff Coyle, who was killed by the desperado, was taken to McDonald, Pa., yesterday. The circumstances surrounding the shooting and the tragic death of the murderer are still the all absorbing topics of discussion.

Reed had a speedy trial for the poisoning of Alex Chapel, was convicted and finally sentenced on the 29th of May, 1892, to be hanged. That evening he broke jail and took to the country, hotly pursued by Sheriff William Cherry and his deputies.

Chief of Police J. A. Orr of Washington, and Deputies W. B. McBride and Samuel Williamson followed him into Beaver county, afterward getting track of their man at Mechanicsburg, Clinton, Bovington and Noplestown.

Saturday afternoon the officers discovered the murderer in an ice house at Noblestown.

A crowd of perhaps 1,500 men, women and children had gathered on either hill, watching the scene with intense interest.

Twenty or thirty men and boys armed with shot guns and Springfield rifles came also to help in the capture.

At 4 o'clock Constable Coyle, of McDonald, arrived to assist in the capture.

He was warned not to enter the ice house, but in a foolhardy way jumped out of his buggy and, armed with a revolver, ran to the door previously opened by Orr and threw it back on the hinges.

He had scarcely done so when a shot rang out, quickly followed by another. He staggered back a few feet and fell prostrate, shot through the heart.

The first shot missed, but the second found its mark. He was dead.

It was then that Deputy Williamson procured a torpedo containing about two quarts of nitro-glycerine, lighted the fuse and placed it at a corner of the shed farthest from the door where Coyle was shot.

It exploded with a frightful noise, throwing planks, sod and earth high into the air. It merely lifted a corner of the house and was a failure.

Another man brought a can of oil, threw the contents on the walls and touched it with a match.

A flame twenty feet high leaped up and the roof and walls were afire in an instant.

The fire rapidly gained headway and just about half the material was ablaze when two muffled shots were heard and all was still save the crackling timbers.

At last the walls fell, and at a quarter to 8 o'clock the body of the unfortunate hunted murderer could be seen lying in the ruins on its back, stretched at full length.

A round hole was seen in the charred skull above the left eye and the whole top of the skull was blown off, exposing the brain.

The bystanders saw the evidence and all considered it sound circumstantial proof that Reed had taken his own life rather than be burned alive or hung.

Withdraws from the Congressional Race.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 8.—Mayor J. B. Sargent, of this city, one of the aspirants for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the second district has withdrawn from the contest because he was beaten by James F. Figott at the primaries held here Friday evening. Mayor Sargent positively refuses to allow his name to be used in connection with the nomination.

Immigrants Refused During July.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—For the month of July 167 immigrants were refused a landing at New York and returned to the countries from which they came. Of these two were insane, 47 likely to become a public charge—7 were diseased and 111 were contract laborers.

Jockey Garrison Dangerously Ill.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—"Snapper" Garrison, the famous jockey, is lying dangerously ill at the Scarboro Hotel, Long Branch. His family is at his bedside.

Absolutely the Best.

CENSUS STATISTICS.

Relative Proportion of Males and Females in the United States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The following statistics regarding the relative proportions of the sexes in this country, are taken from the census bulletin just issued:

The whole number of males in the United States in 1890 is 32,067,880, and the whole number of females 30,854,370. For the United States as a whole, therefore, there are for every 100,000 males 95,280 females in 1890.

In 1880 there were 96,544 females to every 100,000 males, while in 1870 there were 97,801 females to every 100,000 males. The females exceed the males in 1890 to a greater extent than 5 per cent. in the District of Columbia, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

There are in the United States as a whole 17,330 foreign born persons to each 100,000 native born persons in 1890 as against 18,366 in 1880 and 16,875 in 1870.

The colored exceed the white in 1890 in three States only, namely: in South Carolina, or 149,117 colored to 100,000 white; in Mississippi, or 136,287 colored to 100,000 white, and in Louisiana, or 100,143 colored to 100,000 white. These same States also showed an excess of colored in 1880 as follows: South Carolina, 154,519 colored to 100,000 white; Mississippi, 135,647 colored to 100,000 white, and Louisiana, 106,809 colored to 100,000 white.

For the United States as a whole in 1890 there has been a relative decrease of colored or 1,576 to each 100,000 white as compared with a relative increase from 1870 to 1880 of 684 to each 100,000 white.

In the South Atlantic division there has been a relative decrease in 1890 of 4,853 colored to each 100,000 white, and in the South Central division of 4,584 colored to each 100,000 white.

—Three of the handsomest actresses that will be seen on any stage this season, appear at the opening of Music Hall this evening.

—Virgie Arnold's serpentine dance at Music Hall this evening will be illuminated with calcium lights thrown in from back and front.

—The guests of The Netherwood have engaged a large number of reserved seats for the opening of the season at Music Hall, this evening.

—Every piece of scenery used at the opening of Music Hall this evening, is brand-new. A lot of scenic artists have been at work there for a month past.

—Dr. Estebrooke took out 23 teeth for a lady to-day who says: "If I had only known he could remove them so easily, it would have saved me much suffering." He stays only this week.

—While the victim was in bathing at Asbury Park, Saturday, some one stole $50 and a watch from the garments of Harry O. Williams, formerly secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Plainfield.

—A Pennsylvania railroad locomotive ran off the track at New Brunswick last night, into a carpenter shop of the company, and set fire to the shop, which was destroyed. The engineer was severely hurt.

—The firemen say that foolhardy bicyclists risk their necks in racing in front of the engines in going to fires. They say they know the wheelmen can beat them, but some day some wheelman may be thrown from his metal steed, and if the engine right behind goes over him his name is R. I. P.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, jr., are at the Neptune House, Belmar.

Mrs. E. P. Thorn has returned from a month's sojourn at Keswick, Ontario, Canada.

Dr. G. W. Edicott and family left home to-day for Rogers Rock House, Lake George.

Councilman F. E. Marsh left to-day for Mt. Pocono. He will be registered at the Mt. Pocono House.

J. M. Burnett and family, of 47 East Fifth street, have gone to Brantingham, N. Y., for the balance of August.

Miss Nell McKee of Brooklyn is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader of Duer street. Miss McKee is a sister of Mrs. Leader.

A bright little boy, weight 8 pounds, arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laughlin, Elmwood place and Front street, Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. Carlos Martin and wife, of Newark, were the guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Stout of "The Elms", East Front street.

Miss Louise A. Harding and Miss Marguerite Elinore Connor, of New York, are spending the summer season at the home of their cousin, Mrs. S. L. Miller, East Third street.

Miss Grace DeForest of 75 West Second street left this morning for her vacation among friends and relatives at Newburgh on the Hudson. She will be gone two or three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. N. Cadmus, of Brooklyn, are visiting their son Will, wife and baby Helen, at 78 Duer street. They are so infatuated with Plainfield that they will probably remain here several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh of East Second street left to-day for a two-weeks' visit with friends at Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Dunkirk, N. Y. The latter city is the present home of their son Harry.

William E. Hinkson, head clerk at manager Leggett's Central pharmacy, has gone to his home at Chester for a few days to build up strength for his coming laborious duties of selling advance seats for Music Hall.

Margaret McCusker died yesterday at her home on East Second street, in the twenty-eighth year of her age. Funeral services will be held from her late residence to-morrow morning at 9:30 and from St. Mary's church at 10.

Mrs. M. W. Moore of this city is in receipt of a letter from her mother, Mrs. Babbidge, written in her ninety-eighth year. It is perfectly legible and would do credit to eyes and brains of younger growth. How many of the present generation will do likewise at her age? Mrs. Babbidge is the grandmother of Mrs. E E. Anthony of this city and of Mrs. A. T. Shotwell, of Fargo, North Dakota.

The Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn preached two fine sermons at the Trinity Reformed church yesterday. His morning subject was "Our Father", and the sermon was a most eloquent and finished oration. The evening discourse was on the healing of blind Bartimeus, and was a strong appeal to the unconverted. The supply committee will make no mistake in securing Dr. Martyn for another Sunday during pastor Schenck's absence. Yesterday quite a number of strangers attended to hear the popular preacher.

THE HOODOO BROKEN.

SOMERVILLE BEATEN AT LAST, AND THE PENNANT PLAINFIELD'S SURE.

Sneeden Pitched a Magnificent Game and Might Have Owned the Town.—The Crescents Put Up an Errorless Game Against Somerville, and Now It Is Only the Beginning of the End.

Who says now the Crescents cannot play ball? Who will dare say that Sneeden is afraid to go in the box against the West Ends after pitching the game he did on Saturday, and holding the heavy batters down to five little hits scattered through nine long laborious innings? What a game! Charlie Reed's pets amply redeemed themselves for the past failures when by hard smashing of the ball in the opening innings they won from the Harkinstowners. The playing of the Crescents was faultless; not an error of any sort can be credited to them, and as for hitting they seemed to have their air-tight bats with them. A water spout was sadly needed by the West End management when the third inning had ended, after five men with the golden quarter moon on their breasts had dusted around the diamond and crossed the plate and the boy put up the figures Crescents, 5, West Ends, 0, but no the sun shone just as bright as ever, the sky remained exasperatingly blue, and the flag which hung from the staff never trembled. Plainfield was on top. The Somervillians were in the dust. The hoodoo had been broken. Why was it? Was it because Keller had gone West? If so let Keller stay West until the season closes and the pennant hangs from the staff, then let Tom come home and rejoice with the gang. Well! well! well! what a crowd was there. All the stands were filled and the bleachers were overflowing far out into the field. The "foul proof" stand just back of the catcher where the 400 sit was filled with the beauty of Plainfield and Somerville in all the glory of summer dresses and suspenders. One giddy young thing in the excitement of Bonner making the three-bagger lost one of the buttons which fasten the aforesaid suspenders, but as she was equipped with a safety pin it was all right. And Sneeden pitched. Whether or not he was influenced by what THE PRESS said and went in to "spite 'em" will never be known, but he pitched and pitched well. He made the larger majority of the West Enders look like cigar signs. The only trouble was that Sneeden's swing was too long for the plate and he invariably got three balls on the batter before he knew it. That made no difference, as with a hitch and a jerk he would put the next three plumb over the rubber and the man would strike out. When Sneeden takes off his cap and lays it gently on the ground you may expect something is coming, and it does, a strike. As for Pete Anderson the West End pitcher, he was weak; his ball came across the plate as big as a toy balloon. Even Murphy hit him, and then to square things Bobby Miller hit Murphy. They say turn about is fair play, but not in base-ball; there is too much advantage for the batter. The game started off with a vim and dash for our side. When the bell rang the nine grey-suited men trotted to there positions, and Carby the special correspondent of the Harkinstown Democrat, walked four paces foreward to the white-washed square where so many hopes are shattered. The look in his eye meant a base hit, but after Sneeden pitched three bad balls he put on steam and put two strikes over the plate; then some fellow yelled "burn that letter". Carby lost his good eye and struck out, and Mr. Frazee played on his B flat cornet. Some people thought it was a fish horn, but I looked after the game and it was a real brass cornet. There was one other time that Mr. Frazee played, and that was when Farrell caught Daley's smashing liner in the seventh by turning a flip-flop sideways and stretching out his left hand. As you see, the Plainfield people can appreciate a good play even if it is made by a West Ender. These last two sentences were like corn to roast beef, a kind of a side dish. But to go on, Farrell drove the ball right into Bonner's paws. And then occurred the only saddening thing of the day, except Doc Kennedy's kicking. Harkins came to the bat and the second ball pitched struck him plumb on the left side of the head at the base of the brain. John stiffened out and dropped like a log at the plate. A groan went up, as everyone thought he was done for. In a moment he came to and said he was all right only dazed. He went to the bench and a runner took his place at first. Then Field knocked a little one to Daley. Eddie lined it over to Jones and the West Ends' first inning was as bare as a baby's face. But not so with our initial inning. Chic waited patiently and got a four ball prize. He went to second when Harkins stepped off the bag to get Cadmus's bad throw of Brady's grounder, and came home on Murphy's neat single. Brady also attempted to score but was thrown out at the plate. Then Turner made a force hit and Murphy scored by the skin of his teeth. A passed ball, and Turner raced around to third but died there by a quick snap of Kennedy's. Eddie Daley hit for two bags. All the time this run getting was going on Leidy stood over by the bench stamping his feet and thrashing his bat through the air. His words were plainly audible to all, "Let me get a swipe at it". With Daley on second he had the chance. He had three swipes at it, but each time the ball passed on and Leidy struck out. But George did nobly in the field—six put-outs and an assist for a centre-fielder without an error ought to cover a few strike-outs now and then. He covered the whole field from right centre to extreme left. In the ninth he got one fly which belonged to "Gentle Willie", that would have been good for three bases had he stood still. At this point he saved the game as the next two men hit safely and with three on bases four runs might have been easy. The West Ends drew blanks until the fourth and after the fourth baseball was a failure to them. In the fourth Field got a base on balls, then came home on two singles by Kennedy and Ryman, thus saving an ignominious whitewash. After the third the game had no very exciting features for the Crescent rooters, except once in a while and occasionally twice in a while Frazee would toot his trumpet and Doc. Kennedy would kick. It is a real pleasurable thing for two thousand people to watch Kennedy and Hofford kick, they do it in a systematic manner. I wonder who will lead in the kicking average at the end of the season. Poor Hudson! Life has no pleasures for him in the Central New Jersey Base-Ball League. The only thing that buoys him up is that scarlet coat and an advance of two dollars. In the Crescents' second inning Bonner hit hard for three bags and scored on Sneeden's two-bagger. Then Anderson, the cyclonic twirler of the Somervillians, was retired on half pay, and Bobby Miller, he of the brittle arm, stepped into the quadrangle. After his joints became loosened Bobby pitched a real nice game but he could not help Jocko dropping an easy fly or Kennedy letting the ball go by him. Then Daley hit an outshoot on the bugle and came home on Leidy's force hit. In consequence two more runs were scored and the crowd went mad, all except Col. Moore who said he was not going to yell until the last West End man was out in the ninth inning. And he said sadly: "Just to think, all I win is Doc Kennedy's cigar". The Colonel was sensible. There have been too many garrison finishes by the West Enders to bank on winning early in the game. There is little more to tell. Each team struggled for runs—the Crescents to increase their lead; the West Ends to reduce the Crescents'—but in vain. From the fourth to the end there were no runs and but very few hits. Carby surprised his constituents by hitting safely in the eighth, but he missed the bag when he started to steal and came trotting to the bench. A Hale and hearty young fellow stood just behind me keeping tally of the base hits, and now and then he would let loose with an awful ear-splitting yell. I heard him called Tom. He occasioned not a little amusement by asking Billy Cadmus who the old duffer was with the lopsided white tile sitting just behind him. As the old gentleman in question happened to be Billy's pater the joke was all on Hale. However, he smoothed things over by apologizing like a little man, and the old gentleman smiled. Four double plays were made in the game and it closed with a most brilliant one by Leidy and Daley. The blue and old-gold are still on top. But six more league games are to be played—two with each club. Plainfield to win the pennant must win five of them, as Somerville is out for blood; and by defeating Plainfield, Westfield and Elizabeth will be only helping Somerville, so boys play ball. The flag comes to Plainfield if you will only hustle. Strike while the iron is hot.

NOTES.

The long and the short of it, Sneeden and Hofford, but they seem to jibe all the same.

Georgie Cadmus, although on the wrong side, is playing the game of his life to the delight of his friends.

Sneeden is the man who was afraid to pitch against the West Ends, but he did pitch and put up a wonderful game.

The happiest man in two continents after the game was shoe dealer Kenney, but in one inning he pulled up all the grass anywhere near him.

Leidy in centre field covered as much ground as a blue line flier. Now, Leidy, just get your eye on the hurtling sphere and you will be covered with glory.

The West Ends might have won in the ninth had Leidy patterned after the wooden man in left field. The hits were coming thick and fast when Leidy cut short the fun.

For the first time in the history of the Crescent-West End game the Plainfielders put up an errorless game, and at the same time hit the ball. Result, Plainfield won. Do it again.

Why does the management keep Murphy on the team? He can hit the ball, but won't. He says he is to play in Middletown. Let him go. He ought to play anywhere else than in Plainfield.

Heretofore the Plainfield's right fielder has usually been the change pitcher. Now they have a man who can play the position in Brady. On Saturday he made a running catch that roused the rooters to frenzy.

After THE PRESS published the batting averages last week with Murphy leading, he at once struck for more pay. He did not get it, but manager Reed left word at the City Hotel to give Murphy an extra piece of pie for dinner.

Better Police Work Demanded.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As a regular patron of the ball games of the Crescent League, I protest against such sleepy, inefficient officers as marshal Whitely. At Saturday's game he was requested several times to move the crowd back from behind the players' bench, and thus let those on the smokers' stand see the game. He seemed totally indifferent to their appeals, and finally sat down where he could see the game, and let the crowd stand where they were not entitled to be. Finally, marshal Pangborn was appealed, to, but he said Mr. Whitely was in charge of the grounds and he (Mr. Pangborn) did not want to interfere and do Whitely's work.

I believe when the matter is brought before the managers of the league, they will hire efficient officers who are not afraid to do their duty.

Close Inspection.

Our Clothing will bear the closest inspection, and the conservative gentleman in the picture says he can find nothing wrong even in the buttonholes. They (the clothes) are all wool and as wide as you want them.

We have solved the problem of giving greater value for the money than any other clothing house in the state. Our method of doing this is simple enough when you master it, and consists in having cash with which to buy at the very lowest notch, the judgment to know a good thing when we see it and unequalled and extensive manufacturing facilities. Making our own stock at prices away below what our competitors have to pay, we are in a position to offer goods at prices they cannot meet.

WESTFIELD WINNING TOO.

A Great Pitchers' Battle, with the Odds in Favor of Ripleyville.

The Westfield management put Sharrott in the box on Saturday, and his superb pitching won the game for them. No better game has been played this season by the teams of this league. Elizabeth outbatted and outfielded the Westfield men, but could not hit the ball when men were on the bases. Both pitchers were in fine form, only twelve hits being obtained, seven of which were by Elizabeth. The game resolved itself into a pitchers' battle, with the odds in favor of Westfield. No runs were scored until the fifth inning, when Westfield made its first. With two men out, Smith came to the bat and lined out a two-bagger, it being the first hit made by his side. Kenzie followed him, and brought him home by a clean hit to right centre. In the sixth Elizabeth scored through hits by Touhey and Moorehead, Touhey coming home on Sharrott's wild pitch. In the eighth, Kenzie walked to first base. Warner's hit advanced him to third, and Sharrott's two-bagger brought him home. This proved to be the winning run, for although Elizabeth succeeded in getting three men on bases in the eighth and two in the ninth they could not hit safe enough to bring in the runs. Francis pitched a great game, striking out all three men in the fourth inning, and the good fielding of his team in the second inning allowed him to retire Westfield after pitching only five balls. Sharrott's work was phenomenal, Moorehead and Moran being the only two men who did not strike out. Bowes and Francis both struck out three times. The game was an interesting one to watch, and kept the Westfield rooters on the anxious seat throughout. Smith on first base was quite in the game, and Warner and Sharrott watched the home plate in great shape, catching these men there. The score:

SMUGGLERS, ROGUES AND WANDERERS.

Festive Choir Boys from Plainfield in Camp at Merwin's Point.

CAMP TOWNSEND,
MERWIN'S POINT, CONN., Aug. 6.

Yesterday was not exactly a clear day, but one with occasional showers. The boys spent most of the day playing cards and singing in and around their tents. With the aid of Arthur Ford and "Boots" we are kept in good spirits by their occasional jokes. Next week Wednesday is to be quite a gala day, and we shall not likely return home until Friday, although we may return Wednesday morning. The routine Sunday is as follows:

Morning call, 8:30. Breakfast, 9.
Morning prayer, 9:15. Dinner call, 2:30.
Dinner, 3. Church service, 4.
Lunch, 7. Retiring call, 9:30.
Lights, 10.

Augu t 7.

Yesterday was really the finest day we have had so far. The fishing was very good indeed, and quite a goodly number were caught. Master Perry left in the evening for home, after wishing all good luck for the rest of the time. The choir received a very cordial invitation to sing in Seymore to-day, but were unable to accept it. The success of this year's camp is largely due to the faithful work of the lieutenants, who are in charge of three of their companions. The lieutenants were the three boys who had sold the most number of entertainment tickets during the past season. They are masters Schutt, Orville Waring and Charles Barlow. Master Schutt's tent is known as "Smugglers' Cave", Orville Waring's "Rogues' Roost", and Charles Barlow's "Wanderers' Rest."

GERMAN LUTHERANS UNITE.

Rev. Edward Klonka Installed as Pastor of St. Peter's in North Plainfield.

Yesterday the Rev. Edward Klonka was ordained and installed as pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran congregation, North Plainfield, by the Rev. Dr. E F. Moldenke of New York. Over fifty persons attended the impressive ceremonies in Warren Mission chapel. This congregation has been in existence for several years, and has lately received a great impetus from the fact that now for the first time in the history of Plainfield a Lutheran minister resides in the city. The Rev. Klonka will undertake to gather all the scattered German Lutherans in the neighborhood of Plainfield, and to rekindle the religious fire which has so long lain dormant in the hearts of the German brethren. Through the kindness of the trustees, and especially Mr. Gardner, the congregation has obtained the use of Warren Mission chapel at a small rental.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

THAT BELL BOY AGAIN!

He Tells of a Lot of People and Things He Sees About Hotel Netherwood, and Promises More "Haynon".

HOTEL NETHERWOOD, Aug. 6.

MR. EDITOR:—No offense meant, but as I sees a good many of our people reading your little paper (which I gets hold of and then snatch a few minutes between calls to get a few lines into what I am pleased to call my 'ead.) I thinks I hought to let you know my onest opinion of your rag. Well, I likes your style, there is no brick building style about it, nor 45 minutes from New York, nor Netherwood Heights about it, nor the Orange Mountains, as I sees turned out in other papers that comes here—too much machine-like and the very same material dished up every week—but with a little different sense. It gives me a pain in the neck to read such stuff. I knows what newspaper ritting his. I was sub-editor of the "Hold Chelsea Bladder" in London in addition to being pot-boy at the Spotted Goose, but I got the sack from the paper, for being too thirsty. Them dry looking sheets of paper, and the smell of ink, drove me to drink.

Well, we have got a nue crowd here, very varied but very nice. Them card parties are something like good; they gives us poor fellows a rest of our bones. People are too anxious to win the prizes not to have a cut in. Even last Friday I saw a church treasurer with two packs of cards in his 'ands. You may depend upon it, liking for cards catch some of these church people when they are away from the parson.

Well, there is an old gentleman here we calls the butterfly, for two reasons, one because he goes quickly from one girl to another, and because his hair is very much of the butter colour, we believe through the wrong bottle being used. We are watching that old gentleman! He has promised to tip up 'andsome at the end of the season, but he spends a lot of money in flowers for the girls, and one of us is rather nervous that he may forget us bell boys. A nice young gentleman left us on Wednesday to go to Heurope. The girls called him Clarence, and loved him so, but one has consoled herself already by sending for her long-legged chap that she oncet gave the go by to for Clarence. Girls are very fickle, and just reminds me of Jane that left me for the big drummer in the 'ouse guards. That was a blow! I do n't mean to the drum, but to my 'art!

Then we have some nice married ladies here. Some with their usbands and some without. Oh, there is such a sweet little lady just married! She looks into her usband's heys just like a duck in a thunderstorm, and when she speaks to us boys she goes wright to our arts! We all love her! Then we have a live hadmiral, who his so haffable with the ladies. They do so watch for him! Then we have a young hengaged couple we call the doves. They are so nice, but we can't always find them. I don't know where they get to, but they seem to believe in two being company. I caught a glimpse of the young lady's red slippers. It did make my art flutter.

All the folks on Thursday next are going to the cake-walk and I ear tell that the gentleman they call Oliver has entered for it. He is a very nice gentleman but he does make such a noise sometimes! The boys are very rude, some of them. One calls a gentleman who comes here to call upon his mamma, an Old Jay bird. Then there is another boys that has to be chastised by the combined efforts of three persons. The aunt has to hold the boy's legs, the nurse the ead and shoulders, while the mamma calls into use a very big and strong hair brush, on a part of the body that I am not at liberty to mention. One favor before I leaves you. Send two copies of your papers to us Bell boys.

The Elizabeth Wheelmen are the Champions.

The final heat of the ten-mile road team race for the championship of Union county was ridden Saturday afternoon over the course from Elizabeth to Cranford and return. The riders were teams of six men each. The Elizabeth Athletic club, the Westfield Athletic club, and the Elizabeth Wheelmen were the winners of the trial heats.

The county road was in fine condition and the pace was hot throughout. Chas. Brown of the Elizabeth wheelmen finished first. Time, 29 minutes 49 1-5 seconds. Sidney Bowman of the Elizabeth Athletic club, second. Time, 29 minutes 50 seconds.

The race was won by the Elizabeth Wheelmen, they scoring 86 points out of a possible 171. The Elizabeth Athletic club scored 48.

Plainfield Cricketers Lose by a Narrow Margin.

Because of the New Jersey Athletic club's defeat by the Plainfield cricketers at Bergen Point, July 30, the Staten Island Athletic club sent the strongest eleven it could pick to this city last Saturday. Even at that they could only win by 10 runs.

The home team played a fine match throughout, but the destructive bowling of Woollan was too effective to win against. He bowled eight overs for five maidens, five runs, and six wickets. The score:

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Founder Cleaver Lays the Corner-Stone of the New Structure.

On the 8th of May, 1889, a few people met together in Cutter's Hall on Front street and formed themselves into a Bible class under the direction of the Rev. J. B. Cleaver, who acted as their teacher. It was then called the Berean Class. They met there for some time, their numbers still on the increase, until it was thought best to form a church, which was done on July 1, 1889, and it was called the First Church of Christ.

Those forming this body of worshipers consisted of the Rev. J. B. Cleaver, W. H. Lunger, S. P. Hoffman, H. VanMiddlesworth, C. Gaskell and J. Carey.

During the past three years and two months the membership has increased from time to time, until it was thought best to erect a chapel for worship.

Ground had been purchased on Grove street, near Front, and the work was begun. Yesterday afternoon this band of Christians met and took part in the services of the laying of the corner-stone, which were in charge of the pastor, the Rev. J. B. Cleaver.

The exercises opened with singing, "Jesus Saves", after which the pastor led in prayer. This was followed by the singing of "Be Ye Strong In the Lord". Mr. Cleaver then spoke in substance as follows:

"We have met here to-day to lay the corner-stone of a chapel, not a church; for the Church of Christ is large, and we are only a small part of that great body. Our creed is very significant yet simple: 'Jesus is the Christ the Son of the Living God'.

"When men organize religions they are not satisfactory. There are always some defects."

He then spoke of one denomination which held a conference in Washington and during the session the members had split into 29 different beliefs.

"The creed of our church"—he continued—"has remained unchanged. It is the same to-day as it was when first formulated at Antioch. Christ is the corner-stone.

"Our book of discipline was not manufactured by man. It was the work of Jesus Christ, and is found in the New Testament Scriptures. It all centres in Christ.

"To-day this handful of followers meet here as Christians to erect this building, where the homeless, defenceless, and sin-sick souls may gather and inquire 'What shall I do to be saved?'"

With these few words of explanation, Mr. Cleaver called upon those in charge to assist him in laying the stone. It bore this inscription "Chapel of the First Church of Christ. Erected A. D. 1892", and it contained a record of the formation of the church, the creed, and such other articles as are usually placed in a receptacle of this kind.

Mr. Cleaver said: "I now declare this corner-stone laid in the name of the of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost."

All then joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers", while the collection was being taken up, after which the benediction was pronounced.

The Rev. J. B. Cleaver is pastor of the church, with the following members as officers and trustees:

President—B. W. Hand.
Treasurer—A. J. Stewart.
Secretary—W. H. Warner.
Trustees—H. A. Mears, C. H. Hand, A. G. Nitcholson, and S. P. Hoffman.

NOW FOR RAPID TRANSIT.

The Electric Cars Arrive, and Will Run To-Morrow.

The four cars to be used on the experimental track of the Plainfield Street Railway company arrived in this city to-day, and were unloaded at the Potter Press works. Thence they were taken to the car house on Fourth street near Grant avenue, where they are being tested this afternoon with a view to their being put into service to-morrow. The cars are beauties. They will doubtless be run according to fixed schedule time within a few days.

Railroad Accidents in New Jersey.

State Controller Heppenheimer's annual report of railroad accidents in New Jersey for the past year has just been put in print. It shows that there were 1,500 accidents on the 4,146 miles of railroad in the State. By them 331 persons were killed and 1,229 injured. Of these 204 were killed or injured by jumping from moving trains. The coupling of cars and track walking are shown to have been the most prolific causes of injury or death.

Fine Prizes for Wheelmen.

A handsome special design has been adopted for the badges of the Crescent League bicycle road race of Aug. 25. The distance will be 20 miles, over the Fanwood course. The race will be open to all bicycle riders in the State. There will be a Victor wheel for the winner and two gold and two silver medals.

Cheaper Meat for Plainfield.

Competition in the sale of meat is likely in Plainfield. The Armour Beef company is putting up an ice-house on Third street, not far from the Swift company's place, and rivalry may be expected similar to that following the establishment of an Armour concern near that of the Swifts at New Brunswick.

IF you get Dr. Pierce's genuine medicines, you're sure of two things—that they're the cheapest and the best. They're the cheapest; no matter what the price, for you pay only for the good you get. They're guaranteed. If they fail to benefit or cure, in any case, you have your money back. And you can be sure that they're the best, for they're the only remedies that are, or can be, sold so.

BUT you won't get the genuine medicines, except through druggists regularly authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (for the Liver, Blood and Lungs), . . . $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (for woman's weakness and ailments), . . $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (for the Liver), ... 25 cents.
Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, ... 50 cents.

Beware of everything purporting to be the genuine medicines, when offered by unauthorized dealers, at lower prices. They are gradually dilutions, imitations or counterfeits.

$130,000 DAMAGE DONE.

Tarrant & Co.'s Drug Establishment in Flames—Second Fire in a Week.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A three-alarm fire about completed this morning the job it began last Wednesday night in the buildings occupied by the old firm of Tarrant & Co., the wholesale dealers in drugs, perfumeries and the like, on the northwest corner of Warren and Greenwich streets. The fire broke out shortly after 8 and was under control before 10.

It was confined, thanks to the able work of the firemen, to two of the three buildings occupied by the firm, and in these buildings was the least valuable part of the stock.

The firm carried a stock valued at a quarter of a million of dollars. The fire to-day burned up about $100,000 worth of the stock and did about $30,000 damage to the buildings. It was caused by an explosion of alcohol.

The Fire Truck Smashed the Wagon.

Bad management of a gasoline stove set fire to the house owned by the estate of Charles Winston, on West Third street, at 8:30 Saturday night. The house is occupied by M. Evan, a Hebrew, and his boarders. The fire did only $25 worth of damage, and Evan was insured for $500. Policeman McCue sent in the alarm, from Box 34. The department turned out, but a hand extinguisher put out the fire.

On the way to the fire, on Liberty street, the hook and ladder truck crashed into Ed. Titsworth's buggy and utterly wrecked it. Mr. Titsworth was buried beneath the debris, but was unhurt. His horse was slightly cut in several places. An axle of Sturtevant's butcher wagon was bent. The firemen blamed Mr. Titsworth for forcing them to drive in close quarters between his wagon and Sturtevant's.

OBITUARY.

Daniel I. Smalley.

Daniel I. Smalley, who was stricken with convulsions early last Wednesday morning, died at his home on Summit avenue at 12:20 this noon. He regained consciousness for a few moments at 4 p. m., Sunday, and asked for paper and pencil and to see his brothers Newton and Albert. He proved, however, to be too weak to write or talk much, and soon became unconscious again. He leaves a widow and a son aged 11. He was in his thirty-ninth year. The death of Mr. Smalley is a particularly sad event, and the bereaved ones have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

First Anniversary of the Third Street Mission.

One year ago yesterday the Young People's League of the First Baptist church started Gospel meetings in a tent on East Third street. Last evening at the Third street mission the first anniversary was celebrated by interesting exercises, consisting of extra music by a mixed quartette, composed of Miss Nancy Randolph, Miss Kittie Glen, E. B. Ryder and B. T. Barnes. The music was delightfully rendered and thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Lou Northup was the pianist, and DeWitt C. Frazee the cornetist.

L. W. Randolph, the superintendent, gave an interesting report of the year's work, and W. F. Richards spoke of the work among the young people.

G. H. Batchelor had charge of the meeting, and gave a very interesting talk full of practical suggestions, after which short testimonies were given.

There was a large number present, the rooms being filled to their capacity.

BY THE WAY.

—The coolest place in town to-night will be Music Hall.

—A portion of the Home News establishment at New Brunswick was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Fortunately the new building containing the type, presses, etc., for the newspaper, was spared, and the best paper in Middlesex county will continue to be issued regularly without serious hindrance. Editor Boyd's losses will not daunt him, but will only spur the hustling newspaper man on to greater enterprise than ever.

The Best in the World.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

SON. "Mother, do you never weary with all your correspondence?" LYDIA PINKHAM. "No, my son, these letters of confidence bring to me the joy that a mother feels, whose daughter throws her arms around her neck and cries, 'Oh, mother, help me!' The women of the world are my daughters, dear."
SON. "Yes, mother, and they love you."

Lydia Pinkham's private letters from ladies in all parts of the world average one hundred per day, and truly has she been a mother to the race. Suffering women ever seek her in their extremity, and find both a helper and a friend. Correspondents will receive prompt and conscientious answers, and the sympathy of a mother.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women.

It cures the worst forms of Female Complaints, that Bearing-down Feeling, Weak Back, Falling and Displacement of the Womb, Inflammation, Ovarian Troubles, and all Organic Diseases of the Uterus or Womb, and is invaluable to the Change of Life. Dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus at an early stage, and checks any tendency to Cancerous Humor. Subdues Faintness, Excitability, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, etc., and invigorates the whole system. For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex, the Compound has no rival.

All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

An illustrated book, entitled "Guide to Health and Etiquette," by Lydia E. Pinkham, is of great value to ladies. We will present a copy to anyone addressing us with two 2-cent stamps.

NOBLE MOUNT MORGAN.

One of the Finest St. Bernard Dogs in America.

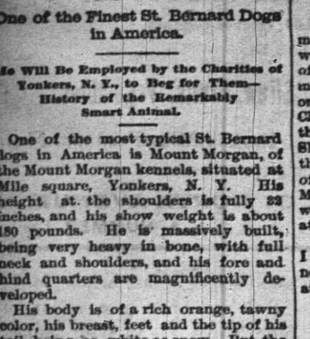
So Will Be Employed by the Charities of Yonkers, N. Y., to Beg for Them—History of the Remarkably Smart Animal.

One of the most typical St. Bernard dogs in America is Mount Morgan, of the Mount Morgan kennels, situated at Mile square, Yonkers, N. Y. His height at the shoulders is fully 32 inches, and his show weight is about 180 pounds. He is massively built, being very heavy in bone, with full neck and shoulders, and his fore and hind quarters are magnificently developed.

His body is of a rich orange, tawny color, his breast, feet and the tip of his tail being as white as snow. But the finest feature of this remarkable dog is his head, which competent critics acknowledge is equal to that of any in his class. Yet he has a value apart from his mere merits as a dog. Before he came to America he was frequently sent through the streets of London soliciting alms for various charitable purposes. His extraordinary intelligence renders him particularly adapted to such a task.

Mr. Ernest A. Lynde, his present owner, is now having a barrel-shaped money box, mounted in silver, made for him, so that he can make himself useful to the public institutions of Yonkers. The box will be fitted with a key which will be given for a stated time to each of the hospitals and charitable institutions in turn. The noble appearance of the dog will undoubtedly attract the attention of all who see him, and when he approaches them in a beseeching manner, raising his right paw as if to beg, there is little likelihood that any will pass him by unnoticed. The money box will be suitably inscribed with the name of the institution profiting by his services, so that every one will know toward what object they are contributing. When necessary he will be sent on a house to house canvass, for he is so sagacious that he can be taught with the greatest ease. Unfortunately, no accurate account has been kept of his collections while in London, but they are known to have amounted to many thousands of dollars.

Mount Morgan, or Hero, as he is called in private life, was born in England on June 10, 1887, and arrived in America by the White Star steamer Taurie on February 23 last.



MOUNT MORGAN.

His sire was the champion prize winner Save, and his dam was Sabrina. He is a brother of the renowned Lord Bute, who died on May 13 last at the Menth n kennels, Phoenixville, Pa. Lord Bute had won over twenty-six first prizes, and weighed 225 pounds before his last fatal illness.

Although somewhat smaller than his brother was, Mount Morgan is much more typical, and for this reason is considered by many the superior animal of the two. Certainly no dog could excel him in temper and intelligence. His gentle manners show his admirable breeding, and he might be allowed to roam free through a drawing-room filled with the choicest bric-a-brac without the slightest fear of his breaking a single article.

His life at the kennels at Mile square is simple, and very much to his liking. He breakfasts at eight o'clock on oatmeal and milk or half a pound of dog cakes. This meal serves him until five o'clock in the afternoon, when he dines on cooked meat, with gravy, bread, potatoes and two or three raw eggs. About twice a week he is given raw meat with his dinner. He is kenneled in a large horse box, in one corner of which is a comfortable bunk, filled with clean rye straw, which serves him for a bed. But he is not kept confined there. He takes plenty of exercise, walking and running from eight to ten miles each day.

The owner of this wonderful dog has wisely decided never again to exhibit him at bench shows. He asserts that Mount Morgan has made his record, and considering the risk encountered at shows does not care to expose him to them. Already too many valuable animals of the St. Bernard breed, imported at large cost, have died, and it would be a sad thing if this noble brute should be numbered with them.

John Johnson's Complaint.

Men who become suddenly rich should be judged leniently. They have many temptations from which the rest of us are, happily, delivered. Mr. John Johnson, a man of this class, was desirous to be known as of a literary turn of mind, and to that end proceeded to lay in a library. One of his purchases was an old dictionary, which, being somewhat out of repair, was sent to the binder's. When it was returned to the purchaser he found printed on its back the words: "Johnson's dictionary." The sight threw him into a furious passion, and he demanded of the messenger: "Why didn't he put the full name on: 'John Johnson's dictionary'?" —Tid-Bits.

The Adirondacks.

The Adirondack wilderness embraces an extent of 5,000 square miles, or 3,600,000 acres.

A Case of Extended Sympathy.

Bingo—That was a sad thing about Witherby. The poor fellow has had the delirium tremens.

Mrs. Bingo—Now I understand what his wife meant when she spoke of his illness this morning. She said she could sympathize with me.—Judge.

Paradoxical.

Rosalie—Some men think that Miss Bullion is pretty.

Grace—The idea! Why, one of the best artists in town did her portrait, and it was so good that the academy refused to let the hideous thing in the exhibition.—Harper's Bazar.

SHERMAN'S ADVICE.

How the Famous Ohio Senator Conducted His First Campaign.

I heard a curious story of John Sherman's first election to congress to-day, writes the Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis News. It was told me by Hon. Peter Grosscup, who is now one of the brightest young lawyers in Chicago, but who a few years ago was the republican nominee for congress in Sherman's Ohio district. Grosscup at this time lived in Ashland, O., a town of 3,000 people, just fifteen miles from Mansfield, where Sherman lives, and he was once the republican nominee for attorney general of the state. Said he:

"When I was nominated for congress, I was in doubt about accepting the nomination, and I went up to see Senator Sherman, and I told him there was no chance of me being elected. He advised me strongly to run, and said: 'You are a young man and you can't tell what will happen. I was nominated just as you have been, and I had no more chance of being elected than you have. I hadn't much money, but I had an old white horse and a rattle-trap of a buggy, and I took old Whitey and drove around all over my district. Every village I came to where I could find two or three men standing together I would get out and jump upon a chair or store box and make a speech to them, and I did this at every cross-roads in my district. Well, when the vote was counted, I was defeated, as I expected to be, but before the next campaign came on the Kansas-Nebraska troubles had entirely changed the sentiment of the district, and there was a fair chance for a whig to be elected. I was away ahead of all the other competitors because the people remembered me from my speeches and I got the nomination which resulted in the election and which sent me to congress. It may be the same with you—you can't tell what will happen. Public sentiment changes rapidly in the United States, and a new issue may spring up any day which may revolutionize the thought of other people.'"

SULTAN OF JOHORE.

He Will Visit the Chicago Exposition with His Suite.

Through the solicitation of Hon. Rounseville Wildman, United States consul and world's fair commissioner for the Straits settlements and Borneo, his highness Aboukar, sultan of Johore, has consented to visit with his suite the world's fair and to send, over to the exposition a complete Malay village. His highness is the only independent ruler in the Malay peninsula and one of the richest princes in eastern Asia.

His highness will make the Malay village exhibit a very thorough and interesting one. Although the colonial government declines to make any appropriation toward the fair, yet through commercial and personal channels a large number of merchants will cooperate in creating an adequate fund for the purpose. Aboukar is a good representative of what a Malay of superior caste and education can be when gifted with the opportunities of civilized life, and in this respect the present sultan of Johore is regarded as one of the most enlightened princes of the east. He is noble in birth and in impulse of heart, stern in purpose, yet merciful, honorable and truthful in word and deed, keenly intelligent and a judge of character.

Rodents Ruining Vegetation.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian throws new light on the so-called plague of "mice" in the south of Scotland. It appears that the vermin are not mice, but voles. They are larger than mice, with shorter tails, and are declared to differ from ordinary mice just as much as hares differ from rabbits. They have destroyed or are destroying the vegetation over many square miles of upland pastures in several counties, as they swarm in millions upon the hills and are rapidly multiplying. Their presence in such vast numbers has by some unknown means attracted from the continent a large number of short-eared owls, which were previously unknown in the district. A similar visitation of voles upon a still larger scale took place in the sixteenth century.

A Novel Occupation.

A poor woman in Bonham, Tex., makes her living by going along the streets and there sewing buttons on men's garments.

Not in Fashion.

"How do you like the city bustle?" she said to the visitor from the country.

"I don't know," he answered, rather abashed. "It's kinder struck me that they weren't wearin' 'em any more."—Once a Week.

The Happy Pair.

He—Your husband tells me he enjoyed himself in Mexico more than anywhere else on his wedding tour. Did you?

She—I? Oh, I was taken sick in Chicago and couldn't go further.—Life.

Had Studied to Advantage.

Mamma—How many sisters did your new playmate tell you he had?

Willie—He's got one. He tried to catch me by saying he had two half-sisters, but he'll find out I've studied fractions.—Harper's Young People.

One View of a Gas Meter.

"Do you know a gas meter is to me almost human?"

"To me, too. It has that dreadfully human tendency toward untruth."—N. Y. Sun.

A Suspicious Circumstance.

"Mr. Tilbow called to-day and returned the umbrella you loaned him last week."

"Did, eh? Well, by Jove! I wonder what game that fellow is trying to play on me?"—Chicago News.

Her Loves.

He—You have quite a number of bracelets on your wrist.

She—I love bracelets.

He—Do you love anything else?

She—Yes; my mother.—Jeweler's Circular.

A YOUNG TERROR.

"Why don't yous come over on this side o' the way if yous want ter make anything out of it? Yous dassent, you'm askeert to!"—Life.

A Sportsman's Paradise.

Johnson—Been away on your vacation?

Jackson—Yes; went down to Medoosckenecasis, in Maine. Lots of fishing and that sort of thing, you know.

"That's the kind! Any game?"

"You bet! Poker every night in the week and all Sunday."—Texas Siftings.

No Fun in It.

Dingley—I don't understand why the editor of the Hot Blast never publishes any mother-in-law jokes.

Caraway—Well, he has a good reason for it.

Dingley—Do you know what it is?

Caraway—Yes, he has one himself.—Jury.

ABSENT-MINDED.

Bank-teller (on Sunday duty, as stranger drops check in the basket)—Very sorry, sir, but you'll have to be identified.—Judge.

A Sporting Question.

Athletic Youngster—How large is Lapland, papa, and how many people are there in it?

Father—I don't know. Why?

Athletic Youngster—I only want to figure out how many Lapps there are to the mile.—Puck.

A Proposal for Every Lady in Plainfield and Vicinity to Make Delicious Custard Without Eggs WITH BIRD'S Custard Powder

An English table luxury provoking dainties in endless variety, the choicest dishes and the richest custard, without eggs. A 25c packet will be sufficient to make four pints, which can either be served in dishes or from glasses.

A supply, fresh from England, has just been received by GEORGE W. ROCKFELLOW, 4-30-y. Plainfield, N. J

Good Old Fashioned Gingerbread.

1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoonful soda,
½ " sugar, 1 " cinnamon,
2 " butter, 1 tablespoonful ginger,
1 " flour or butter milk, 2 eggs.

About 5 cups of flour—work in four, then add cautiously. Stir brown sugar, molasses and spice together to a light cream. Warm slightly on range. Beat eggs well, then add to the warmed mixture; milk, soda, and last flour. Beat very hard for 10 minutes and bake at once in loaf or small tins.

USE

THE

NEW SHORTENING,

Instead of BUTTER.

It will make the cake better, and impart a rich, delicate flavor, the same as in our Grandmother's Gingerbread. COTTOLENE is a vegetable product; new to the world, yet already famous as a perfect, wholesome and economical substitute for lard and butter in all kinds of cooking. One trial will convince you of the superior merits of COTTOLENE. Your grocer has it.

HOMESTEADERS JOYFUL

Non-Unionist Desertions Make Strikers Hopeful.

END OF THE TROUBLE AT DUQUESNE.

Nearly Six Hundred of the Old Men Go Back to Work—Rioters Held—Amalgamated Association and Iron Manufacturers to Confer To-Day.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 6.—It would be hard to find a more jubilant or more hopeful set of men than are the Homestead strikers to-day. Not since the beginning of the present conflict have they been so confident of success. Last week many of them were going around attired in their Sunday clothes and despondent looks. They were beginning to feel that the battle was about as good as lost, and the leaders experienced no little difficulty in keeping the discouraged ones in line.

It is different now. This sudden change in the situation was brought about by so many of the company's non-unionists deserting their posts yesterday. From the time the main entrance to "Port Frick" was opened in the morning until it closed in the evening men continued to leave the mill. Those who came out through the main gate were received with open arms by the strikers, who conducted them to their headquarters two squares distant.

Here were assembled all through the day several hundred idle steel workers, and the arrival of each non-union man was the signal for cheers of the most enthusiastic brand. The deserters from the little army of imprisoned workmen were provided with transportation to their homes, the majority of them being sent to Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Chairman Crawford of the Advisory Committee said, this morning, that over 150 men had come from the mill to Amalgamated headquarters during the day. "We have the names of 146 of them," said Mr. Crawford, "and we have it that fully that many took their departure by boat. It is no exaggeration to say that over 400 have left the company's employ since Saturday. They represented the more intelligent workmen secured by the company. Such a stampede of the men who came here to take our places naturally encourages us, and we feel to-day that we have the fight as good as won."

The men are in ecstacies of delight at the new turn in affairs. In consequence, they are now more confident than ever that it will only be a short time until the company will give in and they will be taken back by their former employers and their organization recognized.

Lieut.-Col. James B. Streator was unanimously re-elected to his position in the 10th Regiment last evening, his term having expired. This is a complete vindication of his course in the Private Dalzell affair by the latter's comrades. When the news reached this side of the river the three regiments gave three cheers.

Richard Nichols, the night superintendent and puddle boss at the Thirty-third street mill in Pittsburg, has resigned and to-day made report to the strikers. He says he quit work because he was asked to do all sorts of work for the performance of which no persons had been secured. None of the iron made by the non-union men, he says, has been worth anything, being burned and sent to the "scrap-pile." He reports the company has really accomplished nothing, but has spent a great deal of money in attempting to run with the unskilled workmen now employed. Nichols, the strikers claim, is a spy for the company and they say his resignation is a scheme to obtain knowledge of their movements.

DUQUESNE RIOTERS HELD.

All But One Out on Bail—More Strikers to Be Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—The Duquesne rioters had a hearing before Alderman Reilly yesterday afternoon. Quite a crowd of Duquesne workmen were present to hear the case. Mr. E. Y. Breck appeared for the Commonwealth and Messrs. W. J. Brennen and J. R. McQuaide for the defendants. O. F. Griffith, a coal and iron policeman at the Duquesne works, and the informant in these cases, was the first witness, and testified that he had seen the crowd about the gate and heard them threaten the men who tried to enter the mill. Many of the men had clubs.

A number of other witnesses were examined, and Squire Reilly finally held Ursie, Essler, Bukie, Bennett, Kennedy, Hogan, Nolan, Haas and Coates, for court, and fixed bail at $1,000. Snyder and McLean were released on parole to appear for a further hearing. All the men got bail except Ursie, who went to jail.

Secretary Lovejoy, when asked what the plans of the company toward the Homestead strikers were, said:

"We have started in on this conquest of riot by law and it will be carried to a finish. There will be anywhere from 50 to 150 more informations of murder and aggravated riot charges made against Homestead strikers before we are through with them. We are proceeding carefully and get only evidence to a certainty before the charge is made.

"We have officers of long experience at work in Homestead, and the informations I make are on evidence given by these men, who will be produced in court and give sworn testimony. There would have been more informations before this, but for the fact that many strikers engaged in the riot have run away. Meantime, evidence against them is being gathered, and when they return informations will be made against them and they will be arrested. If they do not come back they will be followed up until they are arrested and brought back for trial."

WILL CONFER TO-DAY.

Manufacturers to Meet Amalgamated Men—End of the Duquesne Strike.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—When the conference committee of iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association meet to-day it is probable that the latter will have considerable power to settle the present wage dispute. It is learned that the workers' representatives will have the privilege of accepting a 10 per cent. reduction on the finishers' scale, but on puddling they are to consider no proposition for a reduction.

The finishers include the rollers, heaters and the roughers and catchers, who are among the best paid in the Amalgamated Association. Notwithstanding the fact that the workers' committee will have power to accept a reduction it is anticipated that they will make a stiff fight.

The officials of the Carnegie Company are well pleased at the peaceful settlement of the sympathy strike at Duquesne yesterday. Nearly 600 of the strikers returned to work.

The repair men had the mill ready for running, steam was turned on and several departments were started almost full and begun to turn out finished steel.

There were many members of the new Amalgamated lodges, formed here since the strike began, among those who went back to work and they did it openly without fear of what their companions would say. There was no disorder at all.

Small crowds of the men who had not taken advantage of the offer of Supt. Morrison stood near the mill gates, just outside of the line guarded by the soldiers, watching the men return, but they said never a word.

The battalion had been drawn up in marching order and was kept in line, fully armed, for two hours, but no word of command was given. Some of the most skilled among the strikers were in the number returning to work. One of them said: "We have been watching the course of events very closely, and, while we would have done all we could to have helped the Homestead men, we saw it was useless."

CANADA'S BACKDOWN.

Montreal Grain Shippers Claim It is a Breach of Faith.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—The Montreal grain shippers are greatly excited over the news from Ottawa that the Canadian Government, in order to avoid retaliation by President Harrison, has decided to abolish the rebate of 18 cents per ton on all grain shipped by the St. Lawrence canals to Montreal. They claim that such an action is a breach of faith on the part of the Government, as the orders in council, passed in the spring, granted a rebate for the whole season, and all contracts were made on this basis. The reimposition of the tariff would therefore mean a serious loss.

The general feeling is that the Canadian government has not only made a complete backdown, but has taken the worst possible method of doing so. The government could have taken a much more satisfactory course by either permitting the transhipping of cargoes at Ogdensburg, or freeing the Welland canal, which would have been the most satisfactory course. The government's entire policy towards the United States is strongly condemned. Mr. Stewart, the manager of the Kingston and Montreal Forwarding Company, who has been very prominent in the fight against discrimination via Ogdensburg, said:

"By its decision the Government has virtually confessed that its course in discriminating against Ogdensburg was utterly indefensible. Our contention has been fully justified by the decision to do away with discrimination. At the same time we confess that our victory is a disastrous one for ourselves as well as for the whole trade, owing to the way the Government has surrendered. It has chosen the worst possible course for all the interests at stake. It should have freed the canals from end to end. Had it not, in the interests and at the dictation of a transportation company and with a view to influencing political contests discriminated against Ogdensburg so shamefully the Canadian trade would have been saved injury and the Canadian Nation some humility."

Campaign Whispers from New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Chairman Harrity, of the Democratic National Committee, is in Philadelphia. He is not expected back until to-night or to-morrow. This week he will select the members of the Advisory Committee, and will also appoint the force of clerks for headquarters. It is reported that the Republicans have selected generals to lead their forces in the West, Southwest and Northwest. So far as can be learned at the present time, the men who have been selected are W. J. Campbell, J. N. Huston, of Indiana; R. G. Evans, of Minnesota; Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin, and E. Rosewater, of Nebraska.

Laborers Attack Their Foreman.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 9.—Foreman Spottwood, who is in charge of a gang of laborers grading the new Wilkesbarre & Eastern Railroad near Smithville, was attacked by sixty negroes with clubs and stones during the morning. He defended himself by drawing two revolvers and several of the negroes were wounded. Assistance was quickly sent the foreman and the negroes were driven to their camp, where they are now held in check by a number of constables from Pittston. It is feared a deadly conflict will follow before any arrests can be made.

Faulkner Again Arrested.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 9.—James Faulkner's pardon arrived from Washington yesterday and he was set at liberty shortly after noon. He was immediately re-arrested on a bench warrant from Livingston county, charging him with forgery in the second degree. The indictment was found two or three years ago. Faulkner says he thinks the feeling at Dansville has changed now and he does not think he will be prosecuted any further.

Sighted Many Icebergs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The British ship New City from Talcahnano, by way of Taltal, has arrived here. She reports that on June 20, two immense icebergs were sighted, one of them being about nine hundred feet high. At 5 p. m. of the same day nine were in sight some of which were very large. At daybreak the following morning nineteen were counted from the masthead.

Secretary Noble in Wisconsin.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Secretary John W. Noble of the Department of the Interior arrived here yesterday from Washington and left late in the evening for Ashland, Wis. After spending some time there he will make a trip to the Pacific coast.

DENVER'S GREAT WEEK

Sixty Thousand Visitors Already Present.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR PARADE TO-DAY.

Fully 40,000 Men Expected to be in Line. Beautiful Decorations and Hospitable Entertainment—Annual Election—Boston and Cincinnati Want It Next Year.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 9.—Denver is bound to become the convention city of the country. There are now over 60,000 strangers in the city, and the visitors are still coming at the rate of 1,000 an hour. Over 10,000 Knights Templar arrived yesday, and with them came 25,000 other visitors.

Denver is in its glory. The decorations in the business district were finished yesterday, and the eye is greeted on every side by Knights Templar emblems and artistically arranged bunting and more expensive cloth. Rows of colored electric lights are strung across the streets, attached to which are all sorts of Templar designs, and when they were illuminated last night the city presented a beautiful and unique spectacle.

Last night there were receptions at the various clubs and headquarters to the visitors, for Denver is keeping open house and the Knights are welcomed everywhere.

As quite a number of commanderies will not arrive until to-day, there were no formal receptions last evening, but there was a general round of fraternal calls going on all the time, and at the several headquarters of the different States the latch string was well fixed on the outside. It was open hospitality everywhere, and as many of the commanderies have their own bands along with them there was music in the air all the evening.

The parade to-day will eclipse anything of the kind ever seen in any western city. Forty thousand Knights are expected to be in line.

The Grand Commandery of the United States will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the day following. The officers for the year will be elected. Hon. W. H. McCurdy, the present Deputy Grand Master, will be made Grand Master. He is everybody's choice.

Then will come the contest for the place of holding the conclave of 1895. Boston and Cincinnati are competitors and they are strongly represented. It is a pretty even fight.

Result of Smoking a Pipe.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 9.—Anthony Duffy, with his little child in his arms, and accompanied by Miss Kate Coultry, were walking together on the street at Archbald during the evening when a sudden explosion threw them to the sidewalk. The young woman's arm was badly cut and mangled and Duffy received a severe wound in the abdomen. The child was not injured. An examination revealed part of an exploded dynamite cartridge in Duffy's vest pocket, which the heat from a pipe he had been smoking, and which he had put in his vest pocket, had ignited.

Efforts in Col. King's Behalf.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 9.—Only two days more of life are Col. Clay King's. Col. King until this morning seemed to be very despondent, but after getting away with a pint of whisky and receiving a visit from Col. C. B. Mitchell, he became more cheerful. Mrs. King is in Nashville, and she has appealed to the ex-Confederate organizations to use their influence to secure a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. Outside effort to secure leniency for King has intensified the desire of Poisson's friends to see his death avenged by the law.

Terrific Hail Storm in Minnesota.

MARSHALL, Minn., Aug. 9.—The worst tornado and hail storm ever known in Southwestern Minnesota occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The storm covered portions of Lincoln and Yellow Medicine counties and the northern half of Lyon county. Present indications are a loss in Lyon county of no less than $500,000. Near Cummings the Icelantic Lutheran church was picked up and thoroughly demolished. Several residences, barns and small buildings were destroyed and innumerable trees were blown down.

Every Chance Was Given Dr. Graves.

NARAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 9.—Ex-District Attorney Isaac M. Stevens, of Arapahoe county, Col., is visiting here. In speaking of the defendant's answer made Saturday in the Dr. Graves case, Mr. Stevens said that in the trial the Court threw around Dr. Graves all the protection that lay in its power. At all times there was the strict injunction that there must be in the minds of the jury a preponderance of evidence showing guilt, not a mere thought of fanciful supposition.

A British Torpedo Boat Sunk.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The British torpedo boat No. 75 has been sunk off "The Maidens," a cluster of rocks off the East coast of Ireland, in the Irish Sea. The torpedo boat had collided with torpedo boat No. 77, and received such injuries that she went down soon after. The crew of fifteen were saved and landed at Queenstown.

Will Row at Ontario Beach.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 9.—There is every probability that Hanlan and O'Connor and Hosmer and Gaudaur will row at Ontario Beach on or about August 27 for the international double scull championship. Arrangements are now being pushed. Ned Hanlan is expected here himself to-morrow.

PARLIAMENT OPENED.

The Queen's Speech Read in Both Houses Yesterday.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The organization of the new House of Commons having been completed the members were summoned yesterday to the House of Lords, where the Queen's speech opening the session of the 25th Imperial Parliament of Queen Victoria was read. The address is as follows:

"We have to inform you by command of Her Majesty that the present Parliament has been assembled in obedience to the terms of Her Majesty's proclamation of June 28, 1892, by which the late Parliament was dissolved. Previous to that dissolution the business of the session was completed, and it is, therefore, not necessary that Parliament continue in session at an unusual period of the year for the transaction of financial or legislative business.

"It is Her Majesty's hope that when you meet again, at the customary season, you will again direct your attention to measures of social and domestic improvement in the path of useful and beneficent legislation, which has been so judiciously followed in previous sessions."

No vote was taken on Mr. Asquith's amendment that confidence was not reposed in the present advisors of Her Majesty.

Keir Hardie, the labor member, who has been making himself conspicuous by his oddities of dress and behavior, was less obtrusive, as he is beginning to comprehend that his queer conduct has aroused general disgust, instead of the admiration he anticipated. Other labor members avoid him, and if he had any chance of exercising any influence, it is utterly gone.

The Conservatives did not appear at all despondent. They are preparing for an earnest struggle, and mean rather to force the fighting. The Liberals, on the other hand, prefer to do as little talking as possible, and push the work as rapidly as they can.

PRIZE FIGHT IN UPPER TENDOM.

Two Swells at Saratoga Belabor Each Other for Two Rounds.

SARATOGA, Aug. 9.—The prize fight yesterday between two scions of society has created a great sensation here. It took place on the Fair Grounds at Ballston Spa.

The principals were Daniel W. Shea of Boston, a Harvard College student and a member of the Harvard crew and football team and Sidney Smith of Ballston, the son of a wealthy and prominent family.

The men are both fine boxers, and the match was the result of jealousy.

The party left Saratoga in two tally-ho coaches at 2 o'clock, and drove to Ballston. Billy Edwards was referee and Jimmie Larkins of New York seconded Shea.

The fight was a hard one and for blood. Smith knocked out Shea in the second round. Shea was badly punished and a dispute as to time of second round nearly precipitated a general fight among the two dozen spectators, friends of the fighters.

Smith weighed 158 pounds and Shea 178. The time of the first round was two minutes; second round, one minute and fifty-four seconds. The fight was under London ring rules.

Smith is a millionaire, while Shea is prominent in Boston society and is 23 years of age.

MUCH MORE THAN WAS ASKED FOR.

The Fair Wanted a Loan of $5,000,000, and is Given Nearly $4,000,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Director-General Davis, of the World's Columbian Commission, in a published interview, is quoted as saying that Congress has given the Fair $783,000 more than is generally understood, as shown by the following summary:

World's Columbian Commission, $120,000; Board of Lady Managers, $110,000; Government Exhibit Board, $400,000; medals and diplomas, $108,000; for loss on coinage of souvenirs, $50,000; World's Columbian Exposition, $2,500,000. Total, $3,283,000.

"I have not counted anything," he said, "for premium on the half dollars. My opinion is that every half dollar is worth at least 75 cents. A moderate estimate will give us $500,000 profit there, so that we may thank Congress for making us a present of nearly $4,000,000, when we only asked for a loan of $5,000,000.

"I feel sure that the more the friends of the Fair consider the question, the more they will feel the value of the legislation in its favor."

Peculiar Accident in a Harbor.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—Schooner Charlotte while leaving the harbor here drifted across the bow of the collier William Slater. The Captain sent a crew into the seine boat to keep the vessels apart. The seine boat was caught between the two vessels and overturned. Charles Bushnell, of Cohasset, and William J. Carroll, of Boston, of the Charlotte's crew were caught between the vessels. Carroll's head was crushed, and Bushnell was drowned.

Employes and Company Censured.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 9.—The coroner's jury over the bodies of Engineer William Welch and Fireman Jacob Berkner of Buffalo, killed in the wreck of the Chicago special on the Lake Shore at Harbor Creek Friday night, in their verdict find Train Dispatcher Simon Leet of Buffalo guilty of gross negligence and Engineer John M. Hart guilty of carelessness and neglect of duty. They also strongly censure the management of the Lake Shore road.

She Advocated Slavery's Abolition.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Rose, one of the first women to speak in the United States in favor of the abolition of slavery, was buried in the Highgate Cemetery yesterday. In the United States she was associated with Lucretia Mott, Abby Kelly, John G. Whittier and Wendell Phillips in the anti-slavery agitation. Several times during her abolition speeches she narrowly escaped being tarred and feathered. She was 83 years old.

To Watch American Fishermen.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 9.—The cruiser Curlew has been sent to sea under sealed orders, undoubtedly to watch American fishermen in the Bay of Fundy, where poaching is reported. At present the Kinfilisher is the only cruiser on the coast.

Secretary White Coming Home.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Secretary White, of the American Legation, will sail on the Fuerst Bismarck Saturday for the United States. Mrs. White and family will go to Braemer for a few weeks.

FALL RIVER'S MYSTERY

Clews Followed Only to Come to Naught.

THE HOUSE AGAIN SEARCHED.

An Inquest Will Probably be Held This Week—Emma and Lizzie Borden Prostrated—The Clothing of the Victims Dug Up and Examined.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 9.—The daughters of the murdered Mr. and Mrs. Borden are beginning to realize the awfulness of the suspicion resting upon Miss Lizzie and cannot control their feelings. The inmates of the house are all suffering from nervous prostration. The police are no nearer to a solution of the crime than they were last week. It seems as if this were one of those mysterious murders destined never to be cleared up.

The clothes worn by the victims, and which were buried in the yard, were dug up yesterday afternoon and spread out on the grass for the inspection of Medical Examiner Dolan. He picked from several parts of the clothes a quantity of hair from Mrs. Borden's head, which he placed in two lots and took it with him to his carriage.

He would say nothing as to the cause of resurrecting the clothing, but after making his examination he ordered it to be placed in a shoe case and buried four feet below the surface of the lot.

Yesterday's prolonged search did not result in any clews, nor did the officers at the conclusion feel that there was any cause for expecting more developments.

Portions of the chimney were dug away by a mason and the barn floor was torn up. Marshal Hilliard said the search was of value, in showing that whoever the assassin was his tracks were completely covered from view.

To-day the police have been at fever heat and have succeeded in running down seven out of nine clews.

Dr. Dolan will probably ask for an inquest during the week, as soon as he has an opportunity to formulate a complaint. The theory that the murder was committed by a man who was seen sitting on the garden fence half an hour before the murder was discovered has been exploded.

JUDGE RUMSEY'S DECISION.

The Statement That it Will Impede the Issuance of Election Notices Ridiculed.

ALBANY, Aug. 9.—Secretary of State Rice and his assistants ridicule the idea that the decision of Judge Rumsey of Rochester will impede the issue of notices to County Sheriffs or County Judges that the terms of office of Assemblymen expire and that such new ones shall be elected.

The situation so far as that office is concerned is contained in the following statement:

"In only one county has the Board of Supervisors refused to apportion according to the new law, and that is Monroe. A notice will be served upon Monroe county that the term of office of three Assemblymen expire and must be filled.

"Now if the apportionment is declared void and we go back to the old one the notice will remain good, for the old apportionment also calls for three Assemblymen.

"In other counties where the changes have been made the Secretary of State will issue notices in accordance with the action of the Boards of Supervisors.

"The Secretary of State has nothing to do with the boundaries."

Cannot Be Considered a Seizure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The views of State Department officials most familiar with the Samoan troubles of the past continues to be that the occupancy of the harbor of Pago Pago by Great Britain as a coaling station cannot be considered as a seizure. One of these officials said today: "It is not necessary for England to seize the harbor in order to establish a coaling station. Under treaty stipulations England has a right to locate a naval depot wherever she pleases on a Samoan shore."

Charges Against an Inspector.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Charges have just been filed at the Treasury Department against George Cake, appointed on Saturday by Secretary Foster, an immigrant inspector, in place of Mr. Evans, who was removed because he was not a citizen. Mr. Cake was appointed at the instance of the Glass Manufacturers' Association of Pennsylvania, and the charge preferred is that he has duplicate wives in Pittsburg and New York. Acting Secretary Nettleton has instituted an inquiry.

More Complaints from Navassa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Complaints still continue to be received at the State Department of the inhuman treatment of the men at work in the guano works in the island of Navassa. The Kearsarge, which is now on her way to Honduras, has therefore been ordered by Acting Secretary Soley to stop there and her commander, A. S. Crowninshield, has been directed to make a thorough investigation into the treatment of the men, how fed, clothed, etc.

Unconfirmed Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The three nominations which were left unacted upon as the Senate adjourned, and which accordingly were virtually rejected were Geo. W. Miller, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the 23d District of Pennsylvania; James Hill, postmaster at Vicksburg, Miss., and Edward J. Day, of Monett, Mo., postmaster.

Adlai Stevenson in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—Hon. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson have arrived here from Louisville. Mr. Stevenson has business here that will keep him for several days. Just when he will leave and where he will go from here have not been definitely determined.

Mr. Whitefield's Successor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The name of Marshall Cushing, private secretary to Postmaster-General Wanamaker, is prominently mentioned as a probable successor to First Assistant Postmaster-General Whitefield, who is soon to retire.

No Compromise in Iron Hall Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 9.—The efforts to compromise the Iron Hall litigation have proved fruitless and negotiations have been broken off. The case will come to trial Thursday next.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The cellar is all dug for Netherwood's new station.

—Extra early rose Jersey potatoes at 75 cents a bushel at United Tea and Coffee Growers' association.

—Reserved seats are now on sale at Central pharmacy, for Bobby Gaylor at Music Hall Thursday evening.

—The Rev. J. A. K. Butler, D. D., of Providence, has arrived in town and will take charge of the colored camp meeting to-night.

—The case of Keely vs. Frisbie which was to have been tried to-morrow, is adjourned again until the 17th. It's too hot weather for legal controversy.

—The chirp of the Katydid is already heard. It is said that frost invariably follows in forty days from the time the first note of the Katydid is sounded.

—Messrs. Woolston & Buckle engaged Capt. Hand's four-horse stage to-day and took all their employes to Boynton Beach. Manager David Weaver who remained behind to look after the business will have his reward in a trip to Tier's lake, probably, this evening.

—Fairs are announced in New Jersey at the following places and dates: Vineland, August 17 and 18; Bridgeton, August 23 to 25; Woodstown, August 30 to September 1: Mt. Holly, September 12 to 16; Newton, September 13 to 16; Waverly, September 19 to 23; Trenton, September 26 to 30.

—Hereafter all messages to police and fire headquarters from the pay stations of the N. Y. & N. J. Telephone company, asking for assistance, or reporting trouble, or in case of accident or injury calling for ambulance, will be transmitted free. This is but another evidence of the liberal policy of the company.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson have returned from Asbury Park.

City clerk Runyon is taking a vacation in the Catskill mountains.

Mrs. E. S. Brown of Mercer avenue, is at South View Villa, Morris, Conn.

Miss Emma Angleman is spending a fortnight at Newburg, visiting friends.

James G. Connelly has returned from his two weeks' vacation at Manasquan.

Horace Sherwin is confined to his home on West Second street, by a slight illness.

The Misses Jennie and Leora Wenzel of Evona have gone to Flemington for a two weeks' vacation.

J. E. Morse and family, of Franklin avenue, leave to-day for Titusville and subsequently the Adirondacks.

The Rev. C. E. Dunn and family, and Miss Demarest of East Fifth street, are at The Carleton, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Halloway of Brooklyn spent Sunday with their niece, Mrs. D. C. Bird, of West Front street.

The death of Mrs. S. H. Burr, wife of the former superintendent of the First Baptist church, occurred at Englewood Monday afternoon.

J. W. Johnson's family are at Lake Champlain, that most beautiful body of water, on the heights overlooking which Mr. Johnson has built a charming home.

Charles B. Brown is at Camp Wanamassa, Asbury Park. He will represent Plainfield at the sixth annual Bible students' conference to be conducted by the Rev. Dr. L. W. Munhall the great Bible scholar. Sessions will last from the 11th to the 18th insts.

George Morrison of Mountain avenue, left his bicycle standing against a tree in Sandford avenue, last night, while he made a call. When he came out the machine was gone. He has no clue to the thief and does not know the number of the wheel. It is a Victor B.

Benjamin A. Mumford, of Arlington avenue, and John H. Jackson, of Messrs. Jackson & Coddington, attorneys, will leave for Washington about the last of this month to liquidate the claim of the late Mrs. Mumford in the French spoliation matter amounting to over $80,000. Mr. Mumford has the income during his life; the principal goes to his children at his death.

NO GAME WITH THE NEW YORKS.

Middletown Offered the Giants More Money Than Plainfield Could Afford.

The New York league team which had next Friday idle, wrote last week to the Crescent League and other crack teams for offers for a game on that day. The Crescent League management offered $100 or half the gate receipts, which was all they could afford at a time when so many people are out of town. The Middletown club, however, raised the bid to $200 and got the game.

Manager Reed of the Crescents is not disappointed. He does not want to lose another championship game, and during a game Friday with such a team as the "Giants" it would be just Plainfield's luck to have a man or two bunged up.

To-morrow the Crescent team play the N. J. A. C., at Bergen Point.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

EXTRA.

Latest News By Wire to THE PRESS.

AN ENTIRE FAMILY KILLED.

Thrown Over a Precipice By a Runaway.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Aug. 9.—A whole family, consisting of a man and wife and four children, names unknown, were killed here yesterday. The family had been in this city buying provisions, and while returning to their claim on the Old Cheyenne reservation, their team ran away over a precipice. Every member of the family and both horses were killed.

SWINDLING A NEW YORK JEWELER.

PHILADELPHIA, August 9.—Solomon Reinberg and Louis Goldstein, Russian Jews, were arrested here yesterday charged with swindling Emanuel Grimspan, a jeweler at 384 Grand street, New York, out of $3,100 on November 31, 1891. The men are alleged to have sold Mr. Grimspan a bag of what he believed to be gold dust, but which he discovered upon opening contained only brass.

A NEGRO DEMOCRAT SHOT DEAD.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 9—Another fatal shooting affray growing out of the result of the recent State election occurred yesterday at Greenville, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. A negro and George Hicks, a son of tax assessor Hicks, quarrelled, the negro shouting for Jones and Hicks for Kolb. The negro was shot three times and was killed. There is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

FRIGHTENED INTO CONVULSIONS.

When Mr. Coddington's Team Ran Home and Jumped the Fence, His Wife Thought He Must be Killed.

L. B. Coddington's handsome team of horses ran away from the corner of Somerset and Chatham street, at noon to-day. They went straight home to Regent street at a terrific speed and finding the gate closed jumped the fence with a big heavy truck behind them. When Mrs. Coddington heard the crash and looked out and saw the wreck but no sign of her husband, she fell in convulsions and was unconscious for an hour.

Mr. Coddington, however, and his men escaped by jumping after vainly striving to arrest the mad flight of the young animals. The horses are respectively four and five years old. They formerly drew No. 2 steamer. Mr. Coddington was watering them at Mr. Blatz's trough, when one of them suddenly threw its head up and the bridle came off. Then they bolted. When it was found to be impossible to control or stop the team by the other bridle, all hands jumped off the back of the truck.

The team will have to be carefully watched for a few months until they forget all about the fact that they can do as they please if they like.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

Mrs. McKenzie, a Prominent Young South Brooklyn Woman, Arrested in Westfield Yesterday Afternoon.

A very stylishly dressed young woman, very ladylike and refined in her appearance, was brought to police headquarters Newark, at 3:15 yesterday afternoon by detective Cosgrove. The detective arrested her in the fashionable summer boarding house of Mrs. Jameson in Westfield, N. J. The arrest was made in pursuance of a warrant issued by Judge Hayes of the First criminal court, on complaint of Wm. T. Byrnes, a Brooklyn lawyer, who charges the defendant, Mrs. Bessie H. McKenzie, with bigamy.

Low-Rate Harvest Excursions.

The announcement that the North-Western line, comprising over 8,000 miles of thoroughly equipped railway, has arranged to run two low-rate harvest excursions during the months of August and September, will be gladly received by those who are interested in the development of the great West and Northwest, as well as by those who desire to visit this wonderfully productive region at a season of the year when exact demonstration can be made of the merits and advantages it offers to home-seekers and those in search of safe and profitable investments.

These excursions will leave Chicago on August 30 and Sept. 27, and tickets can be purchased at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip to points in Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, and Montana. They will be strictly first-class in every particular and will be good for return passage at any time within twenty days from date of purchase. Full information concerning rates and arrangements for these excursions can be obtained upon application to any coupon ticket agent, or to W. A. Thrall, G. P. T. A., Chicago & Northwestern Railway, Chicago.

Marshal Whitely Must Do What He's Paid For, or Go.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As one of the many who occupied a seat on the smokers' grand stand at Saturday's ball game I thank you for publishing yesterday's communication regarding the inefficient marshal Whitely. I'll bet he keeps the crowd from obstructing the view at the next game, or I will be one to appeal to the managers of the League to know the reason why he is n't removed.

SMOKER.

CONTESTING DANIEL PRICE'S WILL.

A case of considerable interest to a great many people will be heard in the orphans' court as soon as the judges get to work again. The case will come up on an appeal against admitting to probate the will of Daniel Price, who has heirs in this city.

Mr. Price died a childless widower at the age of 93 in April of this year, leaving an estate valued at about $175,000. Upon the reading of the will, greatly to the astonishment of all who knew him, it was found that Mr. Price had ignored entirely all his relatives and had willed the bulk of his estate to a number of institutions. Among these are the Old Ladies' home and the Bloomfield Theological seminary.

Messrs. McCarter, Williamson and McCarter have been instructed, on the part of the majority of brothers, nephews and nieces of the dead man, to contest the will. The will is peculiarly constructed, and the most important part and the one which cut off the relations from sharing in the property is a codicile made in 1889. The contest will be made on the ground that the mental capacity of Mr. Price was impaired at the time the codicil was made. The great age of the testator will play a prominent part in the appeal.

NEWS FROM THE ENEMY.

Even the Elizabeth "Journal" is Jealous of Plainfield's Superiority.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

Plainfield's protest of Somerville's victory on July 30 was withdrawn by manager Reed. He must have learned what many knew, that he had no grounds for a protest, and that he could not bluff manager Mack. But should Somerville protest Saturday's game, Plainfield might be made to squirm, if report be true. However, manager Mack would not be guilty of such a questionable trick.

Moran has been signed by manager Whelan. He played on the Y. M. C. L. A. team in the Journal pennant series and went to Binghamton last spring. Manager Whelan is to be congratulated on his success in bringing him back to Elizabeth. His playing in Saturday's game speaks for itself.

The managers of the Central New Jersey League are to meet to-night in Plainfield, and they will then select an umpire to supersede Mr. Hudson.

Hughes has been released from the Y. M. C. L. A. team.

The leaders in the Central N. J. League will meet but twice more this season. In fact each team will meet each of the others twice more, making these last games the decisive ones of the season.

Great Fun Next Thursday Night

Next Thursday night will be a gala night at Music Hall. The quaintest of all Irish comedians, Robert Gaylor, is to appear in his new farcical comedy, "Sport McAllister".

Jeremiah, or "Sport McAllister", is an Irishman of leisure with sporting proclivities and an ambition for political honors. He receives the nomination for the office of sheriff of the city of New York from the Democratic party and at once proceeds to canvass for votes in opposition to Dennis McGinty, the Republican candidate for the same office. The latter is game, however, and shows fight. The electioneering tricks resorted to by both sides in order to secure the popular vote are immensely funny.

"Sport" calls a meeting of his followers, and his rival, who lives opposite to him, calls an opposite rally. "Sport's" son writes up a speech for his father to be delivered from the balcony on the night of the meeting, and while prompting his father on that occasion, he transfers the manuscript to his dudish stepbrother, Percy, who gives the old man a protection speech instead of the proper line. A volley of bricks and other missiles is the result of the mistake, and Percy is sent off in disgrace. "Sport" is not daunted by the accident, however, and invites the bosses of the foreign vote to a grand banquet, where by his clever diplomacy he becomes master of the situation.

Many fine specialties are introduced in the second act, which is the most unique of the three. Manager Brady has gotten together a good company, and he emphatically declares that this is the strongest one he has ever handled. Bernard Dyllyn and the supporting company stamp the attraction as first class.

Plainfield's Crack Cricketers.

The victorious visitors on the grounds of the Plainfield Cricket club, Saturday, complimented the latter on their sharp fielding and good team work. The bowling was strong also—the visitors being held down for lower scores than they are accustomed to making. A clean hit by H. Turner of Plainfield for 6 runs—the ball being batted clear over on Giraud avenue (just such another hit as H. Hendry made at Bergen Point last Saturday against the N. J. A. C.)—made the visitors feel uneasy about the score and their chances of the game. The next match of the Plainfield club will be at Newark Saturday against the Electric Cutlery company's eleven.

"News" Honesty Even an Example for the "Courier".

The Courier and the News yesterday, each published the old story about attorney Coddington and the confidence man, that was told in these columns last week, in the Newark papers Saturday and in the New York Sunday papers. The News gave credit to the Sun from which it copied it, but the Courier unblushingly assumed that the ancient history was its own.

DRUGGIST WILLIAMS CAUGHT AGAIN.

But He Is Not the Plainfield Williams Although on the Same Street.

Great excitement was caused in Asbury Park Sunday night at 11, when chief of police Bailey and five other officers raided Williams's drug store on Kingsley street. When the news was first reported, the arrested man was stated to be George Williams of this city who has a drug store on Kingsley street, Asbury Park, as well as Front street, Plainfield. But it is Henry Williams, who has been pulled before for selling liquor, and heavily punished.

The officers took charge of the store and stopped all persons from going in or out. A big crowd gathered about the door, blocking up the sidewalk and street.

There were a number of men and women in the back room. Chief Bailey took the names of some of them, and then allowed them to pass out into the street. When two women went out the crowd jeered them. Officers in full uniform stood on the front porch of the store and made no attempt to put a stop to the insults.

Chief Bailey came out with Williams, the clerks of the store, and a number of men who were said to have been drinking in the back room. The officers hustled their prisoners on an electric car which had been kept in waiting.

The crowd loudly hissed the officers as they marched to the car with their prisoners. The prisoners were taken to Park Hall, where the town police justice was awaiting their arrival.

His Visit Turned to Sadness.

John H. Smithers, fourteen, was killed late yesterday afternoon near the Singer works, Elizabethport, in plain view of his father, who is a machinist at the Ball & Wood engine works. The boy's home is in Erie, Pa., where his mother lives. He came on two days ago to see his father. He was crossing the track when he was struck by a Philadelphia express and nearly beheaded.

CAMP TOWNSEND,
MERWIN'S POINT, CONN., Aug. 8.

Yesterday was a perfect day at the camp and a great many visitors were received. Bertram Tallamy was officer of the day on Saturday, and Will Holmes on Sunday. To-day the boys expect to go fishing off the New Haven light, returning in the early evening. The Rev. Mr. Ellsworth, of Naugatuck, is spending the day at the camp. This evening all are invited to sing at the hotel, and if they return from fishing in time they will accept with pleasure. The boys are having such a fine time they really hate to think of going home.

THE RAILWAY WARS AGAIN.

A Proposition to "Conquer" Reading by "Exhausting" It.

The New York World has an article on its editorial page under the suggestive title "Conquer Reading by Exhausting It". "By pushing the present suits against the Reading system", says the writer, "and beginning and pushing as many more as possible, that system will be eaten up by its own lawyers". By "insisting on this course" and "constantly urging it", the readers of the World are assured that it "will incalculably serve the interests of the people".

There have been various plans suggested for the overthrow of the Reading, but this of "conquest by exhaustion" is the simplest. Mr. Cassatt, whose terror of railway combinations thrilled the newspapers in February and March, insisted that the government should interfere. Mr. Cassatt's sudden horror of monopoly did not go so far as to propose a dissolution of the alliances under which the Pennsylvania system had been made a powerful monopoly. Nor did he propose a return to the dear old Camden and Amboy days, nor a revival of the blessed tonnage tax, nor a restoration to the Northern Central, the Philadelphia and Erie, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore and other ravished corporations of their bereft honor and dignities. His game was the Reading, and his associate "against monopoly" was Terence V. Powderly. Several New York newspapers with unconscious humor were pathetic over the governor's "refusal to act", when implored by such eminent labor movement leaders as Mr. Powderly and Mr. Cassatt. Another cogent member of this anti-Reading alliance is Henry Clews, a Wall street magnate, whose financial position is like that of those enterprising gentlemen on the Jersey coast, to whom every storm is a harvest when it gives them the blessing of a wreck. Mr. Clews advised the State of Pennsylvania to take possession of the anthracite lands, and ignoring the millions that had been paid for ownership by thousands of investors, treat coal as an inherent natural right, as air, water and sun. Of course, the principle involved was confiscation. Money invested in the transportation of wheat, the regulation of water supply and the manufacture of light was on this principle as amenable to confiscation as that invested in coal. Mr. Clews would, however, confiscate coal as a war upon the Reading, and in the interest of Wall street adventurers who had not given a dollar for coal development.

Of these various warlike processes, the Cassatt-Powderly plan of having the governor "interfere against monopoly", the Clews plan of confiscation, and the World plan to "conquer Reading by exhausting it", harrying the Reading by lawsuits, until, like that forlorn, vermin-devoured bishop on the Rhine in the German fable, it was "eaten up by its own lawyers", the latter seems to have been adopted. There are, we believe, a half-dozen suits brought, as the World advises in its "Conquest by Exhaustion". The World, as our readers note, commends these suits, not for their merits, but as a part of "the conquest" of the Reading. One of them was dismissed out of court the other day in Easton. That makes no difference. The suit costs money. There is no reason why there should not be a dozen more. If Reading "is to be eaten up by its own lawyers", the question is not what the courts may decide—but keep the courts busy over "decisions".

Yet this question seriously considered is of the gravest nature. If the money to defend these suits is to be taken from Reading investors, and if by forms of legal machinery it is to be taken to such an extent as to "conquer Reading by exhausting it", where are the supplies found for their prosecution? Lawyers are paid on both sides of a cause. If the defendant is to be exhausted, who nourishes and recuperates the plaintiff? Only the editor of the World supposes that plaintiff Gummere in the Easton case paid a penny of the cost. The New York Evening Post distinctly refers to it as "one of the Pennsylvania suits against the Reading". If the Evening Post were not a careful paper we might overlook this statement. Yet when a leading and conservative newspaper sums up this "conquest by exhaustion" campaign as in reality a series of "Pennsylvania suits against the Reading", it opens an important field of inquiry.

Philadelphia studies the history and cause of her own development, and what does she find? No corporation within her jurisdiction has had the royal endowments of the Pennsylvania. We revive none of the criticisms so many of these endowments invoked from the repeal of the tonnage tax under governor Curtin to the present day. We have no sympathy with them. The Pennsylvania is one of the forces of the nation, an institution of which the commonwealth may be proud—the work of a dynasty of gifted and intrepid men, and from that work we would not take a stone. Nor do we grudge the Pennsylvania railroad whatever it has asked, nor whatever it may ask in reason. But when the question is, whether the commonwealth shall govern the Pennsylvania, or be governed by it, conditions change. While the Pennsylvania has taken with the open hand whatever the people have given, she has resisted with clenched hand whatever has been given to anyone else, no matter how just and equitable the claim. Take the entrance of the Baltimore and Ohio into Philadelphia. Think of the millions spent to prevent it, yet the Baltimore and Ohio is here as she should have been when she asked admission. Take the Belt Line controversy. The money wasted in opposing the Belt Line was thrown away. Take the war upon the Reading terminals—the long, weary, costly war. In spite of the lavish disbursements to prevent it, the terminal grows into majestic forms of iron and stone on Market street, and the Pennsylvania is wisely following with a noble building, in a spirit of commendable business emulation. The money that was spent to prevent these improvements was, to use the World's felicitous phrase, "Conquest by Exhaustion". There has been no conquest as yet, and no exhaustion, except, we fear, of resources that would, in the form of betterments or dividends, have warmed the heart of many a stockholder.

Philadelphia has as deep an interest in the failure of this wretched, despicable business of "conquest by exhaustion" as she ever had in the building of the Pennsylvania. The interest is the same. The Pennsylvania has done good work. Let her keep on doing it and all good go with her. Philadelphia sees that the Reading has likewise done good work. Philadelphia has in the Royal Blue, between Washington and New York, one of the best trains in the country. She has a second line direct to Buffalo and the Lakes. She has another system to the seashore, as hundreds of thousands will gratefully acknowledge in these harsh, baking days. She has swift and special access to the Lehigh and Schuylkill valleys, with their assurance of beautiful homes. The Philadelphian may go to Hartford, Boston, the Berkshire Hills, to the rocky coasts of Maine and the Canadas, without that tribute to discomfort involved in shambling and dragging about New York. The pilgrim to Chicago, because of the Reading system, may go by way of Niagara and return by way of West Virginia and see the wonders of the wonderland. These are the results of business foresight, the outcome of a spirit of enterprise, the development of a policy that would keep pace with the gigantic strides of a great city. Philadelphia is richer because of the Reading. Nor is the Pennsylvania poorer. President Roberts, in his address at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania stockholders, dwelt upon a prosperity which enabled him to expend in the state alone a million dollars a week. No citizen grudged President Roberts a penny of this. It was assuredly a prosperity that the growth of the Reading has not disturbed. It is in the nature of these enterprises that one should help the other; that they should develop new wants, new industries, new sources of pleasure and recreation, new channels of trade. There is room on the sea for the Cunard, the Inman, the French, Germen, Italian steamships. There is room in New York for the Central, Erie, Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania. Why grudge Philadelphia another trunk line? And more especially why in the interest of those to whom investments are property in its most sacred form, indulge in these legal wars of "Conquest by Exhaustion". Nothing is conquered, and exhaustion is quite apt to fall upon innocent stockholders whose money is wasted in prosecution of Gummere and other suits like the barren proceeding which failed at Easton on Monday.

This war of "Conquest by Exhaustion" is not merely between two companies, the one striving to follow the World's advice, and have the other "eaten up by its own lawyers", but a war upon values. It involves an eminent peril. It is easy to fire a prairie, but how hard to govern the flames. Capital, and especially capital of the poor investor, ever sensitive grows more so from day to day. The capitalist sees Wall street on one side and the Anarchist on the other. He knows they mean to wreak him—the Anarchist because possessed by the spirit of ignorance and sin—Wall street because in the ruin of others is swift gain. He sees his property assailed by duress, menace, misrepresentation, and competition meant to destroy. Against these he may defend himself. But where is his defense, where is the security of his investments, when he reads that property is to be deliberately "conquered" by innumerable and exhausting processes of law? To him the asylums of justice are to become the arsenals of anarchy and destruction. It is surprising that distrust should spread; that foreign investors should be wary of securities of inherent value? The railroad war is a war upon property. The means proposed by the enemies of the Reading would, if unchecked by public opinion, destroy any interest in the land. Conquest by exhaustion is simply anarchy under the pretext of equity and law. Judge Schuyler, of Northampton, has summarily put an end to the Gummere experiment. Others remain, and in the best interests of the city, of property and justice, they should have as swift and condign a fate. —Philadelphia Star.

Strange Pranks of Jersey Lightning.

During a recent shower near Locktown, lightning partly ripped the roof from the house of Jacob Smith. His young grandson, a lad named Wilmer Risler, was playing on the porch at the time, and he was prostrated. For a while he remained unconscious. Mr. Smith and his men were in a field near by gathering hay. Edward Rodenbaugh was knocked down by the shock, as was also the horse he was driving, but neither sustained injury of importance.

The other day a very large pear tree in the door-yard of Joseph Everitt, in Stockton, and which stood within six feet of his house, was struck by an electric bolt. A number of large limbs were knocked off and the trunk was split through the middle from the top to the ground, while plants and flowers standing near the tree were not injured. Another plant some distance away was killed, presumably by a current after it passed into the ground.

A boil hurts, but it helps. It shows you plainly what you need. It wouldn't be there, if your blood were pure and your system in the right condition. And they would be; if you'd take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It carries health with it. All Blood, Skin, and Scalp Diseases, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst Scrofula, are cured by it. It invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, and rouses every organ into healthful action. In the most stubborn forms of Skin Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Carbuncles, and kindred ailments, and with Scrofula in every shape, and all blood-taints, there's nothing that can equal it as a perfect and permanent remedy.

That's the reason it's the only medicine of its kind that can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, you have your money back. And that makes it the cheapest blood-purifier sold, for you pay only for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

BURIED THE WRONG MAN.

Peter Sheridan Would Like to Know Whose Corpse Was Mistaken for His.

The mystery that surrounded the fate of Peter Sheridan, who was supposed to have been killed at Bloomsbury six weeks ago, and whose alleged body was brought on from there by his father and buried a second time in Mount Olivet cemetery in the family plot, has been solved.

Sheridan, instead of mouldering in the grave, is very much alive, and last night walked into his home to the joy and astonishment of his relatives, who celebrated the event in hilarious fashion. Peter had been in Philadelphia, went on a "racket" there, and was sent to jail, it is said, for thirty days to get straightened up. Meanwhile his relatives had been mourning him as dead and had given him a first-class funeral. The mystery now is whose body was that buried in his place by mistake. The Sheridan family have not decided what they will do with the corpse, which takes up space in the family burying-ground and which it cost them $265 to have brought to Elizabeth and interred.

Another complication has arisen in the case, as it seems the Prudential Insurance company paid a policy on Peter's life to his parents, and now that the man is still living this money will doubtless have to be refunded. Most of it went toward paying the funeral expenses of Sheridan's double, and the young man's father, being poor, is unable to at present hand back the cash.

TO CHANGE TO THE TROLLY.

Newark's Tried It and Likes It and Wants More of It.

The Newark and South Orange Street railway company are preparing to run its cars by the overhead electric system. It will do so as soon as the necessary authority is granted. Application has already been made to the board of works, but that body is not sure whether it or the State Subway commission has power to grant the privilege. When that point is decided it is expected that the concession will follow as a matter of course. You can't give the people that have it, too much trolley.

The company has adopted plans for the erection of a power house and the plant has been ordered, including the poles, wires, etc. Thirty cars are being built that will cost about $4,000 each. Provision is being made for power almost double what will be needed.

The work of relaying the tracks has been going on for a week and 1,000 feet was laid up to Saturday.

Denver Brimful of Knights, Including Plainfield's.

Over 60,000 Knights Templar and as many more visitors, including Sir Knights Sebring, Chandler, Keller, Odam, Blackford and others of this city, thronged the streets of Denver yesterday. The formal opening of the twenty-fifth triennial conclave will take place to-day, and in numbers and magnificence it will surpass its twenty-four predecessors. The citizens of Denver have raised over a hundred thousand dollars to defray the expenses of the gathering, and have done everything in their power to provide accommodations for the visitors, and yet the hotels, boarding houses, and even many of the private dwellings are packed to suffocation.

A large number of sleeping and day cars have been side-tracked at different points in the city, and are being utilized as sleeping apartments. Last night the resident commanderies held receptions from 8 to 12 o'clock, and the city was illuminated in honor of its guests.

Six for Womankind.

Vice-President Morton's daughters take an active interest in Sunday-schools, and are particularly useful in the religious and educational work of their church at Rhinebeck.

Miss Catharine Weed Barnes, who is widely known among amateur photographers as a fellow-craftsman, expects to expose 2,000 plates during her present visit to Europe. She will probably read a paper before a convention in Edinburgh.

The French newspapers tell of a very interesting match that came off in France. Two women in good society challenged each other to talk fast. Each was to utter as many words as possible in a fixed time. Each woman talked three consecutive hours. One uttered 203,560 words. The other won the match with 296,000 words.

Lady Henry Grosvenor and Mrs. Tyssen Amherst, who have in charge the exhibition of English needlework to be made at the world's fair, hope that there will be a fine loan collection of historical needle work. A preliminary exhibition will be held in London about January or February, 1893, when the best specimens will be selected and forwarded to Chicago.

Mrs. Alice Lincoln, of Boston, has effectually proved that the price paid by poor tenants for their miserable quarters is sufficient to furnish them well lighted, well ventilated and comfortable rooms. To convince the public of this, she rented one of the most unhealthful of these houses, had it thoroughly cleansed and repaired, lowered the rents and finds that she has a generous dividend on her investment.

Another Hot Wave.

Professor A. Jackson DeVoe, of Hackensack, has been chuckling a great deal lately. He hit the hot wave just right, and his prediction that there would be frost in Missouri, and a cold wave here on the 20th, only missed connection by two days. DeVoe says the next hot wave is due to arrive August 20 and continue till the 25th. The king bee electric storm for this month will get here August 27, to be followed by the usual break-camp wet and misery. On September 27 the biggest electric disturbance of the year will take place. DeVoe also says that next winter will be the coldest and longest-continued that you have ever had.

FACTS ABOUT SPONGES.

How They Are Fished Up from the Bottom of the Sea.

Where the Finest and Most Expensive Varieties Are Found—A Specimen Nearly Five Feet Long and Two Feet Thick.

The gathering and preparation for market of sponges is an industry of peculiar interest, and, notwithstanding their very extensive use in all countries, the details of the work are known to but comparatively a small number of the general public. Sponge fishing, says the Chicago Graphic, has been conducted in the waters off the southern coast of the United States for many years. Clumsy little boats, manned by four or five dusky-skinned natives, skirt along the reefs and bays of the Florida coast, in shallow water. Each man holds tightly his grappling pole, about twenty feet in length, armed at its extremity with a claw-like attachment. This is slowly scraped along the bottom, catching the sponge where it grows and ruthlessly tearing it from its rocky bed. The sponges are piled up in the boat until a sufficient quantity has been gathered, when the return home is made.

Upon the arrival of the boats they are quickly emptied of their contents by bare-legged little pickaninnies, who for a penny will dive down in forty feet of water and pluck up a sponge worth a dollar when prepared. After having been spread out upon the dry hot sand the sponges are beaten well to remove the gelatinous, slimy matter constituting their animal life, after which they are thoroughly washed by the waves in pens made by driving stakes along the beach. The next process consists in bleaching, to give them a more presentable appearance for the market. This process of bleaching is done by dipping the sponges for a few seconds into an acid bath. Great care is necessitated here, as just a little too much acid would seriously injure the natural texture of the sponge. Lime is also extensively used. They are next carefully dried, after which they are professionally classified according to quality, size, etc., and pressed in bales ready for exportation.

At Key West or the Bahamas the water in which the sponge fishing is conducted is wonderfully clear, bottom being discernible to a depth of 50 or 60 feet. When the surface of the water is slightly ruffled the sponge fisher uses a simple thongh very effective instrument to enable him to see clearly the bottom of the water. This consists of a plain piece of glass securely fitted to the ends of four pieces of wood in telescope style. By plunging this a few inches below the rough surface of the water he can watch the bottom of the sea as well as he can with the naked eye in smooth water.

In the deep, placid bays of the blue Mediterranean and the Persian gulf grow luxuriantly the finest and most expensive varieties of the sponge. These often develop an extraordinary beauty of form and softness of texture. This class of sponges is gathered at certain seasons of the year only, and by professional divers, chiefly young and agile Greeks and Turks, who are literally born in the water, and become almost amphibious. No grappling hooks can be used on these finer varieties of sponges, such as are used on the coarser grades growing off the Bahamas and Key West. These sponges are used for toilet and surgical purposes. Great quantities are shipped every year to London and Paris, the two great receiving markets of the world, where they undergo a critical classification before being cased for export to the various countries.

Great size is sometimes attained in the natural growth of the sponge, particularly in the coarser grades that flourish in the West Indies. The largest sponge in the world was found growing on a coral reef off Key West, and it required the strength of several men to pull it from its tenacious hold on the rock bottom of the blue sea. It measures 4 feet 10 inches in length and 3 feet 7¼ inches in width. It is oval in form and nearly two feet in thickness. Of course such a sponge is too large for practical uses, but it is highly interesting as an exaggerated freak of nature in the sponge line.

The antiquity of the sponge in history is well known. Its extreme usefulness and universal growth has caused it to be utilized and appreciated by all peoples. In this country the sale of sponges is exclusively in the hands of the pharmacists. In Europe, however, it is sold by hairdressers and perfumers.

About Printers' Marks.

The interrogation mark or "point" (?) was originally a "q" and an "o," the latter placed under the former. They were simply the first and last letters of the Latin word "questio." So, too, with the sign of exclamation or interjection (!). In its original purity it was a combination of "I" and "o," the latter underneath as in the question mark. The two stood for "Io," the Latin exclamation of joy. The paragraph mark "¶" is a Greek "p," the initial of the word paragraph. The early printers employed a dagger (†) to show that a word or sentence was objectionable and should be cut out.

MAGIC SOAP BUBBLES.

How to Make Three Bubbles, One Within the Other.

First, get the right sort of soap and water for lasting bubbles. Then get a copper tube, with a cork lining at the end, for blowing small bubbles, and a child's toy trumpet, like that indicated in the picture, for the large ones. Clay pipes are too fragile and unsuited otherwise for this experiment.

And now this is the way in which you may blow three bubbles, and have one inside the others: Pour a little soap and water into a saucer in the middle of which place an ordinary cork. Then take a little china doll and make it stand erect on a silver dollar piece by whole length, in the liquid, and introduce it into the large bubble, which will not burst. Take up some of the liquid in the saucer and blow the second bubble just above the doll's head. Stop when it has attached itself to the circumference of the dollar piece. Thus the doll will appear inclosed in a double-dome of glass.

Lastly, withdraw the tube, moisten it in the soap and water, pierce with it the two bubbles, and blow a third little one inside them.

If it rests in the circular pasteboard on the doll's head, your experiment will be complete.

AMONG THE NEBULAE.

Discoveries Accomplished by the Aid of Photography.

Some of the most remarkable discoveries of recent times have been accomplished by the aid of photography. Among these discoveries not the least wonderful is the revelation that has been made of the existence of enormous nebulous masses scattered here and there in starry space.

These nebulæ shine with so faint a light that the eye in many cases fails to perceive them, even when aided by the most powerful telescopes; but the photographic plate is able to register impressions of light that escape the grasp of human vision.

Some of the nebulous masses in question are intermingled with the stars composing the celebrated and beautiful group of the Pleiades. The greatest in extent is perhaps one which has been photographed from Wilson's peak in California. It envelops the whole lower half of the constellation of Orion. The evident connection between the vast nebulous streams and spirals thus discovered, and the stars, or suns, in their neighborhood adds greatly to the interest with which these more or less mysterious objects are regarded.

It would appear that the work of discovery in this direction has but just begun. Mr. E. E. Barnard, of the Lick observatory, calls attention to a number of strange nebulous masses, barely to be glimpsed under the best of conditions, in the Milky Way, and to others in other parts of the heavens. One is not far from Antares, the brilliant red star that shines rather low in our southern sky in summer, and another lies between the Pleiades and the Milky Way.

Sir William Herschel knew of the existence of many of these nebulous expanses in the sky, and Mr. Barnard recalls this fact, while pointing out the highly interesting field for exploration and discovery that here lies open, inviting the exercise of the highest powers of photography.—Youth's Companion.

An Animal Flower.

The inhabitants of St. Lucia have lately discovered a most wonderful plant. It grows in a cavern in an immense basin of brackish water that has overflowed from the sea. The bottom of the basin is covered with pebbles and each pebble with from one to five of these plants, which, for want of a better name, are termed "animal flowers." These curious creatures, which are in all shades of colors, remind one of a beautiful flower-bed. To the sight they are perfect flowers, but on the approach of a hand or a stick they retire out of sight. Close examination shows that the middle of the flower-like disk is provided with four filaments which move around the "petals" with a brisk, spontaneous motion. Each of these filaments is provided with pinchers for seizing prey. They live upon the spawn of fish and marine insects. Whenever the pinchers on the filaments make a "catch," the petals immediately close and there is no escape for whatever has been so unfortunate as to fall into the voracious creature's maw.

The Next Best Thing.

"Say," he said to the clerk in an all-night restaurant, "is there a drug store open anywhere near here?"

"No."

"No place where I can buy a rubber ring or something like that suitable for a baby cutting teeth?"

"No."

"Well, then," he said, in a tone of resignation, "wrap me up one of your ham sandwiches."—Washington Star.

SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,

4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have preference. Send for circular.

GLADSTONE'S VIGOROUS WORDS.

Balfour's Sarcastic Answer—The News that Fugitive De Cobain, M. P., Is In New York, Received In London—Earthquake in South Germany.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The House of Commons was crowded to its full capacity before the business of the day was commenced, as it was expected that Mr. Gladstone would resume the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech. His appearance in the House was the signal for ringing cheers from his adherents on the floor and his admirers in the galleries.

In the matter of Egan, the Invincible, sentenced to imprisonment under the Crimes act, Matthews, Home Secretary, replied to a query that he had again considered the case but could not hold out hopes of Egan's speedy release.

Mr. Gladstone said there was just cause of complaint against the Government for having embarked the House in an utterly barren and anomalous debate. Hitherto the Queen's speech had always admitted that the result of a general election was binding and conclusive. "Now," added Mr. Gladstone, "we find the decision of the country challenged by the Government; and this House has met to discuss it does not know what." (Conservative and Liberal-Unionist cheers.)

Mr. Gladstone went on to say that the criticisms of the other side on the composition of the Liberal majority struck at the root of the Constitution. Should the idea be generally adopted it would be a blow at Parliament and at the nation. The Liberal majority doubtless had Irish votes for a basis, but under the circumstances this was rather a recommendation than a ground for assailing the right of such a majority to represent the people.

Mr. Balfour followed Mr. Gladstone in a speech.

He maintained that the House had a right to know before intrusting the Government to the Liberals what their policy was, especially when the party upon which Mr. Gladstone relied was broken into at least three divisions, each owning a different leader.

Referring to the policy of the present Government, Mr. Balfour said that that would be judged by historians. Assured as to what the verdict would be, he would neither anticipate nor defend it.

Mr. Balfour put forth all his powers of sarcasm. He taunted Mr. Gladstone with describing his Irish policy as moral, when it was really and essentially immoral. England was a partner of Ireland in the union, and certainly had a right to a hearing in regard to the proposed dissolution of the union. The incoming government must describe the meaning of the phrase used by Gladstone about administering law in Ireland in sympathy with the opinions of the community—whether it would mean the restoration in defiance of the rights of property of 3,000 evicted tenants.

Several other members joined in the debate, after which the House adjourned.

ENGLAND'S FUGITIVE COMMONER.

The Report That He Was Seen in New York Excites Interest in London.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Great interest has been excited here by the report from New York that Edward de Cobain preached at a revival meeting, held in a shabby tent in a vacant lot in Brooklyn Monday evening. It is stated none of the worshipers suspected the man's identity, nor thought for an instant that one of the foulest charges made against a man was hanging over his head, a charge which caused him to flee the United Kingdom over a year ago.

He was a member of Parliament for Belfast when the crime was attributed to him and he fled to the Continent, claiming he was a victim of a conspiracy.

He was expelled from the British House of Commons upon his failure to return and face his accusers and is now a fugitive from justice.

Nothing definite was heard from him, but it was given out that he was in Spain or France.

A correspondent, it is said, introduced himself at the close of the meeting, and accompanied Mr. de Cobain home. Mr. de Cobain asserted his innocence of the charges, and said that he is preparing papers showing that he was the victim of a plot on the part of the Irish police, whom he had denounced. He said that when he left England he went to France and Spain and came to America last May, since which time he has been in New York.

Earthquake in South Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—An earthquake was felt about 4 a. m. in Southwest Germany, in the neighborhood of the Rhine. The direction of the earthquake was from the northwest to the southwest, and was felt most severely in Coblenz, Ems and Weisbaden. The shock lasted ten seconds. Buildings rocked, and glasses and other articles in some instances fell and were broken. People were frightened, and many ran out of their houses to the streets. No fatalities are reported.

Murderer Neill Will be Held.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Thomas Neill, indicted for the murder of Matilda Clover, was again brought up on remand in the Bow Street Police Court yesterday. No new evidence against Neill was adduced, the police believing that this is not the proper time to divulge the full nature of the evidence. The evidence given before the coroner will be sufficient to hold the prisoner for the grand jury.

Davitt's Election Contested.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Pieres Mahony, who represented North Meath in the late Parliament, and was a defeated Parnellite candidate for the seat in the present Parliament, has lodged a petition against the election of Michael Davitt, charging clerical intimidation, etc.

Crazed by a Fall of 35 Feet.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—A scaffold at the Pittsburg Locomotive Works in Allegheny collapsed yesterday morning, and two timbers named John O'Day and John Bell, who were working on the third floor, were precipitated to the pavement, a distance of 35 feet. Both men were fatally injured. The shock crazed O'Day and he became a raving maniac. It took six men to hold him while he was being conveyed to the hospital.

THE GREAT PARADE.

35,000 Knights Templar in the Procession at Denver.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 10.—Yesterday was the biggest day of the great triennal Knights Templar conclave. Everybody expected it would be and no one was disappointed. It was the day of the great parade and the formal opening of the business session of the grand encampment. The parade was the great public demonstration and, of course, attracted the most attention.

It was a magnificent affair. Several of the commanderies were mounted, but the largest part of them were on foot. The total number of uniformed knights who took part in the parade exceeded 35,000, while an equal number occupied the grand stands and the buildings watching them pass. The line was enlivened by the music of 200 bands.

The night's rain, while it had spoiled the beauty of some of the decorations, cooled the air greatly, and made life pleasant for the visitors in the city. Preparations for the grand parade were all completed Monday night. Orders were issued to be in place at 9 o'clock and at the time they were all ready. After waiting an hour three guns were fired and the head of the procession began to move.

Just at the same time Grand Master Cobin and his escort, St. John's Commandery of Philadelphia started from the Brown Place Hotel for the reviewing stand at Sixteenth and Logan avenues.

The line of march of the procession began on 14th street, crossed over Court Place to 16th street, then up Sixteenth avenue past the reviewing stand to Race street and then returned to the business section again.

After several miles of marching the parade broke up at the Masonic Temple.

The Fourteenth Division formed on as many side streets and took their places as the line moved along. As the start was made at 10 o'clock with 20,000 men in line the rear end was hardly in motion two hours later.

DENIAL BY THE CRAMPS.

Say They Have Not Signed Contracts to Build Three New Steamships.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—The Cramps deny that they have signed contracts with the Inman Company for three new trans-atlantic steamships. Nothing will be done in this respect until the return in a few days of President Griscom of the steamship company, who is now on his way home from Europe.

Mr. Dallett, of Boulton, Bliss & Dallett, the owners of the Red D line of New York, said to-day:

"The contracts are signed. I saw Charles Cramp a few days ago and he told me that they had the drawings and specifications. The bill calls for two ships of 11,000 tons each, but I understand that three vessels each of 11,000 tons are contracted for. This will give Americans a chance to show what they can do in building ships.

"I remarked to Mr. Cramp that the firm should build a ship, not only the peer of the Paris or New York, but one that would far exceed either, and he agreed with me."

THE CHARGES DROPPED.

Bank Wrecker Faulkner Will Not Be Prosecuted Further.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Ex-President James B. Faulkner, of the First National Bank of Dansville, the story of whose pardon and subsequent re-arrest has been told in these dispatches, will not be prosecuted further.

District-Attorney Reed, of Livingston county, telegraphed Sheriff Beck late on Monday not to execute the warrant previously sent him, but to wait for his letter. The telegram came too late, however, as the arrest had been made.

In his letter, which has just reached here, Mr. Reed explained that as Faulkner had already been in the penitentiary one and a half years there was a disposition to let matters against him ease up. Since he had been pardoned by the President it was felt best to let the other charges drop.

Faulkner has been released from jail.

The Iron Hall Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—It is asserted that Judge Fell of Common Pleas Court No. 2 has indicated to Charles H. Krumlaar, State Superintendent of Banking, through an attorney, that he will this week entertain a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Mutual Banking Company, which is the local depository of the Iron Hall and with which Supreme Justice Somerby of the order is prominently identified, if the deficiency of capital is not made good at once.

Select Knights Elect Officers.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The following officers were elected at the 14th annual session of the Grand Legion of Select Knights here: Grand Commander, Horman Henning, Buffalo; Grand Vice-Commander, Thomas J. Blessing, New York; Grand Lieut.-Commander, George Mura, Rochester; Grand Recorder, G. W. Huggings, Batavia; Grand Treasurer, E. H. Dennison, Olean; Grand Medical Examiner, Joseph Fowler, Buffalo.

British Steamship Ashore.

KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 10.—The English steamship Sapphire, from Cardiff, bound to Vera Cruz, loaded with railroad iron, is ashore on Fowey Rocks, about 200 miles north of this city. The captain and four men arrived here in the afternoon in a yawl boat for assistance, which they secured. They report no damage to the steamship as yet.

Editor Ballard Smith Resigns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Ballard Smith, editor of the New York "World," has resigned his position on that paper, and his resignation was accepted by Mr. Pulitzer by cable. It is understood that Mr. Smith's withdrawal was caused by friction with the business management.

FAST TRIP OF THE TREASURE TRAIN.

It Made the Long Journey Without Accident—Unloading the Gold.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The special train carrying $20,000,000 from the San Francisco mint, which reached here yesterday, made the trip from San Francisco in a little less than 112 hours, which the trainmen say is the fastest time ever made from San Francisco to New York.

The train made the long journey without an accident of any sort.

The train was met at the Grand Central station by Second Assistant Postmaster-General J. Lowrie Bell, who took charge of the transfer of the money from the station to the Sub-Treasury.

The $20,000,000 was packed in 500 boxes, $40,000 to each box, which weighed 160 pounds.

There were thirty-five boxes put in most of the wagons, the drivers of which were sworn United States mail drivers.

Two guards rode on each wagon on the journey to the Sub-Treasury.

The wagons were loaded, five at a time.

Assistant Treasurer Ellis H. Roberts, who has charge of the Sub-Treasury in this city, where the trainload of gold was safely stored away, said:

"Monday night we had in the vaults $121,000,000, of which $43,000,000 was gold, so when the $20,000,000 of gold which the train brought is put in the vaults there will be altogether $141,000,000 in the building.

"Although that is a large amount, it is by no means the largest amount we have had here at one time, as within the past three years there was at one time over $305,000,000 in the vaults. I have no idea when the next shipment will be made from San Francisco."

The Sub-Treasury in Wall street is strongly fortified against any attack that may be made against it. There are four Gatling guns within its walls, in addition to a large number of rifles, revolvers and grenades.

It is connected with two police precinct station houses by direct wires, and there are also two special wires for the Fire Department. There is always a large enough force of men on hand night and day to protect the treasure stowed in the vaults.

THE CASE OF DR. GEORG.

Gov. Brown's Report of the Indignity Placed Upon the Swiss Legate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Attorney-General Poe, of Maryland, called upon Secretary of State Foster yesterday and handed him the report of Gov. Brown, of Maryland, in regard to the arrest of Dr. Georg, attache of the Swiss Legation, who was arrested at Bay Ridge, Md., charged with appropriating the purse of a Mrs. Borde, of Baltimore.

Gov. Brown, after reciting the facts in the case, says:

"It is clear that under the accusation, for which there is not the slightest color of excuse, Dr. Georg has been subjected to a gross indignity. Unfortunately it is not within my power to mark my condemnation of this indignity by any punishment further than by calling for the prompt dismissal of the officer, Deputy Sheriff Lowman, who made the arrest, whose blunder was the occasion of this most deplorable incident. This I have done.

"He has been discharged from the service of the sheriff and of the Bay Ridge authorities, and will not be reinstated."

Governor Brown asks that Dr. Georg and the Swiss Legation be made aware of his official action in the matter and at the same time to express his profound regret at the unfortunate occurrence and his inability to offer Dr. Georg any further redress or reparation for the affront to which he has been subjected.

In conclusion, Governor Brown says that under the laws of Maryland the Governor has no power to punish the officer who made the arrest further than dismissing him from office.

Corbett's Special Train.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 10.—The special train that will take James J. Corbett to New Orleans for his fight with Sullivan has been definitely decided upon. William A. Brady, Corbett's manager, closed negotiations yesterday with the Piedmont Air Line. The train will leave here at 4 p. m. on Sept. 1, and will make the run in 40 hours, arriving in New Orleans at 7:30 on the morning of Sept. 3.

Buried in the Ruins.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—During the wind storm yesterday a portion of the west brick wall of shop No. 1 of the Edison Works, which was burned a few weeks ago, fell and buried four Polanders who were removing debris left by the fire. One of the men was killed, and the remaining three are fatally injured. A house in Edison Park was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

Canada's Government Has Not Decided

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10.—Hon. Mackenzie Powell, when asked as to the truth of the report that the Government had abolished rebates on freight coming through the Welland Canal and transshipped on its way to Montreal, replied that the Government had so far come to no decision and that another meeting of the Cabinet will be held in a few days and the matter further discussed.

All Quiet at the Pittsburg Mills.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—Everything is quiet in the vicinity of Carnegie Union Mills to-day. The 18-inch and 20-inch mills were run this morning by shifting the crews from other departments. The firm is offering $5.50 per ton with a contract running sixteen months for puddlers, but so far have received no applications.

Senator Colquitt Improving.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Senator Colquitt's condition is so much improved that his family has decided to remove him today. It is probable he will go to some cool mountain resort in Georgia.

THE INQUEST BEGUN

Lizzie Borden and Bridget Sullivan Questioned.

THE PROCEEDINGS KEPT SECRET.

No Doubt But that Some One of the Family Will Be Arrested for the Murder—Miss Borden Not Closely Questioned—Nervous State of the Servant.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 10.—The following bulletin was last night given out by State Detective Seaver:

"The inquest into the Borden murder began before Judge Blaisdell at 10 a. m., District-Attorney Knowlton conducting the investigation. Bridget Sullivan and Lizzie Borden were questioned separately. The examination of neither was concluded. The inquest adjourned until 10 a. m. Wednesday. Nothing was developed for publication."

This meagre report is all that is given out officially regarding the first day's proceedings of the inquiry.

First Bridget Sullivan, the servant girl in the Borden family, was summoned to the Central Police Station. She walked down in company with an officer and talked quite freely on the way.

She looked very much worried and was quite pale as compared with her appearance last Thursday morning, when seen first by a reporter.

She told the officer that it was very hard to be watched so closely and to have one's private affairs torn to pieces. She was willing, however, to have the police or any one else examine her every action since the time she arose Thursday until she was asked to go to the Police Station with the officer.

She did not care to talk very much about the details of the family relations. She said that she wanted to leave two or three times but she was urged to remain by Mrs. Borden, of whom she spoke very kindly.

She was taken at once into the City Marshall's presence and also into the presence of District Attorney Knowlton and Medical Examiner Dolan. These men, who with Judge Blaisdell and the two detectives, are now handling the case, do not care to be quoted as having given any opinion on the merits of the present state of things, but they all agree that affairs are at a critical point and action may be taken at once.

Miss Sullivan was brought before the men to undergo a thorough examination as to the facts before and after the murders as far as she knew them.

While the servant was in the court room locked up with the officers, Mr. Morse was walking along through Main street and down to the banks closely followed by an officer.

Miss Lizzie Borden was brought to the Central Police station in the afternoon in a hack containing Marshal Hilliard, Officer Harrington and Mrs. James W. Bingham.

Miss Borden was served with a subpœna summoning her to attend at an inquiry at the Second District Court, to determine the cause of the death of her father and mother.

Mrs. Bingham was visiting Miss Borden and consented to accompany her at the request and consent of Marshal Hilliard.

The stopping of the carriage at the Borden homestead was followed by the gathering of a great crowd. As Miss Borden stepped in the people surged forward and caused lively work for the policeman in keeping them back.

The drive to the station was very rapid, and was through crowds of people on both sidewalks. At the police station this crowd was greatly augmented and the police court alley was filled with curious business men and loiterers.

Miss Bordon was conducted through the guard room on the second floor where the court sits. She was dressed in a well-fitting suit of black covered with lace. She paid no attention to the persons around her. Her face looked worn and worried.

Miss Borden was not examined very closely at yesterday's proceedings.

The analysis of the stomachs has not been completed yet, and probably will not be for several days longer. It is said that Dr. Wood was called here to assist, if possible, in giving some information which would justify the officials in serving warrants. At the present time the officers are in great doubt about how to proceed. An officer, who is very close to the head of the department, said this morning, that he had no doubt of the ultimate arrest of some one in the family, but which one he would not or could not say.

After the adjournment of the investigation Miss Borden was taken in a carriage to her home on Second street, accompanied by Mrs. Bingham and City Marshal Hilliard. The servant girl will not be returned to sleep in the Borden house again. Her nerves are completely shattered.

Brings Suit for Cruel Treatment.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 10.—James Casey, for seven months an inmate of the Lackawanna Hospital, has entered suit against that institution, its medical staff and trustees, claiming $20,000 damages for alleged cruel treatment. He also makes affidavit that other patients were barbarously treated by the attendants and claims that a Polander brought there for treatment of a broken leg became frenzied with pain, and the male attendant, in endeavoring to subdue him, choked him so that he died in 20 minutes.

Death of a Gold Cure Patient.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Austin Madigan, a hack driver of Niagara Falls, died very suddenly during the night. Just previous to his death he stopped a dog fight in front of his house, and immediately afterward went to a closet and tore the door off, and when his wife tried to quiet him he tore her dress badly. He appeared to be in a highly nervous state. He was a "gold cure" patient.

Failed to Produce Rain.

COUNCIL GROVE, Kan., Aug. 10.—The Goodland Artificial Rain Company having failed to produce an inch of rain over an area of 25 square miles in four days, as per contract, quickly slipped away with their apparatus. At no time during their operations was there a cloud of any description seen.

No Pardon for Fales.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 10.—The Court of Pardons met yesterday but took no action in the case of Alden Fales, the boy murderer of Newark. This was due to the action of Fales's counsel in removing the case to the United States Court.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Chief Justice Turney was nominated for Governor of Tennessee by the Democrats yesterday, at Nashville.

—Patrick Farrell, of Swampscott, Mass., died of hydrophobia yesterday. He was bitten by a rabid dog on May 13.

—The Hon. James C. Normile, Judge of Criminal Court, St. Louis, committed suicide at his residence in that city yesterday.

—One more death and two new cases of smallpox were reported yesterday at the Bureau of Contagious Diseases in New York city.

—Henry Rudy was fatally and Frank Hart seriously injured by the collapse of the floor of a new building in Lancaster, Pa., yesterday.

—Charles M. Howe, a real estate broker of Buffalo, N. Y., has gone to Canada, leaving unpaid judgments against him of several thousand dollars.

—Gen. James W. Denver, of Wilmington, O., died last evening in Washington, after an illness of three days, from blood poisoning. He was 75 years old.

—Four alleged Garza revolutionists were arrested near Rio Grande City, Tex., Monday. They are Juan Garza, Vicanta Farcia, Felipe Salinas and Catend Lizondo, Mexican ranchers.

—Yesterday was nearly as uncomfortable in New York city as any of the days of the hot spell in July. At noon the thermometer stood at 85, while the humidity was as 90.

—The American schooner Belle Bartlett, has been seized at Port Hawksbury, N. S., charged with violation of the customs laws in 1890 at Shipegan while under command of another master.

—The cruiser Boston will join the Charleston at San Francisco and convey a battalion of the Pacific coast naval reserve to Santa Cruz, Cal., for practice, instead of, as was expected, going to Honolulu.

—While working on the rock at the quarries of H. H. Swoope at Mapleton, Va., a premature fall of rock occurred burying Samuel Bell and several other workmen. Bell was instantly killed, but the others escaped.

—Coinage was executed at United States mints during the month of July as follows: Gold, 85,000 pieces of the value of $1,440,000; silver, 1,042,000 pieces of the value of $569,000; minor coin, 1,900,000 pieces of the value of $19,000.

—A gang of tramps raided six dwellings at Maytown, Lancaster county, Pa., Monday night. Jacob Heistavs fired upon three of them and two were wounded. The villagers pursued the tramps to the Susquehanna river, where the latter escaped by swimming.

—Edward and Willie Bennett, aged 7 and 10 years, were drowned near Trenton, N. J., yesterday afternoon. The younger one stumbled into a pond and Willie dove into the water to rescue him. Both sank before their father, who was on the other side of the pond, could reach them.

—Austin B. Smith, an ex-civil constable, and Charles Bingham, both of Boston, are under arrest charged with swindling the Conveyancer's Title Insurance Company of that city out of $7,500. They secured the money by getting an unknown woman to personate a Miss Mary A. Hayden, a property owner, and forging her name to a mortgage and a note.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair, probably preceded by showers, warmer, southwesterly winds.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair, followed by showers, cooler, southerly winds.

For New England: Generally fair; showers, warmer, southerly winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A directory of Brooklyn has just been added to the assortment at Mallinson's pharmacy, 65 North avenue.

—A regular monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in its rooms to-morrow afternoon at 3:30.

—A homing pigeon marked "L. A. W. V. 91" has flown in at Mrs. Meeker's barn, New Market, where its owner can get it.

—The board of pardons on Tuesday paroled John Jennings, of Union county, who was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for breaking with intent.

—A shad that must have strayed away from its proper summer resort, was exhibited at Rogers's sea-food market yesterday. It weighed 5½ pounds.

—Twenty-five cars have been engaged for the grocers' excursion from Plainfield to Boynton Beach, Sept. 5, Labor Day. It is each year the largest excursion of the season.

—The most delicious of all drinks, and the only one you should dare to indulge in this weather, is iced tea; and Neuman Bros., at Broadway and Fifth street, have a select 50-cent Formosa, just the brand of which to make it.

—The case of the State vs. Douglass came up for a hearing at 2 p. m. yesterday before justice Nash, who, after hearing the evidence, discharged the defendant. W. R. Codington represented the defendant and C. A. Reed the State.

—The excursion of the Y. P. S. C. E. from this city and Dunellen, this morning, was run in two sections. There were 5 carloads from Dunellen and 12 from Plainfield. By some misunderstanding of orders the engine for the latter train was sent here turned around and had to back up all the way to Roselle.

—On Sept. 12 the Harned Academy on Park avenue will reopen with increased accommodations for boarding and day scholars. The school of languages will be in charge of Prof. G. C. Harrison, A. M. Among the features of the school are: Special evening classes in German and French, preparation for college, music, and lectures in literature and art.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. F. M. Derby and children are visiting in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCarthy have returned from Leeds, N. Y.

Miss Gracie Clark, of Grandview avenue, is visiting friends at Metuchen.

George T. Rogers, of Rockview avenue, is home from Princeton and Chatham, Mass.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Carman and family go to Accord, Ulster county, N. Y. to-morrow.

J. Ran Dunn and sister, Miss Lizzie Dunn, of West Fourth street, left to-day for a week of farm life at Neshanic.

Miss Kenyon's seminary for young ladies and children will reopen September 15. It is unequalled in any way.

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Fellows, of Albany, are visiting Mr. Fellows's mother and sister, Mrs. A. L. Fellows, and Miss Blanche Fellows, of 87 Duer street.

Joseph Angerbauer and his sister, Miss Annie Angerbauer, have gone to spend a two weeks' vacation with their grandfather and other relatives at Maspeth, L. I.

The many friends of I. D. TenEyck, formerly of this city and now of Madison, N. J., were glad to meet him in this city to-day and to note that he is steadily gaining in health.

Hon. Chauncey Shaffer, formerly of this city, is expected at the ElDorado, Ocean Grove, this week. He was there earlier in the season, but was called away by the death of a sister. His grandchildren are now at the ElDorado, C. Chauncey Burt, and Misses Florence and Clara Burt, of this city.

L. S. Bond, superintendent of the Boys' club, leaves this week to join his family at New Haven, where they have been for the past three weeks. He will return on the 27th inst., to begin preparations for opening the club on September 1, when all boys will be registered and given new membership tickets.

PLAINFIELD'S ROYAL BLUE LINE.

The Mayors and Councils of the City and Borough Will Ride Over it To-Night, and To-morrow the Public.

A test was made last evening of Plainfield's royal blue line street car service. Everything worked like a charm, and strange to say not a horse shied. It has been the experience in all other cities that it took some time to accustom the horses to the sight of a moving vehicle without animals before it. But last evening the only emotion displayed by the Plainfield horses was a quiet admiration at the beauty of the car and its quiet running.

This evening at 6, from the Park avenue terminus, the mayors and councils of the city and borough, and the press, will be the guests of the company and general superintendent Paesmore, over the route.

To-morrow the line will be thrown open to the public and the cars run on schedule time.

EXTRA.

Latest News By Wire to THE PRESS.

ACCIDENT TO A COACHING PARTY.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—A coaching party of thirteen Philadelphians returning to this city from the Delaware Water Gap met with a serious mishap about dusk on Monday evening in the vicinity of Nazareth. The coach, a large four-in-hand, was driven by one of the party, and in descending a steep hill between Cherry Hill and Nazareth the driver lost his grip on the lines, and in grasping for them lost his balance and fell forward off the coach.

This frightened the horses and they started to run away. The coach coming in contact with a tree was upset, while the horses succeeded in tearing loose from it. All of the party were considerably shaken up and bruised, though not seriously injured, except the driver of the coach, who sustained a fracture of the leg in two places, and was otherwise badly cut and bruised.

KILLED IN THE FOURTH AVENUE TUNNEL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Thomas Jones, 21 years old, while at work this morning at 8 on the railroad track of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad in the tunnel at 69th street and Park avenue, was struck and instantly killed by a south-bound train. The body was taken to the East 67th street police station and the coroner notified.

ESCAPE OF FOY THE MURDERER.

Carelessness of the Jail-Keepers in Saratoga.

BALLSTON, N. Y., August 10.—Martin Foy, jr., the former Guttenberg race-track employe, confined in the Saratoga county jail for the murder of Henrietta Wilson at Saratoga last May, escaped this morning. At 5:30 o'clock the jailer, Howland, went into the corridor to call the prisoner, who had been employed as a cook. The prisoners were all locked in their cells the night before. Foy, who had had a key handed in to him through his cell-window by a confederate, had unlocked the cell and come out into the corridor and hidden in the wash-room adjoining the outer door. He pushed the jailer aside, ran into the kitchen and to the free air. He was seen to go west on High street by the jailer's wife. No other trace has yet been found of him.

THE HEAT IN OTHER PLACES.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—The heat yesterday was overpowering in its intensity, and to add to the discomfort caused by it the slight breeze that blew for a time gave no relief, as it was as hot as if from a furnace. At two o'clock in the afternoon the Signal Service thermometer reached the maximum of the day—92 degrees in the shade, while in the sun's rays 103 degrees was recorded. There were several prostrations and one death, that of a street laborer named Snelling.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—The excessive heat of the last two days has caused much suffering in this city. Eight prostrations have been reported, but none have resulted fatally.

HYMENEAL.

Carpenter—Miers.

The marriage of Miss Ida Miers, adopted daughter of ex-councilman David R. Weaver, of North Plainfield, and Andrew G. Carpenter of this city, will take place in Trinity Reformed church this afternoon at 4:30. The wedding will be a quiet one to which no invitations have been issued. The bride will be married in a traveling gown of light tan Henrietta cloth, with hat and gloves to match. The couple leave on the 5:13 train for a wedding trip through New York State, and a honeymoon at Asbury Park. Upon their return they will be at home in the Crescent flats.

First in the Field.

The Prohibitionists of New Jersey on Tuesday nominated their candidate for Governor. The convention was held in Trenton, and Thomas J. Kennedy, a lawyer of Jersey City, was the candidate. The other candidates voted for were the Rev. J. B. Graw, of Camden, and Solomon Parsons, of Passaic. The vote stood, only the delegates actually in the hall at the time of the ballot, being allowed to vote: Kennedy, 134; Graw, 84; Parsons, 21. George H. LaMonte, of Bound Brook, and W. H. Nicholson, of Haddonfield, were elected delegates-at-large. The district electors chosen were:

First—T. D. Welch.
Second—Jacob D. Joslin.
Third—D. M. Foreman.
Fourth—John F. Schenck.
Fifth—Mahlon B. Reed.
Sixth—George S. Strobel.
Seventh—Stephen B. Ransom.
Eighth—Uzal M. Osborne.

Attractions at Wanamassa.

Excellent board; furnished, floored tents; gymnasium; bicycle track; boating; fishing; athletic sports. These are some of the attractions at the New Jersey State Y. M. C. A. camp, at North Asbury Park. One of the members of the Plainfield association writes as follows: "It is just splendid. I shall stay as long as possible. Words fail to tell you of the many advantages offered." Four Plainfielders started for the camp to-day, and others who have been there speak in the highest terms of their experience while in camp.

The accessibility of the camp to the Asbury Park electric car line assures one of quick access to any part of the Park or Grove.

BASE-BALL NEWS.

The Elizabeth Journal's Peculiar Talk—Have the Other Three in the League Formed a Combination to Beat Plainfield.

It is rumored to-day that "Gentle Willie" Murphy was packing his trunk this morning.

The Crescent League team are playing in Bergen Point, this afternoon, against the N. J. A. C nine that defeated the Plainfielders by one run earlier in the season.

In Sunday's ball games at Paterson, W. Murphy, R. Murphy, Daley, Turner and Bonner played. Turner made 3 hits, Bonner 2 and R. Murphy 1. Daley and W. Murphy each made an error.

The Elizabeth Journal still indulges in some peculiar talk. Yesterday the PRESS published an extract from its columns that stated plainly if the Somerville manager would protest last Saturday's game it would be thrown out. This in the face of the fact that there was and is no question that the game was especially satisfactory in every particular, is to say the least, very strange talk.

Last night's Journal says: "The Crescents have not yet won the pennant. The West Ends are but one game behind them and are considered to have equal chances of capturing the coveted prize. It may take the last game of the series to determine the champion." That also reads most mysterious. If the Journal's baseball reporter speaks for the Elizabeth managers, that team will bear watching else Somerville will win from it too easily both games to come.

MR. DOUGLAS'S SECOND APPEARANCE.

This Time Space is Given Him in THE PRESS As the Right of a Vindicated Man.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The co-incident visit of a young woman of this city and myself to the post-office on Friday, the 5th inst., resulted in my arrest, by warrant issued by justice Nash, charging me with having taken a sum of money she alleges to have lost in the lobby of that place on that day. With the circumstances associating my name with the misfortune this young woman alleges to have sustained upon that occassion; her obtaining a warrant, my arrest, release on bail, and hearing before and discharge by justice Nash yesterday, most of your readers are doubtless familiar. They may not know, however, that no less a local legal light than attorney Reed was employed to emphasize the young woman's charge, and that chief of police Grant essayed to assist the prosecution by forcing himself as a witness, and insinuating his faith in the truth of the charge because he (Grant) had observed when he had deigned to notice me at all—that I "walked leisurely on the street went along as if he (I) had nothing to do, and upon this frivolous basis that official sought to obtain my detention and further annoy me. That such trifling testimony, backed though it was by Mr. Reed's thankless endeavor to head off an action for damages against his clients, was of no avail, is attributable solely to the honest judical sense of justice Nash, and the dignified contempt my attorney—judge Wm. R. Codington—showed for their evidence, so-called.

My appearance in your columns in the first instance was entirely involuntary—due only to the enterprise of your local staff. This second appearance is sought as a favor—and the request for the favor is sustained by the right all honest men have to complain of and protest against, oppression, official or private.

J. W. DOUGLAS.

Entries Will Close Thursday of Next Week.

The Crescent League wheelmen, as already told in THE PRESS, intend holding a twenty-five mile handicap road race on the 25th inst., at 2 p. m. over the course from Plainfield to Fanwood and Scotch Plains and return; open to all residents of the State of New Jersey. The whole course is over the finest macadamized roads in the world.

There will be a number of handsome prizes given, as follows: First a Victor pneumatic bicycle; second a handsome gold medal; third a handsome silver medal; special a handsome gold medal for best actual time.

The handicapper will be F. P. Prial. The entrance fee is $1 to be sent to G. H. Macon, secretary.

They returned at 9 p. m., much pleased with the day's enjoyment. The committee in charge consisted of Messrs. McInamee and Strappe, who spared no pains to make the affair a success.

Arlingtons Against Gorhams.

The "Arlingtons" defeated the "Gorhams" of this city, yesterday morning by the score of 13 to 5. It was a very interesting game all the way through. The "Arlingtons" won the game in the third inning by batting the ball all over the field. The Arlingtons tried a new pitcher in the box and he did well, striking out 8 of the Gorhams. The score by innings was:

Gorhams,.	0	0	2	0	2	0	0	0	1—	5	8	7
Arlingtons	2	0	8	1	0	0	1	1	*—13	15	5

Close Inspection.

Our Clothing will bear the closest inspection, and the conservative gentleman in the picture says he can find nothing wrong even in the buttonholes. They (the clothes) are all wool and as wide as you want them.

We have solved the problem of giving greater value for the money than any other clothing house in the state. Our method of doing this is simple enough when you master it, and consists in having cash with which to buy at the very lowest notch, the judgment to know a good thing when we see it and unequalled and extensive manufacturing facilities. Making our own stock at prices away below what our competitors have to pay, we are in a position to offer goods at prices they cannot meet.

DID N'T KNOW SHE MUST N'T.

Mrs. McKenzie Says Her Lawyer Said She Could Marry Again.

Mrs. McKenzie, who was arrested at Westfield Monday afternoon by detective Cosgrove on a charge of bigamy, as told in yesterday's PRESS, was taken before judge Hayes at Newark Monday night. She found no difficulty in procuring bail. A prominent citizen who saw the woman for the first time in the courtroom filed a bond in the sum of $200, and Mrs. McKenzie went away with her mother.

Mrs. McKenzie appeared to be a woman of refinement, and wept bitterly while relating her story to superintendent Brown. She said her maiden name was Elizabeth Ritter, and she was married in 1888 to Murdock McKenzie in South Brooklyn.

Shortly after the marriage she furnished the money with which her husband embarked in the trucking business. The venture proved a failure, and Mrs. McKenzie claimed that soon the money which had been left her by her grandparents was exhausted, and her husband was earning none.

She and her husband were sheltered by her parents, who lived at Bath Beach. In January, 1890, McKenzie left her, she alleges, and was gone four months. When he returned the couple agreed upon a separation. Mrs. McKenzie alleges that her lawyer, a Mr. Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, told her that she was at liberty to marry in any State except New York. Acting upon this advice she avers that on Feb. 28 of this year she was married to Frederick W. Evans in Newark, by the Rev. Ferd C. Iglehart, who was then pastor of the Central M. E. church.

Evans is cashier in the office of the Lancashire Fire Insurance company in New York. He told superintendent Brown last night that Mrs. McKenzie had assured him that she was legally divorced.

Mrs. McKenzie was greatly embarrassed over her arrest and begged piteously not to be locked in a cell. The superintendent permitted her to remain in the detectives' room.

William T. Byrne, Mr. McKenzie's lawyer, made the complaint against the woman, and the lawyer was waiting at the police headquarters when detective Cosgrove arrived from Westfield with his prisoner. He alleges that Evans had known Mrs. McKenzie when she was Miss Ritter and frequently visited her home after she was married. He alleges that Mrs. McKenzie had attempted to secure alimony from her husband on the ground that she was without money and had pawned her jewelry to raise money for her support.

McKenzie filed an answer charging that his wife had pawned her jewelry to raise money to bet on the horse races. He also alleged that his wife flirted with pugilist Sullivan while on one of the Fall River boats.

Byrne had a talk with Mrs. McKenzie yesterday afternoon and believing her statement that she had married by advice of her lawyer he relented and was willing that she should be paroled in the custody of her mother. Judge Hayes would not listen to such a proposition, but fixed the bail at a low figure in order that the woman could be released. The papers will be sent to the grand jury.

Byrne said a peculiar feature of the affair was that Mrs. McKenzie had begun proceedings for a divorce in this State after her marriage to Evans.

A Bevy of Pretty Girls Coming.

The attraction at Music Hall to-morrow night will be that inimitable genius of low comedy, Robert Gaylor, in a new farcical production entitled, "Sport McAllister, one of the 400". The absurdities and comicalities of Irish rule in New York politics are presented in a delightfully natural way, and Gaylor's portrayal of the boss politician is in no wise overdrawn and the methods of the office-seekers of Gotham are shown in a manner that has but the very least savor of exaggeration about it.

The role of "Sport McAllister" is a splendid vehicle for the display of Gaylor's many peculiarities. It affords him ample latitude for the introduction of the specialties which made him famous years ago, but all are introduced in such a legitimate manner that they seem to have been deftly woven in by the skillful author. Mr. Gaylor is supported by an excellent company of specialty artists whose work throughout the piece gives evidence of far greater talent and training than is generally shown by people of their kind. Bernard Dyllyn is one of the best of baritone singers. David Conroy, as Dennis McGinty, a rival of "Sport's", shows himself to be a splendid Irish comedian, while Charles Young, as "Hard Cheek", the insurance agent, is another Evans and does an exceedingly clever piece of character acting throughout, and at times divides the honors with Gaylor himself. There is also a bevy of very pretty girls whose artistic singing and dancing will capture any audience. The same organization that delighted New York for over fifty consecutive nights at the Bijou theater, will appear here and embraces in all twenty-two artists.

Secure a couple of pair of these elegant pantaloons, which many will be looking for when these reserve lots are closed out. They are the finest goods and handsomest patterns yet offered, and with them Watson & Co., close this great mark down sale.—The Newark Item.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

MAY TURN OUT THE ZOUAVES.

The Elizabeth Councilmen Claim Title to the Armory Has Been Forfeited.

It has leaked out that certain members of the Elizabeth city council are going to make a determined effort to oust the Veteran Zouaves from the armory they have occupied for the past twelve years. The city authorities a dozen years ago leased to the Zouaves for ten years the ground on which the armory has been built for the nominal rental of $1 a year.

It is claimed by the councilmen that the Zouaves, by their failure to remove the building from the land on or before the date the lease expired, have forfeited all right or title to it, and that it now belongs to the city. In order, however, to make the city's title doubly sure these councilmen propose to serve a dispossess writ on Gen. Drake, the commander of the Zouaves, notifying him to vacate the building and remove all the personal property of his company, even if it is only for a day. This, it is claimed, establishes the city's right to the premises, and then if the council is favorably disposed it can let the veterans again occupy the armory as tenants at the will of the city.

Such is the programme mapped out, and, as several of the councilmen are hostile to Gen. Drake for various reasons, there are good grounds for thinking their scheme will be successful.

Several lawyers seem to think the council has the Zouaves on the hip so far as their title to the armory is concerned, and that the building cannot be removed without the consent of the city authorities. The lawyers say it is undoubtedly true that the failure to move the building when the lease of the ground expired invalidated any right the occupants previously had to the armory, and that now the city is the legal owner.

Some of the councilmen base their intended action on what they are pleased to call moral grounds and allege that as the public contributed the money to erect the armory, the city, which represents the public and not the Zouaves, has the best right to the building.

Councilman John T. Dunn says that negotiations are on foot whereby an offer is to be made to the city council probably at its next meeting to pay $1,000 for a lease of the armory for a year for a furniture store. Other councilmen favor leasing it to the Phil Kearny Guard for drilling purposes.

Peaches to be Plentiful.

"Peaches will be plentiful this season in spite of assertions to the contrary", said a produce merchant yesterday. "The Delaware crop is very light, the South Jersey yield is nothing, and the North Jersey product is small. Prices are hard to estimate. When the crop is heavy, 60 cents to 75 cents per basket is a full price and 50 cents is the average. Transportation will affect quotations this season, as freight rates are unsteady. From 12 cents to 20 cents per basket goes to the railroad."

"No commodity is so treacherous as peaches," said another produce man. "The crop may be on the verge of harvest and yet be blighted. The last of the early Delaware crop, called Trothes, wound up last week. The 'middle' crop, or what should be in the market now, is a dead loss, but the extreme late Delaware yield called the Smock, will be due about four weeks hence and will bring prices down.

"Smock may sell for 60 to 75 cents per basket, if nothing happens. When the trees give four baskets each the fruit is cheap. Just now the orchards are sickly, and four trees are giving only one basket

"The flavor of the few peaches to be had now is exceptionally good. Many people wonder because peaches are high when the crop is reported heavy. That is because the yield is not properly distributed. For instance, growers will rush their product to New York and Philadelphia will clamor in vain, and vice versa. Again the crop may be poor and prices low. Last year the single State of Delaware shipped 300,000 baskets, but this year it has only sent 3,000 baskets so far. The price per basket is now from $1.25 to $2. If the crop of late Delaware and the crop from Maryland and Pennsylvania are fair, prices will be down to 60 cents in a month or six weeks. Altogether the supply is now short, but very soon will be satisfactory."

The Job Male Will Famed in Another Particular.

The decision of chancellor McGill in the famous Job Male will case has been issued in pamphlet form, and the lawyers have already exhausted the first edition. They agree that it is, without doubt, one of the best and most valuable legal decisions that has been handed down by a judge in many years.

A Protection Paradox From Trenton.

The farmer can now buy a first-class steel plow for about $1.50 less than it could be bought two years ago. The McKinley bill may not be entitled to credit for this reduction, but the free trade organs are asked to remember facts of this sort when they attribute a rise in the price of any article to that much abused piece of tariff legislation.—Trenton Times.

We thought you told the folks down in Homestead, that the tariff raised the price of iron and increased the wages. How, therefore, can the price of the manufactured article be lowered at the same time?

Comes back—every cent that you've paid for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, if you have not found the help that you need. But, if you're a tired and feeble woman, or a delicate and ailing one, it's a remedy that's sure to give it. Practically, it's sold on trial. That's what it amounts to. If it doesn't give satisfaction, in the building-up and strengthening of overtaxed womanhood, and the complete cure of all the delicate derangements, functional disturbances, and painful disorders peculiar to the sex—then you have your money back.

You'd think that any medicine could be sold so, if it did all that's claimed for it.

Exactly.

But the fact remains that out of all the medicines for women, "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's sold on such terms.

Knowing these things, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else, that pays the dealer better, offered as "just as good."

CHEATS THE HANGMAN

Col. H. Clay King's Sentence Commuted.

GOVERNOR'S ACTION CRITICIZED.

Condemned as One Who Has Allowed a Woman's Tears to Swerve Him From Duty—A Brother of the Murdered Lawyer the First to Receive the News.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 10.—Col. Henry Clay King, who was to have been hanged on Friday next for the murder of Lawyer Poston in connection with the scandal of Col. King and the widow of Gen. Pillow, has escaped the gallows. Gov. Buchanan has commuted his sentence to imprisonment for life.

Great pressure of all kinds has been brought to bear on the Governor to spare the life of the eminent lawyer and gallant soldier, and he finally yielded. The news was a surprise to Col. King.

He expected to be hanged and despaired of the success of the efforts that were being made to save him. Of late he has been more cheerful.

Strangely enough, the first news of the commutation was received in this city by Frank Poston, the brother of the murdered man. At 8:15 he received a telegram, which ran as follows:

"I have commuted King's sentence to imprisonment for life.

"J. B. BUCHANAN."

The reason that the Governor so promptly notified Mr. Poston was that the latter had telegraphed to him that he would go to Nashville to-day, and the Governor wished to save him a useless journey.

Mr. Poston was terribly taken aback. The Governor had allowed matters to proceed so far without giving any notice of his intentions that the Postons felt assured that the sentence would be carried out and their brother's murder avenged.

Mr. Poston at once carried the news to the "Appeal-Avalanche" and expressed himself in a most bitter manner against the Governor, saying at the same time that his action was a license for every man to buckle on his six-shooter and go gunning his enemies, with the assurance that he would not be hanged for it.

A reporter at once rushed off to the jail hoping to be the first to carry the news to the jail. The prisoner has steadily declined to see reporters.

Haughton King, the prisoner's brother, had received the news by telegraph from his mother about the same time that Frank Poston did.

Haughton got in the same car with the reporter, and it was he who carried the news to his father.

Col. King had donned his nightgown when Haughton was admitted to his cell.

The Colonel did not faint or jump for joy. He preserved his equilibrium very well, but gave a sigh of relief.

When the news was heard on the streets Gov. Buchanan was almost unanimously condemned as a weak sentimentalist who had allowed a woman's tears and prayers to swerve him from his duty.

MAY STRIKE SEPTEMBER 1.

Grievances of Employes of the Berwind-White Mining Company.

HOUTZDALE, Pa., Aug. 10. — The two thousand employes here of the Berwind-White Mining Co. quit work yesterday, and attended a mass meeting, at which a paper setting forth their grievances was drawn up and submitted to the company. The requests deal with the better regulation of the check weighman system and an increase in mining of low grade coal. The men have agreed to stay at work until Sept. 1.

The "Wage Earners' Journal," the official organ of the Miners' Association, practically advises a strike by calling on the men to thoroughly organize and stand firm for their rights.

To judge from present appearances a strike in the entire district on or about Sept. 1 seems inevitable.

A strike at that time would be hard on the Berwind-White Company, as it has just booked an order from the New York Central railroad for 2,500,000 tons of coal.

Mr. Berwind says he does not believe there will be any trouble, but if there should be it will be firmly met.

Forepaugh's Tent Wrecked by a Storm.

CONOES, N. Y., Aug. 10.—About 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon a cyclonic storm, preceded by a slight rain and a dead calm, swept down upon this vicinity. Forepaugh's circus, which was giving an exhibition, suffered severely. The big tent and all the other tents were lifted from the poles and torn into shreds, nothing larger than two feet of canvass being left whole. The performance had just concluded and the spectators dispersed. Had the storm struck the tents a few minutes earlier the loss of life would have undoubtedly been frightful. The loss on the canvass is $25,000 and on goods $5,000.

The Discriminating Canadian Canal Toll.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Representatives from the various lake ports of the United States, including Duluth, Cleveland, Oswego and Ogdensburg, were in conference with the Secretary of State yesterday respecting the terms in which the proclamation of the President should be issued under the joint resolution of Congress relative to the discriminating Canadian canal toll, should it become necessary to issue the proclamation by reason of the failure of the Canadian government to relieve American commerce from such discrimination.

Don't Believe Reed Committed Suicide.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—The Coroner of this county is of the belief that Martin Reed, the escaped murderer, who killed Deputy Sheriff Coyle last Saturday night at Johnstown, did not commit suicide, but was killed by a shot fired from outside the ice house in which he was hiding. Fully 100 shots were fired at Reed through the board partition. The Coroner is investigating. No one has, as yet, claimed Reed's body.

Contract Labor Law Violation.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—John H. Wilson, of the firm of Wilson Brothers, jewelers, Tremont Row, is under arrest, charged with violating the contract labor law. It is alleged that the defendant imported from Canada, Ferdinand La Belle and J. P. Meunier, watchmakers, who work for the defendant's firm for small pay and long hours. Wilson is held in $2,000 for trial.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

MISSOURI BUILDING.

It Will Be an Ornament to the World's Fair Grounds.

Designs for the state world's fair building of Missouri have been accepted by the state world's fair board and approved by the construction department of the exposition. The Missouri building will be of the Spanish renaissance style of architecture. It will be in full view of and directly opposite the main art gallery. The first floor will contain the rooms devoted to the advertisement of the resources of the state supplemental to exterior materials, and will also contain the administration parlors and some storerooms for supplies for the state exhibit. The main entrance is a triple one, and will be finished in sandstone, terra cotta and marble. It will open direct into a grand vestibule twenty-four feet wide, laid in mosaic style and flanked either side with niches for telegraph, telephone, long-distance, post office, and terminating in the main rotunda, which is 30x40 feet in size. From this rotunda direct access will be had to all the departments on the first floor, and two grand stairways will lead to the second floor.

The main area of the second floor is to be occupied by the auditorium, which will be 40x88 feet. At either end will be reception rooms for ladies and gentlemen respectively. They will be connected by large folding doors, by opening which the area of the auditorium may be increased. A portable stage will be provided, which will be used in presenting stereopticon views of scenes in the state. Opening from the auditorium by several exits stretches the promenade, affording a sweeping view of two avenues. Owing to the height of the auditorium two balconies are provided, and they open into three suites of domestic apartments. From the balcony an entrance is made to the tower which surmounts the building and which ends in an observatory.

The building will be constructed of material native to Missouri, supplemented by a few other things ordinarily used in buildings of a like construction. The four corners of the end pavilions will be surmounted by the heraldic emblem of the state executed in zinc taken from the mines of the state. Assurances of liberal donations of every building material produced in the state have been received. This building will cost near $40,000, or, including materials donated, $50,000.

HOME FOR HISTORY.

Chicago's Historical Society Soon to Have an Elegant Building.

The Chicago Historical society is at last about ready to begin the erection of the new building of which it has stood in so great need for so long a time. The plans have already been adopted by the executive committee of the society.

The building is of two stories, with high Gothic roof, and will be erected on the northwest corner of Ontario street and Dearborn avenue, on the vacant lot immediately adjoining the present building. The arrangement is such that plenty of light can be admitted, a skylight covering the entire roof. The stories will be sixteen feet in height, and the distance from base to ridge eighty feet. The material will be a light sandstone.

On the first floor is the lecture hall, picture gallery, reception and reading-room. A peculiar feature of the building is that the lecture-room and picture gallery extend upward the two stories, receiving light from the roof skylights. Other rooms on the second floor include the directors' quarters and a room for curios and historical relics. In the basement, the ceiling of which is high, is a supper-room and storage-rooms for books and pamphlets.

The building will be fireproof throughout, and the cost, with heating apparatus and electric lights, will not exceed $200,000. The society has already $100,000 in its treasury, and expects to be successful in raising the necessary additional amount.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to the third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., August 2, 1892.

AN ORDINANCE

To macadamize West Third street from the southwesterly side of Madison avenue to the northeasterly side of Plainfield avenue.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the owners and occupants of the lands, tenements and real estate fronting on or adjoining West Third street in the city of Plainfield from the southwesterly side of Madison avenue to the northeasterly side of Plainfield avenue be and they are hereby ordered and directed within thirty days from and after the date upon which this ordinance shall take effect, to macadamize said portion of West Third street in front of his, her, or their said property with crushed stone for a width of thirty feet, that is to say, for a width of fifteen feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of nine inches, and the Common Council do hereby appoint Robert A. Meeker, Street Commissioner of said city, as the person to superintend the said work and prescribe the manner in which the same shall be performed.

Section 2. That if any owner or owners shall refuse or neglect to comply with the first section of this ordinance within the time specified it shall be the duty of the Committee on Streets of the Common Council of the city of Plainfield and they are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for proposals for the performance of such work, to the end that the Common Council may cause the same to be done under and in pursuance of the charter of the city and the general statutes in such case made and provided.

Section 3. That in case any of the said property owners shall fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance and it shall be necessary to make assessments, the commissioners to be appointed shall assess the costs and expenses of said macadamizing upon the land and real estate benefitted in proportion to the benefits thereby received. And no lot or parcel shall be assessed more than it is benefitted and in case the total cost and expense shall exceed the aggregate amount of assessable benefits, then only so much of such cost and expense as equals the aggregate amount of such benefit shall be so assessed and the remainder of such cost and expense shall be borne by the city at large and paid in the manner provided by law.

Fees, $6.30.

AN ORDINANCE

For the repairing and permanent improvement of Hillside avenue.

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of Hillside avenue from Putnam avenue to Prospect avenue be forthwith repaired and spread with broken stone for the width of sixteen feet, that is to say, for the width of eight feet on either side of the centre line of said Hillside avenue, as now in public use, and at least six inches deep at the general expense of the city, to be paid for after first applying the direct contribution of property owners, out of the money raised for the improvement of streets as provided by the act of the legislature entitled "An act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbed of the streets at the general expense". Approved May 13, 1884.

Section 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, the property owners along the line of the proposed improvement shall deposit with the City Treasurer a sum equal to thirty cents per lineal foot for the entire distance along Hillside avenue covered by this ordinance.

Fees, $3.60.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council have fixed the 31st day of August, A. D., 1892, at 8 o'clock p. m., and the Common Council chamber in the city of Plainfield as the time and place for William C. Ayers, Edward C. Mulford and Jeremiah Manning, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council, pursuant to an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Peace street", approved February 3, 1892, to meet. The street proposed to be widened and laid out: Peace street from the Central Railroad of N. J. to the southeasterly side of Front street. The alterations proposed to be made are: to widen said Peace street so that the same shall be of the uniform width of thirty-feet on each side of the centre line thereof, which centre line is described in said ordinance and shown on map on file in the City Clerk's office entitled "Map showing proposed widening and extension of Peace street from the Central R. R. of N. J. to Green Brook, city of Plainfield, N. J., July, 1891".

The lands or real estate intended to be taken for such purposes are all that come within thirty feet of either side of said centre line between said railroad and the southeasterly side of Front street as shown by said map, and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for more detailed description.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., August 2, 1892.

AN ORDINANCE

For the repairing and permanent improvement of East Sixth street.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of East Sixth street from Franklin place to Richmond street, be forthwith repaired and strewed with broken stone for a width of eight feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of six inches at the general expense of the city, to be paid for, after first applying the direct contribution of property owners out of money raised by taxes for the improvement of streets as provided by the act of the legislature entitled "an act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of the streets at the general expense." Approved May 13, 1884.

Sec. 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, the property owners along the line of the proposed improvement shall deposit with the City Treasurer a sum equal to thirty cents per lineal foot for the entire distance along East Sixth street covered by this ordinance.

Fees—$3.60.

THE ZILLDEE.

Peculiar Origin of a Successful Publication.

How a Woman's Wit Saved Her Husband from Financial Ruin and Made Him the Owner of a Prosperous Business.

[Special Letter.]

TRUMPLER was exchange editor on a great daily newspaper. Of course he didn't edit the "exchanges," for so extensive a spreading of his labor would have been impossible. But what is meant by exchange editor, in this particular instance, is that Trumpler carefully looked over all the newspapers that came to the office and cut out jokes and gems of verse and pathos and snake stories. Trumpler was known as a plodder and therefore a high estimate was placed upon his judgment; he lacked brightness of expression and consequently he was regarded as profound. And this is usually the way in all divergences of life; if a man isn't one thing it is more than likely that he is another.

Trumpler married a bright little woman who had taught a district school. She read Browning and threateningly shook her finger at Trumpler for his dullness, but she was picturesquely fond of her husband—indeed she did make a picture of her love when at evening she put all household—or rather flathold—cares aside and helped Trumpler gouge out stray bits of beauty, common sense and brightness from the great bundle of newspapers which he had brought from the office.

"Why do you credit all these beautiful things to 'exchange'?" she asked, one evening.

"Because I don't know where they originated," he answered; and after a moment thus went on: "In the old school readers every mother's son of these things would have been set down to the credit of old Anonymous, but us newspaper people believe that old Anon. has reaped quite enough of this earth's glory, and consequently we credit unknown things to 'exchange.'"

"Yes, but it is a pity that the author should thus be robbed of his honor."

"Of course, but it can't be helped. No man in the world could keep track of a third of the quaint things that go bobbing around from one newspaper to another."

"I suppose that's true," she replied, and then, musing over a clipping in verse, said: "But it's so commonplace to give 'Exchange' all the credit, and I'm going to see if I can't throw a little fancy even into this routine drudgery. Now, you hand all the poetry and bits of literature and higher rollickings of humor over to me and I will credit them as my taste may suggest, while you may put your dear 'exchange' to all the rural exaggerations and false political prophecies. Will you?"

"I will. Here you are." He handed her a number of cuttings. She read them; then threw some of them away, and on a slip of paper which she pasted on the others she wrote this credit: "The Zilldee."

"Why, what's this?" Trumpler asked, taking up one of the cuttings.

"Don't you see?"

"Yes, but, Zilldee—what does it mean?"

"It means quite as much as exchange. You let it go as I put it, and we'll have people wondering what sort of publication the Zilldee is."

"By George, that's a joke, ain't it!" Trumpler laughed. "Fun, why a shock of monkeys capped with a baboon won't enter into competition with us."

Trumpler had been brought up on a farm and his "shock" of monkeys "capped" with a baboon was pretty much what might have been expected.

"Here's another thing that belongs to the Zilldee," she said, handing him a vivid description of a burning steamboat.

"Good. Got anything else?"

"Yes, here's a little poem. Won't we have fun," she cried, with a shudder of ecstasy.

"Yes, but don't you give it away to anybody."

"Don't you be alarmed about me, but take care that you don't give it away, as you term it."

Several days later the managing editor came into Trumpler's room, and after stirring up the pile of newspapers on the table, said:

"I'm looking for a copy of the Zilldee. My wife told me to bring it home. Have you got the last number?"

"I don't think so, sir," Trumpler answered.

"I never saw a copy of it," said the managing editor, "and don't know that I ever should have thought of it if my wife hadn't asked me about it. What sort of a looking print is it?"

"Oh, very nice looking paper, sir; very nice."

"Sort of a magazine, ain't it?"

"Well, yes sir; rather on that order."

"What day does it come in?"

"Well, the truth of it is we don't get it on the exchange list—I buy it—saw that we needed it, sir, and I decided to get it. Don't want to be scooped on the good things that arise to the surface of print, you know."

"That's right. I'll send a boy out and get a copy of it. My wife says it must be the brightest thing in the country."

"Now what am I going to do?" Trumpler mused when the managing editor went out. "He'll send around and the newsdealers will say they never heard of such a publication and then he'll come back to me and say: 'Here, show up.'" And that afternoon the managing editor did come in and say: "Look here, that Zilldee can't be found. Where do you get it?"

"The truth is, I don't get it at all," Trumpler answered. "My wife gets it somewhere and brings it to me."

"Well, I wish you would tell her that my wife is very anxious to see a copy of it."

"Yes, sir, I'll do so with pleasure."

Trumpler told his wife when he went home. "I don't know what the deuce we're going to do," he said.

"But we must do something," she answered, and then she sat for a long time musing.

"Trumpler!"

"Present!"

"Can't you fix up some sort of dummy for that woman?"

"What!" said Trumpler, opening his mouth and holding it open.

"Fix up some sort of fantastic dummy. Get an odd-looking newspaper of some sort and bring it to me and I will paint a head and appropriate date line."

He jumped up, clapped his hat on his head, gave his wife a genius-admiring look and disappeared. Pretty soon he returned with a sort of sixteen page concern, agricultural in literary tone and with a barnyard cast of art.

"I'M DISCHARGED!" SAID TRUMPLER.

"I've got it right here. It's got enough margin to clip off one head and leaves room for another one; and say, we'll have to make the date line show that it was printed in some unheard of town. See?"

She saw and painted, and when she got through with it what an artistic bit of work it was. The lettering of the Zilldee was catchily fantastic, and no one could have told that the date line was not fresh from an obscure printing office.

When Trumpler went to the office the next day he found the managing editor waiting for him.

"Do you know," said the great but obscure man when Trumpler entered his exchange den, "that my wife has almost bothered the life out of me about that Zilldee. Did you get a copy for me?"

"Yes, here it is."

"Thank you. Humph, what a capering head it's got—good picture of a cow, too. Fall seeding, eh? I don't see any jewels. Where's the gem department?"

"Genius in the Zilldee is not grouped," Trumpler replied.

"Seems not. Well, it will appease the madam anyway."

And it did appease her effectually, for she threw the thing down in disgust, so the managing editor told Trumpler and declared that she never wanted another copy of it brought into the house.

And now the newspapers throughout the country began to talk of that wonderfully bright and strangely mysterious publication, the Zilldee; and questions regarding it were published in the story papers' answers to correspondence. One editorial writer on a great reform journal declared that a new lead in American literature had been struck; but, of course, some slanderous critics said that, while the Zilldee was in the main an honest exponent of thought and literary finish, yet at times it was guilty of most flagrant theft.

One evening Trumpler went heavy-hearted to his home; and when his wife asked him the cause of his fallen countenance, he hoarsely answered: "I'm discharged."

"Discharged! Why, what for?"

"Oh, they want to cut down expenses—elevator boy will take my place, I reckon. Don't know what I'm going to do; every office in town is full."

"There's one office that's not full," his wife said, with sudden brightening.

"What office is that?"

"The office of the Zilldee."

"My dear, I wish you wouldn't make sport of this serious matter."

She shook her finger at him. "You are charmingly stupid," she said. "Now, look here. We have a few hundred dollars, and can start a small paper called the Zilldee. It already has thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of advertising and—" He caught her in his arms and, swaying with her to and fro, said:

"I'm fool enough to make a fortune."

And this is really the origin of one of the most successful publications in America. OPIE READ.

Candidates and Papers.

Small Boy—Do newspapers always tell the truth?

Mr. Greatman (unsuccessful candidate)—No, they don't. They never publish anything but lies.

Small Boy—That's wot I thort. This paper says you is a great statesman.—Good News.

Perfecting His Italian.

The Age of Organization.

New Boarder—Well! well! This is the first place I've struck where they have preserved strawberries and peach jam instead of stewed prunes.

Old Boarder—All owing to organization, my boy. Us boarders have a mutual protective association, with iron clad rules and heavy penalties.

"Oh, ho! You kicked against prunes, did you?"

"Not much we didn't. We passed a law that whenever prunes came on the table every member should eat a quart or pay $10 fine. That settled it. The landlady found prunes too expensive."—N. Y. Weekly.

Theatrical Note.

A Fifth avenue lady at the opera said to her escort:

"I wish you would shut the door. I shall take cold from this double draught."

"Double draught! I do not see where a double draught could come from," observed the gentleman.

"Why, sir, don't see! It blows from the door; and don't you see that fellow on the stage blowing, too?"—Texas Siftings.

A Lapse of Memory.

Tom—She seemed infatuated with you and yet she refused you?

Dick—Yes.

Tom—I wonder if your declaration was ardent enough.

Dick—Well, I told her she was the only woman I had ever loved.

Tom—You forgot that you were a widower.

Dick—By Jove! that's a fact.—Judge.

Everybody

if it is made with Cottolene, the new pure substitute for lard. Cottolene is simply pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet, two of the healthiest foods known.

Properly combined they are better than lard for all kinds of shortening, and everyone can eat, digest, and enjoy food cooked with it. Food that was indigestible when cooked with lard is easily digested when cooked with Cottolene, and many of the leading housekeepers of the land say they can make nicer bread, rolls, biscuit, cakes, cookies, ginger bread, pies, patties, tarts, griddle cakes, croquettes with Cottolene than with either lard or butter. Get it of your grocer and try it. Beware of imitations.

40,000 WILL GO TO WORK

Pittsburg Manufacturers and Men Come to Terms.

CONCESSIONS MADE ON BOTH SIDES.

The Cooks and Waiters in the Homestead Mill Quit Work in a Body—Alderman McMasters of Pittsburg Gets a Threatening Letter.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—The Pittsburg manufacturers last night signed the Amalgamated Association scale in a body. This means that 40,000 iron workers will return to work as union men. It saves the Association from the wreck which has threatened it ever since the Homestead trouble. There were two conferences yesterday between the manufacturers and the men.

At the meeting last night the employers declared they must start the mills and the men acknowledged that they wanted work. On this basis a compromise was soon effected. Both sides were willing to make concessions, and both sides made them, though the men seem to have the best of it. The manufacturers conceded what the men greatly desired—that the basis of puddling remain at $5.50 per ton—while the men agreed to a 10 per cent reduction in all finishing departments. In the bar and guide mills, with the exception of the plate and rolling mills, the men also agreed to 12 cents per ton less than last year.

This agreement affects 14 large mills in the Pittsburg district alone, employing 40,000 men. Many of these mills have put in improved machinery by which, as the men are paid by the output, wages will be even larger than under the last scale, which was adopted in 1889. The Carnegie mills will be the only important non-union establishments in the district.

COOKS GO ON STRIKE.

They Leave the Carnegie Mills in a Body—Strikers Confident.

HOMESTEAD, Pa,, Aug. 11.—Seventy-five cooks and waiters came out of the Carnegie Steel Works last evening. As they marched down Eighth avenue the deserters were cheered by the strikers, their wives and children. The trouble began in the mill yesterday morning, when J. A. Rayborn, who entered into a contract with the company several weeks ago to furnish meals for three hundred men, became involved in a dispute with another contractor in the same line of business.

Superintendent Potter was called upon to act as arbitrator. He decided against Rayborn, whereupon the latter decided to throw up his contract.

Rayborn was waited upon by five members of the Carnegie special police force under command of Capt. Newton while he was fixing up his accounts, and ordered to leave the place, but he refused to comply. The officers then placed him under arrest and locked him up. He was kept a prisoner for over two hours. In the meantime the 72 waiters and cooks employed by Rayborn learning what had happened, quit work. They packed their valises, and when their employer was released from the company's prison, his men fell in line and followed Rayborn.

In an interview Vice-Chairman Crawford, of the Amalgamated Advisory Committee, says: "There is no longer any doubt of it; we have the fight almost won. We've got the other side whipped, and, notwithstanding the statements of Superintendent Potter to the contrary, the stay of the present force of non-union men will be of very short duration. Since Saturday last fully 300 of the company's recent importations have deserted.

Superintendent Potter and Secretary Lovejoy, on the other hand, express themselves as confident that the Carnegie Company will win the fight. The latter said he did not believe that President Gompers had asserted that the 600,000 members of the Federation of Labor, employed by firms using Carnegie steel and iron, stood ready to come out on a strike if necessary to aid the locked-out men of Homestead.

Mr. Lovejoy says that the Carnegie Company will pay no attention to the deliberations of the Amalgamated Association.

How Carnegie is Regarded in Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Aug. 11.—The Glasgow Trades' Council, with but one dissenting vote, carried last evening the following resolution: "Resolved, that the Council, whilst deeply deploring the recent events near Pittsburg and sympathizing with the Pittsburg workmen, feels constrained to tender its thanks to Andrew Carnegie, and whilst enrolling his name with the names of Judas Iscariot and James Carey, it believes that he has provided the world's workmen with the most powerful object lesson on the relations of capital and labor ever given."

Will Defend the Homesteaders.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 11.—By the end of the week W. W. Erwin and G. W. Argo will be on their way to Pennsylvania to defend the Homestead strikers. These attorneys are two of the leading criminal lawyers of Minnesota, and volunteered to defend the strikers if their expenses are paid. The labor organizations of the State have taken hold of the matter, and there is no doubt but that the necessary funds will be forthcoming. Mr. Erwin is a prominent figure in the Alliance party in this State, and as soon as the arrest of the strikers was announced, volunteered his services.

McMasters and Frick Threatened.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—In Alderman McMasters' mail yesterday was an anonymous letter which had been posted in New York city at 12 m. on Monday. The letter was inclosed in a small envelope. It was written in a cramped and pushed hand, probably disguised. The letter read: "Alderman McMasters, Pittsburg: Dear Sir—Some time this week a party of men will leave here and will try to kill you and Supt. Frick again."

A Cook Fatally Stabbed.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—David Mosley, a cook at Brooks' Restaurant on Wylie avenue, was fatally stabbed by Edward McAllen, a former employe, at the restaurant yesterday. Mosley was alone in the kitchen when McAllen entered, grasped a carving knife and plunged it into Mosley's stomach. After turning the blade in the wound, McAllen ran out and escaped. Mosley, it seems, had underbid McAllen and secured the latter's place in the restaurant. Mosley died this morning.

CONSUL RYDER'S CASE.

His Confession Creates a Stir Among Washington Officials.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The news that Consul H. B. Ryder, stationed at Copenhagen, had confessed that he is guilty of the embezzlement charged against him, has caused quite a stir in official circles, as Ryder, by reason of his long service and previous good reputation, had been regarded with much sympathy because of the attacks upon him, which were generally supposed to be malicious. It is likely that official action will be taken soon in the case.

Advices from Copenhagen state that since the Danish authorities were informed from Washington that there was no desire for interference with the course of justice on the part of the American Government, the charges against Ryder have been pushed with vigor, and evidence obtained showing that he has been guilty of a long series of frauds on private persons through the abuse of official position.

How much these frauds would amount to is not known, but it is believed that the total is many thousands of kroners. Much of this has been the money of poor people, transmitted through the consul from America, legacies, the residue of settled estates and so forth.

Since the great increase of Scandinavian emigration within the past decade, Ryder's opportunities for fraud have been unusually large, and it is understood that he has taken full advantage of them. He had long been suspected before the authorities took action.

Much indignation is felt against Ryder for having dragged his wife into his predicament, and in view of Ryder's confession she will be let off with a light penalty, or none at all.

Some of the victims of Ryder's frauds say that the United States Government ought to repay those who have been robbed, on the ground that the United States authorities ought not to have kept such a man in office.

Ryder appears to have used much of his money in speculation, as there is no evidence that he lived extravagantly.

The police have no doubt that he endeavored to commit suicide after his arrest, by the removal of the canula from his throat, and it was this circumstance that first roused their suspicions that his delinquencies involved much more than the case on account of which he was arrested.

RIGGIN'S FUNERAL.

Military Organizations Combining to Make it a Great Event.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The funeral of Charles W. Riggin, boatswain's mate of the cruiser Baltimore, who was killed in the riot at Valparaiso, will be held Sunday, and great preparations are being made for the event. The body was brought here yesterday from New York in a special train.

It was taken to David H. Schuyler's undertaking establishment on N. Sixth st., where it will remain until Saturday. Then it will be placed in Independence Hall, the use of which for the purpose has been granted by Mayor Stuart, at the urgent request of a number of prominent organizations of the city.

Committees from the Patriotic Sons of America, Naval, and Grand Army Posts, Sons of Veterans and other organizations and societies have been appointed to arrange for their respective orders' participation in the funeral ceremonies.

The most elaborate preparations have been made for the event. It is expected that the funeral will be one of the greatest seen in the city for years and probably be attended by an immense number of organizations from all parts of Pennsylvania, as well as Philadelphia and its immediate neighborhood.

Many organizations have already signified their intention to attend in communications to Marshal Reed and Chief of Staff Mackie.

The Grand Army of the Republic and the Sons of Veterans will be especially well represented.

The line of march to the funeral has not yet been fixed. The body will be carried in a hearse instead of a caisson.

The interior of Independence Hall will be elaborately decorated with flowers. Offers of floral contributions have been received in great numbers by the committee.

Terribly Burned With Acid.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 11.—Four employes of the Washburn & Moen Wire mill at Quinsigamond Village were horribly burned by sulphuric acid during the afternoon. The acid is used for cleaning copper wire and is forced into the annealing room through lead pipes. Only a small amount of acid had been pumped from the tank, when suddenly one side of the iron receptacle burst outward, throwing the awful fluid over the four men who were standing near. All were severely burned. Their clothing was eaten off, and the screams uttered were heartrending. Two of the men tore off their clothes and jumped into the river. They were taken to the City Hospital. Their condition is very precarious.

Railway Telegraphers Aroused.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Aug. 11.—The discharge of four or five telegraph operators by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad in this city and several others in neighboring towns is said to be on account of the men belonging to the Brotherhood of Railway Telegraphers. The prospects point to a serious time before the matter is settled. The officials refuse to make a statement.

The New York Apportionment Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Attorney-General Rosendale prefers to state what action he will take with regard to the case now in court from Monroe county testing the constitutionality of the recent legislative apportionment. It is known, however, that the department has been considering the question for the past two days.

—Two companies of the military are on duty at Jesup, Ga., because of the efforts of a mob of whites to release Charles Warren and Bartow Austin, two white railroad engineers from custody.

Drowned in His Wife's Presence.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 11. — William Lewis, of this city, while swimming a race with a companion across Lily Lake, near Waverly, Lackawanna county, Tuesday evening, was seized with cramps and drowned. His wife was among a party of pleasure seekers on shore cheering him on to victory when he disappeared. He was drowned before a boat that was following the contestants could come up with him.

"No Confidence" Vote to Come To-Day.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Contrary to expectation, the political duel in the House of Commons did not culminate last night in a division on the motion of "no confidence." The motion will come to a vote in to-day's proceedings and the Ministry will resign on Friday.

Thought to Be Julia Phillips' Body.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The body, supposed to be Julia Philips of this city, which was shipped here from Chicago last week, still lies in the morgue here. Several persons who had known Julia intimately have seen the body and express themselves as confident that the remains are hers. The authorities are continuing their investigations and expect to be able to prove the identity of the body within a few days.

No Prospect of an Appeal for Almy.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 11.— on. Alvin Burleigh, senior counsel for Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, said last evening that he and his associates have made diligent search in the reports of United States Courts, but have found very little upon which they could rest an appeal for Almy in that direction.

Efforts to Solve the Mystery at Fall River.

LIZZIE BORDEN AGAIN EXAMINED.

A Great Change in Her Appearance Creates Comment—Growing Sentiment in Her Favor—Feeling Against Inspector Hanscom and Counseller Jennings.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 11.—This morning it cannot be said that the police have any substantial clew to the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Borden. Theories are plentiful, but reliable evidence is wanting.

Last evening State Detective Seaver handed the following bulletin to the representatives: "The inquest was continued at 10 o'clock to-day. The witnesses examined were Miss Lizzie Borden, John Y. Morse, Miss Emma L. Borden, Dr. S. W. Bowen, Adelaide B. Churchill and Hiram C. Harrington. Adjourned until 10 a. m. Thursday. Nothing developed for publication."

This was all that was given out after examinations lasting four and a half hours. The principal witness was Miss Lizzie Borden. The change in Miss Borden's appearance, after her examination, is the chief topic of conversation at the police station. Whatever the police may think of the strength of their clews, it is certain that Miss Borden's many friends believe her innocent.

Prof. Wood, the analyst, appeared at the station early, in company with Medical Examiner Dolan. Shortly after the inquest was resumed the two men were admitted and were behind closed doors about twenty minutes. When they reappeared they were followed by a couple of policemen carrying a trunk containing bloody clothing and other evidences of the crime.

When Mr. Morse came from his examination he was as calm and collected as he has been since suspicion has been directed toward him. Miss Emma Borden's manner has been less disturbed than any of the witnesses.

Dr. Bowen told a straightforward story, covering the time since he was called to the Borden house, a few days before the murder. He incidentally gave some testimony which startled the authorities. The nature of this would not be given for publication, but it is learned to-day that another examination of the dead bodies will probably be made at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Hiram Harrington could offer very little testimony regarding the circumstances surrounding the murder.

It is now generally admitted that a great deal of hope is being placed in the accuracy of analysis and the examination of the blood on the clothing. A few days ago this was not the case, the poison theory and other clues being talked of as of secondary importance.

Bridget Sullivan, the servant girl, did not leave her friends Tuesday. An officer who visited her found her in a much happier and more contented frame of mind than Tuesday when she was prostrated with nervousness and grief. She talks in the most affectionate manner of the deceased woman, the stepmother of the girls.

There is a strong feeling current in police circles against Inspector Hanscom and Mr. Jennings, counsel for the family. It is alleged that the former is endeavoring to build back fires to destroy the theories of the police and that they are inspiring clues that will tend to blind the actual facts preceding and succeeding the murders.

The police have again become active in the search after evidence and one or two details in regard to the missing letter said to have been received by Mrs. Borden are again being sought by the officials.

District-Attorney Knowlton is working under the direction of Attorney-General Pillsbury and it is said that the form of complaint and possibly all warrants will be submitted to him.

Much credit is being given in police circles to the work of Dr. Dolan, who has practically neglected a renumerative business since he was called on to act officially. The only complaint against him is that his tongue will not wag to other than official inquisitors.

Miss Borden was asked some nerve-shaking questions and when she came from the police station her face was tear stained and she was very much upset. There was a great difference between her appearance before and after the examination. The servant girl is kept under the eye of a policeman at her brother-in-law's house and she was not allowed to go free as was intimated last night by Detective Seaver.

Catholic Visitors Entertained.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 11.—The Board of Trade of this city entertained the General Committee and Advisory Board of the Catholic Summer Assembly by a trip up the Thames River and down the harbor, a dinner and a drive through the city. After the dinner speeches were made by President Sheedy, of Pittsburg, Father Halpin, of New York, Father Conaty, of Worcester, and Father Mullaney, of Syracuse, all of whom were in favor of New London as a permanent location for the Assembly. Later, a meeting of the General Committee was held but no definite action was taken.

Death of An Old News Gatherer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—George A. Leach, the Manager of the International Telegram Company, is dead at his home in this city of Bright's disease, from which he had been a sufferer for some time. He was about sixty years of age. Mr. Leach has been prominently identified with various news associations for the past twenty years. He was at one time the London agent of the Associated Press.

Did Not Approve of His Suit.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 11.—Geo. Young of Brooklyn was ejected from the beach yesterday by Policeman Rogers for wearing an improper bathing suit. Young at first refused to go, but finally left the water. He attempted to re-enter at a point a few blocks further up, and was then forced to leave the beach. The offensive suit was of jersey cloth, sleeveless, and short in the legs.

Vaughan to be Made a Cardinal.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Paris correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says: "The Pope has decided to elevate Archbishop Vaughan, his intention of making another American Cardinal having been frustrated by the differences between Archbishop Corrigan and Archbishop Ireland.

FOR WRITING OBSCENE LETTERS.

A Clinton County, N. Y., Politician Under Arrest.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The arrest of Clinton Clapp, ex-Supervisor of Wappingers, Dutchess county, and a prominent Republican politician, by Anthony Comstock yesterday on the charge of sending obscene literature through the mails, has caused a great sensation in the county, as it concerns some of the most prominent people in the village of Wappingers Falls.

About a year ago Mrs. Elizabeth W. Smith, a widow over 50 years of age, received an anonymous letter, the contents of which were shocking in the extreme. About the same time the Rev. W. A. Ceon, pastor of the Baptist church in the village, also received an anonymous letter containing bad insinuations touching the clergyman's visits to his parishoners.

This led to a sensation as the minister determined to find the author of the letter. Other letters of a like character were received about the village, the last one being received by Mrs. Smith last December.

Comstock was brought into the case as an inspector of the mail. He collected specimens of the handwriting of five different persons in the village. These were compared with the handwriting in the letters, but there was no similarity.

On the book of the Baptist church was the signature of C. W. Clapp. Compared with the handwriting of the letters, an alleged striking similarity was discovered. The matter was submitted to two experts, both of whom said that the signature in the church book and the letters in question were apparently written by the same hand.

On the strength of this Comstock appeared before Judge John W. Oliver of the town of Poughkeepsie yesterday, and swore out warrants for the arrest of Clapp.

Mrs. Smith's friends say that the fact that Clapp is executor of her deceased husband's estate, and that she had been advised to have him removed, will be used as tending to show a motive upon the part of Clapp for writing the letters to her advisers and to herself. Clapp was at one time trustee of his own father's estate valued at $100,000. He resigned in the midst of litigation arising from an alleged deficiency in the estate. This led to Mrs. Smith being advised to remove him.

When Clapp was confronted with the story he denied all knowledge of the letters, and declared that it was a conspiracy to ruin him. Mrs. Smith received 10 letters, all of which are unfit for publication.

Clapp was brought before Justice Oliver for examination. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

THE EXODUS BEGUN.

Visitors Fast 'Leaving Denver—The Boys' Parade.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 11.—The best part of the Knights Templar conclave is over, and the visitors are leaving the city in droves. The Grand Encampment is in session, and to-day will elect officers and settle the place for the next gathering.

The boys' parade was the event yesterday of the Knights Templar conclave and attracted almost as large a crowd as the event of the previous day.

The procession was over a mile in length, and several of the divisions were uniformed in exact imitation of the full regalia of a knight, and as they marched through the streets, with all the regularity and precision of a troop of veterans, they presented one of the prettiest sights that was seen during the entire gathering.

A large contingent of Knights have left for River Front Park to witness the national cowboy tournament, which is being given every afternoon in connection with the Wild West Show. Eastern people are here given an opportunity to see the western cowboy in his element, subduing the wild Texas steer and the Texas broncho.

A band of fifty Indians from the Pine Ridge reservation lends reality to the scene.

The event of the evening was a bicycle parade, in which over 2,500 wheelmen participated. Every rider carried at least one Chinese lantern, and many of the wheels were fitted with elaborate designs of lanterns and bunting.

Prizes were given for the finest decorated wheels and for the most weird and fantastic get-ups which the wheelmen devised.

The Wounded Operator Will Recover.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 11.—Patrick Quinn, an operator at the Delaware station of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who was shot in the head and neck Tuesday night by Miss Hattie Adres of Cresco, Pa., may recover. She came all the way from that place with the intention of killing Quinn. She regards Quinn as her lover. It is said that the shooting was the outcome of his deserting her. Immediately after the shooting the young woman swallowed the contents of a bottle costaining laudanum. Prompt medical aid soon brought her out of danger. On recovering she asked if Quinn was dead and said it would be better if both were out of the world.

French War Operations in Dahomey.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Kotonou states that a general bombardment of the coast of Dahomey was begun yesterday by the French men-of-war. The Talisman is shelling Whydah and the Opale, stern wheeler, has gone to attack Abomey. Col. Stephani, with 800 troops, has captured the villages Kotonou and Zobo, has driven out the inhabitants and has destroyed most of the huts. This vigorous policy will be continued until King Bedhanzin shall have been driven into a tight corner.

Denouncing Governor Buchanan.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 11.—The majority of the citizens of Memphis are enraged at the action of Gov. Buchanan in commuting Col. King's sentence to imprisonment for life. An evening paper denounces the Governor as being equally guilty of crime with Col. King. The Messrs. Poston have received over a dozen telegrams expressing sympathy and denouncing Gov. Buchanan for his action.

Will Maintain Parochial Schools, Also.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 11.—A special from Winnipeg, Manitoba, says the Catholics of Manitoba, at a mass-meeting, unanimously decided to maintain separate schools for their children in that city, despite the decision of the Privy Council in England compelling them to pay taxes for Manitoba public schools. The Catholics will raise the funds necessary to carry on schools from among themselves.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Plainfield Cricket club will play the Electric Cutlery company's team at Newark next Saturday.

—The fire department horses are in training on Front street to-day to get accustomed to the trolley cars.

—The Union county board of freeholders, by resolution, ordered the payment of attorney McClure's bill over which there was some discussion as related in these columns recently.

—The words "Bryant Public School" are being placed on the Fifth street side of the Bryant school building to-day. The letters are of metal, nailed to the bricks, and covered with gold leaf.

—A barn that was fully a century old collapsed at Evona yesterday and smashed a buggy and two cultivators. The timbers gave out of sheer old age. The barn stood on the Elliott farm.

—Complaints come to THE PRESS that beer wagons are ruining the sidewalk on Grant avenue and discommoding the public by being driven on the walk. The practice should be stopped.

—C. H. Rugg has purchased of F. M. Hulett a magnificent Starr piano. The case is of French burl walnut, and besides being a marvel of harmony and richness of tone it is an instrument of rare beauty.

—Miss Catherine Vail, of East Front street, fell beside her door this afternoon, dislocating her right elbow and fracturing the arm near the wrist. Dr. Rushmore reduced the dislocation, and dressed the fracture.

—The Plainfield Press has evidently made a call (not looking for a monument, we hope), on our J. E. Townsend. It says that he is "an honest, straightforward man, a man of his word". That is no news in Westfield.—Westfield Leader.

—Many people suppose that Robert Gaylor's peculiarities of speech are affected by him, but it is not so. His strange intonation of speech and peculiar Irish accent are perfectly natural with him, and were the cause of deserting negro minstrelsy for Irish comedy. He will be seen at Music Hall this evening.

—Thomas Bright, the genial host of the Woodport House at Woodport, Lake Hopatcong, has made his hotel such a popular resort that now he has absolutely no more room for the season. The public has discovered that there is no finer place on the lake than Mr. Bright's, and the Woodport House is getting the liberal patronage it so richly deserves. Many Plainfielders have enjoyed the delights of the hospitable hostelry.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William T. Newman of West Second street is spending a few days at West Point and Newburg.

Mrs. L. B. Mulford, Miss May and Master Louie of 36 Park avenue, are rusticating at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. Richard Trewin and sister Sadie have gone to visit their aunt, Mrs. W. Stelle, at Newton, Sussex county.

Mrs. Charles Francisco and children of West Second street are enjoying the beauties of the Hudson at Newburg.

Miss Rachel Benton will leave town tomorrow for the Adirondacks. She will make Plattsburgh, N. Y., her headquarters.

The Misses Florence and Maggie Hurlburt, of North Plainfield, left town yesterday for a few weeks' visit to Schooley's Mountain and vicinity.

Mrs. C. K. Compton and daughter, of Duer street, left town yesterday for Cresco, Pa., to enjoy the summer pleasures of the Pocono Mountains.

Miss Gertrude Tier, daughter of J. H. Tier, jr., of Bank place, will celebrate her tenth birthday anniversary to-morrow, when a number of schoolmates and friends will join in celebrating appropriately the happy event.

Dr. Abel S. Titsworth died at his home in Dunellen yesterday, of heart trouble. He was 52 years of age, and leaves a wife and family. He was deacon of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market, and past commander of Major Anderson post, G. A. R.

Robert Gaylor, who comes to Music Hall, this evening, is scoring a wonderful success in his new comedy, "Sport McAllister, one of the 400". It is a satire on New York's upper ten, and comedian Gaylor has a character in Jeremiah McAllister, a metropolitan politician, that fits him like a glove.

Quite a colony of Plainfielders has been enjoying the delights of Pocono Mountain life at Moscow, Pa., on the farm of Mrs. Simpson. This old homestead is a charming place to spend the summer. The fare is most excellent, and the situation for cool breezes and fine scenery is superb. Yesterday J. H. Doane, of La-Grande avenue, Miss Force of Duer street and Miss Bailey of Crescent avenue returned from the Simpson farm, full of praises of the invigorating air of the Moscow region, and of their delightful home with Mrs. Simpson. They left Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Slater and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Waldron and family, and Mr. Doane's wife and child, in the best of health.

TRIUMPHANT AT LAST.

Hail to the Trolley's Superior Rapid Transit!

Swift and safe transportation from point to point in Plainfield is at last an assured reality. After many months of bitter warfare, the trolley has come, and the people are very thankful that it has come to stay.

THE PRESS alone of all the papers of Plainfield has battled vigorously for the street railway from the start. The other papers fought viciously against it, and sought to prejudice everybody into violent hostility of the scheme.

But the first stage of the victory has been accomplished. The rails are down, the poles and wires are up, and the cars are running. This is through a portion of the city. Now for extension so that every outskirt may be reached!

Property-owners all along the route are delighted with the model railroad that that has been provided. The equipment of the road is perfect, the cars are noiseless and luxurious, and the system of rapid transit is altogether the most perfect that means and energy can provide. President Nevins and his associates deserve great credit for their enterprise, and the public may well feel grateful to them.

During a recent western trip the writer found many towns inferior to Plainfield well equipped with a modern street railroad; and everywhere astonishment was expressed that Plainfield was still without a popular method of rapid transit. The impression from this one defect alone was that Plainfield was a sleepy old village in a Jersey wilderness, without any live attractions, without any public-spirited citizens. The mere existence of the new road is a decided gain to Plainfield's credit abroad, and an invaluable adjunct to local traffic and commerce.

Already the road has made itself invaluable. People are saying they don't see how they ever got along without it, and those individuals who fought most bitterly against its coming are now free to admit its superior excellence and eager to see the line extended to all parts of the city.

The city officials and newspaper men who made the trip over the line last evening were warm in their praises of the road. Mayor Gilbert was especially hearty in his endorsement. The road is universally popular. Horses are rapidly becoming accustomed to the novelty; and the element of danger to pedestrians is no greater than ever obtained on the streets, for the cars are in the control of watchful employes of good judgment and vigilant eye.

To-day the cars began to run on schedule time. Trips are made every seven minutes. The road is operating smoothly and is being liberally patronized. Cars will be in waiting for Music Hall patrons at the close of to-night's performance.

THE PRESS takes a justifiable pride in the success of the electric road, and is especially gratified at the result of its fight in the interests of the public good. The important part that THE PRESS has played in achieving so notable a triumph will not be forgotten by an appreciative people; but condemnation is being heaped upon the papers which still continue to cast libelous slurs upon the magnificent enterprise.

Walking for the Cake.

The waiters of the Netherwood and Albion hotels will give their mammoth cake-walk entertainment at the Crescent rink to-night. The outlook for a large attendance is promising. Nearly five hundred tickets have been disposed of to both white and colored friends in Plainfield and at the hotels. The concert programme is to be as follows: The Netherwood and Albion quartette will begin the entertainment by singing "Some folks say a nigger won't steal"; "Brother Michael, hand down that robe", quartette; "Push them clouds away", jubilee chorus by the waiters of the Netherwood and Albion hotels; "When the band begins to play, all the darkies steal away," quartette. The cake-walk will be of an interesting character. Fifty couples will participate. The ball will be the concluding part, and it is thought by the committee that the affair will be one of the grandest ever given in Plainfield by the colored people.

There Wasn't a Trolley Car in Sight.

At Somerset and Front streets this afternoon about 2, a horse attached to a buggy in which was Mrs. Eugene Hoerster and a child, took fright at something and turned the corner so suddenly as to throw the child out first with Mrs. Hoerster on top. Neither was hurt excepting the woman who complains of an aching wrist.

There was n't a trolley car in sight. The cause is said to be that the pole of Frank Linke's wagon hooked in the back wheel of the buggy and slung it around on the horse.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

WESTERVELT & BERRIMAN WIN AGAIN.

It's a Firm That the Crescents Have No Show Against.

Huyler Westervelt, the New Jersey Athletic club's cannon-ball twirler, must be paying Wash Berriman's car fare and room money. The unbiased ones among the spectators of yesterday's game at Bergen Point, were much amused at the way Plainfield's ex-umpire manipulated his decisions to suit the colt-pitcher. He not only gave Westervelt everything on earth but also shamelessly gave him all in the heavens above. For instance in the fourth inning with Turner at the bat with two balls and two strikes. The next was a wild one and Berriman called "three balls". This was followed by another so wild that Carr could just reach it, so Berriman called "three balls" again. Then he called the next a strike and the batter out. In the seventh inning with Daley at the bat and three balls and one strike; then came a wild pitch that could n't have touched anything. Daley merely looked at it as it passed and laid down his bat to walk to first. But Berriman called it a "dead ball", and wouldn't give the man his base. In the eighth inning, with R. Murphy on second—after a home run hit that unfortunately struck the race track curb and bounded back in the field—Berriman struck Brady out on a ball that was below his knees and way outside the plate.

It was an umpire and pitcher's game as far as the N. J. A. C., nine were concerned. They had n't a team that could field or bat, and if Berriman had n't prevented the Crescents getting a swipe at the ball, the Bergen Pointers would have been ignominiously beaten. R. Murphy for the Plainfielders was rather wild at the start and made tough work for Hofford. The only runs the N. J. A. C.'s made were in the first inning, and those by reason of a base on balls, a wild pitch and two passed balls.

Plainfield's run was made by Jones. After a fine single he got home by sharp moving from base to base, and all the way round taking advantage of every little error of his opponents. On first base Jones was made to suffer from all sorts of wild throws, and made a number of wonderful stops. Yet the official scorers give him two errors which really should not be charged to him. The score:

Base-Ball News.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The managers of the Central New Jersey league did not meet as was expected last night, but they have selected an umpire who will officiate in the West End-Westfield game on Saturday. The man is "Jerry" Sullivan, the well-known umpire who acted for the amateur league last season. His selection, doubtless, will prove a good one.

"Augie" Moran, as he is familiarly called by his numerous friends in Elizabeth, will play right field with the Young Men in Saturday's game against the Crescents. "Augie" is a prime favorite among local cranks and is a dandy all-round player. Manager Whelan displayed considerable shrewdness in bringing him back to this city.

Funeral of Daniel Smalley.

Funeral services over the remains of Daniel I. Smalley were held from the late residence of the deceased at 21 Summit avenue yesterday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended, many being unable to gain admittance to the house. The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the deceased, preached an affecting sermon. The floral tributes were very handsome and included an anchor from the employes of the two meat markets of the deceased, a pillow from brothers of the deceased, bearing the words "Our Brother", and a wreath from a neighbor George Randolph. The pall-bearers were collector H. Newton Spencer, ex-collector Elisha VanNorstrand, now of Elizabeth, S. B. Wheeler, ex-borough clerk James K. Arnold, B. S. Braider and George Watts. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Yesterday's Excursion.

The Christian Endeavor excursion from Plainfield to Poughkeepsie yesterday was a success. The excursionists had a fine day, and greatly enjoyed their sail up the Hudson. They found the Tolchester to be a handsome and commodious steamer. It would have accommodated twice as many passengers as it carried. The boat sailed up the Hudson to Poughkeepsie beyond the big bridge, and on the return trip stopped at West Point for an hour. That the vessel was in eminently capable hands was evidenced by the skillful manner in which the captain avoided a threatened bad collision with a, drifting barge that had broken loose from its tow. The "soft drinks" that had been ordered for the boat were demolished in a freight-train smash-up on the road to the boat, and lemonade had to be improvised for the thirsty ones. There was an abundance, however, of ice-cream and sandwiches. While the excursion was a success, the financial profit was not what its promoters had hoped for. This was due to faulty advertising. Had the excursion been properly kept before the people through the local papers, the results would have been doubled.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

THREE NAMED FROM PLAINFIELD.

Will James E. Martine, Joseph W. Yates or Alexander Gilbert, Ever Be a Congressman?

In the Eighth congressional district, which is composed of Union county, the Oranges, and which extends across Newark Bay and hooks in Bayonne, there are several Democratic aspirants, but not many Republicans. It is conceded that the gerrymander made this new district from 1,500 to 2,000 Democratic on a straight party vote. The contest, therefore, is to secure the nomination, and there are four candidates now named in connection with the honor. The leading candidate is James E. Martine, who has frequently stumped the State in National and State campaigns, and is considered one of the brainiest Democrats in the district. He is generally called the farmer orator, and he is a powerful political speaker. His friends are anxious to have him go to congress that he might shine in the National house of representatives and make his sonorous voice heard. Mr. Martine resides at Plainfield and has a number of warm friends in both parties. C. O'Reilly, of Orange, is another contestant. He has taken an active part in Essex county affairs for the past twelve years and at one time was seriously talked about as candidate for senator. J. W. Yates, who was one of the district delegates to the National convention and who is a liberal giver to the party cause, will accept the nomination if it comes his way, but will make no contest for it himself because he believes that if his friends want him to have it that they will secure it for him. On the other hand his friends think that he has given enough to the party to warrant some consideration at this time.

Col. G. B. M. Harvey is also on the list that some of the people around Orange are discussing. He is now in Europe on a vacation trip. He still maintains his residence in Orange, although he has been living in New York during the winter. He retains his residence in New Jersey because he is an aide on Governor Abbett's staff. B. Maybourn is another Orange candidate. The Hon. John T. Dunn, who has been a candidate for nearly every office in the county, and he never tires of being a candidate, has hoisted his standard on the outer wall with a view of rallying supporters to his cause. It is not likely that Mr. Dunn will receive the nomination. It is more than likely that the contest will be between James E. Martine and C. O'Reilly.

The Republicans have not had a chance yet to discuss the possibilities of their making any show in a district so badly gerrymandered against them. The entire situation is dependent upon who the Democrats may name and if they do name anyone that in the judgment of the Republican leaders would warrant a fight the standard would go to Foster M. Voorhees, who was a distinguished leader of the Republican forces in the house three years ago. Mr. Voorhees is considered a shrewd young man and it is safe to say that he will only accept the nomination under favorable consideration. Should John Kean, jr., receive the nomination for governor it is more than likely that he will insist on Mr. Voorhees taking the congressional nomination for the support that it will give his candidacy. An effort is being made to get mayor Gilbert, of Plainfield, and mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, interested and place them on the list of the availables.—Newark News.

Hence these Tears.

(From The Somerville Messenger.)

Although the West Ends lost the game to the Crescents at Plainfield on Saturday, it was a game that the supporters of the Somerville team have no reason to feel ashamed of. With any kind of moderate luck we would have won. As it was, the other fellows had the luck and ran off with the game. It may also be mentioned, incidently, that they played a very good quality of ball. For the first three innings Sneeden fooled the West End batters in great shape, and afterwards, when they commenced slugging the ball, fine plays by the Crescent fielders kept them from scoring. Leidy alone put out six men, and some of the balls he caught ordinarily would have been good for two-base hits. On the other hand, inexcusable errors by Cadmus and Field, and what was still worse, errors of judgment by all three of our out-fielders in guaging fly hits, and all happening in the first three innings, gave the Crescents five runs and three hits to which they were not entitled. All the same they got them, and "hence these tears".

Comes to Plainfield After a Brilliant Record in New York.

The management begs leave to impress upon the critical theater-goers of this city that Robert Gaylor, who is to appear at Music Hall, this evening, is the most genuine Irish comedian on the stage to-day. The chief charm about his work is its naturalness, and the absence of noisy and meretricious devices to cause laughter. His style is clean, wholesome and irresistible. His humor is unctuous and refined and does not depend upon vulgarity in the least sense. He has successfully entertained large and critical audiences in every city of importance in the United States and Canada, and comes here with a brilliant record of over fifty consecutive nights at the Broadway Bijou theater, New York, where his comedy, "Sport McAllister," one of the 400", was the laughing success of the season.

Campers Homeward Bound.

CAMP TOWNSEND,
MERWIN'S POINT, CONN., Aug. 10.

Yesterday was extremely warm at camp; Monday morning we left for an all-day sail and fishing trip off the New Haven Light, returning about 7 in the exening. As the fishing was not the best, we sailed over to West Haven, and spent the afternoon there. Ode or two have been sick, but are all right now. We expect to leave here to-morrow noon, taking the night boat to New York and arriving in Plainfield early Friday morning.

To-day we expect a great many visitors to the camp, as there is to be a large company from Ansonia to spend the day. Master Edward Waring was officer of the day yesterday.

MR. ULRICH CAN'T CLOSE THE BREACH.

The Republicans in Monmouth County Still Talking Right Out in Meeting and Hauling Boss Sewell Over the Coals.

That element of the Republican party in Neptune township which is disgruntled because George W. Treat was not appointed postmaster of Asbury Park, expressed themselves very freely at the Republican meeting held there Tuesday night. Mr. Gaskill, of Mt. Holly; State organizer judge Ulrich, of Plainfield, and colonel Merrill, of Jersey City, each tried to close up the breach which exists in the ranks, but their efforts proved futile. Mr. Gaskill was the first speaker. He said that arrangements are in progress for a grand ratification mass-meeting to be held in the Asbury Park Auditorium during the latter part of this month. Governor McKinley, Whitelaw Reid, Tom Reed, of Maine, and general Clarkson have promised to be on hand and take part in the meeting, which promises to be one of the biggest Republican demonstrations ever held in New Jersey.

Judge Ulrich advised the Republicans to throw away personal animosities and jealousies and go in the fight with a determination to elect Harrison and Reid.

Colonel Murrell, Jersey City's colored orator, gave a brief outline of his visit to the Minneapolis convention and said that he called the deal which prophesied that Harrison and Reid would be the Republican nominees. In 1888, he said, he predicted that Indiana and New York would be carried by the Republicans, and sure enough his prophecy came true. He said that if the Republicans did not carry New Jersey this fall, considering how the Democratic party had increased taxation and made many new and fat offices, they could never carry it. He believed in the old adage, "To the victors belong the spoils," and said that if he was in power every Democratic office-holder would be turned out and their places filled by 9,000 Republicans. Then for nearly and hour the disgruntled Rupublicans indulged in a mud-slinging match. Personalities were indulged in, and General Sewell was hauled over the coals for the manner in which he had used the party in Neptune township.

MRS. TOMLINSON SPEAKS TO WOMEN.

During a Visit to Their Mission She Talks on Temperance and is Earnestly Listened To.

It was the privilege of the writer—says A. C. R., in the Sabbath Recorder—in company with Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson, of Plainfield, to spend a day at the "Seaman's Mission". Mrs. Burdick invited us to visit the "City of Rome". She carried a package of papers and bouquets of flowers which she distributed to the men on the ship. They received them with eagerness and pleasure. It was a sight not soon to be forgotten.

One man would see another with a flower and he would come and stand near watching for an opportunity to procure one. Truly the little pansy blossoms brought brightness to many faces that day. There were two little boys aboard, to each of whom was given a Sabbath Visitor; they were soon busy reading them. Mrs. Burdick invited the men to the mission rooms for the evening, when Mrs. Tomlinson spoke upon temperance. There were eighteen men present, and they gave earnest attention.

Mrs. Burdick wishes to furnish a homelike place for the men where they may come and spend their time and be kept from the saloon. Directly in front of the ferry where the ship lay there was a saloon gay with its fresh paint, gilt and growing plants.

The followers of the prince of darkness know well how to please the eye, and spare no expense in preparing their man-traps. Ought not the children of the prince of light to be as wise? There are many things needed to make those rooms look tasty, pictures for the walls, simple ornaments for the mantel, anything that will make the rooms look cheery, illustrated papers, or books containing plates. The men are fond of pictures. One of them was heard to say "I do like to read pictures;" his intentness in studying them, proved that he did read them.

Sisters, this is God's work and women can be his helpers. Shall we seize the opportunity? Will you lend a helping hand?

Poor Paisley's Vanished Boom.

There was a time not very long ago when the "town" of Paisley, Burlington county, the "magic city of a night", as it was termed, was flaunted in the faces of newspaper readers as a place likely to attain colossal dimensions within a decade or two, provided the people of the metropolis only took advantage of the opportunity generously extended by the promoters thereof to buy building lots and build cottages there.

The attractions of Paisley were pictured in such alluring colors that many people hereabouts "bit" at the tempting bait, and got caught, some of them to the extent of thousands of dollars. Now these investors are in a despondent mood, a very despondent mood. Paisley is no longer enjoying a "boom" and folks who bought acres there for speculative purposes find themselves "long" on the market. They blame the "founder" of the town, H. A. Freeman, for the disaster, charging him with leaving them in the lurch by "getting out" of the project at its flood tide of prosperity, the investors suddenly finding themselves left high and dry on the recurring ebb.

Mr. Dunn Says It Will Reach New York by To-Night—But a Hot Sunday in Prospect.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Weather Forecaster Dunn announced this morning that the present hot spell had reached its fag end and that by to-night relief would come. This time Mr. Dunn declares that it is no transient thunder storm that is to deliver us, but a large able-bodied northwest wind, which is to start up late this afternoon, and it is to create the worst kind of havoc in this vast low pressure area which has been keeping this part of the continent at boiling point for the last four or five days.

"I do n't believe that the coming cold wave is going to last very long"—said Mr. Dunn.—"But I can guarantee that we shall have a breathing spell of at least two days. By Saturday night it will be about played out, so there is nothing better to look forward to than a hot Sunday."

THE BROADWAY CABLE ROAD.

Its Full Operation Now Set for Jan. 1.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Broadway cable road, it is now promised, will be in full and complete operation by Jan. 1. This does not mean that there will be a few cars in operation at some one part of the road, but that the horse cars will have entirely disappeared and in their place a full number of the coaches in course of construction by the Stevenson company in East Twenty-seventh street. In making this positive statement to-day John D. Crimmins, president of the road, said he allowed for all contingencies. All the work, he was sure, would be finished by Christmas.

CHOLERA SCARE IN NEW JERSEY.

A Number of Russians and Poles Die of a Queer Epidemic.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Aug. 11.—A strange disease has appeared among the Russians and Poles at Helmetta, a little manufacturing town near New Brunswick, which has proved very serious, and in its symptoms very much resembles Russian cholera. There have already, in a week, been twenty deaths, nearly all of them among children, and the disease is rapidly spreading and has now appeared in the neighboring village of Spottswood.

Investigation shows that while in some cases there were symptoms of the dread disease, the cases thus far have been nothing more that violent dysentery.

Will Make New Health Regulations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—O. L. Spaulding, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, has returned, and was interviewed regarding his trip abroad. Its purpose was the examination of methods pursued by various large steamship companies with respect to their examination of proposed immigrants to th eUnited States. He visited Hamburg, Bremen, Rotterdam, Antwerp, London and Liverpool and found the steamship companies in all these places anxious to comply with the American laws. He will make no formal report, but will form new health regulations based on his observations.

Cyclone Near London, Ont.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 11.—The cyclone of Tuesday evening which extended across the Grand Trunk lines between Dumfries and about four miles east of Paris, was the most severe in years. All telegraph lines both on the highway and railway were completely prostrated. Scores of small houses and barns were wrecked. The railroad tracks were covered in several places with a foot of water and trains were badly delayed. So far as learned no fatalities have occurred, but particulars have not yet been received.

After the Cooley Gang.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 11.—Sheriff McCormick has selected a party of 12 trusty men armed with Winchester rifles and has sent them into those parts of Fayette county which the notorious Cooley gang most frequents. The posse have strict orders to let no one escape them, and are now on their way to capture or conquer the outlaws. Nothing has been heard of the Cooley gang since Monday, at which time they were at Cool Springs.

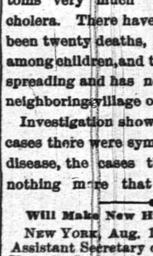
Things Worth Remembering.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When the fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night, for a week or ten days, will act as a preventative of either complaint.



Just like clock-work—that's the way your whole system moves along, when Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have put it in order. That's what they're made for—to regulate the system as well as cleanse and renovate it.

These are the original Little Liver Pills, tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules; mild and gentle in their action, but thorough and effective—no pain, no griping. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

They're the smallest, easiest, and best to take—and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

Can you ask more or better proof of the superiority of these little pills?

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

BURNERS FOR LAMPS.

Berlin, Germany, the World's Center of the Industry.

Processes of Manufacture — The Labor Question in Germany—Bill of Fare of a Berlin Mechanic—The Problem to Be Solved.

[Special Berlin Letter.]

One of the most important industries of the German metropolis—and one in which every American is more or less interested—is the production of burners for kerosene lamps. The ordinary flat burner, which was considered a veritable wonder when petroleum illumination was first adopted by the peoples of the civilized world, is a thing of the past. New and improved devices by the score have been thrown upon the market. Yankee ingenuity taxed itself to produce something which would produce the best light at the least expenditure of fuel. The patent office at Washington contains hundreds of models, each of which seemed marvelous to the people of the past generation. The almost universal introduction of gas and electric light seriously crippled the lamp industry in the United States and inventive genius sought other and more profitable channels.

In Europe, however, the kerosene lamp is still the most popular illuminating agent. Teutonic ingenuity has evolved a round burner for lamps which has conquered the continent and many lands across the oceans. It has, in fact, even found a lodgment in the American republic.

Speaking the other day with a gentleman engaged in the manufacture of lamp burners, I learned that Berlin is the undisputed center for the production of the useful articles, and that not less than 10,000 persons earn their daily bread in the industry. My German friend seemed to be exceedingly proud of his connection with the trade, and volunteered the following description which, although it reads somewhat like a page from a text-book, is vouched for as being correct in every detail.

The ordinary kerosene lamp consists in its main parts of zinc and copper. On the first floor of my informant's factory the foundry is located where the feet, oil vessels and other metal parts are cast. The casting is an easy process, as the metal employed, zinc, is comparatively soft, easily melted and formed into shape without much trouble. The next operation is the casting of bronze parts. This requires considerable skill, as the composition, copper and zinc in proportion of 3 to 2, is hard to work. To secure fine shadings in color and variety tin and other metals are occasionally introduced in small quantities.

The models for the bodies of lamps are designed by artists and formed in clay. The model-makers of the factory imitate the patterns in plaster of paris or wood. From these counterfeits the cast is taken. For a bronze cast the mold can be used but once. As a renewal of the mold is a decidedly expensive process, the zinc cast is employed in the manufacture of cheap lamps. This inferior product is afterward bronzed or gilded in the finishing room by the galvanic process in so skillful a manner that the tyro cannot tell the difference between the genuine article and the imitation.

In an adjoining room an army of workingmen fit the various parts of the lamps together. The next department is occupied by the workers in brass sheeting. The sheets are cut by gigantic shears and huge knives or dies which descend with indescribable force. Tubes of various sizes are produced with wonderful rapidity, separated and made smooth. Thus prepared all the metal parts are transferred to a chemical department where they are placed in a solution of acids, cleaned and tested. Before the brass tubings reach the men who form them into burners they have assumed a bright appearance.

From the skilled fellows who give life to the hitherto crude metal the burners pass into the hands of the solderers, and from these they go to the finishers who inspect every part of the brass and bronze articles turned out by the factory. If a deficiency of any kind is discovered, the finisher removes it by a ready application of his file or returns the damaged part to the office.

The cutters perform one of the most interesting operations in the creation of lamp burners. Each one stands before a table and with automatic precision punches two hundred little holes, in changeable form and two distinct shapes, in the rim of the burner. Another workman places two brass rings around the burner and yet another prepares a round plate to fit over the whole, ornaments the edges with the aid of an intricate machine and inserts a peg to hold the different parts together firmly.

Girls are employed to put the finished lamps into shape, to pack, mark and to distribute them through the storerooms.

The men and women employed in the lamp industry have to work hard for very small pay. The labor is said to be unhealthy. The constant inhalation of brass dust shortens life and undermines health. As a rule, the factories are not model establishments. Workmen employed in the manufacture of the more expensive grades of goods earn from $7 to $8 per week. Those less fortunate have to be satisfied with $5, $6 or $6.50, according to their skill. The girls in the packing department can make from $1.50 to $3.00 per week.

Much has been said in the United States about the remarkably perfect sanitary condition of European manufacturing plants. After an extensive tour through England and the continent I am justified in making the assertion that no self-respecting American workingmen would work in such holes as are set apart for thousands of the toilers in Berlin, London, Brussels and other trade centers of the old world.

This leads me to say a word or two about the mode of living of European workingmen. Take these men employed in the lamp industry, for instance. Most of them live in tenement houses and pay from $5 to $7 rent per month. In order to make both ends meet, they have to deny themselves scores of the luxuries which have become necessities to the mechanics of America.

"I have meat on my table twice a week," said an intelligent lamp worker to me, "usually on Wednesdays and Sundays. We buy our bread at the barracks from soldiers. We have four children, the oldest now being thirteen years of age and the youngest seven. They go to school, and by denying ourselves we manage to keep them clothed decently and reasonably well fed.

"Do we drink beer? Yes, we spend about four marks ($1) a week for beer. Sunday afternoon I take my family to a beer garden where they have a good concert. When we have beer we have neither tea nor coffee.

"Of course, it's hard to save money, but still my wife has managed to lay up 250 marks ($60) during the past five years. Others have done better, but we had some sickness in our family and once I was out of work for three months."

Further inquiry revealed that the food used by this man's family consisted principally of farinaceous articles, such as oatmeal, ground barley and cracked wheat. Butter was served only on extraordinary occasions, such as birthday anniversaries, holidays and occasionally on Sunday. The only diversions in which they participated were the Sunday afternoon concerts already mentioned and an occasional visit to the thiergarten (zoological gar-

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

It is believed that nickel carbonyl is about to play an important part in metallurgy.

In platinum pyrometers for very high temperatures it is found that porcelain answers satisfactorily up to 1,200 degrees centigrade.

A block of carbon fourteen inches square represents the amount of that material that goes to make up the constitution of a man of average weight.

In using what is known as the Canadian method of boring oil wells, a well 1,000 feet deep was bored in 228 hours, or an average of 4.78 feet per hour of actual work.

Mr. Krupp, the great gunmaker of Germany, says that service charges for guns should not be larger than the amount that would develop a pressure of 2,400 atmospheres.

The advantage of the single-acting air cylinder over the double is that it compresses a volume of free air only once every revolution; hence there is a better chance to cool air during compression.

Omitting a few Esquimau exceptions, all other spear throwers appear to be ambidexterous. The development of a purely right-handed implement points to a southern origin for the original inventor.

The distance between division points for changing engines has been increasing in this country, and some roads are now running engines from two hundred to three hundred miles, where they used to run one hundred miles or less.

The difference between the so-called "chemical" focus and the visual focus of a telescope may be little or it may be half an inch. In either case the photographed image will be decidedly out of focus if allowance for this difference be not carefully made.

A new valve for preventing serious loss in furnaces has given excellent results. It is a trap constructed of malleable plate like an ordinary gas tube, the passage being closed and opened by being filled with and emptied of water. A vessel holding water is raised and lowered in this trap. When the heated currents are passing, the passage is empty and dry, and thus evaporation is avoided.

THE MAGIC WHEELS.

How to Make Shadows Turn in Directions Opposite to Each Other.

Cut out of a piece of pasteboard a circular wheel with large teeth around it, and pierce the center of this wheel with a pin, which next stick into a wooden rule held vertically. Then lift two candles placed upon a table about three feet apart, and both at equal distances from the wall. If you hold the wheel parallel with the wall, so that it projects upon it two circular shadows, and make the wheel turn on its pin axis, you will see the shadows turn also in the direction indicated by the little arrows in the cut.

All this is very easy. But now to make the two shadow wheels turn in opposite directions—how would you go at work to accomplish this?

Place your wheel perpendicularly with the wall. Then back off until you bring the shadows into circular form. At that moment turn your pasteboard wheel, and you will see the shadows turning in opposite directions.

Makes an every-day convenience of an old-time luxury. Pure and wholesome. Prepared with scrupulous care. Highest award at all Pure Food Expositions. Each package makes two large pies. Avoid imitations—and insist on having the NONE SUCH brand.

Lizzie Borden Not Surprised at Arrest.

THE BODIES AGAIN EXAMINED.

Continuation of the Inquest—The Decision to Arrest Lizzie Arrived at After a Long Consultation by the Authorities—Public Feeling Running High.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 12.—While the arrest of Lizzie Borden, daughter of the murdered merchant, had been expected all along, yet when the announcement was made, last evening, it caused an immense sensation. To-day the arrest is the all-absorbing topic of discussion. She was made a prisoner in the inquest room of the Central Police station, where she was taken ostensibly as a witness.

There were present her sister Emma, seven years older than Lizzie, her counsel, and Marshal Hilliard. Her counsel waived the reading of the warrant. It charges her with the murder of her father and stepmother. She was lying on a lounge when formally accused of the crime. She manifested no surprise. Her face expressed anger, but no fear.

After a moment it resumed the expression of stolid reserve that it wore even in the presence of her murdered father. While her sister moaned and wrung her hands in anguish, she lay quietly on the couch without a sign to indicate that she was uncomfortable or in danger.

She was given over to the custody of the matron of the station, but she will not have to sleep in a cell. Arrangements are being made to confine her in quarters pleasanter than the ill-fitted dungeons of the provincial Fall River lockup.

Her sister, still weeping and trembling left the inquest room leaning on the arm of Mrs. Brigham, a friend of the family. She needed the supporting arm, for she trembled violently as she walked to the carriage in waiting at the door.

To describe the public feeling here would be difficult. The Bordens were so well known and the mystery of the double murder is so exciting to the popular imagination that it seems to possess the minds of all classes alike.

The inquest itself, long drawn out and securely hidden behind the grim stone walls of the old court house, has dragged along, in its usefulness vastly important, and in its deliberations as mystifying as the double murder itself. This has served to whet the appetite of the feverish and expectant public. There had been a ceaseless and insatiable clamor for news of the progress of the case, which was in the main unavailing.

Mrs. George Whitehead, a step-sister of the deceased woman, Mrs. Tripp, a neighbor and Miss Russell, who was placed in charge of the household, were examined at the inquest as to the relations of the family. The deposition of Mrs. Hiram C. Harrington was also taken.

A second autopsy was held in the ladies waiting room at Oak Grove Cemetery during the morning. Mrs. Borden's body was examined first. The new fact discovered was a bruise on the back near the left shoulder about the width of an axe and shaped like the head of an axe.

It gives another clew to the exact position held by Mrs. Borden when the deed was committed.

The afternoon session began at 2:30 o'clock. The first witness called was Eli Bense, the clerk in Dr. Smith's drug store, who told the police several days ago that Lizzie Borden had tried to purchase poison at Mr. Smith's drug store.

Bense swore to this statement, and it is said gave further information which materially strengthens that part of the evidence against Lizzie Borden, which relates to the poisoning.

After the testimony of Bense had been taken, a drug clerk named Frank Kilroy was called. It was learned that Kilroy is one of the witnesses by whom the District Attorney is going to prove that Lizzie Borden not only tried to purchase, but actually did buy, poison.

When Kilroy was through, Cashier Fred Hart of the Union Savings Bank, in which Mr. Borden is said to have kept his stocks and bonds, went up stairs to the court room. Mr. Hart was asked in regard to Mr. Borden's financial affairs.

Threats of Lynching Made.

SALEM, N. J., Aug. 12.—Edward Harris, colored, aged 20 years, was arrested yesterday on the charge of outraging Martha, the 12-year-old daughter of Thomas Lawrence, a well-known farmer, who resides near this city. The girl's parents left the house in charge of the daughter, and Harris, who was employed on the farm, went there and assaulted her. Harris denies the charge, but Dr. Sperron, who made an examination, says the crime was committed. There is great indignation and threats of lynching are being made.

Sullivan Identified.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Daniel D. Sullivan, the alleged murderer of Anthony Haswell, who was killed after being enticed away from home in East Providence, R. I., on the night of July 19 last, has been fully identified in the Tombs Police Court by the wife of the murdered man and a tenant.

MONOPOLIZED BY EUROPEANS.

Consul Bedloe's Statement Regarding Business Enterprises in China.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The letter of Consul Bedloe, who is stationed at Amoy, China, regarding the way in which Europeans monopolize business of all kinds in that country, has created great interest here, this being Mr. Bedloe's home, and among officials in Washington. After telling of the building of a railroad, in which the men employed were drawn from every country except the United States, Mr. Bedloe goes on:

"In the past ten years the Chinese have begun a vast system of intercontinental telegraph. Their lines already connect nearly all the great cities in the eastern half of the empire, and are being daily extended westward. In this great enterprise the harvest is being reaped by English, French and Germans. Within 18 months Li Hung Chang, the great Premier of China, has put into operation iron, steel and machine works in Shan Lung, which promise to equal those of Krupp in Essen. A large amount of the best European skill and knowledge has been furnished, chiefly by Great Britain. The United States was not in it.

"None of the weapons or supplies of war, of which the Chinese Government buys an enormous quantity yearly, are purchased from the United States. In the forts at Mekung in the Pescadores and at Taiwanfoo, in Formosa, I found soldiers armed with old style Springfield muskets. On inquiry I learned that these had been bought up at auction in the United States by European speculators, had been shipped as ballast across the Atlantic, there cleaned, polished and varnished and then resold to the Mongolian government at an advance of over 1,000 per cent.

"Steam and electricity are fast beginning to make headway in China, the telephone, electric light, electro-plating, steam launch, elevator and stationary engine are becoming familiar and being used. More than a thousand Chinese are engaged in these callings, all or nearly all of whom have learned their calling from English experts, although America leads the world in electric science. It is hardly necessary to say that scores of Europeans find employment in these fields and are handsomely paid for their services.

"Nearly all the coast and river carrying trade has passed to foreign control. The old, but picturesque, junk has been superceded by the steamer and the sailing vessels. Eight-tenths of this traffic belongs to Great Britain, one-tenth to Germany, and one-tenth to all the other nations of the world."

GOV. BUCHANAN'S REASONS.

Why He Commuted the Sentence of Col. H. Clay King.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 12.—When Gov. Buchanan was asked to give his reasons for the commutation of the sentence of Col. H. Clay King, he said:

"First, I thought that King should have had a change of venue. Affidavits to the effect that Juror Smith had communicated with outside parties and expressed an opinion about the case were filed with me. These affidavits could not be introduced in the Court of Record because it was too late. The action of Juror Mustin and of the jury in going to Arkansas to deliberate upon the case had their weight too; the dissenting of one of the Supreme Judges in the defense of partial insanity; the pleadings of his wife and children and the most prominent men in the country, besides the hundreds of letters and petitions—these were my reasons for commuting the sentence. I am responsible for my action. I thought I was doing right, and I acted according to my belief."

The Governor showed the reporter a petition for the commutation of King's sentence signed by 26 United States Senators and Congressmen.

FIVE INSTANTLY KILLED.

Collapse of a Wall in an Indiana Glass Works.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 12.—A terrible accident occurred at Hartford City at about 5 o'clock last evening. Several men employed in the Hatford City Glass Works were engaged in work in the tank room when a heavy stone wall in the room gave way and collapsed before the men could make their escape.

Five men were instantly killed, while two are so seriously injured that it is doubtful whether they will survive.

The collapse was due to a defect in the masonry.

TO SETTLE ALL CLAIMS.

Chili Agrees to a Convention in Washington for the Purpose.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Minister Egan has definitely agreed with the Chilian government upon a convention for the settlement of all unadjusted claims of citizens of the United States against Chili, by means of a Claims Commission to meet here.

Mr. Egan reports that all the negotiations leading up to this were of the most friendly spirit. Much satisfaction is expressed at the Department of State at the result of the Minister's efforts in this and other matters recently brought to a conclusion.

Accidentally Killed While Gunning.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 12.—Harry P. Maguire, a prominent young man of this city, while out gunning on the Delaware Bay in a skiff with his brother and several friends, was in the act of pulling his gun towards him when it exploded, the contents entering his body near the heart, killing him instantly. The body fell overboard. His brother immediately jumped after it and with the help of his companions it was recovered and brought to this city.

AGAIN IN DANGER.

Another Plot to Kill Frick Said to Have Been Discovered.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—H. C. Frick's life may be again in danger. Authentic news that an Anarchist, pledged to take the life of the Chairman of the Carnegie Company, is hiding in this city, has reached here. The miscreant is Aaronstann, the rabid friend of Assassin Berkman. The following dispatch received last night from New York explains the depth of the plot:

"Vice Consul Otto Elberhard of Austria to-day discovered evidence that goes to show what a web of Anarchistic toils has been thrown around H. C. Frick, and goes far to prove that the plot to kill him was world-wide, instead of being merely the freak of a crank.

"The Vice Consul has been for some time closeted with an Embassy of the Austrian police Bureau.

"The plot unfolded to the Vice Consul by the Austrian had its inception in the old country, while its ramifications extended from New York to Chicago. The Austrian produced proofs that Aaronstann, the friend of Berkman, had been assigned to do the killing."

MAY BOYCOTT THE MATERIAL.

Possible Outcome of the Federation Meeting at Homestead To-Day.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 12.—A most important meeting will be held here to-day when the quarterly session of the Council of the American Federation of Labor will be held. Among the officials who are to be present are President Gompers, of the American Federation, and representative of the Cigarmakers' Union; Chris Evans, of the United Mine Workers; John B. Lemon, of the Tailors' and Cutters' Union, and P. J. Maguire, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters. The Council has heretofore met in New York. While the usual business will be transacted at the meeting the object of calling the Council together in this place is to consider the Homestead strike.

In discussing this subject William Carney, of the Executive Committee, said:

"A boycott on Carnegie material is to be considered, and interested in that are 84,000 carpenters, 100,000 persons engaged in bridge building and the operatives of ship yards where armor plate is used. We are willing to bring about any kind of honorable settlement, if it is possible, but if Messrs. Lovejoy and Frick and associates are determined on manifesting nothing else but an aggressive disposition towards us there is no alternative for us, after having recourse to every other honorable method to bring about a fair and honorable adjustment of the difficulty, but to meet them with their own weapons, feeling confident that with the resources behind us we must assuredly come out victorious."

DEACON WOULDN'T GET OUT.

He Rejected the Proposal to Be Set Free if He Would Leave France.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The report that Edward Parker Deacon, now undergoing a year's imprisonment for the shooting of M. Abeille, had received and rejected a proposal from the French government to the effect that he would be set free if he would leave France at once, is confirmed.

The idea in making such an offer was to prevent the trial of the Deacon divorce suit taking place in France. The suit is set for Sept. 23.

The French authorities are much disappointed at the refusal, as their object has been, if possible, to prevent the trial of Deacon's suit against his wife for divorce, and the exposure to the world of the additional evidence going to show her guilty of misconduct with M. Abeille.

They would like to expel Deacon from the country after his term of imprisonment, but, as they have no ground for such action, it is feared that it might call forth a remonstrance on the part of the American Legation. Therefore the attempt was made to induce Deacon himself to go as a condition of being liberated.

Suspected Murderers Discharged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Catherine Murphy and her husband William, and Hugh Lynch, who have been in custody since Saturday on suspicion of having stabbed Mrs. Margaret Holoran, aged 34 years, who died in the Pennsylvania Hospital Tuesday, have been discharged by Coroner Ashbridge. The evidence shows that Mrs. Holoran, who was drunk, attempted to jump through a window and fatally cut herself.

New Bridge Across the Hackensack.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The Pennsylvania Road are to construct a new bridge across the Hackensack river, near Jersey City. All the arrangements for the bridge, which will have a draw-span, have been completed, and in a few days the preliminary work of locating the piers and piles on which it is to be built will be begun. The bridge will have two tracks.

Drowned in a Military Swimming School.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Seven soldiers were drowned at Neisse, in Prussian Silesia, while practicing in the military swimming school. The men were ordered to go into the water beyond their depth, the preceptor supposing them to be sufficiently practiced to be able to swim. This proved not to the case, and they sank without making any sign that they were drowning.

Phillips had 420; Rising Sun, 290; Alcyone, 300; Baltic, 330—1040 all told; D. A. Small, 140—417 all told; Golden City, 200; Antarctic, 300; Star King, 160 and E. B. Cornell, 190.

VICTORIOUS GLADSTONE

"No Confidence" Vote Passed: 350 to 310.

SALISBURY CABINET MUST RESIGN.

Wild Scenes in the Commons Previous to Adjournment—Gladstone Receives an Ovation When the Vote is Announced—Balfour Roundly Hissed.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The House of Commons, by a vote of 350 to 310, has voted "no confidence" in the Salisbury Cabinet, and nothing is now left for it but to resign.

The House was packed when Parliament assembled. Every seat was taken, crowds were standing on the floor and in the gangways.

Among the distinguished spectators were the Earl of Cadogan, Lord Knutsford, the Prince of Teck, the Duke of Devonshire, Prince Hatzfeldt, the German ambassador, Minister Lincoln, and other members of the diplomatic corps.

When Mr. Gladstone entered he was cheered enthusiastically.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, who wore an orchid, in addition to his usual garb, was also cheered as he went to his seat, and more or less applause greeted each notable from his partisans.

Members were generally goodhumored, the Conservatives looking reconciled to defeat, and the Liberals happy over victory.

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain arose and spoke on the motion of "no confidence."

Wm. G. F. Macartney, Conservative, of South Antrim, followed with a strong denunciation of Home Rule.

Sir Henry James, Liberal Unionist for the Lanes division of Bury, defended the Government in favoring a protracted debate, and cited the four days debate in the House in 1841. He called upon Mr. Gladstone to confirm the applicability of the precedent, but Mr. Gladstone refused to sanction the comparison, remarking dryly: "The cases are totally dissimilar."

The House showed symptoms of restiveness during Sir Henry James's speech, and when the Rt. Hon. Henry Chaplain, President of the Board of Agriculture and Conservative member for the Seaforth division of Lincolnshire, arose to defend the Government, he was received with continued cries of "divide" and general confusion among the opposition benches.

Mr. Chaplain proceeded undismayed, however, to attack the opposition for its aimless and undefined policy. He was frequently interrupted and sat down amid renewed calls for a division, laughter from the opposition benches, and faint cheers from the Ministerialists.

Meantime the calls for a division swelled to a chorus and were not stilled until the declaration came that the vote on the "no confidence" was at hand.

In the division the Parnellites and the anti-Parnellites fell in together behind Mr. Gladstone. When the members reentered the House ironic cheers were given for Mr. Balfour.

Mr. Gladstone was about the last one of all to come back. When he appeared the Nationalists rose, waved their hats and cheered. It was then announced that the vote for the amendment was 350, against the amendment, 310; majority for the amendment, 40.

The Liberals rose, waving their hats, turned to Mr. Gladstone and cheered for several minutes. The old man flushed slightly during the ovation, but otherwise was apparently unmoved.

As the cheering abated Mr. Balfour, amid cries of "coercion," cheering and "hooing," and counter-cheering, moved the adjournment of the House.

SOCIETY CIRCLES SHOCKED.

The Arrest of Col. Ray at Winnipeg Creates a Great Sensation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 12.—The arrest of Col. Ray, a prominent banker and military man of Port Arthur, has created a tremendous sensation in society circles.

Col. Ray met on the street Mrs. Bathurst, wife of Dr. Bathurst, a well known physician, and engaged her in conversation. They walked in the direction of the Bathurst residence, and when it was reached the Colonel asked permission to enter.

A few minutes later he made an indecent proposition, which so startled the lady that she swooned. While in a fainting condition, Mrs. Bathurst says, the Colonel accomplished his purpose. When she recovered she at once alarmed the household.

Col. Ray, hearing that proceedings were to be taken, sent a friend with a check for $5,000 to suppress matters. This she indignantly refused and at once swore out a warrant for the man's arrest.

Dr. Bathurst, who was out of the city, did not return until the following day. He is furious over the outrage, and swears to shoot Ray if he escapes justice in the courts.

Call for Convention of Jewish Rabbis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—A call for a convention of Jewish rabbis, to be held in this city in October, has been issued. The convention is called for the purpose of protesting against the so-called reform rabbis. The convention is mainly called because of a resolution introduced by Dr. Wise, of Cincinnati, O., which provided for the abolition of the Abrahamic rite in the case of converts. It is said that the chief motive for this action on the part of Dr. Wise was for the purpose of gaining admission to Jewish circles for Dr. Maloney, his son-in-law, who refused to submit to the rite.

ENJOYING LIFE AT LOON LAKE.

The President Keeping Up His Reputation as a Fisherman.

LOON LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—President Harrison spent another quiet day. Chairman Brookfield, who called on President Harrison yesterday, would say nothing as to the nature of his visit.

President Harrison, although attending to all public business of an urgent nature, is enjoying life, from a sportman's point of view. His long time reputation as an angler is maintained by his fishing expedition of yesterday, when he made a large catch of trout.

Fishing, riding and walking will be on the programme from now on. Loon Lake House is filled with guests, yet each coach connecting with the trains comes well filled and room is found.

TRIED TO KILL HIS FAMILY.

An Escaped Lunatic's Desperate Attempt at Port Ewen, N. Y.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Oliver Terpenning escaped from the Middletown Asylum about a month ago. He was not returned, as his appearance and conduct had so improved that it was thought he had been cured. He went to his home at Port Ewen, about six miles from this city.

During the night he lost his reason and attempted to kill his family with a sledge-hammer. A constable interfered and he was finally brought to bay at the point of a pistol.

He was handcuffed and brought to jail, and was taken back to the asylum this morning.

Bavaria's Military Bands Can't Come.

MUNICH, Aug. 12.—The Bavarian Minister of War has refused to allow Bavarian military bands to give concerts in Chicago next year. The Prussian Minister of War gave a similar decision some time ago. Negotiations are said to be pending for concerts at the Fair by a Royal regimental band from Saxony. The band of the Brunswick hussars, which at one time considered a proposition to go to the Fair, has given an unfavorable answer.

Knights Leaving Denver.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 12.—The exodus of visiting Knights Templar began in earnest this morning with the departure for the west of over a hundred trains filled with people desirous of taking in the scenery before their return home. The campaign for the location of the next conclave was a warm one. Boston, however, had the lead from the start, with Cincinnati, Louisville and Minneapolis fighting their claim bitterly.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Cruiser No. 12, the Marblehead, was successfully launched yesterday afternoon from the Harrison-Loring shipyards at South Boston.

—William Paine was instantly killed and William Griffith was fatally injured by a boiler exploding at Eaton Brothers' saw mill at Trent, Pa., Wednesday.

—The 62 stockmen who were engaged in the war against the "rustlers" were released from custody in Cheyenne, Wyo., yesterday, each signing a personal bond for $20,000.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—1,982 passengers were carried by the Plainfield street railway company yesterday.

—The Dunellen Weekly Call has now reached the dignity of a a third issue. It is bright and prosperous, and deserves generous support from the Dunellen people.

—The last excursion of the season will be that of the Warren mission and Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday-schools, to Long Branch and Asbury Park, Wednesday, Aug. 24.

—A son of E. C. Pease of the borough, and another young man, were "held up" by toughs on the county road, while cycling, a few nights ago, and relieved of their valuables.

—Wm. Corcoran, a roving blacksmith, insulted a woman living in the rear of French's mills, yesterday afternoon, and was arrested and sent by judge Codington to jail for 60 days.

—You can buy extra Jersey early rose potatoes at 75 cents a bushel; and fine table butter from 22 cents a pound, up; at the store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association.

—Miss Fawcett's kindergarten, primary and intermediate school at 15 Grove street will reopen Sept. 15. This school is a most admirable one, and already a select list of pupils is being entered.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church, this evening at 8, promises to be of special interest to all who may attend. Five reports of the New York convention are expected.

—Any delay or stoppage of the running of the street cars, is the fault of the Electric Light company and not of the railway company. The former furnish the power and the latter has no control of it.

—At the camp-meeting, Sunday, there will be preaching as follows: 11 a. m., Rev. J. B. K. Butler of Providence; 3 p. m., Rev. Mrs. Holt of New Jersey, the distinguished female divine; 8 p. m., Rev. Butler.

—A proposed amendment to the constitution of the Plainfield Building and Loan association, relative to the withdrawal value of shares, will be considered at a meeting in Liefke's building next Monday evening at 8.

—Go to Sherwin's and get a pair of those men's shoes that he is running off at $2 a pair. They are a genuine bargain, being the same shoes that he has been selling for $3.50, and there is nothing the matter with them either.

—There is good reason for the great sale of Tier's ice-cream and confectionery that has been in progress this summer, and especially during the extreme hot weather. The public realize that Tier's ice-cream is the most delicious in the market, and that all of the candies are of the choicest. None but pure ingredients are used, and the result is wholesome and refreshing confections. The Tiers are now deservedly doing the largest business in the history of their house.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Allison French is home from his summer vacation trip.

The Rev. Mr. McClymont of Newark will preach at the First Baptist church next Sunday.

Mrs. W. N. Tier left town to-day for Nyack, N. Y., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Felter.

Miss C. E. Fisher, operator at the Postal Telegraph office, is ill from prostration caused by the heat.

Paul Bertheim, a capitalist newly arrived from Germany, was the guest of George Craig yesterday. He is interested in Texas ranch life, and visited Mr. Craig to get pointers.

Councilor John P. Reed, of Franklin council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, will act as marshal for the council at the grand parade to take place at Asbury Park next Wednesday.

D. A. Woodhouse, formerly of this city, received the sad news by cable, yesterday, of the death of his mother in Europe. She had been absent with a daughter engaged in settling a valuable estate, and the legal proceedings had just been satisfactorily completed when she died.

Recent issues of the Little Rock, Arkansas, Press, and of the Elizabeth, N. J., Real-Estate News, devote considerable space to a biographical sketch, with portrait, of Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley of Westfield, who is famed throughout the country as the Union county good-roads pioneer.

Notes of the Diamond.

Manager Whelan of Elizabeth has signed Charlie Jones, formerly third baseman of the Newarks. He is considered a good all-round player and will cover centre field for the Young Men.

The game at the Port to-morrow will be between the Y. M. C. I. A. and the Crescents. In the opinion of the Elizabeth Journal it will afford the two new men of the Elizabeths an opportunity to show of what base-ball material they are composed, and the whole nine will have an opportunity of redeeming some of their losses in previous games with the Plainfield team.

TWO WOMEN BADLY SHOCKED.

THEY WERE ALONE AT NIGHT IN A HOUSE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Even a Telephone Girl Not Exempt from Electric Bolts—F. M. Slater's House Badly Damaged, and Other Casualties Caused, by the Storm—The Trolley Unaffected—Freaks of the Current.

The fierce thunderstorm of last evening will be long remembered in Plainfield because of the terrific electrical manifestations that accompanied it. All over the city people were kept in a state of nervous suspense, fearful that the next of the almost incessant flashes might bring disaster to their rooftree. The overhead wires kept snapping merrily, and threw out crackling sparks. Telephone bells kept jingling, and electric lights flashed and faded under the influence of the lightning charges. A number of electric circuits were burned out, and some sections of the city left in darkness. Lewis Mattox was badly shocked by a sudden flash that struck the elertric-light wires by a stage-window in Music Hall where he was standing, and the lights in the house and in other buildings on the circuit were momentarily affected. No alarm was manifested, however, for the lights flashed up again and continued to burn steadily thereafter. The intensity of the unusual current along the wires set fire to the roof of the electric light station, and a small hole was burned. The damage was not serious. The trolley system was not affected, and cars ran as usual during the storm.

The most serious damage reported was to the residence of ex-councilman F. M. Slater, on Jackson avenue, North Plainfield. Mr. Slater and wife are out of town, and his mother and Miss Lottie Morse were alone in the house. Miss Morse was lying on a couch, and Mrs. Slater was seated in a chair. Of a sudden a tremendous electric bolt seemed to burst in the very room. They heard no crash, but felt a terrible concussion. Blue lights danced all about, and there was a strong odor of brimstone in the air. The women felt a fearful electric thrill, and were stunned into momentary unconsciousness. When Mrs. Slater recovered her senses she found that she had been deafened, and her deafness did not pass away for some time. Miss Morse had thought that her many startling experiences with electricity as telephone operator at central had accustumed her to the freakish fluid, but she was thrown into a state of nervous terror by this shock, and fears that she can never regain confidence in her nerves during thunder storms.

Investigation revealed the fact that lightning had struck and shattered a chimney of the Slater house. The current had evidently followed the chimney to the sitting room where were the two women, and escaped through an open window, after electrifying everything in the apartment. The gilt of the wall-paper and picture mouldings was changed to black, and gold leaf was stripped in flakes from the paper and deposited on the floor with another strange precipitation resembling sulphur. Bricks and mortar from the chimney were strewn all about the yard and attic, a hole was torn in the roof, and fragments of the slate shingles were hurled all about.

Altogether, the experience was a most terrifying one for the two women, and if telephone subscribers find to-day that central's voice is a trifle tremulous and her gentle dispositon somewhat unstrung, they must attribute it to the electrical disturbances of the storm.

Lightning struck the house of John Pfister on the Henry Clay Randolph in the short hills, and showered plaster down upon the inmates of the dwelling as they lay in bed. The chimney was wrecked, and the walls were completely denuded of plaster. The smell of sulphur was very strong. Pfister and family fled through the storm and took refuge in a neighbor's house.

WESTFIELD WARBLINGS.

Another Newspaper Promised, and a New Industry for the Town.

Manager Morse, of Garwood, is a firm believer in faith cure.

Montgomery Clark, of West Virginia, is visiting his parents at Westfield.

Mrs. C. A. Smith and her son Raymond returned Thursday from the Catskills.

The Rev. Dr. Rice will preach in Brooklyn the remaining Sundays of this month.

Westfield is to have another newspaper, backed up by capital and journalistic experience.

The oratorio of "Queen Esther", or its equivalent, "Ruth", will be produced in Westfield next winter.

C. N. Coding has again taken possession of his residence on the Boulevard, after repairing the damage it sustained oy fire last spring.

The New York Domestic Gas Machine company will establish a plant in Westfield for the manufacture of their machines. Quarters have been secured on Central avenue, near the railroad.

The Leader misinterprets public opinion when it announces that Westfield does not object to being called Ripley's Corners. It was bad enough to have that name flung at the town, without having a newspaper of the town swallow it eagerly and ask for more.

The eleventh annual excursion of the Sunday-schools of Westfield and Fanwood to Ocean Grove, Wednesday, was a success in all respects. The bathing was good, and when at night the two great excursion trains pulled up to the station, they disgorged a tired but clean and happy crowd. To many this annual bath proves most beneficial.

BRUTAL STABBING AFFAIR.

A Dunellen Laborer Badly Cut by a Fellow-Workman.

A very brutal stabbing affray occurred last Monday afternoon, at Brown's brick yard at Dunellen. During the day several discussions arose over the work to be done by the different hands, each man being allotted his work. A man, whose name no one seems to know and who was employed there, was a little more loud in his threats than the others. He had some words with Edward Conkling, also an employe of the yard, over some work which Conkling wanted him to finish. This soon resulted in a hand-to-hand fight. The unknown man drew a knife and stabbed Conkling in the left breast near the heart, making a severe wound, and as he fell over, the brute kicked him just above the eye.

Although Conkling is not regarded as fatally wounded, he had a very narrow escape, as had the knife entered two inches from the place it did, he would have been killed instantly.

The other workmen caught the would-be slayer and gave him a severe pounding, which is all the punishment he has had up to the present. Conkling will not make a complaint against the man, and he is now allowed to go free.

DUNELLEN'S DOMESTIC DIFFICULTIES.

The Green-Eyed Monster Jealousy the Cause of the Waldrons' Infelicity.

Scores of people—says the Dunellen Call—were sitting on the stoops of their houses and traveling to and from their homes last Friday night, about eight o'clock, when a little voice was heard to say, "Go home with him, mama". At this instant, John Waldron was seen to strike at his wife, whom he had pulled out of an ice-cream store a moment before. The voice was that of their thirteen-year-old daughter, who was trying to hold her father from making another attack upon her mother. The child succeeded in persuading both of her parents to proceed homeward, but when they had gone about a block the old trouble opened out afresh and they again began to ventilate their family troubles in open air.

By this time over a hundred people were standing around the dejected family.

The cause of this unpleasant occurrence was Mr. Waldron's objections to having his wife pay such marked attention to one Art Godfrey, a young hay-carter of that place. He claims Mrs. Waldron accompanied this young man on a drive not long since and they did not return until a late hour, and he wants her to cease her pranks with him.

On the night of the trouble, Mrs. Waldron, accompanied by her two children, met young Godfrey, who invited them to have some soda, and while they were enjoying the drink, were discovered by Mr. Waldron, who thought it was his treat.

The Waldrons only recently moved to Dunellen. Mr. Waldron carts hay for a livelihood.

A Veteran of the War.

Dr. Abel S. Titsworth, whose death at Dunellen was chronicled in these columns yesterday, was well known through the county as agent of the Travelers' Insurance company. He had an office on North avenue, and one in Elizabeth. He was a veteran of the Rebellion, having served three years as a volunteer in the 11th Regt. of New Jersey. While in the army he contracted rheumatic fever, and that developed into heart trouble. The intense heat of recent days prostrated him, and during an unconscious hour he passed gently away. A. S. Burr, State agent of the Travelers' company, has temporarily taken charge of the insurance business of the deceased.

Cranford Hopes to Beat Clare's Corners.

The Cranford base-ball team will go to Drake's park, Westfield, to-morrow, to play against the amateur team of the Westfield Athletic club. The last time these two teams met, the Westfields won easily. This time, Cranford hopes, things will be different. The Cranford boys have been working hard to get in good shape, and the hard practice ought to make a good showing. Quite a crowd of Cranford people will attend the game. The Cranford players will wear their new suits.

Mr. Pope's Beverage Simulates Soda-Water.

Consumers of city water looked with suspicion on the beverage from the mains this morning. When a glassful was drawn it sputtered and foamed as though there were saleratus and vinegar in it. The taste or quality, however, seemed not to be affected. At the pumping station it was said that the foam was caused by the heavy pressure of air in the pipes, and that the water was benefited rather than injured by it. During the day the freak passed off.

Plainfield's Water Supply Extension.

Only one mile of pipe remains to be laid to complete the water main of the Union Water company from Netherwood to Plainfield. By Sept. 1, the pure clear water of the Netherwood wells will be flowing through the entire system.

Any of the earlier stages of Consumption can be cured. It's a matter of evidence—strong enough and complete enough to warrant the makers of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in promising this:

If it's taken in time and given a fair trial, they'll refund the money in any case where their medicine fails to benefit or cure.

But it's a medicine that doesn't fail; it goes to the root of the trouble. Consumption is developed through the blood, and must be cured in the same way. It's a scrofulous affection of the lungs—a blood-taint. And the surest remedy for Scrofula in all its forms, the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known to medical science, is the "Golden Medical Discovery." It cures Scrofula; it cures Consumption; it cures all Bronchial, Throat, and Lung affections, Asthma, Weak Lungs, Severe, Lingering Coughs, and kindred ailments—through the blood.

And if there's no help, there's no pay.

BIOGRAPHY OF DR. TITSWORTH.

He Would Have Celebrated His Silver Wedding Next Month.

[Dunellen Weekly Call.]

Dr. Abel Shepard Titsworth died at his late residence, in New Market, yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, aged 52 years, from heart disease. He was the eldest son of Isaac D. Titsworth, one of our oldest and most prominent citizens. The doctor has been a sufferer from the terrible disease which carried him away, for the past twenty-five years. He was born in Shiloh, Cumberland county, N. J. on January 21, 1840. When the War of the Rebellion broke out he was one of the first to enlist, which he did on August 1, 1862, at Trenton, in the 11th N. J. regiment, and served as hospital steward, until his discharge, about June 20, 1865. During this service he became quite familiar with the practice of medicine and entered the medical college at Geneva, N.Y., from which he was graduated in the spring of 1867. He then entered Bellevue Hospital in New York city and graduated in 1868. He then went to Edgerton, Wis., and followed his profession until 1870, when he removed to his native town, Shiloh, and bought out the practice of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, now of Plainfield, remaining there until 1874, when he removed to New Market, where he has since resided. He was unable, owing to this dreadful disease, to seek for a large practice, and finally abandoned his profession by selling out to Dr. Edwards in the spring of 1885. For the past few years he has done an insurance business and other lucrative work which would enable him to remain at home and gain a livelihood. He was married in September, 1867, to Lucy, the eldest daughter of the late 'Squire Morgan, and had he lived another month would have celebrated his silver wedding. He leaves a widow and four children, two sons and two daughters, who have the sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral service will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church in New Market, on Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and interment will be at Hillside cemetery in Plainfield, with military honors, by Winfield Scott post, No. 109, G. A. R., of which he was a member.

News of the Traps.

The next tournament of the New Jersey State Trapshooters' league will be held this month in Harrison.

A two-day shoot will be held at Miller's grounds, Springfield, Aug. 17 and 18. The first day will be at live birds and the second at targets.

A new arrangement was made last week whereby for the next five years, at least, targets and live birds can be shot at the Marion grounds, which it was feared at one time would have to be closed.

John Riggott, of Rockaway, and Frank Class, of Morristown, recently shot a match at 100 live birds each for $250 a side for the championship of New Jersey. Riggott won by killing 95 birds to Class's 94. Johnny is therefore now the champion of New Jersey, and also an all-round good fellow.

'TWAS INDEED A GALA NIGHT.

COLORED GENTILITY HAVE A HIGH TIME WALKING FOR THE CAKE.

A Belle from Westfield, Escorted by a Gallant Plainfield Swain, Carries Off the Prize—Classic Account of the Great Event, from the Pen of Bret Harte's Son's Genius.

THE pronounced inclemency of the weather was the only damper. But for that it may be asserted that the grand concert, cake-walk and ball given by the colored waiters of the hotels Netherwood and Albion at the Crescent rink, last night, would have risen to the dignity of a real Astor "crush". More than five hundred tickets had been disposed of, however, so that the slim attendance caused no uneasiness to the management.

In the language of the posters which announced the event, it was "the intention of gentlemen composing the gigantic entertainment combination to make it one of the grandest, most enjoyable, entertaining and orderly affairs ever inaugurated in the State of New Jersey".

It was all this, and more, with the exception of the gigantic part, which was unavoidably left out because of the non-arrival of about two-thirds of the expected guests.

A detachment from Guiteman's Music Hall orchestra occupied the music stand.

The concert began with the singing of several glees by a quartette composed of the following gentlemen waiters of The Netherwood: Renzie Hopkins, leader; Robert Washington, P. C. H. Tinson and Henry Leroy.

Master Louis Thomas, aged 10 years, caused roars of laughter and received great applause for his clever jig dancing, which he performed oddly enough, during the singing of the quartette, as a sort of accompaniment.

Then came the great event of the evening, the grand cake-walk.

Chairman Thomas G. Leary was the master of ceremonies, and performed his arduous duties with tireless energy.

The first to step out upon the floor was Joseph Mitchell, a waiter at the Hotel Netherwood; and leaning gracefully upon his arm was Miss Irene Miller of Westfield.

During the walk she was the observed of all observers, for she was a very pretty girl. Her skin was quite light, her features were regular, her carriage was graceful, and her manner was demureness personified. She was dressed in a navy-blue yachting costume.

Following them came P. H. C. Tinson with Miss May Jones, Mr. and Mrs. E P. Peterson, Henry Leroy with Miss Emma Robinson, J. H. Law with Miss Hester Ray, Robert Washington with Miss E. Parlett, W. E. Dempsey with Miss Gertrude Grosse, Burl Gibson with Miss Ellen Weaver, Albert Williams with Miss Annie Spriggs, and Charles Hunter with Miss Clara Peterson.

The judges of the grand cake-walk were Oliver Bridgman, R. D. Farlee, Henry Williams and Wm. Waddell, guests of the Hotel Netherwood.

From the very first it was seen that the contest was between Mr. Mitchell and Miss Miller and Mr. Washington and Miss Parlett.

Miss Parlett was the only suspendered young woman among the participants, and this fact caused intense interest in her favor.

The cake, a large round affair, covered with an abnormal quantity of frosting, was brought out from one of the dressing-rooms and placed upon a box in the middle of the floor at the head of the hall. Around this the contestants slowly marched for fully fifteen minutes, keeping admirable time to the music of the orchestra.

After a little, the judges reduced the number of couples to four, and these to two.

After making the remaining two walk twice around the cake, the confection was finally presented to the belle of Westfield, amid tremendous applause.

The judges gave as their reason for their decision that Miss Miller was the most "graceful" of the women and Mr. Mitchell the most "unassuming" of the men.

After the cake-walk the ball began.

Among the hotel guests there were: Mr. and Mrs. William Ogden, Mr. William Ogden, jr.; Miss Fairchild, Mrs. Boyd Smith, Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Toby, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Pyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Gerken, Mr. and Mrs. Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Burke and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams.

The various committee in charge of the affair were as follows:

Committee of Arrangements—Thos. G. Geary, T. T. Harden, Joseph Johnson, James H. Law, Wm. Dempsey, George Green, R. Hopkins, W. H. Jackson, Jos. Mitchell, Henry Leroy, Robert Washington, E. Little, E. Baker, Thos. H. Fisher, Arthur Chambers, P. C. H. Tinson, L. D. Little, James Tally, Timothy Mercer.

Cake-Walk committee—R. Washington, R. Hopkins, T. G. Leary.

Concert committee—Wm. Dempsey, Jas. H. Law, Elias Baker, L. D. Little.

Reception committee—Jos. Johnson, P. H. C. Tinson, Geo. Green, Henry Leroy, E. Little.

Refreshment committee—Arthur Chambers, Joseph Phipps, Timothy Mercer, Jas. Tally.

Coat and Hat Room committee—Thos. H. Fisher, Joseph Mitchell.

Committee on Tickets—W. H. Jackson, T. T. Harden.

Altogether, the event was a delightful affair, and a notable sociable event.

A CLUB WOMAN ON WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Fanwood's Brilliant Representative Says Some of the Best and Loveliest Creatures Are Least Practical.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, wife of David P. Hall, of Scotch Plains, and a prominent member of the Monday Afternoon club of Plainfield, recently made a speech on "Club Methods", before a cultured gathering of notable women, in which she said:

"Of the methods proposed for helping all the members of a large club at work and interested, I think the plan of dividing into sections for separate study, much more desirable than others. This method has already been tried by many of the large clubs, and has been found to work very well. I believe it was first tried in Boston some twenty years ago by the young ladies of the Saturday Morning club, at the suggestion of my mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who was founder. When the members of this organization, at the close of their first year, were about to abandon work during the summer vacation, Mrs. Howe suggested to them the formation of groups or classes for special study. One of these was the cooking group, and I can testify from experience that they made excellent dishes. The New Century club of Wilmington, Delaware, has a very interesting class for the study of current events. The Orange club of New Jersey has tried the plan of dividing into classes for special study with gratifying success, as have many other organizations. It seems to me better, however, to offer each individual the opportunity to join a class or a committee, rather than to make a hard-and-fast law declaring that each member must do thus and so. We do not want to be bound by so many inflexible rules.

"Whether each club member should or should not be on some committee depends upon whether you want your club to do the best possible work as a body, or whether your principal object is the development of the individual as such.

"We can all work, but we cannot all work in the same way, or do the same thing. This is an age of specialization, of special training for special work, and we want those to do the work who can do it best. Mr. father, Dr. Samuel G. Howe, once thought it would be a good thing to have all the blind children at the institution under his charge wash all the dishes. It was an excellent thing for the children. It kept them busy and cheerful. But it was a very bad thing for the dishes. I wish you could have seen those dishes! They were all cracks and nicks, and fearful to look upon, and my father soon gave up the plan. Now I don't mean to compare club women to blind children, and another illustration will perhaps be more to the point. A gentleman of my acquaintance was in the habit of employing to teach his children not those who had received special training and were good teachers, but people who needed employment. We do n't want our children taught in this way. We want them taught by those who can do it intelligently, and we need to put on committees the people who can do the best work.

"There are five kinds of women who cannot, in my opinion, serve advantageously on a committee. First, women who are indolent. Second, women who are not practical, and, as we know, some of the best and loveliest women belong to this latter class. Third, women who are careless and inaccurate in their work. Fourth, the women who cannot work with others because they must have everything their own way. Such a woman often makes an excellent committee of one. Fifth, the woman who is not open to conviction, who is like the obstinate twelfth juror, and holds out against all argument. The mind of such a woman reminds one of a reversed lobster pot. The points are all turned in one direction. The more you press against them, the less they yield, and the more unpleasant it is for you.

"I believe that a committee should consist of a small body of active and fair-minded workers. A large committee is of little use until it shapes into a small one—as it almost always does.

"If each member of a large club be on some committee, confusion and trouble may arise, for 'too many cooks spoil the broth'."

All the State Admiring Plainfield's Model Railway.

[Newark Advertiser.]

Plainfield's electric road is a great success, and the people are delighted. Last night the mayor and members of the common council, together with a number of leading citizens, got aboard a car and rode over the route. They were very much gratified with the trip, and referred especially to the smoothness of the road. The cars are built by the Brill company, of Philadelphia, and are the finest cars ever turned out by that concern. This is the first electric road in the city, and the people express themselves as very much pleased with the line and equipment.

The Coming of the Trolley a Notable Event.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

This is a day to be remembered by Plainfield. Its first street railway was opened to the public this morning. It is operated by electricity as applied to the trolley system. The road does not complete the circuit of the place, but only runs from a point in the centre of the business district to a terminal point in the southwest section of the city. Plainfield is a conservative community and is always disposed to "go slow" in the introduction of public improvements. In the course of time, however, it may be expected that the street railway will traverse every part of the town and its suburbs, to the satisfaction of everybody.

What Kind of a Route Is This?

The Newark Advertiser has a funny idea of Plainfield's topography. Speaking of the new electric street railway it says: "The line is four miles in length, and runs from the depot to Fourth street, thence to Grant avenue, to Fourth street, to Third avenue and return."

DEREVERE A VALUABLE TENANT.

He Will Probably Retain Possession of the Union Square Hotel.

George B. DeRevere, who made his first successes as a hotel keeper at the City and the Park hotels, Plainfield, and who still has a summer home here on Woodland avenue, had a dispossess warrant sworn out against him the other day for arrears of rent on the Union Square hotel, New York. But the proceedings were all of a friendly nature, as Mr. DeRevere remains in possession of the hotel, and lawyer Speir, attorney for Mary A. P. Draper and Charles P. Palmer, the owners of the property, says that no definite action will be taken for several days at least.

His clients, he said, considered Mr. DeRevere a valuable tenant, and were anxious to avoid putting him to any inconvenience if matters could be satisfactorily adjusted in any other way.

He intimated that there was little doubt that a satisfactory settlement could be made. The proprietor declares that the rent is too high to run the hotel properly, and the owners, it is understood, are willing to make a reasonable reduction.

Belneck & Co., the wholesale butchers, who hold a chattel mortgage on the furniture of the hotel, will also refrain from foreclosing the mortgage until the difficulty between the owners of the property is settled.

Mr. DeRevere's arrears in rent date from Dec. 1, 1891, to the first day of the present month, and amount to $11,762. As soon as a stay in the execution of the dispossess warrant had been secured yesterday, through the efforts of the proprietor, a judgment for this amount was filed in the county clerk's office against the landlord.

The lease for the hotel, which is run in conjunction with the Hotel Dam, at 104 East Fifteenth street, was taken out on Feb. 27, 1886, by Mr. DeRevere and Andrew J. Dam.

It continued from May 1, 1887, to May 1, 1891. According to the terms of the lease a rent of $29,000 a year was to be paid for the first two years, and $30,000 for the remainder of the term.

Every payment was to be made in advance.

For the first two or three years the hotel did a good business. When the hotel centre moved farther uptown, however, business began gradually to fall off.

On Sept. 11, 1890, Mr. Dam dissolved partnership, Mr. DeRevere assuming all the liabilities for the remaining ten years, together with a small amount of rent which was then due.

From that time until within the last few months the business has been very poor, and the rent gradually fell behind.

Lately, however, business has been picking up, and Mr. DeRevere thinks that he will soon be able to settle things up if a proper reduction in the rent is made.

Mr. DeRevere is also proprietor of Taylor's hotel, Jersey City.

HIS ADVICE IS DON'T.

Cold-Water Baths After Cycling Are a Bad Thing, Says Mr. Docter.

A physician who is also an active athlete protests against the use of the cold bath after physical exercise of any kind. He says that after physical exercise has been continued long enough to occasion slight fatigue the skin becomes hot and moist, the muscles swollen and warm, the heart increased in action, respiration quickened, and a sensation of exhaustion is manifested throughout the system. Under these conditions rest is imperatively demanded until reaction or stimulation sets in. He argues that the application of cold water, especially by the use of the shower bath, by the rudeness of its contact and the force by which it is applied, operates as a depressing agent still further to reduce the vitality of the system, which is both harmful and unscientific. It matters not, he says, how agreeable the sensation or how rugged the constitution, the result eventually will be to injure the system and to undermine the vigor of the constitution. He advises as the only proper hygenic bath after physical exercise, the use of the warm water basin, with a rough wash rag and a mild soap. After the use of the soap wash it off, rinse the wash rag, wring it as dry as possible and rub the entire body briskly with it and dry the body with a towel. In this way—he says—no blood is driven away from the tissues, which was invited there by the physical exercise, the process of cell growth and tissue change is not checked nor interfered with, and vigor, health and strength is uniformly and continuously maintained.

In view of the general use in Plainfield, and especially among the many wheelmen of the town, of cold-water baths, this warning may be a useful one. At all events it is one worth considering, and while it may not apply to all cases, for all constitutions are not alike, it may be well for each one to consider whether his system is able to resist the shock of the cold bath or the shower bath, and to govern himself accordingly.

To Send Sewage Into the Passaic.

C. P. Bassett, engineer of the Orange sewerage system, and who prepared the original plans for a sewerage system in Plainfield, presented to the Orange common council on Monday plans and specifications for a pumping-station for the local system. The sewage is to be pumped up to the proper elevation and then gravitated to tide-water in the Passaic river.

A Year's Record on the Central.

During the past year the Central Railroad of New Jersey killed 33 people and injured 328. The coupler was one of the chief agencies of mischief, 64 men being injured while coupling cars, 63 injured while track-walking and 42 while boarding cars.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical; it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

ITS MARCH WESTWARD

Cholera's Progress Viewed With Great Anxiety.

PRECAUTIONS IN NEW YORK CITY.

Ravages of the Plague in Asia Minor—Vigorous Efforts of the Governor of Moscow—Cholera Scare in New Jersey Towns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The westward march of Asiatic cholera is giving the health authorities here a great deal of anxiety, and the most stringent measures are being adopted to prevent, if possible, the disease getting a foothold in this city, which it would naturally strike first, owing to the great number of immigrants who arrive here. A Quarantine official says, however, that he does not believe any considerable number of cases will reach here, even if every ship is affected.

The health officers in their rounds are compelled to examine closely every case of death from cholera morbus, to see that no germs of Asiatic cholera are present.

Cholera was never seen in this country until 1832, but those who remember the year will tremble at the prospects of its return. It first reached Quebec by ship, and spreading from there ravaged New York State. It appeared again in 1848, breaking out in New Orleans. It did little damage in New York, but New Orleans and the West suffered from it until 1854.

The last visitation was in 1866, reaching New York by ship from India. Owing to the organization of a Board of Health New York was spared a repetition of the scenes of 1832.

It was confined mostly to Mott, Cherry, Mulberry and Madison streets, where in July, August and September there were 1,188 deaths. The suburbs were much affected until cold weather.

SPREAD OF THE PLAGUE.

Ravages in Asia Minor—Energetic Sanitary Precautions in Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12.—The cholera is raging in Asia Minor, having been brought there by travelers from Persia. At Trebizond, the capital of the province of that name, not less than 1,500 persons are confined in the lazaretto, a rude enclosure outside the walls of the town.

Many of these are suffering with cholera, but the greater number are persons who have been detained because they have been exposed to infection. These are restless under detention, and yesterday they made an effort to break through the cordon established around the lazaretto, and to gain their freedom.

The Turkish troops were summoned to prevent the escape. A large force of military hurried to the scene, and the mob was ordered to disperse and return to the lazaretto.

The mob refused, whereupon the troops were directed to fire. The soldiers sent a volley straight into the struggling mass, who were filling the air with cries and shouts of defiance.

A number of persons fell, killed and wounded.

This terrified the rioters, and the survivors returned, without further demonstration, to the lazaretto.

The populace of Trebizond are greatly excited, and they strongly resent the steps taken by the authorities to prevent, by sanitary precautions, the spread of the disease.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—Advices from the Crimea and the Caucasus state that the cholera is decreasing in virulence. In Northern and Central Russia, however, the disease is increasing, and in Moscow twenty-three more factories have closed, owing to the spread of the plague.

The Grand Duke Sergius, Governor of Moscow, has surprised the people by his display of personal energy in dealing with the plague, while the Grand Duchess of Elizabeth, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, devotes her personal attention to the relief of the sufferers.

Besides the sanitary precautions taken prayers are offered up daily in the churches for the abatement of the pestilence, and the monks of the various monasteries may be seen going in procession and chanting hymns.

IT IS NOT CHOLERA.

An Infectious Disease That Is Killing Many in Jersey Towns.

JAMESBURG, N. J., Aug. 12.—The reports that a scourge of Russian cholera is now visiting this place and Helmetta, two miles distant, are pronounced false by the doctors here, and they say that the disease is only an acute form of dysentery which developes symptoms like cholera. Nevertheless, the situation here is a serious one.

Dr. J. L. Syndam, a member of the Township Board of Health, estimates that 150 persons in the two places are dangerously ill.

There are only five doctors to attend to them, and they are not able to make the rounds of the patients. Nineteen deaths were reported during the last three weeks.

The situation became so serious that Dr. Snydam called a consultation of the doctors in the neighboring towns, with Dr. Baldwin of New Brunswick, and they agreed that active and radical measures must at once be taken to save the lives of the inhabitants of Jamesburg and Helmetta.

Several families of Russian Jews immigrated to Helmetta within a month. This gave rise to the report that they had brought the cholera with them, and the doctors were inclined to believe it, as the symptoms were somewhat similar.

Loss of blood is the most prominent symptom of the disease. When it first appeared at Helmetta the doctors came to the conclusion that it was caused by the water of a pond, the water of which is used in Helme's snuff factory, but this theory has been abandoned.

There is no doubt that the disease is infectious, as it attacks persons in good health and is spreading steadily.

Many of the people in this district believe that the visitation is that of genuine cholera and not cholera morbus or anything else. The greatest uneasiness prevails.

Kindled the Fire With Oil.

READING, Pa., Aug. 12.—While 17-year-old Annie Exmoyer was kindling a fire with coal oil yesterday afternoon the fluid exploded and she was burned almost to a crisp. She lived for several hours and died in terrible agony.

If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

"CONFIDENCE BEGETS LOVE."

CHILD. "Gran'ma, kiss me good-night. Sister is asleep, but we so love to hear you tell of all the ladies that call you Mother."

MRS. PINKHAM. "Yes, darling, when you are older perhaps you may do as I have done."

CHILD. "Everybody loves you, gran'ma; I wish everybody would love me."

MRS. PINKHAM. "Everyone will love you, my child, if they can confide in you."

The above dialogue tells its own story; even the little child, without knowing why her grandmother is so universally loved, sees in her face a light of intellectual sympathy that satisfies her. That sympathy has extended itself all over the world, for wherever civilized women exist, Mrs. Pinkham is known and reverenced.

LOW-PRICED COTTAGE.

A Comfortable Home of Neat Design and Reasonable Cost.

The accompanying perspective and floor plans represent a cottage of neat design and moderate cost. As will be seen by examination of the floor plans the house has three good rooms beside reception hall and pantry on first floor, with three chambers and bath-room on second floor. The stairs are broken by square landings, which add to the comfort and convenience in ascending. An upholstered seat is placed at the foot of stairs. From the hall you enter the parlor through a wide sliding door. The dining-room is also connected with the parlor by sliding doors. These doors may be kept open and the opening hung with heavy portieres. The parlor is furnished with an open fire-place and pretty mantel. In the dining-room is a projecting window with drawers under. The large china-closet is placed between the dining-room and kitchen and may be used as a place through which to serve cooked victuals. The connection of the dining-room with the kitchen is also through the rear entry. A sink and drain board are placed in the kitchen convenient to the china-closet. A well-shelved and fitted pantry connects with the kitchen by an arched opening. Each room on the second floor is furnished with ample closet room. A cellar extends under the kitchen and hall and is reached by stairways from the outside and the pantry inside. The outside foundation walls are of stone 18 inches while the interior cellar walls, ash pit, and chimneys are of hard brick. The building is properly framed, braced and sheathed with shiplap sheathing. The timbers are of sound, well-seasoned pine or spruce. Sills, 6x8; first floor joist, 2x8; second floor joist, 2x10; ceiling joist, 2x6; studding and rafters, 2x4. The lower part of the exterior wall is covered with paper and white pine siding; second story and roof shingled with cypress. The interior walls and ceilings are hard finished on one coat of brown mortar and seasoned lath. The interior finish is of white pine in all rooms except reception hall and kitchen, which are finished in southern yellow pine. The kitchen is wainscoted to a height of 2 feet 8 inches and the pantry to a height of 6 feet. All the finish on the first floor is smooth-wrought and finished natural. That on the second floor is painted in suitable colors. The exterior is painted three coats. The materials used are pure white lead and pure raw linseed oil, mixed with such first-class colors ground in oil as will produce tints to best harmonize with the surroundings.

The height of the first story is 9 feet 6 inches and the second story 8 feet 6 inches; cellar, 7 feet. Dimensions: Front, 30 feet; side, 34 feet 10 inches, not including projection of the front porch. The building was erected and finished in Carthage, Ill., for $1,700, including the plumbing of bathroom and the parlor mantel, and could be duplicated in most places at the same figures.

GEORGE W. PAYNE & SON.

Magnetic Properties of Oxygen.

Commenting on Prof. Dewar's recent experimental verification of the magnetic properties possessed by liquid oxygen, M. Guillaume points out, in L'Industrie Electrique, that if we accept the values found by Edmond Becquerel for the magnetic constant of oxygen, it ought, when in the liquid state, and in a field of medium strength, to possess a magnetic moment per cubic centimeter one-third that of iron, and a magnetic moment per gramme twice as great as that of iron; so that the strange conclusion is forced upon us that oxygen is the most magnetic of substances. M. Guillaume also points out that liquid oxygen might be made to give a faithful and delicate representation of the distribution of the lines of force in a magnetic field, the liquid being heaped up in the strong places.

Still It Sticks.

The centrifugal force developed by the earth's rotation tends to throw bodies off its surface as a stone is propelled by a sling, and in consequence of this fact 1-298th of the weight of every particle of matter lying along the equator is employed in keeping it on the earth.

FERDINAND AND ISABELLA.

A Spaniard's Characterization of the Sovereigns of Columbus.

In Ferdinand political sagacity predominated; in Isabella the moral nature, writes Emilio Castelar in the Century. The pious king believed, notwithstanding his piety, in the efficacy of works, and professed the dogma of aiding to execute the Divine will, which he generally found favorable to his undertakings; Isabella, with her enthusiasm, trusted in her hopes and in prayer. The queen was all spontaneity, the king all reflection. She trod the paths of good in order to attain to good, but he scrupled little to resort to dissimulation, deceit, and, in case of necessity, crime. Valiant and warlike, Ferdinand joined the strength of the lion to the instincts of the fox. Perhaps chance in all history there has not been his equal in energy and craftiness. He was distrustful above all else; she, above all, was confiding. He was all mind; she all heart.

WOODEN STATUE OF ISABELLA IN THE CATHEDRAL, GRANADA.

Isabella took pleasure in increasing the number of her vassals, that she might possess a dominion over human souls, whereby to swell the ranks of true believers upon earth and of the elect in Heaven; Ferdinand took pleasure likewise in the growth of the church and of Christianity, but above such religious gratification he set the satisfaction born of domination and conquest. Daughter of a learned king, and of an English mother who died bereft of reason, Isabella had a clear perception of ideas and lived in a ceaseless state of exaltation. Son of that quarrelsome and wily king John II. of Aragon, and of a mother of masculine and ambitious nature, Ferdinand inherited on the paternal side a mixture of political and warlike temperaments, and on the maternal that incredible ambition which led him to add to his royal house and to his native country by conquest and by marriage.

The two founded the Inquisition; Ferdinand for political reasons, Isabella for religious ends. Both were conquerors. Isabella gained Granada for her Castile, and Ferdinand, Navarre for his Aragon. The conquest of Granada reads like some book of chivalry, the conquest of Navarre like a chapter of Machiavelli. By the one achievement Isabella expelled the Moors; and by the other Ferdinand drove the French from our peninsula.

As a natural consequence of their different temperaments, Isabella and Ferdinand each dealt with Columbus as their several natures prompted; the queen ever enthusiastic, the king, as usual, cautious, guarded, crafty and reserved. He computed the cost of the enterprise, and the returns it might yield; she thought only of spreading the dominions of her idolized Castile and winning souls to Christianity.

Mails in Early Days.

Boston's first newspaper, the News Letter, contains the following advertisement, which is an exact copy of the original spelling, capitalization, etc: "By order of the Postmaster General of North America: These are to give Notice, That on Monday night, the Sixth of this Instant, December, the Western Post, Between Boston and New York, sets out at once a Fortnight the Three Winter Months of December, January and February, and to go Alternately from Boston to Saybrook and Hartford to Exchange the Mayles of letters with the New York Ryder on Saturday night the 11th Currant. And the second turn He sets out at Boston on Monday Night the 20th Currant to meet the New York Ryder at Hartford on Saturday night the 25th Currant to Exchange Mayles. And all persons that send Letters from Boston to Connecticut from and after the 13th Instant are Hereby Notified to first pay the Postrates on the same."

Animals That Smoke.

A great many animals enjoy tobacco smoke, for beasts are much like men and differ essentially in their tastes just as men do. But dogs and cats are not among the number of those that relish tobacco, for either will generally take a violent fit of coughing or sneezing when smoke is blown in their faces, and sometimes they seem to become very sick at the smell. Many horses, however, appear to enjoy the odor of a good cigar as much as men do, and some mules are fond of tobacco. It is not safe, however, to experiment with a mule's taste. A friend of mine lately blew a cloud of smoke from his pipe into the nostrils of a mule and the insulted beast changed ends as quick as thought and would have brained him on the spot had he not saved himself by falling prostrate. The next time he tries tobacco smoke on a mule he will tie the beast.

A Broken Heart.

At a bowling alley at Ulm, Germany, a player slipped, and in falling struck with his chest one of the thick balls, which broke one of his ribs. The breakage made a sharp point in the bone which was turned inside by the ball in so unfortunate a direction as to cut into the heart. Death was almost instantaneous, caused by the broken heart.

Strange Effects of Extreme Cold.

Dr. Moss, of the English polar expedition of 1875-77, among other things tells of the strange effects of the extreme cold upon the candles they burned. The temperature was from 35 to 50 degrees below zero, and the doctor says that he was considerably discouraged when upon looking at his candle he discovered that the flame "had all it could do to keep warm." It was so cold that the flame could not melt all the tallow of the candle, but was forced to eat its way down, leaving a sort of skeleton candle standing. There was heat enough, however, to melt odd-shaped holes in the thin walls of tallow, the result being a beautiful lace cylinder of white with a narrow tongue of yellow flame burning on the inside and sending out many streaks of light into the darkness.

A Mosquito Remedy.

A very high tide recently broke away the dike and flooded the salt meadows of Stratford, Conn. The receding tide left two lakes nearly side by side, of the same size. In one lake the tide left a dozen or more small fishes, while the other one was fishless. A recent examination showed that while the fishless lake contained tens of thousands of mosquito larvæ, that containing the fishes had in it no larvæ. An Englishgentleman living on the Riviera, according to a correspondent of Nature, having been troubled by mosquitoes, discovered that they breed in the large tanks kept for the purpose of storing fresh water, which is rather a rare commodity at this Mediterranean resort. He put a pair of carp in each tank and succeeded in this way in extirpating the insect pest. The utilization in this way is an old suggestion, and a very practical one under some circumstances. Many people suffer from the mosquito plague when the insect breeds in a circumscribed and easily accessible place and where it could be destroyed by some such method as that used by the level-headed Englishman.—Insect Life

Growing More Liberal

That's what the human race is doing — particularly the American part of it.

There are a few left who are satisfied with ancient history. But most people are ready to apply modern progress and common-sense to the treatment of the human stomach—an organ that demands its rights whether or no; that resents the insults of worn-out methods. All this is to emphasize the facts about

COTTOLENE

There was once a prejudice against Cottonseed oil. But people who are alive, who investigate, who have no bigotry in their composition, have found that pure, refined cottonseed oil combined with selected beef suet is a better article in every conceivable way than hog's lard. And so they wisely use it for cooking—and are correspondingly healthy and happy. The sales of COTTOLENE are enormous and constantly increasing; a proof that it is appreciated by appreciative persons.

Ask your grocer for it.

IT KILLED THE BORDENS

The Discovery of the Ax Creates Another Sensation.

BLOOD STAINS ON THE WEAPON.

Lizzie Borden Takes Her Confinement in a Cell at Taunton With Composure—She Shows No Signs of Breaking Down—Excitement Still High.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 13.—The ax with which Mrs. Borden was killed has been found. That is the sensation of the day in the mysterious double murder case. The formal committment of Miss Lizzie as the assassin of her father and stepmother ranks second in interest to the discovery of the murderous weapon.

It has just leaked out that one of the four hatchets found in the cellar of the Borden homestead, soon after the murder, was the instrument with which the butchery was committed.

It has a handle two and a half feet long, and a steel blade keen as a razor. Its blade and head are peculiarly shaped. The latter is blunt at the end furthest from the handle, and has a claw for pulling nails at the other end.

Under the microscope it shows many spots of human blood. That it was carefully washed there is no doubt, for a bucket of water was found near it, and also three new towels, partially covered with blood. The water had been splashed over the cellar floor.

Lizzie Borden was asked at the time the ax was found about these towels, and she said that they had been used by a woman in illness. The wounds in the head of Mrs. Borden fit the blunt end of the hatchet head. The weapon also showed some long hairs, which matched those in Mrs. Borden's head. The police are now satisfied that this instrument was used by the author of the crime.

NO SIGNS OF WEAKENING.

Lizzie Borden Takes Her Incarceration Stolidly.

TAUNTON, Mass., Aug. 13.—Miss Lizzie Borden, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering her father and stepmother at Fall River, and who was committed to the jail here without bail, takes her confinement in a cell with remarkable composure. She shows not the slightest sign of weakening, but bears herself with the same firmness that has characterized her during the trying days of the past week.

Her entry into the city took the form of a public ceremonial. Excitement was high. Arriving at the Central passenger station, Miss Borden was conducted to a curtained hack by Rev. Mr. Buck and City Marshal Hilliard, Detective Seaver acting as guard and clearing the way.

Arriving at the jail she was at once put in a cell, the minister conducting her to the door and Marshal Hilliard seeing that the door was properly secured.

Mrs. Wright, wife of Sheriff Wright, an old friend of the Borden family hurried to the cell with a glass of water, which the prisoner eagerly drank. When Miss Borden entered the jail office her face was composed and there was no sign of consciousness given as she passed towards the corridor, apparently seeing nothing and noticing no one.

The sheriff stood by the inner door, and he was affected almost to tears, as he saw the daughter of his old friend passing to apartments usually occupied by the most degraded females. Minister Buck emerged from the cell room white and agitated, but not disposed to talk.

Swimming Contests at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—The ocean swimming contests attracted 20,000 people to the beach. There were 40 entries in the match for men. The course was from the wave power pier in Ocean Grove to the fishing pier in Asbury Park, a distance of 700 feet. The prizes were a gold medal and a diamond scarf pin. The match was won by Charles McCauley of Brooklyn, Ralph D. Paine, of the Yale football team, being second. The ladies' match brought out four entries, and was won by Mrs. R. L. McLean of New York city. Miss Bessie Smith of Asbury Park was second.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 13.—Great excitement prevails at Middlefield over the disappearance of Capt. Henry Miller, a very wealthy and influential citizen. He was seen last Thursday evening by his nephew, Henry Ives, but now cannot be found. Searching parties have scoured the country and drawn off ponds hereabouts, but no trace of Mr. Miller has been discovered. He was about 80 years of age, unmarried and eccentric. He wore long, white hair.

Stone Cutters' Strike Off.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—A committee of stone cutters have waited on the bosses and notified the latter that the men had declared the strike off. This means that the men go back on worse terms and work 48 hours instead of 44 per week. Non-union men will not be discharged to make places for the strikers. The year is to begin March 1.

Had Four Sets of Twins.

BOON, Mich., Aug. 13.—Ten years ago Mrs. W. M. Smith made her husband happy by giving birth to twins. Eight years ago she repeated the operation, and three years ago again astonished him by bearing two more lusty babies. But the great surprise came yesterday, when she gave birth to her fourth twins. The eight children are all healthy and well.

Uneasiness as to Silver.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The financial article in the "Pall Mall Gazette" says that there is an acute feeling of uneasiness at the outlook for silver. The weakness, it says, is due to the expectation that certainly next year, if not before, the United States will repeal or modify the Silver act of 1890. The depression may have a sinister influence on stocks.

Boiler Makers Discharged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Thirty-eight boiler makers and riveters at Cramps' shipyard, who struck because of the employment of a non-union riveter, have been discharged. One hundred and fifty men are employed in the boiler shops. The firm does not anticipate further trouble as applicants for the positions are numerous.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEW YORK'S HEATED TERM.

Not Much Sickness, However, on Account of the Big Exodus.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The Health Department reports far less sickness in this city, even among the poorer classes, than would naturally be expected in consequence of the sultry weather of the past few weeks. One of the doctors gave as a reason for this the unusual facilities offered the people to go to the country for a short period.

There are several Fresh Air Societies in the city, supplied with funds by charitably inclined people, to aid those who cannot afford the expense of a trip from the city, and the cheap excursions arranged by some of the railroads make it an easy matter for people even of moderate means to enjoy a few days of pure country air.

The Health Department declares that the exodus from this city this year is greater than ever before, and from talk with storekeepers and railroad officials this assertion is confirmed. One of the Erie railroad officials said that their summer traffic this season beat anything the road had ever experienced. Especially was this so with travel to near-by summer houses. He gave as a reason for this the reduced rates of fare, the extra facilities for accommodating the travellers, and the cheap boarding places along their line.

The list of monthly commuters, he said, was steadily increasing; and this, he thought, was a good indication that people of modest means were taking advantage of cheap rents and easy terms offered to purchasers of homes at the beautiful little suburban towns, to live outside the great metropolis.

SET HIS FATHER ON FIRE.

CARMICHAELS, Pa., Aug. 13.—Additional particulars of the terrible tragedy near this place state that after young Morgan had exhausted the supply of cartridges in his two revolvers, he crawled into the loft where his father lay unconscious, collected some paper and rags, piled them near his father and set them on fire. He then returned to the house and said to his sisters: "I have finished him now."

The father gained consciousness and extinguished the fire with his hands, which were burned almost to crisp.

Young Morgan locked himself in his room, where he remained until this morning. After visiting his dying father and sister at the home of his uncle, Daniel Stevenson, he begged his father's pardon, and then surrendered himself to Sheriff Moore of Waynesburg.

Drs. Laidley, the attending physicians, report Mr. Morgan to be in a sinking condition while Miss Callie Morgan is no worse, not having reached the crisis or reaction. The father was able to pardon the crime of his son, and expressed a wish that he should not be arrested.

COTTON CROP PROMISES WELL.

Texas Will Raise the Greatest Corn Crop Known in That State for Years.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—The recent rains along the cotton belt have increased the crop prospects materially. It is believed that the Texas growers will harvest more than the average yield. Louisiana planters, however, will not do so well as was first expected.

South Carolina crops promise well, and those in Mississippi and Alabama are holding their own.

The Arkansas yield will not be over 60 per cent. of last year's product, although the replanted fields are said to be doing well.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 13.—Recent rains through Mexico enhance the prospects of fine crops in that republic, and the importation of American corn will soon be discontinued. Never in the history of Texas has she raised such a large corn crop.

Knights of S. F. & L. All Right.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The examiners of the State Insurance Department have filed with Supt. Pierce the result of their investigation of the charges preferred by C. P. Meade against the present management of the Knights of Sobriety, Fidelity and Integrity, of Syracuse. The report shows the company's assets, which consist of cash in the bank and mortgage investments, amount to $47,474. The liabilities amount to $640 for unpaid sick benefits. The reserve fund amounts to $46,778.

McCreery Confers With Foster.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Consul McCreery was in conference with the Secretary of State for a short while during the morning, presumably in relation to the charges made against him of misconduct during the Chilean trouble. It is understood, however, that nothing will be done in the matter until after the Secretary's return from Deer Park. If an investigation is decided on, Secretary Foster will probably conduct it himself.

A Long-Lost Art Discovered.

QUEBEC, Aug. 13.—Local scientists say that one of the most wonderful discoveries of recent years is that made by a poor blacksmith of this city, named Ferdinand Allard. It is the long lost art known to the pyramid builders of Egypt, of hardening copper. Axes and other edged tools made of hardened copper have been exhibited by him, which in edge and temper rival the best steel of the present.

Drowned in the Surf.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—Samuel Reed, a produce dealer living on Moor street, Philadelphia, was drowned in the surf at the foot of Arkansas avenue. He swam 300 yards from shore, when he threw up his hands and called for assistance. Reed was still alive when brought to the shore, but every effort to resuscitate him was without avail.

EACH CLAIMS VICTORY.

The Strikers Confident and Mill Officials Jubilant.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 13.—"We are away on top," said Supt. Potter to-day. "Nearly every department is now running double turn, and that part of the mill now idle will be put in operation next week. The strikers say we are not turning out good work, but they don't know what they are talking about, and the sooner they realize that they are whipped the better for them.

"The threatened boycott will not affect us in the least. The boycott is always the last resort of whipped men. The 40-inch beam mill was started this morning and everything is running smoothly, and the success of the morning greatly surprised me."

The new town being built within the fence is looming up. Quite a number of houses are nearing completion and will be occupied by families of non-union men next week. The locked-out men claim to be in better shape to-day than at any time since the present trouble began.

"We've got the company whipped," said Chairman Crawford. "The Carnegie officials are simply indulging in a series of bluffs. They know we have the best of them and are playing a desperate game. The people of this country are with us and we are going to win. We have the company on the hip and we are going to keep them there. The fight is ours. The company will soon tire of its present attitude."

NO BOYCOTT AT PRESENT.

Reasons Why the American Federation Will Not Institute One.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 13.—The Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor after a conference with the Homestead Advisory Committee and the officials of the Amalgamated Association, gave out the following:

"After a thorough investigation and review of the situation in Homestead and the other Carnegie mills, and after a conference with President Weihe and other officials of the Amalgamated Association and on consultation with the Advisory Board of the Homestead men, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor do not deem it necessary at present to issue any general boycott on the Carnegie products for these reasons:

"The amount of work now turned out in the Carnegie mills is of such a trifling, inconsequential character, that it would be sheer waste of effort to issue a boycott. Added to this, the quality and small amount of the product turned out is so inferior it is hardly marketable, and will result in a greater loss of trade to the Carnegies than would come from any boycott we might now impose. In fact, the unmarketable character and small amount of work done is an efficient boycott against the Carnegie Company itself."

Striker Clifford Released.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 13. — Judge Ewing has granted the application presented for the release of Jack Clifford, one of the Homestead rioters who was charged with murder and aggravated riot. Clifford was arrested Thursday and sent to jail, being charged with two counts of murder and one for aggravated riot, preferred by Secretary Lovejoy of the Carnegie Company. It was alleged that he was implicated in the killing of Wain and Connors July 6 at the Homestead riot.

A TOWN OVER A FURNACE.

Fire in Abandoned Mine Workings Beneath Mayfield, Pa.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 13.—Fire has again broken out in the abandoned workings of No 2 mine at Carbondale, after several weeks of flooding which, it was believed, had extinguished the flames.

The workings extend under a large surface area between that city and Jermyn, and unless soon suppressed will work incalculable damage to the town of Mayfield, which is built directly over them.

Mine Foreman Waterfield has turned additional streams into the seething underground furnace, and these will be kept up until the flames are completely put out.

The mine connects with other workings, and to prevent the latter being flooded, solid masonry walls will be erected between them.

Indorsing Buchanan for Re-nomination.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 13.—Friends of Gov. John P. Buchanan have sent out a secret circular, in which it is urged that, "In view of the unprecedented and proscriptive course pursued by a few men now manipulating the so-called Democratic party of Tennessee," a meeting be called at once to indorse the Governor's re-election. The opinion is freely expressed that the Governor has committed political suicide by commuting the death sentence of Col. King.

The Great Shoot at Sea Girt, N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—Arrangements have been nearly completed for the annual rifle meeting of the New Jersey State Rifle Association to be held at Sea Girt, from Sept. 5 to 10 inclusive. The meeting promises to be one of the best ever held in this country, and at least five teams will take part in the inter-State and Hilton trophy matches, both of which were formerly held at Creedmoor.

Wood Novelty Mills Burned.

FARMINGTON Me., Aug. 13.—The wood novelty manufacturing plant of Russell Brothers and Estes Company here was burned during the morning with the contents of the mills and much lumber. Loss about $35,000; insurance $16,500. About 100 men and girls are thrown out of employment. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is stated that the mills will be immediately rebuilt.

A BATTLE AT BOLIVAR

The Venezuelan City Taken and Hundreds Killed.

CRESPIST TROOPS ARE VICTORIOUS.

Great Valor Displayed on Both Sides—Only When Three of Their Generals Had Been Shot Did the Government Troops Give Way.

TRINIDAD, W. I., Aug. 13.—News has reached here that the city of Bolivar has fallen into the hands of the Legalistas after a desperate and bloody battle.

The Legalistas, some 4,000 strong, were under command of Generals Hernandez and Gil.

They appeared before the city in the morning and demanded of the commander of the government forces that he surrender. The reply was a prompt refusal.

This precipitated the engagement. Hernandez and Gil at the head of their forces advanced on the position of the government troops and attacked in the face of murderous fire. The attack was made with desperate courage and was resisted with equal vigor.

For a time the decision was in the balance, but numbers told at last, and the Governmentals gave back slowly, contesting every inch of ground.

It was not until Generals Carrera, Acosta and Laudaita had been killed at the head of their troops that the Governmentals broke and retired from the field in disorder, leaving on the field nearly 500 men dead.

The Legalistas, while they lost no general officers, suffered fully as much as the Governmentals, losing almost 500 men.

TWO ARE DEAD.

The Fatalities in the Ogden, N. J., Disaster May Reach seven.

OGDEN, N. J., Aug. 13.—Of the thirty men taken out of the ruins of the building of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Ore Concentration Company, which fell yesterday, two are dead, and five are fatally injured. Several of the others, it is feared, will also die.

The accident occurred by the sudden giving away of a derrick, causing the entire structure of massive wooden beams and timbers to collapse. But few of the workmen employed on the building escaped. One hundred men employed in other factories stopped work and the search for the bodies under the wreck of the collapsed building was immediately begun.

The first victim taken out was an Italian workman. The man was dead and his body was terribly mangled. Soon after three others were discovered and were removed in a dying condition. Medical assistance had been sent for to Dover Dover, fifteen miles away, but it took several hours for the physicians to arrive.

The injuries of those taken from the ruins were of the most terrible nature, the limbs of some being torn off, while the faces and bodies of others were crushed almost beyond recognition.

The collapsed building was being erected by the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Ore Concentration Company, whose office is in New York. The company was established two years ago by another company which used Edison's magnetic ore separator. The plant of the new company was set up in this place to work the abandoned ore mines.

It was to increase the facilities of the company that the new building was being erected. There was some 30 men to work on the structure, and the work had reached that stage necessitating the raising of the frame, when the derrick broke, and without a moment's warning the building collapsed.

When the accident occurred, T. A. Edison was at the plant looking after the details of the work. He deeply deplores the accident and a most rigid investigation as to its cause will be made.

WEDDING GUESTS POISONED.

Fifty Detroiters Who Will Avoid Chicken Salad Hereafter.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 13.—At the residence of Mrs. Everett Palmer, eight miles from this city, a wedding feast was given two nights ago, and all of the fifty guests from this city were made violently ill by a chicken salad. The few who did not eat the salad escaped. All were attacked with violent cramps, vomiting and spasms, the knees of some were drawn up to the chin and death seemed inevitable.

Many were attacked in their carriages on their way home and the bride and bridegroom were taken ill on the dock as they were about to board the steamer for Cleveland. They were removed to a hotel and a doctor was summoned. Thinking they were dying, the young couple bade each other an affectionate goodby.

No one died, however. The pain lasted about three hours.

The Claims of Biggin's Relatives.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The two brothers and the sister of Boatswain's Mate Charles W. Biggin, who was killed at Valparaiso, expect to get a large share of the $75,000 damages paid by the Chilian government. This sum is now in the hands of the State Department at Washington and steps are being taken to determine in what proportion the distribution of the money will be made. The claims of Biggin's relatives are being vigorously pushed by W. W. Ker, attorney for the family, who will also deliver the eulogy at the sailor's funeral.

Will Not be Made Cardinal.

ROME, Aug. 13.—Mgr. Galimberttie, the Papal Nuncio at Vienna, who is about to be recalled, will not be promoted to the Cardinalate. The Nuncio is supposed to be the cause of the ill feeling which has characterized the recent relations between Austria and the Vatican, and he has fallen into disfavor.

The Girls Wanted Fresh Air.

SCRANTON, Pa. Aug. 13.—Twenty-eight girls employed as winders in the East Stroudsburg silk mill have caused a stoppage of work by the 200 operatives. They struck against working with the windows closed upon warm days.

Killed by the Cars.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 13. — Timothy Harrington, an engineer on a Lehigh Valley train, was thrown from his seat on the train by the sudden bumping of some freight cars, and falling on the track was run over by a passing locomotive and instantly killed.

CAPT. REDFORD'S SUSPENSION.

The Liverpool Marine Association Thinks It Was Too Severe.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 13.—The Council of the Liverpool Marine Service Association has written a letter to Capt. Redford, late commander of the Inman line steamship City of Chicago, which was wrecked near the Old Head off Kinsale, on the south coast of Ireland, disapproving the decision of the Court of Inquiry which suspended Capt. Redford's certificate for nine months.

The Council announces that it intends to take measures to settle the right of shipmasters to find employment in a lower grade when their certificates are dealt with by the Board of Trade.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Oh for a public watering place for horses in this philanthropic city!

—The machinists had ten cars crowded with passengers on their excursion to Rockaway this morning.

—There will be a salvation jubilee and ice-cream festival given by the Salvation Army, in their headquarters, next Thursday evening.

—Bicyclists in search of a headlight oil that does n't smoke or smell, should try that of Marsh, Ayres & Co., who also sell a fine lubricating oil.

—Dr. Estebrooke will remain at the City Hotel over to-morrow to accommodate a number of patients who are only in town during Sunday.

—The Plainfield public schools will re-open Tuesday, September 6, under the supervision of Prof. Henry W. Maxson, the new superintendent.

—A nine from Franklin council, No. 41, of this city, are crossing bats with a nine from William G. Holton council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Dunellen, on the Crescent League grounds, this afternoon.

—Miller Bros. are to be congratulated on the improvements they are making at Hotel Grenada. The front office is being cut off from full view of the staircase, so as to give privacy to those going up to the dining room or to their apartments, and various other conveniences are being introduced. The Grenada is becoming a model house.

—Dr. Edward Rushmore got a severe shock from an electrified letter-box, during the storm of Thursday night. He attempted to mail a letter in a box attached to an electric-light pole. The insulation seemed to be imperfect, and the current ran through the pole so that the box was heavily charged.

—Some unfeeling wag found Brown & Hill's barber-shop temporarily closed yesterday noon, and pinned on the door a paper bearing the inscription: "Closed on account of the death of Mr. Green". A number of people took the affair seriously, and went about town expressing their sorrow at the sudden decease of so genial and popular a companion.

—A vagrant annoyed the residents of Grove street last night by maudlin and disorderly conduct. Sergeant Lynch got after him from this side of the brook, and marshal Pangborn from the other. Between the two of them he was captured and locked up after a struggle. Magistrate Crosley sent him to Somerville to rest awhile. The prisoner said that a woman who had been keeping him company during the evening had robbed him of all his money; but $15 was found in his inside pocket which had escaped her clutches.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham will preach in the Congregational church to-morrow.

Mme. and Mlle. Getti of East Front street, are at Horton's Point, Southold, for a few days.

Miss Carrie Seager of Westfield is visiting her friend, Mrs. R. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street.

The Rev. Carlos Martyn, a most gifted divine, will preach again at the Trinity Reformed church to-morrow.

Mrs. P. F. Flannelly, of Carbondale, Pa., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. J. A. Moore, of 25 West Fourth street.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Voehl are congratulating them to-day upon the accession to their family of a bouncing boy baby.

Mrs. Andrew Lutkins and Mrs. L. A. Hummer and son Louis, are enjoying the cool breezes and summer pleasures of Gladstone, Somerset county.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle, formerly pastor of the Plainfield M. E. church, and now of Baltimore, will preach in the Crescent Avenue church to-morrow.

Richard D. Pawson, stone cutter, died at his residence on Grove street yesterday, at the age of 45 years. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2.

Mrs. Lorton McDermitt and children, of Orange Valley, are spending a few weeks with the Misses Searing of Madison avenue. Mrs. McDermitt was formerly Miss May Pennington of this city.

The Democrats of Springfield, will next Thursday evening unfurl to the breeze a handsome Cleveland and Stevenson banner. Among the prominent speakers who will address the assemblage on the occasion will be James E. Martine, esq., of this city.

Adam Bardash, of the well-known firm of P. J. Willis & Bro., Galveston, returns home this evening after an enjoyable stay East during part of which he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Ross of East Sixth street. Although during these trips which Mr. Bardash annually makes, he is deeply absorbed in business cares and details, he is never deaf to even charity's faintest whisper. In the New York World of the other evening, Adam Bardash's name led all the rest as a contributor to the Sick Babies' Fund.

HARKINS WILL TAKE A HAND.

And the Whole Somerville Team starts Off on a Strike for the Pennant.

THE PRESS is told on good authority that Harkins will oppose Sharrott in the points during the West End-Westfield game this afternoon at Somerville. Harkins said to a PRESS representative, during the Crescent game last Saturday that he was in good form and could pitch the game of his life. He would have gone in against Plainfield last Saturday, had he not been injured early in the game. Field will probably play first base, Carlin right field, while Anderson and Miller will remain on the bench in case they are wanted. Thus manager Mack has strengthened his team both in batting and fielding.

The West Ends will now make a grand strike for the pennant, and with John Harkins in shape stand a very good show of getting it. It is now plain to be seen why Harkins has not done any twirling during the League season. Manager Mack has been taking good care of his star pitcher in order to have him in perfect condition for the wind up. You can depend upon Harkins doing his level best for the West Enders. He has won so many games for them in the past three years that he will not allow anything to prevent his doing it again.

New York's Most Artistic Photographer, a Plainfielder.

There is a studio on Fifth avenue, just below Twenty-eighth street, adjoining the residence of Mrs. Paran Stevens, at the door of which stands a big case filled with photographs. There is always a crowd before this case. In all the collection there is not one picture which resembles in any way the conventional photograph to which we are so wearily accustomed. The attitudes are such as the average photographer would recoil from with horror, but they are so natural, graceful and easy that every one wonders why they have never thought of this or that pose before. It is worth going a block or so out of one's way to enjoy a sight of them.

The foregoing item, from the New York Press, refers to the New York studio of Charles H. Davis, the artist, who lives on East Ninth street in this city. Mr. Davis's beautiful photographs are well known here through his contributions to the Plainfield Camera club's exhibitions. Mr. Davis was the prime mover in the organization of the club several years ago, long before he ever had any idea of producing pictures professionally by the camera; but he has since become, in company with his partner, E. Starr Sanford, the most successful and artistic of photographers in the metropolis.

That North Plainfield Railway of Which THE PRESS Told.

[From a Pittsburg Exchange.]

A novel street railroad system is soon to connect North Plainfield, N. J., with the electric street railway of Plainfield, N. J. The rails on which the cars of the new system will travel will be hollow and connected with an air compressor at the power station. The air within the rails will be kept under a constant pressure of 2,000 pounds to the square inch. All along the rails will be valves, eight to each circumference of the wheels, which will fit protuberances on the wheels which open the valves as the car passes, and the compressed air within the rails will be brought to act on the periphery of the wheels just back of the point of contact. This, the inventer claims, will give the wheels a strong rotary motion. Already rights of way through the principal streets have been secured, and the road is to be in operation by October 1.

BY THE WAY.

—The North Plainfield fire whistle has been condemned, and a new one ordered on trial.

—There is a special sale of mixed candy, 10 cents a pound, at Tier's, 16 Park avenue, to-day.

—The finest line of luscious melons, fresh, crisp vegetables, juicy fruits and selected canned goods, in this city, can be found at Dunn's, the star grocery, 18 North avenue.

—James Powers told judge Codington last evening that Peter Galbraith had been annoying him and other inmates of the poor-house. The court heard the evidence and reserved decision.

MR. M'GEE SAYS NO.

North Plainfield's Standard-Oil Representative Has n't Heard of the Scheme.

There is a rumor that a "new pipe-line oil company" is being organized by oil-producers of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, who are said to have subscribed $12,000,000 to lay four pipes from Bradford, Penn., to Newburg on the Hudson, a distance of 219 miles. Even the rumor admits, however, that only $60,000 has actually been paid in although it is maintained by some who have been concerned in circulating the rumor that one cipher has inadvertently been omitted from the figures, which should be $600,000 instead of one-tenth of that sum.

Inquiry in New York city has so far failed to develop any basis in fact for the rumored enterprise, although a large number of "oil men" have heard of it and many of them seem to have confidence in its reality. None, however, could furnish a clue by which the report could be corroborated. One of the most confident of the references was to Eugene Pitou, who was said to be the syndicate's representative in New York city. Mr. Pitou, however, proved to be the agent in New York of the Crescent Pipe-Line Oil company, a concern over a year old and already fully made known to the public through the newspapers. But Mr. Pitou had heard of the "new line", and was even able to tell who was managing this end of the enterprise. It was Mr. King, of the Columbia Oil company, 18 Broadway. "I have no connection whatever with the 'new line'" was Mr. King's disclaimer.

Information was then sought from the Standard Oil company, which usually has as early news as anybody about the rise of a rival. The treasurer, Mr. Wardwell, said that he was unable to communicate details concerning the new line, but suggested that the reporter inquire of James McGee, of North Plainfield, who is president of one of the subsidiary companies which make up the Standard. Mr. McGee said:

"Yes, I have heard of the new pipe-line, but then I have heard of so many that the hearing of one nowadays does n't impress me very seriously. There are always half-a-dozen or so under way—in the air; but that's all—they do n't materialize. Of course I 'm not saying that the particular one in the air now may not solidify into actuality; but if there are any proofs that this will be its course, they are unknown to me."

L. H. Smith, of 18 Broadway, who was for twenty-five years engaged in oil producing and speculating, said he had heard of a "new line", but could give no trustworthy information. He was inclined not to credit the report. "I do n't see how they could expect to make the scheme pay"—he said.—"It is all the Standard can do to compete with the Russian oil. Prices are way down now, and, with the Russian oil still pouring into the markets of the world, they are likely to go still lower. The new company would hardly stand much chance."

The nearest approximation to details was the statement that "a Mr. Mellen of Pittsburgh" was the chief promoter of the enterprise, and that the new company had been, or would be, christened the "United States Pipe-line Oil company"; but this was imparted by the informant who had erroneously named Eugene Pitou as the agent of the "new line".

What it Is For.

Country Child (who sees no novelty in a park)—What is all this grass for?

City Child—That is to keep off of.—Good News.

A MIDDLEWEIGHT.

—Puck.

What He Regretted.

Willie Snively (sympathizing with the victim of an exploded toy cannon)—Poor Sammy! the doctor cut off two of your fingers and spoiled your fourth, didn't he?

Sammy Snodgrass—Yes. I wouldn't have minded that; but after the doctor was gone pop wouldn't let me shoot any more, and it was only four o'clock, too.—Judge.

Hard to Tell.

"Papa," asked Brownie, who has a way of putting questions that are hard to answer, "is goose feathers softer than straw?"

"Oh my, yes! A feather bed is much better than a straw one," said papa.

"Then why ain't gooseberries better than strawberries?" asked Brownie.—Harper's Young People.

Gaining Time.

Photographer—You've spoiled about a dozen plates by moving. I don't see why you can't keep quiet half a second.

Boy—Don't wanter.

"Why not?"

"'Cause after you get through, with me mom is goin' ter take me to a dentist's ter have a tooth pulled."—Good News.

All ages, and all conditions of womanhood will find just the help that woman needs, in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That's a matter that's guaranteed. If it can't be done, then the medicine costs you nothing—its makers don't want your money.

Get it, if you're a tired or suffering woman, and get well. It builds up and invigorates the entire system, regulates and promotes the proper functions, and restores health and strength. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results.

For all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

You pay only for the good you get. Can you ask more?

IN HOT WEATHER,

When people grow irritable even to the point of breaking out with Prickly Heat, it is plain that something is needed to calm the nerves and tone the system. BEEF, WINE AND IRON WITH CELERY is just the thing—a harmless sedative and tonic. Moreover, if taken at bedtime it conduces to healthy, refreshing sleep. Originated and sold only at Arrested Before Dawn.

Marshal Pangborn of North Plainfield, was called between 4 and 5 this morning to arrest a drunken man on Grove street, near Greenbrook road. He and a woman companion took up their abode there early in the evening and had as a third party in their enjoyment a bottle of whiskey. The man became so drunk that the neighbors called the marshal out to arrest him.

Free Band Concerts.

At the next meeting of the Plainfield common council, councilman Frazee will introduce a resolution for a permit to erect a band stand in the city park, to be occupied by Guttman's Plainfield Cornet band in giving free concerts to the people. Mayor Gilbert will head the subscription list to support the enterprise.

VAIN BABBLINGS OF THE ENEMY.

Somerville Says Caustic Things of Plainfield's Base-Ball Playing.

(Harkinstown Democrat.)

Because the Crescents won their first game from the West Ends last Saturday there is great rejoicing in Pinchgut.

Jocko Fields played last Saturday, but his record was not a brilliant one. The West Ends might do better for a right fielder.

Plainfield has a "Royal Blue Line" of electric cars. Next they will have vestibule trains of hacks for the Crescent ball grounds.

It is said that Murphy, the left fielder of the Crescents, is to play at Middletown. We hope that this is so, not because we are afraid of his batting abilities, but because he is a dirty ball player. He would rather run into or spike a man than not.

"Georgie Cadmus, although on the wrong side, is playing the game of his life to the delight of his friends." So says the Plainfield Press. Cadmus was not good enough to play with the Crescents at the beginning of the season, but now they wish they had him.

The Plainfield Press had a great deal to say in the account of Saturday's game about Mr. Frazee's cornet. It seems to us about as simple to blow a cornet at a good or bad play as to play one of them nameless articles which were used on the West End grounds last year. It looks childish. We don't know Mr. Frazee, but we venture this advice to him—keep your cornet home and save your credit among respectable patrons of the game.

Do the Crescents think that they have a cinch on the pennant? Do they think they can break even with the West Ends on the six games? Do they think they are invincible? Do they think they are "the people"? To all the questions we answer yes. But hold on; there is a game or two to be played yet, and that may change the standing of the clubs somewhat. Not only have the Crescents to win the other two games with the West Ends, and beat Elizabeth and Westfield, but they have got to keep right on winning before they can get the pennant. Westfield is coming up strong, and it might be that when the Crescents run up against them the next time they may be downed. There is one satisfaction to the ardent West Ender, however, the Crescents cannot do more than tie on the series with the West Ends, and it is in the air that the home club will win the next two. And then where will the Crescents be—like McGinty.

Jack Banner's Clam-Bake.

"Mannion wins!" So announced the referee of the match games between Charles F. Courtney of Westfield, and John Mannion, of Greenbrook. A clam-bake was held on the grounds of the Fanwood road house yesterday afternoon, and was a decided success, many Plainfield people partaking of the succulent bivalves, which with green corn, lobsters, blue-fish and chowder, were pronounced by a prominent Plainfield counselor completely out of sight. After the bake, a game of quoits was played between the men mentioned. The rules were: Best two out of three, 21 points per game. $25 a side. The winner, Mr. Mannion, won two straight games by the remarkably close score of 21 to 20 in each game. Mr. Courtney immediately challenged the victor to another game Friday next, to be played at Greenbrook for the same stakes, and the money was at once posted with Mr. Banner. Col. Moore, the referee of yesterday's games, will again officiate in that capacity Friday. Carriages were called at dusk, and all left for their respective homes, well pleased with the day's sport.

Repairs for the County Roads.

[Elizabeth Herald.]

Union county is justly proud of its elegant system of county roads, but now that it has these roads it will not do to sit quietly and suppose they will take care of themselves. The roads are rapidly falling into disrepair, and largely from the need of top dressing. The dressing which was put on when the roads were built has worn off, and should be replaced at once, because the larger stones are now in sight, and every time they are hit by a horse's hoof they are loosened and in time will work out. This can be prevented if taken in time. The amount allowed each township, $150, is totally inadequate to do what is required, and steps should be taken by the board of freeholders to have this amount largely increased. Do not let the roads fall into bad condition and thus turn our pride into disgrace.

Somerville and Bound Brook In Darkness.

For the last three nights Somerset county has been visited with the heaviest showers known there in years. The excessive heat of the days have made them nearly unbearable and the showers brought grateful relief to all.

Wednesday evening three barns near Somerville were struck by lightning and burned to the ground, while on Thursday evening the electrical fluid played havoc with the telegraph and light wires—the town being plunged in total darkness. In Bound Brook the electric light plant was also disabled, and a house on Union avenue was struck. At 10 on Thursday evening, Bound Brook looked as if it had gone back to primitive days. In front of Force's Hotel a lantern tied to the lamp-post emitted a ray of light to help one across the street. Besides that not another light appeared on the main street.

Ovid Heard From.

Tempore quaeque suo qui facit, ille sapit. That was a slang way Ovid had of saying, "that man is wise who does everything at its proper time". The proper time for you to have your eyes examined is now, and the place to have it satisfactorily done is Collier's, 3 Park avenue.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

"I think this one is very pretty, mamma."

About Imported Cigars.

"I like your imported Havana cigars very much, but you must let me have them a little cheaper," said a Texas tobacconist to a drummer of a New York tobacco firm.

"We can't do it. I am offering you these imported Havana cigars at the same figures that we have to pay the firm that manufactures them, and they bought their Connecticut tobacco when it was cheaper than it is now."—Texas Siftings.

Complimentary.

Rev. Mr. Dragley (who had had a stranger occupy his pulpit the day before)—Well, Mrs. Dobbins, how did you like the sermon yesterday?

Mrs. D.—Well, sir, to tell the truth, it was too plain and simple to suit me. I like best them sermons as jumble up the judgment and confound the sense. Oh, sir, there's no one comes up to you for them.—Brooklyn Life.

An Unkind Reply.

Wife—You may bless your stars for the way I mend and care for your clothing. What in the world would you do without me?

Husband—If I didn't have to pay your millinery bills I could spend that money on new clothes for myself, and then I wouldn't have to wear patched clothes at all.—Texas Siftings.

Interest in the Makeup of the New Ministry.

ROSEBERRY AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Gladstone to See the Queen on Monday—Sir Charles Russell Will Probably be Attorney-General — How Morley's Office Will be Made Uncomfortable.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The greatest interest is exhibited in the formation of the new Cabinet. It is believed that Sir Charles Russell will elect to be Attorney-General again, and it is now admitted on all sides that Lord Rosebery will take charge of foreign affairs. Sir William Vernon Harcourt will probably be Chancellor. It is believed that the Hon. Edward Blake will receive some recognition, provided his inclinations and pledges do not stand in the way. Mr. Blake's colonial experience would make his assistance valuable in framing a Home Rule bill, as well as on important questions relating to the colonies. Labor will probably be placated with some recognition.

Mr. Gladstone would doubtless have preferred Mr. Broadhurst, but as that gentleman fell outside the breastworks a selection will have to be made from some of the other labor members. The Liberal lords, will, of course, be represented, although Mr. Gladstone has lost two valuable associates in Lord Granville and Lord Dalhousie, both members of Mr. Gladstone's last administration, and both now dead. Lord Carrington, Lord Brassey and Lord Houghton are all mentioned in connection with the new Cabinet.

The Irish members naturally feel the deepest interest in the Irish Chief Secretaryship, for which Mr. John Morley is booked, and the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists do not conceal their satisfaction at contemplating the task which Mr. Morley has in store. Liberal leaders do not hesitate to express the opinion that the Tories are planning to make Mr. Morley's office as uncomfortable as possible, and that there is a deep design in planting a regiment of constabulary at Tipperary, just at this time. The place is quiet, and there is neither complaint or outrage.

It is believed that Smith-Barry, who has been re-elected to Parliament, and is on the closest terms with Balfour and other Tory leaders will, soon after Morley takes office, begin enforcing his legal rights in an irritating manner, at Tipperary, and call upon the authorities to sustain him. If with a regiment of police at New Tipperary, Morley should refuse to sustain the enforcement of the law, then a clamor would be raised that the Liberals were in sympathy with Anarchy, and hostile to law and order in Ireland. It is expected that, at the best, Mr. Morley's position will be embarrassing.

Mr. Gladstone will go to Osborne on Monday in deference to the Queen's command for him to form a Cabinet.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The "Telegraph" says: "It is understood that Lord Rosebery will not be a member of Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet.

NEW YORK NAVAL REVIEW.

It Will Be the Most Imposing the Country Has Ever Seen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Under the act of Congress authorizing the President to invite foreign naval powers to participate in the naval review to be held in New York harbor next April, the State Department has issued invitations in the name of the President to the naval powers of the world.

The Navy Department will soon take up the plan and scope of the proposed review, and begin preparations to make the rendezvous the most imposing the country has ever witnessed.

It is expected prompt acceptance by foreign powers will be received and that the finest and most modern ships of war will be sent to take part in the pageant.

It is quite certain that every ship of modern construction in our navy that can possibly be spared from service abroad will be ordered home to rendezvous in Hampton roads preparatory to proceeding to New York, and it is fully expected that the review will equal, if not exceed, any concentration of war vessels the world has ever seen.

Waylaid, Robbed and Shot.

NEWARK, N. Y., Aug. 13.—James Gunn, aged 32 years, who is stopping at Farmer Chester Burleigh's house, two miles northeast of here, was waylaid, shot and robbed during the night on the highway while returning home on foot. Two men who alighted from a buggy ordered him to throw up his hands and deliver his money. He hesitated, whereupon he was thrown to the ground and robbed of $15. The robbers afterwards fired three shots at him, one of which took effect in the leg, badly wounding him. The police are after the robbers.

Had Been Hanging Seven Weeks.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The body of Charles Johnson, which was found hanging by a rope from a tree in the Elliott settlement, presented a horrible spectacle, the crows having eaten all the flesh from the face and hands. Seven weeks ago Johnson returned home after a long absence. His wife refused to live with him, whereupon he left town, telling his son George that the next time he heard of him he would be dead. Nothing was heard from him until last night, when his body was found.

An Eight-Hour Day Dilemma.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The District Commissioners are perplexed as to the scope of the new eight hour law. They have secured an opinion from the District Attorney which exempts a number of District employes from the operations of the law, but the labor element insists that the construction is wrong, and as heavy penalties are provided by Government officers who fail to observe the law the Commissioners are in a dilemma.

Will Judge Gresham Speak?

Boston, Aug. 13.—No verification of the report that Judge Gresham will speak for Gen. Weaver during the campaign can be made here, Judge Gresham having gone to Cap Cod. His exact present whereabouts cannot be ascertained. He left word that he would not return till the last of the month.

Things Worth Remembering.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When the fit of inpigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night, for a week or ten days, will act as a preventative of either complaint.

STORY OF AN OLD SHOE.

Once It Was Worn by a Lady of the White House.

The Quaint Foot-Gear Which Must Have Tortured the Toes of Anna Harrison, the Great-Grandmother of Baby McKee.

Only a quaint little leather shoe, worn smooth and shiny, and almost as hard and solid as wood from a century's keeping lain away with other precious relics.

It is so stiff and unyielding a mother of to-day would shudder to squeeze little, rosy toes and a dimpled foot into such a heavy, clumsy shoe.

One fancies the horror of the mother and nurse of "Baby McKee," for instance, at the mere thought of putting those little feet into close confinement in so solid and unornamental a specimen of foot-gear as this. Yet, writes Annie Reese Aldrich in the Ladies' Home Journal, it was no less a person than the great-grandmother of the darling of the white house, Anna Harrison, the wife of the brave general, whose little feet took their first steps in these tiny sabots, one of which is pictured here. They were evidently made to last. You can imagine half a dozen generations of babies learning to walk in the same pair, and even then the thick soles and the uncompromising brown "uppers" would hardly be the worse for wear. None of your dainty, modern knitted boots, or soft kid shoes, as pliable as a suede glove, lest it should, perchance, press roughly on the tender flesh; no little socks of tinted silk, or fleeciest lamb's wool for American babies of a hundred years or more past. These sturdy children of a sturdier race than to-day, even among the rich and well to do, wore, as a rule, such coarse, home-spun fabrics, such rough shoes and stockings as the little denizens of our city tenement houses now would look at with supreme scorn, and would probably refuse as a gift.

There is nothing that appeals more effectually to a tender, maternal fancy than a baby's worn shoes, the stubby toes, the heels run down, perhaps, at one side. The impression of the restless, shell-pink little feet that have learned to take their first cautious steps in it, or have trotted about all day long, bearing a very small, plump body into such mischief as it can find to do. When those little shoes are kicked off at night and lie with the socks by the side of the crib where the little wearer cuddles, warm and flushed in the gracious sleep of babyhood, how many a mother picks them up lovingly, with a sudden swelling of the heart and a warm impulse to wake the sleeper with a kiss. And ah, if those little feet should be destined never to tread the long, weary journey of life, if they are to stop while the path is only traveled a short, short way, while the sun has only just risen, and the dew is yet on every flower, ah, then, not even the little cradle, or the tiny, half-worn frocks, or the playthings that will never be used again, are such beloved relics to the mother's broken heart as the shoes that keep so well the very shape of the feet that they once held.

But these dear, clumsy little shoes belonged, as you know, to feet that did have the long journey to travel, and from letters, yellowed with age, in the writer's possession, we may know that the wearer lived a happy, simple life, rich in all womanly graces and virtues, conspicuous among which was the deep, wifely love and reverence they show for the brave, soldierly husband, who was, unhappily, scarcely to tread the floors of the white house as president ere death claimed him, and to whose grandson we now give the honor due to a chief magistrate of our country.

Do Married Folks Look Alike?

Whether you remember it just now or not, at some time, I doubt not, you have read long articles or short items on the curious theory advanced by some psychologists that married couples finally come to resemble each other. Some argue that it is because they are exposed to the same conditions in life others go further and say that the influences of minds react upon each other, which, in the case of man and wife, brings about a facial resemblance after years of close contact. The Photographic Society of Geneva, Switzerland, with a view of determining the truth or falsity of this psychological oddity, made, during 1891, photographs of seventy-eight couples. These were examined by experts in physiognomy, who decided that in twenty-four of the seventy-eight cases the facial resemblance of husband and wife was greater than that of brother and sister; in thirty cases it was equally as great, and in only twenty-four cases was there a total absence of resemblance.

An Old Debt.

The Marquis Hosokawa has been dunned for a debt contracted by his ancestor, Hosokawa Etchu-no-Kami, in the fifteenth year of Genroku, or 1702. Hosokawa Etchu-no-Kami borrowed 300 koban from his business agent, Oinuma Sanemori. The time for which the money was lent was not specified in the deed, but the Hosokawa family were held liable whenever payment might be demanded. The deed has been preserved by six generations of the Oinuma family, and has at last been presented for payment. Japanese law, however, will let the present marquis off.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION

Advice to the Girl Who Has Delayed Going Away Until Now.

Blazer and Bicycle and Mountain Suits—How to Cut a Practical Bicycle Skirt—A New Paris Gown and a Shot Silk.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The girl that hasn't yet bought her blazer suit, but has left it until she shall leave for the country or seaside, in August, is feeling very jubilant, for they can now be secured, and good ones at that, for a mere trifle. It is wonderful how the price of them has fallen, and the economical girl is sure to provide herself with one, if she has not done so already, for she will always look well in a neat dark blue blazer suit of good cut and fit, and a pretty Norfolk waist or shirt front. A good serge is a joy forever. There's no spoiling it, and with an ample supply of pretty waists one doesn't get tired of wearing it. There are a great many ways to make the waists, and the three patterns given may suggest some new idea in that line.

For a bicycle suit also, serges are very good. But they should be of a very heavy quality, or some breezy day the fair rider will be greatly distressed to find her skirt blowing up considerably as she rides in the face of the wind. Bicycle skirts, also, should not be made too scant. A scant skirt, after about half an hour's riding, works itself up over the knees in a very uncomfortable fashion. A good place to have it scant is at the back, and this allows also of a little more length there than would otherwise be permissible; and the longer your bicycle skirt is, the prettier it looks when you're riding. Have it quite full in front, and then, although it will not look pretty off the wheel, you will find it very comfortable and becoming when you are mounted. Flannel is a very bad material to use; it catches and tears very easily if by any possibility it is caught in the pedal, while a heavy serge won't be apt to.

Corduroy is a good material in a light weight; the heavy qualities don't hang over the knees gracefully. Gray or dust color is an excellent shade, for even on muddy days it looks neat, while a darker shade gets all splashed and untidy looking. For a bright, sunshiny day, however, dark blue or black is the ideal color, for a woman is always inclined to look much shorter and broader on a wheel than she actually is, and of course a light shade will only heighten this ugly effect.

Never wear any underskirts with your bicycle suit; they're inconvenient and embarrassing. Turkish trousers reaching a little below the knees, with pretty ruffles, are much more satisfactory. In summer light ones are delightfully cool, and in winter heavy ones worn over close-fitting underwear are warm enough for the coldest day one could ride.

Unfortunately, we can't have many pretty furbelows on our bicycle skirts. If we do, soonor or later we'll come to grief when they catch and wind us all up in the wheel, so that we have to be unwound or else cut loose. It isn't at all pleasant, either, to be thrown from your wheel when the aforesaid winding up begins, but it happens very often when a girl is rash enough to indulge in frills and ruffles. Every braid is a trifle dangerous, though it makes such an improvement in the suit that we often yield to the temptation of using it. Of course, in the matter of pretty waists and blazers we may indulge ourselves to any extent we please.

Mountain suits, also, are most suitable plain. Pretty dark brown and gray cheviots, neatly trimmed with a few rows of narrow soutache or silk cords leave nothing to be desired.

I saw a startling combination this morning of a blue blazer suit and a deep orange-colored silk waist with a very full plaiting down the front. The girl wore orange-colored suedes also and bright tan shoes.

Pique dresses are growing more and more popular. One sees them even on evening occasions worn by the swells, although organdies and fine mulls still hold their own. A pretty white serge won by a girl at Narragansett the other day had a very dark red vest and a wide soft belt of the same color, run, top and bottom, with three fine gold bands. At the bottom of the skirt was a band of the same color, similarly adorned with gold. On that same piazza rocked a lady clad in an old rose surah tea gown, cut low and round, and filled in with a yoke of delicately striped China silk in white and pale pink. Where the two joined was a wide ruche of old rose, and pink straps over the shoulders.

Here's a fantastic and unique gown for you, if you will be original. A shot silk of water green and brick color; skirt very slightly draped; two yards of pale green ribbon, arranged shell fashion; waist turned back in the very broadest square cut lapels possible, edged with green silk fringe; vest of Venetian lace over green ground; a bodice of lace that covers all the space left by the lapels; puffed sleeves to the elbows, and a tiny band of lace; gloves that wrinkle up to the elbows; a very broad brimmed hat.

News of another more startling has just come over from Paris. It consists of a pretty flowered foulard in white and faint greens, with a very deep lace ruffle all around the skirt and a bodice draped across in wide lace, with the high belt and an accordion-plaited guimpe. So far the dress is very mild and unassuming, but over it falls a redingote of rich, heavy silk of an extremely dark green, covering it altogether in the back, but stopping short before it closes in front, so as to display a little of the delicate silk gown. Over the redingote again falls a short pelerine, which is exceedingly full over the shoulders, and which is again covered with lace like the flounce. The redingote has no sleeves, but the elbow sleeves of the gown are puffed to the greatest extent allowable, so that the full folds of the redingote stand out well, and with her high rolling collar the dame who wears this gown designed especially for her looks as if she had just stepped from some old picture.

By the way, accordion plaiting is once more becoming the rage. We see it in dress trains, in yokes, in ruffles and in hat trimmings. It has not superseded tucks as yet, however, for they hold their own without any trouble.

EVA A. SCHUBERT.

Unnecessary Expense.

Among the many stories told of Nantucket by old residents and frequent visitors is one that, while it seems almost improbable, is nevertheless vouched for by unimpeachable authorities.

Some years ago a man in Nantucket was tried for petty larceny, and sentenced by the judge to three months in jail. A few days after the trial the judge, accompanied by the sheriff, was on his way to the Boston boat, when they passed a man who was busily sawing wood.

The sawyer stopped his work, touched his hat politely, and said: "Good morning, judge!"

The judge looked at him earnestly a moment, passed on a little way, and then turned to glance backward, saying to the sheriff:

"Why, isn't that the man I sentenced to three months in jail the other day?"

"Yes," replied the sheriff, with some hesitation; "yes, that is the man. But you—why, you see, judge—we—we don't happen to have anybody else in jail just now, and we thought 'twould be a sort of useless expense for us to hire somebody to keep the jail for three months just for this one man, so I gave him the jail key, and told him if he'd sleep there nights I guessed it would be all right."—Youth's Companion.

Ice Cream Delivering Machine.

An American company has struck the popular taste in London by the organization of a system of automatic machines on the penny-in-the-slot principle for the delivery of ice cream. This toothsome element of daily consumption in this country is not so commonly used in England, and the ability to obtain it at all hours at slight cost constitutes nothing short of a luxury to many classes of Londoners. The novelty of the machine lies in the combination of the pneumatic deliverer with an ice refrigerator, which is so effective that when the machine is full the supply of ices will, each ice being contained in a separate cardboard box, keep good for a whole week; that is to say, will not melt during that period. It is expected that not only will these machines be well patronized by the public, but by hotel and restaurant proprietors and confectioners, who will be fully alive to the advantages of having a supply of good, wholesome ice cream constantly on hand without any of the risks of damage or spoilage.—St. Louis Republic.

LOVE THAT NEVER DIES.

Claude—Pauline, we kin be happy if you love me. Wot's wealth? One soon runs through that, but love is everlastin'! —Life.

To Preserve the Balance.

Jiggs—I tell you, Coweby, you've got to brace up pretty soon, if you don't want to become a physical wreck.

Coweby — Aw—what is the — aw twouble?

Jiggs—You're getting lopsided. You ought to lead a mastiff, or a St. Bernard, or something, with one hand, to balance the weight of your cane in the other!—Truth.

Correct Diagnosis.

Dr. Emdee—Have you any vices?

Dudely—I smoke cigarettes.

Dr. Emdee—You have softening of the brain.

Dudely—Would cigarettes give me that?

Dr. Emdee—You wouldn't smoke cigarettes unless you had it.—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly

BUSINESS COLLEGE

—AND—

SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,

4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

THE MINERS DEFIANT

Determined to Put an End to Convict Competition.

THE MILITARY READY TO MOVE.

Governor Buchanan Says He Is Going to Stop the Trouble for All Time—More Dead Convicts Found—Saturday's Trouble—Great Anxiety.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Three convicts were found dead yesterday, riddled with bullets. Natt Wilson, another convict, was killed in the night, and John Smith is dying. These five uncoupled the train and attempts escaped. It is feared that the Inman mines will be attacked, and the 50 guards who brought the 55 Tracy City convicts here were sent flying there.

Governor Buchanan is very nervous and anxious over the Inman convicts, some 400 in all. He is waiting to hear from sheriff of Grundy county, who wired him yesterday that he would probably call for the troops to-day.

Gov. Buchanan said last night: "I am tired of this foolishness, and I am going to put a stop to it for all time. I am going to issue a proclamation offering a big reward for the leaders. If nothing else happens, and if anything else does happen, then upon their heads I will hurl the swords of the Tennessee National Guard."

Tom Carrick, the leader of the miners, wrote yesterday that this was only the beginning; that the miners had been imposed on by a standing army who insulted them with their airs, and that soon the flames shall crackle in the stockades at Inman and Coal Creek. The miners have held meetings every night for a week past in the valley, and have sworn that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company shall not operate the mines in that region again. They swear also that the State shall take its convicts away and only free labor can operate the mines if they are ever reopened.

Another reason for fearing an attack is that the labor unions all over this section are better organized than ever, and are urging the men who sympathize with labor to withdraw from the militia. This is having the effect to keep some men from volunteering, though there have been few, if any, desertions. But this action of the labor unions encourages the miners to believe that they will be supported, and that the State cannot materially increase its force if it should become necessary.

The outbreak Saturday, when the free miners forced the guards to remove the convicts from the stockades at Tracy City, after which the stockades were burned, was but the culmination of a long contemplated plan of the free miners, and goes to show how determined they are to keep up the fight against the employment of convict labor.

The capture of the stockade at Tracy City was an easy matter, the guards realizing that resistance would be useless, and surely result in serious loss of life, gave way to the determined miners.

A stolen switch engine with nine flat cars, which the miners captured, was started down the mountain loaded with convicts. The train was bound for Nashville with 390 helpless convicts on board, under a guard of miners armed to the teeth. Six miners were in the cab forcing the engineer to make time.

After the prisoners had been placed on the train the conductor and engineer were ordered to leave at once for Cowan with the convicts, who had been turned over to Deputy Warden Burton and twenty-five guards.

Between Sewanee and Mount Eagle the convicts cut the train in two and ten or fifteen made a break for liberty.

Several shots were fired.

Matt Wilson, white, was killed, and Tom Smith, colored, wounded.

Six or eight made good their escape.

The train was held at Cowan until orders to come on were received from Nashville.

The convicts taken from the Tracy City stockade were brought to the main prison here and will be kept here until a new stockade can be built, when they will be returned, as was done at Coal Creek.

TOO POOR TO RUN.

Why Judge Gresham Declined the Third Party Nomination.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—On the authority of one of the delegates to the Omaha Convention, it is stated that when Mr. Powderly's committee waited on Judge Gresham to make sure that his determination not to accept the Third Party nomination was final, Judge Gresham told them that he believed in the principles of the party most thoroughly, and that before the campaign was over he would make a speech in Chicago advocating their candidate and principles.

But, he said, he could not accept the nomination because he was a poor man and in poor health. His duty to his family prevented him. If he should accept he would have to resign his position on the bench, upon which he was dependent for a living.

Cleveland Wanted in North Carolina.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Aug. 15.—Hon. F. M. Simmons of North Carolina, a member of the Fiftieth Congress, made a flying trip to Buzzards Bay to call on Mr. Cleveland. His main object was to invite Mr. Cleveland to address the people of his State during the campaign, but as Mr. Cleveland had not perfected his plans for the future no answer could be given. Mr. Simmons is chairman of the Democratic State Central committee of North Carolina and expressed himself as confident that the State would go Democratic although a hard fight was certain.

St Louis Terrorized by Burglars.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15.—An epidemic of burglaries has broken out in the southern suburbs of this city. Over fifty houses have been entered and valuables and money, estimated from $10,000 to $100,000, carried off. The residents are terror stricken, and in some houses a member of the family or a private watchman is kept on guard all night.

FELL INTO THE TRAP.

Further Details of the Bloody Conflict at Bolivar.

TRINIDAD, W. I., Aug. 15.—Further particulars have been received here of the bloody and decisive battle at Ciudad Bolivar, in Venezuela.

The government troops numbered in the neighborhood of 1,200 men, while the Legalistas, under Hernandes and Gil, numbered between 3,000 and 4,000.

Considerable finesse was exhibited by Legalista commanders. A considerable force was sent up to attack the Governmentals in their entrenchments. After a sharp engagement they retired, apparently in great disorder.

The Governmentals fell rapidly into the trap which had been prepared for them. Seeing the foe in full retreat, they left the shelter of their intrenchments determined to crush the Legalistas.

This was the opportunity for which Hernandes and Gil had been waiting. No sooner had the governmentals got fairly on the plains outside of the city than they were confronted by the Legalista reserves, which outnumbered their forces in the field, and were soon hotly engaged.

Hernandez had stationed a number of sharpshooters in advantageous positions, and they kept up a galling fire on the enemy, picking off their officers. It was here that the three generals were killed, and many field officers were also killed and wounded.

The first attacking column was also quickly reformed and joined in the battle.

The Governmentals realized that they had made a mistake in daring a fight on the plains and, pressed back by numbers, began a retreat.

Then the decisive blow of the battle was struck. The Legalista cavalry had been kept in reserve. Now it was thrown with tremendous effect on the broken ranks of the Governmentals.

They were thrown into complete confusion. The retreat became a rout, and the Governmentals were swept practically out of existence as an organized army.

The victorious Legalistas entered Bolivar and Soledad practically without further opposition.

COTTON MANUFACTURE BOOMING.

Fall River Mills Enjoying a Most Prosperous Season.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 15.—Published returns from the mills here for the past quarter show that they are now enjoying the most prosperous season ever known in cotton manufacture in Fall River. Thirty-one corporations representing 46 mills have paid dividends of $356,880 on a capital of $18,188,000. The total dividends paid for the corresponding quarter of last year amounted to $268,250.

In addition the mills have added as much more to their surplus or reserve funds, and most of the mills have unburdened themselves of debts and interest accounts and have made extensive alterations and additions. The demand for goods has not only absorbed the accumulated surplus of some months ago, but it is at present beyond the ability of the mills to take care of it.

Contracts are now made that will extend into October, 1893. The average mill, which is paying 2 per cent. quarterly, is now yielding 7 1-8 per cent. upon the selling price of its shares.

TWO MYSTERIOUS WOMEN.

Either Might Be Able to Explain Why Gen. Dunn Killed Himself.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 15.—The mystery surrounding the case of Gen. Ganno Dunn's suicide is still unsolved.

In his letter to the mysterious Fannie Barnes he speaks of her not being true to him. She is not located as yet.

Another letter dated September 26, 1886, fully two years before he came to Denver, was found in the holster of the revolver which ended his life. It read:

"If at any time you take this out with wrong intention think of her who sacrificed all for you and do not do it. God would not forgive and I never. Signed, Zlary Lutz."

The author of this, if found, might give some valuable information.

CONGRESSMAN WARWICK DEAD.

He Had Been Ill in Washington—Succeeded Major McKinley.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Congressman John G. Warwick, of the 16th Ohio district, who has been lying dangerously ill at the Riggs House, died last night.

Mr. Warwick was serving his first term in Congress, having been elected to succeed Major McKinley. He was born in Ireland 62 years ago; came to the United States in 1850, and has been interested in milling, mining and farming. He was chairman of the Committee on Enrolled Bills in the House.

Labor Leaders to Visit Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 15.—Hugh O'Donnell, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers; W. L. McConeghy, the corresponding secretary; Thomas J. Campbell, chairman of the Advisory committee; Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Trades and Labor, and P. J. McGuire, secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, have accepted invitations to be present next Saturday at the picnic projected by the Essex Trades Council for a defence fund to be used in aid of the Homestead strikers.

Morris Berg Protests His Innocence.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 15.—Morris Berg, the Chicago suspect in the Mary Anderson case, has requested lawyer Beedine, Schlipf's counsel, to take charge of his case. He cried piteously while protesting his innocence. Chief Justice Beasley will hear arguments in the Schlipf habeas corpus proceedings next Wednesday.

REBATE TO BE TAKEN OFF.

The Dominion Will Make a Proposition to the United States.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 15.—It is learned to-day, that at the secret meeting of the Dominion Cabinet here, on Saturday, it was decided to make a proposition to the United States Government, assuring it that Canada was desirous of having most friendly relations, and that in order to avoid all difficulties the rebate on grain passing through the St. Lawrence canals will be withdrawn at the end of the present season of navigation. An effort will then be made to have a conference between the two governments, so that all differences may be adjusted.

The government is anxious to appease the United States government and at the same time to act with justice toward the grain men who have made large contracts for the present season on the basis of the rebates. An official statement of the government's decision will be published in the ministerial papers and the proposition will be conveyed to the American authorities.

The reason the meeting was held here, instead of in Ottawa, was that Premier Sir John Abbott is in poor health and wished to avoid the fatigue of a journey to Ottawa.

The meeting was held at the Premier's house and occupied nearly the whole of the day. Sir John Abbott presided, and all the Ministers with the exception of Secretary of State Patterson were present.

Nearly the whole of the session was occupied with the consideration of the matter of canal tolls and what action should be taken by the Canadian Government to avoid retaliation by the United States. The whole subject was fully discussed, and the decision as given above was reached before the session closed.

THE IRON HALL CASE.

All Efforts at Compromise Have Come to Naught.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 15.—The forty members of the Supreme Sitting, who are investigating the affairs of the Iron Hall, are still in the city and say they will stay until the hearing of the petition for a receiver is acted upon.

Some of them have been making an effort to compromise the case, but this morning the attorney says that there will be no compromise. One of the stories is that Mr. Somerby is willing to retire as the head of the order in case the suit for a receiver is dismissed, and another is that Supreme Cashier Davis and Supreme Accountant Walker were informed that they might continue to hold their positions as supreme officers with increased power and perhaps salaries in case they would induce the plaintiffs to dismiss the suit.

Several judges and prominent attorneys interviewed to-day express the opinion that a receiver ought to be appointed. On the evidence already admitted they say that the evidence shows that the mismanagement is of a flagrant character and that the question of the order's solvency includes more than merely its inability to meet all obligations due at the present time.

The hearing of the case will be resumed before Judge Taylor Wednesday.

CAMPAIGN WORK.

The Congressional Campaign Headquarters Beehives of Activity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Business is being rushed at each of the Congressional campaign headquarters in this city. The Republicans have laid in 5,000,000 of large envelopes and 8,000,000 wrappers. T. H. McKee, assistant secretary of the National Committee, is in charge of the mailing division, and has a force of over fifty mailing clerks. They are sending out copies of about thirty distinct publications, most of them bearing on the tariff, but including also "Why I am a Republican," by Robert G. Ingersoll, and "The Farmers' New Poor Richard Almanac," of which 500,000 copies are going out. Then there is the labor chart, a map which shows the average wages paid in each State of the Union. More than 1,000,000 of these charts are to be circulated.

Every day over 1,000 packages containing one of each kind of document issued are distributed.

The Democratic committee, under charge of Mr. Lawrence Gardner, are also sending out tariff literature but they are diversifying it with dissertations on other subjects.

The Assault on the Polar Bear.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The firing of rifle balls into the pilot house of the Polar Bear by a detachment of marines from the United States steamship Yorktown, in which the Chief Engineer of the steamer was dangerously wounded, may turn out a serious matter if the engineer dies. While nothing definite has been received as to the occurrence, from newspaper reports it would seem that the Polar Bear was mistaken by the marines for a poaching vessel, and as they had positive orders when they were left at False Pass by the Yorktown, to allow no vessel to pass by, they probably acted a little hasty in the matter.

Elopers Heard From.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 15.—Charles Dolph, a son of United States Senator Dolph of Oregon, passed through here with Miss Armstrong of Seattle, en route to Portland, where the couple will be married. The parents of the young lady objected to the marriage on account of the youthfulness of both parties. Dolph is 24 and Miss Armstrong 18.

Anarchist Knold Released on Bail.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 15.—Carl Knold the Allegheny anarchist, accused of complicity in the attempt to murder H. C. Frick, has been released from jail upon $7,000 bail, furnished by five of his friends.

CHURCH ORGANIZATIONS

Statistics of Denominations in the United States.

NEARLY 150 SEPARATE SECTS.

Extracts From Supt. Porter's Address at Asbury Park—Sub-Divisions of the Baptist Churches—Roman Catholic Increase—Colored Denominations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Supt. Robert P. Porter, in an address at Asbury Park yesterday, made public the preliminary figures of the church statistics of the eleventh census, which are both curious and interesting.

There are shown to be in the United States nearly 150 separate and distinct church organizations, holding different creeds, varying greatly in practice, and representing all possible variations of church polity.

There are various churches that claim to be simply brethren. There are two Reformed churches, known as the "Reformed Church of America," and the "Reformed Church in the United States."

Some of the denominations were never numbered before, and it required the utmost powers of persuasion to induce them to submit to the process. Sects have been found and enumerated which claim less than 100 communicants. Here are seven sects which altogether number only about 4,000 members, and yet own church edifices worth $70,000: Shakers, Amanaites, Mennonite, Harmony, Separists, New Icarian and Altruists.

All societies observing the communal life, whether founded on a religious or secular basis, are embraced in the returns. Two of these societies are not religious, the Icarian and the Altruist, but are organized to apply a social principle.

After the seven great denominations—Congregational, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Baptist and Episcopal, have been accounted for the other 134 religious associations represent less than 15 per cent. of the church edifices and less than 11 per cent of the aggregate value of church property.

Some of the sub-divisions of the Baptist churches are peculiar. The uninitiated person finds it difficult to define the difference between the Seventh Day and the Six Principle Baptists, between the Midhead and the River Brethren, between the Primitive and the Free Will, between the original Free Will and the Old-Two-Seed-in-Spirit, between the General and the General Free Will. Besides these there are also the Regular South, the Regular North, and the Regular Colored Baptists.

The Society of Friends are divided into the Orthodox and Hicksite, the Wilburite and Primitive branches. There are 17 or 18 different branches of the Lutheran churches in this country.

According to the returns of the 11th census the number of communicants in five principal religious denominations for which the statistics have been completed are as follows:

Congregational, 512,771; Lutheran, 1,199,514; Methodist, 4,255,377; Presbyterian, 1,278,815; Roman Catholic, 6,250,045; total, 13,496,522.

The communicants of the Baptist and Episcopal with those of other denominations will bring the aggregate up to about 20,000,000.

The statistics of the colored denominations likewise show great progress. Their denominations number 16. They have a total membership of 3,379,100, and own church property valued at $18,403,000.

SECRETARY RUSK SAYS NO.

He Will Not Accept Another Nomination as Governor.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 15.—Secretary Rusk was interviewed at his home in Viroqua yesterday as to the possibility of his being a candidate for Governor. The Secretary said:

"I have served my time in that position and I am duly grateful to the people of this Commonwealth for their continued confidence and favor. The mention of my name in that connection at this time is without my consent and against my wishes. I have repeatedly told my friends that this thing must stop; that I will not accept the nomination."

One Tramp Who Fared Well.

HARWINTON, Conn., Aug. 15.—Farmer Prescott of this town took into his employ last fall a destitute tramp. The man has worked on the farm ever since. Night before last he took the only daughter of Mr. Prescott, a comely maiden of 16, from a chamber widow by means of a stepladder. The pair proceeded to Goshen, where they were married. The young woman then returned and entered her chamber again by means of the ladder. Her parents meanwhile were unaware of her flight, and safe return. Mr. Prescott and his wife have forgiven the couple.

Gladstone Will Control the Cabinet.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The new Cabinet and other official appointments yet to be made are the sole topic of discussion. Contrary to the view advanced by some newspapers, Mr. Gladstone will be Premier in all that the word implies. He will control the policy of the Cabinet. The idea conveyed by Joseph Chamberlain in his virulent attack on Gladstone and Morley, to the effect that Mr. Gladstone would select Lord Rosebery to take charge of foreign affairs, has excited both indignation and surprise.

Shooting Affray at Corning.

CORNING, N. Y., Aug. 15.—A shooting affray took place in West Market street, Saturday night in which Danny Donahue was shot by William Frost. The victim was standing near a building when Frost came down the street. The latter drew his revolver and shot Donahue in the forearm. The ball passed through the arm and lodged in his left leg, above the knee.

An Army Officer to Be Tried.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Gen. Miles has called a general court martial to convene at Fort Wayne, Mich., Thursday, Sept. 1, to try First Lieutenant Woodbridge Geary on "serious charges." Lieutenant Geary is an officer of the Nineteenth Infantry, stationed at Mackinaw. The serious charges are not yet made public.

Cholera Reaches St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 15.—That the cholera is now here is officially admitted. A report just issued shows that there were 154 cases of the disease and 31 deaths from it in the city between Aug. 1 and 13.

CLEVELAND'S

One rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of any other.

A large saving on a year's bakings.

BAKING POWDER

A pure cream of tartar powder.

Used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of Cookery.

Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

THINK SHE WAS INSANE.

Theory of Government Officers in Lizzie Borden's Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 15.—The Borden murders and the arrest of Lizzie Borden are still the great topic of discussion. Neither Medical Examiner Dolan or City Marshal Hilliard have heard anything from Prof. Wood, who is analyzing the stomachs of the victims and comparing the spots of blood on the axe and carpet. They say if there is any truth in the reports that Wood has discovered that the blood upon the axe and carpets is the same, it is very strange he has not heard it officially.

The police to-day have been engaged in chasing down a suspect and testing statements made in many letters sent to the Marshal. It is Lizzie Borden's side of the story that is now attracting the attention of the police. Officers Harrington and Dougherty have searched Rhode Island unsuccessfully for the man who drove the suspect to Newport.

It is an open secret in police circles that the government officers believe that Miss Borden was insane at the time of time of the murders, if she committed them. Some evidence relating to the private life of Miss Borden, now in the hands of the police, bears directly on this side of the case and strengthens the opinion of the high police authorities who have said that Miss Borden was not conscious of her deeds, if she was implicated.

Reports from the jail are to the effect that Miss Borden is almost prostrated, her nerves are shattered and she is completely broken down from the terrible strain on her mind. She has all along fully realized her position, and her remarkable determination served her well for the time, but now that she is openly accused of the awful crime the strain has proved too much for her.

The side of public sympathy is turning strongly now in favor of Miss Borden. The story about the revengeful sailors changed the opinion of hundreds who believed Lizzie Borden guilty of the crime of killing her father and stepmother and, although the story has been pretty thoroughly exploded, she still has the sympathy and confidence of many. Already there is a strong feeling beginning to develop itself against those who sought to weave the web of guilt about the young woman.

The crime and the circumstances following stand unparalleled in the history of crime in America. It was murder in cold blood, planned with nicety of arrangement and consummated with unfaltering nerve, ferocious in design, inhuman in every detail of its accomplishment. This, it is alleged, was done by a woman, mature in years, serious in temperament, religious and dutiful in daily life. The mystery is yet only partially solved. It still presents grave doubts and contradictions. The discrepancy between the character of the crime and the character of the accused—between the motive neccessary and the motive established—is notable. The basis of the charge against Lizzie Borden is essentially of a negative character. If she didn't do it, who did? they ask. Who else could have done it? The corroborative evidence, the direct testimony against her, is disconnected and far from conclusive. It is not impossible, if improbable, that further developments will weaken instead of strengthen the charge against her.

Midgets Married.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Miss Lotie Swartwood, a midget, was married yesterday to Leopold Kahn, better known as "Admiral Dot." Rev. Dr. Wise of Temple Rudolph Sholom performed the ceremony in accordance with the Jewish rites. The bride is 23 years of age and the bridegroom 28. She stands 48 inches high, he 48. Both were with the Royal Midget Company last year.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Fire broke out last night in the brush factory of the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntington, Pa., and the total loss will probably reach $50,000. The brush factory and all its contents are in ruins.

—The greatest rate war ever known among Southern railroads has been declared. The Memphis Passenger Association has virtually collapsed, and in future there will be a bitter struggle for business among the trunk lines.

—Miss Lillian Russell, who arrived in New York, Saturday, on the City of New York from Europe, refused to tell a reporter whether she had or not refused an offer of marriage from T. Henry French, the well-known theatrical manager.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Gormans' Minstrels are coming.

—Secure your tickets now for the minstrel show at Music Hall, Friday evening.

—Do n't miss the great ice-cream jubilee at Salvation Army hall Thursday evening.

—Mrs. A. Marsh has removed her intelligence office from 51 West Front street to 56 West Third.

—It is understood that the police are securing convicting evidence against Sunday liquor sellers.

—A Cleveland and Stevenson campaign club is to be formed to-morrow evening at a meeting to be held in Hand's building where the projectors have secured permanent quarters.

—Some one signing himself "An Old-Fashioned Plainfield Democrat" occupies a column of last Saturday's Elizabeth Herald with a communication urging the candidacy of the Hon. Robert S. Green for Governor.

—Two double-screw ferryboats for service in New York harbor are being built for the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at the yard of Harlan & Hollingsworth company, at Wilmington, Del. The vessels will have two stories of joiner work on the main deck.

—Charles K. Moore sent in an alarm of fire from box 28, at 7:40 Saturday evening. That section of the department assigned to that district responded, and found nothing burning but a lot of dry weeds. No property was endangered, and within 10 minutes the recall was sounded.

—The Reading railroad has issued strict orders that dismissal from service will follow in case of neglect on the part of any rear brakeman to guard properly the rear of his train. A discharged employe will not be taken back under any circumstances. The Central railroad has issued the same order.

—Evan Jones was knocked down by the pole of a wagon in crossing the street Friday afternoon. The end of the pole struck him in the chest. He was uninjured. Four physicians are in attendance on his father-in-law, who was injured recently in a runaway, but the patient is not expected to recover.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Counselor Craig A. Marsh was welcomed back to Plainfield by his cityful of friends to-day. He arrived on the City of New York, which broke her own record on the passage. He is in excellent health and fine spirits, having had a most delightful trip.

Daniel V. Collins died at Scotch Plains yesterday in the twenty-second year of his age. Funeral services will be held from his late residence to-morrow at 9 a. m., and thence from St. Mary's church in this city, where a solemn requiem mass will be held for the repose of his soul.

The Rev. Henry T. Miller of Chicago, pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian church of Plainfield, preached yesterday morning and evening in the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Thompson's church (Madison Avenue Presbyterian) New York. Mr. Miller will occupy the same pulpit next Sunday.

NIP AND TUCK FOR THE PRIZE.

PLAINFIELD SETS THE PACE, AND SOMERVILLE FOLLOWS CLOSELY.

Because the Crescents Had on Their Batting Clothes, Ungrateful Elizabeth Talks of Releasing Francis—Bonner Plays a Wonderful Game, and Fine Team Work Makes Victory Easy—Umpire Hopkins Shows Fight.

Elizabeth had n't much show against Plainfield, Saturday, for the Crescents realized that if they would win the pennant they could not afford to lose this game, and they put on their batting clothes and went in with a determination to slug the curves of Francis unmercifully. How well they fulfilled their purpose is seen in the record of fifteen base hits, with two doubles and a triple.

The first half of the game was a close and exciting struggle. That Francis was doing his level best to shut the visitors out was evident from the way he struck out the old veteran Hofford, the redoubtable Brady, and the alert and sharp-eyed Daley, twice apiece in succession. But Bonner and Leidy and Turner and Murphy were pounding the ball all over the lot, and even Jones was making long flies one of which developed into a two-bagger. And as long as those stalwart young men had their eye on the ball, there was no use bucking against fate.

The Elizabeths did some clever work in holding the Crescents down to two runs on their four singles and a double in the third inning, and proceeded to catch up with the score immediately in their next half. Then when in the fourth the Crescents made two more runs, the Elizabeths followed the pace and kept things even, so that the strain on the crowd became quite intense. But never again did Elizabeth's runners get a smell of home-plate, and from being a "tie" score of 4 to 4 the record became overwhelmingly in Plainfield's favor. The five extra runs were easily made, off hits and errors, and Elizabeth's heart failed her and she doggedly submitted to the inevitable. After Plainfield got the lead and it was evident that the game was won, the playing became like a protracted siege, spiritless and tedious. It was a relief when the end came, for all were wearied of the monotony.

Sharp individual plays gave spice to the game in the first few innings. When Rafferty went to the bat in the first inning, he gave the ball a savage whack that sent it whizzing through the air bent on a two-base hit in deep centre. No human eye could see how that hit could ever be captured, and Moran was right in starting from second for home. Yet the unexpected happened. That marvelous shortstop, Bonner, got in the line of the sphere, and by his rare base-ball instinct made another of those seemingly impossible plays that are rapidly making him famous. He leaped high into the air, with one hand snatching eagerly as far up as it could reach. The nearest end of his finger-tips got in the way of the twirling globe and glued themselves to the leather with a resistless magnetism. The ball wavered a moment in its onward career, and in that hesitation was lost. Bonner snatched it down out of the clouds, held it a moment in the vise-like grip of that one hand, and then threw Moran out at second. It was a miracle of a double play, and the grand-stand went delirious with ecstasy. Sneeden also made a nice finger-tip stop during the game, and Turner's clever stop and return of a sharp-hit grounder in the fourth won applause. Mayers for Elizabeth made a great running catch that no one thought he could get, and other pretty plays made the game interesting with "features".

"Chic" Hofford, however, did not seem to be himself. He could n't hit, he could n't throw, he could n't even get his base on balls but once out of five chances. He swallowed his two strike-outs with the good grace of a martyr, and the failure of his good right arm to prevent daring steals of second did not disconcert him.

Turner developed a novel feature. He had two strikes on him, and was in imminent danger of fanning out. There came a wild pitch; he waved his bat at it, making three strikes, and got first and second while Brady and Murphy scored. By the time the ball was recovered, he was nearly to third, where he was thrown out.

Moran gave a disreputable exhibition of rowdy ball playing in interfering with Hofford by running between him and the ball that was being thrown in to shut off a runner at the plate. This trick secured the run. Hofford complained to the umpire, but the protest availed nothing. Moran, however, disgraced himself forever in the eyes of decent people.

Some dissatisfaction was expressed by Plainfield sympathizers with some of the decisions of umpire Hopkins, but it must be said that that individual had a hard game to umpire. He was quite excitable, and early in the game someone hurled an insult at him and he said he'd throw out of the gate the first man who blackguarded him. No one accepted his challenge. The Crescent League management is satisfied that Hopkins means all right.

But what shall be said of the narrow-mindedness and ingratitude of Elizabeth as expressed by director McCloud? That choleric individual charged openly that Francis had sold the game to Plainfield, and said wrathfully that he'd never be given another chance to sell out to the enemy. Such a charge is not only a gross injustice to Francis but an insult to the Plainfield management. Plainfield wins her games, on her merits or loses gracefully on her faults. It is only when she is robbed that she kicks, and she does not stoop to ruffianly or piratic methods to secure triumph. Francis pitched the game of his life, but all his skill was powerless against such a heavy batting aggregation. If he is released for his work of Saturday Elizabeth will lose the man who worked the hardest and most zealously to ward off defeat. Injustice seems to develop easily in base-ball.

Now Let All the People Go.

A great game of ball will be played on the Crescent grounds in North Plainfield Wednesday afternoon, and 'twill be a shame if the crowd of spectators is not a large one. The opposing team will be the New Brunswicks, with the great and only John Harkins in the box. Harkins is determined to shut out the Crescents without a run, and a battle royal may be expected. As it will be "ladies day" the attendance of the fair sex ought to be large. The game will be called at 4.

EXPLOSION IN A DRUG STORE.

Dr. Shaw's Head Clerk Has a Narrow Escape.

An alarm from box 12 called out a portion of the fire department shortly after 10 this morning. The fire was in Shaw's drug store, in front of which a large crowd speedily gathered. Head clerk Ed. Richards was bottling benzine. The porter had neglected to extinguish the flame of a gas stove near at hand, and the benzine fumes spread through the air and ignited, resulting in an explosion. The blazing fluid was scattered about, and set fire to Richards's clothing. He and his assistants, however, pluckily stood their ground and fought the fire. Richards was saved from severe burns, and the store was saved from destruction by the timely application of vichy and carbonated water from siphons, which smothered the blaze. By the time the fire companies arrived there was nothing left to do but clear the store of the dense smoke that filled it. Chief Doane was promptly on hand to direct the movements of the men.

A North Plainfield Boy Drowned.

A despatch from Augusta, Maine, says: "Frank Raynolds, aged eighteen, son of George T. Raynolds, book-keeper of the National Park bank, New York city, residing in Plainfield, N. J., was drowned near Hammond's Grove, in Cobbosseecontee Lake, this afternoon while in bathing. It is supposed that he was disabled by cramps. The body was recovered."

Young Raynolds was a graduate of the North Plainfield public schools, and his home in the borough was at 40 Jackson avenue. The afflicted family were at Jamaica, L. I., but returned to Plainfield to-day.

Greatly Frightened But Unhurt.

A runaway between 8 and 9 o'clock last night caused considerable excitement. A young woman sat in a buckboard to which a runaway horse was attached. The horse dashed through Arlington avenue, Third street, Madison avenue and Seventh street and was finally caught near Plainfield avenue. No damage was done, but the young woman was greatly frightened and continually cried "God help me! Save me!"

—A friendly game of base-ball was played on the Crescent League grounds Saturday afternoon between a nine from Franklin council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, and a nine from William G. Holton council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Dunellen, which resulted in a victory for the Plainfielders by the score of 19 to 13.

Found—not lately, but 25 years ago—something that perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh in the Head. It's Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy—and where everything else fails, that cures. The worst chronic cases yield to its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties. Set if yours won't. The makers of this Remedy say it will. And they make you this offer: If they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case, they'll pay you $500 in cash—and they mean it.

Here are some of the symptoms of Catarrh: Headache; obstruction of nose; discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, bloody, purulent, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. You won't have all at once; probably only a few of them. But you won't have any of them, if you'll take Dr. Sage's Remedy.

Great Victory for Plainfield.

The Plainfield Cricket team journeyed to Newark, Saturday, to meet the Newark Electric team. Captain Hendry winning the toss, decided to take the field, sending the Electrics to the bat. It was soon to be seen who were to be the winners, as the excellent bowling of F. Wharton and John Ogden brought down their wickets in great shape, F. Wharton taking 4 wickets for two runs, and John Ogden 5 wickets for 14 runs, the innings closing for the small total of 31 runs. Plainfield then went to the bat and soon showed her superior batting, as the score soon reached 33, with only 5 wickets down, John Ogden playing a good 10 not out. Captain Hendry then closed the innings, winning a great victory by 5 wickets and 2 runs. The score:

MRS. DE BAUD'S SACHEL PICKED.

An Aged Thief Snatches Her Pocket-book, in Macy's.

A gray-haired woman, who gave her name as Martha Adams, of 336 Avenue A, New York, was arraigned in Jefferson Market court Saturday on the charge of the larceny of a pocket-book containing $22.50 from Mrs. Antoinette DeBaud, formerly of this city and now of 101 West Eighty-ninth street.

Mrs. DeBaud was shopping in Macy's store Friday. She carried a sachel in her hand, and while standing at a counter she felt a tug at it. She looked around and saw the woman hurrying away. The sachel was open and her pocket-book was gone.

Mrs. DeBaud followed the woman to the street and caused her arrest. Detective Donegan searched her and found Mrs. DeBaud's pocket-book in her pocket. Mrs. Adams pleaded guilty and was held for sentence.

—Patents have been granted to W. H. Brodie of Plainfield for a fire-protecting shutter, and George H. Babcock for a design.

WESTFIELD SHUT OUT.

A Pitchers' Battle Between Sharrott and Anderson, in Which the Harkinstown Chap Gains a Decided Advantage.

Last week manager Mack had his little band of players at Somerville practice daily on the lawn-tennis courts just in the rear of the high-toned stand on the West End grounds. His idea was that if the team lost the game Saturday he would enter them as amateur tennis players and endeavor to retrieve the losses in that way. But that is not necessary; the team got together before the game and decided that they would win or die in the attempt. They did the former by some hard thumping of the leather and the prettiest sacrifice hitting ever seen on a ball field. They honestly won the game by hard, earnest effort, the two errors made by Westfield not affecting the score in the least. They accomplished one other thing—that of shutting out the opposing team, which has not happened before in the New Jersey Central Base-Ball league.

When Mr. Sullivan, the new umpire, had donned his dark blue uniform and was ready for play, the West Ends trotted to the field. This Mr. Sullivan is no relative of the great and mighty "John", but still he has the same ferocious prize-fighting air, and made his presence felt before the game was over. His pose in the sixth inning when he said in answer to Sharrott's kick "I said four balls!" reminded one very much of the soldier at parade rest in Union Square. Mr. Sullivan is Irish, of that one may be sure. His accent on the word strike is so peculiar it gives him away. As before mentioned, when he was ready, the game began. Sharrott was the first man to face death. Pete Anderson was in the box fifty feet away from him, and it was plain to be seen that Peter had his speed with him. Sometimes he leaves his speed at different places, but he had it all to back up his big south-paw on Saturday, and after he had fired a few at Field he worked like a charm. Sharrott's good eye did not fail him, and he ambled down to first. McIndoe and Lever had holes in their bats and proved easy meat for Pete, and Coogan hit one into the air which Cadmus held. For the West Ends Carby did not do much, but went out on strikes. Farrell hit to Sharrott, and was retired at first. Harkins hit for a bag, and scored when Jocko Field made himself solid with the gang and Jim Brown by plunking the ball way down into the corner of the lot for three sacks. This first run seemed as though 'twould be the last for either side, but in the sixth Harkins and Kennedy scored on a base on balls, a single, and two sacrifices which came at the right time. Kennedy hit the ball and went to second on the throw to catch Harkins at third. Ryman sacrificed, and Harkins scored. Cadmus hit between Howe and O'Neil. Either one could have got it, but neither stirred. They only looked in blank astonishment at one another. Kennedy scored, and Cadmus reached second. In the seventh Anderson scored on a cute hit, a passed ball and two sacrifices by Carby and Farrell. That is all—only four, but one would have been enough.

On the other hand, Westfield had the same kind of luck that has followed her all through the year. Seven men did they have left on base during the nine long innings, but never a man could cross the Rubicon. Four times did the West Ends get out of the smallest kind of a hole; and with a man on third, in the second, with no one out, the hit that Westfield longed for never came. The feature of the game (there is always a feature to every game) was the play of Farrell's which resulted in the neatest kind of a double. It happened in the seventh. Kenzie was on first, when Warner hit the ball into the air. Kenzie started for second and slid as Farrell slapped his hands as though he had caught the ball. Kenzie jumped up and said to Farrell "You never touched me", but the ball had gone plumb into Cadmus's hands. He wheeled and threw to Harkins, making a double, while Kenzie stood on second mute with astonishment, that Farrell did not have the ball at all. Old Jack will fool them once in awhile with his smartness. In the third inning with McIndoe at the bat, umpire Sullivan showed considerable decision—a thing usually unheard of in this league. Kenzie was on the coaching lines while Jack Sharrott sat on the bank near first base. Both men were coaching the batter. Sullivan stopped Anderson, and, calling to Sharrott, said: "Mr. Sharrott, are you doing the coaching?" "I am"—replied Sharrott. "Then"—said Sullivan—"please go into the coacher's box. Two men are not allowed to coach while I umpire." Sharrott got up and went on the lines, while Kenzie sat down. A moment later when Kenzie began to talk Sullivan ordered him to the bench and he went. In the last inning a kick occurred which while not disastrous was unpleasant. With one man out, O'Neil hit safely. Howe, the next man, drove one into centre field, which Carby nailed before it reached terra firma. He made a poor throw over Harkins's head, and the ball was blocked. O'Neil came back to first, then started on around. He was entitled to the second base, but was nearly to third when Anderson got in the box and threw the returned ball to head him off. O'Neil started back for second, when Farrell ran off the base and touched him five feet off the bag. Everyone thought O'Neil was out, and the game over. The players started to leave the field, and the crowd surged across the diamond and around the umpire. Manager Coding informed manager Mack that he would protest the game. Sullivan said that O'Neil was not out, and Mr. Mack very gracefully put his men on the field and went on with the game. Gillis hit to Cadmus, and the game was over. Mr. Mack did just right. He had nothing to lose by putting another man out, and he could not afford to run the risk of a protest. His action was commended by all.

NOTES.

Harkins said the whack he got in Plainfield made him see cobwebs for all of last week.

The left-handed hitters on the league teams seem to be unable to solve Anderson's south-paw delivery. It's always so.

Field caught a very pretty game, one without a flaw. The battery, Field and Anderson, is as pretty a machine as one would care to see.

Sharrott's speedy ball could not be seen with a Lick telescope, and Warner could not hold it, either. Every time Jack used his speed Warner would drop the sphere. The ball was a little too warm.

Kennedy played short for the West Ends. Six chances without an error is pretty good for a man who has n't played the position in three years. Then "Doc" was where the crowd could not hear him kick. That is another good thing.

POP FARRELL'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Somerville's Genteel Base-Ball Captain Is Shot at Three Times by an Infuriated Woman.

[New York World.]

John Farrell, the base-ball player who was with the Washington and other noted clubs a few years ago, narrowly escaped death at Newark last night. Three pistol shots were fired at him by his former wife.

Mrs. Farrell lives at 246 Clinton avenue, Newark, in the house bought for her by Farrell when he was in the heydey of his prosperity. They quarrelled a few years ago and Farrell tried to get the property back from her. Failing, he harassed and annoyed her in every way. She applied for a divorce. While the suit was pending he went to the house and smashed the windows, broke the furniture and tore things out generally. The court of chancery was appealed to and Farrell was enjoined against such conduct in the future. He ignored the order of the court and indulged in another smashing racket, which came near landing him in jail for contempt.

Finally the divorce was granted, and nothing more of this domestic broil was heard until last night. Farrell has been managing some kind of a ball team at Somerville, and he went to Newark from there with a mixture of apple whiskey and beer. After darkness set in he made his way to Mrs. Farrell's house, which stands in a lonely place. She was at home alone. He thundered at the door for admission, but instead of letting him in she barricaded the door and lower windows. Farrell stormed around and threatened to pull down the building. He said he would get in somehow and then she could look out for herself.

"I have a pistol here and I will fire straight at you if you don't go away"—she called from an upper window.

"Fire and be d——d!"—he shouted back.

She fired. Three balls whizzed past Farrell's head. He thought that he had been shot and yelled at the top of his voice. The neighborhood was alarmed and policeman McLane hastened to the spot. He concluded to take both to the second precinct police station, though Mrs. Farrell was very unwilling to go. At the station she was asked about the pistol.

"It 's in the house where it ought to be, of course"—she replied coolly. She was perfectly selfpossessed and claimed justification for the shooting. She was allowed to go, but Farrell was held over night.

Harrison and Reid Congratulate Westfield.

The Republicans of Westfield opened their new wigwam Saturday night with a ratification meeting. The building will seat 800 persons. It was decorated with flags and banners. Two large portraits of Harrison and Reid were displayed above the entrance, lighted by two large arc lights.

President C. N. Coding in opening the meeting said that the Republican party proposed to conduct its campaign with the view that the contest was between two sets of principles and not primarily a choice between two sets of candidates. The Republican banner would bear the sign "Protection to American Labor, Reciprocity, Honest Money and a Free Ballot."

The principal speaker of the evening was Colonel Robert E. Frazer of Michigan. After he had concluded, chairman Coding read letters from President Harrison and the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, congratulating the Westfield Republicans on their work.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

ANOTHER BASE SLANDER.

The Somerset Street Sheet Still Maligning Plainfield's Fair Name at Home and Abroad.

The News is still engaged in its dirty work of maligning Plainfield's fair name. Last Wednesday it said:

"It is reported that there are several cases of 'black diptheria' on Lake street among the Italians, and that scarlet fever is also raging in the same neighborhood. The place is quarantined."

This paragraph has been developed into epidemic scare in papers all over the State and country, and the following statement is circulating everywhere to the detriment of Plainfield's good character and prosperity:

"Cases of 'black diphtheria' have been reported in Plainfield. The disease is confined to the Italian settlement on Lake street and this section has been quarantined. Several cases of scarlet fever have been reported from the same neighborhood."

Needless to say, the story is an utterly unwarranted fabrication. The Health Board is highly incensed over the malicious slander, and its officials are outspoken in denunciation of the News for its abominable work. Whenever anything of absolute injury to Plainfield appears in print, it is safe to assume that the Somerset street sheet is responsible for it. The present case is only a sample.

Werts a Favorite in Camden.

At the last meeting of the Americus club of Camden the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Ex-Senator George T. Werts, having endeared himself to the people of our party in the State by his unaltering devotion to Democratic principles and measures, therefore

Resolved, That by his upright and honorable conduct while President of the State Senate, together with the impartial manner in which he administered this great trust, he has attained a position among the statesmen of New Jersey which entitles him to the highest office in our power to bestow.

Resolved, That the Americus club, of Camden, N. J., composed of 500 loyal Democrats, together with their numerous friends, wishing emphatically to put the organization on record, hereby indorse our fellow-Democrat, Judge George T. Werts, as a candidate for Governor of the State of New Jersey.

Resolved, That a copy of the same be sent to the Hon. George T. Werts and the State organization of Democratic clubs.

Turned the Corner Too Short.

Miss Irene Warner, of Easton, Pa., who has been visiting Miss Arrowsmith at South Plainfield, drove to Plainfield yesterday afternoon, in company with two of the Arrowsmith children. The horse was one that has never yet been trained to behave in the presence of railway cars of any kind, not even the steam railroad; yet it was driven straight up to one of the new rapidly-moving trolley cars. Of course the horse shied, and in attempting to turn too short at the corner of Front and Liberty streets the buggy was upset against the curb and the occupants were tumbled out. Miss Warner struck her head, and a large lump was raised at the base of the skull. She was taken into the Nelson house and a physician attended her and sent her home.

Accidents on the Road.

Warren Boss, a laborer in the employ of August Trust, fell off a load of hay Saturday night, near Stirling, and was for several minutes unconscious. Last night he was complaining of pains in the head.

A bicyclist collided with a wagon coming down the Somerset street hill at the Notch yesterday, and had an arm injured and his face badly lacerated.

Grist of the City Court.

William Gillies, for intoxication, was fined $4 by judge Codington this morning. W. F. Grennan, of Bound Brook, and W. C. Thompson, for the same offense, were fined $3 apiece. Ann Sullivan, an old offender, was sent to jail for 30 days. Martin Stephens pleaded not guilty to the charge of using profane and indecent language, and trial was set for Thursday at 10 a. m.

STRIKERS FIRE CARS

Alarming Situation in the East Buffalo Yards.

THE DAMAGE WILL REACH $75,000.

Lehigh Valley Road Officials Say the Strikers Are Responsible—A Train Stopped, and Passengers Forced to Get Out—They Were Thought to Be "Scabs."

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The striking Switchmen on the Lehigh Valley, the Buffalo Creek and other railroads, maddened by their unsuccessful attempts to bring about a settlement of their differences with their employers, have adopted, it is charged, incendiary tactics.

That is the accusation made to-day by the corporations, and for their proof they point to a well-laid plot to burn many thousand dollars worth of railroad property in the mammoth yards of the Lehigh Valley road at East Buffalo early yesterday morning.

Three fires were started simultaneously. They were started where the cars were thickest, no hydrants from which water could be obtained, and at a time when the yards were deserted.

Eighteen freight cars loaded with merchandise and two passenger coaches, together with two office buildings, were completely destroyed.

The loss is estimated at $75,000.

A train of 15 coal cars which was standing on a coal trestle was started down the incline, and crashed into an engine at the bottom, wrecking it and a water crane.

The excitement caused by the night's fires and wreck had nearly calmed down, when it was started anew by the boarding of the train due at 11:10 a. m. by the strikers. The affair happened at the William street crossing, where there is a junction. As the train stopped a number of men got aboard and drove something over a carload of men from the cars. The supposed "scabs" ran or were driven in every direction. One, at least, was badly hurt and removed to the hospital. His name is Henry Shrader.

When the incomers had been scattered the strikers let the train go on its way.

The men who were driven out were believed to be a party of men who were being brought here to take the strikers places.

Supt. Brunn being asked about the stoppage of the train and the clearing out of the passengers, admitted that the train had been stopped.

"They were passengers," he said, "and I suppose the strikers had an idea they were men coming here to take their places."

RIGGIN AT REST.

e Murdered Boatswain's Mate Buried in Woodlawn Cemetery.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—All that is mortal of Boatswain's Mate Charles W. Riggin, who was killed in the Valparaiso riot, now rests in Woodlawn Cemetery. The interment was made yesterday afternoon, and the civic and military demonstration was one of the most imposing given in this city for some time, 8,000 men being in line.

At 2 o'clock the body was taken from Independence Hall, where it lay in state Saturday afternoon, and under the chief marshalship of R. M. J. Reed, the procession formed.

The line included divisions of the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans, National Guards of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, fraternal societies, naval veterans, U. S. sailors and marines, and many citizens.

The streets were lined with spectators five deep and the route was up Chestnut street to Broad, Broad to Market, Market to Thirty-ninth, and thence to the cemetery. The large cemetery was crowded, and upon arriving there the right of the line was halted on the main avenue directly opposite the Riggin plot, where ranks were opened and the hearse, with the guard from the United States Navy Yard, proceeded through the line, the usual honors being paid. The body was met at the grave by Riggin's relatives and friends.

The services opened with a prayer by Rev. Samuel H. Boyer, an Episcopal clergyman, at whose church Riggin was an attendant. The rector spoke feelingly of the dead sailor and alluded to his love for his country and flag. Capt. W. W. Kerr next delivered an oration and read the sworn testimony of eye-witnesses of the Valparaiso affair. Rev. Dr. Duncan McGregor spoke on behalf of the Naval Veterans' Association, in which he commended Mayor Stuart for allowing the body to repose in Independence Hall, and a local paper for its enterprise in bringing the remains from Valparaiso.

Afterwards Dr. McGregor delivered the burial sermon. A last salute was then fired by a party of marines from the League Island navy yard.

The grave was lined with evergreens, and at the head was an elegant floral offering representing a broken column with the inscription: "Only a Boatswain's Mate." The metallic casket was incased in a plain oak coffin upon which was inscribed "Charles W. Riggin, 1892.

Cramps' Men May Aid Homesteaders.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Workmen in Cramp's ship yard in this city are debating among themselves whether they will work on any plates made at the Carnegie mills at Homestead by non-union men. One of the workmen said he believed a sympathy strike would be ordered if the Cramps insisted on the men working on the Homestead product. Thirty-five hundred workmen are employed by William Cramp & Sons and a strike would be particularly disastrous to the several United States cruisers which are in various stages of construction.

Rev. Francis Shober in a New Position.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The Rev. Francis E. Shober, whose family and church troubles have given him considerable newspaper notoriety for several months past, has severed his relations with the Poughkeepsie "News Press" staff and accepted a position as managing editor of the Rockaway "Journal" of Far Rockaway, L. I. His wife is ill at the summer residence of her mother, Mrs. Jane Aspinwell, at Barrytown-on-the-Hudson.

Some Whimsical Titles.

Among the whimsical titles which appear on the pages of national history few are more apparently frivolous than the duke of Marmalade, the count of Lemonade, and the earl of Brandy. They are, or were, however, real titles, bestowed by a genuine monarch on three of the favorites, and that, too, during the present century. In 1811 a revolution occurred in Hayti, and Christophe, a negro, declared himself emperor. Through conspiracy and plot, his life often attempted, he retained power till 1820, preserving to the last the appearance of a royal court and creating a numerous nobility. Among them were the three already mentioned, and the oddity of the titles has suggested to many writers the frivolousness of the African character. In fact, however, all three names were those of places, the first two being originally plantations but latterly towns of some importance. This fact not being generally known, a misapprehension has arisen with regard to the titles themselves, which, however absurd, are scarcely more so than some which were bestowed in France and Germany during the middle ages.—Boston Transcript.

FAMED MYRTLE GROVE.

Sir Walter Raleigh's Irish Home in the Market.

A House Built by the Great Navigator in 1588—Beautiful Trees and Shrubbery — The First Tobacco Plant in Europe.

A fine old Elizabethan house of great historic interest is in the market, says the London Pall Mall Budget. It was offered for sale by Messrs. Lumley the other day, but no sufficient offer being forthcoming the property was bought in. The house in question was the residence in Ireland of Sir Walter Raleigh. It was built by the great navigator in 1588, upon part of a large allotment of land granted to him for services in putting down the Desmond revolt. The house is situated in Youghal, in the county of Cork.

It is impossible to tell how long the restless adventurer settled in this quiet retreat. He was mayor of Youghal for two years, and he was certainly visited by his friend Spenser in this his Irish home. "In this spot," writes Mrs. S. C. Hall of the garden at Myrtle Grove, "beyond question have been read portions of the 'Faerie Queene,' long before the world became familiar with the divine conception—

> At whose approach the soul of Petrarch wept.

For here, certainly, the immortal bard held communion with his 'deare friend' and brother poet, whom he described as 'the somer nightingale'—

> Himselfe as skilfull in that art as any.

In the garden there is a group of four aged yew trees, which tradition states to have been planted by Raleigh; and where it requires no stretch of fancy to believe that he has many a time sat, read and talked, or lolled in the summer time, dreaming of El Dorado, in the vain search of which he sacrificed his fortune, and ultimately his life."

The grounds appear to be remarkable for the luxurious growth of myrtles, bays, arbutus and other exotics. Some of the myrtles from which the place received its name exceed twenty feet in height. Here also the first potatoes

MYRTLE GROVE.

ever planted in Ireland were grown; and also the first tobacco plant imported by Raleigh. Everyone knows the story of the servant maid who emptied a pail of water over her master, thinking him to be on fire. Whatever truth there may be in the tradition, there can be no doubt that the first pipe of tobacco lit in Ireland was smoked here. The house [illegible] thus be seen to be of unique historic [illegible] it is to be hoped that it [illegible] owner

DUSKY GIRL BRIDES.

Maori Maidens Often Marry at the Age of Thirteen.

The young Maori women are often very good-looking, with splendid black or dark brown eyes, masses of black hair—never wool—snow-white teeth, and supple, round, well-shaped figures and limbs. They develop very early, a girl of thirteen or fourteen being quite a woman and often a mother; and, as they get older, they soon become coarse and ponderous. They are of a laughing, good-natured, amiable disposition, and those who have come within the sphere of their charms say they have wonderfully seductive ways.

It is not uncommon for white men to marry Maori girls; but the instances of white women marrying Maori husbands are extremely few. The half castes are a very handsome race, some of the girls being perfect belles. They are said to combine all the vices of both the Europeans and the Maoris with none of the virtues of either; but that is altogether too severe a judgment.

Many of them are as good as they are agreeable, writes Edward Wakefield in the Cosmopolitan. They are usually delicate and the women bear few children, if any; so that there is no likelihood of a mixed population springing up to any large extent. The process is entirely one of whitening the Maoris, not of blackening the Pakehas.

Neither Boy Nor Girl.

In connection with the announcement of the birth of a child to Countess Dudley, the following incident in connection with the birth of his father is recalled: An old friend of the family called at the town residence in Park lane to learn the news. "Is it a boy?" he asked the gorgeous flunky who opened the door. "No," quoth Jeames. "What, is it a girl?" "No, sir." The old friend became much interested. "Bless me, then, what is it?" The flunky proudly responded: "It's a heir."

RACING AT NIGHT.

An Experiment Tried With Complete Success at St. Louis.

A week's trial at St. Louis has demonstrated the fact that horse-racing by electric light is no longer a matter of speculation or experiment. The results of the initial attempt at South Side park show that the scheme is eminently successful from all standpoints. One evening a number of eastern capitalists were present and went away satisfied after what they had seen that this idea could be successfully carried out provided, like any other form of amusement, it took with the public. The attempt to run horses at night by artificial light is not a late one. It has been tried repeatedly before in this country, France and England, but the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says never with any great success.

The course by night presents a striking picture. Everything is dazzling white; stands, fences, posts, in fact everything around the place that will stand a coat of paint or whitewash has been treated to a bright coating of white. Under the steady glow of the incandescent lights the effect is bewildering. Around the track at a height of twenty feet runs a wire strung like the trolley of an electric railroad. Along this at a distance of twenty-five feet are strung clusters of incandescent lamps, the space between them being so short that a man walking under them would cast no shadow on the ground. There are four lights in each cluster, and the current put in them is up to their fullest capacity. They have four times the intensity of the incandescent burner. In addition to this circular constellation giant search-lights are placed to illuminate the turns. These powerful lamps throw a very penetrating ray, making the gaudy colors of the jockey's clothing as distinguishable as in broad daylight. So powerful are the rays of these lamps that a peculiar arrangement is made use of to muzzle the rays in order to prevent shadows. In addition to this the grand stand is one blaze of light, making the home stretch bright as day. The effect from the grand stand is really beautiful. The broad track encircling the inclosure lies sharply defined under a circle of light beating down on it with such fierce intensity that the most minute depression is defined.

BLAINE'S SUCCESSOR.

Hon. John Watson Foster, the New Secretary of State.

Mr. Foster is an Indianian, having been born in Pike county, March 2, 1836. He received his education at the Indiana state university and the Harvard law school, and began the practice of law at Evansville in 1856. He served through the war in the western armies of Grant and Sherman, and was commander of the advance brigade of cavalry in Burnside's expedition to East Tennessee. After the war Mr. Foster became editor of the Evansville Daily Courier, and was appointed postmaster of that city in 1869. His diplomatic experience began in 1873, when he was sent by President Grant as minister to Mexico. He was reappointed to that position by President Hayes in 1880, but in 1881 was transferred to St. Petersburg, which post he resigned to attend to private business. He established himself at Washington, where he enjoyed an extensive legal practice in international cases. President Arthur appointed him minister to Spain, where he served from February, 1883, to March, 1885. He negotiated a commercial treaty with that country, which, however, was rejected by the United States senate, and was withdrawn by President Cleveland. Afterwards Mr. Foster went on a special mission to Spain to reopen negotiations for a modified treaty, but he was unsuccessful. During the administration of President Harrison he has been constantly consulted about the conduct of foreign affairs and has occupied the most confidential relations with the president.

Holy Lands of All Religions.

Christians call Palestine the Holy Land because it was the birthplace of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, as well as of our religion. To the Mohammedans, Mecca, in Arabia, is the Holy Land, it being the scene of the nativity of Mohammed, the savior of those who believe in his doctrine. India is the Holy Land of the Chinese and other Oriental Buddhists, it being the native land of Sakya-Muni, the Supreme Buddha. Elis, one of the several divisions of the ancient Peloponnesus, was the Mecca and the Jerusalem of the Greeks. The temple of Olympius Zeus was situated at Elis, and sacred festivals were held there each year. The believers in the Sinto religion make annual pilgrimages to Sitsa-Kara, the immense stone pillar where their supreme ruler last stood when talking to men.

Didn't want a Pony.

Small Boy—Papa, Willie Winker's got a pony.

Papa—Has?

"Yes, and it's the bee-utafullist pony I ever saw."

"You don't say!"

"Just as gentle as can be. I rode on it, an' didn't fall off once. A boy couldn't get hurt on that pony."

"I suppose not."

"It eats hardly anything, too, and doesn't cost much to keep."

"It doesn't?"

"Not anything, hardly. Willie said his papa bought it real cheap."

"No doubt."

"And he said there was plenty more where that came from."

"Humph! Do you want me to buy you a pony?"

"N-o. I was only thinkin' what a nice pony Willie Winkers has."

"Oh!"

"Yes. Willie's got a nice papa, too, hasn't he?"—Good News.

Preferred the Whistle.

Cupid was flying irregularly between them, so to speak, as they were strolling along. He was feeling a good deal like a man going past a cemetery, and was whistling.

"I wish you wouldn't whistle," she said pettishly. "It is positively rude!"

He looked at her a moment and stopped. Then he began to sing—softly. He sang for a few minutes.

"Harry!" she said, almost tenderly. His face lighted up with hope. "Please whistle!" she requested pleadingly.—Demorest.

He Laughed Once Only.

"I suppose you haven't forgotten that it is leap year," he said, as he took a seat beside her, "and so I must be careful not to lead the conversation in a dangerous direction," and he laughed.

"I had quite forgotten it," she said, with a yawn; "what's the use of remembering it when you never meet a man who is worth proposing to?"

This time he didn't laugh.—N. Y. Press.

Part of His Duties.

Visitor (in a newspaper office)—Who is the little man at yonder desk?

Attendant—That is the religious editor.

"Does he do nothing but write religious matter?"

"Oh! yes; he writes the tips for races every day."—Truth.

What Worked It.

Seedy Customer (at entrance of baseball park)—I have always had a curiosity to know something about the mechanism of a turnstile. On what principle does it work?

Gatekeeper—Cash every time. Step aside, my friend. You are hindering the procession.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Claim Established.

"Fashionable! Why do you call her fashionable?"

"Because she is. She always talks at the theater while the play is going on, her children are kept in the nursery when she's at home, and she never allows herself to be seen in her husband's company."—N. Y. Press.

How Could He Help It?

Meddergrass (of Yaphank)—You've got me charged one dollar for extra gas.

Hotel Clerk—Yes, sir. It was burning all night in your room.

Meddergrass—Well, what's a fellow to do? You've got a sign hangin' there that says: "Don't blow out the gas."—Jury.

His Only Compunction.

Minister (to small boy caught in the orchard)—Doesn't your conscience ever trouble you after you have stolen fruit, my son?

Small Boy—No, sir, but my stomach often does.—Pharmaceutical Era.

An Embarrassing Delay.

"I—er—I'd—didn't bring the ring tonight," he said, in an embarrassed tone.

"Why, Henry! Why not?" she asked, in a severe tone, and with a reproachful look.

"Well—er—the fact is—er—the other—the—other girl who—er—who had it hasn't—er—hasn't sent it back yet."—[illegible]

SOLDIERS GUARD THE BUFFALO YARDS

Two Regiments Ordered to the Scene Early This Morning.

CENTRAL AND WEST SHORE SWITCHMEN MAY ALSO STRIKE.

The Desertions of Deputies So Disgusted the Sheriff That He Decided to Call Out the Militia—Assaults Upon Non-Union Men—Many Fires Started in the Lehigh Valley Yards Yesterday—Great Damage Done—Demands of the Men—Trouble at Other Points.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 16.—This morning everything is quiet at the East Buffalo yards. Both battalions of the 74th and 65th regiments are on duty in the yards, and it is unlikely that any more trouble will occur at present.

Several small fires were started in the Lehigh Valley yards last night, but they were easily extinguished.

The strikers were in session until 2 a. m. in Gammell's Hall, but no more strikes were ordered, as had been anticipated.

At a late hour last night Sheriff Beck was notified by officials of the New York Central and West Shore roads that they would expect him to protect their property in the event of a strike on their lines.

There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of those posted in railway matters but that the New York Central and West Shore switchmen at this point will quit work unless the difficulty between the men now on strike and their employers are adjusted.

Sheriff Beck seems to have met with ill-success in answer to his call for deputies at $3 a day. All they did was to desert as fast as they reached East Buffalo. The desertions so disgusted the official that he decided to call out the militia.

Yesterday morning the striking switchmen renewed their destruction of railroad property.

One hundred and fifty cars were set on fire on the tracks outside the city line between 10 and 4 o'clock and burned fiercely. The purpose of this latest outrage was to block the tracks so that trains cannot be sent through.

The fire being outside of the city limits the Fire Department could not go there and it raged unfought. It was thought that the engines might remain inside the city and run out long lines of hose for the railroad men to handle, but that was found to be impracticable after water had been spread on a few cars which were near the line. Over 4,000 feet of hose were run out in one case.

There were probably 1,500 cars between Buffalo and Lancaster and as nothing was done to stay the progress of the flames they were destroyed.

When the Lehigh freight No. 86 attempted to get out of the yards it was held up by the strikers.

The train had moved slowly as far as Bailey avenue, when suddenly a mob of strikers darted out from among the cars on side tracks and other places of concealment and commanded the engineer and fireman to get down and give the train into their hands. They were compelled to do it.

At 1 o'clock a message from the operator at William street station said that the fire had broken out at three different places in the yards and indications were that serious damage would be done as the fire was burning fiercely.

Nothing could be done by the engines attached to the trains as the crews were driven from their engines and threats were made if the men attempted to move them.

The Fire Department was unable to do anything on account of the absence of hydrants in the neighborhood.

One road had the stock trains ready to leave for the east at 6 o'clock but they were not moved as the strikers threatened to kill the crew if they left the yards.

At 2 a. m. a train of coal cars on the Lehigh Valley caught fire at each end and burned fiercely.

Here and there, at intervals of a few minutes, fires broke out all along the line and as many as a dozen different blazes were seen at one time, the sky being lurid with the reflection of the flames.

At about this time all the switch lights between Smith street and the Western New York & Pennsylvania target were stolen, and the switches could not be seen in the darkness.

A wrecking train left the city at 2 a. m. to bring in the passengers from train No. 1 on the other side of the fire and Lehigh train No. 25 from Philadelphia.

The trains were both late as they approached the city and were thrown from the rails by the turning of switches.

At 2:45 o'clock train No. 1's passengers were brought into the city tired and disgusted. They were not molested by the strikers, but the ladies and children were considerably frightened by the rioting and the bonfires of freight cars.

Lehigh Valley train No. 25 arrived at the station at 8 a. m. It had been lying at William street since 10 o'clock at night. The strikers had the impression that the extra train, which was filled with actors from the "Hands Across the Sea" company, was a car of non-union men to fill the place of strikers.

The strikers searched it, but failing to find any non-union men they withdrew without injuring anybody.

Members of the theatrical company stated that the confusion and fire just beyond William street was appalling. Around the burning cars strikers and their sympathizers were enjoying the result of their lawless work. Perched high on box cars they mocked and jeered at the railroad men working at the blazing wrecks.

About a dozen men were assaulted and injured by the strikers.

Grand Master Sweeney said this morning that he regretted the outbreak of lawlessness and condemned it, but he thought much of it had been committed by outsiders.

The trouble has been brewing, of course, for a long time, and the tactics of the strikers in starting their fires outside of the city limits and their cunningness in making the fires shows a carefully prepared plan of campaign.

The switchmen sent the following ineffectual deman to Supt. Brunn: (!

"SIR—The undersigned committee, representing the switchmen employed by your company at Suspension Bridge, Black Rock and Buffalo, beg leave to present the following for your consideration:

Day foremen, $65 a month; day helpers, $60 a month; night foremen, $70 a month; night helpers, $55 a month; ten hours to constitute day or night work; overtime to be paid at an hour rate and computed as follows: Day foremen 25 cents an hour; day helpers, 23 cents an hour; night foremen, 27 cents; night helpers, 25 cents an hour. Crews working 30 minutes of any hour shall receive one hour's pay; less than thirty minutes not to be counted. When crews commence work either day or night, they are not to be laid off for any cause other than their own acts and will work wherever the yardmaster may direct in yard service. Switchmen suspended or discharged will be given a fair, impartial hearing within five days after date of suspension or dismissal before his immediate superior, subject to an appeal to higher official authority, and if he be found innocent, he shall be reinstated at full pay.

NO CONCESSIONS TO STRIKERS.

The Reading Taking Summary Action to Protect Its Property.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—President McLeod of the Philadelphia & Reading Road has taken summary action to protect the road from damage and passengers from injury, in view of the strike of the Lehigh Valley switchmen at Buffalo. He has directed that printed notices be placed at all conspicuous points offering a reward of $5,000 to any person or persons furnishing evidence which will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons who shall be guilty of violence to the company's employes, or destruction of its property.

President McLeod says no concessions will be made to the strikers. The company views the trouble in a serious aspect, but expects to win. In speaking of the sending from this city of 50 non-union switchmen to Buffalo, he said today.

"There are 1,000 men who are ready and willing to take the places of the strikers. All that is needed is the assurance of the authorities that they will be protected. We wish our property to be placed under police protection and our employes guarded from danger. As for the rest we will attend to that."

In speaking of the loss of property at Buffalo, President McLeod said:

"The loss will not be much. If considerable property is destroyed the loss will not fall upon the company because we called upon the authorities to protect our property. If they do not protect it, then they are responsible for the damage and not the company. It is their duty to protect our property when we need protection and request it. As to the strike spreading to other points of the Reading system I have no fear."

TROUBLE AT SAYRE, PA.

Strikers Refuse to Allow Cars to be Moved —3,000 Cars Tied Up.

SAYRE, Pa., Aug. 16.—Lehigh switchmen caused a good deal of trouble here by refusing to allow trains to be moved, and it is estimated that 3,000 cars are tied up in the yards. Sheriff Powell of Bradford county, accompanied by Sheriff Foley and a posse of 70 men arrived in Sayre at 11 o'clock and said that an effort would be made to run trains. At 1:40 an effort was made to start an engine and caboose up the new road. It was immediately surrounded by strikers.

The sheriff distributed his men on each side of the track, and demanded that the men allow the engine to pass. The sheriff attempted to turn a switch right in front of the Sayre depot, and finally succeeded, despite violent objections by the men. The strikers soon succeeded in turning it back, and the engine remained motionless on the track. Superintendent Stevenson appeared on the scene, but his presence on the engine had no effect. Later the locomotive trainmen held a meeting and resolved that they would not do switchmen's work. At present the strikers are in complete possession.

The Strike Felt in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 16.—The strike of railroad switchmen in Buffalo is now beginning to make itself felt at this terminal of the road in Jersey City. Freight traffic over all the roads that come into Jersey City from the West is partly suspended. Many trains are stalled at and near Buffalo. Those that reach this city are, in a majority of cases, several hours late.

FIVE JOCKEYS HURT.

A Collision at Gloucester that May Result Fatally.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 16.—An accident which may result in two deaths occurred yesterday afternoon on the Gloucester track in the first race. The event was 4 1-2 furlongs and there were eleven starters. As the horses were rounding the turn entering into the home-stretch, Sir Jim was in the lead with Hurry Away, the favorite, running second. The others were closely bunched behind. Suddenly Hurry Away stumbled and fell and a half dozen other horses and their jockeys fell in a heap, like so many ten-pins. The animals, strange to say, were not injured, but picked themselves up and scampered away.

The jockeys with the exception of Plankuchen, who rode Cavalier, were lying all over the track insensible. Moore, the colored rider of Joe B, soon revived, but the other riders are mostly in a critical condition. They are Horton, who rode Patrick; Brooker, the rider of Catherine, McGlone, rider of Hurry Away; Cleary, on Wild Fire colt, and Morrisey, who was mounted upon Come On.

Cleary is the worst hurt of the lot. The colt tread upon his face and disfigured him fearfully. He is delirious in a local hotel and had to be put in a straight-jacket. He may die. Morrisey was taken to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, and is still unconscious. He has a severe contusion of the head, is injured internally and is hurt about the hips. His condition is serious. The others are badly hurt.

INMAN WORKS RAIDED

More Convicts Released By Tennessee Miners.

THE STOCKADE WAS DEMOLISHED.

Guards Unable to Make Any Resistance—The Sheriff Refused to Act—Gov. Buchanan Ready to Furnish Troops When Called Upon—Situation at Coal Creek.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 16.—A chain gang of 275 convicts were liberated from the Inman stockade yesterday by a mob of miners numbering 300. The guards were unable to make any resistance. The convicts are still under the guard of part of the mob. The convicts were taken to Victoria for shipment to Nashville. The stockade was torn down, and the miners executed a war dance about the wreck.

The sheriff of the county was notified before the mob reached the stockade, but refused to act. He has been ordered to the scene by Judge Moon of the Circuit Court. Twenty watchmen on the way to strengthen the regular guard were captured by the miners and disarmed.

Governor Buchanan telegraphed Sheriff Morrison to summon a sufficient posse to rid the county of the lawbreakers, and added that he was ready to furnish as many State troops as might be needed.

Last night the convicts were sent here in closed cars, under guard. They were received by the penitentiary officials. There was no room for them, the State prison being full already. The warden will put them in a tent or storeroom. The Tennessee Coal and Iron Company refuse to pay for the transportation or the support of the convicts while here. The State Prison Board will meet here to-day to take some action. The whole State is greatly excited and demands are being made hourly by citizens that the Governor order out the troops at once and quell the disturbance.

SITUATION AT COAL CREEK.

Many Residents Leaving for Fear of a Battle.

KNOXVILLE, Aug. 16.—There is no positive indication of serious trouble at Coal Creek or Oliver Springs, the only places in this section where convicts are employed. The leaders of the miners are very reticent, but it is believed that they have no desire of causing any further trouble at present.

There are no soldiers at Oliver, and the lessees of the convicts fearing an attack have more than doubled the number of guards. A company of 185 militiamen equipped with Spencer rifles and a gatling gun are stationed at Coal Creek, and an attack there would mean a desperate and bloody battle.

A company of infantry is stationed in their armory in this city ready to march at a moment's notice. Many residents of the village of Coal Creek, fearing a battle, have removed their effects to places of safety.

A NUMBER OF PRECEDENTS.

The Question of Eligibility of the Monetary Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Government officials attach no particular importance to the question raised in regard to the eligibility of the three Congressional Commissioners for the United States to the International Monetary Conference, namely, Senators Allison and Jones, and Representative McCreary.

It is said that the compensation as used in the Sundry Civil bill and as applied to the appointment of the Commissioners and the expenses of the Commission was really intended to apply only to Messrs. Walker and Cannon, the remaining Commissioners who have no connection with the Government, and to defray the various expenses incurred by the Commission such as traveling, clerk hire, printing.

There are a number of precedents where members have served on various commissions. A case in point and which is considered analagous, is that of Senator Morgan, who is a member of the Behring Sea Arbitration Board.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—The United States steamship Boston has been ordered to proceed to Honolulu to relieve the United States steamer San Francisco.

—Five sailors have made complaint at Victoria, B. C., that they were kidnapped by the Sailors' Union at Port Gable and shipped to Victoria.

—The property of C. H. Abbott & Co., owners of shoe factories in Chelsea and South Royalton, Vt., has been attached. Liabilities unknown.

—A conference was held at the Treasury Department yesterday afternoon with a view to shutting out all woolen goods from Europe likely to be infected with cholera.

—Signs of phylloxera have appeared among the vines at Rilly, near Rheims, and at Ay and Hautvillers, France. All infected vines are being destroyed without delay.

—William Martin, who claims to be the champion six-day bicycle rider of the world, has issued a challenge to Charles W. Ashlinger to ride a 24-hour race for $200 a side.

—The body of a boy named Raymond, of Hull, Quebec, was found in the mountains near Lake Tappen, this State yesterday, half eaten by a bear and evidences of a terrible encounter all around.

—Since the 3rd of August $1,200,000 in small notes have been sent from the Sub-Treasury in New York to the Western States to meet the demand for notes of small denominations, growing out of the movement of crops.

AFFAIRS AT HOMESTEAD.

The Boycott Matter—Important Developments Forthcoming.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 16.—While the manifesto published by the Federation of Labor, with which the Amalgamated Association is affiliated, does not declare a compulsory boycott against Carnegie steel, it is claimed that a boycott will be insisted upon wherever it can be made effective. This was fully demonstrated by the action of the committees representing the Amalgamated Association that have called upon manufacturers for the purpose of closing up the scale agreements.

A member of the Carnegie firm said today that if any of the manufacturers agreed to the demands being made for a boycott such action would immediately bring the matter into the courts where suits for conspiracy would be entered. He said, however, that they did not believe that they would meet with any trouble on this account.

At 1 a. m. the Advisory Board of the Carnegie workmen held a secret meeting at headquarters. The session lasted for nearly an hour. The members of the committee refused in the most positive terms to make public the object of the extraordinary meeting.

Chairman Tom Crawford said that there had been only an informal talk between the members of the board, but from another source it was learned that the strikers received information late Sunday night that 400 men now in the mill desired to quit work in a body.

A committeeman, after stipulating that his name should not be used, said: "I won't tell you what we did at our little informal talk, but I will say this: There will be important developments within the next 48 hours, and if things turn out as we confidently expect they will, the public will be treated to some news of a startling nature. I tell you that the events and incidents of the last ten hours have entirely changed the aspect of affairs. I don't mean by this that we have discovered any large amount of disease in the mills or anything of a kindred nature, but I mean that the outlook at present is decidedly rosy for us."

Superintendent Potter could not be found last night but one of the clerks of the company said that there was a rumor that the Government Inspectors had refused to accept the plates recently turned out by the new men.

Homestead Strike Endorsed.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16.—At the annual meeting of the New Jersey Federation of Trades' Unions resolutions were adopted favoring the strict enforcement of the 55-hour law, and another calling for an act under which district-attorneys may sue for wages. The early closing movement was approved, and it was the sense of the meeting that all candidates for office should be pledged to support labor legislation. The Homestead strike was endorsed, and a recommendation made that other workmen refrain from striking at present, in order that pecuniary assistance may be given to the locked-out men at the Carnegie mills.

NONE LIKELY TO DIE.

The People Poisoned at Amenia, N. Y., on Sunday, Doing Well.

AMENIA, N. Y., Aug. 16. — It is now thought that all the persons who were poisoned in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday will recover.

The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Bell, mistook a bottle of vitriol for the communion wine and passed it through the church.

About twenty persons sipped the poison. One Ezra Wilson discovered the true nature of the liquid and gave the alarm. The report created great excitement, amounting almost to a panic in the church.

All who had tasted the vitriol became violently ill.

Physicians were quickly summoned and the church room resembled a hospital ward.

Among those poisoned were Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, wife of the sheriff of the county; Mrs. Charles Walsh, wife of the editor of the "American Times," and Mrs. Murdock, wife of a leading merchant of the village.

The Rev. Mr. Bell purchased the vitriol recently and by mistake put it where the wine bottle is usually kept.

SHE INTENDED MURDER.

A Hudson, Mich., Girl's Plan to Burn Up Her Relatives.

HUDSON, Mich., Aug. 16.—Jennie Tabor, of this place, who was arrested because her younger brother discovered 20 dynamite cartridges concealed about the house, has made a startling confession.

She said she was going to blow up the house, together with her brother and sister, to secure the whole of her dead father's $5,000 estate. She says that she was instigated by her lover, William Meiers, who also recently compelled her to go with him and rob George Goodwind's residence, and with the money they got bought the dynamite cartridges.

The officers, however, are certain that Meiers is innocent.

Well-Poisoner Evans Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—William Evans, who is suspected of the wholesale poisoning of the Rosser family and others at Oakgrove, near Laurel, Del., by putting arsenic in the well, was arrested in the afternoon while unloading railroad ties at the Pennsylvania Railroad wharf at Tacony, a suburb of this city. The arrest was made at the request and in the presence of Delaware State detectives Bernard J. McVey and Walter Witsil. Evans will be held to await such action as may follow disclosures by further investigation of the affair.

Paris Green on Potatoes.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 16.—A family named Morgan, living in Hampden, were poisoned on Saturday by eating potatoes on which Paris green had been used to kill bugs. The father and son are now somewhat relieved, but the mother may not recover. Other persons in the neighborhood who used some of the potatoes were also taken sick, but less violently than were the Morgans.

Challenged for a Balloon Contest.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—Miss E. C. Crawford, of this city, has challenged Miss Rose May of Peoria, Ill., the aeronaut and parachute leaper, to a test of skill, $200 a side and balloon against balloon. The points on which the contest are to be decided are: Time consumed in filling balloon, height of ascension, height of jump in parachute, and length of time of balloon in air.

FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Awful Ravages of Cholera in Teheran.

NO EFFORTS TO STAY ITS PROGRESS

The New Cabinet Will be Announced as Soon as Mr. Gladstone Arrives from Osborne—Its Probable Complexion—Other Cable Notes.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 16.—Reports from Teheran say that the cholera spreads in that city daily. The people are dying at the rate of 2,000 a week, and there is every probability of greater mortality. The streets of the city are exceptionally filthy and the panic among the workingmen is so complete that laborers cannot be found to clean them.

Efforts to press men into the street cleaning service in the foulest part of the city have resulted only in incipient riot. All officials whose services are not required in the city have left, and the court has gone to Saltaneeyan. Medical help is unknown among the poor.

Most of the working people, moreover, live in earth houses which are undrained, and are in condition to succumb at once to the disease. In 19 cases out of 20, it is estimated, the disease is fatal. In the lower parts of the city the people have ceased caring for their dead.

The American Mission Hospital is treating many cases. Outside of it there is hardly an effort to stay the cholera's progress.

THE LIBERAL CABINET.

Reported Differences Between Gladstone and Lord Rosebery.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—While no authentic news of the composition of the new Cabinet can be obtained before Mr. Gladstone's return from Osborne House, the following list is said to be correct, nearly in every particular:

Premier and First Lord of the Treasury—W. E. Gladstone.

Lord Chancellor—Lord Herschell.

Chancellor of the Exchequer—Sir William Harcourt.

Foreign Office—Earl of Rosebery.

Home Office—H. H. Asquith.

War Office—Campbell Bannerman.

Admiralty—Earl Spencer.

Chief Secretary for Ireland—John Morley.

President of the Board of Trade—A. J. Mundella.

Local Government Board—Henry Fowler.

The great subject of discussion continues to be the reported difference between Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery. There is no certainty yet that Lord Rosebery will enter the Cabinet. It is certain that, if he is not put in charge of Foreign Affairs, the Liberal cause will be greatly weakened.

The Tories are ardently hoping that there is a breach, as reported, between Mr. Gladstone and the man who has been one of his closest friends, and who was his host during the Midlothian campaign. The point of difference between the two is said to be the evacuation of Egypt, and it is also said that the difference did not originate since the assurance of Conservative defeat, but that Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery discussed the subject at Dalmeny Park, with a result unsatisfactory to both.

Lord Rosebery considers the retention of Egypt indispensable to the security of Great Britain's possessions in the East, and he is rather inclined to strengthen than to weaken the British hold upon the country. He is also, it is said, strongly in favor of the proposed railway to the Victoria Nyanza, a project against which Mr. Gladstone has to some extent put himself on record.

It is said Lord Rosebery considers the British government virtually pledged to the construction of the railway, in compliance with the language and spirit of the general act of the Slave Trade conference at Brussels, which declared "that the most effective means for counteracting the slave trade in the interior of Africa are the following:

"The construction of roads, and in particular of railways connecting the advanced stations with the coast, and permitting easy access to the inland waters and to such of the upper courses of the rivers and streams as are broken by rapids and cataracts, in view of substituting economical and rapid means of transport for the present means of carriage."

The railway scheme cannot go ahead, beyond the preliminary survey, unless the government is willing to guarantee three per cent. interest upon the capital of two million pounds, and as to the justice and prudence of doing this there is said to be wide difference of opinion between Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery.

Notwithstanding these and perhaps other differences, it is reported to-day that Lord Rosebery will take the Foreign Office, and disappoint the Tories in their expectation of being able to raise a jingo cry against Mr. Gladstone.

Manklow Remanded for Trial.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Leonard Manklow was arraigned at the Bromley Police Court during the moring on the charge of attempting to murder Miss Hilda Wood, 15 years of age, and Miss Edith Pillbrick, aged 14. A crowd of people assembled, and threats to lynch the prisoner were frequently heard. Manklow wept and looked terribly frightened. The prisoner was remanded for further examination.

Salisbury Before the House of Lords.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In the House of Lords at noon, Lord Salisbury stated that the Cabinet had presented its resignation, which had been accepted by the Queen. His lordship then asked Lord Kimberley, as the leader of the Liberal peers, to explain to the House the foreign and domestic policy of the incoming government.

Chicago Editor Calls on Cleveland.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Aug. 16.—Washington Hesing, editor and proprietor of the "Staats Zeitung" of Chicago, called on Mr. Cleveland yesterday. He came on principally to impress upon Mr. Cleveland the necessity of concentrating the efforts of the party in Illinois and Wisconsin, also to establish a branch of the National Committee in Chicago, in charge of the members of that committee from the two States mentioned.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The city common council meets to-night.

—A rare treat is offered the public in the Salvation Army ice-cream jubilee Thursday night.

—The Arlingtons will play the Giants of North Plainfield on the Park avenue grounds to-morrow morning at 10.

—Great improvements are being made at the store of the Sherman Outfitting Co., at 49 West Front street, where fine clothing may be purchased on credit at cash prices.

—A meeting of the New Jersey Trotting Breeders' association will take place at Somerville, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The list shows that J. W. Johnson, M. Quinn and Mr. Brower of this city, have horses entered.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Major R. L. Burnett and wife are at Elberon.

The Misses French are home again from Asbury Park.

Caleb Dickinson and family are enjoying a family picnic at Papiac to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Slauson and family are home from the Pocono mountains.

William Palmer Smith and family, of Netherwood, have gone to Long Beach.

Miss Julia Johnson, formerly of East Second street, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Lizette Harrison, of Broadway, returned from Lake George this morning.

Miss Nellie Koechli of Somerset street, left town to-day for her uncle's home in Beverly.

The family of Charles P. Rice, the contractor, leave to-morrow for a stay at Rockaway.

Mrs. Edward H. Dobbs and family, of East Second street, are among the hills of Sullivan county, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Vail left yesterday for the Pocono mountains, in the vicinity of Stroudsburg, Pa., for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Grinnell, of Netherwood, leave the last of this week for Brattleboro, Vt., for a month's visit.

Mrs. James Totten and Mrs. P. F. Flannelly have gone for a week's visit among relatives at Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

A. M. Vanderbeek, wife and baby, left town Saturday for North Branch, the home of Mr. Vanderbeek's father, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman have returned from Belmar. Their infant daughter has fully recovered from her serious illness.

Samuel J. Moore, formerly of Plainfield, but now one of Poughkeepsie's progressive business men, is visiting friends here and in the borough.

The Country club, which issued invitations for Saturday receptions in July and August, failed to attract any guests last week, owing to the heat.

J. T. Pearson, of Greene avenue, Brooklyn, is building a new house at Netherwood, which when finished he will make his home. He left Netherwood seven years ago but has n't been comfortable since.

One of the most beautiful trees at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, is named the "Nellie tree", after the late Miss Nellie Howard, sister of L. E. Howard of East Ninth street. Previous to her death she took a great fancy to this tree, and it now bears a tablet inscribed "the Nellie tree" in honor of her memory.

Base-Ball Notes.

Carbonell, of the Somerville team, has made a bid for the position of manager of next year's Crescent League team. He says he'll pick and run the team and guarantee to win the pennant or forfeit such a sum of money as may be agreed upon.

The latest rumor is that manager McCloud of the Elizabeth team, says that pitcher Francis was drugged before last Saturday's game.

Some of the Crescents played in Paterson last Sunday. During the game in which Leidy played, he says: "The score was 5 to 3 against us and we had two men out and none on base in the last inning, when Sutter made a single, I followed with a double, Bonner followed with a three-bagger and gentle Willie wound up with a hit over the fence that druv the last of us in and won the game."

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Harvey G. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

DR. CARROLL'S CHURCH CENSUS

NEARLY 150 SEPARATE ORGANIZATIONS IN THE COUNTRY.

The Methodists Lead in the Number of Churches and Value of Church Property, the Catholics in the Number of Communicants—Statistics of Colored Churches, and Other Figures and Details Compiled by Plainfield Experts.

For many months a staff of expert statisticians, including a number of Plainfielders, have been steadily at work in the census office on North avenue, compiling the returns from census inquiries addressed to every religious institution in the country. This branch of Uncle Sam's figure work has been under the special direction of Dr. H. K. Carroll of North Plainfield, ably assisted by Charles E. Buel and a most efficient corps of clerks. These have gradually gathered together and properly arranged and classified a great mass of valuable information concerning the church denominations in the United States; and the first accurate public disclosure of these returns was made by Census Superintendent Robert P. Porter, in an address delivered at Asbury Park last Sunday. Mr. Porter announced the preliminary figures of Dr. Carroll's church statistics of the eleventh census, and they are both curious and interesting. There are shown to be in the United States nearly 150 separate and distinct church organizations, holding to widely different creeds, varying greatly in practice, and representing all possible variations of church polity. There are a dozen different branches of the Presbyterian family. There are some denominations that will answer only to the simplest, most indefinite title—for example, the Brethren. There are various churches that claim to be simply Brethren. Four of these are branches of what are popularly called "Plymouth Brethren", but they do not own the title "Plymouth"; nor is there any designation which they have adopted by which these four bodies of Plymouth Brethren may be distinguished from other Brethren. There are two Reformed churches, known as the "Reformed Church in America", and the "Reformed Church in the United States".

Some of the denominations were never numbered before, and it required the utmost powers of persuasion to induce them to submit to the process. Sects have been found and enumerated who claim less than 100 communicants. There are seven sects which altogether number only about 4,000 members, and yet own church edifices worth $70,000: Shakers, Amananites, Mennonites, Harmony, Separatists, New Icarians, and Altruists. All societies observing the communal life, whether founded on a religious or secular basis, are embraced in the returns. Two of these societies are not religious, the Icarian and the Altruist, but are organized to apply a social principle.

After the seven great denominations—Congregational, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Baptist, and Episcopal—have been accounted for, the other 134 religious associations represent less than 15 per cent. of the church edifices and less than 11 per cent. of the aggregate value of church property.

Some of the subdivisions of the Baptist churches are peculiar. The uninitiated persons finds it difficult to define the difference between the Seventh Day and the Six Principal Baptists, between the Mudhead Baptists and the River Brethren, between the Primitive and the Free Will, between the Original Free Will and the Old Two Seed in Spirit, between the General and the General Free Will. Besides these there are also the Regular South, the Regular North, and the Regular Colored Baptists.

The Society of Friends is divided into the Orthodox and Hicksite, the Wilburite and Primitive branches. There are seventeen or eighteen different branches of the Lutheran churches in this country. The following table shows the number of churches in the United States to-day as compared with forty years ago:

Denominations.	1850.	1890.
Congregational	1,706	4,736
Lutheran	1,221	6,569
Methodist	13,338	44,244
Presbyterian	4,836	12,053
Roman Catholic	1,227	8,766
Baptist	9,360	39,412
Episcopal	1,461	5,605
All others	5,097	20,471
Totals	38,183	142,256

The value of church property for the same period is as follows:

Denominations.	1850.	1890.
Congregational	$ 7,970,195	$ 43,335,437
Lutheran	2,854,286	34,218,234
Methodist	14,826,148	130,018,070
Presbyterian	14,557,089	94,876,233
Roman Catholic	9,256,758	118,381,516
Baptist	11,001,127	68,028,326
Episcopal	11,284,210	73,886,201
All others	15,506,558	68,777,086
Totals	$87,446,371	$631,221,303

In point of number the Methodists stood first in 1850, and still retain the lead. Nearly one-third of all the church edifices belong to the Methodist church, while the Baptists can lay claim to more than one-quarter. Relatively speaking, the Episcopal church retains about the same position to the other denominations as it did in 1850. On the other hand, the Roman Catholic church has advanced considerably, from a trifle over 3 per cent. of the total number to over 6 per cent. In point of value, however, the Catholic church has made still greater strides, from an ownership of 10½ per cent. of all the church property to an ownership of 18¾ per cent. In this respect the Catholic church now ranks second in importance, being exceeded only by the Methodist church, which returns a trifle over 20½ per cent. of the total value. In 1850 the value of church property of four denominations—Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Episcopal—outranked the Catholic church in this respect.

According to the returns of the Eleventh Census, the number of communicants in five principal religious denominations for which the statistics have been completed are:

Denominations.	No. Communicants.
Congregational	532,771
Lutheran	1,199,514
Methodist	4,238,277
Presbyterian	1,278,895
Roman Catholic	6,250,945
Total	13,496,322

PLAINFIELDERS IN THE WEST.

Freeholder Vanderbeek Writes Home of the Templars' Visit to Denver—Convinced that the Trolley's the Thing.

The following letter, sent to J. Frank Hubbard of this city, will be found of considerable public interest:

DENVER, Col., Aug. 11, 1892.

FRIEND HUBBARD:—We arrived here on Monday p. m., along with the crowd, all safe, and everybody looking happy. I think I never saw a city full of people so bent on enjoying themselves, and the inhabitants seem just as intent that they shall. We started from Jersey City at 2 p. m. Friday; arrived in Chicago Saturday at 10 a. m.; left Chicago via Chicago Northwestern to Omaha; arrived Sunday 9 a. m.; left Omaha at 4 p. m. via Union Pacific. The country looks beautiful. The crops are fine, in Nebraska especially so. What a grand country we have! It all looks Republican. I did not find a Democrat on the train; presume there were some. Everybody was very sociable. Met two women going from Chicago on to Denver whose berth was next to ours. They wore a great abundance of diamonds, and were very agreeable. They were Buffalo Bill's wife and daughter. When we drew near to Denver the Rocky Mountains began to loom up, with their snow-capped peaks. They first filled you with wonder and astonishment. Denver is a beautiful city. They spent $150,000 in decorations for the great gathering of Knights Templar. We all went down in the evening to see the sights. The electric decorations excelled anything I ever conceived of. The principal streets were a network of colored lights, with arches, shields, crosses and crowns; it was simply gorgeous. Many of the streets are paved with asphalt; some with brick; and anyone seeing their electric roads I think would forever hold their peace about street cars. The city is just interlaced from one end to the other with electric roads, both cable and trolley. Where we are stopping is three miles from the central station, and the cars run three miles beyond our place. I can step in the cars and get to the station as quickly as I can walk from my house in Plainfield to the store, and a good sight easier. The sun is warm through the day, but in the evening I put on my overcoat to go out. The air is invigorating, the altitude being one mile higher than New York. I look out of my bed-room window and see Pike's Peak looming up among the clouds. Just before sunset the mountains look as though you could throw a stone to them, yet they are 18 miles away. A fellow said he came to a stream of water; it looked so narrow he thought he would step across, but he fell in the middle of the stream. I expect to take a trip to some of the noted places before I return. I saw all of the Plainfielders since I started, and only wish you were here to go out and enjoy the delights of the region with us. My little grandchildren are all anxious for me to get this letter finished, as they are dressed for down town; they are going to take me out driving. With very kind regards to all friends.

A. VANDERBEEK.

The Gormans Are Coming.

It is a well-known fact to theatre-goers that the minstrel show is rapidly undergoing changes more marked than are the improvements in any other branch of the theatrical profession. Especially is this fact evidenced by the work of those prime favorites the Gorman Bros. and their famous company known as Gormans' High-Class minstrels.

They deserve credit for making a bold stride in minstrelsy for lifting it out of the dull old rut into which it had fallen. For many years the Gormans have devoted their time and energy to the development of minstrelsy alike to the gratification of their audiences and their own profit and fame. They have from year to year made departures from the time-worn methods until at the present time their performances are recognized not only for their unique originality, but as well for their cleanliness and meritorious character. Every year they present an entire new performance and this year the general plan of the programme they have arranged is entirely different to anything heretofore offered by them. In addition to the large number of specialists, vocalists, comedians and dancers, they produce a scenic first part with elaborate costuming and absolute originality throughout. George Gorman will be seen to decided advantage in new character song, etc. John Gorman will be on deck with many new things while Eddie Garvey, Billy Lyons, Evans, Estus, Sam Connor, Frank Farrell, Carey and Whalen, Chas. G. Taylor, George Brunton, George McCloud, Eaton, Walsh, Johnson, and others will appear in new specialties, songs and dances.

"The Golden Ball" is a charming operetta; it is based on a Siamese legend and is the composition of James Gorman one of the foremost producers in the profession.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

MERITS OF THE ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Fine Coaches, Swift Trains, and a Superb Roadbed, Make the Plainfield Railway Route the Most Superb on Earth.

Those who have used the Royal Blue line between Philadelphia and New York well know that that line is deservedly accredited as being the finest piece of railroad in the country; that its coaches are the most magnificent, and that its trains run more smoothly and are the fastest in the world. To those, however, who have never used the Royal Blue line, the following extract from a letter written by an eminent railroad authority to a gentleman connected with the Reading railroad system, will doubtless prove interesting. After the usual formal greetings, the letter reads.

"I have just taken my first ride on the Reading, having come over from New York this morning on your 11:30 a. m. Royal Blue line train, and I cannot refrain from congratulating you on being connected with so superb a railroad. We made mile after mile in just fifty seconds, and the train ran as smoothly as though not exceeding ten miles per hour. The appointments were first-class, and I never had a better dinner or one better served on any dining car."

Commendation from the source whence this came must have been particularly gratifying to the Reading officials. It has always been the aim of the present Reading management to provide the very best for its patrons, and the service on the Royal Blue line, as well as on all other portions of the Reading system, is conclusive evidence of success in that direction. That the discriminating public appreciate these efforts and recognize the fact that the Royal Blue line trains are, as advertised, the finest, fastest and safest in the world, is evidenced by the constantly increasing business on that line.

CAMP WANAMASSA.

What Plainfielders and Others Have Been Doing at the Religious Camp Near Asbury Park.

The past week has been one of the most interesting of the season at Wanamassa, the new camp of the Young Men's Christian association. The interest has been divided between a summer Bible school and a series of sports on Deal Lake and entertainments given by the new organization known as the Wanamassa Braves. The Bible school will continue until Aug. 18, and the closing address will be made by the Rev. R. R. Meredith, D. D., of Brooklyn, on the subject, "Leisure Hours and How to Use Them".

On March 19 last Dr. D. C. English, of New Brunswick; Hon. E. Drake, of Newark; E. P. Holden and F. M. Geer, of New York city, the committee of the State committee of the Y. M. C. A., went to the Park and located the building sites, placing the stakes in the snow. The roads were not even cut through then. Now a fine auditorium, executive residence, and another building for an executive building and 100 tents grace the grounds.

In addition to these there has been graded a fine athletic grounds containing seven acres, on which have been erected a large gymnasium and bowling alleys, and one of the best bicycle tracks in the country is nearly completed. The track is being constructed under the supervision of Zimmerman, the champion bicyclist, and according to his ideas of a professional track. These grounds and buildings are the gift of Messrs. W. B. and J. C. W. Stout, two prominent gentlemen of Asbury Park, and the New Jersey Legislature at its last session passed a bill to give the trustees of the Y. M. C. A. executive committee the power to take the title to the camp grounds.

Most of the lots at Wanamassa, adjacent to the camp, have been taken. These are sold on the share plan. Many New Jersey families will erect cottages here in the near future. William Blanchard, of Newark, the son of the president of the insurance company, has plans for an $8,000 cottage to be erected next season. J. M. Sayre has bought several lots. W. R. Janeway, the paper manufacturer of New Brunswick; State secretary More, H. M. Shaw and others have purchased lots.

Nearly a thousand people have been tenting and boarding at the camp this season, about seven hundred are young men. Among some of the New Jersey tenters are S. M. Leonard, Jersey City; D. A. Hancock, C. W. Williams, E. S. Coles, of the same place. Plainfield has been represented by C. T. Kissam, J. A. Robinson, W. H. Sampson. Newark by Hon. Elkanah Drake and family, M. A. Carpenter, W. E. Haywood, A. K. Craig. Paterson by G. H. Demorest. Plainfield is also represented by W. F. Moore, E. O. Sexton, H. H. Probasco.

The young men at the camp are having plenty of fun, and they have formed an organization known as the Wanamassa Braves. W. W. Page, of the New York Herald, is the chief. J. J. Fous, a prominent young minister of Brooklyn, is secretary and interpreter. The Braves give their entertainments in full Indian costume with pow-wows and ghost dances.

Among some of the prominent speakers who have made addresses there this season have been the Rev. H. C. Hasting, the anti-infidel lecturer; Albert Mann, D. D., of Newark; John H. Elliott, of Minneapolis; the Rev. Dr. Dickinson, of Newark.

There Was n't a Trolley in Sight.

Mr. Lovejoy of Evona was out driving with his two sons last night when his horse took fright at a locomotive headlight and ran away. The phaeton was upset, and the boys were buried under it, while Mr. Lovejoy was thrown violently upon his shoulder. Edward Sebring extricated the lads and took the trio in his wagon to Dr. Brakeley's, where their injuries were attended to. Luckily, no bones were broken.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.]

EXTRA.

Latest News By Wire to THE PRESS.

A SHOCKING SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A shocking scene was witnessed on Park Row last night in front of the Cleveland Hotel. Rudolph Eckstein and Michael Warren were passing along the street at fifteen minutes to twelve, when they were startled by hearing a shriek, supplemented with a crash. Turning, they saw the body of a nude man prone upon the sidewalk in front of the hotel. Blood was flowing from it across the flagstones, the head was crushed, and the brains were scattered about. Eckstein examined the body, and found that it was dead.

Nearly every bone was broken. The dead man's name, it was ascertained, was Johan Kœrner. He was 40 years old, and had been a book printer.

His room was on the top floor of the six-story building. Kœrner was despondent, because he was dying of consumption. Besides this he had no money and was starving. A few months before, the man had been robust and tipped the scales at 315 pounds, but quick consumption had reduced his weight.

Evidently he had taken off his clothes and jumped from his window on the sixth story. Death must have been instantaneous. The stone pavement upon which Kœrner struck headforemost was broken in several places by the concussion.

SUICIDE OF A DENTIST.

NEW YORK, Aug 16—J. Albert Kimball, age 49, a dentist of 48 West Twenty-sixth street, committed suicide this morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

Mr. Kimball lived with his wife and children in the house. The discovery was made by the office boy. The body lay in a small room at the back of his office on the ground floor. The dentist had stood before a mirror hanging over the sink, and drawn the razor across the left side of his throat cutting the jugular artery, when he fell over the sink and bled to death in a few minutes.

A GIRL BURNED TO DEATH.

METUCHEN, N. J., Aug. 16.—Miss Kate Hayes of this place was cooking over an oil-stove yesterday, when it exploded. The burning oil covered her clothing and she was enveloped in flames. Other members of the household rushed to her help, but they were unable to do anything to save her, and she was burned to death before their eyes. The young woman was a favorite in the place.

SIX KILLED IN A COLLISION.

COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 16.—Near Warsaw last evening a construction train on the Toledo, Walhonding Valley and Ohio railroad, now in process of construction, collided with some empty cars at a gravel pit, killing six men and injuring fifteen.

Cranford's Base-Ball Champions.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

At Freeman's drug store in Cranford are two base-balls. One was won from the Dunellen team, and the other from the amateur team of the Westfield Athletic club by the newly-organized Cranford team—the latter on Saturday last at Westfield. At this last game there was a good representation of Cranford people, some sixty odd, and the "rooting" of these had a good deal to do with Cranford club's victory. Manager Lent says he has strong hope of whipping the boys into good shape, and there is but little doubt that he can do it, if the players will continue to practice faithfully every evening.

The game on Saturday showed the value of last week's practice. There were fewer errors and better fielding all around, but a lamentable weakness in base running and lack of knowledge of the finer points of the game. As a team the Cranfords ought to see a number of professional ball games and study the play, for the finest of individual fielding and batting will not alone win games from good clubs. Next Saturday, the 20th, the Westfields will go to Cranford "loaded for bear", and the home team will have to play ball in order to win. In the last game Bindenberger caught well. Miller pitched. McIntire did well at first; Parvin at second, and Page put up a nice game at short. Johnson, in centre field, took in neatly the flies that came his way, and the other fielders had nothing to do. The team was short the services of Denman, though Parvin filled the gap creditably. The score—Cranford, 15; Westfield, 7.

One leads to the other. The "cutting" of prices leads to the substitution of worthless goods—fraudulent imitations of the genuine medicine, dilutions of it, all sorts of cheap substitutes to make a larger profit. That's the reason the makers of Dr. Pierce's medicines object to the cutting of prices—and that's the reason they prevent it, on their medicines.

To protect the public from fraud and imposition, the genuine guaranteed medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce are now sold only through druggists regularly authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

Golden Medical Discovery (for the liver, blood and lungs), ... $1.00.
Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and ailments), ... $1.00.
Pleasant Pellets (for the liver, stomach and bowels), ... 25 cents.

But they're the cheapest medicines sold, for you pay only for the good you get. The money is refunded if they don't benefit or cure. Beware of spurious imitations or substitutes at lower prices than above.

Unstinted Praise From an Authority.

The Saratoga News, an authority on summer resorts, says: "The season at the popular summer resort on the heights of fair Netherwood compares most favorably with seasons of former years. The Netherwood is under the excellent management of its owner and proprietor, Frank E. Miller, whose experience in hotel matters places him in line with the leading hotel men of the country. The Netherwood is situated on the Heights of Netherwood. It is a massive brick structure, castellated in form, and from its broad piazzas commands a magnificent view of the surrounding country, topped by the Orange mountains. The hotel's capacity is about three hundred. It possesses all the modern improvements. Electric lights, bells, elevators. Direct telegraph and telephone facilities with New York and other cities. Every department is fully equipped and well officered."

Their First Defeat.

The Actives of Berkley were defeated for the first time this season, last Saturday, by the Green Villagers, the same team which they easily defeated the Saturday before. Although McLaughlin was in the box for the Berkleys, and Day, of Scotch Plains, behind the bat, the Green Village boys succeeded in piling up 13 runs in three innings, which lead the Berkleys could not overcome. The score: Berkley Actives..5 0 2 2 3 0 4 2 1—19

Directions to Collector Hendricks About the Columbus Statue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Acting Secretary Spaulding of the Treasury Department has addressed a letter to the Collector of Customs at New York informing him that he is advised by the Secretary of State that the statue of Columbus will reach the port of New York at the end of this month on the Italian naval transport Garigliano, and requests that the statue be admitted free of duty and that all proper courtesy may be shown to the vessel, her crew and officers.

Mr. Spaulding instructs the Collector to carry out these requests.

The Granite Lockout.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—It appears from reports received up to date from 288 members of the Granite Manufacturers' Association, out of a total membership of 446, that they have now in their employ 4,340 hands in various departments. Of this number over 600 are journeymen cutters, besides 802 apprentices, making over 1,400 men in their cutting department alone. The report in circulation that the manufacturers had agreed to end the lockout on Aug. 15, if the cutters did not return, is positively denied.

Spooner for Governor.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 16.—Ex-Senator Spooner will be the Republican nominee for Governor. This was the conclusion, at least, of the gentlemen who attended the conference last night. While Mr. Spooner insisted that he was not a candidate and did not want the office, he said that if tendered to him he will accept. This leaves his friends free to urge his nomination, and they feel confident now that it will be made by acclamation.

Another Strike in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Another strike broke out yesterday. It was on the Maytham line of tugs. The firemen walked out in a body. They asked an increase of $15 a month wages. The managers offered the strikers $5 a month increase. This they refused. The company decided to dock half their boats and put new men in place of the strikers on board their boats. There was no disturbance.

Pennsylvania Labor Federation.

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 16.—The third annual session of the State Federation of Labor is in session here. Charles A. Miller, who represents Typographical Union No. 14, of Harrisburg, presides; J. S. Johnson, of Allegheny City, and A. Stauffer, of Lancaster, are the secretaries. Delegates are present from many of the principal cities of the State. The convention will continue two days longer.

A Murderer Gives Himself Up.

CORNING, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Daniel Donahue, a union glass worker, who got into an altercation with William Frost, a non-union man, on West Market street Saturday night and was shot, died yesterday. Frost made good his escape and went to Lindley, 12 miles distant. His friends persuaded him to return, and he gave himself up to the police at the same time that Donahue died.

Things Worth Remembering.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When the fit of inpigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night, for a week or ten days, will act as a preventative of either complaint.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

WHEN GREEK MET RUSS.

The Czar's Subject Was Almost Caught, But Found a Way Out.

A Greek vessel was lying at anchor not long since in a harbor in the Black sea, and being a rather suspicious craft an excise officer was ordered to keep watch on its movements.

The captain was anxious to perform some illegal operation with his ballast, but he found it impossible to escape the vigilance of the officer, so he determined to make worth his while to wink both his eyes.

As, however, the Russian understood no Greek, and the Greek was quite ignorant of Russian, the proposal had to be made in dumb show. After indicating in pantomime what he wanted to do with the ballast the skipper wrote down on a piece of paper: "Ten roubles."

The excise officer read the paper and then promptly wrote underneath it: "One hundred roubles." This was more than the Greek felt inclined to pay, and the negotiations fell through.

The affair, however, reached the ears of the authorities, and the Greek was arrested. In court he "rounded" on his accuser by producing the document which had been the medium of negotiation between them.

"Did you write this?" asked the judge of the witness, as he pointed to the words: "One hundred roubles."

"I did," stolidly answered the officer.

"Then you demanded a bribe?" retorted the judge, in his severest tones.

"By no means," answered the astute Russ. "The prisoner offered me ten roubles and I told him I would not do what he wanted for one hundred roubles."—Boston Herald.

A Woman Fiend.

A laboring woman in the city of Lille, France, had a quarrel with her beau and was greatly excited about it. Not so the man, who took it easy and went to sleep. When he was fast asleep the woman saturated his clothes with petroleum and applied a match. The poor fellow was ablaze before he awoke, and when he jumped up his eyes were blinded already and the smoke nearly suffocated him. He ran to and fro, knocking against everything in the room and unable to find the door. When the neighbors heard his cries and came to help him he was lying on the ground almost burnt to a crisp. The fiendish murderess was found standing in the half-opened door to the next room still gleeful over the horrid spectacle she had been enjoying.

A Mexican Solution.

The rich of our cities might find a solution of the servant girl problem by consulting the manners of the Mexicans. The wealthy Mexican never denies his poor relations; he uses them; and so it is not uncommon to find the mother of the host engaged as cook, the sister as housegirl, the father or brother as butler; nor is there any attempt to conceal the family ties. Our American pride would probably forbid such an arrangement; but it is a question whether our pride, real or false, is not more marked than any genuine spirit of democracy.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

CONVENIENT KITCHEN.

Plan and Description Furnished by an Ohio Housekeeper.

Mrs. D. A. Allen, Mahoning county, O., furnishes the accompanying plan and description of her kitchen to the Ohio Farmer. It is worthy of consideration. Fig. 1 shows the elevation. It is

FIG. 1—ELEVATION.

24 feet long and 22 feet wide. Fig. 2 is the plan, drawn 12 feet to the inch. It will be fully understood by the following references: R, kitchen. S, porch. N, laundry. O, bath-room. P, pantry. J, hall. K, to cellar. Z, parlor. The dining-room is at the right of the pantry and kitchen and at the left of the parlor (engraver failed to letter it). A, sink and pump. B, stove. C, chimney. D, elevator connecting cellar with pantry and kitchen. F, zinc-covered closet for baking materials. G, flour box. H, drawers. I, zinc-covered table with cupboard under it for kettles. L, pantry shelves; there should be an L marked at the right of P, next to dining-room, as shelves extend clear across here, with sliding door connecting pantry and dining-room. T is the bath tub. M, drain pipe from sink, bathroom, laundry, etc. Kitchen has a ventilator in the ceiling. The top of F, G and H forms a table for working.

THE EARTH'S AGE.

How It Is Calculated by the Scientific Men of To-day.

The amount of lime salts in water which drains from districts made up of granites and basalts is found by comparison of different analyses to be on an average of about 3.75 parts in 100,000 parts of water. It is further assumed by those who take this mode of reckoning the age of the world that the excess areas of igneous rocks, taken on an average throughout all geological time, will bear to the exposures of sedimentary rocks a ratio of one to nine. From these and other more complicated data it has been inferred that the elimination of the calcareous matter now found in all the sedimentary strata must have been going on through a period of 600,000,000 years! This, therefore, represents the minimum age of the world. Geologists also conclude that the formation of the Laurentian, Cambrian and silurian strata occupied a period of about 200,000,000 years; the red sandstone, the carboniferous and the poecilitic systems another 200,000,000 years, the remaining 200,000,000 years being taken with the formation of all other stratas. Thus we are led to believe that geological time has been enormously in excess of the limits urged by certain well-known physicists, and that it has been ample to allow for all the changes which, on the hypothesis of evolution, have occurred in the organic world.

Reasoning Power of Ants.

One morning a gentleman of many scientific attainments sat quietly and alone at his breakfast. Presently he noticed that some large black ants were making free with the contents of the sugar bowl. He drove them away, but they soon returned, seemingly unwilling to leave their sweetened feast. Again they were dispersed, only to return in increased numbers. There was a lamp hook directly above the center of the table, and, to try their ingenuity, the gentleman suspended the sugar bowl to the hook with a cord, allowing it to swing clear of the table about an inch. First the sagacious little creatures tried to reach it by standing on each other's backs. After repeated efforts, all of which were failures, they went away and it was supposed that they had given up in despair. Within a surprisingly short time, however, they were seen descending the cord by dozens and dropping themselves into the sugar bowl. They had scaled the wall, traversed the ceiling and discovered another road to the treasure.

Exit Pendulum.

A couple of Eastern scientists, who have been trying their hands at inventing and experimenting, are said to have discovered a perfect substitute for the pendulum, now such a necessary attachment to clocks and all other large timepieces. This new invention or discovery consists of a hydraulic escapement, itself a piston or plunger that is propelled upward and downward once every twenty-four hours through a cylinder filled with mercury. This unique timepiece is perfectly noiseless. It stands on the mantel as quietly and as unobtrusively as the statue of Shakespeare or the Chinese vase, the only sound that escapes from it being from the bell at the time when it strikes the hours. Those who ought to know say that the invention perfectly supplants the discovery of the great Galileo. The head man of a great clock-making establishment, who has carefully examined it, says that it is destined to revolutionize clock-making, being so perfect and inexpensive.

THE results of experiments on hastening the germination of seed show that camphor and oxygenated water appear to be the most energetic excitants, not only as regards the acceleration of germination, but as affecting the vigor of the plants.

THERE was recently transported from the mine of the Santa Barbara Asphalt Company, of La Patera, Cal., a large block of asphaltum, weighing, as it was taken from the ground, some two and one-half tons, and believed to be the largest block of asphaltum ever mined in one mass. The mine in question has only been opened about one year.

THE electric welding of street railway rails as a substitute for fish plates has been the subject of experiment for some time at the works of the Johnson Rail Company, Johnstown, Pa. The experiments are now said to be entirely successful, and it is possible to weld by electricity two pieces of steel of twenty-five square inches section, and a solid steel rail, three or four miles long, can be had if required.

STARS AND SCISSORS.

How to Make Five-Rayed Stars at a Single Stroke.

This is the way to obtain the exact shape of a star with five rays, by a single cut in a straight line with a pair of scissors in a single piece of paper.

Take a letter sheet double, folding it to the left, A B, as in figure 1.

Then fold it according to the line C D (figure 2), so that the angle A C B shall be half of the angle B C D. You will get this by folding the sheet according to the line C E, which is no other than the prolonged line C B of figure 2.

Your sheet is now in the form indicated in figure 3. Now double it over as indicated by C A. If the line C E comes upon C D it will show that you folded correctly according to figure 2. If it comes a little outside or inside, modify the first fold C D.

When you are sure that the line C E comes exactly on C D, cut with your scissors along the straight line marked by dots, and, unfolding the paper, you will have the star with five rays, and can cut as many thousands of them as you like on the same plan.

LAND AND WATER.

Interesting Calculations Made by a Well-Known Scientist.

Mr. John Murray, a member of the Challenger expedition, and one of the highest living authorities on oceanography, has recently been delivering some lectures in Boston of peculiar interest to scientific men and students. Among many special papers of great value which have been published by Mr. Murray is one relating to "The Height of the Land and the Depth of the Ocean." In this learned monograph it is estimated that the area of the dry land of the globe is 55,000,000 square miles and the area of the ocean 137,200,000 square miles. He estimates the volume of the dry land above the level of the sea at 23,450,000 cubic miles and the volume of the waters of the ocean at 323,800,000 cubic miles. He fixes the mean height of the land above the sea at 2,250 feet and the mean depth of the whole ocean at 12,480 feet. Of course these results are only approximate, but they help to render our ideas of these matters more definite.

In his paper Mr. Murray also estimates that the rivers of the world carry into the ocean every year 2¼ cubic miles of sediment. To this must be added the matter carried to the sea in solution, which is estimated at 1.188 miles of matter. Together, then, the amount of matter carried through the land each year is 3-7 cubic miles. It would thus, according to this calculation, take 6,340,000 years to transport the whole of the solid land down to the sea.

HOME FOR HISTORY.

Chicago's Historical Society Soon to Have an Elegant Building.

The Chicago Historical society is at last about ready to begin the erection of the new building of which it has stood in so great need for so long a time. The plans have already been adopted by the executive committee of the society.

The building is of two stories, with high Gothic roof, and will be erected on the northwest corner of Ontario street and Dearborn avenue, on the vacant lot immediately adjoining the present building. The arrangement is such that plenty of light can be admitted, a skylight covering the entire roof. The stories will be sixteen feet in height, and the distance from base to ridge eighty feet. The material will be a light sandstone.

On the first floor is the lecture hall, picture gallery, reception and reading-room. A peculiar feature of the building is that the lecture-room and picture gallery extend upward the two stories, receiving light from the roof skylights. Other rooms on the second floor include the directors' quarters and a room for curios and historical relics. In the basement, the ceiling of which is high, is a supper-room and storage-rooms for books and pamphlets.

The building will be fireproof throughout, and the cost, with heating apparatus and electric lights, will not exceed $300,000. The society has already $100,000 in its treasury, and expects to be successful in raising the necessary additional amount.

Packard's BUSINESS COLLEGE —AND— SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY, 4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

A BRIGADE NOW ON THE GROUND

The Switchmen's Strike at Buffalo Assuming Big Proportions.

CENTRAL EMPLOYES JOIN HANDS WITH THE OTHER MEN.

All Quiet in the Yards This Morning—Trains Moved by Non-Union Men Guarded by the Militia—Passenger Traffic Uninterrupted—A Number of Encounters Reported—Several More Fires—State Board of Arbitration on the Scene—A General Fight Between Strikers and Troops Feared.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Manley C. Green, Justice of the Supreme Court at Buffalo, impressed by the gravity of the situation among the striking switchmen, last night ordered out the entire 4th brigade of the New York State militia, consisting of 2,000 men in separate companies and one battery of artillery. The troops have been arriving all the morning, and are nearly all here. It may surprise many persons to learn that a judge in this State can take this action, but it seems that he can. At present there are 800 of the brigade in active service. This order calls for 1,200 more. In his letter to Gen. Doyle Justice Green says:

"It appears to me that a riotous and unlawful assembly is in the county of Erie, State of New York, with intent to offer violence to persons and property. I do hereby order and direct you to order your command and all thereof to assemble forthwith at a place to be designated by you in the city of Buffalo, N. Y., to aid the civil authorities in suppressing violence and enforcing the law."

The switchmen employed in the yards of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg road went out at 9 o'clock last night but returned to work at midnight, after receiving a notice that their demands would be granted from the officials.

At the meeting of the switchmen's local union last night it was decided to call out the New York Central switchmen at midnight, and promptly at that hour 150 Central men quit work. They will not interfere with the running of passenger trains, but promise to make it warm for those who attempt to fill their places in the freight yards.

It was also decided to instruct the men employed by connecting lines to refuse to handle Erie, Lehigh Valley and New York Central freight.

Prominent railroad men here say the strike will develop into a very serious affair if connecting lines receive freight from striking roads.

There were one or two slight differences throughout the day and evening between the reckless strikers and the soldiers. One band of fellows stoned the militia from a bridge, but were quickly driven off. Another crowd of angry strikers tried to force their way into the Lehigh yards. One of them drew a revolver. The guard gave the alarm and two policemen arrested the striker. He resisted and was clubbed. His friends started the rumor that he died from the beating, but this cannot be verified.

Two cars were set on fire in the yards while the militia guarded all of the entrances.

Recruits are arriving to take the place of the strikers. Fifty non-union men were put to work in the yards under military protection and others are held outside guarded by troops.

Members of the State Board of Arbitration have arrived and are studying the situation preparatory to attempting to settle the differences between the strikers and the companies.

It is feared by cool-headed citizens who have viewed the situation that a general fight may be expected between the strikers and the troops at any moment.

At 9 o'clock last night the Erie road started two sections of train 80 East with 40 cars of perishable freight. The trains proceeded unmolested until reaching Alden station, where the cars were boarded by strikers who applied the brakes and pulled the pins, completely disabling both sections.

A train on its way from Black Rock to Alden with coupling apparatus was derailed by the strikers. The road will be blocked for some time. A wrecking train was sent from Buffalo.

All passenger trains have been arriving and leaving on time on all roads.

Third Vice-President H. Walter Webb, of the New York Central road, is in the city to-day, called here by the gravity of the situation and the possibility of the great four-track being seriously affected.

He has been in close consultation with the attorneys of the road and its officials, and while acknowledging the serious nature of the strike, is confident that, with proper military protection, all will come out right. He said:

"The strike has at last extended to our road. We were not aware that any of our men were anxious to join the strike.

"I am pleased to hear that the National Guard at other points is in readiness to be thrown into Buffalo. Even if not brought here, the mere fact that the militia is held ready for the purpose will have a quieting effect on the rioters."

Yesterday when the militia reached the scene they were formed in skirmish lines along the tracks. Here and there a body of strikers or sympathisers could be seen, but they kept quiet, awed no doubt by the appearance of the troops. The tracks on both sides of the lines for half a mile are guarded by soldiers, while the balance of the regiments are holding their camp with stacked rifles ready for any emergency.

The strikers have been drinking and are as ugly as any body of men can be. They say that they will not permit any of the men who have been brought here by the Reading to go to work, and that if any attempt is made to put them in the yards they will kill them.

When the main body of the new men are put to work, which will probably be very soon, they will be under the protection of the militia and they will work under cover of the rifle and the bayonet. Sheriff Peck has assured the railroads that they will have all the protection he can give them.

Granite Strikers Leaving the Union.

BARRE, Vt., Aug. 17.—More strikers left the union and returned to work yesterday. It is reported that there will be more deserters shortly. It is reported that a leading firm has signed the bill.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

GLADSTONE'S AIDES.

Composition of the Liberal Cabinet—The Queen Gracious to the Premier.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The official announcement of Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet has just been made. William Ewart Gladstone, the new Prime Minister, is First Lord of the Treasury and Lord Privy Seal.

His Cabinet is composed as follows:

Baron Herschell, Lord Chancellor.

The Earl of Kimberley, Secretary for India and Lord President of the Council.

The Earl of Rosebery, Foreign Secretary.

H. H. Asquith, Home Secretary.

Marquis of Ripon, Colonial Secretary.

H. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of War.

Earl Spencer, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland.

Sir George Otto Trevelyan, Secretary for Scotland.

Anthony John Mundella, President of Board of Trade.

Henry H. Fowler, President of the Local Government Board.

Arnold Morley, Postmaster-General.

Arthur Acland, Vice President of the Council of Education.

The other official appointment of non-Cabinet rank is that of Baron Houghton, who becomes Viceroy of Ireland.

The news of the pleasant interview between Her Majesty and Mr. Gladstone has caused much satisfaction in this city, and scared financiers are getting over their demoralization. The general impression is that Mr. Gladstone has satisfied Her Majesty that the interests of the empire will be vigilantly conserved and protected, and that there will be no weakening in the foreign relations of Great Britain so far as the defense and the integrity of the empire is concerned.

Although Queen Victoria does not like Mr. Gladstone's politics, she has the respect of a veteran for a veteran, and is known to be grateful to Mr. Gladstone for the tact and success with which he has often intervened to protect the royal family from radical assaults in Parliament.

Her Majesty talked with Mr. Gladstone for half an hour in private. Of their conversation, of course, absolutely nothing has been revealed. All that has reached the public from the royal precincts is that Lord Salisbury himself was never more cordially treated.

This attitude of the Queen toward the Liberal leader is commented on cynically by Keir Hardie and others of his stamp, who seem to think that Mr. Gladstone should have forgotten that he was a gentleman and the Queen a lady. The conversation between Mr. Gladstone and the Queen took place in the Royal drawing-room with no one present but themselves.

Mr. Gladstone left Osborne, on his return, at 10 o'clock. At Cowes a great throng of spectators was assembled and they cheered the new Premier over and over again, it being noticeable that the henchmen of the Royal household were just as demonstrative as the rest of the people. Monday they were a little reserved, but the news of Mr. Gladstone's favorable reception had got abroad, and the dependants of royalty took their cue from the Queen.

FIREMEN AT NIAGARA FALLS.

Twentieth Annual Convention of the Volunteer Companies.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Pleasant weather attends the stay of the New York State Volunteer Firemen here. The city is gaily decorated, and the visiting firemen are being royally entertained.

The annual report of President Rogers says that the finances of the association are better than ever before in the history of the organization. The year has been marked by wonderful growth in membership, 63 new companies having been added to the membership roll.

There are 600 delegates to the convention, and thousands of firemen and visitors are present to take part in the parade and other festivities.

The programme calls for a three days' session. During to-day the election of officers will take place. The present incumbent of the presidency, Charles R. Rogers, of New York, has held the office for two years and will retire at the close of this meeting. The contest for the office is a spirited one.

These candidates are most prominently mentioned: John L. Finn, of Brooklyn; O. R. Sackett, of Suspension Bridge, and Peter A. Porter, of Niagara Falls. There are also strong indications of a lively fight over the next place of meeting. Schenectady, which made such a good effort last year, is again in the field.

Duke of Devonshire Married.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Duke of Devonshire was married at Christ Church at noon to the Dowager Duchess of Manchester, with whom his name has so long been associated. The ceremony was extremely quiet, and only a few intimate friends were aware that the marriage was to take place. Sir Henry Calcraft acted as best man.

Another Big Iron Strike Threatened.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—The firm of Jones & Laughlin, iron and steel manufacturers, have not as yet signed the scale of the Amalgamated Association, and their 3,500 employes threaten to strike. Numerous conferences have been held between the firm and the men, but it has been impossible to reach an agreement.

General Husted's Condition.

PERKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 17.—General James W. Husted passed a quiet night and rested comfortably save a few nervous moments at intervals. His physicians informed a United Press reporter this morning that the General's condition was about the same. There is no change for the worse and there is no very decided improvement.

THEY QUELLED THE MOB.

Prompt Action of Soldiers Averts Another Riot at Homestead.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 17.—It has again been demonstrated that the presence of soldiers is absolutely necessary here to preserve peace and order. The proceedings of yesterday point their own moral, no matter what the strikers may say to the contrary.

Frank Tracey, a laborer in the mill, was arrested on a charge of larceny, preferred by a non-unionist. Four non-union men were subpœnaed as witnesses.

The Alderman decided to hold Tracey and ordered him to jail. The constable took his prisoner out the back way.

The four witnesses went out on Eighth avenue in charge of one or two deputy sheriffs, and were at once surrounded by a howling mob.

The non-unionists walked along maintaining silence.

Cries of "Lynch the scabs," "Kill the black sheep," "Take them to the river," were heard.

By this time about 100 women had joined the ranks of the strikers and urged the crowd to make short work of the "scabs."

Major Crawford learning of the situation soon had thirty men with bayonets fixed going toward the crowd, which was now armed with stones and clubs, closing in upon the non-unionists. The militia drew up in company front across the street with guns at half cock.

Major Crawford and a deputy sheriff ordered the crowd to disperse but the order was disregarded.

Then a signal was given and a company from the Fifteenth Regiment came down the hill on a double quick and was also drawn up across the street.

Ex-Sheriff Gray, with an additional force of deputies, then arrived.

Turning to Mr. Gray, Major Crawford, after striking a striker across the back with sword, asked: "Do you want us to disperse the crowd?"

"I do," was the reply, whereupon Major Crawford turned to his men and was about to give the command to charge when Policeman Gessner with a squad of officers, came up and ordered the street cleared.

The crowd with sullen faces and profane remarks began to fall back. For half an hour the uneasy feeling prevailed. Finally the policemen and deputy sheriffs succeeded in restoring order and the militia returned to camp.

The non-union workmen were escorted to the mill.

JUDGE BLAISDELL CRITICIZED.

Lizzie Borden's Pastor Scores Him For His Action in the Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 17.—Rev. J. Walter Jubb, pastor of the Central Congregational Church of which Miss Lizzie Borden is a member, characterizes Judge Blaisdell's action in sitting on the Bench while presiding at the inquest as indecent, outrageous and not to be tolerated in any civilized community. He proposes to use every means to have another judge on the bench at the preliminary hearing.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the Young Women's Union, at a special meeting, passed a resolution of sympathy for an unshaken faith in Miss Lizzie A. Borden, who is treasurer of the Young Women's Union and has been prominent in union work.

MAY EXTEND TO OTHER LINES.

Action of Fall Brook and Central Roads May Precipitate a General Strike.

LYONS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A large amount of perishable freight is coming in here from Buffalo, and is being transferred to the Fall Brook route down to Corning, thence to destination over the Erie road. Last evening a train of thirty cars of meat went through. As there are only a few switchmen here who belong to the Union, no trouble is feared.

The action of the Fall Brook and N. Y. Central in accepting freight from the Lehigh and Erie it is believed will result in a general strike. It is probable that switchmen will be ordered out all along the Central and West Shore in sympathy with the Buffalo strikers.

NO STRIKE AT HAZLETON, PA.

How the Report of One Originated—No Trouble Expected.

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 17.—There is no strike at the mines here. The operators of the Humboldt Colliery shut down Wednesday for repairs. The month's pay day was set for Monday, Aug. 15, but in order to pay the employes in full it was postponed until to-day, the 17th, so that the July and August wages can be paid together.

Some Hungarians failing to understand this, came to town, and asked that suit be brought against the mine owners. The matter was explained, and the majority were satisfied. There has been no sign or fear of a strike or lawlessness, as reported, and the men are satisfied with their wages.

National Catholic Union Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Eighteenth annual convention of the National Catholic Union is in session in this city, there being present at least 400 delegates. The union was organized about eighteen years ago mainly through the efforts of a Catholic association in Newark, N. J., and now there are 156 societies in the union with a membership approaching 25,000, extending all over the United States. Each association in the union is entitled to select three delegates and nearly all the societies in the union are represented.

Queer Freak of an Old Man.

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 17.—Jerome L. Hoyt, a married man with grandchildren, eloped Sunday morning with Anna Christenson, a young girl with whom he became infatuated. The girl was engaged to marry a worthy young man named Fairbury.

THE MINERS REPULSED

Lives Lost During the Attack at Oliver Springs.

TROOPS HASTENING TO THE SCENE.

A Battle Between Soldiers and Miners Expected—The Forty Guards Within the Stockades Besieged—Many Militiamen Unwilling to Go to the Front.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 17.—The most intense excitement has seized upon the people of this city. Col. Woolford, astride of a weak-kneed horse, has been scouring the city all day for men. Small details have been doing duty trying to conscript men for service, but almost without avail.

The total number of men who left last night did not reach 50. Their equipment was almost a mockery of modern warfare. The militiamen evinced no eagerness to enter the service of the country. Unwilling soldiers were hauled from under beds and other points of vantage where they had taken refuge from conscription officers.

Oliver Springs, where the latest outbreak has occurred, is a little mining town in Anderson county. It is on the Walden Ridge Road. The defenses consist of a block-house and about 40 guards.

About breakfast time the miners came to the stockade. They demanded the surrender of the place. "Come and take us," was the answer sent by Superintendent Farris.

Fire was at once opened. Seven hundred miners on one side glanced down the barrels of their weapons, and streaks of flame leaped from the muzzles as the leaden messengers sped toward the block house. The guards manfully answered and the sharp crack of the rifles struck terror to the hearts of the assailants.

A flag of truce was run up. Capt. Farris respected it and called to the leader to come and talk with him. Both sides rested on their arms while the wounded were removed.

It is impossible to say how many of the miners were wounded or killed. Two guards were slightly hurt. Quiet then reigned, and hurried messages were sent to the Governor.

In the meantime a new company went to the scene. A company from Knoxville also went to the battle ground.

A bloody conflict is momentarily expected.

MANY DIED OF FRIGHT.

Terrible Experience of Cholera Patients in a Russian Hospital.

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—The horrors of a frightful storm have been added to the misery and suffering caused by the cholera at Nijn Novgorod.

The storm was one of the most frightful that has ever visited that region. It came sweeping over the town with a force and fury that many buildings were unable to resist.

The cholera hospital was full of patients, many of them in a dying condition. As they heard the roar of the hurricane some of them actually died of fright.

The terrible noise of the approaching storm was soon followed by the storm itself, which crushed in a large part of the cholera hospital, like an eggshell, hurling the beds and wooden walls into a mass of ruin.

From the debris came the shrieks and groans of the victims, a number of whom died while the work of rescue was going on.

IS IT CHOLERA?

Excitement at Stillwater, Mich., Over a Reported Case.

STILLWATER, Mich., Aug. 17.—Great excitement is occasioned here by the death of Joseph Lupien last night at his home in Oak Park. The attending physician, Dr. Gault, pronounces the malady to be a case of Asiatic cholera or, at least, something very closely resembling it.

Rev. Father Durand, of the French Catholic Church, who spent some time among the cholera sufferers of Italy two or three years ago, pronounced it Asiatic cholera.

Lupien was ill less than 25 hours.

A Costly Burial Casket.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 17.—The body of Russell Benedict, who died in Austria July 25, reached here Monday in a solid silver casket, elaborately embellished with gold. On the top is a gold crucifix, two feet long. The casket is carried by means of eight gold handles and is supported by six lion's legs. Festoons of gold flowers are draped around it. On each of the four corners is a gold angel, six inches high. It is not known how much the casket cost. Mr. Benedict was a very wealthy man, who lived many years in Austria. He was born in this city.

The Harrisons at Loon Lake.

LOON LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 17.—President Harrison apparently does not weary of Loon Lake and the wild and romantic scenery hereabouts. Each morning he takes his usual drive, always accompanied by Mrs. Harrison. To-day the drive was longer than usual and the route different. Mr. Hendricks, Collector of the port of New York, was the first prominent politician to call on Mr. Harrison. He came yesterday, and at once held a long interview with the President. Just what his business was could not be learned, but it is supposed to relate to some campaign work on the part of President Harrison.

Labor Federation Officers Chosen.

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 17.—The State Federation of Labor in session here elected the following officers: E. E. Greenwald, of Lancaster, president; Charles W. Seitzinger, of Reading; J. J. Gallagher, Philadelphia, and George F. Kirk, Chester, vice-presidents; J. J. Johnson, of Allegheny City, secretary and treasurer. Altoona was selected as the next place of meeting.

The Paris Cab Strike.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Nine-tenths of the cabmen have joined the strike. Hundreds of carmen are also quitting work. There has been no disorder. The city is suffering great inconvenience and loss of money, as tourists are leaving the hotels in large numbers on account of the difficulty in getting equipages.

CLEVELAND'S

One rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of any other. A large saving on a year's bakings.

BAKING POWDER

A pure cream of tartar powder. Used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of Cookery.

Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

—The government of Russia has decreed that the children of Polish workingmen and peasants shall be educated entirely in the Russian tongue, and no other.

—Gen. Schofield has ordered that all hospital matrons in excess of 100 now employed be discharged. This is made necessary by the provisions of the Army Appropriation bill.

—Charles Miller, a Pole aged 20, was killed on the Hudson River Railroad near Sing Sing, N. Y., yesterday, while walking on the track. He had been in this country but three days.

—William Black, the novelist, is taking Andrew Carnegie as the hero in a novel Black is preparing. The novelist was with Carnegie in his coaching tour through the Highlands.

—An official report shows that the British export of tin plates from Jan. 1 to the end of July this year amounts to 167,771 tons, against 206,548 tons for the same period in 1891, and 176,038 tons in 1890.

—An estimate of the spring wheat crop in Minnesota and the Dakotas places the crop of the three States at 103,000,000 bushels, against 160,000,000 last year. This is a very little below the average crop.

—The Clerical Central Committee of Rome urges the Catholic societies throughout Italy to oppose the Liberals vigorously in the elections, as a return for outrages inflicted upon the Church by the Liberals.

—Hugh Dailey, for many years city attorney of New Haven, died yesterday. Saturday last he was stricken with lockjaw as the result of a fall from a hammock, which inflicted a slight scalp wound. He was 55 years of age.

—The Treasury Department has issued a circular officially informing its officers, employes and contractors and others of the act passed by Congress limiting the time of daily service of laborers and mechanics employed upon public works to eight hours.

—Charles Phillips of Wilmington, Del., agent for the Wilmington & Northern, and Baltimore & Ohio railroads, and the United States Express Company, has been missing since July 22. Suspicion was not excited until a week afterwards, when an examination of his accounts revealed a shortage of $18,000.

—A fatal occurrence, costing three lives, is reported from Limerick. A boat with three persons on board was moored in the harbor. The three turned in and went to sleep, leaving a fire in the cooking stove. The fire set the boat ablaze, and all were burned to death, the boat and cargo also being destroyed.

—The ceremony of investing with the pallium the Most Rev. William Vaughan, who succeeded the late Cardinal Manning as Archbishop of Westminster, took place in the Brompton Oratory, Eng., yesterday. It was attended by a large number of the highest church dignitaries and by several of the Roman Catholic peers. The ceremony was one of great pomp and impressiveness.

—Now buy your seats for Gormans' minstrels if you want good ones!

—A fire-hydrant will probably be placed near the street railway car-house.

—F. A. Pope is about to erect another stable building at 6 West Sixth street.

—The Democratic State convention will probably be called for the 21st day of September.

—Much-needed crosswalks are to be laid at the junction of Plainfield avenue and South Second street.

—Park place between Duer and Somerset streets is to-day being ploughed up in readiness for macadamizing.

—The street railway company will issue special orders that firemen shall ride free to fires, on the trolley cars.

—A mothers' meeting conducted by Mrs. Fernald will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 3:30.

—Pliny Fisk has been granted permission by the authorities to erect a two-story frame extension at the rear of his residence, 6 West Seventh street.

—To make 25 per cent. on the money you spend is an unusual bargain. J. C. Allen will do that much for you Monday, as detailed in his advertisement.

—The water-supply mains, with fire-hydrants, have been extended up East Front street as far as Charles Hyde's, and up Norwood avenue almost to the brook.

—The borough council will meet in special session Friday evening to examine the assessor's books, prepare the annual tax budget, and borrow money for the street fund.

—All of the members were present at last night's common council meeting. The main object of the session was to examine the assessor's books, which were unanimously accepted.

—Chief of police Grant will give the bicycle riders a few days in which to provide themselves with lantern, then he proposes to have his men arrest everyone riding after dark without a light.

—A call has been issued for all those who favor good government and therefore desire to bring about the election of Cleveland and Stevenson, to meet in Cutter's hall, 25 West Front street, Monday evening, at 8.

—One week from to-day, Wednesday, Aug. 24, the Warren Mission and Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday-schools will go to Asbury Park on their annual excursion. It is the last one of the season, and everybody should go.

—The Democrats of Springfield have organized a Cleveland and Stevenson club and will raise a banner to-morrow evening. James E. Martine of Plainfield, and Senator Marsh of Elizabeth, will deliver addresses at the meeting.

—The ice-cream sociable at Salvation Army hall to-morrow evening will begin at 5 o'clock, and the jubilee will be from 8 to 3:30. It will be led by specials from New York. Major Evans, who has charge of this division, has been ill, but will be present if possible.

—The acoustic quality of the common council chamber is never of the best, but last night hearing seemed especially difficult, and to add to the annoyance there was constant confusion in the street below, caused by the excursion parade and the firemen out for a drill.

—The common council last night gave power to the police committee to grant the petition of the Plainfield Cornet band to erect a band-stand in the city park, to be occupied by the band in giving free concerts. The stand will forthwith be built, and the concerts begun at an early date.

—A number of people were left behind by the Jr. O. U. A. M. excursion to Asbury Park this morning, because it was not generally known that the train was to start at 7:45. It was supposed by many that the hour would be as usual, 8 o'clock. The exact hour should have been made public through advertisement in the newspapers.

Call Down That Dog-Catcher.

The attention of the mayor, the city judge and the chief of police is directed to the fact that dog-catcher Frisbie needs to be called down. He is continually exceeding his authority, and is too fresh in all particulars except as a dog-catcher. There are a dozen mongrel curs that continue to roam the streets under his eye without being molested because they are ownerless and have no friend to redeem them with a fee for Frisbie's pocket.

He is also untrustworthy and untruthful.

TO EXTEND THE TROLLEY TRACKS.

An Ordinance Passed on Second Reading, and Opportunity Given for Citizens to Object.

The project to extend the street railway tracks through East Front and Peace streets to North avenue, and up North avenue to the eastern end of the Jersey Central station, was given impetus by the Plainfield common council last night. An ordinance granting the privilege was passed by the council on second reading, and was ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading and final adoption. The vote was unanimously in favor of the ordinance. The line as extended would run 200 feet on North avenue, where switches and turnouts necessary for such a terminus would be laid. In operating the extension the company would be governed by a bond and contract with the city similar to that controlling the present line. The ordinance provides only a single track, but the company desires, if it can secure the consent of all directly interested, to make the route double-track to the station, as a single track might delay cars carrying passengers anxious to catch a train.

The entire matter will be discussed at a public meeting of the council Sept. 6, at 8 p. m., which all property-owners concerned are invited to attend, to argue for or against the extension scheme.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Seely Edsall and family are now at Alburg Springs, Vt.

The Misses Garey of East Front street have gone to the seashore.

Mrs. Henry Liefke of West Front street will leave to-morrow for Canada.

County attorney William K. McClure is at "Lakeside" on the St. Lawrence, Province of Quebec.

C. Frank French and wife of the borough are spending the week in the vicinity of Lake George.

In the absence from town of F. W. Runyon, his deputy, W. S. Angleman, is serving as city clerk.

Ex-councilman F. M. Slater, wife, and children, arrived home last evening from the Pocono Mountains.

Misses Fannie and Mamie Rafferty of Park avenue are registered at the Grand Central, Asbury Park.

The Rev. C. Schenck, wife and family went to-day to 377 Lyceum avenue, Roxborough, Philadelphia, the home of Mrs. Schenck's mother, for two weeks.

Everyone was so glad to welcome counselor Marsh home again from Europe, that there was much delay in calling the meeting of the council, last night, to order.

Counselor John H. VanWinkle, wife, and son John, jr., are home again from Asbury Park. During his stay at the shore Mr. VanWinkle fell asleep on the beach, with a strong breeze blowing over him, and caught so severe a cold that he scarcely can speak.

Thomas Winckler, son of A. J. Winckler of Park place, North Plainfield, was bereaved Saturday by the death of his only child, a seven-months-old son. Cholera infantum was the cause. The funeral took place Monday afternoon at Asbury Park, where Mr. Winckler is a confectioner.

Eleanor E., beloved daughter of James and Emily Stace of this city, and wife of Joseph Footitt, died after a lingering illness, August 8, at Westfield, Conn. Mr. Stace, the bereaved father, is a well-known machinist, and set up the Potter press in the DAILY PRESS office twenty years ago.

NOT QUITE A HOLOCAUST.

But Much Excitement Over a Fire in a Passenger Car.

The singular sight of a passenger car afire caused some excitement on the Jersey Central this morning. The car was the forward smoker on train No. 6, leaving Plainfield at 10:04. Either a hot-box or locomotive sparks had set fire to the woodwork of the forward platform, and the flames burst through the floor of the car before discovered. The dense smoke drove most of the passengers from the car, but George Moore and Joe Bogart were so intent in a game of whist with C. K. Moore and Ed White that they remained in their seats heedless of danger. The train was halted between Claremont and communipaw, and a stream from a locomotive hose drenched out the blaze. During the excitement a big lump of coal from the tender was knocked through a window where August Trust was standing and he had a narrow escape from injury.

TO OPEN SYCAMORE STREET.

Another Creditable Approach to the Station, when the Freight-house Moves Away.

An ordinance to widen, open and accept Sycamore street was passed on second reading by the Plainfield common council last night, and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to final passage. The ordinance will be brought up at the public council meeting of Sept. 6, when all citizens opposed to or in favor of the project will be given a hearing in the matter. Councilman Bird alone voted against the ordinance. Sycamore street has never yet been fully accepted as a public highway.

Organizing a Young Men's League.

Pursuant to an informal call, a number of the younger element in Plainfield politics met last evening at 61 North avenue and made additional progress towards the organization of a Young Men's League to aid in the election of Cleveland and Stevenson and to bring about good government everywhere—in the nation, State, county and city. Permanent headquarters were engaged in the Crescent rink building, and a committee consisting of Noel Verrier and Charles Thiers was appointed with power to furnish them. Another meeting will be held Friday evening, when officers are to be elected. Sixty names are already enrolled.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me. Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

THAT BILL OF THE COUNTY ATTORNEY'S.

His Charges Were Less Than His Republican Predecessor's, and the Auditing Committee of the Board of Freeholders Approve It at Once.

In the proceedings of the Union county board of freeholders, published in THE PRESS by official appointment, there appeared recently a discussion, brought about by some of the Republican members for political effect, over the bill of the county attorney—William K. McClure of this city. Those who objected to the bill held that the attorney's stated salary of $300 per annum was fixed to cover all his services. However, the bill was referred to the auditing committee and of course paid at once.

The truth of the case is that Mr. McClure's bill showed charges for the same services much lower than those of his Republican predecessor. For instance: Mr. McClure charged $25 for a trip to Trenton and consultation with the attorney general, while Mr. Wood added to the same charge a bill of "expenses"; Mr. McClure charged but $25 for a day at Orange and Newark, while Mr. Wood charged $25 for going to Summit alone with an additional charge for "expenses to and fro".

The late board of freeholders was Republican and its attorney, Mr. Wood, drew over a thousand dollars above his salary, for services, without a question from the members. So the attempt of the Republicans in the present board to make political capital out of Mr. McClure's bill which proves to be a just and economical one, has gone back on them.

THEY MAY CHANGE IT, HOWEVER.

Sept. 15 Now Fixed by the Republicans as the Date When the Nomination for Governor Will be Forced on John Kean.

The New Jersey Republican State committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the State headquarters at 49 Montgomery street, Jersey City. The meeting was strictly private. John Kean, jr., chairman of the committee, presided. In the absence of John Y. Foster, the secretary, who is in Saratoga spending his vacation, assemblyman J. Herbert Potts of Jersey City kept a record of the proceedings. The meeting lasted for two hours. At its close Mr. Kean, who expects to have the nomination for Governor forced upon him, said that nothing was done except to fix the date for the State convention.

The date selected is Sept. 15, and the convention will be held in the Taylor Opera house in Trenton. Another member of the committee said there is a probability of the date being changed if the Democratic State convention should be fixed for a later date. The Republicans will probably not make any other nomination until after the Democrats have placed their candidate in the field.

That Peasant Sour Grapes for Elizabeth.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

The Plainfield Press of yesterday contains a statement charging director McCloud, of the Y. M. C. I. A., with having remarked that Francis had sold out Saturday's game to Plainfield, and that he never would have another chance to commit such an act.

This accusation, director McCloud claims, is a deliberate slander, as he never made such a remark. What he did say, and the remark from which the accusation is drawn, was one of an entirely different nature, was simply that Francis seemed unable to pitch against Plainfield. To manufacture unjust and unwarranted tales out of whole cloth is a pastime in too common use among some base-ball writers.

To win the pennant the Crescents will be obliged to win all but one game of the remaining five which they will yet play. And two of those five are battles with the West Ends. So far this season these teams have met four times and the Plainfield boys have lost three of these contests. Taking these averages into consideration the chances of Somerville to win the coveted flag are as great if not greater than those of Plainfield.

Let Those Who Board, Beware.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Marriage is likely to be more or less of a failure in New Jersey, now that the boarding house has been made an issue in the domestic campaign by a recent decision of Vice-Chancellor Bird. He says: "Every wife is entitled to a home corresponding with the circumstances and condition of her husband, over which she shall be permitted to preside as such wife, and it is the duty of the husband to furnish such home. A house over which others have entire control and in which the husband and wife reside as boarders simply, is not such a home."

That Old Democrat's an Old Fool.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Can such things be? An "Old Democrat" of Plainfield, who sends a letter to the Democratic newspaper of this city, endorsing its advocacy of Judge Green's candidacy for the governorship, expresses a very uncomplimentary opinion of some of his party associates. He intimates that there are enough of them to be influenced by the "money bags" of the Republicans to endanger Democratic success. Is it possible that the votes of Democrats are for sale in New Jersey?

Our Model Royal Blue Line.

The Trenton True American says it "is opposing the trolley system as a cheap and nasty way of destroying public streets and enriching the street railway speculators". But Plainfield hasn't a "cheap and nasty" system, and her people are just dead in love with their trolley and want the council to run it all over the city.

GREAT MEET OF HORSEMEN.

SOMERVILLE, Aug. 18—The early morning trains brought large crowds of New Jersey horsemen to town, to attend the annual meet of the Breeders' association opened here to-day, and to continue to-morrow. There will be five races trotted this afternoon, each of which has from seven to ten entries. A full account of the event will appear in THE PRESS of to-morrow. The racing begins at 12:30 each day.

The Deadly Bicycle.

Another horse was frightened by a bicycle on Front street, yesterday. The rider noticing the danger in which was placed the young woman occupying the carriage, jumped from his machine and seized the horse. The animal thereupon stamped the front wheel of the bicycle all out of shape.

WHEELMEN, ATTENTION!

AN ORDINANCE

to regulate the use of bicycles, tricycles and other noiseless vehicles in the public streets.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle or tricycle, or other wheeled vehicle not drawn by a horse, upon any sidewalk in the City of Plainfield, except when necessary so to do in passing from private premises to the roadbed of any street; nor shall any person ride any such vehicle in or upon any street or highway of said city without ringing a bell or sounding a whistle at a distance of at least fifty feet from any street crossing or intersection over which any person may be passing, in such manner as to give full and sufficient warning of such approach; nor shall any person ride upon any such vehicle upon any street of said City between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise without carrying and displaying a lighted lantern.

SECTION 2. That every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Adopted by the Common Council August 1, 1892.

Approved by the Mayor August 2, 1892.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Attest—F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Everyone violating any of the provisions of this ordinance will be dealt with as law and justice may require.

WHO WILL WIN THE PENNANT?

A Few Words of Expert Testimony About the Games Which Have Been Played, and a Few About Those to be Played.

The day before the season opened, I addressed myself to the patrons of base-ball through the columns of THE PRESS, telling them that they would this year see as good base-ball in the New Jersey Central base-ball league as they ever saw in their lives. In my predictions I was not wrong. The people of the four towns have been given National league exhibitions for the small sum of twenty-five cents, and yet the games have not been attended as they should. This is not written with the idea of booming the attendance in the next five games but only to show that the efforts of Messrs. Whelan, Coding, Reed and Mack are not appreciated as they should be. These gentlemen have, at the expense of their business, given valuable time to the managing of their respective teams; have taken long journeys to get good players, and have individually spent money enough to pay their club dues for a lifetime. What reward do they receive? Nothing at all! If their team is winning, well and good, but perchance they happen to lose a game, they and they alone are to blame.

Take for instance the last Crescent-West End game. Anderson was put in to pitch. He proved to be out of form. Miller succeeded him and did well. The Somerville cranks denounced manager Mack for not putting Miller in—at first—they saying he could have won the game. This is one of the unpleasant features of managership. How did Mack know that Anderson was not in form? A pitcher who will retire an opposing nine with three hits in one day, may be pounded for twenty the next. That was proved last Saturday in the case of Francis of Elizabeth. Where is the pitcher in the National league who can pitch two days alike? Who was more to be pitied than manager Reed after the third game with the West Ends. Upon him came the whole brunt of the battle. He was the man who was blamed by the Crescent league for the loss of their dust, and as Charlie stepped into his carriage after the game I thought I saw a look in his eyes that said he wished himself anywhere else than where he was. At Crescoe for instance, enticing the finny beauties from the quiet waters of his fish preserve.

Manager Coding of Westfield is the man who has suffered most. He, early in the season, gathered around him a ball team worthy indeed to uphold the honor of Westfield. His men were of the star order and yet they have played in the hardest kind of luck. Games which were virtually won by his team, were in the last inning wrested from his grasp by phenomenal playing on the part of the other fellows. There is a story called "Hard luck" which perhaps you have all heard. This little tale seems to fit exactly the condition of the Westfielders during the present season. Look at last Saturday, with men on base nearly every inning. Some of them as far as third with no one out, and yet not a run was scored. Truly the way of the Westfielder is hard. And yet they have had everything to warrant their winning. The crowds in attendance have not been large, but the residents of Westfield are nothing if not patriotic and their hands have gone deep into their trousers' pockets with the hope that money could buy the pennant.

But it cannot! The pennant comes either to Plainfield or Somerville. The other teams have played their last card, and can now only struggle not to be last in the race. It seems to me that Elizabeth's weak hold is in the lack of team work. Too many changes from week to week will destroy the good hard, earnest work of any team. The men argue that their head may be the next to fall into the basket, and that fact makes them careless. There are now but three men playing on the Elizabeth team who began the season with them. The rest are gone but not forgotten. The lightning change act of releasing Murray and signing Moorehead, helped no one but the West Ends. Last Saturday's game ought to prove that.

As for Plainfield, only the best kind of management has kept them on top from the beginning. Only twice during the season have they been in danger of losing first place. Once early in the season when they were tied by Elizabeth, and again two weeks ago when the West Ends evened things up. The players on the Crescent team have all the way through done hard, earnest work for their employers and rooters and are deserving of much praise. True, Plainfield has used up many a good twirler this year in an effort to secure a wonder, and have at last succeeded in Sneeden. Without doubt the man is a "star" and if Plainfield wins the pennant Sneeden and the team in general should be given the greatest celebration that the people of that city can get up. Team work has been the secret of Plainfield's success. A great many people, myself included, have made fun of captain Hofford's playing. My excuse for doing so is that it increased the feeling likewise the attendance. Now to square myself let me say that to Hofford should go the palm. He is the man that makes the other men play ball. Hofford plays the game all the time; ever on the lookout for a chance to slide in and win. Plainfield has played the same men each game, and if they win the pennant, materially the same nine men will get the glory as faced Westfield in the initial game of the year. The biggest compliment I can pay Hofford is to class him with such men as Farrell, Harkins and Sharrott. Two weeks ago, when nearly all of Plainfield's residents were clamoring for "Gentle Willie's" release Hofford thought otherwise, and said: "He can play if he will. He hits the ball in all games except with Somerville." And wisdom was shown by the Plainfield management in refusing to let him go. It is too late in the season now to change. If Plainfield cannot win with the team they have, they cannot win at all.

I have through modesty spoken of the other teams first. I will now come to the real reason of writing this and plainly tell you it is to boom, as I believe, the coming pennant winners. Somerville by the most energetic pushing work has come from the tail end to within one game of the leaders, and I firmly believe that upon the last two games between Plainfield and Somerville will hinge who will win the pennant. In all the past season Elizabeth and Westfield have not helped Somerville toward closing the gap between themselves and the Crescents except in one instance, when Westfield won from Plainfield. The rest they have done themselves. By defeating Plainfield three straight games Somerville tied them for first place. Then by losing the fourth, they dropped back nearly one hundred points. Now the question is, can both teams retain their present positions until they meet? If so the other two teams need not play at all, as the people in the four towns representing the league will flock to see the battle of the Giants for the pennant. If things do turn out so, Somerville must win both games to capture the pennant. Plainfield by winning one will still retain their grip on the flag. Will it be ever so? Why could it not be Elizabeth or Westfield who would be so near the leaders? Why must the old feeling of years gone by be all brought up, and the coming battle be one to the death!

Manager Mack has now got a team that is in every sense of the word incomparable. He could not improve on it. For the next five weeks the battle will wage, and the leader will be hard pushed to win the next four games necessary for victory. In the meantime a slip means defeat to either. The eyes of every base-ball enthusiast in New Jersey are on the Plainfield and Somerville teams, and the burning question is—Who Will Win?

THE PEER OF ALL DAY TRIPS.

Nothing Equals the Sail to Glen Island and the Attractions There.

There is nothing that will revive the drooping spirits or relieve that tired and listless feeling incident to summer days, sooner than a breath of delicious, pure salt air, a stroll amid bright flowers, the sound of sweet music and a dinner to order, cooked to perfection, and followed by a sail homeward as the sun sets. Nowhere in the wide, wide world can you get all this complete and supremely satisfying in every detail, save at Starin's Glen Island.

The boats leave from the foot of Courtlandt street a few steps from the Central ferry in New York. The sail is around the bay and up the East river past the city's busy piers and the beautiful islands, bays and lovely scenery of the sound. The trip occupies two hours, so the sail is one of the longest yet it is the only one that presents every minute something of interest to look out at.

The Island itself has never shown to a better advantage than at present. The warm weather, tempered by evening showers, has made the flowers and plants look their best. Mr. Starin has spent thousands of dollars in flowers, and it may be said no private place can exhibit such an abundance and variety as is shown here this season.

A few words may be said about the menagerie, which contains some of the finest specimens of animals and, perhaps, the largest number of any zoological garden in the United States. This year an island has been allotted for their display and use. Take the young folks to see the aquarium also, where some rare specimens are shown.

As for yourself there is the clam-bake, the swell dinner, on the rocks overlooking the water, or "Little Germany" with its old castle, imported beer and music on the zither.

The new steamer Wm. C. Egerton is now running regularly. This is the largest and handsomest excursion steamer afloat.

About Friday Night's Minstrels.

[From The Providence Journal.]

Seldom is a more enjoyable entertainment of its kind witnessed than that presented by Gormans' minstrels at the Gaiety opera house last evening. Minstrelsy of a high order has many local admirers, and their presence at the performance was in sufficient numbers to occupy every seat in the theater. The strength of the combination is in the novelty and merit of the specialties presented, the high class of the numbers and the tuneful voices of the singers. There was no portion of the entertainment more enjoyable than the vocalization, and to this was added novel and effective stage setting, delightful old-fashioned pictures of southern life and characteristic plantation humor, the whole combining to form a diverting programme and an excellent exemplification of the modern minstrel entertainment. The entertainment can be commended as affording an agreeable divertisement.

A good appetite can be bought, like anything else. And good digestion after it, too. Both of them come with Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That starts the torpid liver into healthy action, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses and repairs the system, returns health and vigor, and builds up flesh and strength. For all diseases that come from a disordered liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so sure and certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

On these terms, it's the cheapest blood-purifier sold, no matter how many hundred doses are offered for a dollar (or less)—for with this, you pay only for the good you get.

Can you ask for better proof of its superiority over all other blood-purifiers?

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

MORE SWITCHMEN OUT.

The Buffalo Strike Extended to the New York Central—Other Roads Likely to Be Involved.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—The situation here this morning in the railroad switchmen's strike is not encouraging. The action of the New York Central switchmen in joining the strike, makes it much more formidable, and the Central yards this morning were under picket guard. It is feared the strike will now spread to the other Vanderbilt lines, the West Shore and Lake Shore roads.

The New York Central switchmen struck before 1 this morning. The strike was ordered by the Switchmen's Union and was a result of the trouble on the Erie and Lehigh roads. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western switchmen have plainly been in sympathy with the strikers, and they will probably not remain long at work handling freight from the lines named, including the Central.

The entire Fourth brigade is concentrating in Buffalo.

AN APPARENT EFFORT TO WRECK A CENTRAL TRAIN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The police of the West One-Hundred and Fifty-second street station reported at police headquarters this morning that between 6 and 7 last night some unknown person placed a tie on the track of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad at One-Hundred and Sixty-seventh street. It was discovered before any damage had been done and removed by Edward B. Hayes, a yardman in the employ of the company.

The supposition is entertained that some sympathizer of the striking railroad switchmen placed the tie on the track with the intention of wrecking a train.

SAD DEATH OF J. A. BOSTWICK.

Shock Caused by the Burning of His Stable and Two Men.

MAMARONECK, Aug. 17—Jabez A. Bostwick, the millionaire who was identified with the Standard Oil company and the New England railroad, died suddenly this morning from excitement produced by a fire which destroyed his stables and which resulted in the loss of the lives of his footman and the coachman of Mr. Constable, of Arnold, Constable & Co., whose stables also were burned.

The excitement caused Mr. Bostwick to rupture a blood vessel.

The charred bodies of the burned men have been recovered.

Eight valuable carriage horses and a number of carriages and carts were destroyed with Mr. Bostwick's stables. Nothing was saved. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

The Constable stables were also destroyed, together with the contents, including several horses and vehicles. The loss there is $130,000.

FIVE MEN BURIED.

The Front of Koster & Bial's New Building Fell In.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—The whole front of Koster & Bial's new building, Twenty-fourth street and Sixth avenue, fell with a crash at noon to-day.

Five men were on the scaffolding.

They were buried under the debris in the cellar.

NIAGARA TO BE HARNESSED.

Work on Col. Henkle's Great Power House to Start Soon.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 17.—Col. Leonard Henkle, of Rochester, who recently laid before Mayor Blacher of this city and the officials of the Grand Trunk railway his scheme for harnessing Niagara's water power, now states he is almost ready to make a start on the undertaking.

He proposes to construct a gigantic power house across the brink of Niagara Falls for the purpose of generating electrical power to be used for lighting, running trains and operating all kinds of machinery.

This power he claims to be able to transmit long distances.

Four years will be required to build the power house, on which he expects to make a start in November.

French Operations in Dahomey.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Advices from Dahomey state that Col. Lodds is about to inflict exemplary punishment on King Behanzin. From the line of march between Porto Novo and Abomey devastation will be spread right and left, and Abomey will be burned. The decisive action of the campaign is expected to take place at Kana-Gomr, where Behanzin has his military camp. When defeated he will flee, probably to the Upper River, if not poisoned by his priests in deference to the tradition that a King of Dahomey must never be conquered.

New York Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—Delegates to the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows of the State of New York are nearly all here, representing the 649 lodges in the State. The Grand Lodge sessions will occupy the time until Thursday when the Patriarchs Militant of the Atlantic division will take charge of the city for two days of festivities including a grand parade which will be reviewed by Gov. Flower and the prize drills. About 10,000 Odd Fellows are expected for the occasion.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

THE TOWN WIPED OUT

Fire Fiend's Ravages in Delmar, Del.

MANY FAMILIES ARE HOMELESS.

No Apparatus in the Place for Extinguishing the Flames—Aid Finally Comes From Other Towns—A Fireman Killed.

DELMAR, Del., Aug. 17.—This town is almost completely wiped out, as the result of a disastrous fire here yesterday afternoon. The loss will reach $300,000 and the insurance is less than one-third that amount.

Aid from Salisbury, Md., came, but the firemen could do little else but watch the town go to ashes, as the water supply was limited and two feeble streams that were played upon the burning mass of frame buildings were converted to steam before the water fell upon the fire.

The burned area comprises about three acres, and includes all the leading stores, two churches, railroad station and repair shops of the Delaware Railroad Company, the postoffice, Delmar Hotel, and from 30 to 40 dwellings.

Three hundred people are homeless and lost all their earthly belongings. The fire raged for three hours and finally burned itself out.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been from a cigarette stump thrown into a basket of waste paper. The houses of the villagers are nearly all frame structures.

One fireman, James Venn of Salisbury, was instantly killed by a falling chimney and several persons are missing, some of whom are believed to have been burned alive and many are suffering serious injuries and burns.

William L. Tirman, Speaker of the Delaware House of Representatives, telegraphed to Mayor Willey of Wilmington last night as follows:

"Town entirely burned. Can't you send us something to eat?"

Aid is pouring in from the surrounding towns.

BIG LUMBER FIRE.

The Immense Yards at McIndoes, Vt., Totally Destroyed.

MCINDOES, Vt., Aug. 17.—Fire started in the box shop of the Connecticut River Lumber Company at 1:30 a. m., and after devouring the shop the flames quickly spread to the lumber piles containing from four to five million feet of lumber. Fire engines came from Barnet, Woodsville, St. Johnsbury and Lyndonville, but were powerless to arrest the flames, as pile after pile of dry lumber was completely burned.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It was one of the largest fires that ever occurred in this section. Loss, about $60,000; insurance, $30,000.

The box shop will be rebuilt. The company is one of the largest in New England and has mills at six points on the Connecticut River.

IRON HALL'S BANK ASSIGNS.

It Wishes to Prevent the Removal of Its Funds to Indianapolis.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The Mutual Surety Trust and Safe Deposit Company, in which a large amount of the funds belonging to the Order of the Iron Hall is deposited, failed to open its doors yesterday.

The directors had made an assignment for the benefit of the stockholders and depositors to A. E. Stockwell, of this city, attorney for the bank.

Neither President Somerby nor Cashier Hayes could be found, and it is believed that the former has left for Indianapolis in the interest of the Iron Hall, of which he is the Supreme Justice.

Assignee Stockwell was found in company with A. G. Williams, treasurer of the Iron Hall building Company, and also a director of the bank.

Asked about the reasons for the assignment, he replied by referring to the recent suit for a receivership instituted against the Iron Hall at Indianapolis and the fact that $430,000 of the Order's money is on deposit in the bank.

"The lawyers on both sides in the receivership suit," he continued, "with the consent and approval of Judge Taylor, came here to take away the cash and securities of the bank and remove them to Indianapolis. Mr. Krumbhaar, State Superintendent of Banking, has been working with the plaintiffs, with the undoubted intention of wrecking this institution and the Iron Hall. It was for the purpose of protecting its creditors and keeping its assets within its jurisdiction that the assignment was made.

"The bank in my opinion is perfectly solvent and able to pay dollar for dollar all around. The directors, however, cannot permit their assets and securities to go out of their jurisdiction and thus compel their depositors to go to Indianapolis for their rights."

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—Supreme Accountant Walker of the Iron Hall was asked to-day by a reporter what effect the appointment of a receiver will have on the Iron Hall Order. "It means good bye to the Iron Hall," said he. "A receiver will be appointed. I do not believe another witness will be placed on the stand. I think the evidence of Mr. Somerby and the preliminary statement before the court, made by Judge Howe, were sufficient grounds for the appointment of a receiver. It's a bad state of affairs."

Chairman Carter Sanguine.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Chairman Carter of the Republican National Committee, who is in Washington for two days, visited the General Land Office in the afternoon, and the clerks and other employes took advantage of the opportunity to give him a flattering farewell. Mr. Carter expressed roseate views about the Republican situation in New York. He said the National Committee was counting on a sure majority of from 20,000 to 30,000 for Harrison. There was no ground for uneasiness about Mr. Platt's attitude. The National Committee was informed that Mr. Blaine would make two or three speeches for Harrison.

IN A POLICE BOAT.

A Night of Adventure in Quest of a River Pirate.

Under and Around the Wharves of New York—How the Water Front Is Patrolled While Most Good Citizens Are in Their Beds.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The Pirate Exchange in New York languishes. Pirates are dull and very scarce. The river police are active, but there are few transactions. Such is the situation along the river fronts as I found it last week.

What (I had thought) will be more engaging than a night on the river during this warm wave, pirate hunting with my friends of the Central office? Accordingly, I applied to Superintendent Byrnes, who, with his customary courtesy, at once gave his permission and arranged everything. He would, not, however, guarantee me any pirates. These adventurers, who have flourished from 1850 to 1875 and have maintained some sort of organization for several years longer, are now all broken up. They are dead, in prison or reformed. Only a few here and there steal a little cotton, coffee or sugar—thefts for which they may be arrested but can seldom be convicted. The new piers and bulkheads have aided the "finest" in the practical extirpation of the business.

A cold rain, following the hot wave, delayed my trip a day or two, for, though rains and fogs are perhaps congenial to river thieves, I preferred reasonable weather. At length came a clear, still, mild Saturday evening. At about six o'clock I reported on board the police steamer Patrol, at pier A, North river. The sergeant in charge first gave me a supper of tripe and tea and then showed me over the boat, in which everything looked clean, commodious and ship-shape. The Patrol herself only leaves her moorings when there is a big yacht race, or a naval review, or an unveiling of the statue of liberty, or some such affair causing a great assembling of river craft. Ordinarily she stays at her moorings, and the three or four rowboats which are always on duty along the river fronts report to her periodically and are regularly relieved. The river police are not a separate organization, but the members of it may be put on or off at any time.

Each boat carries two men in uniform. There is also a detective boat, the crew of which are in plain clothes. To this boat I was assigned. My companions for the night were a quiet, taciturn man of ordinary size, and a young hercules with thews and sinews of a giant, six feet two inches tall and weighing two hundred and twenty pounds.

Our course was up East river. As we rounded Castle Garden a tug came by and we tossed her a line to tow. The deckhand failed to hold it. "He'd have held it fast enough if we'd had our uniforms on," remarked the giant. A second attempt on another tugboat resulted in the same way. But by this time we were in the region of the ferryboats, and we followed one of them to her slip. We slipped under her guards and hauled ourselves along until we rested in the confined space between her bow (her stern as it now was) and the end of the slip. Our line was now made fast to the rudder post, and we waited in the gloom for several minutes while the passengers and vehicles embarked above. The muddy water swashed about the string piles and dripped from above, and the atmosphere was close and offensive. Presently we heard the chains rattle, the great paddle wheels revolved and the steamer moved out, dragging us behind in the foam of her wake. As she turned her nose up the river she seemed to move at a tremendous speed, and the waves ran up at each side of us in a continuous foaming wall. Thus we swept up the river for ten or fifteen minutes and were carried over a distance which we could not have rowed in more than thrice the time.

It was now long past sunset and lights were kindled along the docks and over the dark mass of the city, and along the thin arch of the Brooklyn bridge. We turned and began feeling our way down along the eastern shore. The dust was very deceiving to the eye—things far seemed near, and vice versa; shadows were like substance, and solid objects passed like shadows. Once or twice we had to pull hard to avoid the bow of an advancing steamer. Meanwhile a sharp lookout was kept for anything suspicious. A shapeless, sunken object appeared floating off our starboard quarter.

"Looks like a stiff," remarked one of the men, and we pulled up to examine it. It turned out to be a drowned dog, expanded to enormous size.

"What would you have done with it if it had been a human body?" I inquired.

"We tow 'em all up to pier A," replied Hercules, cheerfully, "for the coroner to hold an inquest on. Mostly, though, we don't tow 'em; it's worse dragging a stiff than pulling a scow. We just pull 'em aboard and lay 'em in the stern. That's the quickest way."

"You take in more stiffs than live men nowadays, I suppose?"

"Well, there's only these cotton thieves and coffee thieves. Stealing sugar don't pay now, since they put the new tariff on. They creep along and cut holes in the cotton bales and pull it out and put it into plain bags. The same with coffee. You can't identify cotton nor coffee, so even when we arrest 'em they mostly get off. They say they bought it off a schooner down the bay. But there haven't been many complaints made since two years ago. I came up with one of 'em once; he had his boat loaded. I jumped in and told him to row to pier A. 'Row her yourself,' says he; 'I ain't done nothing wrong.' I took up the stretcher and I hit him over the head a good 'un. 'Oh,' says he, 'it's fine you being a bobby, with the law on your side!' But he rowed me in, sir! But we couldn't convict him."

"What sentence would he have got if he had been convicted?"

"A three or four year stretch."

"Do they ever make much resistance to arrest?"

"Well, it's this way: If they know they're sure to be sent up, them that has never been in prison will try to get away, of course, but they won't injure anybody. But them that has done their 'bit,' and knows what it is, they're desperate men. They'll shoot as soon as look at you. I asked one of 'em once, says I: 'You wouldn't injure nobody, if you was took, would you?' Says he: 'Well, to tell der God's truth, sooner than be took I'd injure a dozen!'"

We worked over to the other side of the river in the vicinity of Corlear's Hook, which used to be the lurking place of some of the worst gangs on the river. There was nothing more terrible now than a crowd of boys bathing. Suddenly a boat darted out of the shadow and came swiftly toward us over the lumpy water.

"It's one of our boats," muttered Hercules. "They don't know us; let's give 'em a bit of a pull." We started off at our best pace, but we carried weight and they gradually overhauled us and hailed us peremptorily. We eased up and Hercules turned with a grin.

"Hello, shipmates! What's your hurry?"

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said a voice from the other boat, somewhat disappointedly.

"Nothing going on?" we asked.

"Nothing."

They turned and we kept on.

"Them two is lively chaps," observed my mentor. "Both of 'em over two hundred and never drinks nor smokes."

"What are your duties besides this?" I asked.

"Well, we look to see they keep orderly aboard them excursion boats," said he. "Once, about two years ago, I was sent, with five others, to look after a big crowd on a boat up the river. We missed her there and I sent the men back, but afterward I came up with her myself further down.

"'Any trouble on board, cap?' says I.

"'We've had fighting right along,' says he.

"'Who was in it?' says I.

"'That chap there was the ringleader,' says he.

"I looked and I see a big fellow, used to drive a brick wagon. I steps up to him, and says I:

"'Young fellow, I'm an officer. You're not wanted on this boat, and you don't never want to show your face on no excursion boat no more at all—see!' 'If you or anybody thinks they can put me off this boat,' says he, 'they'd better go to work and try.' With this I hauls off and I hits him a clip under the ear and over he goes, and I catches him by the legs and hauls him out of that boat feet foremost, with his head a-bumping all the way. We don't have no more trouble with them kind of people now," added the giant, expectorating casually over the lee gunwale. I have been obliged to omit much of the Homeric language which adorned this simple narrative, but it was inimitable for strength and point.

I had been inclined to think that three boats were rather short allowance to patrol the twenty miles of New York river front, but I am bound to say that they seem adequate to the task, especially when reinforced by the detective boat and by the roundsman, who may turn up at any point at any time, afloat or ashore. Twice again—once on the East river and once on the North—we were intercepted by the police boats lurking on guard, and no one can tell where or at what moment they will appear. They can always command a "tow," and once they catch sight of a suspicious craft, escape is impossible, except by shooting. The color of the boats is occasionally changed, so that they cannot be recognized. The strength of the tide in the middle of the river obliges thieves to keep close in to the docks, and at every turn they are liable to run right into the arms of the police. There is now but one "fence" for goods stolen on ships, and he lives in Jersey and is under strict surveillance. Certainly, were I a "crook," there is no branch of the profession I would not rather adopt than the piratical one.

And sir, as we moved slowly along the great stream, with the stars overhead and the shadows and mystery below and twinkling lights confusing the eye on every side, and dark masses looming suddenly out of the gloom and rushing past us this way and that, both piracy and pirate hunting seemed fascinating occupations. There have been many stirring episodes in its annals, from the first beginnings of river robbery in 1850 up to a few years ago. Unfortunately all the records were lost in the burning of the Seneca, police steamer, in 1879. But as we rowed along through the night I listened to many a tale which yet survived in the memories of the actors in it. Superintendent Byrnes, however, has little sympathy with the romance of crime, and under his administration New York is yearly becoming more and more uninteresting from that point of view. The river is not as mysterious as it looks, and the chief danger you run at night is in being shot by some honest watchman from the end of a pier.

JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

A JEALOUS DOG.

He Thought He Had a Rival in His Mistress' Baby.

A few weeks after my marriage, says a correspondent, we went to our future home, a farm ten miles from the town of L——, which was my husband's birthplace and the home of his family. Mr. E—— had kept bachelor's hall for a year, but in that time had learned that it required more than one to manage a farm.

Among his possessions was a beautiful setter dog, Bounce, who soon became much attached to me. He followed me everywhere, and in the frequent absence of my husband from the house, never allowed me to get out of his sight. If turned out of the room, he would lie patiently at the door till Mr. E——'s return.

We often drove to L—— for a visit of several days, and sometimes to my own home, thirty miles away. On our return the dog's delight was a very pleasant welcome, and when Mr. E—— got out of the buggy to open the gate, Bounce, after greeting him, would jump into the vacant place in the buggy, and he and I would drive up to the house.

Once, however, Mr. E—— was already at home, and I, with a small, precious bundle of humanity, drove up in the old carriage from my mother's. When we arrived no one was in sight, although we were expected during the day.

We were in the house, and baby was lying quietly on the bed, before Mr. E—— heard of our arrival and hurried in, closely followed by Bounce. My welcome was more demonstrative than usual, as it was long since the dog had seen me. In a little while I turned to the bed, and taking baby, held him down for Bounce to admire.

Never shall I forget the look of reproach and sadness in those almost human eyes. He stood for one instant looking at me, and then turned and walked slowly from the room. From that day, for all the five years of his after life, he ignored my existence and that of baby, never coming near me, nor allowing the child to touch him.

One day he was lying on the floor of the room in which we were sitting, and baby, who had begun to creep and was disposed to be friendly, went toward him. He got up, crossed the room and lay down under a table. In a few minutes baby was near him again. This time he left the room, and from that day he came no more into the house.

He did not lose his affection for his master, and grew accustomed to seeing him notice the child, but his life was never again a happy one.—Youth's Companion.

A Life on the Ocean Wave.

A steam packet company of Liverpool desired to enlarge their premises and decided to purchase the piece of land adjoining and which belonged to a maiden lady. The lady was willing to sell, and at so low a figure that the directors were astonished. COTTOLENE and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

ENTIRE NATIONAL GUARD CALLED OUT

The Situation at East Buffalo One of Extreme Gravity.

SEVEN ROADS NOW INVOLVED IN THE STRIKE.

The Lake Shore Switchmen Joined Their Brethren Shortly After Midnight—The Sheriff and Mayor United in a Call For More Troops Early This Morning—The Militia Were Held in Readiness All Last Night—No Serious Trouble Yesterday, But Practically No Freight Moved—Situation at Other Places.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The strike begun by the switchmen in the Lehigh Valley yard in East Buffalo threatens to involve every trunk line in the State, and to result in a general congestion of passenger as well as freight traffic.

The locomotive firemen now show a disposition to join the switchmen, and it is possible that engineers and trainmen may also lend their aid to the switchmen.

Although the presence of over 2,000 troops has so overawed the strikers that comparative quiet now reigns here, the situation presents such alarming possibilities that it has been deemed wise by the State authorities to call out the entire National Guard.

Every militia company in the State was informally notified last night of the possibility of its being called out, and in Brooklyn the 47th, 13th, 23d and 14th regiments were virtually under arms. The 12th of New York city were also in readiness, as was the Yonkers Separate Company. The Poughkeepsie Company was called out at 2. a. m.

All left for the scene early this morning.

The roads embraced in the strike are the Lehigh, the Erie, New York Central, West Shore, Lake Shore, Western New York, and Rochester & Pittsburg Railroads. The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Road, by promising not to handle freight from the lines in which there is a strike has obtained immunity so far.

The Lake Shore men were called out early this morning.

A DRAWN BATTLE.

The Strikers Overawed, but No Freight Cars Are Moving.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Martial law has subdued armed rebellion in the railroad yards at Buffalo, but has not yet started the wheels of industry.

When the first trains are moved there is likely to be bloodshed.

The 1,900 militiamen who compose the Fourth brigade, National Guard, State of New York, are as powerless to control the more than 1,000 strikers in the great railroad yards stretching seven miles from the heart of the city, as the New York police force would be to cope with an army of rioters stretching from Jersey City to Newark, N. J.

At midnight Sheriff Beck and Mayor Bishop were induced to join in the following message:

"BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug 18.

Hon. ROSWELL P. FLOWER, Governor:

We have become satisfied that the situation here in Buffalo, under the pending strike, has became so serious that we ask that the National Guard of the State be called out to protect the lives and property of citizens of this county."

General Doyle is in receipt of information that the 12th and 22nd Regiments of New York had been ordered out and had left that city on special trains and that others would follow rapidly.

It looks as if the entire National Guard of the State would be called out.

Threats to Blow Up Bridges.

Anonymous letters were received last night by more than one of the officers of the railroads affected by the strike predicting that all the bridges on the Erie would be blown up by dynamite to-night. The leaders of the men denounce all such rumors; but it is a fact, nevertheless, that the temper of the men and the whole tone of the situation is suggestive of grave danger.

The soldiers are complaining bitterly because the railroads do not send passenger coaches for shelter. They are forced to lie on the ground, and not having sufficient blankets it is very hazardous to health. General Doyle said:

"We are making all possible provisions for shelter. A large number of tents have been ordered from New York and we expect them to-day."

The 26th separate company from Elmira has arrived, and is being held in reserve.

Sheriff Beck has ordered all the saloons near the railroad yards to be closed forthwith and to remain closed until he gives them permission to open.

The Outcome Problematical.

The wildest rumors prevail as to the probable outcome of the trouble, which strikers predict may extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific unless their demands are acceded to.

With trouble at Sayre, Hornellsville and Binghamton, and prospective strikes at Waverly, Jersey City and other points the handling of freight by the men imported to take the place of strikers must necessarily be impeded and it is not easy to foresee the outcome should the difficulty extend, as the strikers affirm it will, from State to State.

An enormous amount of traffic will be tied up by this strike, as it will no doubt involve all the lines in Buffalo.

The Delaware, Lackawana and Western switchmen have plainly been in sympathy with their striking brethren of the Lehigh, and they will probably not remain long at work handling freight for the other lines. The strike is extending and may be far-reaching in its consequences and disastrous to the business community.

The Central's yards are of vast extent and in three different sections of the city. Four of the six switch tenders employed in the New York Central depot in Exchange street have quit their posts. Arrangements were at once made to send out an engine and crew to bring in the Lake Shore passenger train due here at 1:40 o'clock. A police escort was sent with the engine. In the Central yards at 2 o'clock all the men had quit work, and all the engines were being laid up. Twenty-five policemen under Captain Zicker were on guard in the yards.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The New York Central's yards here passed through a strike two years ago. The company defeated the men, filling the yards with non-union men. It was not believed that the union could again get a strong hold in the yards, but committees have been at work for several months preparing for a strike.

The company employs about twenty-five day engines and something over a dozen night engines, each having a switching crew of three men besides the engineers and firemen, making a total of about 125 men in switching service in the yards.

The strike on the Central and West Shore will very nearly blockade business on the lakes, so far as Buffalo is concerned. Already the shipments of coal have about stopped. The average movement has been about two cargoes a day since Friday.

Agencies Swamped With Flour.

Already the northwestern flour agencies are complaining that they are getting swamped with flour, and with only the Lackawanna left to help them out they will accomplish very little towards keeping up with the eastern business.

The receipts of grain are so heavy that the elevators will soon be full. General package freight is accumulating so rapidly that the warehouses are overloaded with it.

The effect of the strike on the big railroad shops is already becoming apparent. Cars for rebuilding and repairing are growing fewer in the shops, while they are piling up on the road.

"If the strike continues much longer," said one of the Lehigh Valley men last night, "the road will be compelled to make a serious reduction in its shop force."

William Purcell, of Rochester, chairman of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, with Messrs. Robertson of Troy and Donovan of Brooklyn, are here to investigate the situation. They have held conferences with the men and officials, but their efforts have been unavailing.

Private Frederick W. Elsaesser, of the 65th was accidently shot by a fellow-soldier named Lucien Holmes yesterday morning. Holmes was snapping the trigger of a rifle when it went off, the bullet striking Elsaesser, directly through the head. Elsaesser was removed to the hospital, where he died early last evening. The rifle was loaded contary to orders and Holmes supposed it to be empty.

TO TAKE STRIKERS' PLACES.

The Lehigh Fast Securing New Men—Policemen On Trains.

READING, Pa., Aug. 18.—One hundred mountain men passed through here last evening to take the places of the strikers on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. They came from Pine Grove, Frankville and Cressons, and are all practical and experienced grademen and will be used on the mountains.

It is learned this morning that the company has secured enough men already to fill the places of every striker on the entire system. It is not believed, however, that the trouble will extend south of Packerton.

Nearly all of the old men were called upon personally yesterday, and the majority gave assurances that they would stand by the company. Cars are being fitted up at the shops with bunks, mattresses, stoves and tables. The company is making every preparation for the comfort and protection of the non-union workmen.

Special policemen will accompany all trains East and West. Several stock trains were brought through from Buffalo via Williamsport last night, and it is likely that freight will be handled in this same way until the block is lifted at Buffalo, Packerton and Sayre.

Effect on the Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The effect of the strike on the stocks of the railroads has been somewhat depressing, though the drop was comparatively slight. New York Central opened yesterday at 118.3-8, from which price it did not fluctuate during the day. There was absolutely no trading in Lake Shore. Brokers generally say that the prompt action taken in calling out the militia has given dealers and holders of the stock confidence.

Will It Extend to Chicago?

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The chance of the strike of railway switchmen spreading from Buffalo to Chicago is as yet problematic. It may rival the strike of 1877, or it may be confined to the East. Many of the great trunk lines fear it will reach Chicago and are preparing their business so as to meet it should it come. Trainmen say they don't believe the strike will spread here except in the form of a boycott.

Order to Central Freight Agents.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The following circular telegram has been received in this city:

BUFFALO, Aug. 17, 1892.

TO ALL FREIGHT AGENTS, N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R.—Receive freight for all points as usual. H. WALTER WEBB.

This is taken as an indication that the Central road intends to put on new men at once and combat their rights with the strikers.

Advertising for Men in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—An advertisement appears in the Boston papers asking for switchmen, and an office has been opened on Washington street to receive applications. They are wanted to take the place of the strikers on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Buffalo, and they are offered $60 per month, 12 hours per day for day work and $65 per month for the same time night work.

Further Depredations By the Cooleys.

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Great excitement prevails over the Cooley depredations. Tuesday the store of Merchant Elliot at Cruceton was rifled and robbed of nearly $1,000. A number of other like depredations are reported. If the outlaws are captured summary justice will be dealt by the people without mercy.

SHE BROKE THE RECORD

Nancy Hanks Now Queen of Trotters.

THE MILE WAS MADE IN 2.07 1-4.

The Great Performance at Washington Park, Chicago, Yesterday, the Talk of the Sporting World—Veritable Bedlam When the Time Was Announced.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The great topic of discussion in sporting circles to-day is the peerless performance of Nancy Hanks at Washington Park yesterday when she trotted a mile in 2.07 1-4.

The great mare was sent to beat her own record of 2.09, and not only upset that mark decisively but broke all existing records of the trotting turf. The 2.08 3-4 of Maud S. dwindles into obscurity, and the world's notch of 2.08 1-4 held by Robert Bonner's Sunol pales by a full second before the clip set by Nancy Hanks, now supreme queen of trotters.

Twelve thousand people saw the unequalled feat performed at Washington Park. The majority rather expected that a successful shy would be taken at 2.09, because Budd Doble had given it out that the daughter of Happy Medium and Nancy Lee, named after the mother of Abraham Lincoln, was in fine form and in condition to do wonders.

So fast did she trot, however, and so enthralling was her pace and perfect her motion that, as she sped under the wire with 2.07 1-4 hung out on the stand, the big crowd of enthusiasts present let loose as if Bedlam had escaped. Doble and the conqueror of time were lifted from their feet.

Man and mare were practically carried to the paddock, and races that followed were seen only as a passing memory.

BOTH WILL DIE.

Edward Bailey and the Girl He Shot, in Philadelphia, Cannot Recover.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—Ed. Bailey, who shot Joseph Gunther and Miss Mary Carney, whom he mistook for his wife, and then shot himself, early yesterday morning, will die. Miss Carney, who was a lodger in Bailey's house, cannot recover. Gunther, who also lodged there, is only slightly hurt.

An unhappy marriage and its painful results lay at the bottom of the shooting. For three months past Bailey and his wife have been separated, and the husband was released a few days ago from prison. He had been sent to jail owing to his failure to furnish $800 bail to keep the peace and refrain from annoying his wife.

Bailey secured a revolver early Tuesday evening and when his wife left the house to pay a visit he followed her.

Mrs. Bailey entered a car at 17th and Spruce streets and looking backward saw her husband watching her. When she alighted at 7th and Spruce streets she saw her husband waiting for her.

She quickly entered the house of her friends and asked for protection.

Shortly before midnight when Mrs. Bailey reached home, she found Mary Carney on the steps badly frightened. The woman said that she heard some one in the house.

Both women waited until Gunther, the boarder, came home and then proceeded to investigate.

The noises were heard coming from the cellar.

Gunther descended, and when he arrived at the foot of the stairs Bailey stepped from a closet where he had been hiding and opened fire on Gunther.

One bullet took effect in the leg.

Miss Carney rushed down stairs. In the darkness Bailey mistook her for his wife and again opened fire. Four bullets were fired. One entered the girl's arm, another her leg, and the third was imbedded in the wall, while the fourth entered her stomach.

Mrs. Bailey ran screaming from the house and informed the Fifth district police.

When the officer arrived he found that Bailey, on discovering his fearful mistake, had turned the revolver to his own head and now lay unconscious in a pool of his own blood, with a gaping wound in his forehead. The wounded were removed to a hospital.

English Contribution to Homestenders.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Mr. Keir Hardie has sent as a contribution to the Homestead strikers' fund the 100 pounds given him by Mr. Carnegie for election expenses. Hardie is the Labor member for West Ham. He was a Scotch pitman, having worked underground from the age of 8 until he was 24, and is described as a man of strong fibre, mental as well as physical. He is president of the Ayreshire Miners' Union and is strongly in favor of an eight-hour law.

Gen. Husted Slightly Improved.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 18.—General James W. Husted passed a comfortable night under a slight administration of morphine. He slept well. His physician said that the General's condition was somewhat improved. His pulse, he said, was the lowest since his sickness began, yet the prospects of a quiet day of improvement was before him. Mr. Husted's disease, the doctor said, however, was such that a sudden change might occur at any time.

Will Print the Folding Postals.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., Aug. 18.—Al Daggett has received the contract for printing the new folding postal card. The card is designed to be used by one party, folded and returned by the receiving party, making one card do the work of two. The cards are sold for one and two cents, the latter being for foreign use. The first order is for 12,000,000.

MILLIONAIRE BOSTWICK'S DEATH.

Excitement of the Fire Killed Him—The Other Bodies Recovered.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—It is now believed that the fire which destroyed the barn of Jabez A. Bostwick, the millionaire, at Mamaroneck, L. I., yesterday, in which two men lost their lives, and from the excitement of which Mr. Bostwick is dead, was caused, accidentally, by the coachman and footman, who are said to have been intoxicated.

Fire broke out shortly after midnight in Constable's barn, which is a short distance from Mr. Bostwick's home at Oriental Point, overlooking the sound. Oriental Point is a short walk from the village. The fire communicated to Mr. Bostwick's barn.

Mr. Bostwick had been ill for some time, and when the alarm was sounded, hurried from his room to the veranda, laboring under much excitement. He had been there but a few minutes when the sight of his property in a blaze unnerved him. Suddenly, without speaking, he fell backward and became unconscious. He died before medical aid could reach him.

When he fell the greatest excitement prevailed in the household. The fire was abandoned to take care of itself. Mr. Bostwick was carried to his room, and every remedy known to the household was employed in the effort to restore him to consciousness.

When the physicians arrived he was dead, and they agreed death had been caused by the rupturing of a blood vessel.

The blackened and charred bodies of the coachman and footman were discovered in the ruins of the barns a few hours after Mr Bostwick died.

Eight valuable carriage horses were burned to death and a number of carriages and property, valued at $50,000, were also destroyed.

The fire made a big blaze and attracted persons for miles around. As soon as possible the firemen of Mamaroneck, Rye and other surrounding villages, with hundreds of villagers, hurried to the Bostwick place. When they arrived Mr. Bostwick was dead, both stables had been gutted, and two dead men were in the ruins.

It was after the fire had burned out that it was discovered that the coachman and footman were missing. This added considerably to the excitement. Their bodies were found in the debris, burned beyond recognition.

Nothing was saved in either place. Mr. Bostwick's property—totally destroyed—was valued at $50,000. The Constable stables were rebuilt about a year ago, after they had been destroyed by fire. At that time the loss was estimated at $100,000. The new stables were constructed on a more extensive scale, and it is believed the loss by the second fire will be much heavier.

Mr. Bostwick has been prominently identified with the New England railroad and the Standard Oil Company. He was also interested in the New York Steam Company and the Standard Gas Company. He was also owner of the Gas Engine and Power Company, which manufactures the engines for the naptha launches. Mr. Bostwick's fortune is estimated at about $10,000,000.

SHOOTING AT HOMESTEAD.

Militiamen Fired Upon by Unknown Persons on a Train.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 18.—There was great excitement both inside and outside of the Carnegie mills at Homestead last night. The non-union men became almost uncontrollable in their terror. About 8:15 o'clock a long freight train on the Pittsburg & McKeesport Railroad passed through the mill yard and on to the railroad bridge spanning the Monongahela river.

Just as the train emerged from the mill yard several shots, in rapid succession, were fired from various parts of the rapidly moving train into the ranks of the militiamen, who were doing guard duty along the river front.

The company attacked were given orders to return the fire, which they did. The batallion from the other side of the river also opened fire on the train and over 100 shots were sent after the unknown shooters on the fast disappearing train.

Three men were found on the railroad bridge and placed under arrest. They disclaimed all knowledge of the affair and were released. The first shot fired appeared to come from the engine cab window. The general officers of the road have been called upon to investigate the shooting.

Walker to Succeed Gherardi.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—It is reported here that Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, Commandant of the North Atlantic Squadron, is about to be detailed to other duty and Commodore Walker, of the Squadron of Evolution, is to be Commandant of the North Atlantic Squadron. The Philadelphia, now at Bar Harbor, is to leave there on Wednesday of next week for New York, and upon his arrival here Admiral Gherardi will haul down his flag and proceed to Washington.

Mechanics at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 18.—About 5,000 members of the New Jersey branch of the Junior Order of American Mechanics were in the parade here yesterday. It was the annual field-day of the Order. There were councils from almost every city, town and hamlet in the State. Besides the fraternity, there were about 20,000 one-day visitors present to witness the pageant. The town was in gay holiday attire.

Cranberry Crop Short.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Aug. 18.—The indications are that the crop of cranberries in Plymouth county will be only about half as large as usual. Some bogs will only yield about one-half of a crop while others are hardly worth picking. The cause of the short crop is the dry weather, partly; more especially the span worm, a little insect which it is found hard to exterminate.

Sick Street Car Horses Shot.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Ten more horses affected with glanders were taken out of the stables of the Third Avenue Railroad Company and killed by the officers of the Board of Health yesterday. Thirteen cases were discovered Tuesday and, as several hundred horses are sick in the stables of the company, it is expected that other cases will develope.

Freight Handlers Out in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 18.—About 150 freight handlers in the Northwestern freight depot in this city are on strike for higher wages. They have been getting $1.40 per day, but demanded $1.50. On being refused they went out.

OLIVER SPRINGS TAKEN

Troops and Guards Surrender to Miners.

HUNDREDS OF SHOTS EXCHANGED

No One Killed, However—The Convicts and Guards Sent to Knoxville—The Stockade Then Burned—Coal Creek Near. Indignation at the Governor.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 18.—Anarchy reigns supreme in the mining regions north of this city. Excitement here is intense and is heightened by the lack of definite information from the scenes of the trouble, the wires being cut.

The mob is in actual possession of the property of the East Tennessee Railroad in the neighborhood of Coal Creek and Oliver Springs. They have cut the wires in numerous places, torn up the track in every direction and captured every locomotive in the mining region.

At a late hour Tuesday night over a thousand miners captured three locomotives and several empty coal cars at Coal Creek and forced the engineers to take them to Oliver Springs, where 95 convicts were employed in the mines of the Cumberland Coal Company.

They arrived at Oliver Springs about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and at once planned an attack on the stockade where convicts were confined. About 7 o'clock they assaulted the stockade, and a battle ensued.

The stockade was defended by 50 picked guards and a company of 38 militiamen. Two companies of National Guards enroute here were compelled to take the side track afew miles from Oliver Springs on account of misplaced rails.

Hundreds of shots were exchanged, but strange to say, no one was injured.

Guards and militia seeing that it was useless to combat a force of infuriated and determined strikers, quietly surrendered.

The convicts, guards and soldiers were loaded on a train of freight cars, and the engineer, at the point of a Winchester rifle, was compelled to pull the train out in the direction of Knoxville. The stockade was then burned to the ground.

Arriving at Clinton, permission was obtained from the railway officials to bring the convicts to this city. The train, which was the only one in or out for 24 hours, arrived in Knoxville at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and was soon surrounded by an immense throng of the curious.

A special train left at 5 p. m., taking the convicts to the main prison at Nashville. Four convicts escaped between Oliver Springs and this city.

Communication with Coal Creek was restored in the afternoon. The line was no sooner re-opened than the miners took peaceable possession of the office at Coal Creek, and to prevent the dispatch of regular business they filed thousands of words of stuff.

They paid for all messages at regular rates, and the company could not refuse them.

Over 1,500 miners are massed at Coal Creek, all heavily armed. The yhave captured the two companies of militia sent to Oliver Springs. They locked the soldiers in a warehouse at Clinton yesterday, and then 1,000 marched across the mountain to Coal Creek.

When the proposed assault upon Camp Anderson is made they will force the captive soldiers in uniform to march at the head of the column, and have sent word to the officers in command to that effect.

They believe that the officers of the camp will refuse to fire on them as long as the soldiers are in front.

EXCITEMENT AT CHATTANOOGA.

Military Badly Frightened — Threats of Lynching the Governor.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 18.—The following bulletins are posted in the leading buildings of this city:

"Tennessee to arms! Will you allow your State to be disgraced?"

"The miners have captured the soldiers! Volunteers come at once!"

"Lieut. Royster in the Armory is ready to receive volunteers!"

"Bring any kind of a weapon you may have!"

About 1,000 people stood in the rain reading these bulletins when Col. Woolford wired from Harriman that the 30 Knoxville soldiers had been captured en route to Oliver Springs. This added to the terror.

Mayor Andrews wired Col. Woolford not to leave Harriman with the troops if he doubted his ability to make a successful fight, and the dispatch, with the story of the capture of the Knoxville company, caused instant demoralization among the military, and they are badly frightened.

It is reported that fully 3,000 armed miners are in the field in East Tennessee, and the fight against the troops is uneven, to say the least. Gov. Buchanan has not offered to assist the little band from Chattanooga, and no other State troops are even thinking of going to the mining districts.

Citizens are very indignant at the Governor's course, and loud threats of lynching the Governor are freely made upon the streets. A corporal's guard is trying to corral the unwilling militiamen and get them into the armories. Some have been arrested, but very few can be found.

Some of the citizens are forming companies to leave for the scene of trouble, and all kinds of weapons are being gathered for use in the fight which is sure to come.

The Governor Calls for Volunteers.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 18.—The sheriff of Davison county has been requested by the Governor to raise 1,000 volunteers to suppress the trouble at Coal Creek. It is thought similar orders have been issued to other sheriffs.

Eighteen Horses Perished.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 18.—The stables of the Haverhill Ice Company were burned shortly after midnight, origin unknown. There were nineteen horses in the stable and only one was rescued. Five tons of hay and the tools in the building were also burned.

Tug Firemen's Strike Ended.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The strike of the tug firemen ended very ingloriously. Only two or three of the men were taken back. They were some of the best ones, and begged their way back. All the other places were filled by new men. The tugs are all at work again.

"I AM THE MAN!"

CHARLES PECKHAM SAYS HE KILLED MR. AND MRS. BORDEN.

Gives Himself Up to the Police, and Tells How He Climbed Over the Back Fence to Reach the Scene of the Murder.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 18.—At 10:05 this morning Charles H. Peckham, of Westport, walked into police headquarters and gave himself into custody for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Borden.

Deputy Marshal Fleet was sitting behind his desk when the stranger entered.

He asked for Marshal Hilliard, and upon being told that he was out, inquired if Mr. Fleet was the next in charge.

The latter replied in the affirmative and inquired what the visitor wanted.

He said: "My name is Peckham. I came from Westport, and I cannot bear to see Lizzie Borden suffer any more.

"I am the man who murdered her father and mother, and she is innocent of the crime."

The speech was delivered in a clear voice and without any apparent excitement on the part of the visitor.

Mr. Fleet could not believe his own ears. He inquired of the man the time that he committed the crime, and Peckham answered that he did it two weeks ago to-day, about noon.

He said he had a good reason for doing it, which he did not state.

He said he jumped the fence in the rear of the house, entered the side door into the kitchen, proceeded to kill Mrs. Borden and afterwards her husband.

Peckham has been locked up.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether his story is not the product of a disordered mind, affected by sympathy for Lizzie Borden.

GORMANS' GLORIES.

What Other Papers Say About the Minstrels That Are to Be at Music Hall, To-morrow Evening.

The Gorman brothers and their famous band of minstrels opened the Globe theater last evening. Very cordial was the welcome extended these clever merry-makers by a large audience. The Gormans have not now to win a reputation in Boston. A season since they won at this same theater laurels and dollars in abundance. Good as was the performance then, the entertainment given now is vastly better.—Boston Globe.

Gorman's minstrels gave a performance at the Detroit opera house last night and easily demonstrated their right to a place in the front centre of negro minstrelsy. Their programme is one of unusual variety and it is lifted quite out of the conventional rut. The first part is never tedious. There is no pretence of preserving the old and depressing cut-and-dried "end man" business, but the ballad singing is charming, the dresses are sumptuous, the dancing is artistic and the comic business is new. Novelties follow in rapid succession. Among these are a surprisingly intricate military drill by Highlanders in costume. The Gorman show is everything that is claimed for it.—Detroit Free Press.

Not to Be Caught.

'Twas at the Sabbath-school picnic. Two maidens of uncertain age were struggling in the water.

"Merciful heavens!" cried the pastor. "Will no one save them? Is there no swimmer among us?"

"Is there a justice of the peace in the crowd?" asked Tattered Stuyvesant, the tramp, emerging from the bushes.

"I hold that office," answered a gentleman. "But will"—

"Well, then, ladies," shouted Tattered Stuyvesant to the struggling maidens, "hold up yer hands, an' let the justice swear ye that I don't have to marry either of ye, an' I'll plunge in. I'm heroic, but not foolhardy. This is leap year!"—National Tribune.

GAVE THEM THEIR ONE RUN.

Plainfield Batsmen Again Have It All Their Own Way With the Stalwart Young Pitcher from Elizabeth—Harkins Seemingly Afraid to Face the Crescents.

The Crescents never had an easier job than defeating the great John Harkins aggregation from New Brunswick yesterday. The great John himself disappointed his Plainfield admirers in not fulfilling his promise to pitch. This is the second time within five days that John has backed out of a pitching contract, and it really begins to look as if the old man was afraid. At any rate, he contented himself with playing at short, and distinguished himself by letting an easy grounder go skimming through his legs. The Plainfield people like to see John play, but they prefer him in the box. They like to see his sardonic grin and see him show his two fine rows of teeth, which he did at intervals yesterday. Francis, who had been batted all over the field in the previous Saturday's contest, showed his spunk and sought to redeem himself by again facing the heavy Crescent batsmen. But he was freely hit, and the Plainfielders had no trouble rolling up an overwhelming score. For Plainfield, Murphy pitched a great game. He was erratic at times, and men who could never hit him occasionally got their base on balls; but whenever Hofford steadied him down he had fine control and excellent speed. He struck out at least one man in each of eight innings, two in the third and two in the seventh; and made the remarkable record of retiring the entire side on strikes, in the sixth inning, with only four balls pitched besides the nine strikes. Murphy stock went way up, and "Silent Robert" became a great favorite. Hofford was himself again. In last Saturday's game Francis struck him out twice, but this time the little Brownie man not only played with success his old game of getting base on balls, which he did twice, but made a hit as well. Leidy was the crown hitter of the day. He hit the ball hard, placed it well, and once more proved himself an extraordinarily earnest worker. Bonner's smashing three-bagger showed that he is still in his old time form, but the india-rubber shortstop did more work for "Gentle William" Murphy than for himself. Murphy had an ankle bound up in a yellow ham-bag; said he'd hurt himself while running at the Elizabeth game; and Bonner did his sprinting. That's how Murphy got credit for a stolen base, and why his last hit was a three-bagger. If Murphy had been running, it would have been only a double. Sneeden, Turner and Brady were playing in unfamiliar positions, but did remarkably well. Jones got his error through hard luck. He played a beautiful game, and could readily be excused for not capturing the peculiarly-hit ball that struck his shin and caromed out of reach. Turner continues one of the most popular players in the league. Bonner gave the Brunswick basemen some mighty hard work when he got caught between third and home and kept dodging back and forth to escape the ball. He would have scored, had not the basemen interfered with him. They kept grouping on the line of base in his path, and after he had thrown two of them down Harkins got on his hands and knees for Bonner to fall over him. He would have finally beaten the ball home but for this underhand trickery. The players on the Harkins team are all Sixth Ward boys in New Brunswick, but play on other teams through the State. They are a quiet, well-behaved set, and take defeat gracefully. Somerville has a personal pride in the team, 'cause Harkins runs it; and manager Mack of the West Ends, together with a number of Somerville rooters, were interested spectators of yesterday's contest. Early in the game they cheered the Harkins team effusively, giving the West End cry; but presently a dense silence fell over them, and they took the defeat of their cherished John's team very much to heart. The Brunswicks were virtually shut out, but in the ninth inning "Gentle Willie" presented them with a run by purposely lazing out in left field and letting Harry Francis's fly score as a hit. Cox had already got his base on ball, and scored. "Silent Robert" then gave the visitors further encouragement by letting Grunwald pound the ball for two bases, advancing Francis to third. But one run and two hits was enough of a gift, so he carefully struck out the next man, Cramer, the heaviest batsman of the team. The work of umpire Hudson was eminently satisfactory.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical; it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—GEO. TERRY, Little Falls, N. Y.

A buckwheat trust has been formed, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, and, as usual in such large enterprises, a prominent Plainfielder is int rested. The incorporators, according to the papers filed in the office of New Jersey's Secretary of State, are: David Dows and Joseph A. Knox of New York, Wm. A. Nash of Brooklyn, and Charles W. McCutchen of Plainfield. The trust will be called the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling company. Three millions of the stock is preferred and is to be entitled to 8 per cent. dividends before the declaration of anything on the common stock. Bonds to the amount of $2,500,000 will also be issued.

WHEELMEN, ATTENTION!

AN ORDINANCE

to regulate the use of bicycles, tricycles and other noiseless vehicles in the public streets.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle or tricycle, or other wheeled vehicle not drawn by a horse, upon any sidewalk in the City of Plainfield, except when necessary so to do in passing from private premises to the roadbed of any street; nor shall any person ride any such vehicle in or upon any street or highway of said city without ringing a bell or sounding a whistle at a distance of at least fifty feet from any street crossing or intersection over which any person may be passing, in such manner as to give full and sufficient warning of such approach; nor shall any person ride upon any such vehicle upon any street of said City between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise without carrying and displaying a lighted lantern.

SECTION 2. That every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Adopted by the Common Council August 1, 1892.

Approved by the Mayor August 3, 1892.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Attest:—F. W. BUNTON, City Clerk.

Everyone violating any of the provisions of this ordinance will be dealt with as law and justice may require.

GREAT TROTTING AT SOMERVILLE.

Horsemen from All Over New Jersey Have a Big Meet to Match Their Steeds.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 17.—The annual meeting of the New Jersey Breeders' association began here to-day and will continue over to-morrow. There are five races on the card each day. All of the horses entered belong to the members of the association. The grass and air of Somerset county seem to be unusually adapted for the raising of fine stock, and there are no less than a dozen stock farms within a radius of ten miles from Somerville. When the races began at 1 o'clock but few people were present, but by 3 the stand was filled with a large crowd, principally of men. There were a few women on the grounds, for the most part scattered in twos and threes on the stand, while others were seated in carriages belonging to their husbands and papas. The grounds of the Agricultural society never looked better. The grass had been dyed a fresh, beautiful green. The fences and smaller buildings shone bright in a new coat of whitewash; and the track, except for the dust, which could not be kept down even by the aid of the village sprinkler, was in perfect condition. Horsemen from all over New Jersey stood in knots in the quarter-stretch and in front of the judges' stand, eagerly discussing the merits of their respective favorites. The usual race-track followers, touts, loungers, and stable boys, fumed and fretted in the paddock awaiting the finishing of each race that they might rush with the blankets and cover the precious animals. The heat was intolerable, and men shed their coats as water is shed from a duck's back. Summer gowns and straw hats were at a premium. The judges were Wm. Johnson of New York, John S. Willis of Red Bank, and Edward Boyd of Trenton. H. F. Smith was the official clerk of the course. The racing was spirited to a degree seldom excelled. In the mile dash for foals of 1891 there were four starters. E. P. Olcott's chestnut mare Easter Maid won easily by ten lengths. When the yearlings came up for the word, they crawled under the wire just abreast, and when going the first quarter on the back-stretch they seemed just moving. Payne's chestnut filly broke and did not regain its feet for over half a mile. The last colt in the race refused to go further than the first half mile, and was driven off the track. In the third heat of Secretary's stake for three-year-olds, two of the sulkies crashed together on the short turn, each of them losing a spoke from their wheels. They finished the race, however. The racing was ended by 5 o'clock.

To-morrow, Thursday, five good races will be trotted, and a great crowd is expected.

The State Democratic Clubs' Plans for the Convention.

The Executive and Advisory committees of the State Democratic club held a conference at Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon, and completed arrangements for the formation of clubs in every city and township in the State.

Judging from the plans that are under way the convention to be held at Camden on Sept. 27, under the auspices of the clubs, will be a big affair.

The committee on arrangements is anxious to have Grover Cleveland present, and a committee consisting of Edwin A. Stevens, Miles Rose, James Smith, jr., W. R. Wilson, Howard Carrow and John R. Grubb, was appointed to wait upon the Presidential candidate and inform him of the clubs' wish.

It Is Absurd and Incredulous Because McCloud Said It.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

The Plainfield Press seems to be bent on creating trouble between director McCloud and twirler Francis of the T. M. C. L. A. Yesterday that newspaper published "the latest rumor", which, of course, is without foundation, that director McCloud says that "Francis was drugged before last Saturday's game". The absurdity of such a remark and the source of its publicity will not serve to give it credence.

GOSSIP AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

East Orange Comes to Plainfield to Race —The Crescent League Contest—Other Notes.

The East Orange Cyclers are making arrangements to hold a handicap club road race from Plainfield to East Orange, Saturday, September 3. The finish will be at McCabe's Hotel, on Central avenue. There will be four prizes: one for best time, and three place prizes.

The Elizabeth Wheelmen will be represented in the 25-mile road race over the Fanwood-Scotch Plains course, next week Thursday, by F. C. Gilbert and William Bettner. These two riders are not in place for so long a ride, but will see what can be done on the ten-mile training they have had. Their entries were sent in yesterday.

"The entries for the 25-mile road race at Plainfield"—remarks the Elizabeth Journal—"are very tardy in being made, and from the tone of some of the newspaper articles the race may be a failure. This ought never to be allowed to occur, and it is hoped that the wheelmen of that city will devise some way of making the event a big success. Road racing is becoming very popular in this country, and no legitimate effort should be spared to increase the interest taken in this laudable sport."

On a pleasant day many a feminine cyclist may be seen wheeling gracefully over the smooth roadbed and under the grateful shade of the overhanging trees, along the model Union county roads. Those who have seen them can testify what a pleasing spectacle is a graceful woman, thoroughly understanding her wheel, skimming over the ground with scarcely an effort, her glowing cheeks denoting the pleasure and health afforded by this delightful exercise, and her senses drinking in the exhilarating beauties of the fair New Jersey landscape.

The Social Success of a Westfield Lady.

(Westfield Leader.)

For some time past Miss Irene Miller has made emphatic claims to being the belle of the colored society of Westfield, and on Thursday evening she gained the acknowledgement beyond all question. It was at the great ball and cake-walk at the Crescent Rink in Plainfield. There was an attendance of the gentility of the county, and Miss Miller, in competition with other well-known ladies, received the cake. The son of Bret Harte, who was among the lookers-on, says of the young lady, in the Daily Press:

"During the walk she was the observed of all observers, for she was a very pretty girl. Her skin was quite light, her features were regular, her carriage was graceful, and her manner was demureness personified. She was dressed in a navy-blue yachting costume."

Proud of the Name.

(Westfield Leader.)

The correspondent of the Plainfield Press says the Leader misinterprets public opinion when it announces that Westfield has no objections to being called "Ripley's Corners". Not so, dear boy. If we must have a pet name, where is there a better? It is a notable fact that Westfield is widely known as "the place where Dr. Ripley, the Union county good roads pioneer lives". We say "widely", for the other day we found a sketch of Dr. Ripley in the Little Rock, Ark., Press, and at this moment there lies on our desk an inquiry concerning him from the leading western agricultural paper. We will bear the nickname without wincing.

Leaves its mark —every one of the painful disorders that prey upon women. They fade the face, waste the figure, ruin the temper, wither you up, make you old before your time.

Get well: That's the way to look well. Cure the troubles and ailments that beset you, with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a guaranteed remedy for all the delicate weaknesses, derangements, and diseases peculiar to women.

It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength. It's a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, imparting vigor and strength to the entire system. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion.

It's a legitimate medicine—not a beverage—and the only one for woman's ailments, so certain in its effects that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Governors and Grammarians, Worlds and Wonders.

The grammarian (?) who writes the articles under the heading of "Gossip of a Great State," in the "New Jersey News" department of the World, is entitled to the prize both as a syntactical scientist and a profound politician.

He says "it seems a little presumptuous to plain every day people that a politician like he" (meaning Senator McPherson) * * * "should assume to make the choice for the next Democratic convention."

If it seems presumptuous in a politician "like he," doing that—we wonder how it would seem for a politician like him to do it.

The phrase, "like he," is a grammatical monstrosity. The New Jersey editor of the World should vitalize it by some sort of galvanic or electric process, then kill it and get some taxidermist to stuff it and send it to the Columbian Exposition as a World exhibit.

The same scholarly scrivener puts this eminently enlightened interrogatory, viz:—"Does the News mean Patrick H. O'Neill, Michael Coyle, Edward Dugan and men like they?"

We wonder what men are like who are "like they," and what these men are like when there are men "like they."

Like they! This erudite gentleman should write a grammar.

While considering blunders in language, its construction and government, we feel prompted to refer to the very common mistake of "between you and I," so very frequently made by persons who pose as people of intellectual refinement, especially the pretentiously punctilious societary young women of the dizzy day, who appear, woefully ignorant of the fact that prepositions govern the objective case. The same people, who spend most of their leasure in reading trashy novels instead of occasionally studying a grammar, constantly use such vulgar language as "let you and I." In the ventilation of their vanity they become monomaniacs on the "I."

Being so absorbed in the "I," it is strange they do n't drop the "you" altogether and exclaim—let I do it! or let I alone! or let I go! or let I see it! or let I tell he whom are like she how her let I teach they how to write good English!—Bayonne Herald.

QUIET AT HORNELLSVILLE.

Rumored, Though, That the Switchmen There Will Strike To-Day.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—All is seemingly quiet among the 40 or 50 switchmen employed in the yards at this place. There are rumblings of trouble, however, and rumors are prevalent that the switchmen will go out within the next 24 hours, unless the strike at Buffalo is settled.

From what can be learned there is little doubt but that, when such an order is issued, the men will be found ready and willing to join the struggle.

Several carloads of meat are stalled in the Hornellsville yards, waiting for ice. This can be obtained only from Buffalo and, although freight trains are running regularly over the Susquehanna division, those from the West are few and far between.

Last night a train pulled in from Buffalo in which a car of hay was found to be on fire.

The military company at Hornellsville has received orders to be in readiness to go to Buffalo, but, strange to say, nearly all of the soldiers are on the sick list.

GLADSTONE'S CABINET.

Criticisms of the British Press on the Appointments.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The "Standard", in commenting on the new Cabinet, thinks Baron Houghton old enough to have given some evidence of the qualities essential to a statesman, if he had it in him. It promise that the new government will fall in the trial. Lord Rosebery's appointments is evidence of the conservatism with which his more advanced admirers have often reproached Mr. Gladstone and is a warrant for predicting that Mr. Gladstone's bark will prove worse than his bite.

The "Star" is rather emphatic in its condemnation of Gladstone's Cabinet. It says to-day that Gladstone has not adequately recognized the necessity of the situation.

The "Times" says that it is not without significance that Sir George O. Trevelyan's political promotion moves, like his political professions, in a circle. Baron Houghton is a surprise, but he possesses important qualifications for the part; and in spite of the one obvious disadvantage which bespeaks public sympathy there is every reason to believe that he will prove as efficient a representative of the sovereign as that mongrel, a Home Rule Victory, can be. Taken as a whole the Ministry can scarcely be expected to display—with one or two exceptions—that independence of thought which was formerly supposed to be an honorable distinction of Liberal administrations. Putting Lord Rosebery aside, the Cabinet is not likely to have much influence on Mr. Gladstone's policy.

The Bordens' Bodies Buried.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 18.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Borden, the victims of the Second street tragedy, were buried yesterday by order of Medical Examiner Dolan. They were placed in the family lot by the employes at the cemetery and no members of the family were present. Medical Examiner Dolan states that all of the bloody clothing has been sent to Boston, but he cannot tell when a return will be made.

ABOUT RAILWAY KINGS.

Giving Some of Their Conceits and Eccentricities.

The Vanderbilt Personality—Why Depew Was Made President—Sam Sloan as He Is—Gould's Little Joke —James J. Hill.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Railway kings, like common people, have their conceits and eccentricities. The presidents of most roads who have to hustle for proxies to control each annual election and perform the antics of a Japanese juggler to keep their heads on are necessarily conservative and diplomatic.

"I labored thirty years to get to be president of this road," said a veteran, "and have struggled ever since to retain my job. Of actual work for the company I have never had time to do any."

The fortunate few, however, who have a personal grip on a majority of the stock of the companies over which they preside are as autocratic as the czar of Russia or his well-fed majesty of the Cannibal islands. If such men have any strong characteristics they are sure to show them.

People of powerful personality are the Vanderbilts. They never traded on anybody's misfortune, they never attacked anybody's credit and in all financial battles they have invariably been arrayed on the side of progress. With cordial detestation of shams and iniquities, the father and grandfather snubbed demagogues and the parasites of the lobby, and turned a cold shoulder upon the hordes of business men who sought a dishonest advantage of their neighbors through the medium of special rates.

Instead of a public vote of thanks this straightforward course brought upon the heads of the Vanderbilts a storm of indignation. Hated and maligned, they realized the need of diplomacy. They were themselves too blunt to be diplomatic, and engaged Chauncey M. Depew to assume the role. This was twenty-five years ago.

Mr. Depew didn't know a way-bill from a water tank, but he was talented, popular and possessed of infinite capacity to learn. He was just the man to champion a cause righteous in itself but misunderstood.

Depew went to work with a will and year by year gained in public esteem and crept deeper and deeper into the confidence of his employers. One day a trivial circumstance intensified the condition of affairs which he was endeavoring to overcome and pushed him still farther to the front.

In an interview with a Chicago reporter Wm. H. Vanderbilt was reported as saying: "The public be damned." The newspapers were full of it; the people howled with rage. That Mr. Vanderbilt ever said such a thing has been denied. That he said it with the arrogant motive imputed to him is absurd. About that time several prominent railroad men had been asking public concessions with the hypocritical pretension that they were asking them solely for the public good. Mr. Vanderbilt scorned such hypocrisy. He was a business man, supplying certain needs of the people on a scale more gigantic than the world had ever before dreamed of, but he never denied that what he wanted was the legitimate profits of the enterprise. If he ever said: "The public be damned," it was merely his blunt way of repudiating current hypocrisy. The popular interpretation of the undiplomatic remark was an outrageous misrepresentation.

There is no doubt, however, that those four words induced Mr. Vanderbilt to make Depew president of the New York Central railroad instead of himself or one of his sons.

A similar acknowledgment of the power of public opinion comes from the big Reading combination, which has given a vice presidency to John Russell Young, the distinguished journalist and diplomat.

Unique among railway monarchs stands Hon. Samuel Sloan, president of the Lackawanna. He writes his name simply "Sam," not that he wishes to be familiar with himself, but it saves time. Vouchers and minor documents requiring his signature he merely indorses "S. S." Mr. Sloan's hair is abundant and white as snow, his eyes are as bright as diamonds and his huge jaws bespeak the bulldog that he is.

He hates typewriters—male, female and mechanical—and writes all his own letters in autograph with a big gold pen. No wonder that some of his epistles are short and curt.

His venerable secretary handles some of the routine correspondence of the executive office, but his chief duties are confined to opening and arranging the mail and entertaining distinguished bores who are turned over to him.

Unimportant letters received are thrown in the waste basket. After the writer has waited in vain a week or two for a reply he is supposed to realize that his proposition has been turned down.

For the Trunk Line association, which assumes to maintain rates and regulate methods, Mr. Sloan is a heavy cross to bear. The old gentleman is proverbially foxy, and, while agreeing to all forms and fads, persistently fails of fulfillment. When he is taken to task he feigns astonishment, and threatens dire vengeance upon his subordinates, who, he explains, have not carried out his instructions.

"When we get Sloan on the gridiron," said a Trunk line president, "and apply the inquisition in a manner that would make Depew, King or Roberts sweat blood, what do you suppose the old man does? He leans back in his chair, by Jupiter, and goes to sleep."

Mr. Sloan rules the Lackawanna with a rod of iron. It is emphatically a one-man institution, and Mr. Sloan is the one man.

The old gentleman has a warm spot in his heart for the clergy, and the Lackawanna issues annual half fare permits by the hundred, all of which bear Mr. Sloan's personal signature, and, in accordance with one of his many peculiar orders, are filled out personally by General Passenger Agent Holwill with a gold pen.

While an absolute ruler, Mr. Sloan is noted for his fatherly watchfulness over his oldest and most faithful employes, to whom he extends all sorts of delicate kindnesses, usually disguised as imperative orders, given with eccentric bluntness, as if the old patriarch were ashamed to show that there is any tenderness in his make up.

At the risk of ruining a reputation for veracity, as yet in a fair state of repair, the writer must recall an anecdote of Jay Gould. Mr. Gould's personal characteristics, in the language of Wall street, have been beared down and sold short until they are on the verge of bankruptcy and a receivership. He de-rours lambs and wolves, regardless of side and horns, but he is an ideal man in his home, and a considerate employer.

A favorite general officer of one of Gould's western railroads was called to New York a few years ago, and was jumped on by the Little Wizard as follows:

"They tell me you are broke and don't pay your debts. What is the matter?"

The officer sputtered and stammered.

"It costs me a great deal to live," he replied. "My family is large, rents are high and doctors' bills have been considerable, but things are not as bad as you seem to think."

"I'll see," said Gould, handing out a check for one thousand dollars. "Take this over to Connor and tell him to put it in the market as he sees fit. Come back here when he tells you to."

The man obeyed. It was an exciting day in Wabash, and he returned to Gould with six thousand dollars.

"So you've been speculating," exclaimed Gould. "Don't do it again. That's what ails you fellows who don't know what you are about. You better go home now."

The fortunate speculator bade Gould good-by with profuse thanks and started.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" called Gould.

"I don't know."

"Where's that thousand dollars I lent you this morning? It seems to be true that you don't pay your debts. Remember, my boy, the essential thing in business is to keep up your credit."

The embarrassed officer paid the thousand dollars, and it has never been necessary to dun him for anything since.

The most autocratic railroad king in America is James J. Hill, of the Great Northern. He used to be a coal dealer in St. Paul, and began his prosperous career as superintendent of a baby road called the St. Paul & Pacific. This grew into the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba, covering the wheat country, and now, renamed the Great Northern, the Hill system extends through Montana and into the Canadian northwest and will soon reach the Pacific coast. The road through Montana was constructed complete at the rate of eleven miles a day.

The Great Northern is rich and Mr. Hill controls it absolutely. He is a man of marvelous energy and has no use for a subordinate who cannot keep up with his high pressure gait. He has the disagreeable trait of cutting off official heads without mercy, and the proverbial salutation in the St. Paul general offices is: "Who is missing this morning?" In the midst of this ghastly guillotining there is an occasional gleam of humor.

In Allen Manvel, now president of the Santa Fe, who was formerly general manager of the Great Northern, Mr. Hill caught a Tartar.

Manvel found a handsome young man in his office one morning and pleasantly asked him his business.

"I'm Mr. Ives," was the reply, "your new assistant."

"Why, certainly," said Manvel, "I didn't expect you quite so soon. Your quarters will be arranged at once."

Ives soon became devoted to Manvel and Manvel to Ives.

Things went on this way several years, when one day Ives informed his chief that Mr. Hill had asked for his resignation.

"I guess not," replied Manvel. "Mr. Hill hired you without my knowing it, but he can't discharge you unless I say so, and I won't. You keep on working." And he did.

It is understood among passenger men that it is necessary to post a half-sheet card on some telegraph pole where the president and directors can see it and run a flaming advertisement in the particular newspapers which they read. In fact, it is more essential to reach the president and directors than the public.

Cornelius Vanderbilt used to be noted for taking this sort of superficial interest in advertising, and when the Michigan Central began to proclaim itself as the "Niagara Falls route," the boys put up a job on him.

They got a single picture of one of their trains passing the falls and hung it in a Newport hotel while Mr. Vanderbilt was at his summer home. The bait caught and the Michigan Central's passenger department was highly complimented on its effective and extensive advertising. Probably not one passenger had seen the picture.

E. B. Thomas, of the Erie, is a conscientious and impartial disciplinarian. His personal sympathies are with the rank and file of employes, and no man in America has done more to overcome the feeling which occasionally arises through misunderstandings between capital and labor. He has managed several railroad properties besides the Erie, and decided numerous labor difficulties, with acknowledged justice to all interests.

He is emphatic in his demands for temperance among employes, and never permits wine or liquor in his private car.

"I must practice what I preach," he says, "and if I drink while on duty I cannot consistently compel trainmen to do otherwise."

Mr. Thomas introduced the policy of furnishing to the newspapers full reports of accidents where any person is killed or injured. Not only general officers, but division superintendents and train dispatchers have positive instructions to give to reporters every fact regarding an accident as soon as it happens.

This way of doing business has given some representatives of the press opportunities to be extremely sensational, and up to the present time, looking at the matter from a selfish standpoint, the policy may not have been beneficial. Mr. Thomas insists on doing it regardless of results, however, for the simple reason that he believes it to be right. In the end it will doubtless also be a practical benefit to the road.

The Relationship Changed.

Little Bessie's doll had lost one eye, its face was cracked, one arm was gone and most of its internal sawdust had departed. She placed it in a sitting posture on the floor in the corner of her play-house, examined its forlorn and shrunken figure with a critical eye, and said regretfully yet decidedly:

"You can stay in the family if you want to, Dolly, but after this I'm only going to be a stepmother to you."—Chicago Tribune.

SAY THE STRIKE IS BROKEN

Railroad Officials Are Feeling More Hopeful To-Day.

FREIGHT NOW BEING MOVED WITH SOLDIERS ON THE TRAINS.

More Than Eight Thousand Troops Will Be in the Yards To-Night--The Nickel Plate Switchmen Join the Strikers--The Meeting of the Firemen To-Night Will Decide Whether the Strike Is to Fail or Not--Railroads Refuse to Arbitrate--The Story of Yesterday.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The officers of the railroads involved in the switchmen's strike at Buffalo are claiming victory. Trains are moving from the great yards at East Buffalo, with a soldier on the platform of each car.

By to-night it is expected that the total number of militia here will be over 8,000.

The great number of troops now massing at Buffalo has apparently subdued the reckless men among the strikers or their sympathizers, for there were no serious acts of violence yesterday or last night.

Bayonet prods quickly broke up any bands of strikers who became too insulting to the militia or made attempts to place obstructions on the tracks.

There is nothing definite as yet concerning the traiumen's action. Grand Master Sweeney and other officials of the labor orders are trying to make the strike a general one.

Chief Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, says he has not been requested to order out the firemen. He will not commit himself as to the strength of the bond of sympathy between the firemen and switchmen.

The arrival of the additional troops has made the railroad officials a great deal more confident, and they absolutely refuse to arbitrate.

It was rumored late last night that at a meeting in Toronto the Grand Trunk switchmen resolved to tie up that road between Toronto and Montreal.

Late yesterday afternoon the entire force of switchmen on the Nickel Plate road joined the force of strikers. The trouble was precipitated by the discharge of two men for refusing to switch New York Central freight.

At Warsaw the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad Company yesterday gave formal notice to Sheriff Day of threatened violence to the property of the company in the county of Wyoming, and especially at the high bridge crossing the Genessee river at Portage.

A force of specials under command of Deputy Pond has been sent to guard all points of access on the Wyoming county side, while the Livingston county sheriff has a force on the opposite side of the river. It is believed that Anarchist dynamiters are about the only persons that could successfully wreck the great structure, and all suspicious characters lurking around will be sent away.

The Crisis May Come To-Night.

A meeting of the firemen has been called for to-night, and it will be one of the most important crises of the strike. The trainmen will hold a meeting some time to-day. They will doubtless act in conjunction with the firemen.

The conductors are known to be in touch with the other three organizations, and, if the climax is reached, will work in harmony with them. The engineers will not work with green firemen, and so, like a row of falling bricks, each goes down with the one preceding it.

Vice-President Webb was cheerful this morning. In his opinion the backbone of the strike is broken, at least so far as his road is concerned. He claims that the Central is in good shape and that the Lake Shore is the only branch of the Vanderbilt system seriously affected, and he asserts that the blockade there will be lifted to-day.

Notwithstanding this optimistic view of affairs the gravity of the situation can hardly be over estimated. As it now stands a general strike of firemen, engineers, conductors and trainmen is impending. It is either this or a flat failure of the switchmen's strike. And the latter say: "If we fail now, it will be your turn next."

Enormous Freight Blockade.

There is a blockade of freight that, from present appearance, will take weeks to remove. Only perishable freight is receiving any attention and that is getting very little.

The Central, West Shore, Lake Shore and Lehigh Valley yards are simply choked up and glutted with freight cars, every track is filled with long strings of freights. The engines are idle and the crews pass the time discussing the issues of the strike.

Only the main tracks are kept open and this is a difficult job. So far there is no delay to passenger trains. They are coming in and going out on schedule time. The strikers say they will not bother them.

One of the strikers said this morning to a reporter that the men could not prevent the roads from starting freight trains from this city in the face of such a force of soldiers, but, when they do, the fun would then commence at other points.

"Just as soon as trains are started," said he, "the strike will extend all along the different lines, and it will keep the militia jumping from place to place to break the blockades."

Evidently the railroad officials fear a spread of the trouble, for it now would seem to be an easy matter for them to operate their roads in this city with the present large number of soldiers to speedily put down any attempt at interruption.

The strike on the Lake Shore has resulted in a thorough tie-up of all freight traffic, but the passenger trains were leaving and arriving nearly on time. Militiamen are stationed at points through the yards and at the Exchange street depot, but they are few in number. For miles the road lies between long lines of loaded freight cars and looking ahead from an incoming train this morning it seemed like moving through a narrow cut. But the trains were deserted, not a man was to be seen on any of them. All the way in from the city line the yards presented an aspect of desertion.

The State Board of Arbitration met in the afternoon and prepared a circular which was sent to the executive officers of the roads on which the trouble exists. It stated that the switchmen had expressed a willingness to arbitrate, and required to be informed whether the railroads would consent to an adjustment of the difficulty.

Vice-President Webb returned a reply which is believed to embody the sentiment of the officials of the other roads. It was to the effect that the Central had nothing to arbitrate.

In the Lake Shore yard last evening a crowd of strikers gathered and stoned two yard engines, breaking the glass in the cabs and driving the engineer and fireman from their posts. A messenger was dispatched to General Doyle for a force of militia, and pending their arrival work was suspended.

A Little Freight Moving.

The Erie has begun to move freight. When Trainmaster Barnett said that he was going to move freight at once nobody believed that he would. But he surprised them. He gave the word at midnight to the soldiers that he was ready to move three freight trains east. He told Col. Welch that he wanted soldiers to go with them, and that officer detailed two companies to accompany the trains. The soldiers accompanied the trains to Attica and there left them, the trainmen saying they could get through all right.

The Reading and Central have succeed in starting several long freight trains. Soldiers accompanied them several miles, and there was no attempt at molestation.

The number of men ordered to the city by Adjutant-General Porter in accordance with the request of the sheriff of Erie county is 12,000. The detail comprises 3 regiments from New York, 10th Battalion, Albany, and several companies from Troy, Lindson, Poughkeepsie, Yonkers, Schenectady, Catskill and Watertown. Most of the troops have already arrived. The Adjutant-General accompanied a detachment of them.

Tried to Wreck the East Mail.

Two strikers are locked up at No. 8 station house. They had a deep laid scheme for ditching the fast mail which leaves here over the New York Central at 11:40 p. m., but it was nipped in the bud by Sergeant Burkhardt and two policemen from the Eighth precinct, who caught the miscreants in the very act of throwing the switch on the main track near Fillmore, just before the train was due to pass. The men claim to be laborers and not switchmen.

Camp Lehigh presented a peaceful appearance last night. The solemn and silent march of the sentries and the glistening of the electric lights on their bright bayonets indicated plainly that it was the scene of a military camp. Here and there on the outskirts of the camp lines could be seen the pickets of the strikers keeping watch of the movements of the soldiers in the shadows of the camp. Occasionally a train would go through the silent yards with a roar and a rumble and a swishing of steam which made every man in camp turn over and take another grip on his nap.

The strikers had a regular code of the torpedo signals and they kept each other informed of their whereabouts by exploding them.

The strikers end of this remarkable labor drama is busy. Grand Master Sweeney and his men have been in repeated conferences, Grand Master Wilkinson has been conferring with representatives of the local trainmen's union and the arbitration committee has been laboring among themselves and the strikers, but have so far accomplished nothing at all. Chief Arthur, of the the Locomotive Engineers, will take a hand towards settling the difficulty, and within a few hours all the labor leaders will have assembled here and the exact situation will be known.

LOUISVILLE STRIKE PROBABLE.

Switchmen There Have Demanded Better Wages and Hours.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 19.—Unless an adjustment is made within a few hours, it is probable that the switchmen of all the roads entering Louisville will go out on a strike.

For some time the switchmen in the local yard have felt dissatisfied with wages and hours.

The strike at Buffalo precipitated a demand on the Louisville & Nashville for the adoption of the standard or Chicago scale.

From what can be learned at the office of the company the switchmen of the road will be informed to-day that their request has been refused. The men claim they will immediately strike.

BAGGAGEMEN MAY STRIKE.

Dissatisfaction Among the Luggage Handlers on the Central-Hudson.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 19.—There is talk of a strike among the baggagemen on the Hudson River Railroad running between New York and Albany.

About a month ago the wages of 19 of the baggagmen was reduced $4 a month. The company restored the cut on application of a representative of the baggagemen, but the number of baggagemen was reduced, so that the remaining ones found more work to do. Hence the dissatisfaction and threatened strike. The men want to work in groups—a co-operative way of reducing the hours of work.

The matter has been much talked of by railroad men here for a week past.

Gen. Husted's Condition.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Gen. J. W. Husted's condition is little changed this morning. He passed a fairly comfortable night. The physicians attending him say that the kidney trouble from which he is suffering is somewhat improved.

Town Threatened With Inundation.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19.—The town of Algiers is threatened with inundation, the result of a crack in the levee. The crack is about six inches wide and is spreading rapidly. Large gangs are working trying to stop the crevasse.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

PECKHAM IS INSANE.

He Surrendered Himself, Saying He Had Killed the Bordens.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 19.—Medical Examiner Dolan and physicians who have examined Charles H. Peckham, the man who claims to have killed the Bordens, pronounce him insane. Peckham is from Westport, Mass. He walked into the Central Police station yesterday, and said to Assistant Marshal Fleet:

"Well, Mr. Marshal, I killed Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Borden and I have come from home to give myself up. I went over the back fence and through the rear door of the Borden house two weeks ago, and I killed both of those people out of pure love for blood.

"I went out the rear door and over the back fence and walked over the New Bedford road home. I'm the murderer and I want to be locked up."

The Marshal took him to the cell room and searched him. He found a pocket book with a few receipts in it and also unearthed some official communications from the Russian Bureau at Washington.

Peckham is 62 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches tall and has a thin gray beard. He says he leases a farm from Edmund Davis.

When asked why he committed the crime, Peckham said he had good reasons for doing it which he did not care to state.

Mr. Fleet asked him what clothes he wore and he replied that he wore the same that he had on.

He was asked if they were not spotted with blood and he replied no, there were no spatters because the first blow caused death and stopped the heart's action. He said he struck the other blows by way of precaution.

He then told the Deputy Marshal that he expected no sympathy and wanted to be held. He had borne the knowledge of the crime as long as he was able and now wanted relief of mind.

Deputy Marshal Fleet further questioned him regarding various particulars of the tragedy and he answered in a coherent manner.

Immediately after he was locked up Mr. Fleet telephoned the Mayor of New Bedford for particulars about Peckham.

The Mayor replied that he knew him very well and that he was in some ways an eccentric person, but was never thought to be insane.

He said that Peckham leased a small farm from the Davis estate in Westport, situated a few miles out of the city of New Bedford. Mr. Fleet also communicated by telephone with Andrew J. Jennings, attorney for Lizzie Borden.

HAVERS NOT RECAPTURED.

No Trace of the Desperate Convict Who Escaped From Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 19.—Charles Havers, alias Hunter, a prisoner and a notorious crook, sawed through his cell door at the Allegheny County workhouse at 3 a. m., and, after beating and cutting Keeper Weberhart so that he will die, escaped. Havers was serving his third term of imprisonment. Wednesday he played sick and did not work.

He made a saw of an old case knife and with it cut through his cell door.

Keeper Weberhart attempted to prevent his escape, and was beaten into insensibility and badly cut with the saw. The murderous demon then jumped upon him, trampling his vitals out.

Havers then threw his victim into his own cell, took the keys, locked the cell door, and with the keys opened his way to liberty.

The prison officers did not discover the assault and escape until three hours later. He has so far eluded the officers.

ELOPED AND WERE DISOWNED.

The Mix-Stoddard Escapade Causes a Sensation in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug 19.—Last Tuesday Charles W. Mix, son of Coroner Mix, of this city, and Miss M. P. Stoddard, daughter of a wealthy tobacconist, of this city, ran away to New York, where they were married by Alderman Whitfield Vancott. They returned to New Haven yesterday and at once informed their parents what they had done.

In both cases the parents have objected. Young Mix says that his father-in-law threatened to shoot him if he ever saw him in New Haven, and admits that his own father has disowned him. The affair has created a sensation here. The groom is 22 years old. He says he will take his bride to Albany, where they will live with a relative of his.

MUST STAY IN JAIL.

Judge Acheson's Decision in the Case of Three Ballot-Box Stuffers.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 19.—Before Judge Acheson, of the United States District Court, a hearing was had on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, asking for the release of Jacob Mitchell, James Hart and Theodore Fallon, the Jersey City ballot-box stuffers, from the State of New Jersey. The petition alleges that the men are illegally restrained of their liberty. The Court said:

"I cannot see what this court has to do with the case. It is now in the Supreme Court of the United States. Any disposition of the case or the defendants must come from that court. I would like to know what the sheriff has to do with the men. He could not let them go free.

"I am strongly of the opinion that the writ should not issue."

Attorney for the petitioners said he desired to file a petition, and the Court said he could do so if he desired.

Pacing Record Broken.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Hal Pointer was sent to beat the Harness record of 2:06 1-4 made by Johnston in this city on October 3, 1884, at Washington Park yesterday. He paced the mile in 2:05 1-4, and not only wiped out the mark shot at but splintered the 2:06 pacing record of Direct and became the side-wheeling champion of the world.

TROOPS YIELD AT LAST

Coal Creek Taken After a Desperate Struggle.

MANY KILLED ON BOTH SIDES.

Capt. Anderson, Who Commanded the Fort, in the Hands of the Miners--Three Assaults Made--Gov. Buchanan Finally Offered to Remove the Troops and Convicts--The Greatest Excitement Prevails.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 19.—Early this morning the news reached here that the troops at Coal Creek had surrendered to the miners, and that the humiliation of the State of Tennessee was complete, chiefly owing to the desire of Gov. Buchanan first to compromise with rebellion and anarchy, and then to surrender.

Had he sustained the troops from the start, and sent aid promptly, the stockades might have been held, bloodshed averted, and human life that has been lost saved.

THE BATTLE AT COAL CREEK.

Miners Repulsed Several Times--Many Reported Killed and Wounded.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. Aug. 19.—Captain Keller Anderson, who for nearly a year has held the convicts at Coal Creek, is in the hands of the miners at last. The latest reports which are reliable say that the battle at Camp Anderson was commenced as early as 10 o'clock yesterday morning. For several hours the firing was not general. About 2 o'clock the miners, to the number of a thousand, made an organized assault on the fort, and were repulsed. The second assault was easily repulsed.

The third attempt resulted in a regular pitched battle and the Gatling guns got in their work, but to what extent is not known. Several of the assailants were wounded, and many of them were probably killed.

The fort occupies the crest of a hill commanding a range of Coal Creek valley for five miles east and west. To the north is a spur of the valley in which the stockade of the Knoxville Iron Company is located.

The distance from Fort Anderson across the valley to the top of Walden Ridge is about 1,400 yards.

On the top of the ridge the miners had planted two field pieces furnished them by sympathizers in Kentucky. On the north sides of the ridge and creek skirting Fort Anderson the hill is a dense growth of hemlock and laurel.

The assailants of the fort had all the advantages of hiding, and if one of their number should be wounded he could be hastily removed to a place of safety without any one being the wiser. No one is allowed to approach within a half mile of the fort unless he is in sympathy with the miners.

Between the first and second assault on the fort three miners were captured. They sent up a flag of truce to Capt. Anderson to ask for release. He was expecting such a message and met the men on equal grounds.

He was seized by several of them and rushed down the hill, and finally taken to one of the hotels in the village, where he is guarded by Robert Lindsay, a deputy United States Marshal, and a number of friends. They are holding him as a hostage and will not agree to give him up until the troops and convicts are withdrawn from the valley.

In the meantime, Burl Lindsay, a desperate character, and a brother of the deputy marshal, is trying to organize a mob to lynch Anderson. The hotel is surrounded by some 300 well armed men.

This is one story. The miners have another to the effect that Capt. Anderson was drunk and came outside of the fortifications, and the boys picked him up without trouble. He has so far made no statement.

His force of 130 men bravely held the fort. The men have been on short rations for three days. Every avenue of supply has been cut off.

Early yesterday six hundred miners at Jellico captured a train.

The engineer refused to pull it out, but the close proximity to his head of a dangerous-looking Winchester made him quickly obey all commands made upon him.

They ran at the rate of fifty miles an hour through the tunnels and over bridges to Coal Creek, arriving about 1 o'clock.

All but a few alighted at Coal Creek, the few keeping possession of the train and going on to Clinton after the miners there.

The miners at Coal Creek at once wired their ultimatum to the Governor, which was that unless he ordered the withdrawal of the soldiers and convicts, they would attack the fort before daylight.

An answer was received from Governor Buchanan in a brief space of time, evading the question and advising in a pacific tone, saying: "Be orderly, be quiet."

This greatly incensed the miners and they at once wired him an exact copy of their previous despatch and awaited an answer.

The plan of the miners was to attack under cover of darkness.

The final answer to the miners telegram was received from the Governor at Nashville. He wired that he would remove the soldiers and convicts in a few days.

It would be hard to tell correctly just what effect the receipt of this message had upon the miners.

The cool-headed ones, the men who lay all plans and who so successfully carry them out, took the answer as final. They were apprised of the scheme for the abrogration of the lease system which at the shortest must take 20 days, and recognized that troops and convicts could not well be removed "with dignity" before that time.

They began counseling the men whom they could to return to their homes as everthing was now settled.

On the other hand the hot-headed-warm-blooded ones wanted to make the attack anyway, as they thought Buchanan was merely figuring for time on which to get the troops at Coal Creek. It seems they carried their point.

Gov. Buchanan's Condition Improved.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Governor Buchanan is still confined to his house suffering from slight prostration caused by excitement over the mining trouble. His physician reports him some better this morning and entirely out of danger.

CLEVELAND'S

One rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of any other. A large saving on a year's bakings.

BAKING POWDER

A pure cream of tartar powder. Used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of Cookery.

Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

WHO FIRED ON THE SOLDIERS?

Investigating the Latest Homestead Sensation--Stones Thrown at Potter.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 19.—All is quiet here and but very few of the locked-out men are to be seen upon the streets. A careful investigation of the shooting at the railroad bridge has not yet entirely cleared the mystery. The crew of the freight train from which the first shots are said to have come, swear positively that there were no persons on the train aside from themselves; that the supposed shots were caused by the explosion of signal torpedoes placed upon the track by a shifting crew.

Supt. Potter maintains that the shots came from revolvers fired from between the freight cars; that the bullets struck right in the midst of a squad of militiamen who were doing picket duty. In all 125 shots were fired at the train by the soldiers, but fortunately no one was injured.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to assault Supt. Potter during the night while he was sitting on his porch. Four men came along, one threw a stone which struck the house and bounded back into the street. One of the men picked it up and threw it again and all ran.

HIS ACCOUNTS ARE SHORT.

A Columbia, Pa., Bank Clerk Proves to be an Embezzler.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Aug. 19.—About three weeks ago John T. Miller, ledger clerk in the First National Bank here, was given leave of absence to go to the Adirondacks.

Not returning on the expiration of his leave and hearing nothing from him, the bank officials became suspicious and put an expert at his books.

The expert has completed his work and finds that Miller has been stealing from the bank for the past three years and adroitly doctoring his books.

The officials refuse to give the amount stolen, but it is understood to run well up into the thousands.

Miller is a young man and single.

Preferred Death to a Poor Wife.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 19.—Isaac Solkins, who had been arrested for brutally beating his wife, hanged himself in his cell here during the night, and was dead when discovered. He is said to have married three months ago out of mercenary motives, believing that his wife was rich. When he learned that she was quite poor he grew abusive towards her and beat her unmercifully. He committed suicide rather than live with an impecunious wife.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—The regular Democratic Convention at Houston, Tex., yesterday renominated Governor Hogg for Governor on the first ballot.

—The operative stonemasons of Aberdeen have voted $500 in aid of the locked-out granite cutters of New England.

—Col. S. W. Ray, the Port Arthur, Ont., private banker, who is awaiting trial on the charge of assaulting Rose Louise Bathurst, wife of Dr. Bathurst, has been released on $20,000 bail.

—The steamer Gov. Bodwell has arrived at Castine, Me., with Chief Justice Fuller of the U. S. Supreme court, Associate Justice Lamar, Judge Nathan Webb, Judge Peters, and about forty lawyers on board who have been enjoying an outing.

—The private stalls of Assemblyman Olin, at Perry, N. Y., burned Wednesday night. Four standard-bred horses were burned. The hostler was badly burned about the face and hands. Loss, $3,000.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Minstrels to-night.

—At the camp-meeting, this evening at 8, the Rev. Mr. Walker of Harlem will preach.

—There will be electric cars in waiting at the close of the minstrel show in Music Hall, to-night.

—All are cordially invited to attend the Park Avenue Baptist Y. P. S. C. E., meeting this evening at 8.

—The deadly street band, too, should go. A horse was frightened by the minstrel parade this morning, and ran a block before stopped.

—You can learn all about that crusade for low prices, from the advertisement of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association to-day.

—One of the team of big gray horses attached to the watering cart on Fifth street yesterday afternoon threw himself while kicking at a horse fly, and broke the wagon pole and injured one of his eyes.

—The new borough fire-alarm was sounded on trial last night. Everybody heard it, and it will probably be accepted. It sounds something, like Plainfield's gong, but its tone is not as penetrating.

—A clerk in a Park avenue butcher shop who was caught sending out quarters of lamb and other choice cuts of meat as presents to his friends, has been discharged. His name is suppressed out of consideration for his family.

—The new bicycle ordinance does n't say how lanterns shall be displayed, and wheelmen are talking of placing them so that the light falls astern instead of in front. They say they are more afraid of being run into than of running into anybody.

—The Salvation Army ice-cream jubilee last night was a great success. It was patronized by nearly 1,200 people. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the fund for furnishing the hall. Capt. Means, secretary of the central division, and adjutant Dunham, were the "specials" present. A similar event will be held in about six weeks.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hulett will leave town to-morrow for a visit to Mr. Hulett's old home in Gloversville, N. Y.

Miss Anna O. Marsh has left "The Leslie", Lexington, Mass., and is now at the "Falls House", Slide Mountain, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cutter and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Darby left town yesterday for a few days' carriage drive through the country.

Miss May Flanagan of West Fifth street and Miss Kittie Carney of West Third street are registered at the Grand Union, Asbury Park.

Conductor "Cannon-ball" Tuck—of the 10:04 train from Plainfield to New York—with his family and dogs, are off for a vacation in Canada.

The Rev. Geo. N. Karner, of Albany, whose parents still live in Plainfield, and whose wife was Miss Cadmus of this city, will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday morning at 10:30.

Frank Raynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Raynolds, whose unfortunate death was told of in these columns, was buried Wednesday in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Concord, Mass. His age was 18 years, 8 months and 2 days.

Mrs. W. L. Saunders, who made so pronounced a success as Esmeralda last season, is to take the leading role in private theatricals at the Twilight Park Club Casino, at Haines Falls, N. Y., tomorrow evening. Mr. Saunders has a cottage at the Park and Mrs. Saunders is a great social favorite. With her at the head, the success of the club's theatricals is assured.

Letter-carrier Peter V. Weaver has the sympathy of the community in the loss of his wife, who died unexpectedly last night. She was in her forty-sixth year. he cause of her death was heart disease. She had been ailing two weeks, but her illness was not considered serious. Funeral services will be held from the residence of the bereaved husband, 20 Orchard place, Sunday afternoon at 3.

The guests of the West End Hotel at Asbury Park gave the Jr. O. U. A. M. of this city a great send-off for their marching in the parade Wednesday. The prize drum major at the heat was Thomas Schaefer of Plainfield, who looked very handsome in his fine, new, costly uniform, and whose evolutions were as perfect as any ever seen in any parade. Mr. Schaefer would make a fine acquisition for a minstrel troupe.

RELEASE OF C. H. PECKHAM.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 19.—C. H. Peckham, who surrendered to the police yesterday, saying he was the murderer of Mr. and Mrs. Borden, was released from the station last night at 9 o'clock, and his wife and constable Grinnell of Westport took him home. Peckham showed little evidence of his insanity, and amused the crowd at the station by his remarks. He denied all knowledge of the Borden murders, and wanted to know why he had been locked up.

THE THREE M'S ADDRESS THEM.

One Thousand Enthusiasts for Cleveland and Stevenson and Good Government, Gather in Springfield and Listen to Union County's Great Orators, Raise a Banner and Burn Fireworks.

Senator Frederick C. Marsh, the Hon. James E. Martine and State Enumerator John Matthews, addressed a thousand auditors gathered at Springfield last evening to raise a banner to Cleveland and Stevenson. The enthusiasm was great, the pyrotechnical display was brilliant and the whole affair was unusually auspicious.

Among those present were mayor Haynes, of Newark, and distinguished citizens of Elizabeth, Rahway and Summit. There was a band and two drum corps. After the outdoor meeting an adjournment was made to the town hall where the ardor and zeal for good government and the Democratic National candidates still overflowed.

ON WITH THE ROAD!

Nothing Better Has Been Found for the Borough, and Plainfield's Royal Blue Line Should be Given the Franchise Over the Brook.

Mayor Saunders of North Plainfield is home from a trip West. He dropped in at THE PRESS yesterday and said: "I spent half a day riding on a compressed air railway in Wisconsin, rode on an underground-trolley road in Chicago, inspected the Connelly-motor and in fact tested and personally experienced every kind of street railway in use, but I found nothing so near perfection as the Plainfield Street railway. Some day something practicable and economical will come out of these other systems, but just now for small suburban towns the overhead trolley is the only method possible."

In answer to a question as to what he might suggest to the borough council in the matter, the mayor said he would advise calling a meeting of the council which the public would be invited to attend and express thereat their sentiments for or against the Plainfield company. This he would suggest atonce so that a franchise could be granted speedily and the road extended and in operation within a month or two. His idea is that it should run out Somerset street to the notch.

Fighting a Public Improvement.

There seems to be considerable opposition to the proposed extension of the street railway 200 feet up North avenue. That would bring the terminus directly in front of the middle entrance of the Jersey Central railroad station. The Jersey Central railway company have given orders to station agent Haynes to permit no trolley poles to be erected in front of its property. So much for one side of the street. On the other side John F. McIntyre says the street railway shan't be permitted to make the street in front of his property a dumping-ground for its passengers. The opposition of the Jersey Central company is understood to be because it fears the street railway's competition in local rapid transit.

What Corner Is That!

ELIZABETH SIGNS MAC DONALD.

He's the Pitcher Who Held the New York "Giants" Down to Two Runs—Just What Manager McCloud Said.

The management of Elizabeth's team in the Central New Jersey league, gave notice Wednesday evening that they had signed a new pitcher named MacDonald, and also another player whose name they withheld. MacDonald is the man who pitched for the Middletown club last Friday when they played the New York National league team. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of the latter. The other man whom Elizabeth has secured is supposed to be a crack catcher.

For the information of the irresponsible person who writes the Elizabeth Journal's base-ball "news", THE PRESS will state that it can produce as witnesses of what manager McCloud said, the man who sat in the same seat with him in the car and the two men who sat in the seat behind and joined in the conversation. The one in the seat with McCloud asked him how he liked the game, and added that at least it was won on its merits. McCloud said: "Well, it will be the last time you'll have a chance to fix a man!" All three who heard him exclaimed, "What do you mean!" and the one who first spoke said: "Do you mean that Francis threw that game?" McCloud answered: "You heard what I said!" There was more talk of the sort on both sides until one of the party left saying he would n't listen any longer to such accusations against the Plainfield management. This all present will swear to.

THEIR TRAIN JUMPED THE TRACK.

Therefore the Scott Press Lads Did n't Get to Homestead.

Yesterday, between the hours of 12 m. and 1 p. m., a number of the lads employed at Scott's Press works, whose ages range from 16 to 22 years, and whose heads had become overcharged with the blood-and-thunder productions of dime novels, armed themselves with a variety of side-arms in the shape of sandwiches, pies and cakes which their thoughtful mammas had put up for them in their dinner pails; and thus equipped they forthwith proceeded to the rear of the factory, where they pressed into service a hand-car or truck, and having hauled it to the summit of the railroad incline, at the coal dumps, they then boarded the car with the full intent and purpose of reaching Homestead in the quickest possible time, and taking an active part in putting a stop to the trouble there; or, in other words, to take the place of the militia or to engage in anything which would best display their prowess. But alas! They did not calculate aright, and their gun-carriage, which by the way was mounted with a large howitzer in the shape of a piece of 4-inch iron pipe, attained so much velocity on the steep incline that just at the Richmond-street crossing it left the track and crashed through the high picket fence and came to a sudden stop in the middle of the street. However, there are a few of them left to tell how much of a hurry they were in to get that car back to the rear of the factory before the whistle blew, and how they were disappointed to find the gate locked. It all turned out for the best, though, for they got only a scolding, and, on their promise to Mr. Weseman not to do so any more, he concluded not to hang them up by the thumbs this time. LATHE HAND.

SUING FOR THEIR SALARY.

Eight Elizabeth Councilmen Say the Salary Repeal is Invalid.

Suits have been brought against Elizbeth by seven ex-members and one member of the city council who want their salaries. If their fight is successful a number of their colleagues will bring suit. The men who have begun suits are Dr. David Schleimer for $3,000, Joseph Flynn, Edward McGrath, Edward Lawrence, Isaac VanHart, Fred Kurtz, $1,000 each, Fred Miller and John Collins, $500 each.

Collins is in the present board. The city attorney says that he will fight all the cases except Schleimer's for $2,000, which money he was entitled to before the council passed a resolution reducing salaries from $500 to $1 per year. The men now suing allege that the resolution, according to the city charter, should have been advertised two weeks, it being an expenditure of money, and that the ordinance therefore is defective and invalid. The city attorney says that it did not contemplate an expenditure, but the curtailing of one, and therefore the advertising clause was not necessary.

A New Orchestra for Plainfield.

F. M. Hulett, the enterprising music dealer of 74 West Front street, has organized a fine orchestra of the best musicians of Plainfield, Elizabeth and New York, and promises to give the town some excellent music this winter. His orchestra will be first-class in every respect, and in engaging for musical or theatrical events the public may be assured of choice music. Mr. Hulett's enterprise and public spirit will be appreciated. He contemplates opening a private school for music students, and will as soon as possible replace his out-of-town talent with local players from among his pupils.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance has been introduced before the common council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the council to adopt the same at a meeting to be held at the council chamber, No. 7 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, September 6, 1892, at the hour of 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the common council and all persons interested may be heard before the common council.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., August 16, 1892.

AN ORDINANCE

To lay out and open Sycamore street from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street.

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Sycamore street in the city of Plainfield from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street be laid out and opened so that said street shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five (25) feet on each side of the centre line thereof, which said centre line is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street, said point being distant twenty-four and eight-tenth (24.8) feet in a magnetic course of north forty five degrees and forty-three minutes west (N. 45 deg. 43 min. W.) from a stone monument in the intersection of the centre lines of said Sycamore and East Fifth streets as now laid out and opened, and running from said beginning point north forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes west (N. 45 deg. 43 min. W.) over lands of Elizabeth Chapin, Charles H. Hand, Agnes Littell, Catherine Lynch, Margaret Thatcher, William H. Brower, Justus H. Cooley, The Plainfield Bicycle club and Michael Quinn, a distance of three hundred and sixty-two and twenty-one one hundreths (362.21) feet to a point in the southeasterly side line of East Fourth street; said point being distant twenty-four and seventy-nine one-hundredths (24,79) feet in a course of South forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes east (S. 45 deg. 43 min. E.) from a stake in the centre line of East Fourth street and there to end.

The land to be taken, in addition to the land already dedicated to the public, consists of a narrow strip beginning at the intersection of the northerly side of East Fifth street with the easterly side of said proposed street, and running thence northwesterly along the said line of said proposed street seventy and eighty-five one-hundredths (70,85) feet to a point in line of lands now or formerly of Charles H. Hand; thence along the said last mentioned line southwesterly ten and eight-tenths (10.8) feet to a point; thence southeasterly sixty-nine and forty-eight one-hundredths (69.48) feet to a point in the northerly line of East Fifth street; thence along the northwesterly side of East Fifth street northeasterly nine and eighty-four one-hundredths (9.84) feet to the place of beginning.

That the lands and real estate and the portions necessary therefor shall be taken and appropriated for the said laying out and opening of Sycamore street aforesaid, pursuant to the charter of the city of Plainfield and the general statutes in such case made and provided.

The land to be taken and the lines of said street as the same is hereinbefore ordered be laid out and opened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Application Map to Lay Out and Open Sycamore Street from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street, city of Plainfield, N. J., April 1892." Fees—$9.

Corporation Notice.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company have presented a petition to the Common Council for the right to extend the location of its tracks and construct and operate its street railway on the following streets in the city of Plainfield, from the southwest side line of Park avenue on West Front street, through East Front street to Peace street, thence through Peace street to North avenue, thence through North avenue to a point two hundred feet southwesterly from Peace street the track to be a single track to be laid in the centre of said streets (with the necessary switches and turnouts on North avenue at the end of the route.)

A meeting of the Common Council will be held in the Council Chambers, 7 Park avenue, on Tuesday evening, September 6th, 1892, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of considering the matter at which time petitions and remonstrances may be filed and parties heard thereon.

EXCITING RACES AT SOMERVILLE.

Two Horses Finish Neck and Neck, and a Jockey's Mistake Decides It.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 18.—About 1,500 people saw the trotting here to-day, the last day of the Breeders' meeting. The grand-stand was well filled, and the space near the judges' stand allotted to carriages was nearly all taken up. At the back of the grand-stand, in the shade, several wheels of fortune and other fakes enticed the quarters and halves from the pockets of the unwary. The track was in pefect condition, the fastest time being made in 2:29¼. In the three-minute class, race No. 8 on the official programme, J. W. Johnson and M. Quinn and Brower of Plainfield had horses entered. Colonel, Johnson's horse, was distanced in the first heat, while Kitty Pilot, belonging to Quinn and Brower, was cut out in the second heat. The driver of Kitty Pilot wore a bright green cap, and when the horses scored for the third and final trial he came out with them. When opposite the judges' stand, starter Johnston called to the driver of Kitty Pilot and told him he had been distanced in the second heat. Thereupon Quinn & Brower's man climbed down from the sulky and watched the others race. Race No. 9, the President's stake, was the only real horse race. There were but two starters—Merry Christmas, belonging to Charles Bassini of Flemington, and Viscount, owned by Matthias Plum of Newark. Charlie Wooley drove Viscount. The first heat was hotly contested, Merry Christmas winning, but the second heat proved to be in every sense of the word a race for blood. When the word was given, the horses went under the wire neck and neck. On the first quarter Merry Christmas drew away from Viscount and held it until the third quarter, when on the straight away Viscount began to close the gap between them and both horses came up the stretch with scarcely a head between them. When just under the wire, Viscount stuck out his head and won by a nose. No one could tell really who had won. The driver of Merry Christmas at once weighed in, but Wooley the driver of Viscount failed to do so. He says he thought he was beaten. The judges were about to give the heat to Viscount when Mr. Bassini, the owner of Merry Christmas, put in a protest and called the judges' attention to the fact that Wooley had not weighed in. Starting judge William Johnston, of New York, and an old-time horseman, called Wooley into the stand. Upon his saying he had forgotten to weigh in, the judges after a conference decided to rule Wooley out, giving the heat and the race to Mr. Bassini's horse. Wooley felt very bad at the mistake he had made. The horse Nellie S, who won the association stake, is owned by Thomas Sweatnam of Trenton. One year ago the horse was pulling a beer wagon around the streets.

News of the Wheelmen.

The city ordinances prevent the Grand Rapids wheelmen from coasting. Poor fellows! What next?

It is estimated that there some 6,125 wheelmen and wheelwomen in Minneapolis, whose machines are worth $646,700

The entries for the Crescent League road race of Aug. 25 closed to-day. The number of wheelmen entered is 25, and a fine race is promised.

An Unfair Paper Guesses Miss Bulkley's Age.

(New York Tribune.)

Miss Bulkley, who has been appointed a dean in the new Chicago University, has been principal of the High School at Plainfield, N. J., for many years. She is now about forty years old, and is a native of Danbury, Conn.

Hes, and Crying After More.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Plainfield is very happy with its trolley railway.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 8-16-y

A TREAT TO-NIGHT.

What the Boston People Enjoyed in Spite of the Heat.

The Boston News of Tuesday says: "The Globe theater last evening was jammed full of people, who were amused and entertained out of all consciousness of the heat by Gorman's minstrels. The entertainment given by this company is all that a minstrel entertainment should be. In the first part are heard some good voices, and the comedians are, strange to say, supplied with new jokes. George Branton, George McCloud and Charles G. Taylor sang pretty sentimental songs with sweetness, and the Bostonian quartette contributed several fine selections. George Gorman's song, 'Push Dem Clouds Away', and his character dancing made a hit, and Evans, champion Indian club juggler, gave a neat performance.

"The great march, 'The Gathering of the Clans', was executed with a precision which won a storm of applause. Edward Garvie pleased in a unique monologue entertainment. The ludicrous portions of the song and dance, 'Sunrise on the Bayou', were received with uproarious laughter, and the neat dancing was warmly applauded. Estus' feats of balancing upon a high pedestal were watched with breathless admiration. Swift and Chase's musical act, with its humorous interludes, was redemanded again and again. The performance concluded with James Gorman's operetta, 'The Golden Ball', which has a weird story, presented with catchy songs and choruses, handsome costumes and an uproarious dialogue. George Gorman is in his element as an Irish ambassador, and Billy does a very clever female impersonation."

HIGH COURT OF FORESTERS.

The Annual Meeting to be Held in Plainfield in September.

The High Court of Independent Foresters of New Jersey, which was to have held its annual session at Florence in September, will meet instead at Plainfield, the change of place being made on a dispensation granted by Supreme Ranger Oronytekha. The town of Florence is in South Jersey below Burlington, and too inconveniently situated for the great majority of delegates, some of whom come from New York State, which is a part of the New Jersey jurisdiction.

The session at Plainfield—says the Elizabeth Journal—will be held Sept. 30. About two hundred delegates will attend. The new Plainfield court, Wetumpka, which will be formally instituted this evening, will have charge of some of the local arrangements.

The Independent Order of Foresters is growing very rapidly in this section. In Elizabeth there are 800 members. During the past year new courts have been instituted at Dunellen, Somerville, Plainfield, Newark, and in Elizabeth. The last is Court Columbus, which has a membership of 150. The other courts in Elizabeth are Courts Elizabeth, Washington, and Lafayette. Theron B. Clark, of Elizabeth, is High Chief Ranger, and will preside at the coming meeting of the High Court.

The Obstinate Driver of a Country Horse Causes a Wreck.

A wagon owned by Mr. Todd of Dunellen was backed into a street car in front of VanEmburgh & White's this afternoon, by the skittish horse, and a wheel of the wagon was wrecked. The spectators blamed Mr. Todd. When the driver saw the horse prancing he stopped the car, to give Mr. Todd an opportunity to turn about and go the other way. Mr. Todd was obstinate, and insisted on the horse passing the car. Three times the car was stopped, especially for Mr. Todd's benefit. He kept urging his horse forward till the collision took place.

A similar accident occurred in front of Elm street.

The Deadly Lawn Sprinkler.

The motorman on car No. 1 of the Plainfield street railway company, coming up Front street, yesterday afternoon, noticed letter carrier Dunn's spirited horse dancing all over the tracks ahead of him. As is the custom in such cases, the car was slowed up but still the horse would back down in the gutter and swing the two-wheel sulky behind him around and around. But as soon as the car was run close up to him, he quieted down. Mr. Dunn then explained that the horse was frightened by a spinning lawn sprinkler that was playing in front of ex-councilman Serrell's house.

A Fine Race Assured.

The Crescent League 25-mile road race of Thursday next is sure to be a success. Twenty-five entries are on the list and the competition is sure to be a sharp one. The handsome medals on exhibition at Doane's jewelry store attract much admiration. The first prize is a Victor bicycle given by Rogers.

A Plainfield Lawyer Takes a Bath.

[Dunellen Weekly Call.]

The tale is told of a Plainfield lawyer, once a resident of Bound Brook, who took a bath on a recent hot night and went to sleep in the bath-tub. His whereabouts was not discovered until his good wife had aroused the neighbors to search for him.

Caution.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry U Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

FLASHED UNDER OCEAN

England's Parliament Prorogued Until Dec. 4.

THE WALES EARTHQUAKE SCARE.

Little Damage Done, but People Were Panic-Stricken—Capt. Andrews Passed in Mid-Ocean—Duke of Manchester's Death—Supposed French Spies Captured.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Parliament was prorogued last evening until December 4. The announcement was made in the House of Lords by the Royal Commissioners, Baron Herschell, Earl Spencer, the Earl of Kimberley, the Marquis of Ripon, and Viscount Oxenbridge.

The House of Commons, which had resumed its sitting a few minutes after 9 o'clock, was summoned to the House of Lords by the Black Rod to hear the prorogation. Five minutes later the Speaker returned without the mace. He withdrew then without having taken the chair, and thus Parliament stood prorogued.

The official dissolution honors have been announced. They include a marquisate for the Earl of Ketland, late Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; an earldom for Viscount Cranbrook, late Lord President of the Council; peerages to the Right Hon. George Cubitt, Sir Rainald Knightley, Sir Thomas Brooks, Sir Archibald Campbell of Blythewood, William Tyssen Amherst, William John Legh, John Mullholland and John Allen. Sir Matthew White Ridley becomes Privy Councillor as well as Jesse Collins, M. P., and Alexander Stanley Hill, M. P. Lawson of the "Daily Telegraph" gets a baronetcy. Ashmead Bartlett, M. P., John Blundell Maple, M. P., and Dr. Smith, the author, also receive knighthoods.

WELSHMEN PANIC STRICKEN.

Great Excitement Caused by the Earthquake Shocks—Not Much Damage.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The shock of an earthquake Wednesday night caused consternation in Pembrokeshire, the extreme southwestern county of Wales. People were generally asleep when a low, rumbling noise was heard, and the houses rocked and shivered.

In Haverfordwest the rumbling and the rocking motion were particularly heard and felt, and hundreds of people, awakened from sleep, rushed out into the street in their night-gowns, without waiting to dress.

Crockery was smashed and furniture moved by the shaking of the buildings, which lasted, however, but a few seconds.

The people remained in the streets panic-stricken, and fearful of a more disastrous visitation.

After an interval another shock came, but it was slight, as compared with the first, and did no damage. There was another interval, and another shock, also slight. After some time, as there was no more sign of seismic disturbance, people returned into their houses and tried to sleep.

PASSED ANDREWS IN MID-OCEAN.

The Adventurous Voyager Seen by a Spanish Steamer.

MADRID, Aug. 19.—The captain of the steamship Vera Cruz, which has arrived at Corunna, passed in mid-ocean Capt. Andrews, who is making the voyage from Atlantic City to Huelva alone in a small boat.

The captain of the Vera Cruz offered to help Andrews, and tried to induce him to accept food and water. Andrews declined all aid, and requested only that the captain of the steamship deliver a letter to United States Consul Carricarte in Corunna.

Capt. Andrews said that he was well, but that he had been delayed by unfavorable weather.

The Bismarcks Kept Wilhelm Away.

BERLIN, Aug 19.—The mystery concerning the Emperor's absence from the dinner given by the officers of the Guards on Tuesday evening, which he had promised to attend, is explained by the fact that Count Herbert Bismarck and Count William Bismarck were present. The Emperor did not learn that they were to be present until shortly before the evening of the dinner. Even the anti-Bismarckians here feel that the Emperor might have gone, rather than show his dislike of the Bismarcks through such a petty slight.

Narrow Escape for Hotel Guests.

BERNE, Aug. 19.—The Hotel de L'Ours at Grindelwald was destroyed by fire during the night. It was one of the three hotels in Grindelwald, and was thronged with American and European tourists. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it swept through the village with great rapidity, destroying the hotel and thirty houses. The tourists had a narrow escape from the flames, but they all got out safely, taking with them their baggage.

Superintendent Byrnes Alert.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—As soon as Superintendent Byrnes was notified that the troops had left for Buffalo he sent word to the captains of the various precincts that all vacations should come to an end and that none of the men shall be permitted to take advantage of leaves of absence granted. This action he explained by saying: "I do not anticipate any immediate trouble in this city, but in case it starts and I want to have a large working force."

WHEELMEN, ATTENTION!

AN ORDINANCE

to regulate the use of bicycles, tricycles and other noiseless vehicles in the public streets.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle or tricycle, or other wheeled vehicle not drawn by a horse, upon any sidewalk in the City of Plainfield, except when necessary so to do in passing from private premises to the roadbed of any street; nor shall any person ride any such vehicle in or upon any street or highway of said city without ringing a bell or sounding a whistle at a distance of at least fifty feet from any street crossing or intersection over which any person may be passing, in such manner as to give full and sufficient warning of such approach; nor shall any person ride upon any such vehicle upon any street of said City between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise without carrying and displaying a lighted lantern.

SECTION 2. That every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Adopted by the Common Council August 1, 1892.

Approved by the Mayor August 2, 1892.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Attest:—F. W. BUNTON, City Clerk.

Everyone violating any of the provisions of this ordinance will be dealt with as law and justice may require.

WAYS OF CONGRESSMEN.

How the Various Appropriation Bills Are Passed.

They Originate in the House, But Must Be Indorsed by the Senate Before They Can Go Into Effect — Legislative Red Tape.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The principal work of congress during the past few weeks has been the consideration and completion of the various regular appropriation bills, upon the passage of which the executive branch of the government depends most largely, but which are also necessary to the legislative and judicial branches of our system.

The agricultural, army, diplomatic and consular, District of Columbia, fortification, Indian, legislative, executive and judicial, military academy, naval, pension, post office, river and harbor, and the sundry civil are the regular appropriation bills for the support of the government, while this year there are five deficiency bills for items dating back as far as 1890 and in some cases prior to that year. All appropriation bills, under the constitution, originate in the house of representatives.

The highly ornamental scroll of parchment which is handed to the president of the United States for his signature that it may become a law is a very different looking document to the one originally prepared by Mr. Courts, the clerk of the house committee on appropriations. The first step towards the introduction of one of these bills, the passage of which is one of the most important and necessary works of our congress, is to formulate a rough estimate of the items for which appropriations are to be made, after showing by comparison the different appropriations for the same items for the five previous years. This gives an insight into the changes made in appropriations from year to year, whether of increase or decrease, and is of inestimable value in the formation of a new bill out of raw material. A sub-committee is chosen, and, after getting all the light possible on the subject, they sit down and make up their minds about it. Then, after much deliberation and comparison, the looking up of old records and the holding of many conferences with members interested in proposed items, a bill is finally decided upon, the provisions of which shall be acceptable to the full committee. After this sub-committee has completed its work, if the entire committee favors it, one of their number is deputed to present the bill in the house and move its reference to the committee on appropriations, from whence it has been introduced. There, in a pigeon-hole, it sleeps the sleep of the just until the committee is ready to consider it. Its consideration necessitates the appointment of another sub-committee whose business it is to study carefully all of its provisions and give hearings to members of congress interested in the different items. After having obtained all the information possible on the matter, the sub-committee makes its report to the full committee, which generally concurs in the judgment of the chosen few. If the majority of the full committee favors the report it is adopted and placed in the hands of Chairman Holman, of Indiana, who reports it to the house at its next session. It then takes its regular place on the calendar to come up for consideration when ordered by the house. Political leaders generally appear to forget the existence of these very important bills until within a short time before the adjournment of congress. Then they become aware of the urgency of these measures and every effort is made to rush them through, in some cases without giving proper time for discussion and consideration. Over the passage of some of them, however, there is occasionally a bitter fight; notably on the river and harbor, legislative, and post office bills. When the river and harbor bill comes up for consideration, there are always some members who want large appropriations for improvements on comparatively unimportant streams in their sections. This, of course, necessitates more or less argument and a great deal of time is lost in this manner. It is the same way with the post office appropriation bill. Some member from the rural districts wants the privileges of free delivery of mails extended to its constituency, and argues the point at length.

Bitter warfare is always raging between the members of the senate and house over the provisions of the legislative, executive and judicial bill. One of the principal items of disagreement is the appropriation for the salaries of the clerks of senators. The members of that very select body assert their right to private secretaries, to be paid out of the revenues of the government. The representatives at the other end of the capitol, while not denying that their senatorial colleagues should be provided with secretaries, insist that they should also enjoy the same privilege. As there are over three hundred members of the lower house, and as their clerks would each receive six dollars a day, that provision would be a rather costly piece of legislation, especially in long sessions of congress. This is the way the senators reason, but the members of the less august body do not see it in that light.

When an appropriation bill passes the house its friends are jubilant, taking great credit to themselves for obtaining this result and dictating long accounts, generally remarkable for the frequency of the pronoun "I," to the various newspaper men, who are expected to "puff" them in the papers which they represent. But the bill is even yet far from being a law. It must run the gauntlet of the senate and be subjected to many amendments which the senators in their alleged superior judgment are always ready to make. In the present congress, where a majority of the members of the senate and house are of opposite political creeds, every important bill is changed and modified from its original form.

When the clerk of the house brings the enrolled bill over to the senate, and announces that the house has passed it, the measure is referred to the senate committee on appropriations for their action. In this committee it is subject to the same delay as in the corresponding committee of the house. When, however, its order is reached, the committee takes it up, goes carefully over every item, hears testimony from interested parties, and finally makes its report, which is usually amendatory of the bill; whereupon by unanimous consent it is generally taken up for immediate consideration, instead of lying at the foot of the calendar behind all o

the unimportant bills. The consideration of each appropriation bill in the greatest deliberative body on earth usually takes several days, and sometimes weeks. Each item and amendment must be read and explained by Chairman Allison just as though it were a separate bill. One by one these amendments are gone over, some being rejected and others retained, until the entire bill has been overhauled. Of course, this gives unlimited opportunities for speech making by senators whose interests lie with the adoption or rejection of some item or amendment. Upon the question of the final passage of the bill, the vote of every senator is recorded upon the journal so that their constituents and the country at large may know exactly how they stand on the question of government expenditures. After the bill has passed the senate it is taken to the house, which is informed that the senate has added certain amendments to their original measure. Then a committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses is appointed by the speaker and the vice president. The committee consists of three senators and three representatives. These committees usually meet in the room of the senate committee on appropriations, and if the walls of that handsome apartment could speak they would have many interesting tales to relate. The first day or two no conclusions are arrived at, neither side being willing to yield an item. After awhile, however, as the days of the session draw to a close, they begin to show signs of coming to an amicable settlement and generally agree upon a course of action that will be satisfactory to their respective houses. Occasionally, however, neither side shows the slightest inclination of a compromise and after a reasonable length of time this fact is reported in the senate and house. Then a new conference is ordered, and the bill is finally agreed upon.

This year the work of passing appropriation bills has been so delayed that it was found necessary to pass a joint resolution extending the appropriations of the past year. Otherwise the government would have been in a bad fix, the fiscal year having expired June 30, leaving no money available in the treasury without congressional action.

Considering the number of amendments to appropriation bills, which come from the senate, it is wonderful how few mistakes are made in the enrollment of them. There are sometimes as many as nine hundred amendments and each must be numbered and put in its correct place. Once in a great while a mistake is made. Several years ago when the legislative, executive and judicial bill came back from the senate with many amendments tacked on to it, the enrolling clerk of the house neglected to put in certain figures connected with an amendment. The consequence was that a prominent government official found that the title of his office appeared in the bill, but that no money appeared to be appropriated for the expense of that office. He had to wait until the next fiscal year for his salary. But such mistakes are rare, and when it is understood that the enrolling clerk of the house has the work of fixing up all the appropriation bills (a rule providing that all bills shall be enrolled in the house from whence they originated), it is rather surprising that more mistakes do not occur. The aggregate appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, are, in round numbers, $500,000,000. There are over sixteen thousand items in these bills.

Juvenile Fancy.

Flossie is a bright child and knows a great deal for a youngster. The other day she was looking at a picture and she said to her mother:

"I think this one is very pretty, mamma."

"What makes you think so?" asked her mother, just for the sake of asking.

"My brains. I s'pose," and she turned over the leaf with a very evidently settled conviction that she knew what she was talking about.—Detroit Free Press.

About Imported Cigars.

"I like your imported Havana cigars very much, but you must let me have them a little cheaper," said a Texas tobacconist to a drummer of a New York tobacco firm.

"We can't do it. I am offering you these imported Havana cigars at the same figures that we have to pay the firm that manufactures them, and they bought their Connecticut tobacco when it was cheaper than it is now."—Texas Siftings.

WEBB SAYS THE STRIKE IS OVER

Many Central Switchmen Ask To Be Taken Back.

NEARLY ALL THE ROADS INVOLVED MOVING FREIGHT.

The Central Is Taking All Business Offered.—Situation in the Erie Yards Greatly Improved.—Non-Union Men Stoned.—Troops Called to Guard Property at Waverly.—While the Situation Has Improved the Trouble Is Not Ended.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The general situation in the East Buffalo yards is quiet, suppressed uncertainty. Representatives of the United Press after a thorough tour of the important posts established by Gen. Doyle find the troops and police alert. All the troops ordered have arrived, been posted, and are unusually alert for men not schooled in the dreariest school of the soldier, guard duty.

As far as the switchmen are concerned there is no doubt that the great strike here is over. It is only a question of a day or two when every road which has been drawn into the struggle will have a plentiful supply of men and will be doing the usual amount of business. The Central are doing it now. There is no question about this. From one freight house alone they loaded and sent out yesterday more than 170 car loads of freight. That is considerably above the average day's work for that house. Vice-President Webb says:

"The Central is precisely in the same position that it was before there was any trouble. We are doing the normal amount of business, perhaps more than the normal amount. Our depots at Erie, Green, Black Rock and East Buffalo are running full time, and all the business that we have we handle. We are are a little short on Lake Shore because of the strike in their yard. They cannot give us the amount of freight that they usually do. We are receiving all the Michigan Central stuff and handling that. We have not delayed a single lake boat. There has not been an hour's delay. The strike, so far as we are concerned, is over."

Central Strikers Come Back.

It is said that Knights of Labor from Eastern places are here to take the positions made vacant by the strike, and that the old hands who struck Monday night are falling over each other in their endeavors to be taken back in the employ of the New York Central road.

A committee of striking switchmen waited on Supt. Gould in the afternoon and asked if they could go back to work. They were led by John Welch. "We are ready to go back to work because we believe now that there are enough troops here to protect us. The reason we struck was because we thought we'd get killed if we remained at work. We were threatened by the strikers from other roads. The men approached us and threatened to take our lives if we remained at work." The switchmen will be put to work very soon.

The failure of the strike on the Central Railroad so early in the game is looked upon as a death blow to the switchmen's union. It means that every road will be able to follow the Central's lead, and now that the K. of L. men have appeared to take the places of the strikers "the strike is off," as one of the railroad officials put it.

This, however, does not mean at all that the trouble is at an end. Grand Master Sweeney's request to the engineers, firemen and trainmen to come out has yet to be acted upon.

C. A. Beach, train master of the New York Central at Syracuse, was sent for yesterday to take charge of the company's East Buffalo yards. Trainmaster Thomas Maloney, who has been acting as general yardmaster, was assigned to the charge of the Ohio street yards, through which the lake freight passes. Mr. Maloney has his hands full there handling the large amount of freight that passes through there. From the report made by Assist. Supt. Rossiter he has been earing for it in good shape.

In the Lehigh Yard.

A halt has occurred in the movement of freight from the Lehigh yards. At 10 o'clock an order came to move no freight East until further orders. It was learned that the freight cannot be received in the yards East, and it was thought better to hold the freight here. Several trains were made up ready to move and the engines were ready to take them out.

An official said that the Lehigh yards were in good condition and could be cleaned in short order if the Eastern points were open. The Lehigh already has men enough to do the work. Nearly all the perishable freight has now been removed.

Notwithstanding the denial made by President Sloan that the Lackawanna would handle freight from the roads on strike, the men say they will not refuse to handle any freight offered them provided it is not freight which has been diverted from roads on strike. If this is done trouble may follow.

NO DELAY IN THE MAILS.

The Strikers Have Made No Attempts to Stop Them.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Superintendent Jackson of the Railroad Mail Service says that so far the strike has not affected the arrival or despatch of the regular mails in the least degree. No extra precautions have been taken by the Post Office authorities, he said, as they feel sure that none will be required.

"We have always found," said Superintendent Jackson, "that no matter to what extent the rioters in strikes of this sort may go in other cases, they always stand in wholesome awe of the mail service. They seem to realize that in tampering with the mail service they are insulting the Federal government. In the present strike we have not had the slightest trouble. The mails have gone out regularly, and have arrived here on time.

"Once or twice one of the mail trains has been delayed in one of the Buffalo yards for a short time. But it never amounted to more than half an hour, and the engineers have always managed to make up time. Even if the strike lasts for any length of time and violent measures are taken by the rioters we do not anticipate any delay worth talking about. It will be one of the volunteers' first duties to guard the mails."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE FIRST SKIRMISH.

The Thirteenth Meet a Mob But Desist from Attack.

BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—The 13th regiment of Brooklyn, under command of Col. Austin, has earned the distinction of being the first of the National Guard to meet strikers. The latter were bold to desperation, and chose for the attack an hour when the situation looked calmest.

All through the evening trains had been loading in the Central yard for transshipment. Everything was going on swimmingly until a few minutes of 11 o'clock, when suddenly hundreds of strikers appeared on the overhead bridge of the Lackawanna and began a vigorous fusillade on the men loading the cars. Cobblestones and bits of scrap iron were fired, forcing the men to retire.

Col Austin with his entire force came to the rescue, but the odds were overwhelmingly against him, and spread out as his troops would necessarily be with the skill and further disadvantage of his being unable to charge the men because of their position.

The 13th was full of fight, however, and as they trained their guns on the men on the bridge the latter fled to sheltered places, but did not entirely abandon their position. Col. Austin dispatched a messenger to Gen. Doyle, asking him to send reinforcements at once and they would capture the mob. Gen. Doyle replied that he did not consider the circumstances warranted the ordering out of a large number of tired troops, adding that the work, in his opinion, had better be stopped until morning.

Non-Union Men Stoned.

Camp Four, the important part of the Central elevators on Ohio street, guarded by a battalion of the 23d Regiment, had a lively shake-up just before midnight, when the strikers at the Elk street crossing stoned non-union switchmen, who were making up a train. Some of the missiles hit the soldiers of the 23d, but none of them were seriously injured.

THE ERIE HOPEFUL.

Officials Say Freight is Moving and the Worst is Over.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Erie officials express confidence that the backbone of the strike is broken and that there will be little if any trouble handling freight hereafter.

"We moved considerable freight at the Buffalo yard yesterday," said one of them, "and we will still more to-day. We do not anticipate any trouble with the trainmen and no disturbance is feared at this end of the line. There is no doubt that with proper protection we will soon have a regular force of men at work.

"The worst of the strike is certainly over."

Troops on Guard at Waverly.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Sheriff Geer, of Tioga county, having made three efforts to move engines and freight cars through the yards at Waverly, telegraphed for the 50th Sedarats Company and the 5th Battery of this city to come to Waverly. Both companies reported and began preparations. The troops arrived early this morning and are now on guard in the yards.

Hiring Men in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20.—An agent of the New York Central Railroad is here attempting to hire men to take the places of strikers at Buffalo, and has met with some success. Intimate that there will be trouble if the men employed here are taken over the roads from this city. The Order of Railway Brakemen will likely take prompt action in the matter.

THIRTY WERE DROWNED.

Wreck of a Steamship Off the Coast of Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 20.—The steamer Grigorieuw, plying upon the Volga and its tributaries, has been wrecked off Nijni Novgorod.

The vessel carried a number of passengers and great excitement prevailed among them when the vessel struck. A heavy storm was prevailing at the time, and many of them jumped overboard and attempted to reach the shore by swimming. Many of the crew also jumped overboard.

Thirty of the passengers and crew were drowned. Many of those on board floated ashore on chairs, tables, etc., while the more cool-headed, who waited for the small boats to be launched, were landed without difficulty.

To Celebrate San Diego's Discovery.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 20.—At the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the discovery of San Diego Bay on Sept. 4 Gov. Markham will preside. It is hoped that Admiral Gherardi, who is expected to assume command of the squadron composed of the Baltimore, Charleston, San Francisco, Yorktown and Boston, will be induced to bring the vessels here to take part in the celebration.

London "Standard" on Protection.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The "Standard" says editorially: "The labor troubles in the United States are a vivid commentary on the ignorant and dishonest plague of political jackals who have led Americans into the fetid marshes of protection. For the plutocrat and pensioner there is plenty, but for the laborer whose carnings are filched there is hunger, which develops the spirit of the ravenous wolf."

American Silver in Canada.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 20.—The Montreal bankers have made a move in the way of lessening what they call the American currency evil in Canada. At the next meeting of the Dominion Bankers' Association a motion will be made proposing a discount of from 1 1-2 to 2 per cent. There is about four million dollars in American silver at present in the country.

GRAVER TROUBLES FEARED.

War Department Officials Greatly Excited Over Strike Reports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—There is much excitement at the War Department over the strikes growing up all over the country, and it is the opinion of the military authorities that serious trouble will yet result as the strike contagion spreads. While Assistant Secretary of War Grant and the other officers of the department are disposed to give out soothing news, it is known that they are greatly excited and believe the labor troubles already on are but a mild precursor of what is to follow.

Gen. L. A. Grant, Assistant Secretary of War, communicated to a reporter just what the mysterious telegrams received at the department contained. They were requisitions for the entire supply of arms, ammunitions and accoutrements to the credit of the State of Tennessee in the War Department. These, embracing 600 stand of arms and 30,000 rounds of ammunition, were sent in the morning to Gov. Buchanan.

Gen. Grant explained that the arms and ammunition form only part of Tennessee's quota, under its allotment of $10,000 of the appropriation for the support of the National Guard of the States, and that the Governor's requisition would have been honored at any time, regardless of the condition of affairs in the State. It so happened that the Governor had not previously availed himself of his legal privileges so far as the National Guard allotment was concerned.

Gen. Grant said that the department had refused an application to allow volunteers to use the Government arms at the University of Tennessee, for the reason that they were intended solely for the use of the cadets and could not be loaned to outside parties, no matter how commendable their purpose.

Assistant Secretary Grant said that while he was not in a position to state positively, he hardly thought the United States troops would be called out to quell the rioting miners. He said he thought the State troops of Tennessee would be sufficient.

Gen. Grant has telegraphed instructions to the commandant of the arsenal at Indianapolis to forward at once to the Governor of Tennessee at Knoxville, 600 stands of arms and 39,000 rounds of ammunition, for use by State authorities in suppressing miners' riots. This action was based on the formal requisition from Governor Buchanan.

WOULDN'T GO TO HOMESTEAD.

Idle Non-Union Men Refuse to Work for the Carnegie Company.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 20.—The effort made here to hire men to go to Homestead failed. J. T. Munson, late superintendent of Gen. Beaver's nail works called a meeting of the idle iron workers of the nail works and Bellefonte furnace company, and about 100 men assembled to learn where they were wanted, as the call did not state.

When informed that they were wanted to go to Homestead the men voted unanimously to stay at home, although big inducements were offered. The decision was somewhat of a surprise to Munson, as well as everybody in Bellefonte, as few, if any, of the men belong to any union.

Munson, however, is still confident of securing at least 50 men to go to Homestead before the end of another week.

EVICTED TENANTS.

Parliament to be Called Upon to Reinstate Them.

DUBLIN, Aug. 20.—The Dublin "Independent," in an article in to-day's issue, says that a great meeting will be held in Cork in a short time for the purpose of insisting that an autumn session of Parliament be held for the purpose of reinstating evicted tenants.

It will be borne in mind that when the House met Thursday Mr. Keir Hardie, one of the new Labor members, moved that such a session be held, but the Speaker would not allow it to be put, as he said the House could not consider such a resolution when the responsible Ministers of the Crown were not present in the House.

GLADSTONE'S CABINET.

Hoped in Rome That it Will Follow in the Steps of Its Predecessor.

ROME, Aug. 20.—The return of Mr. Gladstone to power is much commented upon by the papers inspired by the Radicals, as the Cabinet presided over by Lord Salisbury was a favorite in that quarter.

The reason for this is that the Conservatives always showed marked consideration for the Holy See and several important diplomatic questions were settled during the last Tory term of office.

The hope is expressed in many quarters that the new Cabinet will continue in and follow the traditions set by that which has gone out of office.

Price of Beef Going Up.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A beef famine is one of the possibilities which may result from the strike at Buffalo. Prices have already been advanced from one to four cents a pound on meats and about two cents a pound on poultry. This is caused not by any actual present shortage in supplies, but through fear of what may be within the next few days. Traffic must be resumed very speedily over the roads which supply this city and Brooklyn with food, or there will soon be actual suffering.

General Husted Much Better.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Gen. J. W. Husted is reported to be greatly improved this morning. He slept eight hours last night. He eats well and is bright and cheerful. The prospects for his recovery are now very bright.

TROOPS IN POSSESSION

Gen. Carnes in Full Control at Coal Creek.

HOW CAPT. ANDERSON WAS FREED.

One Hundred of the Villagers Were Seized as Hostages and Threatened With Death if the Captain Were Not Produced.—He Was Immediately Surrendered.—The Brave Defense of the Fort.—Volunteers Fell Into an Ambuscade.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—General Carnes is monarch of all he surveys at Coal Creek. He occupies a meadow midway between the village and Fort Anderson. Passengers on the last train, which left there at 5 o'clock, say that he had about 100 of the insurgents prisoners and is guarding them near his camp.

The garrison at Fort Anderson has been increased to 200 men and 100 picked men are guarding the depot and railroad property. Soon after his arrival he demanded the release of Capt. Anderson, and gave the miners until 1 o'clock to produce him. One o'clock came, 2 and 3 o'clock passed by and the miners had not turned over the captive. He then ordered his men to arrest all suspicious looking men.

They went around the village and arrested men promiscuously until 100 had been taken into camp. He addressed them as follows:

"You promised to release Capt. Anderson at 1 o'clock. You have broken faith with me. You shall produce him in one hour, or I will proceed to burn every house in town and will shoot every one of you down."

In less than an hour a committee sent out for the purpose marched into camp and surrendered the prisoner. He immediately resumed command at Fort Anderson. He had been concealed in a little farm house on the outskirts of the village.

When the special train bearing the bodies of the two volunteers who were killed in the battle at Coal Creek yesterday and the volunteers who went to the front rolled into the depot, 3,000 people were gathered about the station, and the excitement was higher than at any time since the trouble began. When the train stopped the men, who bore every evidence of actual service on the field of battle, poured out of the coaches and formed in a line through which their two dead comrades were carried in military style.

Not until the arrival of this train was it possible to get a direct statement of the battle and the exciting incidents leading up to it.

Five men were killed in all. The dead militiamen are:

John T. Walthall, of this city, railway clerk, aged 23.

Bruce Givens, farmer, Knox county, aged 39.

Militiaman of the Second Regiment, (name unknown) and supposed to be from Chattanooga.

The wounded on the side of the military are: Thomas L. Carthy, lawyer, S. G. Heiskel, lawyer and politician; John Milton, laborer.

Two miners were killed. They are: George Miller, Coal Creek.

George Neil, Oneida, Tenn.

The volunteers and 100 soldiers of the Second Regiment reached Offutts, a small village four miles this side of Coal Creek, about 11 o'clock at night.

They left Offutts about 2 o'clock and went across Walden's Ridge by a circuitous route, so as to reach Fort Anderson from a point farthest removed from the village of Coal Creek. The night was dark as pitch and the loneliness of the road was depressing.

Fell Into an Ambuscade.

Just after they started down the mountain on the north side towards Fort Anderson the men were divided into three squads. Soon afterward three men, all uniformed and claiming to be friendly to the soldiers appeared, and offered to pilot the regiment down the mountain. Without suspicion the troops followed them into a well planned ambuscade.

The Stars and Stripes at Fort Anderson were in full view and the men were feeling relieved at the near approach of fortifications and were joking with each other when bullets began whistling about their ears.

Part of the men had passed the ambuscade before firing commenced, and they received a volley of bullets in the back.

Carty, Walthall, Givens and Heiskel were all in this party. The other companies faced about at once and opened fire on the ambuscade.

Major Carpenter seeing that the odds were greatly against him, ordered all three companies to retreat, and the long march over the mountain was commenced again. The regiment reached Offutts at 10 o'clock thoroughly exhausted.

LINDSAY UNDER ARREST.

He Is the Man Who Wanted to Hang Capt. Anderson.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—Gen. Carnes has Burt Lindsay, leader of the miners, under arrest at Coal Creek. He is a deputy United States marshal and a thoroughly desperate character. He has killed several men. It was he who proposed hanging Capt. Anderson and was only prevented by his brother, who is a good citizen and postmaster at Coal Creek.

Later particulars of the Coal Creek fight say that 18 of Col. Woodford's regiment, under Major D. A. Carpenter, were captured early in the morning, and Bruce Gavin and Tom Carter, of Knoxville, were killed. Woodford is Colonel of the Second Regiment and under him were the Knoxville volunteers and deputy sheriffs under Major Carpenter.

They left the train at Offut's and went by a roundabout way to relieve the garrison at Camp Anderson. In crossing Walden's Ridge they were fired upon from ambush. They made a good fight, but 18 of the volunteers were captured in trying to recapture their comrades.

Threatened With Violence.

JASPER, Tenn., Aug. 20. — Threats have been made by unknown men who visited the village that Circuit Judge Moon and Attorney-General Brown had better be careful or bullets would be put through their heads. This threat was made because these officials are using every means to bring the members of the Inman mob to justice, having ordered the sheriff to make 54 captures. The rioters and their friends are banded together to resist arrest.

CLEVELAND'S

One rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of any other.

A large saving on a year's bakings.

BAKING POWDER

A pure cream of tartar powder.

Used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of Cookery.

Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

IRON HALL'S ASSETS.

The Total Amount of Money on Deposit Is $1,315,415.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20.—F. D. Somerby, Supreme Justice of the Iron Hall, while on the stand in the receivership litigation, acknowledged that the Supreme Sitting had no right to donate the $170,000 to the Mutual Bank of Philadelphia, but justified the act on the ground that it was imperative to save the half million on deposit there. He claims the donation was a deposit in fact, while Cashier Hayes says it was an investment, and, therefore, not subject to demand.

Charles Morrison, clerk for Supreme Cashier Davis, testified that the moneys of the order on deposit aggregate $1,315,415.74.

—A decided improvement has been added to Grace Episcopal church property on Seventh street. W. H. Warner, the contractor, has just completed a massive concrete curb with rounded corners and dressed edges. This extends along the front and side of the two main entrances to the church. The Seventh street walk of the same material is five feet wide and the Sycamore street walk is four feet wide. The color is light blue. New York men say it is one of the best jobs in the country. Mr. Warner desires to advise those who want skilled work, to examine this work before ordering elsewhere.

Arrested the Wrong Man.

The driver of Gus. Sutterlin's beer wagon was steering his horses into the crowd gathered to hear the band play, last evening, in front of Music Hall, when George Nolan seized the animals by their heads, pushed them out around the people and saved a number of children from being trampled to death. The man in the wagon stood up and with all his strength cut Nolan across the face with his whip.

Angry with pain Nolan sprang up on the wagon wheel and struck at his assailant. His fist crashed through a glass panel in the side of the wagon. The broken glass cut one artery in his wrist and just missed another. Dr. Long, who dressed the wound, said Nolan had narrowly escaped bleeding to death.

Instead of arresting the driver of the wagon, officer Frederickson took Nolan before judge Codington. His father-in-law, Vincent W. Nash, gave bail for the accused's appearance for a hearing Monday.

Juvenile Base-Ball.

An interesting game of ball was played on the Park avenue grounds, yesterday afternoon between the Gorhams and the Atlantas of Plainfield. The score stood 4 to 4 in the seventh inning, but the Gorhams won by the score of 10 to 7. The feature of the game was the remarkable way that D. Kane covered first base. George Peterson made a fine running catch in the ninth inning. Carter of the Gorhams did some excellent pitching. He struck out 7 men. Batteries for the Atlantas, Cuff and Lyons; for the Gorhams, Carter and Green. D. Kane of the Atlantas made a three-base hit. Umpire—D. Martin.

PRIZE WINNERS AT NETHERWOOD.

The Third Progressive Euchre Party, Another Success—Private Theatricals in Rehearsal.

THE third progressive euchre party of the season was held last evening in the grand parlor of the Netherwood. Ten tables were surrounded by forty players when the signal for the commencement of the game was given at 9 by Mr. Waddell. The prizes exhibited the exquisite taste of the purchasers. The following were the fortunate winners:

First prize, Miss Florence J. Kelley, silver atomizer. Second prize, Mrs. Chandler W. Riker, silver tray. Third prize, Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, bon bon dish. Consolation prize, Mrs. W. B. Ogden, Bohemian glass vase. First prize, John Gerken, silver cigar cutter. Second prize, E. C. Kirk, silver mounted whisk broom. Third prize, L. A. Streit, letter rack. Consolation prize, gold mounted paper cutter.

On the 29th inst., a notable event will occur, when French's minor drama entitled "Turn Him Out", will be properly staged and rendered in the annex of the dining-room of the hotel. The following young amateurs are being daily coached by Harry Gwynette, well-known in the theatrical profession, who has kindly consented to aid the young aspirants for Thespian honors. Success is therefore assured.

Caste—Willard Sneckner, LeRoy Sneckner, Percy Sneckner, Arthur Kelley, Anastaslus Gwynette, Frank Poe and Miss Ellen Poe.

The sale of tickets for the occasion is already very gratifying and the total amount realized will doubtless be satisfactory.

The hotel is comfortably filled with guests and everything is serene and lovely hereabouts. The Sunday evening concerts continue to give unalloyed pleasure to the guests and their friends. During the months of August and September many visitors arrive from the seaside and other resorts. The season of '92 thus far has been most enjoyable and from present indications it will continue so to the end. Lovely, crispy mornings and evenings, health giving air, an excellent table, a host who never tires in administering to the comforts of his guests, a kindly fellowship existing among the dwellers, music, sunlight and flowers, what more could one desire at that well-named "Paradise on the Heights", fair Netherwood! The hotel will remain open until October. J. A. H.

Jacob Blimm, jr., Edward Flannery and Morgan Turton of Crescent Division, K. of P., of this city, left on a special train at 1:15 this afternoon to attend the Knights of Pythias convocation at Kansas City.

THE PRESS sympathizes with the Hon. John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth, in the sudden affliction befallen him by the death of his favorite daughter, Edith, aged sixteen years, which sad event occurred at Newport, Rhode Island, on Friday evening.

A West End Illusion.

The Somerville boys imagine they have their eyes on the pennant, and all the time they are gazing at a lunar rainbow. They are afflicted with strallsmus, and should visit Collier's at once, where all defects of the eye are remedied.

Caution.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

A VICTIM OF THE TROLLEY.

Thomas McCune Loses All His Means of Support in an Accident Caused by the Electric Cars.

A hard-working but respectable Irishman named Thomas McCune, who resides on West Fourth street, is the latest victim of serious loss from the deadly trolley road. He came down town yesterday for the first time since the cars were started and met one of them as he turned into Front street from Liberty. Mr. McCune was so scared at the unsightly thing and terrified by its horrible noise, that he took fright and ran away. The wheelbarrow that he was pushing was totally wrecked against a fence, and the unfortunate man himself was thoroughly prostrated by the shock before he stopped from sheer exhaustion.

McCune's means of livelihood was his wheelbarrow, and because of its loss starvation stares him in the face. He is too poor to bring suit against the wealthy, monopolistic Plainfield Street Railway company. It really seems that he is a worthy object of public charity. THE PRESS will gladly receive subscriptions to buy McCune another barrow.

What Does the Bicycle Law Mean, Anyhow?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The new bicycle ordinance having gone into effect with such intensity would it not be well for some influential party to define the annexed clause?

Nor shall any person ride any such vehicle in or upon any street or highway of said city without ringing a bell or sounding a whistle at a distance of at least fifty feet from any street crossing or intersection over which any person may be passing, in such manner as to give full and sufficient warning of such approach.

The italicized passage admits of two interpretations. Are we to ring only when a pedestrian is to be seen, or at every crossing on principle? May and might are very indefinite words. I might be a millionaire, but I'm not; you may be about to make me a present of $1,000, but it is n't likely. L. A. W., 40,338.

All Saints' Church of Fanwood Gives an Outing to the Children.

On Thursday, All Saints' Sunday-school children, accompanied by a number of the good women of the parish, in all about sixty, under the charge of the Rev. Mr. True, drove to Papiac and enjoyed all the pleasures that a trip to that delightful day resort implies. On their arrival they were welcomed by L. J. Briggs and Col. Moore, who had preceded the main party by train. After the luncheon the youngsters were chaperoned to the water and indulged in a swim of an hour.

A match was arranged of fifty yards in five feet of water between Ned Quereau and three other boys, but was forfeited as Ned was the only one at the starting point when time was called. All arrived safely home at 9 o'clock, tired, of course, but satisfied, as not an accident occurred.

Fanwood Men Called Out.

Quartermaster Frank Quereau, Capt. Geo. Hamlin and A. D. Beeken, of Fanwood, members of the 23rd Regt., N. G. S. N. Y., left for Buffalo, Thursday night, with their regiment. Major Danby Darke, of the 7th N. G. S. N. Y., and private Moore, of the Phil Kearney guards, are in readiness to respond to any call from their respective commandants.

Over the Holy Land.

"Over the Holy Land and up the Nile" is the next programme of the Honeyman Tours announced. The arrangements are all made and when winter comes Mr. Honeyman says he hopes to give the biggest tour abroad for the least money yet offered. His post office address is box 765, Plainfield, and if the Plainfield clergymen and Sunday-school teachers and others would secure particulars and then go, THE PRESS can promise them a great time.

Anxious to Meet Other Teams.

The Fourth Ward base-ball club of Plainfield would like to hear from any team whose members are under 18 years of age. Having played fifteen games this season, they have been beaten only twice. They would like to hear from the Dunellen base-ball team. Names of players: D. Kane, first base; D. Guinee, pitcher; E. Conners, catcher; W. Shannon, second base; T. Lyons, short stop; T. Shirley, third base; T. Dwyer, left field; D. Mack, center field; J. McCann, right field. Send all challenges to the captain, D. Guinee, corner of Fourth and Liberty streets.

The Slum Worker and the Nightingale.

Great meetings will be held at the Salvation Army hall Aug. 20, 21 and 22. The meetings will be led by Staff Captain Blanche B. Cox, assisted by Lieut. Bube, "the nightingale". Staff Captain Cox is a talented young woman. She has traveled all through India, and she comes to Plainfield to lecture on the slum work, also the food and shelter work, in New York city.

He Left Voluntarily of His Own Accord.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In relation to the article in last night's Courier, I wish to state that there is no truth or foundation in it whatever, as I can and shall prove at the proper time. Furthermore, I was not discharged, but left voluntarily of my own accord.

CHARLES TROTTER.

Nobody advertises that his blood medicine doesn't amount to much. They're all of them "the best." But there's only one of them that's good enough to guarantee—and that is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. With that, if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, you have your money back.

It's a medicine that cures, in all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood. It's not like the sarsaparillas, which claim to do good in March, April, and May. All the year round, with equal benefit, it cleanses, invigorates, and builds up the entire system. If you're bilious, "run-down," or dyspeptic, or suffering from any blood-taint or disorder, that's the medicine you need. For the worst forms of Scrofula, and in the most stubborn Skin and Scalp Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, and all kindred ailments, nothing can equal it as a perfect and permanent remedy. The genuine sold for $1.00. Beware of spurious imitations or dilutions, offered at less prices.

IN HOT WEATHER,

When people grow irritable even to the point of breaking out with Prickly Heat, it is plain that something is needed to calm the nerves and tone the system. BEEF, WINE AND IRON WITH CELERY is just the thing—a harmless sedative and tonic. Moreover, if taken at bedtime it conduces to healthy, refreshing sleep. Originated and sold only at Borough and Township Taxes.

The borough council and township committee both met last night and accepted the tax assessment valuations of assessor Cooley. The borough council fixed the amount of fire tax at $2,500 and the street lights tax at $5,000, in addition to the regular tax. The sum of $1,000 was ordered borrowed for the streets account. The assessor was instructed to include in the proper individual tax bills the amount expended for sidewalk improvements by the borough in cases where property owners have refused to make the improvements themselves. Mayor Saunders gave notice that hereafter bills presented at one meeting would not be paid till the next, so as to allow sufficient time for proper auditing.

MR. REESE PULLS THE STRING;

THE EDITOR OF THE "NEWS" PLAYS MONKEY;

And Then Mr. Saunders Turns on the Hose and Submerges Them With a Deluge of Facts That Wash Away Their Speciousness and Flood Them With Ridicule.

It was only after some effort on the part of THE PRESS, that William L. Saunders, mayor of North Plainfield, could be induced to give his attention to certain articles that had appeared in print in this city attacking some statements that he had recently made in public. But after much persistence on the reporter's part, Mr. Saunders was prevailed upon to speak.

"I have heard before," he said, "since my return from the West, that the editor of the 'News' has been having a good deal of fun at my expense. The man who pulls the string is a Mr. Samuel W. Reese of Westfield, N. J. It seems that some of the facts which I gave about New South Wales in a speech at a ratification meeting in Plainfield the other night have excited Mr. Reese to such an extent that he indulges in several long letters to the press in which, as far as I understand them, the following claims are made:

1. New South Wales has never been a free-trade country.
2. New South Wales is now a highly protected country.
3. This highly protected country is in a state of great distress and misery, because there is no work and low wages.

"The editor of the 'News', commenting editorially, draws the following conclusions:

1st. That I am a free-trader.

2nd. That Mr. Reese knows more about New South Wales than I do, and my statements are false. Ergo: discredit is thrown on whatever else I may say.

"Now it appears in this case that Mr. Reese is mistaken in every conclusion that he draws. In order to make the matter clear, let me repeat exactly what I did say at the ratification meeting:

Australia is divided into five Colonies or States of which New South Wales is the oldest. The other four States have adopted a protective tariff and protective principles. New South Wales has always been a free trade State or Colony. Some of the other Colonies have had this protective tariff for over 20 years. New South Wales to-day is the most prosperous Colony or State in Australia. Wages are higher for workingmen in New South Wales than in any of the other Colonies. It is a wealthier Colony, and quite as enterprising as any other.

Over 60,000,000 sheep of the merino type pasture in New South Wales. From the sale of last year's wool clipping $50,000,000 was realized. Large quantities of this fine grade of wool are sent to the United States and mixed with the common grades there. Both pastural and agricultural industries are prosperous. They have large tracts of splendid wheat land. Mines are numerous. There are large gold and silver fields, copper mines, tin mines and coal mines, besides other mining industries. Broken Hill in New South Wales is said to be the largest and most profitable silver mining district in the world. America had that preeminence until late years.

In the coal-fields, Newcastle alone exports about 4,000,000 tons per annum. 700,000 tons of that coal is exported to the Pacific sea coast in America, from San Francisco in the North to Valparaiso in the South.

The free trade policy has been of great advantage to New South Wales. The rate of wages, skilled and unskilled, in New South Wales, is higher than in any of the other Colonies. Ordinary laborers' wages are $2 per day of 8 hours. Eight hours is the standard length of day. Carpenters' wages about $2.50, engineers' and mechanics' $3, per day, brick layers and stone masons, $3.50. All for 8 hours per day. Wages in New South Wales are at least 15 or 20 per cent. higher than in any of the other Australian Colonies.

New South Wales is the mother Colony or State, but was overtaken in population and wealth by Victoria some years ago, after the discovery of gold, but the free trade policy of New South Wales and its magnificent natural resources have enabled it to obtain the premier position both in reference to population and wealth.

It is generally admitted that while wages are higher in free trade New South Wales the price for all commodities used by the mechanics and the general population, is cheaper than in any of the protective Colonies, especially in clothing, boots and shoes, and the general food supplies.

New South Wales draws a large revenue through the Custom House for the general government, but it is a taxation for revenue only, while in the other Colonies taxation is put on through the Custom House for protection purposes.

"The foregoing statement was dictated in my office, to my stenographer, by W. A. Hutchinson, of Sydney, New South Wales. Mr. Hutchinson has lived nearly all his life in New South Wales. He was for a number of years Mayor of one of the largest Boroughs there, and is at present the elected head, that is the vice-president, of the association of municipalities in New South Wales. He visited this country as one of the commissioners to the World's Fair, having been appointed by the Premier. He is a gentleman of distinguished standing in Australia, interested largely in coal mines, where he employs several hundred men.

"Another one of the commissioners is L. A. Kimball, who is now in New York. Mr. Kimball has lived seven years in New South Wales, during which time he has been the manager of one of the largest machinery houses in the colony. This machinery house has represented the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill company as agents; hence, my relations with Mr Kimball, and with general business in New South Wales, have been somewhat intimate, as I have sold large quantities of machinery there. Mr. Kimball verifies the statements made by Mr. Hutchinson.

"Now the questions in dispute are questions of fact, not of opinion. All well informed economists know that New South Wales has always been classed as a free trade country. As Mr. Hutchinson says, they collect large revenues through the Custom House, but this taxation is for revenue, and not for protective purposes.

"Mr. Reese will doubtless class England as a free trade country, yet England collects a revenue through the Custom House. But it is useless to dwell upon this point as all authorities have classed New South Wales with England, as a free trade country.

"The straw which Mr. Reese evidently grasps at, and which he misunderstands, is the fact that during last year the revenue tariff of New South Wales was changed, not by vote of the people, but by a snap vote in the Colonial legislative assembly. This resulted in the defeat of the government and the installation in power of Sir George R. Dibbs, and the high tariff party of New South Wales. Mr. Hutchinson belongs to that party, and was appointed commissioner by Premier Dibbs. Now the clear line of distinction is this: The high tariff party in New South Wales, that is the protectionists, are protectionists for revenue only. They are not protectionists of the McKinley type, and New South Wales is still a free trade country in every sense of the word.

"It is true that there are some McKinley protectionists in New South Wales. Such people belong to the party that is now in power, but they form a very small minority.

"Mr. Reese refers to Treasurer Lee. He probably means John See, the present treasurer, known as one of the McKinley protectionists, and who, I have no doubt, would give utterance to such wild high tariff views as those quoted in Mr. Reese's letter. But treasurer John See does not represent either the government or the people of New South Wales, and no matter what he may say, he cannot controvert an established fact, which is that the tariff in New South Wales is a tax for revenue only. The duty imposed by the present high tariff government in New South Wales is only about 10 per cent. ad valorem for general articles of manufacture, and 15 per cent. for luxuries, such as silks, etc. Now is it within reason, that so small a duty as 10 per cent. would be imposed for the purpose of encouraging manufactures? As a matter of fact this tax is so small that it has no effect on prices at all, and it has not been the means of introducing in New South Wales a single industry. Were the tax one of the McKinley type, instead of being 10 per cent., it would be 50 or 60 per cent.

"Now the question might naturally be asked why the party in power in New South Wales, that is the protectionists, favored an increase of duties on imports? In other words, what is the campaign cry of the New South Wales protectionists? It is simply this:

"They have gone into the monetary markets of the world during years past and borrowed large sums, principally from England, on debenture bonds. This money has been used for internal improvements, and the protectionists argue that they now need more money for building railroads, improving harbors, etc.; but instead of going to England to get it, and thus increasing the debt, and enlarging their own reputation as borrowers, thereby weakening the market price of debentures already out, they should raise this money at home, and pay for their own improvements by increasing the revenues through an increase of the tariff. This is what they have done, and the people of Australia are so much dissatisfied with this 'protection' government, which has brought less prosperity by taxation than that they previously enjoyed, that well-informed persons in the colony now predict a certain defeat of the present government in the next general elections.

As to the question of wages, I have no statistics to give Mr. Reese, but both Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Kimball, who are well-informed people of Australia and who employ hundreds of men, say that wages in New South Wales are from 15 to 20 per cent. higher than in any of the other four high-tariff colonies. I do not think this point will be disputed by well-informed Australians.

"It may be true that somebody presented an address to a Mayor in New South Wales, begging him to consider some means of 'alleviating the present misery and suffering among the families of the unemployed.' It is true that every once in a while, politicians get together and make a great noise there about the unemployed laborers. In one instance, in Sydney, (this may be the case which Mr. Reese quotes) they succeeded in establishing a bureau for the unemployed, in which all of these miserable beings were asked to come and sign a roll. Less than 4,000 (mostly paupers and idlers) entered their names, and this cannot be called a large percentage in a city which has a population of 370,000.

"In connection with this matter, the position of the editor of the News is rather amusing. In his issue of August 15, he thinks he has the laugh on me because New South Wales, is a protection, and not a free trade country. Then he goes on to quote from the New York Sun about the great misery that exists there! It is true that the Australian Colonies are at present in a state of depression, but every Australian Colony, except New South Wales, is highly protected, and the great misery which the Sun referred to and which the editor of the News quotes in full, exists in Victoria a highly protected Colony. This McKinley tariff colony seems to have suffered under the present state of depression more than any of them.

"Now since the editor of the News has called me a free trader, I feel at liberty to declare my position. I am not a free trader. Free trade in the United States at the present time is out of the question. Were we to wipe out our present tariff, and begin anew, it would be necessary to put on a tax of from 30 to 40 per cent ad valorem, in order to pay the expenses of the government.

"My reference to the New South Wales case was not in the line of an argument in favor of free trade; but it was distinctly an argument to the effect that if the tariff has anything to do with wages in this country, how under the sun is it that wages are so high in free trade New South Wales, and why is it that they are lower in protected Victoria? Furthermore, we have in New South Wales the evidence of prosperity under free trade, and altogether the case is simply the presentation of facts of experience against the wild theories of

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

And Make an Excellent Governor.

There are lots of good Democrats who think that the coming Democratic gubernatorial convention will be stampeded for the Hon. Geo. T. It was reported last night that manager Whelan had secured McDonald, the pitcher of the Middletown, N. Y., team. There was no truth in the rumor.

Three Weeks in Elizabeth Destroyed Her.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Mrs. Johnson, who has been a resident of this city for less than three weeks, having moved from Plainfield here, was arrested last night by special officer Otto, who found her in a drunken condition and acting in a general disorderly manner on Elizabeth avenue. She was committed to jail for thirty days.

CRESPO CAPTURES VALENCIA.

But Little Resistance Made -- The Famine Continues.

PANAMA, Aug. 20.—Advices from Caracas state that Gen. Crespo has captured Valencia. His storming force consisted of 1,500 men, with about the same number held in reserve. There was but little resistance.

Only 300 soldiers occupied the city at the time of attack, and they retired after a short and feeble street fight. The Crespists are expected at Caballo next. The city has been barricaded since Aug. 4th, when an attack by a small revolutionary force was repulsed.

Cabello has two cannon and the garrison is armed with repeaters. It is thought that there will be hard fighting before Crespo can capture it.

In Laguayra and Caracas everything is quiet as the grave. The famine continues and the poor people are dying in unusual numbers. Throughout the country bands of marauders still seek plunder, but as all the wealthy families have been impoverished or driven away already, they find small reward for their enterprises and are gradually dwindling away. Bloodshed is seldom reported. In fact the country has been devastated and starved until there is little or no spirit left outside of the principal military camps. The growing conviction is that Crespo is slowly conquering all before him and soon will be in complete possession of the whole field.

Later advices from Caracas state that on Aug. 10 Crespo met with reverses at Cortada. Crespo commanded about 4,000 troops to which the Government opposed 8,000. There was heavy skirmishing, and about a third of the forces on each side was engaged. Crespo, however, seeing that he was overmatched, refused to give decisive battle, and in the evening he withdrew.

Fire in a Summer Resort.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 20.—Lake Mahopac, N. Y., a summer resort a few miles west of this city, was the scene of a fire early in the morning. The flames started in the stables adjoining the big Schinneller Hotel, and destroyed them, together with the Town Hall and Welch's wheelwright factory and dwelling house. There is no fire department, and the hotel narrowly escaped destruction. Loss, $10,000; partly insured.

HOME OF COLUMBUS.

The House at Genoa Where He Passed His Boyhood Still Standing.

In the quaint and quiet old Italian city of Genoa, in a narrow by-street, stands, fully identified and venerated by the inhabitants, the house where Christopher Columbus passed his boyhood, and which is reproduced in this article from the Cosmopolitan.

COLUMBUS' HOUSE.

It seems originally to have been a patch on the end of a longer front, a sort of inferior annex, and yet with considerable accommodations. The street is so narrow and the ascent so sharp that it is never traversed by horses. The only wheels that ever touched the pavements are those of hand-carts. The average of the height of the houses is about six times that of the width of the street—the Borgo Lanajoli. Innumerable shutters of the old style, called the Venetian, swing at all angles imaginable from the array of windows, and strings of washing dangle on all sides and at every elevation.

The Columbus house is apparently on the south side of the street, and looking up the hill is eastward, where the sky is scraped by a venerable arch crossing the street, and part of a fortification built to resist Barbarossa 200 years before Columbus was born. The house is surrounded by tobacco and chocolate manufactories on a small scale, and directly opposite the first floor is occupied by a wine shop, in which Columbus was probably warned when a child not to spend too much time. Perhaps 150 paces eastward, at least thirty of the steps direct elevation, there is a conjunction of the canyons called streets, and there are five points, angular, rocky, towering, dingy masonry.

The houses, with the exception of the one that is the attraction that draws all strangers capable of lively pedestrian exercise, are crowded with people. The pavement is not quite immaculate, but is reasonably clean.

There is nothing abominable in view. The surroundings are old, but not abject.

The house is empty, belongs to the state, and is boarded up so that it cannot be entered without scaling ladders. It has an appearance of dilapidation and instability, partly arising from the fact that it was an addition to a more extensive establishment, and to the turn in the street. In the photograph that shows the street and the Barbarossa arch the house is perceived in the shade at the extreme right. So rigorous has been the examination of records that it is considered a fixed fact that since the days of Columbus two or three stories have been piled on the old house, but the idea of a distinctive restoration of original proportions upon this presumption is injudicious.

THE HARGREAVE JEWELS.

Gems Which Have Played Quite a Part in the English Courts.

The famous Hargreave jewels, which have just been bought for a fabulous sum by a London jeweler, included the pair of earrings and the pearl pendant shown in the illustration. Everybody knows the history of these gems, just as everybody knows that Mrs. Osborne, who stole them, is just through paying the penalty. She was, until a few days ago, in the infirmary of the jail in which she was imprisoned, and lived on invalid diet. She wore the unsightly prison dress stamped with arrows, and her only companion a fellow-prisoner who some time ago attempted her own life.

EARRINGS AND PENDANT.

Wonders in the Equine Foot.

The foot of a horse is one of the most ingenious and unexampled pieces of mechanism in the whole range of animal structure. The outside hoof is made up of a series of thin, vertical laminæ of horn, about 500 in number. Into this are fitted about 500 more thin laminæ, which belong to the coffin bone, both sets being elastic and adherent. The edges of a quire of paper inserted leaf by leaf into another quire will furnish a good idea of the arrangement of the laminæ as mentioned above. Thus the weight of the animal is supported by as many elastic springs as there are laminæ in all the feet, amounting to about 4,000. These are distributed in the most secure manner, and in a way that every spring is acted upon in an oblique direction. Verily there is a display of nature's wonder everywhere.

Eaters of Ants.

Ants are eaten by many nations. In Brasil they are served with a resinous sauce, and in Africa they are stewed with butter or grease. The East Indians catch them in pits and carefully mash them in handfuls, like raisins. In Siam a curry of ant eggs is a costly luxury.

FISHES THAT BUILD NESTS.

The "Gouramis" of Cochin China, Which Make Houses for Their Young.

"One of the queerest fishes in the world is the 'gouramis,'" said an ichthyologist to a Star reporter. "It is native to the fresh waters of Cochin China, farther India, Java, Sumatra and Borneo. Specimens have been known to attain a length of six feet and a weight of one hundred and ten pounds. The flesh is so delicious that efforts have been made to acclimatize the creature in many other countries, but thus far these attempts have been successful only on the island of Mauritius. About thirty of them were imported into that island of Cuba and planted in ponds some years ago, but although they grew and were healthy they did not breed. Accordingly, after awhile the prospects for propagating the species became so hopeless that the governor had them served up one by one upon his table upon state occasions. The same difficulty has been met with elsewhere.

"The 'gouramis' are chiefly remarkable for the fact that they build nests like birds. At the breeding season they pair off, each couple selecting a spot among water plants and forming a nearly spherical nest, composed of a peculiar kind of floating weed which grows in tufts on the surface of the ponds, and plastered with mud. The nest is usually about six inches in diameter, its construction occupying the fishes for five or six days. Where they are propagated their task is made easier by placing in the water branches of bamboo, to which bunches of the grass referred to are attached. The gouramis take this grass and with it make their nest in the submerged branches of bamboo. When it is finished the female deposits her eggs in it to the number of from eight hundred to one thousand.

"While the eggs are undergoing the process of incubation the parents guard the nest watchfully, rushing fiercely at any intruder, and this care for the safety of their young is continued until after the latter are hatched. During infancy the young ones find refuge in the nest from a thousand dangers which would otherwise threaten them, and the grass composing the nest furnishes them with their earliest food. When they are a few days old the small fry begin to make short excursions from the nest, always in charge of their parents and swimming together in a shoal. This is continued until they are able to look after themselves."—Washington Star.

A Biological Institute at Jamaica.

The most practical and probably the most useful proposal yet made to commemorate the discovery of the new world was discussed by a meeting of philosophers and laymen interested in the progress of science, assembled at the residence of Lord Brassey at London. The proposal made was that an "observatory of marine biology" be founded on the island of Jamaica as an English contribution to the memorial celebrations of the present year. "No such observatory," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "having yet been established within the tropics scientific results of great interest and importance might be expected from such an institution." It is hoped that the scheme may be carried out successfully KNEW HIS OLD MASTER.

The Skinny Cab-Horse Awoke to Memory of Better Days.

The following story is told by a London cabman:

"Many years ago a friend of mine, a driver, got the awfullest hiding through his horse having a good memory. It came about in this way:

"There was an old major or captain who lived at Westminster, and he had a horse what he drove many years, and he was very fond of it and kept it until it was blind and so queer in the legs that he wouldn't use it any longer, and he ordered his man to take it and get it shot.

"But the man didn't do it. He sold it to a little cab-master in London for three pounds instead. Well, the cab-master drove of nights for about a year, and of course it went wuss, and then he sold it to another cabman for thirty-five shillings. It was reduced to a reg'lar hobject by that time; but they wasn't so particular as they are now, and the driver was rather a rough customer and used to carry a whip that was a 'persuader,' I can tell you.

"Well, one night a fare hailed him on Piccadilly and he drew up to the curb and took him up, but when the old gent got in the blessed brute couldn't stir a peg, but stood like a frozen horse, its only movement being a trembling of the knees. This naturally made Ive—Ive his name was—savage, and finding the thong was no good he lost his temper and took the butt end of his whip to it.

"The gentleman he banged out of the cab and he said: 'You inhuman scoundrel, what do you mean by flogging a poor beast that way?' says he, and no sooner did the old crock in the shafts hear him than it turned its head and began to neigh and whinny just like talking.

"It knowed its old master again, though it did not have any eyes to see him, and the old major looked at the horse and they knowed one another.

"I forget how old he was—the major I mean—but he had Ive off the box and down on the pavement before you could say knife and went at him with his bamboo stick till he roared out murder and brought his crowd around 'em.

"Ive was going to play old Harry with the major, but his friends advised him different, so he squared the matter by getting a friend to take three teeth what the major knocked out to his house, saying in a polite note that he wanted a couple of pounds apiece for them and that if the major would buy 'em the old horse should be thrown into the bargain. That's how they settled it."—Toronto Mail.

Substitute for Glass.

The latest substitute for glass is a kind of dry flexible collodion. It resists the action of salts, alkalies and dilute acids, and is inodorous and transparent. Its chief use is likely to be in photography.

Health and Comfort are Destroyed by the use of poor smoking tobacco. The one tobacco that has held its own through all the changes of time and against all competitors is Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco.

SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,

4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

WHAT TO EAT

is a difficult problem with many people because but few articles of food agree with them. The doctor says and the result is unpalatable food. The reason the physician objects to grease is because lard is the article most used, and every physician knows that hog lard in any shape is unhealthy and indigestible.

Every one interested in pure and healthful food hails with joy the new product which is composed of pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet—nothing else—not even salt. It is better than either lard or butter for all cooking purposes, and one pound of Cottolene will do as much as two pounds of lard or butter, and it costs less than either.

Every housekeeper that tries Cottolene will find in it just what she wants.

THE SWITCHMEN HOPE

But It Seems Certain That Their Cause Is Lost.

OTHER ORGANIZATIONS ARE FIRM.

No Indications of a Sympathetic Movement on the Part of the Trainmen, Upon Which the Strikers Were Depending—Incidents Which Have Hurt the Men In Public Regard—The Troops to Remain Until the Trouble Is Over—All the Roads Moving Freight in Large Quantities.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 22.—"The strike is ended. The men are beaten. They acted prematurely, were ill advised, and if they cannot make terms with the companies within 48 hours their places will be lost to them." This is the summary of the situation as expressed this morning by Florence F. Donovan, a member of the State Board of Arbitration. He has been a sympathizer with the men, and therefore his opinion is of value.

The side strikes at Niagara and Elmira are inactive; the firemen have not gone out; the railroad telegraphers have made no move; the trainmen are in an aggravatingly hesitating mood, and altogether the unfortunate switchmen, in the face of the defeat which stares at them, have the added grief of realizing that they went into action without having taken the most elementary steps toward forming sympathetic alliances that would almost surely have been able to pull them through.

Freight traffic was resumed with a vengeance by all the roads to-day, and the officials of all the lines give out the most encouraging reports. Within three or four days the freight blockade will probably be removed.

The Erie is no longer crippled. Supt. Charles A. Brunn told a United Press reporter this morning that his road sent out 13 full freight trains yesterday, besides opening up the Black Rock and Suspension Bridge yards.

"I have ten switch engines at work to-day, and they are kept busy, too. We have to-day begun loading our grain cars and in a day or so our elevators will be relieved of the blockade."

The Central no longer feels the strike, so far as its road is concerned. To-day they have a full force of switchmen at work. The new Eastern hands are turning out well, but those from the West are failures, with few exceptions. Freight trains in the big East Buffalo yards are being sent out regularly. The Black Rock and Niagara Falls yards are open too, while the Ohio street yards, where the grain trains are made up, are being cleared up rapidly.

There is a marked improvement in the Lake Shore, West Shore and Nickel Plate and Lehigh yards. The new men are being broken in rapidly, and as they become acquainted with the track and switches their work improves. All the yards did a good day's work yesterday and most of the roads resumed the night freight service.

Two very unfortunate affairs have done much to turn public sympathy against the switchmen. One was the derailing of the Erie train and the other was the capture last night of Daniel Cahill, who confessed himself a striking switchman. William Kaye, a non-union man, was turning a switch at the Lehigh Junction, East Buffalo, when Cahill set upon him and assaulted him. The timely arrival of the guard alone saved the man's life. Cahill was arrested and turned over to the police. He confessed the assault, said he was a striker, and that he committed the act because he felt that a man who took his place deserved to suffer for it.

The authorities are hard at work endeavoring to locate the miscreants who came so near wrecking the passenger train late Saturday night near Linden station.

It is reported that five suspicious characters were seen in that vicinity during the afternoon, and the railroad officials think they are the victims of a conspiracy, but until fuller information is obtained it is impossible to tell whether the attempt emanates from the strikers or from tough characters, a large party of the latter being in this vicinity.

That the train was not wrecked is a mystery. While running at good speed the engine jumped the track and the baggage car followed.

Prompt application of the air brakes brought things to a standstill with a shock that threw the passengers into consternation and they swarmed from the cars thoroughly alarmed. Examination of the track showed that fish plates had been wedged in a blind switch and judging from the remnants, what appeared like a freight car door had also been placed across the rails.

John Brown, Thomas O'Brien, John Hughes and Michael Fallen, all striking switchmen, were arrested last night in the East Buffalo yards of the Erie. They were acting suspiciously, and the police thought they meant trouble. Brown was in the act of throwing a coupling pin at some of the Erie switchmen, and others were urging them to leave their work. They were locked up and will be sent to the penitentiary.

It is reported that a meeting of the telegraphers employed by railroads in this territory was held, but it is thought hardly probable they will take any special action unless the situation should become more extensively involved than now seems probable.

Corporal Becker, of Company I, and private Gould, who were injured during the hand to hand battle with the mob of strikers Saturday night, are still confined to the hospital tent. Becker has a bad cut received by a blow from a coupling pin, and Gould's injuries consist of cuts on his body.

The strikers were pretty badly punctured with bayonets, one of them, probably fatally.

Notwithstanding all the hubbub about there being too many soldiers here it is evident their presence is felt to be a necessity by those who have property at stake.

anufacturers and business men whose establishments are near the railroads or in any way liable to be identified with them, have taken the alarm at the presence of apparent danger of disorder in this city, and following the example of the railroads have asked the sheriff for protection.

The plan of Grand Master Sweeney's campaign is now believed to be to nag the roads into a compliance with his demands by successive strikes. Sweeney is said to be not at all sanguine of the result of the present strike here, but he is not greatly disturbed at the probability of failure. If the yards are cleared here, it is said, there will be a stoppage of work at Rochester, then at Syracuse, and then at West Albany.

He is also, it is said, building on the aid of the kindred organizations which he says cannot afford to let him loose this fight. An engineer is quoted as saying: "We are going to help these men out. If they loose it will be a death blow to organized labor."

The women relatives and friends of the strikers are giving the soldiers as much if not more trouble than the strikers. They annoy the troops in every possible way, mounting cars and trestles and dropping stones and big pieces of coal on the militiamen and jeering at them. The soldiers are at a loss to know how to do with these female disturbers of the peace. They can hardly fire upon them, and do not like to deal harshly with them. These women are mischievous, also and do not hesitate to dare to do what the strikers would ordinarily pause at.

Two women were detected in a freight car, and after being driven out a can of kerosene was found in the car. It is possible the intention of the women was to ignite the oil at an opportune time.

With Governor Flower in Watertown at home and Adjutant General Porter in Buffalo, the military headquarters of the State have practically been transferred from the capital to the opposite end of the State.

All the important general staff officers of the National Guard are here, and it is evident they are greatly interested—not only because of the strike but by reason of the mobilization of so large a number of the State troops in one locality.

Gen. Porter, when interviewed to-day, said:

"I find myself among many friends in your city, about 7,000 of them (all in uniform) and I expect to have a chance to see them all. I do not recall an instance where the militia of the State has ever been congregated at one place before. In 1877 Governor Robinson called out all the troops, but they have never been massed together at one point."

In reply to a question as to when the soldiers would probably be recalled, Gen. Porter said:

"The length of time the militia will remain here depends upon circumstances and the will of the local civil authorities that requested them to be sent here."

The arrest at Waverly, yesterday, of striker McNamara, is the result of an order which was given to the Reading company's counsel, Mr. Bissell, at Buffalo, on the 17th inst. as follows, from the general office of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad:

"I have no doubt you are not losing sight of the obligations which are imposed upon us in the discharge of our duty to this property and the public to use every lawful means of bringing to justice all who are guilty of participating in the recent outrages. The company must not spare any means or expense in vigorously prosecuting to conviction every man who can be proved guilty.

"A. A. McLEOD, President."

This arrest is only the beginning of active criminal proceedings against all parties who have been guilty of destruction of the company's property, interference with or menacing its employes.

At the conference between Gen. Porter and Sheriff Beck last night they talked for two hours, and at the finish decided to keep the troops here until the strike ends or until they are satisfied there is no more danger of cars being destroyed or attempts to wreck passenger and freight trains.

Trains Moving at Waverly.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The presence of the 20th Separate Company and the Sixth Battery of this city at Waverly is having good results, freight trains over the Erie are now being moved as fast as they can be handled by the new men. Everything is quiet in the yards here.

SUNDAY AND THE FAIR.

The Courts to be Appealed to in Settlement of the Question.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—An effort is soon to be made in the courts to keep the gates of the World's Fair open on Sundays. Col. Robert Rea and Gen. John C. Black expect to institute proceedings to that end.

Col. Rea acknowledges that such a step is to be taken, but refuses to say with whom the movement originated or just what course it will take. It is believed that the movement started with the vessel owners who ply their boats between Van Buren street and the Exposition Grounds, and who have lately been making so much trouble. The suit will not be started until after the World's Fair appropriation of $5,500,000 is properly delivered.

Killed By an Electric Car.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—William Smith and Andrew Karker, aged 15 and 16 years, were instantly killed by an electric car at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The young men were going to Lakeside Park, a summer resort three miles from the city, when the horse they were driving became frightened at a passing car and ran directly in front of it. The carriage was overturned and the occupants thrown under the motor. The car had to be lifted from the rails before the bodies could be removed.

People's Party Nominations.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Aug. 22.—The People's party convention nominated J. T. Aitman for Congress; James G. Corbin, State Senate; Henry Graffins and E. H. White, Assembly; David H. Fisher, Sheriff. The resolutions favor free silver, denounce the "gold bugs" and oppose high taxes and high official salaries.

The King of Servia Engaged.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 22.—The Novoe Vremya publishes a despatch to-day from its Cettinje correspondent, who learns that the engagement of King Alexander of Servia to the younger daughter of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro will soon be made public, as it has been arranged in spite of the opposition of Prince Milan.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUIET AT COAL CREEK.

Miners Awed by the Troops.—Trouble Feared at Jellico.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 22.—Absolute peace reigns throughout Coal Creek valley to-day, and but for the movements of the soldiers the village, that for nearly a week has been the scene of fierce conflict, is as quiet as a New England farm town. There are a great many strangers in the place visiting the scene of the riots.

The trains leaving here yesterday carried large numbers of Knoxville people anxious to view the ground where two of their fellow-citizens fell in battle. On arriving at Coal Creek and properly identifying themselves they were given passes and allowed to go inside the lines. Fort Anderson and the scene of Friday morning's fight were visited by hundreds.

While General Carnes is of the opinion that the miners cannot again rally a sufficient force to do much damage, he will not advise the recall of his troops for a few days, as there are several bunches of miners in the hills who still show an inclination to be ugly, and it is claimed that they are responsible for the numerous alarming reports of the gathering of large numbers of miners and the threatened attacks that reach here.

The latest reports from the Jellico district are not, it is believed, exaggerated. The report says that all the miners in the Jellico district, including those from mines at Middlesboro, Ky., are massed at Jellico. A great deal of whiskey is being used, and the leaders are endeavoring to organize a force sufficient in size to take Coal Creek. About eleven hundred of them were at a meeting which was very enthusiastic until volunteers were called for to make the attempt to capture the fort. Only 200 volunteered. Less than three hundred guns were found in the place, and they will not attempt further trouble unless they get re-inforcements.

Fort Anderson is on a hill overlooking the stockade and the valley below, and could not now be attacked by the miners without great loss of life on the part of the invaders. In addition to the large supply of ammunition already on hand there are 40,000 rounds in the depot in Knoxville awaiting shipment to Coal Creek.

Some of the men arrested were set at liberty by Gen. Carnes after the presentation in avidence that they were quiet and peaceably disposed persons.

After the prisoners are all gathered in it is probable they will be placed in jail at Clinton, the county seat, and guarded by a military force until the authorities have dealt with them.

The force will be large enough to make a strong resistance in the event friends of the prisoners should make an effort to rescue them. There are threats from the miners, but it is not believed they will be so foolhardy as to rush into the face of certain death.

Despite the assurance that the State troops are in full command at Coal Creek, the volunteers of this city are still ready to be called together at short notice.

CASHIER MURRAY'S SHORTAGE.

It is Said to be $75,000—His Whereabouts Still a Mystery.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The shortage of Cashier William M. Murray of the Goshen National Bank is placed at $75,000. Notices have been sent out by the reorganized bank of an assessment of 45 per cent., payable Nov. 1.

The deficit in capital is placed at $49,500, and with a loss of $20,000 of surplus, the total loss is figured at $75,000. The assessment is not relished by the stockholders.

Although a committee of the Board of Supervisors has had the examination of the county funds in hand for weeks they have not yet told the taxpayers of the county whether Murray, who was County Treasurer also, is a defaulter or not to that fund, and there is a great clamor to know.

Murray was one of Goshen's Four Hundred, and his fall was felt by nearly all the old aristocratic families there. He is still missing and his whereabouts is kept from the public.

SISTARE WAS NOT INSANE.

It is Now Believed That Penury Drove the Broker to Suicide.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—It is now generally believed that George K. Sistare, who committed suicide by shooting himself in the reception room of the Manhattan Club July 28, was not insane, but was driven to desperation by penury and disappointment.

At the time of his death Mr. Sistare had less than five cents in his pocket, and from letters now in the hands of Public Administrator Lydecker it is known that he went to the club to meet Lawyer H. S. Bennett of No. 45 Broadway, who was custodian of $16,750, in which Mr. Sistare had a half interest. It is believed that on Mr. Bennett's refusal to pay him what was due he became desperate and shot himself. At present Mr. Bennett is out of the city.

Another of the Bodies Recovered.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 22.—The body of Furman Mannery, who was drowned Saturday morning in company with Daniel Parker and Charles Seaman, while out fishing, was found out at sea last evening by the naptha launch plying between Brigantine and Atlantic City. It was brought in and taken to his home. The body of Parker is the only one not recovered, Seaman's body being brought in Saturday night.

Philadelphia's Water Supply Short.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The water supply of the city is again running short and unless there is a rain soon a water famine is inevitable. Already Germantown and other suburbs are feeling the effects of the shortage and the people are complaining. In the lower part of Germantown, where it comes by gravity, the water will not run out of the faucets in the second story and even in the lower story it runs feebly.

PROVES TO BE MURDER

Veteran Loveman Was Killed for His Money.

HIS FRIENDS THOUGHT IT SUICIDE.

Investigation By the Coroner Reveals Bullet and Stab Wounds on the Body—He Had Just Received a Large Sum of Pension Money.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 22.—William Loveman, an old soldier, who was found dead in his home at Cranberry Park, Burlington county, on Friday, was supposed to have committed suicide, and the police made no investigation and simply notified the coroner. As a consequence the latter did not go at once to the scene, and the matter remained uninvestigated.

Yesterday afternoon Coroner De Worth drove to the house, impaneled a jury and proceeded to make a formal post-mortem examination. He was startled by the result. Loveman had been shot and stabbed in several places. The shots had entered his abdomen. On his breast was a deep stab wound. There were two stab wounds in the neck and one in the back of the head.

The coroner after finishing the post-mortem adjourned the inquest until to-day at Cookstown, when a rigid investigation will be made.

Loveman was a veteran of the late war and for some years he had been in receipt of a pension. He took advantage of the recent acts of Congress and applied for a back pension. Some weeks ago his application was favorably reported upon and a large sum of money was paid him. A search of the house fails to reveal any trace of this money, and it is thought by some that Loveman was murdered for it.

It is not known that he deposited it in any bank and he is supposed to have kept it about him as a means of greater security.

Cranberry Park is a small place, and Loveland's house was situated some distance from the village. Although everyone in the village believes the old man was murdered and is ready to assign a cause for the crime, no one has been able to advance any clew to the perpetrators.

THE BORDEN MURDERS.

Sentiment in Favor of the Police—The Examination Begins To-Day.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 22.—The authorities are now awaiting with much interest the return of George W. Hathaway from his trip on the cape, for a verification of the story he told at Craigville, that Lizzie Borden had said she wished that her father was dead.

The sentiment in the city, which early in the week was on the side of the defendant, has, during the past few days, rapidly drifted to the support of the police officials. Lizzie's supporters are not doing much talking of late, but are working under cover and in conjunction with Attorney Jennings, in building up a defence. Part of the government's case will go in at the examination to-day, but the best part of it will probably not.

The defence will not produce any evidence, but depend upon an argument that the government's case does not warrant the holding for the grand jury.

Emma Borden and J. O. Morse are now making preparations to leave the old house on Second street where the murder was committed, and will move to a much more modern house on June street. It is pleasantly situated on a hill above the main streets, and is much more congenial than the Second street house. The old house will be offered for rental, and, if not capable of being let, eventually will be torn down.

About 35 witnesses have been summoned for the examination. District-Attorney Knowlton will conduct the case for the State and Andrew J. Jennings will defend the prisoner. The defense has secured the services of Melvin O. Adams, the well-known Boston criminal lawyer to assist Mr. Jennings.

CHOLERA DECREASING.

A Better Condition of Affairs Reported In the Infected Districts.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 22.—The official cholera report issued to-day shows a better general condition of affairs in the cholera infected districts. According to the report there were 6,908 new cases of the disease yesterday throughout the country and 2,376 deaths. That is a decrease of 974 new cases and 1,106 deaths, as compared with the figures for Friday. It also shows a large decrease in the proportion of deaths to cases.

The Governor of Nijni Novgorod has caused 150 strokes with a rod to be administered to a hospital attendant who had spread false reports about the cholera. In addition to this punishment the attendant, together with six other persons who had also spread false reports concerning the disease, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

The Governor announces that similar action will be taken in all cases where false reports are circulated for the purpose of frightening the people. The disease continues to abate at Nijni Novgorod and many strangers are now in attendance upon the fair.

Travelers report that cholera has been imported into Siberia by batches of convicts. No sanitary precautions are taken in the cases of convicts. No examination is made of them, and if they are suffering with the disease or carry the contagion with them, no attention is given. They are not even isolated.

The President's Movements.

LOON LAKE HOUSE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Although Saturday was the fifty-ninth anniversary of the birth of President Harrison, the fact was kept rather quiet, or at least not much was said about it until evening. Then the President attended a sleight-of-hand performance. The President will go to Malone and make a brief address to the citizens there about the latter part of this week. He will probably arrive there about Thursday.

The Writ of Mandamus Denied.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 22.—At the special term of the Supreme Court, Justice Williams denied the motion of the Hon. H. J. Cookingham for a writ of peremptory mandamus to compel the Oneida County Board of Supervisors to re-district the county according to an enactment of the last Legislature. The defendants were allowed $10 costs.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

EUROPE'S HOT WAVE.

Hundreds of Prostrations and Many Deaths Reported.

LONDON, Aug 22.—Many deaths from the heat are reported from all parts of Germany. Marching in from parade ground a regiment stationed in Halle lost 41 of its privates who fell in the road, overcome with the heat. One of them died, and three others are in a critical condition.

In Posen there have been six deaths by sunstrokes. In Carlsruhe six grenadiers died after review this morning.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—After drill at Tours 191 soldiers were stricken down by the heat while they were marching back to the city. Several of them probably will die. Sunstrokes have been frequent throughout the city and the hospital is crowded.

VIENNA, Aug. 22.—There is no abatement whatever in the terrible heat that has prevailed here for some time. All day Sunday the sun was as fierce as ever, and the suffering entailed is dreadful, the long continued heat having a most serious effect upon persons who are confined to their beds by sickness.

During the morning several deaths from sunstroke occurred, and it is a common sight on the streets to see people swoon. The city is practially taking a holiday. No one ventures out unless compelled by absolute necessity, and then they move along in a most listless manner. Unless a change for the better sets in soon the death rate will be enormously increased.

WAS IT MURDER?

Believed that Alonzo Best, of Clermont, N.Y., Killed His Wife.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The village of Clermont, Columbia county, has a mystery to solve. On Thursday morning, Aug. 11, a woman named Mrs. Decker, found her neighbor, Mrs. Alonzo Best, in an unconscious condition. Her body was covered with bruises and there were finger marks on her throat.

Dr. Barton, of Tivoli, was called, and he afterward called in Dr. Platner, of Germantown. The woman lingered until the following Saturday, when she died, without recovering consciousness. Her body bore unmistakable signs of a brutal kicking.

On Aug. 14 the remains were buried and on Aug. 15 Alonzo Best, the husband, disappeared and has not been seen in that vicinity since. He has left his four children.

Feeling is running high in the village, and it is claimed that Best is hiding in the woods. It is said that he was almost jovial at the grave. The couple had quarrelled frequently.

Coroner Sheldon, of Hudson, will hold an inquest to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Navy Department has received a telegram announcing the arrival of the U. S. Steamer Baltimore at San Francisco. The cruisers Concord and Philadelphia have been ordered from Bar Harbor, Me., to Gloucester, Mass., to take part in the 250th celebration of the founding of that city which occurs on the 24th inst.

A Well-Known Nyack Man Missing.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 22.—George C. Babcock, a well-known insurance agent of this place, has disappeared; a warrant is out for his arrest. It is alleged that he appropriated to his own use moneys belonging to several insurance companies.

Will Not Complete the Tunnel.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—In consequence of the fall of silver the Saxon Government has decided not to complete its work on the Rothschoenberger Stollen, the largest tunnel in the world. The main tunnel is of the same length as the St. Gothard. Its branches, however, add 21 miles to its length, making the total extent almost 30 miles. The tunnel was begun at State expense in 1844, and after 33 years of continuous work it was opened in April, 1877.

Drowned at Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 22.—One of the saddest drowning accidents that has occurred along this section of the coast was witnessed by hundreds of cottagers and hotel guests here shortly after noon. The victim was Frank McKenna, of this place. Frank had gone in bathing at the Atlantic Hotel Grounds, and when only 50 feet out from the beach was caught in a "sea-puss" and drowned.

—"Talk about the deadly trolley!"—says Count Leidy, the Crescent League centre fielder—"it is n't in it with the deadly bicycle". George tried to mount a 52-inch wheel, Friday afternoon, and it first threw him on his head and then ran a handle-bar up his ribs.

—Lawrence Reedy of West Dunellen was driving a spirited team on Plainfield avenue this morning when the animals took fright at the swings in operation between Fourth and Fifth streets and ran away. A wheel of the wagon was broken, and Reedy was thrown out and his shoulder badly hurt.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Charles B. Brown is home again from Wanamassa Camp.

Mrs. Wm. B. Ostrom has returned from a five weeks' visit to Detroit.

Garret Q Packer and family returned Saturday from Southold, L. I.

Miss Bella Booth, of Newburgh, N. Y., is visiting friends and relatives on West Second street.

C. L. McBride, assistant manager at Reynolds's pharmacy, and a member of the G. O. P., has returned from a visit to Kingston, N. Y.

The Misses Nellie McCann, May Flanagan, Fannie Rafferty, Mamie Rafferty, Ella Mullen and Katie Mullen are enjoying life at the Grand Central, Asbury Park.

The wife and daughter of borough magistrate T. R. Crosley left to-day for Mt. Tabor, Morris county, to enjoy the camp-meeting now being held at that place.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. John C. Crater will be held at her late residence, 37 Franklin street, Newark, to-morrow evening at 7:30. The interment will be at Hillside Wednesday morning.

Albert Jaeger, the hustling and obliging tonsorial artist, who lives on South Second street, displays a broad smile over the advent of a nine-pound boy, who came to town last Friday. Mother and child are doing well.

The engagement is announced of S. J. Moore of Poughkeepsie and Miss Mamie E. Bradshaw of West Fifth street, a charming young niece of chief engineer T. O. Doane. The groom is building a home for his affianced, at Poughkeepsie. He is one of Poughkeepsie's most honored and honorable business men, and THE PRESS congratulates him on his choice of a wife.

Miss Louise, daughter of J. W. Jones of Cranford, celebrated her tenth birthday Friday afternoon. Amusing games were played on the lawn from 3 to 5, when the bell announced that the refreshments were ready. The bell only rang once, for the little tots had a good appetite. During the day Miss Louise received many pretty presents from her young friends. Among those present were Mr. Downer and son of Fanwood, and Misses Edith DeLong and Ethel DeLong of Plainfield.

NO GAIN OVER SOMERVILLE.

PLAINFIELD HOLDING HER OWN ON THE BASE-BALL HOME STRETCH.

Famous Victory by the Crescents' Tremendous Batting Aggregation—Three Pitchers Used up in the Bitter Contest—Such Hitting of the Ball Unequaled by Any Team in the League—That's the Kind Will Win the Pennant.

That great pitcher McDonald did n't show up, Saturday, and Elizabeth was forced to put Francis up against Plainfield for another slaughtering. The game was made interesting by Elizabeth in the second inning, when by two bases on balls, a single hit, and a two-bagger, the Young Men scored three runs. In the fourth inning they hit the ball judiciously and earned another run. By this time the game was positively exciting. Much to everybody's surprise, the Crescents had not been touching Francis's curves. Indeed, thus far Murphy was the only player credited with a hit. But the Crescents' followers were confident that Plainfield's heavy batsmen would yet fall upon Francis and slug him unmercifully. That confidence was not misplaced. In the ending of the fourth inning the Crescents began to hammer the ball. Leidy, Bonner and Sneeden each got a dandy single, and Jones won sweet smiles from the grand-stand's fairest maidens by a smashing three-bagger. Three runs thus came in, two of them earned; and there would have been four if Leidy had not been caught napping off third. Had he bided his time, Jones's hit would have brought him in. Elizabeth saw right there that defeat was inevitable. Sneeden had been a little wild, but he had great speed, and settled down to a hard and steady game. The Young Men never got but one man to first base after the fourth inning, and he was left there. In the other innings they went out in one-two-three order. As for Plainfield, she gave a most tremendous batting exhibition in the fifth inning, gaining an overwhelming lead, and then rested on her laurels, content with gaining nothing more so long as the Young Men had no show to catch up. That great fifth inning was a veritable assassination of good pitching. Francis tried all his arts, but after he had been hammered all over the lot and three runs had come in, with no one out, he begged and pleaded of captain Bowes to be excused. Who to put in his place was the puzzle. Finally C. Jones was summoned to the box, Bowes took his place at centre, and Francis went to first. The Crescents kept up their batting streak, however, and hit the new man hard. If Murphy's long fly to left had n't been captured, the runs would still be coming in. Jones only lasted the fifth inning out, and Beck tried his hand for the remaining three innings. He was freely hit, but not safely.

NOTES.

Leidy and Daley played their customary earnest game.

They say Elizabeth could n't raise McDonald's price.

Bonner did n't have much opportunity to distinguish himself.

Hofford was the same patient, faithful "old reliable" as ever.

Murphy made a good running catch of a difficult fly to far left.

Sneeden not only pitched well, but his fielding of his position was superb.

No matter what the luck, Rafferty always smiles. He's one of the best-natured men in the world.

Dillon's running catch of Leidy's long foul fly was a beauty, and one of the seeming impossibilities of base-ball.

Jones once more proved himself fully as good a hard hitter as he is a bunter, and he fielded his position in his usual good style.

Turner had hard luck at second. His error was almost pardonable, being made on a play that would have fooled many a clever player.

Francis is a nice fellow, but he's no match for the Crescent batsmen. It was a shame to sacrifice so good-hearted a chap in a useless fight.

Brady's steal of second was one of the most daring ever seen on the diamond. He had third cleverly stolen also, but had to go back because Murphy made a foul hit when he was almost there.

Umpire Sullivan suited all. He has a good eye, and is always careful to get in position in the field where he can see an expected play so as to be able to decide satisfactorily and justly a close point.

Brady put up a superb fielding game. He made an elegant catch of a fly in the seventh that looked like a sure hit, and directly afterwards he fielded Bowes out at first on the narrowest possible margin when everyone thought sure the runner would be safe.

A GENUINE LOVE MATCH.

Two Fond Young Hearts Wedded That Could Not Brook Delay.

The many friends of Miss Philopena Blimm, better known as Bessie, daughter of Jacob Blimm of the Farmers' Hotel, will be surprised to learn of her marriage. The happy young man is George Strayer of Williamsport, Pa., who for some time has been a machinist at Pond's.

Miss Blimm accompanied Strayer to the Venetian carnival at Cranford, the evening of August 6, and that night they were quietly married. The girl did not disclose the fact to her parents, and the groom contented himself with occasional visits to the house. But last Saturday they left town, ostensibly to visit Eldorado, and took up their new residence in Brooklyn. Bessie sent an affectionate letter home to her mother, informing her of the marriage. She said she was very happy, and urged her parents to visit them at their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Blimm are naturally grieved at their daughter's taking such an important step without consulting them, and regret that Bessie did not wait till she was older. She is but a little over 16. But Bessie is such a good and lovable girl, and George is such an industrious and deserving young man, that reconciliation is sure to come speedily.

Resolutions to Past Commander Titsworth.

At the last encampment of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., held August 18, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The hand of death has removed from our midst our well-beloved Past Commander, Abel Shepard Titsworth, and

WHEREAS, The record of his life among us and the worthiness of his comradeship having been such as to invite more than a passing recognition from this post, therefore be it

Resolved, That by the testimony of the relationship which has enabled us to know our deceased comrade as intimately as man can be known of men, we give unanimous tribute to his nobility of purpose, his fearless patriotism, his business probity, his kindness of heart, his steadfastness in the ways of duty and friendship, and his possession of that genial manly nature which made the lives of all about him the better for his having lived; and be it also

Resolved, That the members of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, Department of New Jersey, Grand Army of the Republic, tender their profound sympathy to the family of the deceased in their great affliction, and it is hereby ordered that they be furnished with a copy of these resolutions, and the same be transcribed on the minute book of this post, and be printed in the daily papers of this city.

Called back to health—every tired, ailing nervous woman. The medicine to bring her back is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's weak, run-down, and over-worked, that builds her up; if she suffers from any of the distressing derangements and diseases that afflict her sex, it corrects and cures.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and the only guaranteed remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

All "female complaints" and weaknesses are positively and permanently cured with the "Favorite Prescription." It's the only medicine for them that can be, and is, guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council have fixed the 31st day of August, A. D., 1892, at 8 o'clock p. m., and the Common Council chamber in the city of Plainfield as the time and place for William C. Ayers, Edward C. Mulford and Jeremiah Manning, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council, pursuant to an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Peace street", approved February 8, 1892, to meet. The street proposed to be widened and laid out is Peace street from the Central Railroad of N. J. to the southeasterly side of Front street. The alterations proposed to be made are to widen said Peace street so that the same shall be of the uniform width of thirty feet on each side of the centre lines thereof, which centre line is described in said ordinance and shown on map on file in the City Clerk's office entitled "Map showing proposed widening and extension of Peace street from the Central R. R. of N. J. to Green Brook, city of Plainfield, N. J., July, 1891".

The lands and real estate intended to be taken for such purposes are all that come within thirty feet of either side of said centre line between said railroad and the southeasterly side of Front street as shown by said map, and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for more detailed description.

By order of the Common Council.

EASY PREY FOR PLAINFIELD.

WESTFIELD IS BROKEN IN SPIRIT AND CANNOT WIN.

She Easily Goes Under in the Final Game with Somerville, and is Doomed for Last Place—Yellow Playing by Ripley Hill—Only Four of the Men Played Any Kind of a Decent Game.

During the first part of the season, when the Westfield contingent showed up in such superb form, the residents of that plank-walk village coined a new slang phrase, which they used in deriding a visiting team that was suffering defeat. The phrase consisted of one word "Easy", with a decided accent on the first syllable. The Westfielders did not have a chance to use this expression very often during the League season, but when they did they made up for lost opportunities. Last Saturday only one man was heard to use it, and he said "How easy it is to stay in last place!"

Westfield is certainly in the dumps. There is no chance now for manager Coding's team to get a better place than third, and that only by defeating Plainfield while Somerville is throwing Elizabeth down. This is scarcely to be expected if the players put up the listless, don't-care-whether-we-win-or-not game they did last Saturday.

Plainfield has taken six straight from Elizabeth and will undoubtedly take five of the six from Westfield. Oh, what a fall for the pride of the Drakesvillians. Those beautiful new uniforms, those rich spotless sweaters: What good are they now! Far better are the tattered and torn raiment of the West End sluggers. Black patches in cream colored suits don't look very stylish, but when the aforesaid vari-colored uniforms cover the genuine old stuff, what's the dif ?

There were probably one hundred people present within the enclosure on Saturday to see the last meeting between the Westfielders and hope-to-be pennant-winners, at least sixty of these being the farmers who manage to eke out an existence on Somerset county soil. A crowd of urchins who were perched upon the fence near the free seats made all the noise for Westfield and had lots of fun with Carbonell while he was on the coaching lines. Carby has suffered the taunts of many a ferocious base-ball mob, but it remained for the little boys to apply a name that was in no wise fitting. They called him "flower pot"—just why no one can guess, because Carby looks nothing like one of those useful articles.

By the summary one can see that manager Coding changed things around considerably during the game in the hope that it might avail something. Mr. Hopkins did the best he knew how in deciding who was who, but the whole game was a trial to him. Jocko Fields will call to the batter and runner from the bench, which fact called down the mighty wrath of umpire Hopkins in the terse words "Come, Fields, play the game!" Jocko did play just enough to tickle his constituents but not the other fellows.

When the bell rang announcing play, for some insane reason manager Coding made his men bat first. Somerville speedily got a big lead, and Sharrott was put in the box. Then the hopes of the Westfielders rose a notch. But even Sharrott could n't turn the tide. It was the writer's pleasure once to see a game between two teams composed of one-legged and one-armed old vets, but it was not a circumstance compared to the fumbling, yellow, disinterested game the Westfielders put up Saturday. They must do better than that against Plainfield, or the fair fame of Westfield will be forever overthrown. If Plainfield wins five of the six games from Westfield—as she must—the game will be forever dead in Ripleyville. The score:

NOTES.

Carby and Anderson are the lucky hitters of the West End team.

The whole Westfield game was played by the four men who head the batting list.

Manager Coding was disgusted, and would not make up the score after the game.

Even Farrell got a hit. He doesn't make them often, but when he does they always count in the game.

The whole secret of Westfield's bad luck is that they do n't hit the ball when it is needed; they do n't bunch their hits.

John Harkins seems to have recovered his old-time "clear optic". Three base-hits, two sacrifice hits, and eight put-outs, is not a bad showing for the old man.

Johnny O'Neil can play at third, but like the general run of marriages he is a failure at short. Sharrott saw that after the second inning and changed places with him.

Even the Westfield people who early in the year bought season tickets could not be induced to come to the game. They will not support a losing team even by attending.

HELLO!

Here's a Chap Dares Intimate that Dr. Ripley Does n't Deserve His Honors.

(Westfield Correspondence.)

The Misses Butler, of New York, are visiting Mrs. G. W. Cross.

John F. Dorvall and A. S. Clark will leave September 4, for a ride awheel to Montreal, Canada.

The Standard makes a strong plea for a Y. M. C. A. in Westfield. Editor Peasall is on the right side of this question.

E. R. Collins has taken the Union Water company under his protection. Judge Collins's innate sense of justice would not allow him to stand idly by and see a corporation ill-treated by the people.

Westfield has two brass bands. The Westfield band is an excellent one, but many think that the Union County band is better still.

The new club-house of the Westfield Athletic club is fast nearing completion. The building will contain, among other desirable features, an audience room seating five hundred.

The Leader in its last issue grows facetious, calling the PRESS corespondent "dear boy"; and asks, "If we must have a pet name, where is there a better than Ripley's Corners ?" Does the Leader intend this for a poser, or is really seeking information ? In either case the question is an amusing one, because almost any other name would snow "Ripley's Corners" under at the polls; and then editor McBride, of the Elizabeth Journal, ex-senator Miller and others of Union county's brainy men, would smile broadly, even as they are now compelled to smile at the nonsense thot is being printed about Dr. Ripley's being "our good roads pioneer".

Plainfield's Two Republican Leaders at Odds.

(From The New York Journalist.)

Bitter warfare is now being waged between the Plainfield News and the Plainfield Courier. Editor Runyon, of the Courier, has been made city clerk, and seems to have been getting all of the plums from the local Republicans, whose organ the Courier has become. The News is the discarded organ, and jealously accuses city clerk Runyon of being incompetent and discourteous, and of suppressing official news from the other papers so as to enable the Courier to score beats. The editorial contest is fast developing into a factional fight among the followers of the two journalists, and the local Republican bosses fear that the disruption will affect their party's vote at the polls in the fall.

A Leal Graduate an Honor Man at Harvard.

(Westfield Standard.)

The name of Samuel Prescott Hall, grandson of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, appears on the second year honor-list of Harvard university, which has just been published. Mr. Hall is one of the strongest men in his class, but has been an "honor man" throughout his college course. Mr. Hall is the son of David P. Hall, of Scotch Plains. He laid the foundation of his education at the public school there, but prepared for college under John Leal, in Plainfield. His mother, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, is spending the summer at Mrs. Howe's place, "Oak Glen", near Newport, Rhode Island.

Warrenville Warblings.

Prof. G. E. Whitten and family move to Glen Gardner to-morrow.

Miss Emma Hopper and her sister Mrs. Charles Wahl and son Bennie, of Long Island City, have returned home after a visit of two weeks at Prof. G. E. Whitten's.

Mr. and Mrs. W. VanLinda, of Hackensack, have returned home after a week's visit at Prof. G. E. Whitten's.

The net proceeds of the festival held at the Warren Congregational church were $35. The festival was a success. Miss Florence Riley, the young elocutionist, favored the audience with a few selections.

Brother Will. Grass widows are at a discount here.

BEN BOLT.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

The Good Example of Plainfield Grocers.

(Dunellen Weekly Call.)

The grocers seem to have taken the lead in celebrating Labor Day. In Plainfield, particularly, they all join hands in closing their stores on that day, without exception, and go down to Boynton's Beach, where they prepare a clam-bake, unequalled anywhere in the State. The CALL representative saw George Rockfellow, of Plainfield, last Saturday, and he said the grocers and their clerks needed a day's rest and thought it a good idea to close every store on that day. This would be a good plan for the Dunellen men to work upon. If one closes, why not all close? People can buy what supplies they need the Saturday before and if they know all stores will positively close they will make preparation by making their purchases before hand. Our Dunellen and New Market store-keepers and clerks get very few days to themselves and certainly deserve a day now and then for recreation. Let some good merchant start the ball a-rolling and see if we cannot all go with our Plainfield friends and have a good day's sport. New Market merchants should join with us.

Good Work at the Army.

To-night at 8, in the Salvation Army Hall, staff-capt. Blanche B. Cox, late of India and England, will lecture on "The Slum and Shelter Work of the Salvation Army", in connection with General Booth's "Social Scheme" in general, and its success in the United States in particular. Admission will be but 10 cents. This is the last night.

Miss Cox led the meetings yesterday which were good and well attended, especially last night, and ten seekers came forward.

Death of H. E. Beguelin.

Henry E. Beguelin, of 44 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, and brother of ex-councilman Tell A. Beguelin, of Plainfield, died Saturday at the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga, whither he had gone for his health. He was suffering from gout and heart trouble. Mr. Beguelin was born at Chateau de Fonds, Switzerland, and came to this country in 1864. His father was a watchmaker, and he was in the employ of an uncle for five years and then established a partnership with Alfred F. Cross in the watchmaking business, at 17 Maiden Lane, New York, where he was in business until his death. He belonged to the Montauk and Riding and Driving clubs. A wife and one son survive him. The funeral will be held on Tuesday. The deceased was one of the leading importers of Swiss matches in America.

Plainfield's Election Board.

The County Board of Registration today appointed the following Democrats to serve on the Plainfield election board this fall:

First ward—L. F. Wadsworth, J. J. Kenney.
Second ward—Louis H. Brown, Bert Stover.
Third ward—F. M. Bacon, Wm. Wright.
Fourth ward, first district—V. L. Frazee, M. R. Flynn.
Fourth ward, second district—Jacob Kriney, T. A. McCarthy.

Does n't Like the Fence and Tunnel.

Before Acting the President Carefully Considered.

MANY BUSINESS MEN CONSULTED.

Canadian Officials Discourteous to the British Legation at Washington—Canadians Amazed at the Retaliation Proclamation—Its Terms.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Included in the aftermath of the Canadian retaliation proclamation is a statement that this course has been under careful advisement since before the adjournment of Congress. After the act of July 26, authorizing retaliation, had gone through both houses without opposition it was stated that the members of the Foreign Affairs Committees who reported the bill had done so at the personal request of the President.

The information is now given out that the precise shape which retaliation should take, so as to produce the most telling effect on Canadian commerce, and precipitate a solution of the difficulty was arrived at after repeated consultations with leading business men on our Canadian frontier, who were called into consultation by the State Department, from Northern New York and other parts of the country, so quietly that the fact of their presence here on this business is only now made known after their departure and the completion of the act.

It is said in administration circles that the ground was so carefully gone over beforehand that Canada is not left a leg to stand on, and must give in to the American demands and immediately revoke the Order in Council of April 4 last authorizing the discriminating rebate of 18 cents a ton on grain products shipped to Canadian ports and refused to all American merchandise.

Equality of tolls in the Welland Canal was one of the distinct pledges made by Article 27 of the Treaty of Washington of 1871, under which treaty Canada has profited so largely.

Another fact much commented on here is the humiliating position in which Governor-General Lord Stanley and the Canadian Ministers have placed the British Legation in Washington. Mr. Herbert, the British Charge d'Affaires, twice asked of the United States Government an extension of time, stating that he did so at the request of the Canadian authorities, and, on the last occasion, Aug. 6, holding out, on the same authority, a promise of some satisfactory action.

Yet the first news of the decision of the Canadian Government to continue the obnoxious rebate until the end of the navigation season, that is, until a period when retaliation would be harmless, came to the State Department, not from the British Legation, which had been led to promise early and satisfactory information, but from the United States Consul-General in Ottawa.

The proclamation recites the act of Congress providing for retaliatory measures and says:

"Whereas, The Government of the Dominion of Canada imposes a toll amounting to about 20 cents per ton on all freight passing through the Welland, and also a further toll on all vessels of the United States and, all passengers in transit to a port of the United States, all of which tolls are without rebate, and

"Whereas, The Government of the Dominion of Canada, in accordance with an order in council of April 4, 1892, refunds 18 cents per ton, or the 20 cent toll at the Welland Canal, on wheat, Indian corn, peas, barley, rye, oats, flaxseed and buckwheat, upon condition that they are originally shipped for and carried to Montreal or some port east of Montreal for export, and that, if transhipped at an intermediate point, such transhipment is made within the Dominion of Canada, but allows no such nor any other rebate on said products when shipped to a port of the United States, or when carried to Montreal for export if transhipped within the United States, and

"Whereas, The Government of the Dominion of Canada by said system of rebate and otherwise discriminates against the citizens of the United States in the use of said Welland canal in violation of the provisions of article 27 of the treaty of Washington concluded May 8, 1871; and,

"Whereas, said Welland canal is connected with the navigation of the Great Lakes, and I am satisfied that the passage through it of cargoes in transit to ports of the United States is made difficult and burdensome by said discriminating system of rebate and otherwise, and is reciprocally unjust and unreasonable,

"Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the power to that end conferred upon me by said act of Congress, approved July 26, 1892, do hereby direct that from and after September 1, 1892, until further notice, a toll of 20 cents per ton be levied, collected and paid on all freight of whatever kind or description passing through the St. Mary's Falls Canal in transit to any port of the Dominion of Canada, whether carried in vessels of the United States or of other nations; and to that extent I do hereby suspend from and after said date the right of free passage through St. Mary's Falls Canal of any and all cargoes or portions of cargo in transit to Canadian ports."

The Canadians Stunned.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 22.—The news of President Harrison's proclamation enforcing discrimination against Canadian vessels at St. Mary's Falls Canal causes the greatest surprise and indignation in official circles. All the Cabinet Ministers except two are away from the capital, and the Premier, Sir John Abbott, was to have started to-day on a yachting tour to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. A Cabinet council will be held at the earliest possible moment.

Fatally Shot By a Brother.

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 22.—Frenzied with liquor, William and Joseph Dunbar, brothers, quarreled at their home on Tenth street. Joseph fired three shots at his brother, one of the bullets taking effect in the left thigh, another penetrating the left cheek. The victim was sent to the hospital and will die. The shooter was arrested.

Gov. McKinley in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Hon. William McKinley, Ohio's Governor, arrived here last evening and registered at the Windsor Hotel. Gov. McKinley when seen did not care to talk, and is evidently saving what he might say until he takes the stump in Maine during the present week.

Caution.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quickly it helped me. Mrs. George S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

DEAR MADAME: BALTIMORE, OCT. 30, 1890.

Having seen your advertisement in Tuesday's paper, I have concluded to send for your book (entitled "Guide to Health and Etiquette"); inclosed find two 2-cent stamps. I have used your vegetable compound, and without mistake I believe it to be the best medicine ever used. I was prostrate, one bottle brought me out of bed, and three got me up so that I could do the housework. May you be as successful in the future as you have been in the past, for everybody gives praise to your medicine. Yours truly,

THOUSANDS OF LIGHTS.

Story of a Visit to a Modern Electric Plant.

How Great Buildings Are Illuminated—Machinery Employed in the Manufacture of Incandescent Lights—A Talented Young Electrician.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

Night, gloomy and foggy, is pressing its black bulk closer and closer to the window panes and gray walls of the Auditorium, whose windows, like hundreds of glaring eyes, seem trying to pierce through the folds of fog to look out over the lake.

Inside, however, the light of those piercing eyes melts into a genial glow, as does the hard, keen glance of a brisk business man under the relaxing influences of love.

While all these fair women and brave men are feasting, drinking and dancing in the grand halls in the full glare of the thousand lights twinkling like stars in a firmament, down the long corridors—an electric, milky way—we will descend and try to discover the modus operandi of producing these mock "forget-me-nots of the angels."

One finds in the electric-lighting of a large building a curious carrying-out of the plot of the old fairy tale in which the wonderful palace was illuminated from dome to basement by the instantaneous action of the eyes of the great dragon whose abode was deep under ground, and who was fed and watched over by a swarm of brownies.

But here we discover the dragon to be quadrupled and the little men attained to stalwart proportions. The brownie-in-chief, who harnesses the fire of the dragon's eyes, is a comely youth of some 23 years and who, by the way, is the youngest in brownie-dom to have attained the position of head electrician in so large a place as the Chicago Auditorium, the electric machinery of which is the largest isolated plant in the world. The plant has now a capacity of 11,000 lights, and when the new plant now being projected is completed it will have a load of 50,000 lights in tow.

This young electrician, William J. McGaw, is, beside the consideration of his youth, quite worthy of notice. He acquired, without assistance or tutor other than those of experience, a bright mind and a knack of "catching on," his large knowledge of his profession.

Beginning seven years ago when but a lad to work for an electric company at laying wires, he has since worked up to his present position.

He has on several occasions proven himself master of his iron dragon. Now and then the dragon having "too heavy a load on," in electrical parlance, proceeds to retaliate by taking fire, but is always reduced to subjugation by its young master.

Not long ago, when a brilliant wedding-banquet was in progress, the lights throughout the whole house were suddenly extinguished and total darkness reigned. When a few moments later the light was restored, the guests went on with their revelry little knowing of a piece of heroism that had been enacted beneath their feet.

The small metal strip called the return-pressure strip, which we shall shortly see, had melted in one place, and before it could be replaced seven others had followed.

Young McGaw, at imminent risk of receiving a death shock, or at least of a terrible scorching, through the metals melting in his hand, replaced the whole number in rapid succession, and order was restored among the panic-stricken workmen below and the dismayed guests above.

As we step from the elevator, which, by the way, is a strictly private one for the exclusive use of the several hundred employes in the building, a busy hum and whir greets our ears, as though all beedom had rendezvoused there and were holding an animated convention.

Here we are first shown the five large engines. There are four dynamos each of 1,200 lights' capacity and one with 500 lights at its command.

The 18 motors for driving hot and cold air are in action, although as a rule only a part of the machinery is in use at one time and the remainder is held in reserve in case of any accident, they being so switched in together that one machine may be brought into immediate requisition as substitute for another which has been disabled. The machines have an aggregation of 1,800 horse power. The leather link belt transmission is used, and the giant wheels make 280 revolutions per minute.

"The system is the Edison 2-wire system of incandescent lighting," our guide informs us, "and the arc lights are also run off the incandescent circuit."

Next we pass on to the switch-board, which, to the uninitiated, looks like a board partition wall covered over with a mixture of insulated wires, boxes, copper strips and instruments that look like clocks blessed with but a single hand each. These are the Ampere meters which register the amount of current and number of lights to each machine.

Underneath these a series of boxes is suspended against the wall each one covered with a wire screen at the top and provided with a crank on the front. These are termed the resisting boxes and from them the current is conveyed by copper strips connecting each one to the distributing-board, on the wall at right angles with the switch-board.

These boxes are all numbered, so that No. 1 is the property of the small 500 light machine, No. 2 of the next, a 1,200 light machine, and so on. The switch-board is wired for the motor circuit also, so there are double switches.

Now our attention is called to the various wonders of the distributing-board, which marvelous conglomeration of meters, indicators and other apparatus make us wonder dimly if sage old Benjamin Franklin, when he harnessed the lightning, divined to what precise point of intricate heterogeny his own simple harness would evolute.

First, the awe-stricken gaze is directed to the galvanometer which is used in switching in the machines.

Next, we are informed that the brilliancy of the light must have a unit of capacity; this is the volt, and the voltmeter therefore indicates to what precise point of brilliancy the lights have arrived.

THE SWITCH BOARD.

Here, too, to our perplexed "noggin" is presented the problem of the "Riser," an apparatus whose duty seems to be that of taking the current to the center of distribution.

Each "Riser" has so many lights on, and from them the current is carried to the "safety-cut-out board," before going to the center of distribution on the fifth floor where it is all equalized and thus a uniformity of current in pressure and brilliancy is produced throughout the whole building.

Before going to view the "safety-plug cut-out board," over on the other side of the engine room, we are shown the load record, a big book wherein is registered every half hour the size of the load on—that is how many amperes were indicated at that particular hour, how many volts, and so on. This duty devolves upon the electrician or one of his four assistants.

Now we investigate the safety cut-out board, which is opened to our view by the sliding back of a small door in the wall, showing a space about three feet long by two in width, like a small cupboard, and here the glass plugs are inserted. If one of these be pulled out, as our guide explained, a flash of red leaps luminously through the glass, and the result, we are informed, is that the occupants of the particular room which that wire lights will be left in Egyptian darkness.

From here the current goes to the center of distribution on the fifth floor, to which lair we will presently track it. We have seen but half of the plant, the other belonging to the Wabash avenue side.

We are told that the huge machines are self-oiling, and that the oil receptacles are replenished only fortnightly. We are also shown a small but important factor in electric lighting, before overlooked, namely a "return pressure strip," an insignificant looking bit of metal, which bends like rubber between the thumb and finger, but which inserted in its place on the distributing board in case of any accident on the circuit melts, "blowing out" the light, and so saves the machine from disaster.

"The Thomson-Houston and the C-and-C motors are used," says our young conductor.

He also informs us incidentally, as we step into the elevator, that nearly 3 million gallons of water are pumped to the tower every 24 hours for elevator use alone, and that 73 gallons per minute are consumed for the house service.

At the center of distribution we are merely shown the interiors of the equalizing closets and apparatus. One of the cut-out boxes at the north end of the great parlor is so inclined to caloric that it becomes necessary to let it breathe freely by making holes along the top of the door. This one has 500 lights in its care.

In the banquet-hall there are 482 lights that look down in sparkling derision on the gay butterflies of fashion that flit in and out among the gay scenes through their short season. In one of the long dining-halls there are 350 lights.

When we go out into the night again hose keen eyes are still searching eagerly the waters of the fog-folded lake, but this time what a world of mystery and suggestion lies in their inermost depths!

GRAND MASTERS CONFER TO-DAY

They Hold in Their Hands the Fate of the Switchmen's Strike.

CHIEF SARGENT SAYS FIREMEN WILL NOT GO IN ALONE.

Western New York and Pennsylvania Switchmen Join the Other Strikers—Vice President Webb Goes Home—Several Men Wounded Early This Morning in a Fight Between Soldiers and Strikers—A General Tie-Up Not Looked For—All Depends on the Meeting To-Day.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The eleventh day of the switchmen's strike is here, and though the refusal of the Western New York and Pennsylvania men yesterday afternoon to handle freight received from the Central was emphasized by 65 men quitting work, it is not believed much increased vitality is shown by this action. True enough, the official ending may be delayed yet another 24 hours, for no one expects Grand Master Sweeney to make an official declaration of failure until after the conference of the chiefs of the leading orders, which will be held some time to-day.

A general strike of all the allied organizations of railroad employes is, therefore the one and only conundrum yet to be solved, and if a negative decision is reached, the strike of 1892 will vanish from view as a factor of interest to the general public of the country.

Even should Sargent and Sweeney act together, it is safe to assume that Chief Arthur, of the engineers, and Grand Master Clark, of the conductors, will both be against action that will involve their respective bodies in any other position than that of conservatism, for which their record is proven.

Hence, if the conference consists of five members and a majority vote is to rule, it is possible that the attitude of Grand Master S. E. Wilkinson, of the trainmen, may be the deciding factor. It is thought, however, that his natural position will be on the side of the engineers and conductors.

Beyond the daily instances of malicious annoyance, to which the men now busy moving trains have been subjected since operations were resumed under protection, the railroads are doing a fairly normal amount of traffic. At least they are doing as much as they can probably accomplish with green men.

So far all efforts to capture the train wreckers who tried to throw Erie express train No. 1 from the track eight miles east of Alden, Saturday night, and partly succeeded, have proven fruitless. Supt. Brunn has been investigating the case and to a United Press reporter early this morning, he said:

"It was a dastardly piece of work and I am sure it was the work of strikers. Who else would have any object in derailing our trains? Not tramps, surely. Not anybody not interested in seeing men beat us in a labor conflict because the stockholders of this road like to operate as they think best. I believe strikers are responsible for the work and we intend to find out.

"Four attempts were made to wreck our trains last week, and the last one, Saturday night, almost succeeded in throwing one of the fastest trains on our line over an embankment. That train was running fifty miles an hour, and to have derailed it meant a terrible loss of life. Fortunately engineer Wyman had presence of mind enough when he found his engine off the rails to apply the air brakes and thereby prevented the coaches from being overturned. It is a miracle no lives were lost.

Mr. Webb of the Central was seen at the station just as he was about to board a train for New York. He has performed his mission to Buffalo and goes away with the feeling that the strike is ended, so far as the Central is concerned at any rate.

"Everything is satisfactory with us," he said, smiling. "Our trains are running on time and no trouble is expected. As to the switchmen we have now, they are good men; many of them are experienced already. It's all right now."

"I don't think it possible that a general strike will take place," said Mr. Webb, "and that question is not worth discussing. I can't see that these kindred organizations have any grievance, at least not on our road. No, I do not think it even probable that they will strike."

"Would you meet the issue in the same way if it came as in the case of the switchmen?"

"There can be no answer to that question because I do not think a general strike will take place. All I can say now is that we are moving our freights regularly under proper protection."

In the military situation there is not likely to be any material change before to-morrow, for in spite of the talk about sending troops away, there still seems to be plenty of picket duty to be performed in protecting the supposed exposed points on the more than 500 miles of the tracks within the city limits, to say nothing of the coal trestle of the Lehigh and Lackawanna in Cheektowaga, two or three miles from the eastern limits.

The homeward move may be expected as soon as the conference on the tapis is concluded, unless it should happen that a general strike is ordered. Such a conclusion seems illogical, however, from the very character of the leaders, who are expected to consider the interests of the men. Grand Master Sweeney, of the Switchmen, will probably not order switchmen out at other points without he is sure of the support of the other organizations.

General consternation was thrown into the switchmen's camp last night by the arrest of Joseph Heimerle, the recording secretary and treasurer of Buffalo Lodge, No. 39, of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association. Heimerle is looked upon as one of the most powerful men in the organization, and so far during the strike he has acted as a leader of the men when Grand Master Sweeney and Master Morarity were busy arranging for conferences with the railroads and State Board of Arbitration and looking after the hundred odd things that demanded their attention.

He is accused by the railroads of assaulting their green hands, of threatening them with violence if they did not join forces and with interfering with passenger and freight trains. The Lehigh Valley road complained to Supt. of Police Morgenstern that Heimerle was responsible for several things, and asked for his arrest.

Grand Master Sweeney, of the Brotherhood of Firemen, talked at length to a reporter this morning. He said:

"I came here in response to a telegram from Mr. Sweeney. You ask me what the outlook is; I cannot tell you yet. I am here sooner than was expected, for I was quite ill and did not at first think I should be able to leave my bed. But I made up my mind that it was highly necessary for me to come and I started at once."

"But, Mr. Sargent, are the firemen going out? That is the question that interests Buffalonians above all other questions."

"That I cannot tell. But let me assure you that if the firemen go out, the engineers, trainmen, conductors and railroad telegraphers will go with them."

He became deeply interested and continued: "That I know. Mind you, now, I do not say that the firemen will go out, but I want you to emphasize that fact—that if the firemen go out the conductors, trainmen, engineers and telegraphers will sustain them. The public have a wrong impression in this matter, and the papers have been misleading them. The papers have been talking of the firemen as if they were going to go out as a separate body. That is not so. They will not go out alone."

"What is the specific grievance of the firemen in this city?"

"They have none that I know of. But it is now a question as to whether the railroad corporations or the different bodies of organized labor are to succeed. Suppose that the switchmen are defeated in this struggle, what then? In the future whenever the firemen, engineers or any other order of railroad employes go to their corporations with requests or grievances they will simply be ignored. It will be a sympathetic strike altogether—a struggle between the railroad corporations and organized labor. If the switchmen are defeated at this time it is a serious blow to organized labor. If they are supported and maintained by their brother organizations and carry their point it will tend to give the organizations their rights in the future. As you might say, it is purely a struggle for self-preservation."

TO PRESENT GRIEVANCES.

Report That Firemen Will Strike if Their Demands Are Refused.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 23.—There is an interesting report in circulation here to the effect that the firemen held a meeting last night and drew up a set of grievances which they will present to the railroads and that if they do not get their demands they will strike. Mr. Sargent will neither admit or deny the truth of the report.

Last night William Olivera, a striking switchman, while going through Hamburg street got into an altercation with a soldier of the 12th Regiment.

The soldier fired five shots at him, one taking effect in the neck. Olivera has an ugly bayonet wound in the head. He was taken to the emergency hospital and may die.

W. E. Robbins, supposed to be a non-union man, was knocked out on Seneca street by a blow from a blunt instrument. He is suffering from concussion of the brain and will die.

SHOOTING AT BUFFALO.

Attack on the Twelfth Regiment After Midnight—Several Injured.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 23.—An attack was made on the 12th Regiment shortly after midnight by a gang of strikers and their friends. They sneaked up to within a stone's throw of the camp, hiding under cars and behind car trucks and then threw stones and pieces of iron at the soldiers.

The soldiers answered the attack with bullets. The shooting was kept up for a long time and still the stone throwing continued. Several soldiers were wounded, and no doubt some of the strikers, as cries of pain were heard.

DESPERATE CONVICTS.

In Trying to Escape from Sing Sing One Is Killed and Another Wounded.

SING SING, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Charles F. Vincent and James Welsh, two convicts, attempted to escape from the prison soon after midnight.

The guards fired on them, killing Vincent and wounding Welsh in the left leg.

It was about midnight when the night guards discovered that all the convicts were not in their cells.

They made an investigation and discovered Vincent trying to squeeze through one of the windows. They called upon him to stop, but he continued in his effort to get through the window.

The guards fired upon him and riddled him with bullets.

Welsh was discovered sneaking through one of the corridors. The guards called upon him to halt, and he refusing was fired upon and wounded in the leg.

A GALLANT RESCUE.

How Modest Mayor Bechtel of Trenton Saved a Miss from Drowning.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 23.—One of the most gallant rescues that has occurred this season was witnessed here Saturday when Mayor Bechtel of Trenton plunged into the surf and snatched a young lady from a watery grave. A heavy surf was running and the life-savers had their hands full, when the young girl, Miss Mary Olcott of Trenton, became exhausted and called for help.

The Mayor saw the young girl's peril, and dashed in just in time to save her. The Mayor scampered away so suddenly that he was not recognized until yesterday, when the young lady called at his cottage and thanked him for saving her life.

CHOLERA IN GERMANY

It Has Obtained a Foothold in Hamburg.

DANGER FROM THE IMMIGRANTS.

Their Baggage Not Disinfected by Steamship Companies, and It is Feared the Disease Will Extend to This Country—New English Peers.

HAMBURG, Aug. 23.—There is no doubt that the cholera has found its way to this city. The police prefect officially admits the prevalence of cholerine in the suburbs Llergedorf, Wandsbeck and Altona. The fatal results leave no doubt that the disease is genuine Asiatic cholera. The number of deaths in Altona alone since the first of this month has been 630 against 286 during the whole of last month.

According to instructions from the Supervising Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital Service in Washington, Dr. Wyman, the effects of immigrants should be submitted to exposure of steam not less than one hour, yet this order has not been complied with on the docks of either the Hamburg American Packet Company or the North German Lloyd, but it is promised as soon as the preparations are completed.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—In spite of the effort of the government officials to suppress the news concerning the spread of the cholera, it is known that the epidemic has made formidable progress during the recent hot spell. On the Marienburg Mlawka line of the Eastern Railroad, where cargo traffic has been entirely stopped, the epidemic is raging in the villages.

VIENNA, Aug. 23.—The Deputy Governor of Brady in Galocos reports that the cholera has made such progress in his district that he was compelled to prohibit the annual pilgrimage to Podgamien.

Made Peers of England.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A peerage has been conferred on the Right Hon. Sir Lyon Playfair, M. P. for South Leeds. Sir Lyon is 78 years of age, and one of the most learned men in England. He is a Scotchman, born in India, where his father was Inspector-General of hospitals. The elevation of Sir Lyon to the peerage will leave the seat for South Leeds vacant. As Sir Lyon had a majority of 1,585 the seat seems to be safe for the Liberals. A peerage has also been conferred on Mr. Cyril Flower, M. P. for South Bedfordshire.

Soldiers Stricken Down With Heat.

TRIESTE, Aug. 23.—Two hundred cases of sunstroke and eleven deaths have occurred among the troops engaged in the manoeuvres in the Karst Hills, Carniola.

LIZZIE BORDEN'S TRIAL.

The Prosecution Not Ready and It Goes Over to Thursday.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 23.—Lizzie Borden was brought to this city from Taunton jail at 11 yesterday forenoon. An extra detail of police was required to keep the crowd away from her carriage and from the police station door. The preliminary trial was to have been opened at 2 p. m., and two hours before that time the court room was crowded. Many of the leading business and professional men of the city were present, including a half dozen clergymen. Thirty-five newspaper correspondents occupied the space around the clerk's desk.

The court came in promptly and then waited until 3 o'clock, when District Attorney Knowlton and Lawyers Jennings and Adams made their appearance. Mr. Knowlton announced that Prof. Wood of Harvard had not made a report of his analysis of the contents of the stomachs nor on his examination of the bloody hatchet, clothing and carpets. The State's case depends, in a great measure, upon this report, and in its absence Mr. Knowlton was not ready to go to trial. He asked for a continuance until Thursday, the 25th, at 10 a. m., which was granted. The prisoner will not return to the Taunton jail, but will remain in care of the matron of the Central police station.

THE SULTAN IS FRIENDLY.

Willing to Make Reparation for the Outrage in Konia.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 23.—The Turkish Minister says that the Sultan will make reparation for any injury to persons or property that may have been committed by his subjects at Konia. His Excellency Mavroyeni Bey, the Turkish Minister, says that he has not received any information himself directly about the reported troubles in Konia involving the persons and property of any Americans, so he can neither affirm nor deny the newspaper reports. He hopes that they are not true.

He says that the Sultan will immediately investigate the matter and will at once make any reparation demanded by the circumstances, and that the incident will not lead to any trouble between the United States and Turkey; that the Sultan is determined to preserve friendly relations with all the other powers of the world. He will also afford ample protection to all Americans residing within his dominions.

The Heat Continues in Europe.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The terrible heat continues with fatal effects, directly and indirectly. The heat snapped a rail at the Bourse street freight station causing the telescoping of a train. The driver and stoker of the train were crushed to death. At Lyons hundreds had to leave work on account of the heat.

ARRESTS AT COAL CREEK.

The Attempted Lynching of Lindsay Still the Sensation.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 23.—Twenty-three men, supposed to be in sympathy with the worst of the miners, were arrested near Coal Creek yesterday afternoon and locked up. Several of them are suspected of holding up the mail train between Clinton and Coal Creek last Thursday night. One of the suspects is Jim Hatmaker, son of John Hatmaker, who led the attack on the stockade at Oliver Springs last Tuesday.

Every possible attempt is being made to apprehend the elder Hatmaker. He was of the greatest prominence in all the mining troubles and is supposed to have escaped to Kentucky.

The threatened lynching of Bud Lindsay is the great topic of discussion. He is under a strong guard. Gen. Carnes and his officers are indignant over some sensational reports sent by special correspondents. Some of them may be harshly dealt with if apprehended.

Lindsay had a very narrow escape. He has made himself so obnoxious to the more conservative miners and to citizens not in favor of the rioting that he has been a marked figure, and only his keeping within safe distance of the military since his capture, and generally between four walls, has prevented his being killed.

For several nights he was confined in an old mine and the mouth guarded by a large squad of soldiers. Affairs during the day had been so quiet and the submission of the miners so general that the watch was somewhat relaxed, and Lindsay had lost some of his fear and wandered more widely within the enclosure. In some way, no one seems to know how, four citizens managed to seize and silence him and in the dusk slipped him between the pickets.

He was hurried up the valley towards Briceville, and the mob, which gained force almost at every step, hurried him forward, fearing alarm and pursuit by the soldiers.

The journey was not ended until Briceville, the scene of the labor troubles last year and the home of the more conservative class of miners, was reached. Once there a rope was secured and placed around his neck. His true character was soon seen. Though considered a desperate man, and although he has at least a dozen murders to his account, he broke down and begged for his life with all possible fervor.

His pleadings and lamentations were effective. He was promised life upon his solemn promise that he will turn State's evidence and reveal the names and plans of all the leaders, tell how the mob was raised, the nature of the oath, the names of the miners known to have killed soldiers or guards, in short, to reveal to the civil authorities all of the lawlessness that has reigned. When all this was promised the rope was taken from his neck, and he was returned to the camp for safe keeping.

It is believed that with his testimony twenty or thirty leaders can be successfully tried for murder.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

Several Injured by a Fire in a Brooklyn Apartment House.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Three persons were burned and bruised and narrowly escaped death in an incendiary fire which broke out shortly before 5 a. m. in the fashionable apartment house at 301 Henry street, Brooklyn.

Nine other persons escaped from the burning building in their night clothes.

The injured, who were all taken to the Long Island College hospital, are:

CHARLES E. FULLER, 42 years old, a broker, jumped from the second floor, injured internally.

ELIZABETH D. HOLT, aged 23.

ROSA BELLE HOLT, aged 26.

These two sisters slid down a rope from the fourth story and severely lacerated their hands and limbs besides being bruised about the head.

Three attempts to destroy the house have been made within a week and another attempt was made a few months ago.

All of the fires prior to the latest were discovered soon after they were started and extinguished with slight loss. The last, however, had gained such headway before being found out, that it caused a damage of $15,000 before being extinguished.

The police are endeavoring to solve the mystery.

HOMESTEAD ALMOST DESERTED.

Strikers Securing Work Elsewhere—Soldiers Expect to Go Home Sept. 1.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 23.—Homestead is daily becoming more deserted, many of the strikers securing work elsewhere pending a settlement of the strike. As a result the relief committee find their work much easier.

The soldiers here are looking forward to the 1st of September, when they expect to be relieved. By that time they will have been in continuous service longer than at any time during the history of the Guard, having been in the field sixty days.

The 14th Regiment, which held the record at Johnstown, was on duty only 32 days. The soldiers generally are of the opinion from their constant association with the strike that it would not be wise to remove the guard entirely for a month at any rate.

The Divorce Set Aside.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The Vice-Chancellor of New Jersey has just set aside the divorce granted to Thomas Main, formerly a well-known citizen of Grand View, Rockland county, N. Y. When the suit for divorce was brought against Mrs. Main she was in Colorado and knew nothing of it until the divorce had been granted. She at once came East, applied to the Vice-Chancellor of New Jersey to have the matter reconsidered, and the decision setting aside the divorce has been given.

American Bar Association Meeting.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The fifteenth annual meeting of the American Bar Association will be held at Saratoga on Aug. 24, 25 and 26. The president's address will be delivered by John F. Dillon, and the annual address by John Randolph Tucker of Virginia. It is expected that the committee on uniformity of legislation will meet at Saratoga on August 24.

No Truth in the Charges.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—In reply to the complaint made to the Department of Justice by the Knights of Labor that the imprisoned miners at Wallace, Idaho, were not being properly treated, the Attorney-General has received a telegram from Examiner Crostwaite saying he finds absolutely no grounds for the charges.

A BACKDOWN PROBABLE

Canadians Alarmed at the Retaliation Measures.

FEARS FOR RAILWAY PRIVILEGES.

A Termination of the Dispute Likely in a Short Time—Dominion Journals Urge Abrogation of the Treaty—Orders to Collectors of American Ports.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—President Harrison's proclamation against Canada continues to excite great attention here, but there is a sigh of relief that the retaliation is not so severe as had been expected. No official expression of opinion can be learned in the absence of the Cabinet during the holidays. It is generally admitted that the recent decision of the Government to abolish the rebate system on the St. Lawrence canals at the end of the season was not a concession at all. Public opinion in Canada is now so thoroughly aroused over the senseless policy of the Dominion Government that a complete back-down is inevitable.

This sentiment is intensified over the rumor now in circulation that, failing to bring the Canadians to time, President Harrison will also cancel the railway bonding privileges. Such a step would paralyze Canadian trade and seriously injure the country. Premier Abbott, although very unwell, will probably return here and order his Ministers to assemble without delay. A jingo element in the Cabinet favor retaliatory measures, but Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Minister of Customs and Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, are understood to entertain more moderate views.

Their influence will likely be directed in favor of an immediate termination of the dispute.

The period is not long distant when the Dominion authorities will seek the abrogation of the treaty of Washington. The "Citizen," the government organ here says editorially: "So long as the United States government is amenable to the usage of diplomacy, let us treat them in the manner that diplomatic usage dictates.

"But if the only reply to our overtures for the settlement of international questions is to be another turn of the screw, let us as plainly assert our determination to do with our own as best suits our own interests. As we have said before, the Washington treaty has been pretty well denuded of every vestige of advantage to this country.

"It stands simply as a skeleton which our neighbors are equally ready to trot out in the hope of terrorizing us, or to consider dead and buried for good; so that clearly the best thing to do would be to take steps at once for its formal abrogation and to have done with it.

"Meantime we are not power less to resent such treatment as it has pleased the Government of the United States to make a show of visiting upon us, and of this fact there are powerful influences across the line quite as well aware as we are, and it is more in accordance with the humor aroused here by the action of the Washington Government throughout to attribute the moderation exercised by the President to a wholesome regard for these same influences, rather than to a desire to justify his position in the controversy by resorting to just as much retaliation as would offset the extent to which it is claimed we 'discriminate' against the United States by our rebate regulations."

INSTRUCTIONS TO COLLECTORS.

Secretary Spaulding's Orders in Regard to the Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Acting Secretary Spaulding, of the Treasury Department, has issued circulars instructing the collectors of customs under the act relating to tolls on Canadian vessels at the St. Mary's Canal, which provides that money shall be collected under regulations to be established by the Secretary of the Treasury. After reciting the law and the President's proclamation, Mr. Spaulding directs the collectors as follows:

"On the passage through the canal at St. Mary's Falls, in your district, from and after the first proximo, of any vessel with cargo you will exact tolls as provided for above. But no tolls will be charged or collected as regards freight or passengers carried to and landed at Ogdensburg, or any port west of Ogdensburg and south of a line drawn from the northern boundary of the state of New York through the St. Lawrence river, the Great Lakes and their connecting channels to the northern boundary of the State of Minnesota.

"The master of every such vessel will be required to furnish a sworn statement, substantially in the form of a manifest showing the date, the name of the vessel; its destination, the name of the master, the number of passengers and the number of tons and the kind of merchandise carried."

"If the destination be such as to exempt the vessel from the tolls, you will make entry of the fact in a book with columns exhibiting the particulars specified in the master's statement; also the amounts chargeable and the amounts paid.

"On the next arrival of the vessel you will exact the tolls, unless on or before that time and within one month from her passage through the canal there shall be furnished to you proof of the actual delivery of the cargo and passengers at some port or place within the limits of the United States above specified.

"Such proof will consist of the certificate of the Collector of Customs at the port of destination showing the entry of the vessel and the landing of the merchandise and passengers there. A form of certificate is provided for the Collectors by the Department.

"Should the prescribed evidence not be furnished within one month after the passage of the canal by the vessel, you will report the facts to the Department, to the end that measures may be taken by it for the recovery of the amounts due."

Characterized as Absurd.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt informed a reporter of the United Press that the story published in a morning paper that President Harrison had offered him a position in the Cabinet was too absurd to discuss.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The price of milk in Plainfield on and after Sept. 1 will be 8 cents a quart.

—Edward Wilson was a prisoner before judge Crosley this morning, for using bad language. He was reprimanded and released.

—Wm. Marsh, a negro lad, insulted a North Plainfield woman on the streets of the borough last evening and was arrested. Judge Crosley fined him $2.

—A meeting of the executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor union will be held Aug. 25, at 8 p. m., in the lecture room of the Third Presbyterian church, Elizabeth.

—The darkest hole in the borough is in front of the electric light station. This should n't be. The company ought to put a lamp in front of its property, the same as is done in Plainfield.

—To-morrow'll be your last chance this season to enjoy an excursion visit from Plainfield to the shore. Go along with Warren Mission, and you 'll have a great day amid the delights of Old Ocean.

—Acting-Mayor Ginna seems not to agree with Mayor Gilbert regarding circuses. The latter refuses them admission to the city, but the former yesterday granted permission for one to come.

—Why is it that a North Plainfield saloon keeper is permitted to empty the waste of his water motor into the gutter and keep one side of Somerset street a continual mud-hole, to the annoyance of the traveling public?

—The sewer basins at the corner of Front and Somerset streets are productive of horrible odors from the festering rottenness that accumulates in them from closets connecting. The basins should be thoroughly cleansed, and frequently flushed out during the dry spells of summer.

THE BOROUGH FIRE-GONG.

North Plainfield Adopts a Modern District System, and Hopes Ere Long to Have Signal Boxes.

Warren Engine company, No. 1, of North Plainfield, has accepted the new fire-gong that has been tested so much of late. The blowing of the gong may be distinguised from that of Plainfield, by its hollow sound. The city's gong gives a full and solid resonant sound. The borough whistle will give one blow every night at 9, when the electric light station has a good pressure of steam. It will not blow at noon. The engine company pays the entire cost of the gong, about $130. The improvement was made through the efforts of the hustling young foreman, George H. Fairchild. The borough will be divided into four districts—by Somerset street into halves, and by Jackson avenue and Park place into quarters. There will be four electric buttons in the engine house. In case of alarm these will notify the electric-light engineer that there is a fire, and of its location. He then gives the alarm by blowing the number of the district on the whistle. It is hoped that ultimately the borough will have a signal-box system similar to Plainfield's.

Base-Ball Rabbits.

The gentler sex will be admitted free to the game, and the management hope they will turn out in force to cheer the boys on to victory.

By special request of the Morristown team, in order to permit them to catch the 5:56 train, the game will be called at 3:45 instead of 4, the usual hour.

Morristown will send a large delegation of kranks to the game. They claim they are going to take home the scalps of the "Champions of Central New Jersey".

The Crescents will need to hustle to-morrow. They defeated the Morristown team only by the narrow margin of 3 to 1 last game, and the visitors are determined to wipe out that defeat.

The batting order of the Morristown base-ball team in the game with the Crescents on the North Plainfield grounds to-morrow will be as follows: Sutter, cf; Pockman, 2b; Heifer, 1b; Wood, lf; Fritz, c; Cavanagh, ss; Yahn, 3b; Lowe, rf; Hetzel, p.

A Young Bicycle Thief.

Frank Look, of 15 Prospect place, had a child's bicycle stolen from his piazza yesterday. He notified marshal Pangborn, who by skillful detective work discovered the thief, a young colored lad name Kline. The boy's mother restored the stolen property, and sent the lad to the Reform School.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

TIRED OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

William H. N. Cadmus, Father of Plainfield's Base-Ball Cadmuses, Will Become a Full-Fledged Democrat.

William H. N. Cadmus, the Republican leader of the Eighth ward, New York city, is spending the summer, with his wife, at the home of his son Will on Duer street. He says he is disgusted with the management of the Republican party in Kings county. He has made up his mind to "quit" the organization, and will henceforth let some one else do the work. In the last election he was a candidate for alderman-at-large and was previously a candidate for supervisor of the Eighth ward. Mr. Cadmus has not made up his mind what further step he will take, but his friends say that he will probably become a member of the Eighth ward Democratic association.

During his long career in politics he has been known as one of the most independent members of the executive committee. It was he who prepared the resolutions denouncing secretary of the navy Tracy for his so-called civil-service reform in the yard, but was induced to withdraw them until the secretary could be seen. He believes in practical politics and holds to the theory that to the victor belongs the spoils.

To a reporter he said yesterday: "Why, Tracy has ruined the party in this county. On the Saturday night before election he discharged 100 men from the yard. Is that the way to make votes? He has kept Democrats in the yard and discharged Republicans. What kind of politics do you call that?"

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. George W. Endicott has returned home from a two weeks' visit to Lake George.

Mrs. DeBaud has returned to her old home at the corner of Front street and Westervelt avenue.

Miss Lena Shroeder, of Maspeth, L. I., is visiting her cousin, Annie Angerbauer, of East Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman returned to-day to Belmar for the benefit of their infant daughter's health.

The Rev. A. I. Martine of the Dunellen Presbyterian church is spending two weeks at the Belvidere, Ocean Grove.

Miss Virginia F. Randolph and her sisters Marion and Josephine are at Crosswicks, the guests of Horace Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Christopher of 9 Orchard place are enjoying the delights of camping out in the Catskill Mountains.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, of Plainfield, will preach in the Roselle Presbyterian church next Sunday, morning and evening.

Mrs. Joseph Maier wishes through THE PRESS to thank her many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and help so kindly tendered during her late bereavement.

Captain Webb, of No. 2 Truck, Paterson, was in Plainfield yesterday. He thinks Plainfield has a model fire department, and a most competent chief and assistants.

Mrs. Lorton McDermott and two children have returned to their home at Orange Valley, after an enjoyable two weeks' visit at the home of the Misses Searing, Madison avenue.

Among the Plainfield people at the Belvidere, Ocean Grove, are Mrs. Sarah A. MacDonald and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Martin of Washington avenue. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pope were also registered there.

Augustus C. Walbridge of 323 Garfield place, Brooklyn, a cousin of J. A. Demarest of this city, died on Saturday at Center Island, Oyster Bay, in his 37th year. He was born in New York and educated at the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, graduating in 1876. For the past fifteen years he had been engaged in extensive building operations in Brooklyn. His last work was the new Eagle building. He leaves a widow and four children. The funeral services were held at his late home this afternoon.

Margaret P. Disbrow, who died suddenly yesterday, was the mother of Mrs. Joseph S. Cutter. She had been away visiting for four weeks, and returned Saturday. She sat on the front stoop in the evening, perfectly well, but did not appear to breakfast as usual Sunday morning, and someone of the family went to her room and found her unconscious. She had evidently gotten out of bed and attempted to dress, and been compelled to get back into bed. The family called Drs. Jenkins and Boone, but the patient never regained consciousness and died about 6 yesterday morning. She has a son in Des Moines, Iowa, and the funeral is delayed till Thursday so that he may attend. The interment will be at Rahway. The deceased was a lovely Christian woman, and was fully prepared for her sudden call.

CEILING FELL ON THE BABE.

Narrow Escape of a Little Child from Fatal Injury by Falling Plaster.

Charles Vail's baby had a narrow escape from death yesterday. Mrs. Vail was in the garden at her home on Orchard place when she heard a crash in the house. On investigating, she found that a portion of the ceiling directly over the baby's crib had fallen, burying the child underneath a mass of plaster. The child's face was badly cut, its eyes were filled with the blinding lime, and it was unconscious from shock and suffocation. It was a merciful miracle the child was n't killed. To-day it is doing as well as can be expected. The lime did not permanently affect its eyesight.

LAWYER CODDINGTON'S COSTLY CLIENT

Turns up Again as "Mr. Biddle" of Philadelphia, but Lawyer Wood of Poughkeepsie Escapes by a Scratch of His Pen.

The same casual, crafty "client" who bamboozled lawyer William A. Coddington of this city out of $200, as first exclusively told in THE PRESS, walked down Market street, Poughkeepsie, last Friday morning, and made casual inquiries concerning the standing and habits of several members of the bar. He learned that Daniel W. Guernsey of that place was county judge and a man who stood high in the community; also, that he went to his home in Stanfordville early every afternoon. After dinner the stranger entered the office of S. G. Guernsey, judge Guernsey's brother, and, learning that the judge had gone home, professed disappointment. In a perfectly natural manner he disclosed that his object in seeking judge Guernsey was to have him take testimony for use in the United States Supreme court in the suit of one Sloan against the American Dredging company to recover $200,000 royalty upon a mechanical device used in dredging.

"My name is Charles S. Biddle", he said, "and I am the junior member of the well-known firm of Biddle & Son of Philadelphia, counsel for the defendant. My father, George W. Biddle, knows judge Guernsey well."

The witnesses whose testimony the stranger declared it was necessary to take lived, he said, in Rochester, New York city, Yonkers and Nyack, and Poughkeepsie was selected for the referee's hearings because of its central location. Stephen Guernsey introduced the stranger to lawyers George Wood and Joseph Morschauser, to whom he explained the suit in detail, finally arranging with Mr. Wood to act as local counsel for a compensation of $20 a day, and Mrs. Sabra Maud Ashley as stenographer at $10 a day. Incidentally Mr. Biddle remarked that Frederic R. Coudert was the principal counsel for the defense, but as the hearings would occupy three days a week until October his professional engagements would not permit him to attend them.

"By the way", suggested "Mr. Biddle" to Mr. Wood, "I want to pay you your retainer. If you will send your boy to the bank to get this check cashed, I will give it to you now."

The check was for $250, drawn on a Philadelphia bank. The office boy took it to the Merchants' bank. He returned in a little while with the information that the cashier would not cash the check unless Mr. Wood indorsed it. Mr. Wood indorsed the check, but before "Biddle" took it a suspicion that something might be wrong entered his mind, and he told "Biddle" that he should not require a retainer, and drew his pen through his signature. "Biddle" passed the matter off as of no consequence, and he and Mr. Wood left on the 4:50 p. m. train for New York to get the papers in the case, which "Biddle" said were in an office in Wall street. They took the Third avenue elevated road to the City Hall, where "Biddle" stepped into a drug store to get a prescription put up, and while the clerk was busy, excused himself to get a book in a near-by hotel, and that was the last that was seen of him.

It is believed that "Biddle" is the same man who swindled Newark lawyers some time ago by a scheme similar to that tried upon Mr. Wood.

WELL, THEN, WHO'S TO BLAME?

President McLeod Says He Cannot be Held Responsible for the Action of Local Dealers in Raising the Price of Coal.

The following correspondence is presented for solution:

PLAINFIELD, Aug. 17, 1892.

A. A. McLeod, President Philadelphia & Reading RR. Co.

DEAR SIR:—Many of my readers insist that the Reading "deal", so-called, was solely for the purpose of increasing the price of coal.

They point to the fact that it has been raised 25 cents a ton in this city within a few weeks, and another rise is threatened. How can I answer them?

Are the dealers here paying any more for coal to-day than they were a month ago, and is the cost to them to be further increased? Very truly yours,

J. A. DEMAREST.

PHILADELPHIA & READING RR. CO.
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE.
PHILADELPHIA.
Aug. 18, 1892.

Mr. J. A. Demarest.

DEAR SIR:—Replying to your favor of the 17th instant, I ought not to be expected to take, from my very pressing duties, the time necessary to answer all the questions which are put to me by people who do not understand the object of the Reading leases. Nor can I be held responsible for the action of local dealers in raising the prices of coal.

I would, however, remind consumers that the prices have fluctuated for many years, according to seasons and demands, and this year has been no exception to the general rule other than that during the winter the prices which the producers received were ruinously low, and by the efforts of the Reading management we have been able to raise them to a level which will insure the cost of production, but we are not getting as much as we should to enable us to realize a reasonable profit.

Yours truly,

A. A. McLEOD,
President.

Castles.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends. Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Cline Trip of a Plainfield Enthusiast—Plainfield the Cyclers' Racing Centre—Notes of Interest to the Roadsters.

Harley B. Nichols, of 59 East Sixth street, left New York city, Aug 14, for a wheeling tour to Rutland, on his Victor pneumatic. His experiences are very interesting:

"Arrived at the old Franklin roadhouse, Tarrytown, thirty miles from New York, over fine macadamized roads, for dinner; then wheeled to Peekskill eighteen miles, stopping at the Eagle Hotel for the night; an early start the next morning, with good roads, through the mountains, passing around the base of 'Storm King'; arrived at Poughkeepsie in time for dinner at the Nelson House; forty miles the morning's run.

"The ride to Rhinebeck, seventeen miles over fine, shady roads, was delightful. Having found the old post-road at Poughkeepsie, the start from the old and quaint Rhinebeck Inn, the morning of the 16th, the third day, was made with best wishes and a hearty good cheer from the summer guests; arrived in Hudson in ample time for dinner at Hotel Lincoln, twenty-eight miles from Rhinebeck. With a long rest, the run was made to Kinder Hook, seventeen and a half miles away, where a light lunch was taken; thence on to Albany twenty miles, arriving at the Kenmore Hotel for supper. Having resolved to wheel the whole distance, finished the seventy-two and a half miles, the day's run to Troy, in the evening. Generous treatment was received from 'Mine Host' Hitchcock of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, Troy; started the morning of the fourth day, fully refreshed, for Salem; at Johnsonville, was directed wrong, and had many a long hill to trundle the wheel, but made Eagle Bridge for dinner (in name only); reached Salem in the early afternoon, making forty-six miles for the day, stopping here for the night at a typical country tavern, struggling under a long Indian name, but the kind old landlord made up for what the hotel lacked.

"The run from Salem on the fifth and last day was through Rupert and Wells to Lake St. Catherine; skirting the Lake to the Hygeia Hotel, twenty-six miles from Salem; there met friends from Plainfield, Mr. Leal and family; dined with them, and in the afternoon wheeled into Rutland through Poultney, Fair Haven, etc., twenty-five miles; total day's wheeling, fifty-one miles.

"This delightful tour of nearly three-hundred miles was made through grand and beautiful scenery, and over splendid roads, and courteous treatment was received from everyone. With blood tingling with health, skin tanned to the color of leather, and remembering such jolly good times, the wheelman is sure to try it again."

The Irvington Cycle club had a relay race between Irvington and Plainfield, last Saturday. The length of the course was thirty miles, and the work was divided as follows: First five miles, Irvington to Milburn, Walter Kimber, jr., and Robert Rose; Milburn to Westfield, George Avery and David Longfelder; Westfield to Plainfield, David Lands and Charles Harrison; Plainfield to Westfield, Edward Courter and Charles Millard; Westfield to Milburn, Joseph Baldwin; Milburn to Irvington, W. F. Kimber. The road was in poor condition, and the time made was not as fast as had been anticipated. The time was one hour and fifty-seven minutes.

Many foolhardy and daring feats upon the wheel have been attempted by trick riders, but the biscuit for this class unquestionably belongs to Harry Park, the young man who on Aug. 3 made the descent of Pike's Peak, Colorado, on a single wheel, without having either pedals, handle, or saddle. Park accomplished this feat by standing on the axle of the wheel, to which he had attached a slight foot-rest. An ordinary cushion-tired wheel was used. Park wore a pair of leather gloves to stop the momentum of the wheel when necessary, which was very often. Park had many bad falls, but persevered in his perilous task. In writing of the trip, Park says:

"My hands were fearfully blistered, as well as my toes, the latter from being forced downward into my shoes, the position of the foot on the axle of the wheel rendering this unavoidable. I suffered with severe cramps in the arms and had to rest repeatedly in order to allow them to relax. I was riding at least three hours out of the five hours and ten minutes taken for the trip. Five spokes were broken out of my wheel by falling on the rocks and cogs of the roadway. It took me four days to recover from the strain, and the night following the feat I was unable to sleep and could not bear the bedclothing to touch any part of me."

The road down Pike's Peak is very steep and winding, and there are many places where a "header" would mean death. Park's journey under the circumstances was remarkable. Over a hundred persons saw the descent.

Mrs. C. C. Candy, wife of the chief of the Western Division of the L. A. W., accompanied by her husband, made the descent of Pike's Peak a few weeks before Park, but on a fully equipped safety. It was the first time the feat had been accomplished by a woman. It took the couple four hours and fifteen minutes to reach the foot of the mountain. When four miles from the summit the daring woman had a narrow escape. Her wheel ran over the road and she rolled over and over down a steep incline about a hundred feet before a big boulder stopped her. When the anxious husband picked her up she was comparatively uninjured and pluckily remounted her wheel.

A Georgian is said to have invented a steam bicycle. It is to be run by a small gasoline engine, the pistons of which operate on gearing in the crank shaft. The gearing is arranged five to one for crank axle and one and one-fourth for the rear wheel, giving about sixty-inch gearing. The inventor is confident that the machine, on its final test, will fully come up to expectations.

HOW THE JUDGE IS WORKING.

State Organizer Ulrich of Plainfield Tells of New Jersey's Republican Clubs.

(Plainfield Correspondence to Newark Evening News.)

Judge John Ulrich, of this city, holds the position of New Jersey State Organizer of the League of Republican Clubs for the approaching Presidential campaign.

"Never before"—he said yesterday—"have New Jersey Republicans been better organized or in greater harmony than they now are. Of the twenty-one counties in New Jersey there are but four in which county Republican leagues have not been organized. These are Union, Cumberland, Atlantic and Sussex. Union county is not lax in early campaign work, although its county league is yet unformed. It has been customary among other counties to organize county leagues first and organize clubs afterward. In Union county this mode of procedure has been reversed and the work of forming clubs throughout the county has preceded the organization of the league. This latter will soon be completed, however, together with the amalgamation of the Republican forces in Cumberland, Atlantic and Sussex."

As State organizer Mr. Ulrich's chief duty has been the forming of Republican clubs throughout the State and the establishment of county leagues. The most recent county league to be organized is Monmouth. There has been considerable dissatisfaction expressed in different parts of Monmouth county, but Mr. Ulrich assured the NEWS man that no illfeeling was visible at the county convention held in Asbury Park a day or two ago.

Mr. Ulrich cited Camden county as one of the most efficiently organized. In that county there is a well-organized club in every city, ward and township, while in some wards there are two or more clubs. Hudson county was also named as one where special work is being done.

Mr. Ulrich said there were now in New Jersey over two hundred well-equipped Republican clubs, which is an average of ten for each county. He added that this number would soon be doubled. All of these clubs have adopted substantially the same constitution, with the few alterations made necessary by the change of the county name, etc. This constitution was prepared under the direction of the State league. One of its provisions is that the organization shall not as a club express any preference for any candidate before any convention, nor shall it as a club recommend any person as an applicant for any official position. No article of the constitution, bylaws, or amendment thereto, shall be made that will conflict with the provisions of the constitution of the Republican league of the United States, or the State Republican league of New Jersey. The motto of the New Jersey league of Republican clubs is "Organization and Education". Campaign documents devoted to the Republican cause are now being issued from the Mt. Holly office of president Gaskill, of the State league. These pamphlets are sent in quantities to the clubs making application for them, and will be spread broadcast during the campaign.

A FAIR PROPOSAL.

Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company Will Refund Your Admission Money if It Is n't the Best.

A reporter of THE PRESS gleaned the following in an interview with the general agent of the company which will appear at Music Hall Friday evening:

"This company is undoubtedly the largest and best Uncle Tom company traveling, and comprises 30 first-class artists. So complete is their scenery that the piece could be put on in a barn with better scenic effects than is produced by any other company. They have a grand double band of white and colored musicians, an orchestra of ten pieces, and one that is hard to beat. The African mandolin students with this company are the first and only colored people appearing in public and performing on the Spanish mandolin. The Lone Star quartette is claimed to be without an equal, and the Topsies, there they have something that charms all. The Topsies are two young ladies, and their superiors as character and terpsichorean artists have not yet been produced on the American stage; and two Marks, the best that a good big salary can secure.

"The street parade is the finest ever witnessed, and of the performance we can say that, if they do not give the best production of this sterling old drama ever given in this city, they will cheerfully refund the price of admission. Will any other Uncle Tom's company do this? No, because they have not the show to do so. Stetson & Co. have."

On the one hand there's $500 in cash; on the other, there's a cure for your Catarrh. One of these two things has got to come to you—that's promised and agreed by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

But, do you think they'd make any such promise if they weren't sure that you'd be cured? That has come to thousands, through this Remedy, when everything else has failed. By its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, the worst chronic cases of Catarrh in the Head have been perfectly and permanently cured.

That's the reason they're willing to take such a risk. This is what they say, clearly and plainly: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." If they have faith enough to say that, isn't it safe for you to have a little faith, too?

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c, and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 8-18-7

THE SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE.

Indications That the Trouble is Nearly Over—No Accessions to the Strikers' Ranks This Morning—Probability That the Strike Will be Declared Off.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 23.—The condition of the switchmen's strike this morning can be summed up in the one word—waiting. Grand Master Wilkinson of the Trainmen will return here to-day, and Chief Conductor Clark of the Order of Railway Conductors will be here to-morrow. Messrs. Sargent, Sweeney, and Wilkinson will hold a conference to-night and to-morrow. When Mr. Clark arrives another conference between the four heads of railway orders will take place. Chief Arthur of the engineers is not expected to be present. These conferences will decide the action to be taken.

The belief is growing to-day that this action will be an abandonment of the strike. The plan, it is now said, is to let the strike down easy. The conference will advise peace; Grand Master Sweeney will yield gracefully, and the striking switchmen will go back to their places if they can, or will seek work elsewhere.

Plainfield Democrats at Work.

A meeting of Plainfield Democrats was held last evening in Cutter's hall, preparatory to reorganizing for campaign work the Democratic association. James E. Martine was chairman, and L. F. Wadsworth secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a plan of organization looking to ward representation as an auxiliary to central association's work. That committee includes: First ward, L. F. Wadsworth, Mr. Ely; Second, Lewis Stover, L. G. Timpson; Third, James Clark; Fourth, Jacob Krimey, Wm. Smith, V. L. Frazee, Dennis DeGraw, A. W Rand. The following delegates were appointed to attend the convention of Democratic clubs at Camden Sept. 27: Lewis Brown, W. H. Sterling, W. L. Hetfield, Peter Flynn, jr.

TRAIN ROBBER BUNCH SHOT.

Cornered By a Posse in a Louisiana Swamp, He Dies Game.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—A special from Franklin says that Eugene Bunch, the notorious outlaw and train robber, was shot and killed near that place by a posse early yesterday morning.

Bunch and another of the gang, Col. Hapgood, were surrounded in a dense swamp near Honey Island, on the Pearl river. Bunch, who had sworn never to be taken alive, showed fight and was riddled with bullets.

Trying the Miners for Murder.

—Adam Haas and David Nason, residents of Erie, Pa., were killed yesterday by the Erie & Pittsburg express.

—G. Herbert Lee, a lawyer of St. John, N. B. is a fugitive from justice. He embezzled $50,000 from estates entrusted to him.

—The terrible heat continues throughout Europe. Many cases of sunstroke occurred in Paris and Berlin yesterday, several being fatal.

—Peter A. B. Widener of Philadelphia does not deny the report to the effect that he and William L. Elkins are to succeed Jay Gould as the controlling power in Western Union.

—James Tucket, formerly a Scotland Yard detective and a personal friend of the late Charles Dickens, is visiting friends at Saulette, Cal. He was the model of Inspector Buckett, a character in "Bleak House."

—W. B. Deboll, the actor, committed suicide yesterday at Holliston, Mass. He was under engagement to appear at the Tremont Theatre last evening in "Puritania." He took a dose of poison, and died in 10 minutes.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will, in a few days, begin the construction of a single line of railroad from Washington, D. C., to Rossiyn. The road will be six miles long, and will pass directly by the National Cemetery at Arlington.

Wages and Labor Cost.

The more one knows about Republican protection the less one believes in it, and a thorough knowledge of the subject would put to flight the last particle of faith in this humbug still left among the people of the United States. The most absurd pretense as to protection is the pretense that it enables protected manufacturers to pay the difference between the wages of American and foreign workingmen. It does not, because in most protected industries there is no such difference as the Republican protectionists pretend to discover. The fact is that in most of these industries American labor is the cheapest in the world.

You will not believe this if you read only Republican newspapers, for they take care to compare only the day wages of Americans with the day wages of foreigners, and in most trades, whether protected or not, American day wages are higher than European day wages. It is easy enough, however, to show that this is not a fair method of comparison. One often hears a hustling housewife say that she'd rather do a piece of work herself than leave it to a careless child or an unskillful, lasy hired girl. Every farmer knows that many a good hand is cheap at double the wages of an idle, shiftless fellow. The woman who knows how to do things finds it cheaper and less wearing to mind and body to do them herself than to have them done by a person who will do them so badly that they must be done over. The farmer would rather pay thirty-five dollars a month to some hands than twenty dollars to others. What is true of the household and the farm is true of the factory and the world in general. There is no mystery about this, and any man who wishes to understand it may do so and may come to understand it so well that he can teach it to others.

Charles S. Hill, a Republican protectionist employed in the department of state, declared on oath before the tariff commission that in 1872 5,250,000 hands in the United States produced $8,000,000 worth of manufactured goods, while in the same year 5,140,200 hands in England produced only $4,000,000 worth of goods. In other words, American labor, measured by the amount it produced, was worth nearly double what English labor was worth. Thus the American manufacturer in that year would have paid nearly 100 per cent. more wages than the English manufacturer and still have been better off as to profits.

The New York Press, a high protectionist paper, declared a few years ago that the labor cost in a ton of paper made at Schuylerville, N. Y., was $4.50 less than the labor cost of a ton of paper made in England. The American paper maker, however, was paid an average of $395 per year, while the average of the English paper maker was considerably less. Thirty-seven men at Schuylerville produced 11,000 pounds of paper daily, or an average of nearly thirty tons each. The average daily product of English paper makers was only thirteen tons each.

According to The American Economist, organ of the Republican protectionists, the average product of each manufacturing operative in the United States was, in 1850, $1,105, and in 1880, $2,045. The average annual wages in the one case was $255 per year, in the other $360 per year. That is, labor received 28 per cent. of the product in 1850 when the tariff averaged 24 per cent., and labor received only 24 per cent. of the product in 1880, when the tariff averaged 48 per cent. Yet the tariff was raised to raise wages.

Let every Democrat and every man who thinks of becoming a Democrat get a firm grip on the idea that wages should not be compared by days' pay, but by the amount of labor cost in a given product. Don't let any Republican protectionist fool you with talk about the pauper labor of Europe. Remember ours is the cheapest labor in the world, because it is the best.

A Word to Farmers.

Republican protectionists, when unable to prove that their sort of protection increases wages, are fond of saying that at any rate it enables capitalists to go on manufacturing and thus affords employment to the men who eat the products of the farmer. In this way they figure out that Republican protection protects the farmer. The thing for the farmer they say is the home market, and this Republican protection affords him.

But the argument will not bear examination. Mr. C. Wood Davis, whose statistics are frequently quoted by The American Economist, organ of the Republican protectionists, finds that between 1850 and 1889 the population of the United States increased 173 per cent., while in the same period our production of cattle increased 185 per cent.; of cotton, 201 per cent.; of corn, 257 per cent.; of wheat, 389 per cent., and of oats, 411 per cent. Most of those years were years of high protection, yet what would have become of the farmer if he had been forced to depend for the sale of his products upon the home market? While population was not quite trebling, the production of cotton was rather more than trebled, that of corn was much more than trebled, that of wheat was vastly more than trebled and that of oats was more than quintupled. Republican protectionists say that protection makes more men use the farmer's products, but here we see that the farmer kept far ahead of the growth of population. Crops must have rotted on the ground had the farmer been forced to depend on the home market alone.

Our First Tariff.

Republican orators are fond of telling us that Republican protection is the "American system." As a matter of fact, such a system existed in Europe before America was discovered, and the constitution of the United States as framed by the forefathers, and fortunately still exists, prohibits the laying of protective tariff by one state of the Union against another. The forefathers were wisely determined that no such restrictions should trammel the infant interstate commerce of the American Union.

But Republicans point with triumph to the fact that a tariff act was passed by the first congress. True, but there was little or no Republican protection in that tariff. Of 71 enumerated articles 43 came in under an ad valorem duty varying from 5 per cent. to 15 per cent., and the greater part of these 43 articles was brought in under a duty of less than 10 per cent., while many came in at 7½ per cent. and 5 per cent. Luxuries were taxed at the highest rate, and many articles of necessity, including wool, were free of duty.

If ever American industries needed Republican protection they needed it then, for most of them were infants in fact as well as in name. But the monstrous theory embodied in the McKinley law had few friends among early patriots, and, fortunately for this country, Republican protection did not lay its heavy hand upon our industries until they had grown great enough to prosper even in spite of such adverse legislation.

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

One of the Cleverest Among the Clever Woman Writers.

Mrs. Tupper has been a novelist, a playwright, a special correspondent, a reporter and a writer of some exceedingly bright and graceful vers de société, and in every line of work, says the New York Journalist, she has achieved more than ordinary success.

She is a daughter of Hon. Walter L. Sessions, ex-member of congress, and was born at his home in Chautauqua county, New York. She is a Vassar girl and added to her college training she had the advantage of her father's position as a member of congress which brought her into contact with distinguished people in Washington and elsewhere and furnished that best of education for a writer—a knowledge of people.

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

She began to write Chautauqua letters for the Buffalo Express when she was a mere girl and soon branched out into short stories, special articles and all manner of bright, readable matter. In 1887 she soon made a reputation by her brilliant work on the Chicago Herald and Inter Ocean. She was the winner of the Chicago Tribune's $300 prize for the best continued story by her thrilling detective romance, "By a Hair's Breadth."

With all her busy journalistic occupations she has found time to write another novel, "By Whose Hand," which is described as a thoroughly unique and original production. She was an intimate friend of the late actor, W. J. Florence, and at the time of his death was writing a play which he was to have produced if he lived. She has a gift for vers de société also, and her lines beginning

"Painted and perfumed, feathered and pink,
Here is your ladyship's fan,"— have been much copied and quoted.

Mrs. Tupper has a pretty home at Passaic Bridge, N. J., where she does most of her writing. Her work is always bright, original and shows the presence of ideas—a rare quality in these days when ideas are so scarce. She has a crisp, entertaining style with a dainty humor, which is very fascinating. Her newspaper writing has a genuine literary value and finish, and she infuses into literary work the snap and dash of newspaperism. Though she has been a long time before the public, Mrs. Tupper is still a young woman, being but a trifle over thirty, and we can confidently expect a good deal more brilliant work from her pen.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGNS.

The Men Who Are Supposed to Manage Things.

The Chairman of a National Committee Has Anything But a Pleasant Job and Gets No Reward for His Hard Work.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

How much money does it take to run a presidential campaign? This is a question that I have often heard asked but never satisfactorily answered. In every campaign there are always stories circulated on both sides concerning the use of money. These are nearly always colored by partisanship, and are invariably exaggerated.

I have been through three or four presidential campaigns, and in those campaigns have learned enough to make a just estimate concerning the amount of money employed on both sides. In one or two instances the figures that I give are practically official. In 1880 the national committee of the republican party received in the way of subscriptions some $450,000. This money was disbursed through the chairmanship of Marshall Jewell, the former postmaster general of Gen. Grant. In the campaign of 1884 some $500,000 was raised. B. P. Jones, of Pittsburgh, was the chairman of the committee that collected the money and spent it. In 1888 Senator Quay had the disbursement of some $800,000. This was the largest sum ever raised and spent by a national committee.

In each one of the years above named the democrats had about the same amount of money. In 1880 and 1884 they had an equal amount. It can be said generally in every presidential campaign that the democrats raise as much money as the republicans. In the year 1888 they had perhaps $100,000 less. The two committees disbursed in the last campaign over a million and a half of dollars. Some of the democratic subscriptions came from individuals rather than organizations. One democratic leader, a very rich man, told me personally that he contributed to the campaign fund in 1888 the sum of $250,000.

It is said by those who are experienced in such matters that it is always easier to raise money for the party which is out than for the party which is in. This may account for the deficiency in the democratic treasury in 1888.

For what purposes are these vast sums employed? may properly be asked. I have never seen any evidence or heard any responsible person directly charge that the chairman of the national committee of either party ever authorized the use of this money for the purpose of purchasing votes. I know it has often been charged in partisan speeches and in the heat of the campaign, but I have never seen any one who possessed reliable information who was willing to affirm the correctness of such charges.

Something of an idea of where the money goes can be obtained by running over the disbursements of the republican national committee in 1888. In this year $100,000 was spent in directing documents and circulating them. Another $100,000 was spent on speakers and their expenses. In the direction of congressional contests $200,000 more was disbursed. Wherever a congressional district was close money would be sent to the republican candidate to be used for legitimate campaign purposes. These campaign expenses comprise the hiring of bands, the furnishing of uniforms to societies, the paying of the cost of parades, and other things of a like character. Some $200,000 more was disbursed in the close states like New Jersey, Indiana, Connecticut and New York. About $200,000 was spent at the national headquarters for maintaining that office in first-class style and defraying the cost of the campaign in the city of New York. A great many of the parades and processions in New York are arranged and prepared by the two national committees. It is an element in the campaign which really counts for very little. Of course as an evidence of enthusiasm and interest such parades have no value unless they are the result of a spontaneous feeling of interest among party followers. Such parades, however, cost money, and where the enthusiasm is not sufficient to raise all the money required the national committee generally comes to the rescue.

Both national committees know nearly to a penny the amount that the other has. They keep such a close watch on each other's movements and there are so many small chatterboxes employed around the committees that it is not at all difficult for the chairmen to find out what the opposition is doing. Indeed, half the energies of the employes of the committees appear to be devoted to gossip and talk. The ideal chairman never talks and is never interviewed in the newspapers. He neither discloses his hopes nor his fears. In this respect Senator Quay was a model chairman. He kept his plans to himself and let the lesser lights of the committee to the talking.

There is a great deal of work done in every campaign by a national committee which is of a routine character and has no perceptible effect. There is a tradition around every political headquarters which favors the circulation of documents. This circulation is stimulated by the demands of local speakers. Undoubtedly these documents have a decided value in furnishing arguments and authoritative statements of facts to the speakers throughout the country. The information conveyed by the publications reaches the voters in a practical way only through the speakers. Few people have patience or interest sufficient to read political documents of any length. The publications which have had the greatest effect have been brief paragraphs representing great concentration of facts upon one sheet of paper. Sometimes a damaging extract from an opponent's speech can be circulated with great effect by having it printed upon a little card. The "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" of Rev. Dr. Burchard, which was used so effectively in the Blaine campaign, was printed upon little cards and given out by adroit agents to members of various Catholic congregations throughout the country as they came out of their churches on the Sunday preceding the election. There was no possible way of overcoming the effect of these cards before Tuesday, the election day, had arrived.

In the main, however, too much money is spent on documents. Elaborate documents are printed and sent out by the carload to various sections of the country. The personal vanity of senators and members of congress has a good deal to do with swelling the bulk of these publications. A senator or member of congress will often make a speech in congress for the purpose of influencing the campaign. He will then come to the national committee afterward and ask to have this speech circulated as one of the committee's documents. This request is nearly always acceded to to please the member.

It is not customary to pay speakers for their services in the campaign. It is usual, however, to pay their expenses, and in some special cases public men of sufficient importance to be paid are given fees where they cannot afford to leave their business without payment. But in nearly every instance the payment becomes known and it has a bad effect. A man who talks for his party because he is paid to do it occupies simply the position of a special pleader, and his remarks have no influence if the fact of such employment is known.

The campaign of this year will be practically fought upon the same lines as the one of four years ago. As each year shows an increase in the amount of money employed it is estimated now that a million of dollars will be needed by each side for campaign purposes. The battle this year will be largely between two business organizations represented by the two committees. It is probable that the spirit of the Indiana management which was so direct and successful in Minneapolis will control the republican national committee, even with Mr. Carter, of Montana, as chairman. It will be remembered that Gen. Michener, who had charge of the Indiana delegation, has often been mentioned in connection with the coming campaign. He was the directing spirit of the whole republican campaign at Minneapolis. Gen. Michener will be the president's representative in the coming contest.

Upon the other side the directing mind will be that of W. C. Whitney. Mr. Whitney is a man of great reserve power, possessed of a thorough knowledge of the world and one of the most adroit of political managers. He knows the value of coaxing instead of driving. He has unlimited resources at his command, and so there is no reason to suppose that the democrats will be any less provided with money than the republicans.

The chairman of each committee declares as a general thing the policy of the campaign. Back of him is always the candidate, who is the real chieftain. Every matter of supreme importance is submitted to him before action is taken. The post of director of these political organizations is not a desirable one. He is the ostensible head and front of the political forces of his side. He has to bear the brunt of nearly all the criticisms and possible scandals of local management. If his side wins the candidate nearly always is so occupied with the future as to forget the past. Whoever heard of the chairman of the national committee being prominently recognized by an administration which he has helped to elect? The doctrine of civil service reform would be outraged to the uttermost degree if the chairman of any such committee should ever receive any reward for his work. If he fails to elect his candidate then he is made the scapegoat to bear the burden of this defeat.

The task from beginning to end is a thankless one. These chairmen have plenty of notoriety, but never popularity. They are hunted from morning to night by men who want to dip their hands into the committee's treasury. They have approach and leave their committee headquarters by private ways and have to live almost in hiding to escape the swarm of bores and mendicants. Then they have to submit to people from whom there is no escape. The political leaders of various communities come to headquarters for the purpose of advising the director-in-chief. Sometimes he receives good suggestions, but in the main this is only a waste of time, and ordinarily such visits are used as covers for demands upon the national treasury.

The secretary of the committee is the buffer to the chairman. His real duty is to entertain all the men who come to headquarters and to fight off as adroitly as possible the swarm of people who seek each day to capture the headquarters for purposes of their own.

One of the great elements of cost in a campaign is outside of any work of the committees. This is in the check to business during a presidential year. Everything in a business way is in an expectant state during a campaign. The loss in this way would foot up many millions. However, the best men of both sides favor these great political campaigns. They say that it is a good thing to get the people away from business every once in four years and to make them think of other things. In no other way would ninety per cent. of our people learn anything about government or administration affairs. It is a four years' school crowded into one. The outdoor meetings are healthful and the parades are good forms of exercise. All of the uproar and confusion do no harm. The campaign unsettles nothing in reality.

What the Trouble Was.

Employer—I was sorry to learn, Mr. Jennings, that you were too ill to attend to your duties at the office yesterday. What seems to be the trouble?

WILL THE OTHERS HELP

Buffalo Switchmen Must Have Aid, or Fail.

FOUR MASTERS TO CONFER TO-DAY.

The Meeting Set Down for Yesterday Postponed—Switchmen On Two Other Roads Join the Strikers—Their Action Said to Cut Little Figure—A Conflict Between Soldiers and Strikers in Which One of the Latter is Fatally Wounded.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The "cruel war," as it is now called both by the soldiers and the newspaper correspondents, is not yet over. On the side of the strikers the material events of yesterday were the accession to the ranks of the switchmen of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg men, which completes the tie-up, if such it may be called, of all the roads centering in Buffalo. The men of the latter road who quit work are not numerous, and their action does not cut any figure, as the road terminates at Buffalo on the tracks controlled by the Buffalo Creek Terminal Company, whose men were already out. Its only significance lies in the fact that the Rochester & Pittsburg is the great soft coal carrier for this and the up-lakes territory and with it in the strike all the coal roads centering at the port of Buffalo are involved in the strike.

The Lackawanna addition to the involved roads is of more importance as its tracks and trestles are numerous, and will have to have protection if there is a continuance of the tie-up. In addition to its leading trestle at the mouth of the harbor, and its extensive freight docks at the foot of Main street along the waterfront, it has a big storage trestle east of the city line in Cheektowaga.

All reports to the contrary, up to this morning there have been but two cases where strikers or mischief-makers have been actually hit when shot at by the troops. Late yesterday afternoon the 22d Regiment, stationed at the Tifft farm, where the Lehigh Valley docks are located, had a brush with strikers, one of whom was shot and so badly wounded by a soldier that he is likely to die. The affair grew out of assaults on non-union switchmen and several arrests were made. The soldier who did the shooting went with the police to make a statement and was himself made a prisoner.

As may be imagined, Col. Camp was not long in making it evident that the 22d Regiment did not relish such treatment by the civil authorities, and when Gen. Doyle told him to take all the men he wanted to re-capture his soldier and take possession of the police headquarters, if necessary, the order was obeyed with alacrity, and things looked decidedly interesting. A large sized incident was spoiled, however, when the police released the soldier before his comrades arrived to rescue him.

It may be assumed that the troops will all be here until the close of the week, at least, unless the strike is sooner declared off. On this phase of the question the expected meeting to-day between Messrs. Sweeney, Sargent, Clark and Wilkinson, representing the switchmen, firemen, conductors and trainmen, is expected to have an important bearing. This meeting was announced to take place yesterday, but was postponed.

There is no ground to change the belief of 24 hours ago—that the three last-named orders will find no reasonable ground for joining in a general strike.

The belief is growing to-day that this action will be an abandonment of the strike. The plan, it is now said, is to let the strike down easy. The conference will advise peace. Grand Master Sweeney will yield gracefully and the striking switchmen will go back to their places if they can or will seek work elsewhere.

The proposition made to the Sheriff Monday night on behalf of the strikers, will probably not be accepted by him. It is that the Sheriff swear in 400 of the striking switchmen as special deputies, each man to bring a certificate from Master Moriarity, of the local lodge of switchmen, that he is a responsible person and can be depended on.

The strikers want the troops withdrawn and they promise in return that they will guarantee the safety of the railroad property and will not go into the yards, but patrol the streets adjoining and keep out idlers from making trouble.

The firemen are reported to be clamoring for a strike, but Sargent says that no matter if they voted unanimously to strike he would not approve it if in his judgment he did not consider it prudent. And further more, however much he may be in favor of going out with the switchmen, the firemen will not do so unless all the other railroad labor organizations go out.

A mob harrassed the militia for over two hours during the night, firing shots from revolvers, putting torpedoes on the tracks and otherwise disturbing the night.

The soldiers turned out several times and the yards were searched but not a stranger could be found. As soon, however, as the guards were returned the trouble began again.

The men who were making all the trouble stayed in the yards. They could easily escape detection among the shadows of the long string of cars, and every time a soldier saw a skulking figure flash by in the darkness he sent a bullet after it.

The shooting was general and hundreds of volleys were fired.

The rattle and roar of the arms, the shouts of the sentries giving the alarm, the commands of the officers aroused the people living in the neighborhood of the camps, and only had they settled down into an uneasy slumber when those who lived nearest the camp were awakened by the sentries call from out along the silent yards where the signal lamps looked like huge vari-colored glow worms:

"Corporal of the post, No. 4." And then came shouts and shots thick and fast, and those who listened heard the whiz of the balls as they whistled through the night air or the "chug" of a bullet as it struck the woodwork of a car.

Says Firemen Cannot Legally Strike.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 24.—Grand Secretary Debs of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen says that no strike of the firemen at Buffalo can be legally ordered under the existing conditions without conflicting with the constitution and laws of the Order. He was very sure that the men would rem ain at work, and declared that a sympathetic strike was out of the question.

TO TAKE PART IN THE DISPUTE.

President Gompers Says The Federation of Labor Will Help the Strikers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—President Gompers of the Federation of Labor, who has been in this city since Monday, has had some important communications with the leaders of the strike at Buffalo.

What the exact nature of these communications is the president declined to state, but he is willing to admit that the Federation will take part in the dispute.

What the result of the Federation's part in the struggle between the New York Central and its employes may be, it is impossible for the moment to say. Judging from Mr. Gompers' own words, its possible effect will be to prolong the battle till the demands of the men are conceded, and possibly to cause a general strike if their demands be not granted within a reasonable period.

He advocates an amalgamation of the various railroad organizations and he further declared in language which shows that it is not the mere expression of a haphazard opinion, that the trouble, so far from nearing a termination, is only at its commencement.

P. & R. Accepting Freight.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 24.—Philadelphia & Reading agents throughout the coal regions have received orders to accept any and all kinds of freight to points north and west of Sayre without restriction. As this is a centralizing point for Lehigh freight in this county, traffic has been greatly delayed and great inconvenience experienced in trade circles hereabouts.

A RAILROAD SOLD.

New England Terminal Bought by the New York & New Haven.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 24.—The New England Terminal, the middle link in the New York and Eastern States line, with its steamers, transfer floats, real estate and leaseholds, has passed into the possession of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company.

The price paid was about $3,235,000.

The negotiations for the change of ownership of the property were in progress for nearly three weeks, and the bargain was consummated upon the satisfactory adjustment of the suit brought by the Long Island Railroad on account of the suspension of the traffic agreement to which the New England Terminal was a party.

Drexel, Morgan & Co. have purchased from F. H. Prince & Co., of Boston, the entire $800,000 bond issue of the New England Terminal. Messrs. Morgan and Rockefeller are paying the Terminal company's floating debt, which is stated to be between $200,000 and $400,000.

TO TEST ANTI-CHINESE LAWS.

An Agent Sent Out, It Is Said, to Make a Fight in Court.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Sam Moy, a prominent Chinaman, has surprised government officials by informing them that orders had been received from China not to obey the law requiring Chinese residents to take out certificates of residence.

He said the government of China had sent one of its officials to this country to fight the law in the courts.

A test case would be made of the arrest of some Chinamen in Detroit, where they were held on the charge of violating the Exclusion law passed by the present Congress.

In this way the Exclusion act and the provision compelling Chinamen to take out certificates of residence would be tested together. Until a decision was rendered, he said, no Chinaman in Chicago would take out a certificate.

HUNDRED LIVES IMPERILLED.

Attempt to Wreck an Express on the Pennsylvania Road.

READING, Pa., Aug. 24.—An attempt was made to wreck the express on the Pennsylvania Railroad due in this city from Philadelphia at 8:30 p. m.

After it had crossed one of the large iron bridges two miles below Reading, going 40 miles an hour, the engineer saw an obstruction ahead, but was unable to stop the train, which dashed into four heavy timbers placed across the track.

The rear wheels of the locomotive jumped the rails, and it was nearly 11 o'clock before the train reached Reading. The lives of over one hundred passengers were imperilled.

Held Up By a Highwayman.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 24.—At midnight J. F. Bellinger, agent and collector for Dick & Bowen, cigar manufacturers of this city, was held up by a highwayman on a lonely road four and one-half miles north of here. At the point of a pistol the robber compelled Bellinger to get out of his buggy and hand over his pocket book and then got in again and drive away as fast as he could. The robber secured only $42, which included a check for $7. There is no clue.

Has Returned to the Pulpit.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24.—The Rev. John Jayne is back in the Baptist pulpit again. He was originally a tanner, became an actor, and then entered the ministry. He was fast becoming distinguished when he announced a change of heart, became an agnostic, married a lady several years his senior, but possessed of $100,000, and engaged in the publishing business. Recently he declared his faith restored and is now again in good standing in the ministry.

Gould Not to Leave the Western Union.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The report sent out from Philadelphia that Peter A. B. Widener and William L. Elkins were to succeed Jay Gould as the controlling power in the Western Union Telegraph Company, is declared by Mr. Jay Gould to be without any foundation. Rumors of a change in the management of the Western Union have been current in Wall Street for a week or more, but little credence was placed in them.

TO SMOKE THE MINES.

How Riding Tennessee Strikers Will be Unearthed.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 24.—Quiet prevails at Coal Creek, but it has been determined to hold the troops there for a while so that any movement on the part of the miners may be met with sufficient force.

Yesterday the officials of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company held a consultation with the State Board of Prison Inspectors in reference to the order served upon the company to remove the convicts from the main prison.

It is not known how the conference resulted. It is believed, however, that the convicts will be returned speedily to the mines, and that the State will furnish proper protection.

Over 500 miners, suspects and citizens have been arrested at Coal Creek. About 150 are still held prisoners in a little church. The prison is close, hot and uncomfortable in every way.

A sensation is created here by the statement that the authorities have determined to smoke the mines, and thus drive out miners who are believed to be in hiding in them.

It has been suspected for some time that several of the much wanted leaders of the rioters had found shelter in the mines, where they have been comparatively safe from pursuit.

Squire Kincaid held court at Coal Creek yesterday and several miners have been held to court while others have been discharged. All obstacles to civil prosecution have been removed by appointing Gen. Carnes Deputy Sheriff of Anderson county.

State Attorney Pickle is conducting the prosecution with plenty of assistance.

IMPORTANT RAILROAD DECISION.

Companies Cannot Be Forced to Do Business at a Loss.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—What is probably the most important decision handed down by a Federal Judge in many years has just been handed down by Judge McCormick of the United State Court, at Dallas, Tex. The decision is a great victory for railroads operating throughout the country as well as those in the State of Texas.

It is practically to the effect that State legislation in regard to railroads which compels them to do business on such a status that it is impossible for them to pay the interest on their bonds impairs the contract with the holders of such bonds, and is consequently in violation of the Constitution of the United States.

The principal roads interested are the Texas & Pacific, the International & Great Northern, the St. Louis Southwestern and the Gulf, Colorado & Sante Fe, a branch of the Atchison. Judge McCormick's decision grants the prayers of the complainants in full. In effect it holds the entire act unconstitutional.

The decision gives immediate relief to the railroads and blocks the State Commission, pending appeal to the Supreme Court, when the railroads are confident of winning the case.

The effect of the decision on the stock market was apparent to-day. Southwestern stocks were active and buoyant.

CROP CONDITIONS.

Synopsis of Reports Issued by the Weather Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Weather Bureau issues the following synopsis of telegraphic reports of the condition of crops:

New York—Rainfall below and temperature above average; corn making rapid advances; buckwheat, tobacco and grapes in excellent condition.

New Jersey—High temperature and total absence of rain very injurious to all crops in southern counties. Light rains of previous week have badly scalded corn and cranberries.

Pennsylvania—Very little rainfall; corn, grass and vegetables suffering from drought; ground too dry to plow, tobacco cutting continues, crop very good; some grain threshing; wheat above the average yield; fruit poor, except pears and grapes.

Lizzie Borden Uneasy.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 24.—Lizzie Borden passed an uneasy night in the matron's room at the Central Station. She did not sleep well, although her bedding and food were brought from her own home. She is in a much happier and more contented frame of mind, however, than when she was here a week ago, but the excitement of Monday has had a visible effect upon her. The heirs of Mrs. Borden have hired counsel to look after the interests of the Borden estate when it reaches the Probate Court.

A Dinner to Ballard Smith.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Ballard Smith, late editor-in-chief of the New York "World," was dined by Joseph Pulitzer at Delmonico's last evening. William H. Morrill of the "World" editorial staff, presided, and a cablegram from Mr. Pulitzer, who is in Europe, was read. Mayor Grant, District-Attorney Nicol and the heads of departments of the "World" were present.

Insurance Company Property Attached.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Thirteen attachments, aggregating $13,800, were issued yesterday against the property in the State of foreign insurance companies. The companies refuse to pay claims for losses at the Park Place catastrophe a year ago, holding that the property was destroyed by the fall of the building and not by fire.

Hon. Harvey Arnold Dead.

ARCADE, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Hon. Harvey Arnold, Past President of the New York Farmers' Alliance, died at his home in this village at 7 a. m., aged 66 years. He leaves a widow and two daughters. The funeral will be conducted by the State Alliance.

A PANIC IN HAMBURG

Cholera's Increase Excites the Greatest Alarm.

HEAT ACCELERATES ITS SPREAD.

Terrible Mortality in Russia—Washington Officials Consult Regarding Measures for Keeping the Scourge from This Country—Precautions in New York.

HAMBURG, Aug. 24.—The spread of cholera in this city since yesterday excites the gravest alarm. The disease is in all parts of the city, the suburbs, and along the harbor.

Several streets have been closed on account of the prevalence of the disease in them.

Up to last night 340 cases and 180 deaths had been reported. In Altona 29 cases have been reported. In both cities the health authorities are sending out instructions as to disinfection in illness and burial.

Prof. Koch says that several cases in Hamburg are types of Asiatic cholera. The spread of the disease has undoubtedly been accelerated by the oppressive heat. The thermometer registers 97 degrees in the shade this morning.

In Roman Catholic churches prayers have been offered for the abatement of the heat and the disease.

GUARDING AGAINST CHOLERA.

Precautions for Preventing Its Introduction Into This Country.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding and Surgeon Austin of the marine hospital service had a conference yesterday afternoon looking to the best methods to be employed to prevent the introduction of cholera into this country. The conference was the result of the advices from Hamburg and Havre, giving information of the prevalence of that disease there.

It was decided to inform the health officers of New York and Baltimore of the condition of affairs and also to notify the immigrant inspectors. Secretary Spaulding is in communication with the agents of the steamship lines with a view to having immigrants' effects thoroughly disinfected on the other side of the water.

Private advices received in Berlin from Russia represent the mortality in the cholera-stricken cities as far exceeding anything which is allowed to appear in the Russian press.

Some idea of the apprehension which exists in Russian official circles may be gathered from the fact that telegraphic orders have been received by German firms for disinfectants and medicines which the trade is entirely unable to cope with.

Messrs. Gene & Company alone, for instance, received orders by telegraph from Dr. Remmert, Privy Councillor and Physician-in-Ordinary to the Czar, first for 10,000 and then for 50,000 kilograms of carbolic acid, but were compelled to reply that their stock was already exhausted by applications from other parts of Russia.

Silesian papers point to the fact that the import of geese even from the cholera districts is still permitted, and that, to prevent the spread of the epidemic, Germany will have to forbid this.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—United States Vice Consul-General Fox at Teheran, Persia, cables to the State Department as follows, from Teheran:

"Four hundred deaths from cholera. Five hundred cases have been treated by American hospital. Physicians are badly needed. When may I expect.

"(Signed) FOX."

The Department has replied that there are no general funds available for this purpose but that the telegram will be made public.

Officials Alert in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The report from Germany of the spread of cholerine has caused unusual activity on the part of the officials in this city. At Quarantine a vigilant watch is kept over all steamers and sailing vessels from foreign ports. The Board of Health in this city is watchful. They are confident that no cases of genuine cholera can get past Quarantine. Health Officer Jenkins will quarantine all Hamburg steamers until danger is past.

NEW JERSEY TRAIN STONED.

A Passenger Almost Loses the Sight of One Eye by Broken Glass.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 24.—As a train on the New Jersey & New York Railroad, due at Jersey City at 9 a. m., was passing through this place, some one threw a stone through a car window. The broken glass severely cut one of the passengers about the right eye. The sight was almost destroyed. The train was stopped and one of the company's detectives, who happened to be on board, got off to make a search for the party who threw the stone.

Brooks' Arrest Causes a Sensation.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 24.—The arrest of Harry Brooks on the charge of burglary has caused a veritable sensation. Brooks is of good family and until now always stood high among the best people of this city and other places. He confessed to four burglaries, among them three committed Sunday night. The thefts aggregate several thousand dollars.

Failure of a Homestead Merchant.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 24.—Adolph Doerr, one of the largest provision dealers at Homestead, has failed on account of a boycott instituted against him by the Carnegie mill strikers because he furnished provisions to non-union workers. No Amalgamated Association man would patronize him, and he suffered a loss of $10,000.

Russian Hebrews Detained at Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Many Russian Jews, who had been expelled from Odessa, have been encamped for several days in the court yard of the Lyons railway station. It is the intention of the authorities to pack them off to the United States, but the Havre steamship refused to take them on account of the typhus quarantine.

Morton Must Hang Friday.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 24.—James R. Morton, alias Moulton, colored, will be given no further respite and will be executed Friday in the Camden jail for the murder of Mrs. Lydia Ann Wyatt. Gov. Abbett will forward the decree warrant to-day for his execution.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Do n't neglect to get your seat for Uncle Tom's Cabin, before they are all gone!

—The Democrats of Westfield have rented club rooms on Broad street and will raise a banner early next month.

—Nobody—says the Elizabeth Journal—has been heard to condemn the action of manager Whelan in releasing Frances.

—Last season there was not a seat left when the Uncle Tom's Cabin company showed in Music Hall. Buy your seats now.

—The first public concert of the Plainfield Cornet band will take place this evening from the balcony of the City Hotel. The programme will be as published in Monday's PRESS.

—The excursion train of the Warren Mission and Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday-schools this morning consisted of two sections—the first of 9 cars filled, and the second of 5 cars filled and 4 empty.

—The Arlingtons of this city will play the Giants of North Plainfield, to-morrow morning at 10. The battery for the Arlingtons will be: G. Mattis, W. Van-Horn and C. Sutphen, and for the Giants: G. Bostlie and McLoughlin.

—Two of the bloodhounds belonging to Stetson's Double Monster Uncle Tom's Cabin company which is to exhibit at Music Hall, Friday evening, were recently imported by manager Stetson from Siberia, at a cost of nearly $500 each.

—The great Jersey salt-water day for colored people will be celebrated at Papiac to-morrow, in good old Southern style. There will be camp-meeting next Sunday, when the choir will be led by the celebrated New Orleans University singers.

—The Elizabeth Journal is forced to conclude that "the pennant will not come to Elizabeth, nor is it now possible for the Y. M. C. L. A. to climb into second place. They will finish in the third notch, as Westfield has no chance of outplaying them."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Minnie G. Morse has returned from Oriskany Falls, N. Y.

Miss L. K. Green of Park avenue has returned from Westerly, R. I.

Councilman F. E. Marsh has gone to Wilburton-by-the-Sea, Spring Lake.

Mrs. Martin I. Cooley will lead the meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms to-morrow afternoon.

Dr. T. S. Davis and Mulford Estil of this city, sailed from Liverpool for home on the Teutonic to-day.

David H. Lenox, of the Plainfield Bicycle club, is to be one of the umpires of racing at the coming great Amateur Athletic Union championship meet.

Mrs. W. A. Woodruff and daughter, Miss Mabel, of East Second street, returned home yesterday afternoon after a delightful two-weeks at Greenwich, Conn.

The Misses Nellie and Maggie Burke, of Grove street, and their party of friends from Westfield and Dunellen, have returned from a pleasant trip through New York State.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of Henry Wade Rogers, president of the Northwestern University, is visiting for a few days with her sister, Mrs. Alfred B. Nelson, of Craig place.

Miss Nellie Keating has returned to her home in Philadelphia after spending several weeks with her cousin, Mrs. George W. Squiers, of Harmony street, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. VanEmburgh, of East Second street, return to-night, after a delightful two weeks' trip through New York State, including Buffalo, Dunkirk, Niagara Falls and Chautauqua.

Thomas Burns, superintendent at Blackwell's Island, and sister, Mrs. J. C. Daley, have returned home after a pleasant stay with Mrs. Daley's brother-in-law, P. J. Daley, of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Miss Underwood, of Rockview avenue, an excellent soprano, takes Mrs. Knight's place in the choir of the First Presbyterian church, during the illness of Mrs. Knight. She sang a solo last Sunday evening very acceptably.

Lyman H. Pierson, brother of ex-freeholder James T. Pierson of Westfield, died yesterday at Chester. He was well known and highly esteemed in this vicinity where he lived all his early life. Last week he bought a new horse. It ran away with him and broke his ribs from the effects of which he died.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical—Clarence L. Ruff, Biddeford, Me.

FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Another Campaign Club Organized With Major Robert Burnett as President.

Another evidence of the unprecedented enthusiasm that is spreading all over the country for Cleveland, Stevenson and good government, was shown at the organization of a campaign club, last evening, which brought together elements that have never before taken a public part in politics. The meeting was held in a spacious room rented for the purpose in the Crescent rink building. There were present a large gathering of young men of the city and borough, some of whom will vote the Democratic ticket this fall for the first time.

J. A. Demarest was chairman of the meeting, which was a most harmonious one. The following officers were chosen unanimously:

President—Major Robert L. Burnett.
Vice-presidents—Henry Ely, Joseph W. Yates, James E. Clark and V. L. Frazee.
Secretary—Noel Verrier.
Treasurer—H. W. Marshall.

The organization is called the Cleveland & Stevenson Campaign club. Its membership already exceeds fifty, and it seems destined to be the leading political organization of the city and borough. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, the 29th inst., to which all friends of good goverament are cordially invited. The room will be open at all times, to everybody, from now until the close of the campaign, and all kinds of political literature will be furnished gratuitously.

A uniformed marching squad will be formed of those who may desire to join. A banner will probably be swung across the street in a few weeks.

CONVICT NO INNOCENT MAN.

That's The Motto of Plainfield's Corporation Counsel.

Patrick Keely was convicted this morning on the charge of rescuing a horse from officer Frisble, while that officer was in the act of taking the same to the pound. The city taking the position that even if Frisbie had wrongfully taken the horse in the first instance that would not justify Keely in taking the law into his own hands to rescue the animal as the same was being quietly driven to the pound. Other remarks were open if the first taking was unlawful. The city judge sustained this view of the law, and Keely was convicted and fined $5.

In the second case, the charge was that Keely unlawfully resisted an officer while that officer in the discharge of his duty was attempting to arrest Keely for violation of an ordinance. In this case John Wilson, who was relied upon by the city as the principal witness for the prosecution, gave evidence for the defense, stating that officer Frisble took the horse from the middle of a private lot, and himself struck the first blow. His testimony was so clear and straightforward that at its conclusion the corporation counsel declared to the court that he could not conscientiously ask for a conviction, and therefore he moved that the court instruct the jury to acquit the defendant. The court agreed with counsel and directed the verdict.

Corporation counsel Marsh declared that in his position as prosecuting officer for the city, he never had asked a jury to convict a man when the evidence would not warrant a conviction, and he never would. Some people, he said, regarded it as the duty of a lawyer, even in criminal cases, to win a verdict if possible, right or wrong. That was not his view, however, nor the view of the mayor or the common council.

Extending Good Roads to Plainfield.

The committees having in charge the road improvements projected in Middlesex county are pushing the business ahead with commendable energy. For the road from New Brunswick to Metuchen, and for the road from Old Bridge through Browntown to near Matawan, the specifications have been approved by president Edward Borough, of the State board of agriculture, and bids for the work are being advertised for. The bids for the road from Holly's Corner to Plainfield are also about ready to be advertised for and the expectation is that these three roads will be finished this fall.

Thinks Dumb Wives Are Picnics.

If one is to judge from the evidence of his own news columns, the experience of the editors of the Courier leads him to believe that if wives would make their husbands happy they should be dumb. Yesterday's Courier told of a poor woman who for eleven years had not been able to utter a sound, and the unfeeling wretch of an editor jealously remarks: "What a picnic for her husband!" Will the Courier editors' confession be taken by the cynics as evidence that marriage is a failure?

Sexton Johnson Resigns.

Mr. W. E. Johnson,

DEAR SIR: Your resignation as sexton of the Methodist church has been received and presented to the board of trustees, said resignation to take effect Sept. 1, 1892.

By resolution of the board, your resignatign was duly accepted, and the secretary was instructed to inform you of the action of the board.

Very respectively,
GEO. R. CORNWELL,
Secretary.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will sure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Harry C. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

A PLAINFIELDER'S VACATION.

Pleasant Visit to Resorts Along the New England Shore.

Letters received from one of several Plainfielders enjoying a visit to resorts of Rhode Island and Connecticut report delightful weather and a charming vacation. The following extracts will be of interest:

Considerable of our time has been spent at New London, and too much cannot be said in favor of this old but enterprising seaport.

The town is unusually favored by Nature in her geographical location, and possesses many attractions for summer residents. Being easily accessible from the metropolis and Boston, it affords a convenient resort on the salt water for people who wish to escape the heat and fatigue of the city for a few weeks during the hot term.

The city, picturesquely situated on the edge of one of the finest harbors on the coast, commands at all times a superb marine view. Daily or hourly boats run to Eastern Point, Mystic Island, Fisher's Island, Block Island, Watch Hill, the Pequot and Norwich, where boating, fishing, bathing and all sorts of diversions can be indulged in.

The sail up the Thames to Norwich is one of the most refreshing and delightful trips radiating from New London, and is rewarded at the end by reaching one of the most attractive and interesting cities of New England—"The Rose of New England", so-called. Norwich makes no feature as a summer resort, although its own beauty, the picturesqueness of the drives through the surrounding country, its situation at the head of the Thames, and its proximity to the seaside, serve to delight many visitors from abroad during the season. We spent Thursday there, and visited among other places of interest the Slater museum, which was erected by W. A. Slater and dedicated in 1886. It has three halls on the lower floor for class purposes, the largest of which will seat 1,000 persons. The second and third stories are occupied by the museum, hall, and a library room, in which the Peck library is deposited. The museum contains one of the finest collections of plaster casts in this or any other country. The south gallery of the museum is devoted to the photographs of all the most important world's paintings. The Edmond collection of Indian relics is to be seen there.

The Broadway theater was built in 1890 at a cost of nearly $90,000. It is decorated in the style of Louis XVI period. It will seat 1,250 people. An asbestos curtain, covering the entire proscenium opening, is always ready for use. The auditorium is 60x100 feet, separated from the stage by a 20-inch fire wall. The stage is 60x40 feet with a height of 65 feet for rigging loft. There are sixteen dressing rooms.

The electric road is in successful operation, and it is well liked. The system is very similar to that used in Plainfield. It is indeed the ideal road for any city.

Monday we went for a drive to Gardner's Lake, situated about nine miles from Norwich. It is a very pretty drive through the woods and over the hills, and as one approaches the lake it presents a beautiful view peacefully sleeping among the hills.

The harbor was a very pretty sight the day we were at New London. There were a great many yachts, and also the "White Squadron", or rather part of it. I think there were six in all, including the schoolship Constellation, which left for Bar Harbor while we were there.

We were on the Philadelphia about half an hour, and it was a sight well worth seeing.

Wednesday we spent at Watch Hill—and such a crowd. One had to work pretty hard to get anywhere near a "shore dinner", but by waiting about an hour we finally succeeded in getting a table.

While there we had a fine view of the New York Yacht club, en route for Newport. There were sixty-eight in the fleet.

Every hotel at Watch Hill is crowded, and they cannot begin to accommodate the people. For my part, though with many Plainfield people Watch Hill is a favorite resort, I can't see where the attractiveness lies. True, it commands a fine view of the ocean, and the bathing is quite good, but aside from these it does not offer very much in the line of pleasure.

The sail from New London is a very pretty one and is seldom rough enough to cause sickness.

The amateur and professional fishermen are having rare sport now as fish of nearly all kinds are plentiful. Bluefish are the most sought after as they are a "gamey" fish and toothsome after they are obtained. Sea bass are caught in large quantities near Montauk. Mackerel abound all along the shore but they are more plentiful near Watch Hill reef than at any other point.

—Major Anderson Post, 109, G. A. R., of this city, will have as their guests the 30th Regt. of New Jersey, who hold their reunion here Sept. 1.

—The new automatic block system signals on the Jersey Central railroad are now all in working order, and will be put into use Monday morning.

You can save money with Dr. Pierce's medicines, if you get the genuine. Suppose they're not the lowest in price—what does that matter? The point that's important is this:—they're the cheapest medicines you can buy at any price, for, with them, you pay only for the good you get. If they ever fail to benefit or cure, you have your money back. Can you ask more?

But, there's only one way to get these genuine guaranteed medicines. To guard against fraud and imposition, they're sold only through druggists regularly authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (for the liver, blood and lungs), . . . $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and ailments), . $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (for the liver, stomach and bowels), ... 25 cents.

Beware of fraudulent imitations and substitutes offered at lower prices than the above.

Grist of the City Court.

Frank Wilson and Thomas McInerny, two young lads, were held by judge Codington this morning to await the action of the grand jury for stealing plumber's lead and solder from a West Front street dwelling.

Hackman Patrick Keely was convicted and fined $5 for taking his horse away from officer Frisble when the horse was under arrest. Keely was tried before the court and jury on a second charge of interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. He protested that he had n't known Frisble was an officer, and the jury acquitted him. Then Frisble resigned

Robert Hart and John Henry had been fighting on the street while drunk. Hart was fined $10, and Henry $5.

Fred Randolph had been crazy drunk at his home on Cottage place, and was setting fire to the house and shooting off a pistol when the police nabbed him. He got 60 days in jail.

Sarah Keach, for intoxication and peddling tobacco without a license, went to jail for 30 days.

A Coal Car Jumps the Track.

This morning, soon after 5, a coal car on a train going east, jumped the track at the switch just west of the Westfield station, and ran through the yard past the station, regaining the rails at the switch and frog about seven hundred feet east of the passenger station. Train No. 546 going east on the passenger track nearby, escaped running into the derailed car. None of the train men discovered the derailment of the car until it was reported to Cranford or Elizabeth from the Westfield station.

Delightful Summer Night's Festival.

For a merry good time to-morrow evening, go to the picnic in Evona grove. This will be a great summer night's festival, and the young people will find the music and dancing highly enjoyable. MR. BUELL CALLED UPON.

The United States Government Appeals to a Plainfield Resident for Help and Gets It—Some Most Interesting Facts About Telegraphy Now Published for the First Time.

Among the features of the Post Office department's exhibit at the Columbian exposition, will be the original telegraphic instruments used by the government on the first telegraph line erected in this country—between Washington and Baltimore—if those instruments can be got. The government owned the line and operated it for two years—Morse the inventor and his associates being regularly paid officials of the United States. After that time—say from December, 1846, to March 4, 1847—the whole plant was leased to a Messrs. Vail & Rogers; but to-day the U. S. government yet own and operate 6,500 miles of wire. Then the property passed out of the knowledge of the government, and now, when it is desired to make a feature of these first instruments, the United States finds herself with no information as to their whereabouts. Consequently, third assistant postmaster general, Madison Davis, sends an official communication to Charles E. Buell, of this city, asking him to help the government out.

Mr. Buell is chief clerk in the bureau of religious statistics of the present census, with its office on North avenue. During the last census Mr. Buell had charge of telegraph and telephone statistics. Upon the receipt of Mr. Davis's request he at once forwarded the information desired. It is the privilege of THE PRESS to be permitted to publish the following interesting matter from Mr. Buell's communication:

The receiving instruments which were first used by Morse in connection with the telegraph line extending from Washington to Baltimore, about 1844, are believed to be in existence. One register is in the possession of the descendants of Mr. Vail, who worked with Morse. This family lives at, or near, Morristown. The other register, for it required two—one at each terminal—is, I believe, in the possession of the Western Union Telegraph company, at their main office, corner of Broadway and Dey street, New York city. This company also has some of the original vouchers, etc., relating to construction of this first telegraph line, together with some of the wire, etc., used in the first line.

The original first message, "What Hath God Wrought", is preserved in the Atheneum, at Hartford, it having been received on a strip of paper, the only way then known of receiving. Frank L. Pope, a well-known lawyer, of New York city, was at one time custodian of the Morse appliances. A Mr. Heddon, or Haddon, who was connected with the American Union Telegraph company, had in his possession the original agreement between Prof. Morse and Mr. Vail, relating to the construction of the apparatus.

The dynamo and magneto machines are now a factor in the telegraph system. The first magneto machine ever made was by Joseph Saxton, of the United Coast survey. He was from Philadelphia, but lived at the time on Four-and-a-Half street, Washington. The original first machine is in possession of his sister, Mrs. Pendleton, who, at last accounts, lived in Washington. The Saxton machine was the very first of this type; the statement about Pixi, of Europe, to the contrary, notwithstanding. The facts are that Saxton employed Pixi to make a second machine, whereupon Pixi made some slight change in the form of construction and started out with what he had made on a tour of exhibition, claiming all as his own.

The Western Union Telegraph company are employing dynamo machines for producing the currents used in telegraphing. The first dynamo was made by Charles G. Page, of the patent office, as early as 1837-8. Mr. Page saw and used the Saxton machine, and conceived of the idea of changing the rapidly alternating pulsations into a continuous current, which he did by the addition to the Saxton machine, of what he was pleased to call a "unitress", but what is now termed a "commutator". This first dynamo was used by Page in 1844-5 for charging the telegraph line that had been constructed between Washington and Baltimore. The original first dynamo was made for Mr. Page by Isaac Davis, 11 Cornhill street, Boston, and is now in possession of Franklin institute, of Philadelphia. This first dynamo by Page was turned by hand, and it is stated that it would charge an electro-magnet so that it would sustain a weight of 1,000 pounds, or heat a foot of platinum wire No. 28 to incandescence. This small dynamo is not yet excelled in the currents produced by a small power.

The first company for electric lighting was at Paris, Compagnie d'Alliance. Their apparatus was made from plans of Clark and Nollete, but Clark copied the Page machine and claimed it as his invention, and it occurs that the Clark machine is referred to in some histories as the first commutator machine.

To Prof. Henry was due the development of the motor function of electricity or of the means by which electro-magnetic power can be exerted, making succeeding steps comparatively easy and laying the foundation for all subsequent forms of electro-magnetic telegraphs and motor mechanisms; and the first applications of this function in a practical communicating telegraph was by S. F. B. Morse, and first for alarm telegraphs by Moses G. Farmer of Salem.

The first induction apparatus was invented by Charles G. Page, and descriptions of the same were published in Silliman's Journal and Sturgeon's Annals, England, in 1838. This appliance is now an important factor in the system of telephoning, as well as in electric lighting, and other uses.

The Page apparatus was improved by R. S. Ritchie, an instrument maker, of Boston; so that sparks which would overcome more than a foot air space were produced. In 1858 Prof. McCullough ordered an induction coil of Buhmkorff, an instrument maker of Paris, informing him that Mr. Ritchie, of Boston, had made improvements, and giving Ruhmkorff one of Ritchie's coils, which he dissected and from which he made one identical, claiming it as his invention. The French scientific journals were immediately glowing with descriptions and praise of the wonderful invention of M. Ruhmkorff, and the French Institute awarded the emperor's prize of 50,000 francs to Ruhmkorff as the inventor of the induction coil. It is positively known that some of the members of the Institute were conversant with all the facts and had seen Ritchie's coil. M. Ruhmkorff accepted the francs. Prof. Tyndall attributed to an Englishman a discovery made years before by Prof. Page, and by him published in Silliman's Journal. It would be hard insinuation to say he did it ignorantly, he being the best read man in New England. This learned and eloquent Prof. Tyndall attributed the discovery of the vibration of "Trevelyn's bars" to George Gore of England, although the same discoveries were announced eight years before Gore's experiments in Silliman's Journal.

The first sub-marine cable was laid by Prof. Morse, in New York Harbor. The first Atlantic cable was due to the business genius of Cyrus W. Field. The first electro-magnet with a polarized armature, which makes the quadruplex system of telegraphing possible, was made by Prof. Henry. The first multiple telegraph was by Moses G. Farmer in Boston, one year before the experiments of Dr. Gintl at Vienna, but to Stearns and Edison belong the credit of a practical solution of multiple transmission, all previous attempts being abandoned experiments. The condenser to neutralize the electro-static charge in telegraphic lines—the pre-requisite of practical duplex transmission—was practically used in the year 1859 by Mr. Barnard, of Mississippi.

A NEW CROP FOR THE FARMERS.

New Jersey's First Cotton Now Growing in Somerset County.

William Beardslee, a young farmer living about one mile from Somerville, has growing in his garden a small patch of cotton which is now in bloom. The plants are waist high, and unless cold weather sets in at once will produce a crop of cotton, the first ever grown in New Jersey. The facts as to how Mr. Beardslee came to plant the cotton seed are as follows: Col. George Anderson, of Somerville, a gentleman of fortune, is in the habit of spending his winters in the South. Last winter he lived at Thomasville, Ga., and occasionally visited a friend, H. B. Ainsworth, who owns a large plantation near that place. It was during one of these visits that Mr. Anderson secured a small quantity of cotton seed with the idea of seeing whether it would grow in Jersey or not. He brought it North with him, and early in the spring selected the soil and planted the seed, not with the least idea that the seed would produce a crop, but just to see how much it would grow before frost. He was greatly surprised, when, a week ago, he visited Beardslee, to find the plants in fine bloom. Mr. Anderson now believes there is no reason in the world why cotton should not be grown in New Jersey with success. If the cotton comes, here is a curiosity for the New Jersey World's Fair exhibit—the first cotton grown in the State.

An Unkind Remark.

"Oh, no, ma'am," pleaded the tramp "you may think my life all sunshine but it ain't. Wherever I go I am beset with dangers. In short, ma'am, I carry my life in my hands."

"Ah, I see!" exclaimed his temporary hostess, "that accounts for you not washing your hands. You don't dare to do it for fear you'll drown yourself."—Texas Siftings.

Why She Didn't Laugh.

Mrs. Harlem Heights—You must not laugh and make fun of everybody, Mamie.

Mamie—I don't, mamma. The other day a little girl fell off a board fence and all the other children laughed, but I didn't."

"That was right."

"Yes. I was the little girl that fell off the fence. I cried."—Texas Siftings.

Who He Was.

"You are traveling for your health, I presume?" remarked one Atlantic passenger to another.

"Yes, sir. I have hardly known a well day in six years."

"Perhaps your business is too confining or exacting?"

"Oh, no. I am the proprietor of the celebrated Ne Plus Ultra specific for all the ills that flesh is heir to."—Judge.

All Right in This Case.

It was 11:50 Saturday night, and the lovely young heiress of $5,000,000 said to her adorer:

"Harold, papa looks with favor upon you, but—but I think it best to tell you that—that he is a firm advocate of Sunday closing."

And Harold reached for his hat.—Chicago Tribune.

IRON HALL RECEIVERS

Judge Taylor Says the Order Was Bound to Fail.

SUPREME OFFICERS DENOUNCED.

New Haven Members Declare They Have Been Swindled—Receivers Appointed for the Branch in Baltimore—Favorable Resolutions from a St. Louis Lodge.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—In giving his decision appointing James F. Bailey receiver for the Iron Hall, with a bond of $1,000,000, Judge Taylor said:

"The evidence is clear and there is no question but a receiver should be appointed. The thing has been put into this condition by the management of its officials, the like of which this court never heard of in the course of more than 25 years' practice. It seems as if it were managed more for the purpose of keeping up the Supreme officials than for the profits of the members of the order. It is clearly an institution which must close out even with the best management, and those last in it must come as sufferers."

In speaking of the amount in the Philadelphia bank, the Judge said that he did not think that more than five cents on the dollar would be realized.

By order of the court an officer took control of the order's headquarters at noon.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—The news of the appointment of a receiver at Indianapolis did not create much surprise among the members of Order of Iron Hall in this city. Judge Taylor was expected to take such action, and the general impression is that the Order will be rehabilitated and assessments levied to put the organization on a good financial footing. It is said that as a matter of self-preservation the certificate holders of this State and city may apply for a local receiver.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—At a meeting here Monday night 1,500 local members of the Iron Hall adopted resolutions endorsing the order, agreeing to pay all assessments, and to support Chief Justice Somerby. The sensation of the meeting was the speech of Deputy Supreme Justice Badger. He charged Supreme Cashier Davis and Supreme Accountant Walker with being the men who were endeavoring to wreck the order. He was especially severe on Davis, charging him with instigating the numerous suits.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 24.—Judge Dennis has appointed Charles J. Wiener and Joseph C. France receivers for the Order of Iron Hall. The supreme officers of the Order, who reside in Baltimore and were made party defendants in the bill brought by Attorney Wiener, came into court and gave their consent to the appointment of receivers.

Another bill for an injunction and receiver has been filed in the City Circuit Court against the Iron Hall. The bill prays that the Iron Hall Savings Bank be restrained from collecting any money due it on mortgages and from parting with any of the funds of the Order now deposited in its vaults. Judge Dennis signed an order granting a preliminary injunction to this effect, and setting August 31 as the day for the Order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 23.—An exciting meeting of the local members of the Iron Hall was held in this city. The members declared that they had been swindled by the supreme officers of the order. It was declared that the treasurer should hold $2,500 in the local treasury.

SAYS THE GUARDS DID RIGHT.

Warden Brown of Sing Sing Justifies the Shooting of the Convicts.

SING SING, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The excitement over the shooting of Convict Charles F. Vincent, who was killed, and the wounding of Convict Welsh, while they were trying to escape, has entirely subsided. Vincent's body, not being claimed by his friends, has been buried in the prison cemetery.

Welsh is in the hospital under the care of Prison Surgeon Irvine. The bullet wound in his thigh is not considered serious. He will be placed in a dark cell on a fare of bread and water for a certain period and will also lose all his good time which would have been taken off his sentence for good behavior.

Keeper Solomon Post, who had such a desperate encounter with Convict Vincent before the latter was shot, is laid up with a badly lacerated hand. One of his fingers was almost bitten off by the convict, and there is danger of blood poisoning.

Warden Brown says that he has made a thorough investigation of the whole affair and is satisfied that his keepers who took part in the fight with the convicts did only their plain duty in shooting them down.

DEATH OF EX-GOV. CLARKE.

He Was Elected New York's Executive in 1855.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Ex-Governor Myron H. Clarke, died at his home on Gibson street here yesterday. Deceased was born in Naples, Ontario county, N. Y., in 1806. He early engaged in business at this place and during his residence here was called upon to serve in the capacities of sheriff of the county, Member of Assembly, State Senator and other important offices, and was elected on the Prohibition ticket as Governor of this State in 1855.

He is survived by one son, Lorenzo E. Clarke, of Detroit, and by four daughters, Mrs. F. F. Thompson, of New York city, Mrs. Green Williams and Mrs. S. D. Backus, and Miss Lottie Clarke of this place. The funeral will be held from the house on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock.

Had Quarreled With Her Mother.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 24.—The woman who rushed into the surf at Coney Island yesterday, and tried to drown herself, was Miss Emma Lang of this city. The woman was quarreling with her mother in one of the pavilions near the sea, when she suddenly arose and rushed into the water. The guards had great difficulty in saving her.

Her Marriage Not Annulled.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Millicent Bandmann-Palmer writes from Surrey, Eng., to friends in this city, that her marriage to Daniel F. Bandmann, the tragedian, has not been annulled, and that, if the report is correct that he has married Mary E. Kelly, a San Francisco actress, he has committed bigamy.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends. Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

WHEELMEN, ATTENTION!

AN ORDINANCE

to regulate the use of bicycles, tricycles and other noiseless vehicles in the public streets. The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That no person shall ride upon any bicycle or tricycle, or other wheeled vehicle not drawn by a horse, upon any sidewalk in the City of Plainfield, except when necessary so to do in passing from private premises to the roadbed of any street; nor shall any person ride any such vehicle in or upon any street or highway of said city without ringing a bell or sounding a whistle at a distance of at least fifty feet from any street crossing or intersection over which any person may be passing, in such manner as to give full and sufficient warning of such approach; nor shall any person ride upon any such vehicle upon any street of said City between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise without carrying and displaying a lighted lantern.

SECTION 2. That every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense.

Adopted by the Common Council August 1, 1892.

Approved by the Mayor August 3, 1892.
A. GILBERT, Mayor.
Attest:—F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Everyone violating any of the provisions of this ordinance will be dealt with as law and justice may require.
GEO. W. GRANT,
Chief of Police.

CAMPAIGN PALAVER.

Banners That Will Be Flung to the Breezes This Fall.

Some Unique Designs in Lapel Buttons for Both Sides—The New Campaign Handkerchiefs, Campaign Suits, Umbrellas and Canes.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

There is a vague suspicion in the minds of partisans that the nominations of both Harrison and Cleveland were brought about through the untiring exertions of three influential bodies of men. I refer to the hat manufacturers, the campaign banner men and the campaign lapel-button makers.

In fact the stock of the last campaign is being paraded in the market with all the vim and vigor necessary to the success of a business that flourishes but a brief season, once in four years, and we would imagine everything to be of the latest and best designing.

"This is our year for a real big profit," said the hat manufacturer, "but we had to take desperate chances. You see our fall goods have all got to be made by the middle of May, and at that time we were fairly sure of the renomination of Cleveland and Harrison, and, of course, the orders for 'grandfather' hats and the Cleveland tile, all off the old blocks were given out. We kept on manufacturing till the first of June, when, with almost a million hats in stock, the Blaine boom began. Well, to say that we were all of a cold perspiration is putting it mildly. We simply sprinted up to Minneapolis, and every hat drummer in the business gave vent to an amount and degree of enthusiasm never dreamed of by the ordinary political howler.

"We howled in the morning, we worked in the afternoon and we prayed at night. Well, Blaine was beaten and the campaign hat trade was saved. Of Cleveland's nomination we were fairly certain all the time, and we felt a great relief daily to read the latest announcement by William C. Whitney: 'You can feel absolutely sure that Cleveland will be nominated on the first ballot.'"

But in the way of banners some really fine work is being done. I dropped in on Naegele the other day, the famous political banner artist, and found him busied over two exquisite pieces of work. One was intended for the Union League club and the other for the Hide and Leather organization down in the swamp. The first named is a massive piece of canvas with a centerpiece of "grandfather's" hat resting on an American shield, while an eagle does its screaming over all. At each side are pictures of Harrison and Reid. The design of the Hide and Leather club is democratic. A screeching eagle rests on a massive shield, while about each picture clings designs of a mythological nature.

The inscription on these are very plain, simply "For President" and "For Vice President," then the names and on top the words "Regular Republican (or Democratic) Nominations."

It is in the button that the designer has given himself full swing in the way of captions. On the democratic side he sings to the tune of "Tariff Reform," "Tariff for Revenue Only," "Free Trade is Labor's Best Protection," "Public Office is a Public Trust," "No Coercion! No Force Bill," and on the republican side he has played on the phrases, "A Fair Ballot and a Fair Count," "Uncompromising Protection," "Protection for American Labor," "Protection for American Industries," "Reciprocity," "Reciprocity and Sound Money," "The Party of Sound Money," "We Built the Navy," etc., etc. Cleveland's tariff ideas are worked into every imaginable design from the clover leaf to the flag button. The "Cleveland buck" idea is embodied very prettily in a horseshoe design, in which rests the picture of the ex-president. The flag seems to have been appropriated by the republicans, and it is made in cloth, in a brass wave design, and in the shield, all presenting some republican partisan caption.

But the campaign idea has delved into strange fields this year. It is worked into pretty neckwear and into handkerchiefs. Some of these latter are extremely pretty, having the picture of candidates worked into the "H. and B." or "G. and S." initials. The necktie for the republicans is a pretty design in flag-colored stripes, and that for the democrats has the pictures of Cleveland and Stevenson in a rather poorly figured horseshoe. Badges are not much in style, although these will probably be worn more or less when the campaign parades begin. Among the prettiest I saw were those of white silk with portraits of candidates woven in black, while the inscriptions are in red and blue silk. Scarf pins are as varied in design as the lapel button, but are not worn so much. A few enthusiasts, like Gen. Horace Porter, will wear two lapel buttons and a scarf pin, and possibly a silk badge underneath the coat, but that is carrying party fervor to an unwonted warmth.

It is in campaign coats, suits and shirts that the old stock comes into play. They are busy tearing out all the pretty "Ms" and "Ts," which stood for Morton or Thurman and inserting new "Rs" and "Ss." Said one of the manufacturers: "If they had nominated Morrison at Chicago and Tracy at Minneapolis for the respective vice presidencies we would have been in splendid shape to use even the lettering of four years ago, for we would simply have twisted it around. But there are a great many shirts which have the full names "Cleveland" and "Harrison" on them, and, of course, in these there is no change.

Campaign suits are made of Canton flannel and are about the same for both parties, with the exception of the names or initials. The Norfolk blouse will be sold in all colors. So will the double-breasted sack, the frock coat, the Continental suit, the zouave, the marine, the army and the pioneer suit. This last is peculiarly a Harrison affair. It consists of the old style coat and pants worn in "Tippecanoe" days, bear-skin hat, leather apron, belt and the pioneer torch. These, too, are the costliest of the campaign suits in the market, coming at $6 each. The cheapest is the Norfolk blouse suit, which will sell for $1.50. The "Continental" campaign suit is made of dark blue cloth, trimmed with buff, and consists of coat, vest, Knickerbocker leggings and three-cornered hat. This suit will cost the partisan $4.50, but the orders for it are already very numerous, and it will be frequently seen in the parades.

Capes will be worn as much as ever, and these will cost as high as $55 for the Havelock and $25 for the 19-inch design.

Then there are helmets and caps of all sorts and descriptions for campaign clubs. The white beaver-napped hats for republicans will cost $18 per dozen, while the bearskin shakos come to $30.

One feature of the last campaign has disappeared from view. This is the old bandanna. In opposition to it the old flag handkerchief was brought out four years ago, and this still flourishes.

Then there are umbrellas, which will be a great feature of this campaign. Last campaign the republicans carried the flag design and the democrats the red bandanna umbrella. This year this last has been changed to a unique new figure in red, white and blue. In canes the old styles remain intact.

There are no changes in torches or flambeau outfits and all the old material will be "in full swing" again.

Crops in Hayti.

The soil of Hayti is very fertile. Corn is easily grown and three crops can be raised annually.

School Enrollment.

The total school enrollment of the United States last year was 14,200,000.

A Deluded Child.

Appearances are very deceiving. A little boy at the New York casino who noticed the gentlemen looking through their opera glasses at the ballet dancers, and being of the opinion that the opera glasses were for an entirely different purpose, said:

"Mamma, buy me one of those things so I can cover up my eyes with them when those women come on the stage."—Texas Siftings.

A Lie Out Somewhere.

"I haven't taken a drop of liquor for years," said a rather florid-looking man to a temperance lecturer in Texas.

"You haven't, eh?"

"Certainly not; don't you believe me?"

"The trouble is, my friend, I don't know which of your features to believe—your lips or your nose, but I do know there is a lie out somewhere."—Texas Siftings.

Plenty of Company.

"You didn't get a prize at school, I understand," remarked Louis' father.

"No, sir," said Louis; "there was only one prize and thirty boys, and I was one of the twenty-nine that got left. I wasn't a bit selfish."—Harper's Young People.

He Thanked Her Too Soon.

"Have you anything for me this morning, madam?" asked Hungry Higgins of Mrs. Glanders.

"Yes; I have a nice cake."

"O, thank you very much."

But the tramp fled when she handed him a cake of soap.—Brooklyn Life.

Rather Heartless.

Little Dick—School-teachers haven't any feelings at all.

Mamma—What is the matter now?

Little Dick—My teacher borrowed my new knife to sharpen her pencil, so she could give me a demerit mark.—Good News.

"CAN I ASSIST YOU, MADAM?"

This is an every-day occurrence; she is taken with that "all-gone" or faint feeling, while calling or shopping. The cause of this feeling is some derangement, weakness, or irregularity incident to her sex. It matters little from what cause it may arise; instant relief may always be found by using

DECLARED OFF BY SWEENEY

The Switchmen's Strike Came to an End at Midnight.

OTHER BODIES WOULD NOT COME OUT IN SYMPATHY.

The Grand Masters Refused to Call Out Their Men Unless They Had a Grievance—More Violence by Strikers—A Soldier Badly Injured—Reward Offered by Gov. Flower for Conviction of Violators of Laws Relating to Railroads.

BUFFALO, Aug. 25.—The unfortunate switchmen's strike of 1892 in New York is over. What little vitality there was left was effectually crushed out last evening at the close of the much heralded conference of the executives of the railway orders who came here in response to Grand Master Switchman Sweeney's invitation. Nothing then remained for the latter but to arrange the funeral, at which there are mourners in plenty, now that the strike is off.

In spite of the fact that the result has been prophesied for days, the general unfamiliarity with the methods of procedure of the organizations represented left a sufficient doubt and possibility that something might be done, and thus created an interest in the gathering which would otherwise have been unwarranted.

After leaving the conference Grand Master Sweeney and Local Master Moriarity, of the switchmen, called together the members of the committee that had been conducting the strike, and it was reported that at 11 o'clock a statement would be ready. As early as 10:30 there was a camp of newspaper men on the fourth floor of the Genesee Hotel, before the door of room 163, the quarters that have been the home of the switchmen's chief during his stay in Buffalo.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the door was opened, and the waiting throng entered. The statement of the end of the strike, made verbally by the Grand Master, was as follows:

"The duly authorized committee have declared the strike off, and I have sanctioned their decision. Five hundred and fifteen switchmen cannot cope with twelve big railway corporations and 8,000 militia and succeed. We have made a strong fight and have lost."

Asked if he had anything to say in regard to the failure of the other organizations to come to the aid of the switchmen, Mr. Sweeney replied: "Let them speak for themselves. I have nothing further to say."

When asked to give his views on the possibility that the present strike may lead to a renewal of the federation of railway employes, Mr. Sweeney declined to say anything further, in this respect following the lead of other executives, who, when asked the same question after the afternoon conference, simply answered that "the future was not discussed."

It was more than ever the general opinion, just before the conference was called, that the leaders would advise declaring the strike off. It was also believed that a general federation agreement between the four organizations which was disrupted last June as the result of interal strife would be effected and their lines strengthened for next year.

Grand Master Sargent, of the firemen, has been here for two days, and Grand Master Wilkinson, of the trainmen, and Grand Chief Clark, of the conductors, arrived from Chicago yesterday. The four leaders went into secret conference at Sargent's at the Broezel House at 3 o'clock and were in session not quite four hours. When they finally reappeared the hotel corridor furnished a first-class imitation of the hours during a political conference, the politicians in this case being reporters.

Grand Master Sweeney slipped away, leaving the visitors to undergo an inquisition, and the ease and tact with which the avalanche of questions was parried and all inquirers referred to Mr. Sweeney on the vital interrogation—"Is the strike off" was evidence that the leaders are diplomats if not statesmen.

Messrs. Sargent, Wilkinson and Clark were in full harmony as to the position of the firemen, trainmen and conductors, which, in a nutshell, is no strike without a grievance. In talking with a reporter, Grand Master Wilkinson said: "The trainmen are in full sympathy with the original proposition of the switchmen, in fact, they think they deserved even more than they asked for."

Grand Master Sargent returned to Terre Haute at midnight, well satisfied that any hot-headed members of the Brotherhood of Firemen hereabouts have concluded that his advice to "keep on boiling water" is too good to be disregarded at the present juncture.

Grand Master Wilkinson and Grand Chief Clark will remain until this afternoon.

As soon as the news began to spread over the city, which it did very rapidly in spite of the storm, there was general rejoicing. The immediate withdrawal of the troops is not expected, as it will take more or less time for a complete restoration of quiet and cessation of the attacks to which the non-union men soldiers have been subjected.

The strikers and their sympathizers continued their night attacks upon the troops and non-union men.

The Buffalo & South Western division of the Erie tried to send out an unguarded freight train on its road shortly before midnight.

There were three non-union men on top of the cars. As the train slacked up near Seneca street a lot of strikers boarded it and threw the three non-union switchmen off the cars and assaulted them with coupling pins. They are seriously injured.

After the assault the men fled before an alarm could be given and escaped.

Another attempt was made to wreck a freight train in the yards at Suspension Bridge early yesterday. An eastbound New York Central freight was making up and getting ready to leave. While backing in on a spur at the eastern end near the Lockport road a switch was turned between the wheels of a car and the result was that a car in the middle of the train was derailed and thrown on its side. The train was stopped and the derailed car cut out.

The switch-house where the switch tender stood with his lantern was only four rods distant, but the marauder made good his escape.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Private Charles Delehanty of Company D, Twelfth Regiment, New York, was injured by being struck by a freight train and was taken to the Emergency Hospital. Delehanty was dozing on the track and did not notice the freight which was backing down. He was thrown from the track and injured about the head and shoulders.

The State Board of Arbitration is hard at work making an investigation of the causes leading to the switchmen's strike, and which will be embodied in their annual report.

The report yesterday from Rochester that 75 switchmen on the Central at East Rochester had struck cheered the strikers here, but proved to be partially erroneous.

There are but 75 or 100 switchmen along all the Central tracks in Rochester, and only twenty-two are employed in the East Rochester yards, ten night and twelve day switchmen.

These twenty-two struck at 4 o'clock, but the trouble was of short duration.

The men do not belong to the union and the strike was not so much in sympathy with the Buffalo men as it was because the men there had a slight grievance in that they did not get extra pay for Sunday work as was the custom in Buffalo.

Assistant Superintendent Gould went to the yards and talked with the men, adjusting the grievance. The men went home to change their clothes and soon afterward they returned to work.

Section men and extra trainmen numbering one hundred and ten were brought to Buffalo from Scranton shortly after noon by the D. L. & W. railroad to supplant the switchmen who struck Tuesday afternoon on that system.

They were secured principally from the Southern and Bloomsbury divisions.

General Manager Halstead had hurried direct from New York to Buffalo, and Superintendent Bogart had charge of the gathering of this force of recruits.

They were not informed as to the work expected of them until nearly time to leave Scranton. Some of them rebelled against going, but were given the alternative of working or quitting the employ of the company.

Gov. Flower Offers Reward.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Gov. Flower yesterday issued a proclamation, which, after reciting the ordinances regarding railroads, says: "I hereby offer a reward of $100, to be paid upon the arrest and conviction of each person who shall during the next 30 days violate any of the provisions of the Penal Code relating to steam railroads. The failure or omission of any sheriff, district attorney, or other civil officer to take the most active steps in his power to enforce the provisions of the Penal Code will be considered sufficient cause for his removal.

SHIPPERS WILL NOT SUFFER.

Canada to Re-Imburse Them for Losses Caused by Retaliatory Tolls.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 25.—It has been decided that the government will reimburse the Canadian shippers for this season for any loss they may sustain through the imposition of tolls on freight going to a Canadian port through the St. Mary's canal.

At a meeting of the Cabinet the outlook and the probable effect of President Harrison's proclamation on Canadian shipping was discussed.

A member of the Cabinet states that no attempt at retaliation will be made in the direction of imposing discriminatory tolls on American vessels passing through the Welland canal, as has been suggested by some of the government press.

It was further decided to carry to the *notice of the British government the ab*surdity of continuing the Washington treaty in force, in view of the fact that it has been denuded of every clause by which special privileges were conceded to Canadian citizens, and urge the abrogation of the treaty at the earliest possible moment.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Five deaths were caused by sunstroke in Vienna yesterday.

—The Lutherans of the Susquehanna Synod will hold their second annual reunion at Susquehanna Heights on Sept. 1.

—John L. Sullivan practically has stopped training. He will take little exercise from now until Saturday. His feet are healing rapidly.

—The plumbers of Memphis are on a strike to enforce the demand that the foremen of shops shall do no work, interfere in no way with the tools, but only superintend affairs.

—Henry G. Bissell, of New York, treasurer of "The Isle of Champagne" company, now playing at the Globe Theater, Berlin, has been missing for two days and fears of foul play are entertained.

—About 50 Russian Jews who were brought to Amesbury, Mass., by the Hamilton corporation to work in their factories have left, claiming that the work was too hard and the wages too low.

—The Ocean Grove, N. J., camp meeting is in full blast. At the service yesterday there were over 2,000 persons present, including 125 ministers. Rev. Dr. E. H. Stokes presided and Bishop John P. Newman, Dr. Stokes and others delivered addresses.

—Gov. Russell of Massachusetts has sent a communication by telegraph to the Secretary of State at Washington asking that the American Consuls in foreign ports be informed about the absconding of R. H. Milburn with $4,000 belonging to the Field-Thayer Company, and that all efforts possible be made for his arrest.

—The Latonia race track near Cincinnati has been sold by its Cincinnati and Covington stockholders to a Chicago syndicate for $500,000. The details of the big deal are not known yet, but it is said the Chicago owners propose in the future to bring to the track the best horses in the world, so great will be the inducement that will hold out.

TO KEEP CHOLERA OUT

Extraordinary Precautions at United States Ports.

THE PLAGUE REACHES ANTWERP.

It is Now Present in Three Great European Ports—Increasing Rapidly in Hamburg—New Cases at Havre—Reports from Other Sections Where the Disease is Prevalent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—In view of the rapid western march of the dread Asiatic cholera, and to prevent its entering the United States at the port of New York, stringent precautionary measures have been adopted at Quarantine by Health Officer Jenkins of the port of New York and his assistants.

The fact that the cholera has appeared at Hamburg and Havre, two of the most important European ports to which the Atlantic lines run, has made the situation all the more alarming, and has increased tenfold the probability of its reaching the United States.

Dr. Jenkins has been carefully watching the steady westward march of the dread disease ever *since its first appear*ance, and has been making preparations to cope with it should it be brought here by any steamships entering the port.

The Health Department at Quarantine has never before been in such excellent condition, or better able to cope with contagious diseases, and should the cholera appear on any of the Atlantic lines Dr. Jenkins is confident that he can prevent its reaching further than Quarantine.

Dr. August Siebert, one of the best known German physicians in the city, starts for Hamburg to-day, provided with instructions from our health authorities to the authorities there. His mission is to observe the methods of cholera treatment there and their system of quarantine against the Russian immigration that brought the scourge to that port, as it threatens to bring it here.

SPREAD OF THE DISEASE.

It Now Has Obtained a Foothold in Antwerp.

ANTWERP, Aug. 25.—Yesterday it was officially announced that there was not a single case of Asiatic cholera in Belgium, the suspicious cases being simply cholera nostras. To-day the leading physicians of Antwerp declare the disease is true Asiatic cholera.

This disease is now admittedly present in three of the great Northern European ports—Hamburg, Antwerp and Havre—and there is a very strong suspicion that that the so-called cholerine prevalent at Stettin will turn out to be Asiatic cholera.

HAMBURG, Aug. 25.—Up to this evening there have been 210 undisputed cases of Asiatic cholera in this city. Seventy of them have been fatal.

There have been also about 200 cases which are said to have been cholerine, but are believed to be of genuine Asiatic type. About 65 of these have proved fatal.

The hospitals and morgues are crowded, and the ambulances are now in constant use.

The city is in a panic. Many wealthy citizens are leaving, and more are to follow.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The people of London are becoming excited on the subject of cholera, now that it is known to have a foothold in a place so closely connected by passenger and commercial traffic with Great Britain as Hamburg.

It is loudly complained that the regulations for examining foreigners arriving in this country from the infected districts are inadequate. These foreigners are chiefly dumped in the East End, where they settle down with the habits and customs of living as nearly as possible in their new situation that they have practiced at home.

The local government board, under the impulse of public alarm and criticism, is preparing to strengthen its sanitary force and endow sanitary officers with additional powers. The newspapers complain of the sale of rotten fruit in the streets as tending to promote an epidemic of cholera should the disease find its way here. This fruit is chiefly the refuse of foreign imports.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 25.—The official report on the subject of cholera states that the mortality exceeds 2,500 daily.

Nearly every garrison in Russia has been attacked by the pestilence.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—An official telegram from Havre, before midnight, states that there were recorded yesterday 46 cases of cholera and 13 deaths. This dispatch was withheld from the press. Two disinfecting engines have been sent to Havre.

TEHERAN, Aug. 25.—The cholera scourge rages with unchecked violence throughout Persia, and countless corpses lie everywhere unburied.

Notwithstanding the urgent orders of the government, the Mollahs, or clergy, refuse to perform the last rites required in the case of the dead as preliminary to to burial. These rites include the washing of the bodies, and this the Mollahs positively decline to perform when death is caused by cholera.

The drivers of the donkeys that carry the mail have deserted the service, and communication is everywhere suspended except where the telegraph reaches.

Restrictions at Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—In view of the rapid spread of cholera in Europe, the Custom House authorities of Boston have issued an order that no rags should be landed from any European port until examinations are made in each case in order to be assured that they did not come from any cholera infected district, until they were thoroughly fumigated.

WILL THEY INVADE GEORGIA?

Militia Under Arms to Repel Tennessee Miners.

ATLANTA, Aug. 25.—Atlanta's military companies are under arms to-day. A special train stands ready to rush them through to Cole City in three hours. The Dalton Guards and the Rome Cadets are all ready to get away.

A rumor reached the city yesterday that the Tennessee miners were contemplating an attack on the coal mines in Dade county in order to liberate the Georgia convicts confined there.

The Governor was not in the city, but he was soon in communication with the office here by telegraph, and since then the wires have been in constant use conveying messages to and from the Governor to the city officials here and in Cole City.

Adjt.-Gen. Kell has put himself in communication with the Dalton Guards and the Rome Light Infantry, and has ordered them to be ready to march at a moment's notice. These are the only companies in the northern part of the State, but if any more soldiers should be needed they could be obtained in a very short while.

An Over-Officious Reporter Ejected.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A despatch from Coal Creek says that correspondent Hargrave of Nashville was ejected from the telegraph office at Coal Creek yesterday by order of Gen. Carnes, commander of the Tennessee troops. The charge against him is said to be the too officious use of the privileges given him.

The Convicts Sent Back.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 25.—The 600 convicts recently sent back here from Oliver Springs, Tracey City and Inman by rioters, were formally returned to these branch prisons. They will be protected by guards.

THE CHILD-WIFE BURIED.

Fourteen-Year-Old Lulu Yost Finds Rest at Last.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 25.—The funeral of Mrs. Lulu Yost, the child-wife of Christopher Yost, was largely attended at her late home, 107 Somerset street. She died Sunday from the effects of phosphorous, obtained by soaking matches in water, swallowed with suicidal intent.

The young wife was fourteen years, six months and nineteen days old, and had been married five months. Her husband is twenty-two years of age.

When the girl was married last March a good deal of comment was caused, owing to her extreme youth. She was very pretty, and unusually well-developed for her years. Her husband seemed very much in love with her, but it is said by those who knew them that the young bride has not been happy. It is said that she has of late given indications of mental derangement—"acting queerly," the neighbors say. It is known that she was in a delicate condition.

Her husband, who is a leather worker, found her ill when he came home from his work last Wednesday. "Chris, I've done it this time," she said. She was suffering great agony, and a physician was summoned. To him she declared that she had taken some chloroform liniment by mistake. The doctor's prescription relieved her pain, and she became able to resume her household duties.

Mrs. Yost was taken ill again Saturday, and told a neighbor, Mrs. Heinrich, that she had swallowed the phosphorus and how she obtained it. All measures adopted to counteract the effects of the poison were in vain, and she died Sunday.

FALL RIVER'S MYSTERY.

A New Feature Develops—Lizzie Borden's Letter to Her Sister.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 25.—A new feature of the Borden case is a letter which Lizzie wrote to her sister Emma the Tuesday before the murder. The first knowledge of this letter came out at Lizzie's examination at the inquest. In reply to the question, "Had you ever noted any suspicious persons about the house on the day of the tragedy?" she said she did not on that day, but had on the Monday before, and had written an account of the incident to her sister, Emma Borden.

Inquiry showed that on Wednesday Emma did get a letter from Lizzie, in which the latter refers to noticing a man in the back yard just as she opened the side gate. He disappeared on discovering her.

After entering the house, Lizzie wrote, she was so disturbed over what she had seen that she went to a window in her room commanding the back yard and watched. Emma Borden showed this letter to friends in Fair Haven, with whom she was visiting when she received it, and then destroyed it.

Carnegie Material Blown Up.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—A car loaded with steel ingots, consigned to the Carnegie firm at Thirty-third street works, was blown up with dynamite or some other high explosive on a side track of the Allegheny Valley railway at Thirty-fourth street shortly after midnight. This is the first attempt at destruction of property around the Carnegie City Mills and caused great excitement both inside and outside of the company's works.

Will be Judge William B. Mason.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Ex-Congressman William E. Mason will be the successor of Judge Blodgett of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. The resignation of Judge Blodgett will be in the hands of the President during the latter part of October, at which time, or shortly after, he will resume his duties as counsel to the Behring Sea Commission.

Withdraws from Iron Hall.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 25.—The local lodge of the Order of the Iron Hall has practically withdrawn from the general body. There are 168 members, and at a meeting just held it was decided not to remit $6,700 of assessments now due. The money in the treasury will be divided pro rata among the members in good standing.

Another Carnegie Mill Started.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—The Carnegie 29th street mill was put in operation yesterday. The plate mill was the only mill started, but Superintendent Dillon says the other departments will soon be in operation. The strikers are as hopeful as ever, and not one of them has thus far shown the white feather.

Gladstone Re-elected.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Mr. Gladstone has been re-elected in Midlothian.

MACNUTT WAS CLUBBED

Outrage on Our Representative at Madrid.

A PROMPT APOLOGY TENDERED.

Mr. MacNutt Was Confined in a Filthy Cell for Two Hours—The Police Officers Dismissed—One Reinstated at the Representative's Request.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Madrid correspondent of the "Central News" sends an account of the arrest of Francis MacNutt, United States Secretary of Legation under Minister Grubb, and, since the latter's departure, United States Charge d'Affaires. The correspondent tried to send the account by telegraph on Saturday, but the censors, both in Madrid and San Sebastian, refused to pass it.

On Friday, while out walking in San Sebastian, Mr. MacNutt entered a public room, but found it so offensive that he retired from it at once. As he stood outside a detective in plain clothes came up and reproved him for his conduct. Mr. MacNutt excused himself on the plea that the room was unbearably filthy. The detective replied impudently, and demanded Mr. MacNutt's name and address. Thinking the man a swindler, Mr. MacNutt refused to give either.

The detective then approached him menacingly as if to strike him. Mr. MacNutt then struck out, knocked the detective down and then drew his revolver. The detective shouted for help, several policemen responded, and Mr. MacNutt was arrested, making no resistance. At the police station he presented his card, explained who he was and demanded that the keeper of the hotel where he stopped be summoned. The police jeered at him and refused to consider his request.

The warden then led him to a large cell, full of thieves, tramps and drunkards and locked him in it. On the way to the cell the warden struck him three times and after getting him inside, clubbed him severely. After two hours' confinement Mr. MacNutt was released. The warden refused to apologize and gave Mr. MacNutt to understand that he might consider himself lucky to get away so soon.

As soon as news of the affair reached the Foreign Office the Minister called upon Mr. MacNutt and offered full satisfaction. The detective, the warden and two policemen were dismissed. Mr. MacNutt, upon learning that one of the soldiers had a large family, requested that he be reinstated, and this was done.

Among the persons who have heard of the affair there is only praise for the good sense and moderation shown by Mr MacNutt. Every effort is made by the authorities and the members of the United States Legation to hush the matter up. Mr. MacNutt refuses to talk on the subject.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

A Bookkeeper for Street & Smith, New York, Embezzles $20,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A heavy defalcation is alleged to have occurred in the office of Street & Smith, publishers of the "New York Weekly," and if the hasty examination of the books was correct, the shortage amounts to nearly $20,000. Of this amount nearly $7,000 is directly traceable to Alfred J. Price, bookkeeper and cashier, who was arrested and arraigned in the Tombs Police Court yesterday afternoon.

The books of the concern were receiving an overhauling when the shortage was discovered.

Mr. Price made a confession, it is said, to Mr. Orrin G. Smith, of the peculation of the sum specified in the warrant, and it is supposed he is responsible for the whole shortage. Price was very reticent in court, as were his employers. Price is married and lives with his wife and two children at West 83d street. He was committed to the Tombs in default of $5,000 bail.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Its Principal Features Said to be Decided Upon.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The "Chronicle" says that the main lines of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill have been decided upon.

The features of the bill are said to be: No disturbance of land legislation for five years; police judiciary to be in the hands of the Dublin Parliament; the Irish church fund to be at the disposal of Ireland, and the English Receiver-General to be retired; Irish representation at Westminster to consist of thirty members; exercise of the royal veto upon the advice of the English Ministry; witholding of the power to collect customs duties.

Three Swindlers Arrested.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—William H. Roberts, Neil McClallum and Frederick Spritz, all interested in the Financial Trading Company, at 10 Wall street, are locked up in the Jefferson Market prison on the charge of being wholesale swindlers. Through some trickery the Trading Company had secured a first class rating at Bradstreet's and Dun's agencies, and carried on business through bogus branch offices. Most of the swindled concerns are in the South. Their Marion, North Carolina, branch office was sold out by the sheriff recently.

Middletown Episcopalians Indignant.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 25.—The Episcopalians of this place are up in arms over statements made from his pulpit by Mr. Jernegan, pastor of the Baptist church. He declared that a man wearing overalls and a jumper had applied for admission to the Church of the Holy Trinity, the representative Episcopal Church of this city, and been refused admission. The parishioners of the Episcopal Church deny the charge.

No Wreck On the Adirondack Road.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The officials here of the Adirondack and St. Lawrence Railroad deny the truthfulness of the item published in New York yesterday to the effect that a train on their road was wrecked by a cave in of the bed of the track last Monday. The general passenger agent says there is no truth in the story.

Disgrace Drove Her to Suicide.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 25.—Elizabeth Hughes of Hyde Park was found dead by her husband upon his returning home from work in the evening. Disgrace over repeated arrests for drunkenness had caused the woman to commit suicide.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Dunellen and Middlesex bowling green clubs are contesting on Mr. Scheptlins lawn at Dunellen to-day. This is the first game of the fall series.

—Forepaugh's circus will show in this city Friday afternoon and evening, Sept. 23, on the former base-ball grounds at LaGrande avenue and Richmond street.

—Plainfield has never listened to better band music than that given at the public concert in front of the City Hotel, last evening, under the leadership of N. Guttman.

—Have you attended that wonderful sale of plain and fancy flower-pots at Allen's. If not, hasten without delay to 28 West Front street, and secure great bargains.

—Special meetings will be held at the Salvation Army hall to-morrow evening. The meetings will be led by adjt. Dunham, assisted by captain Neame. The meeting at 8 p. m. will be free to all.

—Henry Stites and four other Scotch Plains residents went fishing in the fishing-banks boat off Long Branch yesterday. They caught 108 sea-bass, and the entire party in the boat captured 1,800, all by hook and line.

—A barn occupied by Italians was burned at Westfield last night. The glare seen from Plainfield was very great. The Plainfield fire department had horses hitched to apparatus ready to answer a call for help, for the report was that a big lumber-yard fire was raging.

—Edward B. Ryder, who had charge of the second section of yesterday's excursion train from Plainfield, telegraphed to Baldwin for permission to remain at the shore until 8 o'clock. Permission was granted, and all had a fine time. The excursion was not productive of much financial profit, but there was no deficit.

—The crop report from South Plainfield is: "A total absence of rainfall, together with high temperature and the abnormal amount of sunshine obtained, has been very injurious to cabbage, turnips and lima beans; apples dropping badly; peaches and pears scarce; potatoes are a light crop here; farm work well along."

—There were eight large excursions at Asbury Park yesterday, including the one from Plainfield. The crowd was tremendous. Special officer Mattox had three cases of pocket-picking reported to him. Miss Moore of the Children's Home had a purse containing a few dollars taken. Another woman lost $20, and a third was robbed of a diamond ring.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

C. P. Bull and family have returned from West Hampton, L. I.

Otto Arens and family, who are home again from Europe, are stopping at the Albion.

J. C. Peck and family, of 105 Rockview avenue, are home from a tour through New York State.

H. A. McGee and family, of Orchard place, Washington Park, are home from Mouse Island, Maine.

Mrs. James A. Spencer, of New York, is visiting the home of her father, Alfred Bonnell, Manning avenue.

Mrs. L. Cole, of Duer street, and Mrs. W. H. N. Cadmus, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are at Asbury Park, for two weeks.

Miss Fanny Wilson, of Gloversville, N. Y., left for home this morning, after a three weeks' visit with friends in the borough.

Ex-councilman Seymour G. Smith and masters Fred and George, are home from New York state. Mrs. Smith and master Seymour P., are at Richfield Springs.

Edward B. Ryder, of 12 Central avenue, starts to-night for a ten-day's visit to the Thousand Islands. He will stop at the Thousand Island House, Thousand Island Park.

D. Guinee, captain of the Fourth Ward base-ball club wishes to say it was not the Fourth Ward base-ball club that played the Gorhams last Friday. He says it was the Atlantas of Plainfield. The real old Fourth Ward team will play the Young Gorhams next Friday afternoon on the Park avenue ball grounds at 3:30. W. Shannon of the Fourth Wards will show some of his clever pitching.

The "Deadly Trolley" Again.

Commissioner Meeker was called upon this morning to send his men to "Cole's Hill" to clear away the wreck of an overturned carriage that was spread across East Front street. The runaway is supposed, of course, to have been caused by the "deadly trolley" a mile and a half away. But there were more horses scared into shying up the curb each side by the wrecked carriage, during last evening and this morning, than the trolley has frightened since it started.

EXTRA!

THE GREAT ROAD RACE.

WILLIS OF WESTFIELD WINNER.

Mahon of Plainfield a First-Rate Second—Haselton of Rockaway Gets the Best Time Prize—Details of the Contest.

The first annual 25-mile road race of the Crescent League Wheelmen was held this afternoon, begining at 2:30, over the Fanwood-Scotch Plains course. The start and finish were from East Fifth street near the corner of Richmond. The official list of entries and handicaps was as follows:

No.	Name.	Handicap.
1	G. D. Greenwood, E. O. C.	9 Minutes
2	Louis M. Mier, R. W.	9 "
3	J. Willis, Westfield	8:30 "
4	C. Maltby, P. B. C.	8 "
5	G. Mahon, P. B. C.	7 "
6	W. A. Clapp, P. B. C.	7 "
7	C. Vanderveer, N. E. W.	7 "
8	A. Atkinson, N. B. B. C.	7 "
9	J. S. Pike, Plainfield	7 "
10	I. Jones, "	7 "
11	H. A. Rath, jr., U. C. R.	7 "
12	C. H. Coffin, Newark	7 "
13	B. Harvey, Plainfield	7 "
14	W. J. Kiely, "	7 "
15	E. Martin, "	7 "
16	C. Gotthell, "	7 "
17	W. Bettner, Elizabeth	6:30 "
18	A. M. Callister, Bayonne	6:30 "
19	E. Morris, Elizabeth	6 "
20	F. C. Gilbert, Elizabeth	6 "
21	R. S. Laggren, E. A. C.	6 "
22	J. Cockburn, R. A. C.	6 "
23	S. B. Bowman, E. A. C.	4 "
24	G. Coffin, Newark	0:30 "
25	J. R. Hazelton, R. A. C.	Scratch.

A large crowd witnessed the contest.

None of the racers was ready till 2:47, at which time Greenwood, 1, and Mier, 2, started. The others followed in this order:

2:47½.—Willis, 3. 2:48, Maltby—4. 2:49, Mahon, Clapp, Vanderveer, Atkinson, Pike, Jones, Rath, Coffin, Harvey, Kiely, Martin, Gotthell. 2:49½—Callister. 2:50—Gilbert, Laggren, Cockburn. 2:56—G. Coffin, Hazelton. (Coffin discarded handicap and started scratch.

Bettner, E. Morris and Bowman did not show up.

Great excitement prevailed throughout the contest.

Willis, 3, took the lead in the first lap and kept it to the end.

The first lap was ended with the riders in this position:

3, 1, 4, 5, 6, 12, 7, 18, 11, 21, 2, 20, 16, 10, 8, 14, 13, 22, 15, 25, 24. Pike dropped out; had an accident, he said.

The second lap ended as follows:

3, 1, 42, 5, 6, 18, 21, 20, 7, 4, 11, 16, 2, 25, 8, 10, 14, 13, 24, 15. Cockburn, 22, was thrown by a rut in the road; badly hurt knee; dropped out.

The third lap resulted thus:

1, 12, 5, 1, 20, 21, 6, 18, 7, 25, 16, 11, 8, 2, 10, 14, 13. Maltby dropped out and became pacemaker for Mahon. Martin, 15, dropped out. The tire of Coffin, 24, burst, and he went out.

The fourth lap finished as follows, all those not mentioned dropping out: 3, 5, 12, 1, 20, 18, 21, 25, 6, 11.

On the home stretch the finish was in this order:

	Time of finishing.	Actual time.
3. Willis	4:10:31	1:23:01
5. Mahon	4:11:03	1:23:03
12. Coffin	4:11:03 1-5	1:23:03 1-5
1. Greenwood	4:12:28	1:26:28
20. Gilbert	4:14:21	1:24:11
25. Hazelton	4:14:21 1-2	1:18:21 1-2
21. Laggren	4:15:45	1:26:01

Some of the disappointed riders talk of protesting Mahon because Maltby paced for him, and of protesting Willis because Milligan of Plainfield paced him.

The wheels ridden were: Columbia, 12; Humber, 4: Liberty, 3; Victor, 1; King of Scorchers, 1; Keating, 1.

A little boy was knocked down at the Richmond street turn by a racer in whose way he ran. The lad's legs were bruised, but he was not seriously hurt. Luckily the rider was not thrown.

OFFICERS OF THE RACE.

Referee—Charles P. Leggett.

Judges—F. L. C. Martin, Charles H. Lyman, Dr. J. T. Fritts.

Clerk of course—William Ahlgren.

Timers—W. H. Rogers, Charles Vail, J. Hervey Doane.

Scorers—H. S. Thomas, Walter I. Clarke, G. W Morrison.

Starter—A. T. Hinrichs.

Killed by the Cars.

Train No. 38, east-bound, killed section-hand John Lisoski, a Bound Brook Italian, at Westfield, to-day. The train was going at 60 miles an hour. Lisoski was stooping over to pull out a tie from under the track when the train came thundering along and struck him in the head. He was instantly killed. His wife was summoned from Bound Brook, and went into hysterics at sight of the body. County physician Westcott gave a burial permit, and the body was removed to Bound Brook. Train No. 38 is drawn by locomotive No. 371, Sam Johnson engineer, and Joe Case conductor.

Another Display of Somerville's Incomparable Breeding.

Hudson, as an umpire in the Central N. J. league, was satisfactory to all the clubs; but because he was satisfactory to the Crescent League, Westfield, Elizabeth and Somerville voted to discharge him. Then that always apparent, rare and polished, Somerville breeding, displayed itself as usual. Mister Mack sent him notification on a postal card which closed with these courteous words:

"You will not be required to officiate in any of the future games."

Verily, the manners of Somerville are typical!

EASILY WALLOPED.

The Morristowns Lose Their Scalps, Instead of Capturing the Crescents'.

Plainfield's batting aggregation again got in its fine work yesterday, and slugged Hetzel as he had never been slugged before. Such tremendous hitting of their star pitcher broke the Morristown's hearts, and they made almost as many errors as the Crescents did hits. The Plainfielders made a repetition of their great fifth inning of the previous Saturday, scoring 7 runs in it for a total of 10. The phenomenal Bonner duplicated his famous acrobatic high-leap one-hand catch of two weeks ago, and put another star in his coronet. Jones was in his glory, nabbing everything so cleverly that he made all of the put-outs in two successive innings, and got most of his 13 put-outs entirely unassisted. For the first four innings Morristown never got but one man to first, and that on a bad throw of Daley's. Her solitary run was due to wild throws by Bonner and Hofford aided by a sacrifice hit. Her two hits did n't help her run-getting a bit. Only six of Morristown's men ever got to first, only three as far as second, and only one besides the run-scorer to third. The first four innings of the game were distinguished by very sharp and close fielding by both sides. A large number of the gentler sex took advantage of "ladies day" and saw the game, which had many interesting features. Turner's home run was the first ever made on the North Plainfield grounds, and the ball did n't go over the fence, either. The score:

Plainfield's Trolley Bound to Get There.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Plainfield's trolley road carried as many people during the first week's running as the town has inhabitants. It is something of a toy at present, to be sure, but this large patronage of a road that only runs back and forth between two not very distant points, indicates what may be expected in the way of traffic when the road shall traverse all parts of the city; as it must, in time, even though recalcitrating citizens, vulgarly called "kickers", may object. Plainfield moves cautiously, and even slowly, in the introduction of public improvements, but it "gets there" all the same.

Bound Brook Has a Celebration.

Tuesday evening No. 1 Hose company of Bound Brook moved into its new house, and in consequence the borough was wild with excitement. The blare of brass bands and the blaze of many torches filled the air. Things are never done by halves in Bound Brook, when they have a celebration like that. Those interested were desirous of getting everyone in the town out on the streets, therefore when the parade was about to start the fire-bell was rung for a few moments and the alleys and avenues were soon swarming. A band of music headed the parade of the hose company through the principal streets and to the new house, where a sumptuous luncheon was spread for the firemen and their friends.

Checked—the progress of Consumption. It's easy cured, too, if it's taken in time. What is needed is the one unfailing remedy for Scrofula in all its forms—for one of those forms (Lung-scrofula) is Consumption.

Purify your blood—that's the first thing. Rid it of the taints and poisons that make it easy for this dreaded disease to fasten its hold. Then if you haven't delayed too long, you can be cured.

From beginning to end, the remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known to medical science. Consumption, and every form of Scrofula and blood-taint, all yield to it. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, lingering Coughs, it's an unequaled remedy—and the only one for the Blood and Lungs that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Bicycle vs. Foot.

The Courier of August 23, called the time of John Mannion running against A. D. Laurent in a race from the Fanwood road house to Fanwood station and return. That decision was erroneous for the reason that Mr. Laurent was obliged to ride a boy's wheel, which succumbed under his weight. The bet was paid and Mr. Laurent said "I will race you under the same conditions any time before Sept. 1 next, on my own wheel for $5 to $1".

Mr. Laurent says his offer has, as yet, not been accepted.

MUST STOP FOR INSPECTION.

Vessels En Route to Baltimore to Be Looked After at Cape Charles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The quarantine ship Charles Foster, near the Cape Charles quarantine station is now in position with quarantine officers on board at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, and all vessels from infected ports are required to stop there for inspection.

The steamers of the North German Lloyd and Bremen lines en route to Baltimore are to be looked after especially with a view to protection against any cases of cholera that may be found on board.

The facilities for the boarding and inspection of incoming vessels are such that the quarantine officers can make the inspection without causing much delay.

Appointed Lord Chamberlain.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Lord Charles Robert Carrington, otherwise Carrington, has been appointed Lord Chamberlain, according to official announcement just made. Lord Carrington's original patronymic was Smith, and he had it changed by royal license. He is both English and an Irish baron, and joint Hereditary Lord Great Chamberlain in right of his mother.

Bunch Killed by His Accomplice.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—Investigation made in Washington Parish where Capt. NETHERWOOD'S FAIR WOMEN.

An Old Timer Writes of the Beautiful Among the Matrons at the Hotel.

JUST ACROSS the railroad from the picturesque foot hills skirting the "Orange Mountains", stands that imposing, castellated structure widely known as "The Hotel Netherwood", filled at this date with guests from various States and cities.

While we have with us some charming maidens, the special feature of our company is a bevy of charming matrons, many of them strikingly "fine looking", as the phrase goes.

Mrs. E——n, with her iron-gray hair, lustrous brown eyes, and sweet friendly manner, is popular with all. She has been a guest here for several consecutive summers.

Mrs. P——r, transplanted from Chicago to New York, has just claims to many charms. That her husband is proud of her is apparent in his every look and act when she is near. Both idolize their toddling baby boy.

Mrs. O——n is a pronounced blonde, more than ordinarily pleasant to look upon, and carries the years she claims to have lived, without a trace of added age. Her piquant looks and repressed humor would mark her for pointed admiration were her husband less in love with her and less assiduous in his personal attention.

Mrs. G——n, of Washington, is the type of gentle loveliness in face and manner. Her voice is strikingly sweet and she is totally free from the mannerisms that so often spoil the favorites of society. She is a true mother and watches her boys unceasingly.

Mrs. L——b, whose oriental features mark her as one of the race celebrated through uncounted centuries for their beauty, is regally queenly in her style and manner. She, too, has a husband who plainly shows his entire satisfaction with his matrimonial venture.

Tall, stately, statuesque and in every way charming, is Mrs. B——d S——h, another representative of our nation's capital. She easily commands attention and admiration wherever she may be.

These, grouped with others, all more or less charming in the shifting scene daily presented here, make a picture well worth remembering.

Everybody that is any body (figuratively speaking) has a "turn out" here, and driving over the many neighboring well-made roads is the general order for a part of the day; but the crowning feature of each day's diversion is "six-handed euchre". Neither "Pole", "Cavendish", "Clay" nor "Proctor", condescends to describe this fascinating game in any of their works on cards, hence I assume it is of local origin. Its inventor ought to be canonized, or anathematized, as may suit.

Real whist has few votaries here. Our guests prefer something requiring less mental strain, with more opportunity for the exercise of their vocal organs.

AN OLD TIMER.

Another Big Company Begins Its Season in Plainfield.

The version of Uncle Tom's Cabin interpreted by Stetson's Double Monster company, which will exhibit at Music Hall, Friday evening, has met the especial approval of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, the immortal authoress of that world-famed drama, from the fact of manager Stetson's adherence to the original text, which is a complete deviation from the custom of other Uncle Tom managers, who interlope so many attempted gags, stale jokes and vulgar witticisms into their renditions that scarcely a vestige if left of the never-to-be-forgotten work.

Aside from the great worth of the company, every act will be presented with new and elaborate scenery, painted by the master scenic artist of the world. The excellent company, two comical Topsies, the two ludicrous Markses, the elegant scenery, the novel mechanical effects, the ferocious bloodhounds, two brass bands and the celebrated Lone Star quartette will all unite in making the engagement a most notable one.

Politics in This County.

[New York World.]

James E. Martine, of Plainfield, is not letting grass grow under his feet these days, but is working an energetic still hunt for the congressional nomination. Alderman Dunn, of Elizabeth, will do well to keep his weather eye on the farmer-orator, as the latter is an early-riser and is hustling around Union county when his rival thinks he is asleep.

Jim Silvers, of Rahway, is reported to be making vigorous exertions to capture delegates in that place who will support him for surrogate. Of course this would injure county clerk Crowell's chances for renomination as Rahway will not get both offices. It is rumored that Silvers is trying to form a deal with ex-surrogate Gerber, of Elizabeth, who is a candidate for the clerkship, so that by combining forces they might stand a better chance of attaining their respective objects.

Senator Fred C. Marsh has been asked by the National Democratic committee to take the stump for a few days in Maine. Senator Marsh will give the party a week of his vacation, and will speak in Portland, Bangor and Calais. Ex-speaker Dunn and James Martine, the congressional aspirants and both able stump-speakers, will likely also be heard by the people in the Granite State.

But the Wise Took Oil in Their Vessels With Their Lamps.

The nine bicyclists, including Mrs. Mary Hunt of 320 Myrtle avenue, and Miss Sarah Campbell of 98 Smith street, who were arrested in the neighborhood of Prospect Park in Brooklyn, the other night, for violating a city ordinance by not having their lamps lighted, were arraigned before justice Tighe in the Butler street court. Some of them explained that the oil in their lamps had given out, and the others that the wind had extinguished the lights. They were all let off with a reprimand.

A MONSTROUS ASSERTION.

In Spite of the Fact That at All League Meetings Elizabeth and Westfield Have Voted Against Plainfield, the Latter's Base-Ball Manager is Accused of Supporting Them to Beat Somerville.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Early in the week it was currently reported from reliable sources that Plainfield parties placed fifty dollars in the hands of the Westfielders to be divided among the players if they succeeded in defeating Somerville last Saturday. That the Westfield team tried their best to win all through the game, might be taken as proof that some extra inducement was offered them. Now comes the news that Elizabeth has released Francis and has secured a pitcher who will make cigar signs out of the West End men. Why is this? Elizabeth lost all chance of the pennant weeks ago and yet they are throwing their money right and left with a lavish hand in a grand effort to do up the West Ends.

Is it because the Somerville team is too near the leaders? True it is that Plainfield and Somerville are divided only by a narrow margin. On the other hand Westfield will not be likely to waste a dollar from now until the season closes, and in consequence will lose the next two games to Plainfield and keep her old place at the foot of the ladder. The situation then is exactly this:

During the next two Saturdays while Westfield is making scarcely an effort to win from Plainfield, Elizabeth will be straining every nerve to defeat Somerville and thus help Plainfield. The Philadelphia Sporting Times said, last week: "Elizabeth, Westfield and Somerville have gone in together in order to do Plainfield out of the pennant." The Times is wrong, the shoe is on the other foot. It has been proved during the season that Elizabeth and Westfield cannot even help themselves, let alone the West Ends, and all they can do now is to aid Plainfield. Meanwhile the narrow margin bothers Plainfield—they would rather be two games in the lead than one. They are very much afraid that Somerville will win from Elizabeth both times, as in that event the two leaders will meet with Plainfield one game ahead. Then Somerville must win both from Plainfield to take the pennant.

If the West Ends can win the first game in Plainfield, thus tieing the Crescents for first place, there is no doubt that Somerville will get the pennant, because the Crescents cannot, nor did they ever, play winning ball at West End park. The ground is uneven, rocky and stony, and errors come easily to men who are in the habit of playing on the velvet. There was a method in the madness of the West End management when they ploughed up the outfield and taught their men to watch five ways at once for a bounding grounder. Then again, the hazy atmosphere of that end of Somerset county has a bad influence and effect on the optic nerves of the Plainfielders. It must be the water. Why even their bowling in Somerville is erratic, and they never put up half the total score that they do at home.

The old axiom, "Business before pleasure", will be sadly reversed by the Plainfielders for the next four weeks, at least on Saturdays; for it is well known how uncertainty racks one's nerves. I heard last evening that subscription lists had been started in the Crescent city headed in this way: "Will you help us beat Somerville?" The returns so far I was informed have been very satisfactory—so much so that both political parties have given up in despair the idea of bannering the town until after the games are over with Somerville. The contributions to the Western fund of the National Democratic committee are not to be mentioned in the same breath, with the way the money is pouring in to "Help beat Somerville". All right, the Crescents need the money, and it is a credit to the town that the people do go down deep in their pockets and bring up the needful! (Now, Mr. Editor, I am going to close with a very impudent question and I trust that you will make it the least conspicuous part of my wandering harangue. Please put it in nonpariel type so that those rich old fellows who wear strong glasses will be unable to decipher it.) The question is:

From this time on until the close of the season on September 17, will Plainfield, through the efficient source of manager Reed, be compelled to put up the dust for three teams, or does he think he can win it without their aid?

M.

All the State Talking of Plainfield's Base-ball Supremacy.

[Newark Evening News.]

Interest in the games of the Central New Jersey Base-ball League series increases as the number of championship games to be played grows less. There are but four more games to be played, and the decisive battle for the pennant will undoubtedly be contested by the Plainfield and Somerville nines.

The former club has held the leading position since the opening of the series. The Somervilles have tied the leaders for first place several times, but they never gained an advantage over their old rivals. Elizabeth stands third in games won, while Westfield is a poor fourth.

In last Saturday afternoon's games Westfield lost one more game to Somerville, while Elizabeth dropped a victory into Plainfield's eager hands. The latter game, played at Plainfield, was won by tremendous batting and the finest exhibition of base running seen in Plainfield this year.

TRUSTS AND PROTECTION.

How Mr. Burrows Would Abolish Trusts by Giving Us "British Free Trade."

A doctrine which has found favor with certain of the protectionists in high prices is that where manufacturers engaged in a protected industry enter into a trust to raise prices the duty should be abolished and the advantages of protection thus withdrawn from the offenders. This remedy, it is openly proclaimed, will operate to bring the guilty parties to their senses and compel them to reduce prices to a more reasonable basis by reason of the competition admitted from abroad by the abolition of the protective duty. This doctrine has been openly advocated by Hon. Julius C. Burrows, the leader of the Republican minority on the ways and means committee in the recent session of congress.

But what does this mean? Do not Mr. Burrows and his followers see that their proposition to crush out trusts by abolishing duties gives away the whole case of protection as it is held and explained by the latter-day school of McKinleyites? The view of McKinley, which he is never weary of reiterating at Republican conventions, in joint debates and at Chautauqua assemblies, is that the protective tariff lays a tax not upon our own people, but upon the foreigner.

But if McKinley's view is correct how can Burrows and his followers do any damage to our domestic trusts, whose name is legion, by abolishing duties? Their proposition to wipe out duties which serve as a protection to trusts is a direct confession that the tariff puts into the pockets of the domestic manufacturer profits which he would not otherwise be able to make. It means that the tariff raises the prices of domestic goods above what should be their normal level, that it enables the home manufacturer to plunder the home consumer, and that the tariff is thus a tax not only where we use imported goods, but also where we buy the domestic product. Alas, how sadly this demolishes the preposterous claim that the McKinley law has reduced the cost of living!

But if Burrows could carry out his idea where would he land us? Does he not know that his proposition would mean "British free trade" in nearly everything that we consume? He evidently does not know to what extent trusts and pools have permeated our industrial system. A recent publication gives 100 of these as mere "samples." There are trusts in anthracite coal and in axes; in barbed wire, boilers, boots and shoes, borax, brooms, brushes and buttons, and trusts all the way down the alphabet to wood screws, wool hats wrapping paper and yellow pine. There are, in fact, few important industries left in which trusts or "combines" of some sort do not exist, and Mr. Burrows' proposition to wipe them out by wiping out their protection would prove the most radical free trade measure of the present generation.

Democratic Savings.

Mr. Holman's review of the appropriations made during the last session of congress is thus summarized by the New York Evening Post (Ind.):

As the New York Tribune has shown, the record made by the Democrats at this session is sufficiently encouraging, savings amounting to some $40,000,000 having been made in those appropriations which it was possible to reduce. Mr. Holman further shows, what The Tribune had also pointed out, that this reduction was accomplished in the face of the opposition of the Republican senate.

The eleven regular appropriation bills as passed by the house reduced the estimates of the administration by $37,833,000, and the senate increased their amount by $18,725,000. The result was finally that these bills appropriated $22,000,000 less than was demanded by the administration, nearly $13,000,000 less than the senate desired, and nearly $6,000,000 more than the house deemed sufficient. The principal economies effected have been first in public buildings, no new ones having been authorized at this session. The previous congress authorized the construction of sixty-eight, much of the expense of which has had to be provided for by the congress which has just adjourned.

The last congress, Judge Holman says, created 1,705 new salaried offices, costing annually over $2,000,000. This congress has abolished more offices than it has created, except in the District of Columbia, and while it increased the wages of those employed in the life saving service, it elsewhere reduced more salaries than it raised. There has been a small increase in the amount appropriated for the judiciary, a considerable increase in that for the department of agriculture and a new charge in the subsidy granted to the World's fair. With these exceptions the policy of economy has on the whole prevailed. If it can be shown, and The Tribune and Mr. Holman concur in holding that it can, that the Democrats have made an important reduction in those appropriations which were under their control, that is a concrete fact which is worth a great deal in a political campaign.

A Republican Senator on Prices.

In the recent debate in the senate upon the report of the committee on finance on retail prices and wages one Republican senator was honest enough to admit the truth. In answer to the contention of Senator Aldrich that prices had fallen a fraction of 1 per cent. under the operation of the McKinley bill, Senator Stewart used the following language:

"Of course the tariff upon any article will raise the price of that article until there is competition produced here. Then it may cheapen it. But that the tariff would have an important effect to reduce prices is most ridiculous. Its first tendency is to advance prices. * * * No one ever before contended that a tariff would in the year it was enacted lower prices. On the contrary, it has not had that effect. It has not had that effect in reference to the McKinley act, because the prices in Europe have fallen lower than here. It has the effect to sustain prices here rather than lower them."

To prove the correctness of this view Senator Stewart then quoted from the London Economist as follows:

There has yet been no cessation of the fall in the prices of commodities which, generally speaking, have been steadily dwindling for the past couple of years. Throughout the whole of the first half of 1892 the quiet downward movement has been continued, with the result that our index number, representing the prices of twenty-two leading commodities, stands at the close of the half year at 2,081, and compares with immediately preceding half years thus:

	Index number.
July 1, 1888	2,261
Jan. 1, 1889	2,138
July 1, 1889	2,199
Jan. 1, 1891	2,224
July 1, 1890	2,259

Since the middle of 1890, therefore, the fall in prices, taken as a whole, has been about 7.9 per cent., while during the past half year the decline has equaled 2.6 per cent.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:—"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest results. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use I have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health."

SEEMINGLY INCREDIBLE.

INFLUENCE OF THE MENTAL POWERS OVER THE BODY.

The Vitalization of Forces in the Cure of Malignant Diseases Unknown in Earlier Times—Astounding Facts, if True.

[From The Providence (R. I.) News]

On the 14th day of December last a message flashed across the wire from Bangor, Me., to a noted Boston medical specialist saying: "My little girl is lying in the throes of death. Oh, save her if you can." As quick as thought his answer flashed back to Bangor: "I will save your child—have no fear." And almost as quick as said the effect was noticed; the dying child from the unconscious shores of death seemed to come back to earth, the closed eyes set in death opened amidst smiles, and the hitherto speechless tongue, silenced by the chill of the grave, startled the heart-broken and despairing family by saying distinctly:

"Mamma! Mamma!"

The hand of death had been stayed as mysteriously as by a word. The old looked at the young and the young up into the faces of the old, and all asked how was it done. Hearing of this wonderful cure, your reporter, obedient to instructions, visited Bangor to investigate, and from the lips of the mother who telegraphed the physician in Boston he learned the facts as given above. The lady's name is Mrs. Mary E. Young of 92 Harlow street, Bangor, and though she wishes to avoid all notoriety, she frankly admits the facts with the additional statement that the same doctor had cured a number of her friends when given up as incurable by other physicians.

Hon. John D. Hopkins of Ellsworth, Me., a man who has filled nearly all the important State offices up to Governor, when asked if he knew this Boston physician, replied that he was glad to be able to say that he did, that he and his wife had been most successfully treated and cured by him, that in their old age, through his treatment, they found themselves young again. "I regard this physician," continued Mr. Hopkins, "as the most brainy, able and brilliant doctor of this age, if not of any other age. Why, sir, my wife and I went to see him some months ago. When we entered his presence he told us both our troubles in detail, and what troubles we had had in life, and what brought us our difficulties, without asking us a question, better than we could have told him. It is a fact, and a fact that hundreds in this country know that this man can detect and describe the disease of man, woman or child, the most hidden and intricate diseases, as he would read an open book. He is a wonder, a marvel, a mystery, and his cures when others fail are as wonderful as his examination."

Hon. J. Willard Rice of Boston, brother of ex-Gov. Rice, was visited by your reporter on his return from the Pine Tree State. "You have been a patient of Dr. Flower?" we queried as we introduced ourselves. "What do you think of him as a doctor?" A broad smile covered the face of the fat and genial alderman as he leaned back in his easy chair. "I think", was his reply, "that Dr. R. C. Flower is one of the most able, learned and skillful physician of this age; besides he is a most genial and fascinating man and as brilliant as a star."

Henry A. Follett of Woonsocket, R. I., said: "I have been a terrible sufferer for twelve years with liver disease and piles. I had tried the leading physicians of the country without help. As a last resort, I consulted Dr. R. C. Flower of Boston. He told me my trouble as soon as he saw me, without me telling anything. I placed myself under his care. I began to improve at once, and in four or five months was cured."

J. H. Tucker, a prominent farmer of Lebanon, Ct., said: "Dr. R. C. Flower has cured me of a most serious stomach and bowel trouble, together with aggravated chronic catarrh and nervous prostration. I was in absolute dispair when I visited Dr. Flower. I had been disappointed by doctors in their vain attempts to cure me. No sooner did I begin Dr. Flower's treatment than I began to improve; my cure seems miraculous. Look at me; I am in the finest of health; I owe it all to him. And that is not all. Dr. Flower told me my troubles when I visited him without asking me a question: better than I could have told him."

F. N. Turner of New Britain, Ct., said: "I had been given up to die by five physicians, who pronounced my disease incurable consumption. I was directed to Dr. R. C. Flower by a young lady whom he had cured. As soon as he saw me he went back into my life and told me all the phases of my trouble. When I went to him I did not expect to get well, but when I left him I felt in my soul that I should be cured. He inspires the sick with hope, as nobody else can. Well, I placed myself under his treatment, I began to improve at once, and in a few months was well.

Mrs. Edwin Norton of Essex, Conn., a most pleasing lady, smiled in answer to the question, Do you know Dr. R. C. Flower of Boston? as she replied: "I should think I did. Why, sir, he cured me of the most dreadful stomach and heart trouble woman ever had, also of nervous prostration. I had been a dreadful sufferer for over twelve years, had doctored with numerous physicians without benefit. Began to improve immediately under Dr. Flower's treatment and in a few months was cured."

Your reporter returned to Boston for the purpose of seeing Dr. R. C. Flower, whom he, too, failed to see on his return from the Pine Tree State. After waiting two hours, he was shown into the doctor's private parlors. "Well, sir, what can I do for you?" was the doctor's greeting. "I have come to ask you a few questions", was the scribe's reply, as he pulled out his book and pencil. "You must make your questions few and brief." "Doctor, you seem to be revolutionizing the practice of medicine in the treatment of chronic diseases. Will you tell me how you cure these desperate cases of consumption, cancer, tumor and paralysis?" "Well", was his slow and guarded answer. "I understand my business and I attend faithfully to it, and I can tell any sick person his trouble without being told; consequently I do n't treat a patient for the wrong disease. I have every facility for treating these supposed incurable chronics that money and experience can give."

You must like your practice, doctor. "Yes, I like it so much that I give about twenty hours a day to it". I have just been talking to two ladies in your reception rooms who tell me that you cured them one of a monstrous tumor, which at one time would have weighed sixty pounds, without pain or the knife, the other of two malignant cancers after she had been pronounced incurable by the best surgeons and physicians of this city. "Yes", was the doctor's reply, "this is true. One of these ladies is the wife of a prominent manufacturer in Maine, the other the wife of a large manufacturer in Haverhill, Mass".

Then, doctor, you believe these troubles are curable? "Just as curable as any other disease". Will you tell me how you tell a man his trouble without asking him any questions? "You must excuse me from explaining the modus operandi of my examinations, but that I do these things, thousands all over the country will attest".

One other question, doctor. How did you cure that little girl in Bangor by telegraph? The doctor smiled. "You would not understand me if I told you. I frequently cure people this way, though it is hard on me to do so. It is only in desperate cases that I attempt it. You must excuse me now", he said, and most politely bowed the knight of the quill out of the room. Crowds seemed to be waiting in all the rooms of his large building to see him. How does Dr. Flower perform these cures? How can he tell the sick their diseases without being told—that he does none will deny, but the question is still unanswered as to how. How! How!

GEN. LEW WALLACE.

The Author of "Ben Hur" and His Home.

Possessed of a Charming Personality, and a Devout Lover of Nature, He Finds His Best Inspirations Amid Rural Surroundings.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The veteran editor of the Journal at Evansville, Ind., James H. McNeely, recently said to me: "I suppose I had a hand in the first courtship that ever was carried on by telegraph. I was the operator who used to send Lew Wallace's messages to Sue Elston. That was away back in—let me see; they were married in 1854."

Seated on Gen. Wallace's porch in Crawfordsville a few days later I mentioned this circumstance.

"Yes," said the author of "Ben Hur," "McNeely is one of my ancient friends. I believe he did send my messages. It may have been the 'first courtship by telegraph,'" he added, with a smile. "I don't know about that. But surely the telegraph was very young in those days."

By the way, Gen. Wallace's father was the member of congress who, only a short time before that courtship began, cast the deciding vote in the committee on commerce in favor of an appropriation to develop Samuel F. B. Morse's magnetic telegraph. Yes; and the people of his district were so profoundly incensed by this "foolish encouragement of a wild, impractical scheme" that they refused to reelect him.

GEN. LEW WALLACE.

Crawfordsville in June is a delight to the soul, it is so soothingly quiet, so darkly cool under the dense foliage of its great, clustering trees; so fresh, so fragrant; and Elston grove, in which Gen. Wallace lives and does his immortalizing, is as the concentrated essence of the place. The house, which is not pretentious, is set deep in a forest of grand old beeches and maples and evergreen varieties of trees. Under these the walks and drives curve through dark arbors and across bright, well-trimmed lawns, the whole making a picture restful to the senses and inspiring to the soul. Every now and then somebody who does not know or cannot appreciate the grandeur of this place asks Gen. Wallace why he does not remove to one of the great cities, where he can have "literary environment." He was speaking of this when he interrupted himself to call my attention to a saucy-looking robin redbreast that had hopped down to a strategic point at the junction of two walks and was standing in an erect, military attitude as if he intended to dispute any attempt at departure which the master might make, and out of a great beech tree near at hand came dripping the fearful, far-away sounding "Oo-oo, oo-oo, oo-oo" of a mourning dove, bewailing the very thought.

"See this! Hear that!" said Gen. Wallace. "What better environment can anybody wish?"

And this reminded him of a very important duty he must perform. In a strawberry box snugly tucked under the cornice of the porch, just above the front door, was a tiny nest in which an early brood of American sparrows had been hatched.

"I must clean out that nest," said Gen. Wallace, "and make it ready for a pair of wee passenger birds that come every year at about this time and set up housekeeping there."

This, mark you, is the man who at bloody Monocacy led a handful of raw recruits against Jubal Early's overwhelming army—led them to inevitable defeat, and—saved the city of Washington.

Before we go into his workshop to pry into his literary methods, let us sit on the cool porch and question Gen. Wallace about his literary career, for, although he was a gallant soldier and a great general, his pen has become a much more potent influence than his sword ever was.

"It is difficult to say when I first began to write," he answers. "I was a wild boy and refused in great part all opportunities for a regular education. But along with that I was always a reader of everything. My father was a lover of books and had a fine library, which, of course, was always open to me. In my truancies I was in the habit of taking a gun, a dog, a fishing rod and a book, and so I varied my amusements. When about sixteen years of age I wrote a novel (about three hundred pages of closely-written manuscript) entitled 'The Man at Arms—A Tale of the Tenth Century.' It was my first work. With it I used to amuse my young friends.

"In my eighteenth year I began a book which was to be known as 'The Fair God.' From my earliest recollection Mexico was a country of great interest to me, and the episode of the invasion of Cortez was particularly agreeable. My first reading in that line was Robertson. Southey's 'Thalaba' was a pointer, also, and Prescott furnished me bread, meat, and wine. I had finished probably one hundred and fifty pages when the Mexican war broke out. This was irresistible to me. I got out drum and fife and flag: and raised a company and went with it as second lieutenant. At the expiration of my term of service I came back to Indianapolis, where I resumed my study of the law, which I had before my enlistment mixed with my literary pastime. If ever you get your fingers on 'The Fair God' you will see that the beginning shows the youthfulness of the writer. It does not show the maturity of the last part. All which includes the entry of Cortes and the 'Noche Triste' was written off and on after my return from Mexico. I was engaged in law and politics and the writing of 'The Fair God' about twelve years. I wrote this story only for pastime—never thought of the publication of it. It filled up evenings and idle hours generally. Going to New York on one occasion I concluded for curiosity to slip the manuscript into my trunk and submit it to a publisher. Whitelaw Reid gave me an introduction to the house of Osgood, Ticknor & Co., Boston. They referred the manuscript to readers with the result that they undertook the publication of it on the usual terms.

"Then I wrote a number of magazine articles, and about 1874 I concluded I would amuse myself writing a novelette, of which the principal circumstances should be the meeting of the wise men in the desert and the birth of Christ. The episode of the meeting in the desert was always a point of interest to me. Who were they? Whence did they come? How did it happen that they met for that singular purpose? All there is of it is a few little verses of the Gospel, but it was very interesting to me. My purpose was to present it to the Harpers for the magazine, it seemed so suitable for illustration. When it was finished I put away in my desk a very carefully prepared manuscript. A conversation with a distinguished gentleman not long afterward set my mind going again. I had never studied the Scriptures, had no opinions one way or another respecting God or heaven or hell. My condition upon the subject and all involved in it was profound indifference. The conversation referred to made me ashamed of myself, and I resolved to investigate as well as I could and reach my own conclusion. With that in view I thought of imposing a task on myself which would compel me to the work. I resolved to continue the theme of the manuscript in my drawer (which ended with the birth of Christ, and is now the first book of 'Ben Hur') to the death of Christ, the crucifixion. I was engaged about four years on this subject, reading and meditating. I came out a firm believer in God, and without a doubt in the Divinity of Christ, and—with 'Ben Hur.'

"Upon the publication of 'Ben Hur,' Gen. Garfield, the president, an old time friend, read it and sent for me. In the interview, he said: 'I want to send you as minister to Turkey. The labor will leave you plenty of time for writing, and I want you to give me a book on Constantinople.' He gave me my commission, and in the lower left-hand corner, in his own handwriting, were the words and initials: 'Ben Hur. J. A. G.' I never saw him again. I sailed soon afterward for Europe, and at Liverpool received by cable the information that he had been shot."

With what patience and fidelity and ability Gen. Wallace has fulfilled the literary part of his mission the public will soon be permitted to judge. The book on Constantinople is within a few pages of completion. It is a story of romance laid for the most part about Constantinople in the period of 1450, the catastrophe being the assault and capture of the city by Mohammed. During his term of service there Gen. Wallace had abundant opportunity to study the locality and lay in the outline of the work on which he is still engaged.

"The sultan was very kind to me," he says, "permitted me to go where I wanted to and under the most favorable circumstances."

Down in the front hall hangs an interesting portrait of Adbul Hamid, the sultan. I have never seen the sultan, but I should think this might be a faithful portrait of him. Surely it looks as if it might see and hear and speak and smoke a hookah.

"Yes, it is a good likeness," said Gen. Wallace, without any affectation. "I made it a little at a time and had to be very sly about it, for the Turks hold it to be an offense against religion to make a picture of the ruling sultan. It would have raised a great row if it had been known that I was making this one. No; the sultan himself did not know it. Every time I saw him I made a mental note of some one of his features, and then when I reached my room I hastened to add it to the portrait."

Beside this portrait hangs an evidence of the sultan's high regard for Gen. Wallace. It is the order conferring the decoration of the Medjidie (first class) upon him—a very rare distinction and an exclusive one, since on the death of the holder it reverts to the sultan, never again to be conferred on mortal man.

In this front hall hang Gen. Wallace's military and diplomatic swords; a battle flag of the Seventeenth Virginia cavalry, captured at Monocacy, and still bearing the blood stains of the poor fellow who clung to it until death; a number of Indian relics, mementoes of the Mexican campaign, and a statuette of Ben Hur, which the author says in all seriousness is a good likeness, for to him Ben Hur is as real a personage as if he lived and moved on earth to-day.

Personally Gen. Wallace is a delightful man. He bears his sixty-five years as if they were but fifty. Tall, erect, dignified, without a "frill," gracefully approachable and of a mild disposition, with none of those "eccentricities of genius" which make many famous men so disagreeable personally, he is a charming man to visit. He and his gifted wife live alone, as the saying is. That is, his son is a resident of Indianapolis. But the four other dwellings in the vast inclosure of Elston grove are occupied by relatives of a brother and sisters of Mrs. Wallace, and there is no dearth of company.

TAMMANY'S LEADER.

Richard Croker, Chief of a Mighty Political Organization.

Richard Croker is known all over the country as leader of Tammany hall, that mighty and powerful political organization in New York, which has the Empire city in its grip. He is descended from an old Irish family, whose name is found in Burke's Lauded Gentry. His grandfather was Maj. Henry Croker, of Quartertown, Ireland, and one of his relatives was governor of Bermuda. Mr. Croker was only three years old when he landed in New York with his parents and six brothers and sisters. He attended the public schools until his fifteenth year, when he entered the machine shop of the New York Central railroad, learning the trades of machinist and engineer. He became very active in politics, and was elected an alderman in 1867, when only twenty-four years old. He was in the board in 1870, when Tweed legislated all the aldermen out of office because he could not control them. Mr. Croker was one of the young democrats who were fighting Tweed. Upon John Kelly's reorganization of Tamnany hall Richard Croker became one of his lieutenants, and at his death in 1885 he became his successor in the leadership. Mr. Croker is now forty-six years old, is married and has a family of six children. He is of very domestic habits and is a model head of a family.

Packard's
BUSINESS COLLEGE
—AND—
SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,
4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.
WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.
This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

CAN EAT PIE

if it is made with Cottolene, the new pure substitute for lard. Cottolene is simply pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet, two of the healthiest foods known.

Properly combined they are better than lard for all kinds of shortening, and everyone can eat, digest, and enjoy food cooked with it. Food that was indigestible when cooked with lard is easily digested when cooked with Cottolene, and many of the leading housekeepers of the land say they can make nicer bread, rolls, biscuit, cakes, cookies, ginger bread, pies, patties, tarts, griddle cakes, croquettes with Cottolene than with either lard or butter. Get it of your grocer and try it. Beware of imitations.

MAY BE CHOLERA ON BOARD

Feared that La Touraine Carries Victims of the Disease.

THE STEAMER DUE AT NEW YORK TO-MORROW MORNING.

Her Clearance at Havre Revoked Just After She Had Sailed by the United States Consul—Immigrants from Hamburg to Be Carried Separately for the Present—Health Authorities Throughout the Country Thoroughly Aroused—The Death Record.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Well-grounded reasons exist for believing that the first vessel to bring the much-dreaded cholera to this port will be the big French steamship La Touraine, which is now on the seas and due to arrive early to-morrow morning. On her last trip to this port La Touraine got in on Friday night, having broken the record from Havre.

She will not be allowed to come up to Quarantine before being boarded by Health Officer Jenkins, who has already completed arrangements to meet the steamer far down the bay. She carries 256 saloon, 119 second cabin and 415 steerage passengers. Her complement of officers and men is 280, making a total of 1,070 souls aboard the mammoth steamer. If the cholera has broken out on this vessel the terrible scourge will have many victims within easy reach of its terrible grasp.

When the French steamer left Havre, at which port cholera has already found hosts of victims, she was granted a clean bill of health by the American Consul at that place. A few hours after she had sailed, however, the officials who had superintended her inspection were thrown into a state of consternation by the discovery that the plague had broken out among a consignment of immigrants who were to have sailed on La Touraine, but, owing to her crowded condition, could not be furnished with accommodation.

These immigrants had traveled many miles in company with scores of those who had obtained passage on the French steamer and among whom the scourge was liable to break out as it had among those left behind. The steamer had hardly passed out of the harbor before this discovery was made.

Fleet tugboats were dispatched in pursuit, but nothing but a City of Paris could have overhauled her, the fleet Frenchman having the advantage of such a start. The tug captains discovered the futility of their chase when the steamer was seen low down on the distant horizon.

Upon the return of the tugboat the American Consul telegraphed to Secretary Foster, revoking the bill of health he had issued to the steamship, and setting forth the foregoing facts in brief. Secretary Foster notified Health Officer Jenkins and the agents of the line in this city.

Officers of the Hamburg-American Packet Company have just received the following message by cable from the headquarters of the company in Hamburg:

"As danger of infection may come from emigrant passengers booked together with first and second-class passengers, we have decided, in order to secure for our passengers the best sanitary conditions possible, to separate emigrant traffic from first and second-class entirely, forwarding emigrants on separate ships exclusively.

"Besides, the express steamers will run until further notice between Southampton and New York only, beginning with the Columbia, now due at Southampton."

Emil L. Boas, general passenger manager of the line in New York, said that those passengers now on the Continent who are booked to return by the Hamburg-American line will be carried from Hamburg to Southampton free of expense to them.

The express boats referred to in the cablegram, Mr. Boas said, were the Augusta Victoria, Fuerst Bismarck, Normannia and Columbia.

These steamers will carry only first and second-class cabin passengers.

From time to time boats will be sent from Hamburg to New York with only emigrants on board.

Before the emigrants leave Hamburg, Mr. Boas said they will be fumigated at the company's expense, and no person with a symptom of disease will be taken on board.

An apartment connected with the steam pipes, will be fitted up on all the emigrant vessels, so that when they arrive at quarantine here every piece of baggage on board can be cleansed before being landed on Ellis Island.

With this perfect system of disinfecting and the watchfulness of the officers at quarantine, Mr. Boas said he apprehended no danger from cholera.

PHILADELPHIANS ALERT.

Precautionary Measures Against Cholera to Be Adopted.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The health authorities have become thoroughly aroused to the importance of taking every precautionary measure possible owing to the alarming reports of the spread of cholera through Northern Europe, to prevent the dreaded disease from reaching this city.

Hereafter all vessels arriving here from infected districts will be detained at the quarantine station and thoroughly disinfected and fumigated before being permitted to pass up the Delaware river.

Illinois Anxious About the Cholera.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26.—The following despatch has been sent by the State Board of Health to the National authorities at Washington: "In view of the westward spread of cholera in Europe, the Illinois State Board of Health earnestly requests that you extend the scope of your order of the 18th instant, so as to include all the arrivals from European ports, including those from England."

Lysol as a Remedy.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—The chief Sanitary Board of Austria publishes a statement regarding the value of a series of new disinfectants which, in view of the cholera danger, are of much interest. The special attention of the public is drawn to the so-called Lysol. A solution of 1 per cent. of lysol is stated to be sufficient to annihilate the common bacillus at the shortest notice.

HAS IT REACHED BERLIN?

Fears that the Disease Has Broken Out in That City.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—There are serious fears that the cholera has broken out in this city. The wife of a merchant named Landrock, living at 10 Golden strasse, died at midnight with symptoms of Asiatic cholera.

At a conference of leading medical men, held yesterday, the opinion was unanimously expressed that an epidemic of cholera was unlikely. It was suggested, however, that everybody should take three drops of muriatic acid daily in a tumbler of water, and that great care should be taken to keep flies away from the food.

The authorities on the frontier have been admonished to redouble their precautions against the admission of persons or articles suspected of infection, and everywhere the local sanitary officials are displaying the utmost vigilance.

The President of the Berlin police has made it known through the press that doctors and heads of families are bound instantly to report all cases of illness suspected to be cholera as long as the epidemic shall continue.

As letters and papers from Russia are not disinfected as they were during former epidemics, persons receiving such things from places where the cholera prevails are advised to burn them as soon as possible, and to take care to cleanse their hands thoroughly.

CHOLERA IN ENGLAND.

Three Cases Reported by Health Authorities at Gravesend.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The steamship Gemma, from Hamburg, arrived at Gravesend yesterday with 60 aliens, some of whom are Russian Hebrews.

Three of them were reported ill, and upon examination by health officers were found to have symptoms of cholera. The steamer was quarantined.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A dispatch from Berlin to the "Telegraph" says that the assistants of a well-known physician said to-day that there had been 65 deaths from Asiatic cholera in the city lately. In all cases the true cause of death has been kept a secret. The story, probably, is a canard.

Servia to Build a Vast Hospital.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—The Servian government has voted the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand francs to be used for the erection of an hospital for contagious diseases and temporary shelter for those attacked by the cholera. At all ports on the Servian Danube the entry of goods of Russian manufacture is prohibited.

DECLARED ILLEGAL

Chancellor McGill's Decision in the Case of the New Jersey Coal Combine.

TRENTON, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Chancellor McGill's decision in the case of the State against the railroads forming the Reading combine was filed at a late hour yesterday afternoon.

The State's contentions are that the lease of Central to the Port Reading is illegal; that the Tripartite Agreement is in violation of law, and the combine is against the policy of the State, because it tends to the monopoly of a public necessity.

President McLeod this morning gave out a statement in reference to the injunction granted at Trenton. He says: "I have no information as to the contents of the opinion filed by the Chancellor, but if it is as I suppose, that he has restrained by injunction the operation of the Central Railroad of New Jersey by the Port Reading Company, the practical operations of the property will be at once surrendered to the directors of the Central. This cannot have the effect of changing or disarranging our traffic arrangements in any way."

DESERTING THE STRIKERS.

Skilled Workmen Return to the Homestead Mill—More Help Than is Wanted.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 26.—Four former employes of the Carnegie Steel Company have broken away from the ranks of the strikers and this morning went to work in the mill. They were not members of the Amalgamated Association, but are skilled workmen in the mechanical department.

Supt. Potter says that his force numbers between 2,100 and 2,200 men and everything is progressing satisfactorily to the company. Forty-six skilled mechanics arrived from Philadelphia yesterday. Mr. Potter says they are getting more skilled workmen than are needed; that they cannot properly take care of more until the new company houses are finished.

The weeding out has begun, and it is claimed that in a short time every department will have a full force of competent men.

Fatally Injured by a Train.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 26.—William Baldwin, David Williams, and a man known as "Jim," were driving across the tracks of the Greenwood Lake Railroad, at Mountain View, late yesterday afternoon, when an express train struck the wagon and hurled the occupants many feet in the air. The three men were hurled a distance of 30 feet and were unconscious when picked up. Baldwin and Williams were taken to the Mount Clair Hospital and they will probably die.

An Anarchist's Ill Deeds.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 26.—John Morton, a local Anarchist, was married in this city last Tuesday to Miss Laura Simmons. Yesterday Morton broke open a bureau drawer, where John Moran, who was Morton's best man at the wedding, kept his clothing and stole everything there. Then he hired a horse and departed, leaving his bride and his creditors to wonder where he went. The police are after him.

ARBITRATORS ADJOURN.

Investigation of the Strike to Continued in New York.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The investigation of the State Board of Arbitration and Mediation into the Buffalo strike was concluded here last evening, and adjourned to meet in New York, where Vice-President Webb, of the Central, and other officials can be examined. At the morning session, Grand Master Sweeney was on the stand.

He told the story of his connection with the strike very much as it has been told in interviews with him. He said he was powerless to order strikes and that he did all in his power to avert the trouble so long as he saw there was any possibility of adjustment.

Concerning the rioting, fires and violence he said he had made an investigation and could not find that any members of the switchmen's organization had in any way anything to do with the acts of lawlessness.

In the afternoon Supt. Brunn of the Erie and Supt. Fennell of the Lehigh gave their testimony. The Hon. E. S. Sprague for the Erie and Attorney Brundage for the Lehigh were present, but Mr. Sweeney and the switchmen were absent. Mr. Brunn said the committees had called upon the officials of the road and presented its grievances and requests, but the company did not feel that it could accede to the demands, and the next he learned was that a general strike was on, and that cars were being wrecked and burned.

He stated that the switchmen asked for the adoption of the 10-hour basis, which practically amounted to an increase of 10 per cent. on their wages. He explained that a railroad day was 24 hours in which to handle the road's business, and that the roads which have adopted the 10-hour basis all work their men 13 hours and allow two hours for meals.

Mr. Fennell's testimony was on the same line as that of Mr. Brunn. He said the cars which were burned were serviceable cars, and not old and useless, as the strikers claimed; that the road did not store old cars there, and that several of the cars burned were loaded. He said his road never had any trouble with the men, and that when the change to the hourly basis was made and it was discovered by the company that it made a slight reduction in the pay of the men, th mistake was rectified.

SAYS IT WAS A CONSPIRACY.

Supreme Vice-Justice Hosmer on the Iron Hall—Somerby's Whereabouts.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—Amos H. Hosmer, the Supreme Vice-Justice of the Order of the Iron Hall, a leading witness in the suit at Indianapolis, is home.

"The order has been wrecked," said Mr. Hosmer to a reporter, "and it was brought about by a conspiracy. The plotting has been going on since last November. Davis, the Supreme Cashier, declared he would wreck the institution, and he has accomplished his purpose. An effort, however, will be made in this State to revive the order. A meeting will be held Saturday night and some action taken towards its reorganization.

"Everything at Indianapolis," said Mr. Hosmer, "appeared to me to have been cut and dried and the programme was carried out to the letter. Why, the papers actually announced the name of the receiver three days before he was appointed. The judge, in my opinion, was prejudiced. We were not allowed to show the conspiracy that Davis and Walker successfully instigated to wreck the institution."

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—There is an ominous calm in the affairs of the Iron Hall in this city. With the announcement from Indianapolis that a local branch will begin criminal proceedings against the supreme officers of the order, the members in Philadelphia are anxious about the whereabouts of Chief Justice Somerby.

At his residence, 3,402 Baring street, the door bell has been removed to relieve his family from the constant ringing by persistent inquirers.

A reporter went to a back door and discovered Somerby's son. He said his father would be home to-night. He had left Indianapolis, the son said, but stopped off enroute to attend to some business.

Where Somerby stopped off or the nature of his business the son would not say.

EXETER, N. H., Aug. 26.—Application has been filed for an injunction against giving out any of the funds of the local branch of the Order of the Iron Hall and the Sisterhood branch, which aggregate $5,000, and application for a receiver has been filed with the Supreme Court.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Aug 26.—The local funds of the Iron Hall, amounting to $8,200, have been attached by two members who claim payment for stock benefits.

WILL NOT BE KILLED MONDAY.

Murderer Hamilton's Execution Stayed By an Appeal.

SING SING, N. Y., Aug. 26.—James L. Hamilton, the colored ex-Methodist preacher, who was convicted of murdering his wife at Winfield, L. I., was sentenced to be executed in the death chair next Monday, but his counsel having appealed his case that fact will prevent Warden Brown from carrying out the death sentence until the case is passed upon in a higher court.

Hamilton occupies a cell in the death-house and spends much of his time in reading the Bible and singing hymns. None of the prison officials believes Hamilton to be insane.

Fifteen Were Drowned.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A despatch from Calcutta says that the Anchor Line steamer, Anglia, bound from Calcutta to London, capsized in the Hooghly river, on the way to the seas and of forty-seven persons on board fifteen were drowned.

SOLDIERS GOING HOME

One Brigade Will Be Left to Guard the Yards.

ARBITRATION BOARD ADJOURNS.

It Will Resume the Investigation in New York—Some of the Switchmen May Get Back Their Jobs—The Assault on Sweeney Denounced.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The military authorities are stirred up because of conflicting suggestions. Sheriff Beck has asked for the withdrawal of the troops, and some of the railroad officials urge their retention for the present. A conservative policy is being pursued and only about 2,000 of the men have been ordered home up to this morning.

The 10th Battalion of Albany, with the 6th and 21st Separate companies of Troy, the 44th of Utica and the 46th of Amsterdam, left by special train on the Central road last evening, and were followed shortly after by Troop A, cavalry, who shared their train with the First Brigade Signal Corps.

The 23d Regiment, Col. Partridge, left on a special over the West Shore Railroad at 10 p. m., and were followed an hour later on the same road by the 13th Regiment, Col. Austin, of Brooklyn. The Catskill company, the 16th, went home on the regular 9 p. m. train on the West Shore road.

It is expected that about the same number will be ordered home to-day and to-morrow, providing no disturbance occurs. The regiments and companies of the 4th Brigade, Gen. Doyle's immediate command, will remain and garrison the vacant posts.

The question that is now agitating the minds of the defeated switchmen is whether or not they will be able to get back their positions.

It is given out that on several roads an understanding to that effect has been arrived at. Arbitration Commissioner Donovan is quoted as saying:

"I had interviews with the superintendents of the principal roads involved and requested that in the event of the strike being declared off they give employment to as many of the men who were out on strike as possible. The superintendents of the Lehigh and Erie assured me that they would do so.

"I am not certain about the Central, but on the other roads where the strike was sympathetic the men will all be taken back, I am sure, except such as have violated the law and forfeited the confidence of their employers by riotous conduct.

"On these assurances I recommended to Mr. Sweeney that the strike be declared off. Our interview followed the conference which Mr. Sweeney had with Messrs. Sargent, Clark and Wilkinson. Mr. Sweeney was at first loth to give up, but after laboring with him for two hours, he at last consented if he could get the acquiescence of the local switchmen."

From other sources it was learned that the Lackawanna people will probably take back all their old men. The reinstatement of the old men will probably be slow, as the railroads do not feel like letting the new men go.

General Superintendant Bartlett of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg, said.

"We have men engaged and on the way to take the strikers places and will have no vacancies. We may take back some of our old men, but it would hardly be consistent. We granted our men everything they asked for, but it seemed that they were determined to strike. When they went out I discharged them and told them plainly that they had not acted fairly with the road."

General Superintendant Canniff, of the Lake Shore, said:

"The relations between the men and the company have always been pleasant and I regretted that they saw fit to leave the service of the company. We now have 85 men at work. When they were employed it was with the understanding that their places would be permanent. It would be unfair to these men to discharge them to make room for former employes. They will give us a full force."

There was very little disturbance along the military outposts during the night by strikers or their sympathizers. The former were too much occupied with the weightier subject of what the roads would do in the matter of taking them back.

A round of the hospitals was made this morning to ascertain the condition of the victims, in one way or another, of the strike. Charles Delehanty, of the 12th New York is reported as doing well. Charles Gable, who was assaulted by Tom Manaher at the Tifft farm is improving. Manaher is also improving and will recover. Allen Richardson, the non-union man from Boston, who was beaten Tuesday night, is doing well. William Moran, the striker who was shot through the leg at the Tifft Farm, will soon be discharged from the hospital. Charles Snyder, the soldier who fell from a car in a fit of epilepsy has recovered and returned to his company. Timothy Coffee, the Erie, Pa., man who was assaulted by Pat Dealey, the ex-baseball catcher, has recovered and been discharged from the hospital.

The assault yesterday morning on Grand Master Sweeney by Arthur Quinn, a striking Nickel Plate switchman, is characterized by the strikers as cowardly and brutal, and entirely unprovoked.

Mr. Sweeney and 75 switchmen had been attending the investigation ordered by the State Board of Arbitration and had left the hall and were standing at the corner of Swann and Main streets. Quinn approached and told Sweeney he was responsible for the loss of his job.

Before Sweeney had time to answer Quinn dealt him a fearful blow on the head and followed it up by several sledge-hammer punches in the face.

Mr. Sweeney says he does not know why Quinn hit him, but supposes it was because he had lost his job by the failure of the strike. Mr. Sweeney said it was the first time in the history of the order that he had been assaulted by a striker or any member of the switchmen's organization. He had often heard threats against him, but had never been touched by a man who was disappointed over the outcome of a strike.

Arrests of Strikers Probable.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Nothing definite can be learned at the headquarters of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad in this city of the Lehigh Valley Company securing evidence against a large number of Buffalo strikers for the purpose of prosecuting them. General Superintendent Swigart, who has charge of the matter, refuses to talk, but other officials say early arrests are probable.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

WON'T BE DRIVEN OUT.

Rev. David Chambers Determined to Stay in Harwich, Mass.

HARWICH, Mass., Aug. 26.—Rev. David Chambers, the pastor of the Methodist Church who was assaulted with a large stone and who had been warned in an anonymous note to leave town, says he can see no reason for any personal attack on him. He has endeavored to bring the two factions of the church together and thought he was succeeding.

"I hope and expect," he said, "that the law will have in its grasp the one who assaulted me, but if it fails and I know the would-be assassin is abroad, it will not drive me out of town. I am here to do good and I shall remain."

B. & O. Operators Demand More Pay.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—Telegraph operators employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in Baltimore, and who are members of Division 17 of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers of the United States, have submitted a schedule to the company for an advance in wages. It is stated that the company is willing to compromise on half the asked for advance but the operators are not satisfied. It is claimed by the operators of Division 17 that if they strike a general strike of railroad operators will follow.

The Bridge Gave Way.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 26.—A construction train was out yesterday inspecting the bridges on the P. S. & L. E. Road, in consequence of the heavy rains. When half a mile south of Conneautville a bridge gave way under the engine and it was precipitated into the bottom of the ravine, causing the instant death of Bridge Boss Edward Fisher and probably fatally injuring Conductor Milton Diefenderfer, both of Shenango.

Blair Willing to Go to Congress.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug 26.—Ex-Senator Blair said to a reporter yesterday: "In the common acceptation of the term I am not a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the First district. If, however, the party shall nominate me, I shall accept the honor and will do the best I can to redeem the district."

Both Sisters Missing Now.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Aimee, the "human fly," and her sister, Rose Austin, are missing. Rose left her home at Bensonhurst, L. I., on Monday, and Aimee disappeared yesterday. Mr. Austin, the husband of Rose, reported the case to Superintendent Byrnes and a general alarm has been sent out.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voehl, their children and grandchildren, are home again after spending the summer months at their elegant summer residence known as "Sunset Cottage", situated in the second mountain near Mount Horeb.

Stetson's Big Snow.

Had the great and only Barnum been in Plainfield to-day, he could have created no more commotion among the women and children than did Stetson's Big Uncle Tom's Cabin company. Parents and children began assembling in spite of the rain at an early hour along the promised route of procession, and when it came none was disappointed. It was an overwhelming surprise to all. The double band, elegantly uniformed, with spirited airs, attracted great attention. The musicians were followed by half-a-dozen Siberian bloodhounds, each led by a keeper; then came a handsome Shetland pony, with "Little Eva" gracefully astride.

Come early to-night and avoid the rush.

MINERS BURIED ALIVE.

Every Man in the Aberkenfig Pit May Have Been Killed—Efforts at Rescue Fail—Women Frantic and Others Help at the Work of Rescue.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—An explosion, which it is feared may be attended by enormous loss of life, has occurred at Aberkenfig, near Bridgend, in the county of Glamorgan, Wales.

One hundred and forty-one miners are entrapped in a coal pit, owing to an explosion which shattered the galleries by which they could have made exit, and nothing is known as to their fate.

When the explosion took place a volume of coal dust arose from the mouth of the pit, and this, along with the rumbling noise, gave notice to the inhabitants that something serious had occurred.

Women and children rushed to the mouth of the pit, crying and wailing for the fathers, husbands and brothers below.

The scenes at the pit's mouth were most distressing, and efforts were made to reach the entombed miners and ascertain the extent of the calamity. These efforts, so far, have proved unsuccessful, and the indications are that the explosion may have destroyed every life in the mine.

SWEENEY DESPISED AND DESPOSED.

The Men Sam Sloan Surrendered to Strike and Go to Work as They Please.

BUFFALO, Aug. 26.—The switchmen that struck on the D. L. & W. and Nickel Plate roads decided last night that they would have a little strike of their own.

They were by no means satisfied with Grand Master Sweeney's order declaring the strike off, as the attack of Quinn on Sweeney indicated clearly yesterday.

The men on both the D. L. & W. and Nickel Plate decided last night that they would not go back to work, and so they began a second strike. That action places the D. L. & W. in the position of the benefactor who has been illy-treated by the ones it sought to assist.

CAUGHT IN A CYCLONE.

How a Cooperstown Captain Saved President Smith and Family of Plainfield from Destruction.

During their recent stay at Cooperstown, ex-councilman Seymour G. Smith and family had a terrible experience with a cyclone. They were on the steamer Gem, returning from camping. A party of fifty were on board. When in the middle of the lake, the storm overtook them, and tossed the the craft about like a feather. Some fainted from terror, and great excitement prevailed. The captain called out "Put on the life preservers!" Then came a crash. The vessel had been run into a dock at Hyde Clark's, with such force as to cut it right through, and there the craft was saved. That was the only means captain Cooper had of preserving his passengers from destruction. To his shrewdness they owe their lives.

Making a Business of It.

If the married man on Peace street who is so perseveringly pushing into print the fact that his wife prefers other men to him, goes much further with his charges, THE PRESS and the people will be inclined to believe that he is making a business of it and is "justly indignant" for revenue only.

Yesterday he presented in a newspaper office the business card of one of Plainfield's most honorable, esteemed and upright citizens, and asserted that that man also had called on his wife after dark and left the card when he found she was out. The charge is unqualifiedly false.

What can decent minded people think of this husband who is not only giving unnecessary publicity to his wife's "indiscretions" but willfully manufactures evidence of additional shame!

Those Prizes Should Come to Plainfield.

The elegant prizes for the Somerville bicycle races have to-day been on exhibition in the show window of THE DAILY PRESS, where they were the continual admiration of crowds of people. The races will take place at the twenty-third annual fair of the Somerset Agricultural society, to be held at Somerville, September 13, 14, 15 and 16. There will be trotting, pacing and running races, a balloon ascension each day, bicycle races, an exhibition of horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, and every attraction, making the greatest exhibit in Central New Jersey.

Stopped in the Old Fashioned Way.

Train No. 29, leaving New York at 10 a. m. was stopped at stations by hand brakes this morning, owing to the air connections giving out at the forward end of the train. The agility with which the crew of conductor Barick's train handled the wheels was highly appreciated by the passengers, as it is seldom the men are called upon to do so, and they or the brake wheels are thought to get rusty. Stops were quickly made and the train arrived at Plainfield right on time.

SALT-WATER DAY.

Its Present Observance—Decadence of a Time-Honored New Jersey Custom.

The colored people of Plainfield report having had a fine time at Papiac, yesterday, enjoying their annual Salt-water Day. The white people had their big Salt-water Day last Saturday. This famous excursion event is of historic origin. Indeed by virtue of one of those social canons which, although unwritten, are as immutable as the laws of nature, the last three Saturdays in August have been observed by the rural population of central and southern New Jersey from time immemorial as public bathing days. Along the coast below Long Branch, notably at Sea Girt, the second Saturday seems to find most favor, as also at South Amboy, on Raritan Bay, and at Papiac.

But by general consent the third Saturday is known as "Great" Salt-water Day, and is always spent at Florida Grove, a shady spot on the northern bank of the Raritan near Perth Amboy. Here do congregate the country folks of Middlesex county for miles around, to bathe and dance, and bathe and eat, and dance and bathe again. Hither come also tugs and barges laden with excursionists from New Brunswick and South River, while curious crowds from Perth Amboy pour in by stage loads to look on at the frolic or, peradventure, to take part in it. At "Florida" may be found on these occasions all the accessories which go to make the modern "Grove" attractive to the masses, such as merry-go-rounds, bowling alleys, rifle galleries, dancing-platforms, swings, and various devices for charming the nimble quarter from the pocket of the merry maker to that of the proprietor. Moreover beer and "soft drinks" in great variety abound, and are often imbibed with a frequency and copiousness that are not conducive to sobriety and good behavior. But those who celebrate Great Salt-water Day at "Florida Grove" go there "to have a good time", and presumably have it, each after his or her kind.

How greatly and how sadly the character of this annual bucolic festival has changed, however, is noticeable only to those who remember what it used to be. In the good old days before the war, when Perth Amboy was more like the "sweet, wholesome, and delightful place" she was reported to be by the early Lords Proprietors in 1682, Salt-water Day was "one of the institutions" of the town, and was interesting to outsiders, as well as to the inhabitants, by reason of its genuinely rural character and undisguised simplicity. Then there were no "groves" or "beaches", in the modern acceptation, with all that those names imply, nor were there any bath houses to be hired. The bathing grounds at that time were on the shore extending from the foot of High street westward to Sandy Point beyond the Long Branch railroad bridge, which then had not been thought of. Grassy fields stretched away from the river bank, and apple trees grew all along, affording grateful shade to the dusty travelers who sought it. From 6 in the morning until after 10 o'clock vehicles of all descriptions streamed into the town, filled with all sorts and conditions of countrymen, their wives, and families, on pleasure bent.

Arrived at the water side, the horses were unhitched and tied to the hind wheels. If the tide were low the "menfolks" would don their bathing suits, usually a hickory shirt and old trousers, and proceed to dig stem-clams. Meanwhile the children romped in the sand, the young folks talked or spooned together, while the elder women "set" in the shade or prepared the noonday meal. After dinner dancing was in order, and such dancing! No waltzes, polkas, or gallops for them. A brace of fiddlers would strike up "Money musk" or maybe the Virginia reel, and away they went, heel and toe, forward an' back, swing yer pardner, all sashay—O, how they did enjoy themselves! And when they had got tired of dancing, and "all het up", the women would retire to the privacy of the wagons, which, by means of sheets and curtains, did duty for bath-houses, and, after much giggling and squeaking, would emerge clad in bathing costumes improvised from old calico dresses. Those of the men were little better. Such ducking and splashing and shrieks of merry laughter are seldom seen and heard nowadays. Old and young alike yielded to the influence of the salty waves, and gave themselves up completely to fun and frolic. The grim-visaged farmer forgot the 7 per cent. mortgage on the farm and unbent his wrinkled front, while his toil-worn wife seemed to renew her youth at the reviving touch of old Neptune.

But times have changed, and the old-fashioned, real Salt-water Day is gone forever. Even the simple country folk who made it what it was, seem to have gone also, and their descendants who now go through the form without the spirit of the time-honored observance, appear to be incapable of enjoying it without the presence of accessories which rob it of all interest in the eyes of country-loving people.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends. Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

Drive them away—the aches, pains, weaknesses and ailments that make woman's life miserable. Some of them may be serious, and of long standing; they'll need time, perhaps, and patience. But all of them can certainly be cured and corrected with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nervine; a legitimate medicine, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and carefully adapted to women's delicate needs. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent that can produce only good results.

For all "female complaints," irregularities, and weaknesses, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so unfailing and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, the money will be refunded.

OBITUARY.

Joseph Maier.

Joseph Maier died at his late residence, the Park Hotel, Dunellen, last Friday night, at the age of sixty-one years, of heart failure, produced through loss of blood.

Mr. Maier had resided in Dunellen for the past twenty-four years and few men of the place were more widely known than he. He was surrounded by hosts of friends always having a kind word for every one. He was born in Germany, January 2, 1832, and after receiving the ordinary school education, he embarked to America in 1857, at the age of twenty-five, and after spending three years in various places, he came to Bound Brook, in 1860. Here he met, courted and wedded Miss Katherine Eder, who now survives him. Shortly after their marriage they settled at Martinville, N. J., about six miles from the spot where he died. Here he opened a little cobbler shop, making shoes for the neighborhood, and with diligent toil and careful management, he succeeded in saving a good sum of money, which he subsequently invested in Dunellen real estate. While he was in Martinville many of his neighbors who were less fortunate than he financially, received help from his hard-earned capital which in many instances was the corner-stone to their success. About twenty-four years ago he sold out his interests in Martinville and purchased two lots, where the Park Hotel now stands, and erected a small building upon them. This was the second house built on the street and with the exception of two homestead properties which had stood for years in the limits of the town, he erected the third house built in Dunellen. Success seemed to crown his path as he never was known to make an investment that did not reap its gain. The original house was added to on all sides, until it finally reached the dignity of a large and first-class hotel.

Mr. Maier was very liberal in charitable donations and a great helper in church work, and while in Martinville organized St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, in Bound Brook, and twelve years ago contributed liberally to building St. John's Roman Catholic church in Dunellen, and worked hard for its welfare until it was erected. He also contributed liberally towards the building of the Presbyterian church in Dunellen, and his name now stands upon the original list of subscribers, which was placed in the corner-stone of the church.

He was a stanch Democrat, having filled several minor offices for his party, and on more than one occasion represented his district as a delegate to the State convention. He leaves a widow and four children, one son and three daughters, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in this their hour of distress. The Rev. Fathers Smyth and Stafford of Plainfield administered the last rites of the church.

Funeral services were held in St. John's Roman Catholic church on Monday at 9:30 a. m. The church was filled to overflowing by friends of the deceased; in fact, many who wished to attend the service were not permitted to do so on this account. It is said that the funeral was the largest Dunellen has ever had. Some of the merchants closed their stores during the service. Interment was at St. Mary's cemetery in Plainfield.—Dunellen Call.

THE PRESS Brings Light on the Question.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

The price of coal having advanced 25 cents a ton in Plainfield, with the prospect of a still further rise, Editor Demarest of the Daily Press of that city sent a letter to President McLeod of the Reading system asking him if, as many claimed, "the Reading 'deal', so-called, was solely for the purpose of increasing the price of coal". The President answered the conundrum as follows:

"I ought not to be expected to take, from my very pressing duties, the time necessary to answer all the questions which are put to me by people who do not understand the object of the Reading leases. Nor can I be held responsible for the action of local dealers in raising the prices of coal. I would, however, remind consumers that the prices have fluctuated for many years, according to seasons and demands, and this year has been no exception to the general rule other than that during the winter the prices which the producers received were ruinously low, and by the efforts of the Reading management we have been able to raise them to a level which will insure the cost of production, but we are not getting as much as we should to enable us to realize a reasonable profit."

So the Reading combine has prevented the coal barons from being "ruined" by low prices. That is a gratifying thought. But the impression made by Mr. McLeod's testimony on the subject at the time the leases were made, was that the combination was formed for the sole purpose of reducing the cost of production in order that the price of consumers might be lessened. What a "reasonable profit" may be in the estimation of the Reading officers we do not know, but we are informed that the advance already made on what was the price of coal a year ago will increase the revenue of the barons fifty million dollars on the annual output.

One Way of Writing Up a Wedding.

(Bound Brook Democrat)

The report that our worthy fellow citizen John McGuire (formerly of Plainfield) had been bitten by a mad dog proves to be without foundation. It is a fact, however, that on Monday morning he experienced an important event in becoming the proud husband of Mrs. Catharine Hebron, also a highly respected resident of this place. The ceremony was performed at St. Joseph's church, Miss Kate Graham of Brooklyn appearing as bridesmaid and Ed McCann of Plainfield acting as best man. Many friends join in wishing them a long and happy life.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

MR. MILLS IN THE FAR WEST.

Preaching Where in the Past Were the Scenes of Political Hurrah and Prize Fights.

The big gong that clangs the rounds at the prize fights at the new Wigwam at Eddy and Jones streets, says a San Francisco paper, was silent, and the walls would, if they could, have been surprised at the strange sounds they heard. The scene of so much political hurrah and of so many bloody ring contests echoed with the music of a choir and the tones of B. Fay Mills, the evangelist, who began his down-town labors there.

The building was packed until there was not a seat left in the galleries. The ring stages had been removed from the middle of the main floor and two large flags partially hid an advertisement of the best cigar on earth, but the trail of the serpent remained in the tobacco-stained floors, the trapeze over the preacher's head and in other paraphernalia of athletic club quarters.

The stage held a large choir and several ministers, and from just in front of it a piano and a cornet sent their melodies forth to escort the music of the singers through the building. The choir sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and other familiar hymns, and then the Rev. Mr. Mills began one of his sermons to Christians. There were no appeals to the unsaved outside of the churches and no invitation to penitents.

The speaker based his talk on the text, "What do ye more than others?" "The greatest need of the world to-day", he said, "is the Christianizing of Christianity. If the salvation of Christ does not make men purer, holier, stronger and better, they either have not got it or there is no such a thing. A Christian brings forth his own fruit".

If there is anything that Mr. Mills dislikes it is to have people leave while he is talking, and as some people withdrew from the rear of the audience he paused in the middle of a sentence and a gesture and said: "I see that some people are discourteous enough to pass out at this time. We must have a rule in these large uncarpeted buildings that no one shall leave during the speaking unless in case of actual sickness. If people are not in a condition to come and remain during the sermon they ought to stay at home."

He was sure that a man could be a business man and a Christian at once. "I knew a business man who ran a hotel, and a summer hotel at that, and you could not stay there over night without knowing that Jesus Christ was the proprietor of the place. If you are not as godly in your office as at the communion table you are not godly at all. You can always tell a Christian in the dark.

"How is it about your relationship with the world? There are people of such a mongrel description that for want of a better name, are called worldly Christians. You might as well talk of a tall short man or a heavenly devil. I think that a worldly Christian is the meanest thing that crawls on this earth."

A GENERAL HOLIDAY.

Gov. Abbett Requests Jerseymen to Keep the Columbian Anniversary.

In accordance with a joint resolution passed by the United States Senate and House of Representatives, June 29, making October 21, 1892, a general holiday, that day being the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, and also with a proclamation by the President, signed July 21, recommending the observance of said day, his excellency, Governor Abbett, has issued a proclamation in which he recommends that the people of this State observe that day as a holiday.

Bowling on the Green.

Owing to the threatening weather, but few of the Dunellen Bowling club mustered on Mr. Schepflin's green yesterday. Sides were selected by Andrew Love who drew Mr. Schepflin and Col. Moore, and by James Smyth who drew Wm. Low, of Bayonne, and D. B. S. Cockburn. The first game resulted in a victory for Love, the score being 21 to 20. Skips were then changed, Moore and Low acting, and the result was 21 to 16 in favor of Moore. The third game was stopped by the lateness of the hour. Messrs. Schepflin and Cockburn were the skips. Mr. Schepflin won by 7 to 1. The great American bowler Smyth was hardly up in form, physically, and this fact was to a great extent explanatory of the veteran Cockburn's losing.

Mr. Love's rink bowled superbly all through and now await all challengers.

Martine and Yates of Plainfield Lead.

(New York Evening Post.)

In the Eighth District—a new one made up of Union county, the Bayonne end of Hudson, and the Democratic townships in Essex—Democratic candidates for congressman are thick. James E. Martine of Plainfield, known locally as the "Farmer Orator", and Joseph W. Yates, also of Plainfield, who was one of the district delegates to the National Democratic convention, are chiefly talked of among the Union county men. Ex-speaker John T. Dunn, who never tires of being a candidate for office, is being pushed by the Abbett followers in Elizabeth. A Mr. O'Reilly and Colonel George B. M. Harvey will go into the convention with some backing from the Essex townships. The foremost among these candidates seem to be Martine and O'Reilly. If his party friends can persuade him to run, ex-assemblyman Foster M. Voorhees of Elizabeth will lead the Republican forlorn hope.

Coal Jimmies Run Amuck.

This morning at Fanwood, the men handling the coal jimmies on the elevated trestle at the coal yards opposite the station, lost control of two on the westerly end. Within an instant they had plunged down the incline and out to the main line track No. 3. Fortunately the switch was closed or the cars instead of being derailed and stopped would have continued in their mad flight at least to Plainfield, the grade being very sharp. Engine No. 30 was ordered to the scene and the cars were placed back on the side track. Traffic on track 3 was slightly impeded.

WHERE IS THE PEDDLER

Alleged Important Clew in the Fall River Mystery.

A QUEER LETTER TO EMMA BORDEN.

The Defense Regard the Communication As of Great Moment—Hearing of Lizzie Borden Resumed—Dr. Dolan on the Stand Nearly All Day.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 26.—Lawyer Jennings, counsel for Lizzie Borden, has given out the following letter, which is considered by the defense to be a most important clue in the murder mystery. It was mailed on Aug. 18, and received the same day:

"WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 17, 1892.

MISS EMMA BORDEN:

DEAR MADAM—You must excuse that I take the liberty in sending you these few lines. I ought to have written to you before this, but I was unable to do so as I was traveling every day. My name is Samuel Robinsky. I am a Jewish peddler. When the fatal murder in Fall River occured I was only a few miles from Fall River that day.

"While sitting on the roadside toward New Bedford I met a man who was covered with blood. He told me that he worked on a farm and that he could never get his wages, so he had a fight with the farmer. He said he ran away and did not get any money after all. All he had was a $5 bill. He bought from me four handkerchiefs, one looking-glass, one necktie, collar and shoe blacking. His boots were covered with blood and he put lots of blacking on them.

"I helped him to fix up again and get cleaned, but by this time I did not know anything about the murder. I felt sorry for him and thought only he gave the farmer a good licking. I advised him to travel at night, which he said he would do, as he feared arrest during the day.

"I gave him my lunch and he gave me a quarter and told me not to say anything that I met him. He asked me what time the train left for Boston after 8 o'clock at night, and I told him. He had also a bundle with him which was about two feet thick.

"When I was peddling I did not read any papers only Sundays, as I am studying the English language. When I was in Boston last Sunday a friend of mine told me about the Fall River murder. I told him I was in Fall River and around the neighborhood. I told him about my stranger and my friend said: 'But why did you not report this to the police authorities?'

"I told him I was afraid, as they would lock me up as a witness, and another thing, I did not have any license; so I was afraid. I told my friend I would write to you.'

Robinsky goes on to say that he would know the man if he should see him again. He was of medium height, had dark brown hair, reddish whiskers and mustache, and weighed about 135 pounds. The writer goes on to emphasize the fact that the stranger was very nervous.

Mr. Jennings inquired in Waltham, and the Mayor said that no such peddler lived there, but he knew of such a man in Boston. The counsel for the defense say they are satisfied that such a man is in existence and are making a search for him.

The little court room never before held such a crowd as that which greeted Judge Blaisdell on the second day agreed upon for the hearing of Miss Lizzie A. Borden on the charge of killing her father with an axe.

Clergymen, laymen, physicians and more than 150 ladies who were not directly connected with the case were seated and standing in all parts of the room while inside the rail was an extraordinary crowd of reporters and other newspaper workers.

Ladies occupied more than two-thirds of the seats usually occupied by the curious gang who usually flock into the lower courts.

At 10:30 o'clock Charles J. Holmes appeared with Miss Emma Borden on his arm. Following them came Mrs. Brigham, Mrs. Holmes and Rev. Mr. Buck. Miss Lizzie Borden came in last with Marshal Hilliard. Miss Borden's face gave evidence of extreme anxiety. She took a seat between her two legal advisers and near her sister. The two women sat elbow to elbow. Not a word passed between them.

Dr. Nolan described the ghastly wounds which had been inflicted on Mr. Borden. The wounds were made with an axe or hatchet, and could have been inflicted by any person of ordinary strength, the Doctor said. Dr. Dolan saw four axes in the cellar of the house. He examined one and found that it had been scraped and washed. The head cutting surface under the glass showed stains which looked like blood. He saw some hair on it also. He took some dress skirts and underskirts from the house, the property of Miss Borden, the defendant. They were given to Prof. Wood.

On a Delicate Diplomatic Mission.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—William A. Sutherland, of Rochester, N. Y., National Republican Committeeman sailed for Europe in the Fuerst Bismarck. He will spend about three weeks abroad, being employed and commissioned by the State Department at Washington to attend to a delicate diplomatic mission. He will visit London first, then proceed to Paris and from thence he will go to Stockholm and from there to Rome. He argues in September the Monroe county case to test the constitutionality of the new apportionment before the Court of Appeals.

Washouts on the R., W. & O.

WATERTOWN N. Y., Aug. 26.—Several serious washouts occurred on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad in St. Lawrence county yesterday. Both branches of the road are affected. The rainfall in that section has been unprecedented, amounting to over three inches in the past 24 hours. Trains have reached Ogdensburg only via DeKalb and the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain. The Central Vermont has also been badly troubled by washouts.

Gladstone Informed of Ireland's Demands

DUBLIN, Aug. 26.—In speaking here before the Irish National Federation, John Dillon said that the charge of remissness had been brought against Irish members of Parliament for not having forced Gladstone's hand. Mr. Dillon assured his audience, however, that Mr. Gladstone had been informed privately as to the demands of Ireland. Much of this information, Mr. Dillon said, was given by himself.

Oh, What a Cough!

Would Not Ask More of Him.

"I have withdrawn from ouah amateur acting club," said Willie Washington.

"Why?"

"I couldn't stand it any longah, you know. I was cawst for a villain, and Miss Pepperton was the heroine, and she was to say: 'Villain, do youah worst!'"

"That was easy."

After Him.

Miss Pinkerly—You haven't met my father yet, have you, Mr. Tutter?

Mr. Tutter—No, Miss Pinkerly. I am afraid (sadly) he doesn't care much about meeting me.

Miss Pinkerly—I am not so sure about that. I heard him say yesterday that he was going to look you up.—Judge.

Identifying Him.

"Do you know who that is?" asked Trivvet of Dicer, referring to a man who had just given his wife a twenty-five-cent piece in response to her request for a dollar.

"No; who is he?"

"He's Peroollum, a man who has written some very able articles advocating that husbands pay their wives weekly salaries."—Judge.

His Fortune Assured.

Hobson, Pere—Do you think, Henry, that the practice of medicine will give you sufficiently large returns?

Hobson, Fils (just from the medical college)—Oh, yes, father. You see I'm going to make a specialty of expert testimony at murder trials.

Unpleasant Imagination.

Temple Kortwright (her affianced)—And while I am slaving here in town, you will sometimes think of me?

Mary Clausem (leaving town for the summer)—Yes, Tempy, darling. When I take a moonlight drive or a stroll along the beach with the other men, I shall imagine each one is you. I'm sure no girl could do more than that!—Puck.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance has been introduced before the common council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the council to adopt the same at a meeting to be held at the council chamber, No. 7 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, September 6, 1892, at the hour of 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the common council and all persons interested may be heard before the common council.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., August 16, 1892.

AN ORDINANCE

To lay out and open Sycamore street from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street.

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, by their common council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Sycamore street in the city of Plainfield from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street be laid out and opened so that said street shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five (25) feet on each side of the centre line thereof, which said centre line is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the northwesterly side line of East Fifth street, said point being distant twenty-four and eight-tenth (24.8) feet in a magnetic course of north forty five degrees and forty-three minutes west (N. 45 deg. 43 min. W.) from a stone monument in the intersection of the centre lines of said Sycamore and East Fifth streets as now laid out and opened, and running from said beginning point north forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes west (N. 45 deg. 43 min. W.) over lands of Elizabeth Chapin, Charles H. Hand, Agnes Littell, Catherine Lynch, Margaret Thatcher, William H. Brower, Justus H. Cooley, The Plainfield Bicycle club and Lucius Quinn, a distance of three hundred and sixty-two and twenty-one one hundredths (362.21) feet to a point in the southeasterly side line of East Fourth street; said point being distant twenty-four and seventy-nine one-hundredths (24.79) feet in a course of South forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes east (S. 45 deg. 43 min. E.) from a stake in the centre line of East Fourth street and there to end.

The land to be taken, in addition to the land already dedicated to the public, consists of a narrow strip beginning at the intersection of the northerly side of East Fifth street with the easterly side of said proposed street, and running thence northwesterly along the said line of said proposed street seventy and eighty-five one-hundredths (70.85) feet to a point in line of lands now or formerly of Charles H. Hand; thence along the said last mentioned line southwesterly ten and eight-tenths (10.8) feet to a point; thence southeasterly sixty-one and forty-eight one-hundredths (60.48) feet to a point in the northerly line of East Fifth street, distant along that line nine and eighty-four one-hundredths feet from the said beginning point; thence along the northwesterly side of East Fifth street northeasterly nine and eighty-four one-hundredths (9.84) feet to the place of beginning.

That the lands and real estate and the portions necessary therefor shall be taken and appropriated for the said laying out and opening of Sycamore street as aforesaid, pursuant to the charter of the city of Plainfield and the general statutes in such case made and provided.

The land to be taken and the lines of said street as the same is hereinbefore ordered be laid out and opened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Application Map to Lay Out and Open Sycamore Street from the northerly side of East Fifth street to the southerly side of East Fourth street, city of Plainfield, N. J., April 1892." Fees—$9.

Corporation Notice.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company have presented a petition to the Common Council for the right to extend the location of its tracks and construct and operate its street railway on the following streets in the city of Plainfield, from the southwest side line of Park avenue on West Front street, through East Front street to Peace street, thence through Peace street to North avenue, thence through North avenue to a point two hundred feet southwesterly from Peace street the track to be a single track to be laid in the centre of said streets (with the necessary switches and turnouts on North avenue at the end of the route.)

A meeting of the Common Council will be held in the Council Chambers, 7 Park avenue, on Tuesday evening, September 6th, 1892, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of considering the matter at which time petitions and remonstrances may be filed and parties heard thereon.

By order of the Common Council.

VICTIM OF FAT MEN.

Howard Fielding Tells a Harrowing Hot Weather Story.

How He Struggled to Keep Warm with the Thermometer at Ninety Degrees—Points on the Dissemination of Rank Poison by the Young.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

I have a desk in an office which is simply a calaboose built on the roof of a seven-story structure, and reached by so many flights of stairs that nobody but my creditors have the courage to walk up in this hot weather, and when they get there they have not breath enough left to dun me very hard. This was among the advantages pointed out to me when I first visited the office. I was also informed that the place was always provided with a cool breeze in a summer's day, no matter how many people might be getting sunstruck on the street. I wish to make a record of this because it is the first instance of veracity that I have encountered in my experience with people who rent things.

Personally I don't care anything about the cool breezes. I am never too warm in summer. Perhaps this is because I am built so that when a torrid sunbeam falls upon me there is room for only a part of it to work, while the remainder hangs around my edges waiting for me to move.

But fat men are different. There are three of them in the office with me, and they suffer terribly. Part of their misery is due to the fact that they wear scientific clothing. They appear every morning in neglige shirts which stick to their bodies like mustard plasters. They spend large sums on patent ventilated underclothing, which would better be sent to the relief of the Peary expedition in Greenland. Meanwhile I sit there—or rather used to during the first hot days—with a boiled shirt, a high collar and a high, intellectual brow that is never eroded by perspiration.

I advised McGillis, the artist (waist measure sixty-one inches), to wear ordinary white man's clothes and he would be much cooler.

"Fielding," said he, "you carry less meat than a turkey wing fricassee. What do you know about hot weather?"

Then he rolled up the sleeves of his patent refrigerating flannel shirt, thereby making a red-hot streak around his arms where the folds of the sleeves bound him.

"What we need," said he, "is another window in this place."

"Look here, McGillis," I protested, "I'm in a draft now all the time, and it'll be the death of me. We don't need any more windows."

But at this point Billings, the poet (who when he jumps into the water at Asbury park raises the tide all along the Jersey shore), chimed in with a suggestion for cutting loose one end of the room and swinging it on hinges.

It is only a shanty of boards that we inhabit, and the agent of the building, above the roof of which we stick out into the air, made no objection to Billings' plan. When this gigantic door was opened it let in a small hurricane directly upon my back. I should certainly have caught the worst kind of a midsummer cold on the very first day if it hadn't been that Billings was so overjoyed at the success of his invention that he stood in the doorway nearly all day, and though it was about six feet wide, his presence was as good as having the door shut.

That was what McGillis thought about it, and he objected so strenuously that Billings put his wits to work and invented another door for McGillis. This, when it was constructed, proved to be not so favorably situated with reference to the prevailing wind as Billings' door, so McGillis decided that something was necessary to produce a draft. The window over my desk (which they both insisted should be always open) did not satisfy McGillis even when the entire sash was taken out, so he persuaded the agent to let him cut two holes in the wall, one on each side of the window.

The next day after these holes were made was raw and uncomfortable. Billings and McGillis said that it was the day they'd been longing for. A cold and slimy wind was oozing up the East river. McGillis called it a refreshing breeze, and he stepped out upon the roof to enjoy it, leaving his door open behind him. Then Billings did the same trick, and I turned up my coat collar and shivered. The wind increased during the day till it amounted to half a gale. My fat friends lay back in their chairs with their mouths open and gulped down the foggy air. Meanwhile I was struggling with a literary production into which I was throwing my best touches. It was an important piece of writing, designed to be twenty-two inches wide, with pictures in it. Most of it was about soap, but the remainder was made up of delicate touches descriptive of the home life of the man who made the soap. I was able to put it down over my own signature that I had been to dinner at the soap gentleman's house (by assignment from the business office of our paper), and had had much more to eat than I ordinarily got at home.

Well, this elaborate bit of character painting was being blown about fearfully by the wind which came in at the door designed by Mr. Billings and went out by the two holes in the wall, after exerting a cooling pressure on the backs of my ears that made them stand out from my head like the sails of a schooner going "wind and wind." Several times a page would be wafted through the window and then I would chase it over the roof and catch it just as my forward foot was trembling on the brink of destruction.

On the next day I had such a cold that all the handkerchiefs my washerwoman had brought me—of which three belonged to me and nine with holes in them belonged to others—were not adequate to my needs. I looked reproachfully at McGillis and Billings, but they told me that my affliction was due to my infernal practice of keeping the office so hot that when I got out into the street I naturally took a chill. They suggested putting a scuttle in the roof, over my head, in order to equalize the temperature.

At lunch time I had no appetite, but it seemed best to go to a drug store and get a dose of something, I didn't know what—none of us do in New York. We simply go to the soda counter and explain what is the matter with us to the boy in charge. The practice of serving medicines of a new and improved sort over the soda counter has become so common in New York that there are few, if any, forms of death which are not within the reach of the humblest of our citizens.

There were many large bottles behind this soda counter, and some of them were plainly labeled with the certificates of their utility. There was Jerry's headache mixture, which, I think, could hardly fail to produce a satisfactory headache in any person if taken according to directions, and many others equally good.

Frank, the boy behind the counter, was in equally good spirits on this day. He is more than fourteen years old and is thoroughly competent to deal out all the medicine that any reasonable man could wish to absorb with a glass of soda.

"Cold?" he inquired. "What was it that the doctor gave that feller that was in here before? Darned if I can remember, but I guess it came out of this bottle."

THE DOCTOR.

"If you're not sure," said I, "you'd better ask somebody."

"All right," said he, "the doctor may be in in half an hour."

I couldn't possibly wait. We are all of us in a great hurry in New York. We cannot waste time in idle argument. If we want medicine we must have it right away, quick.

"Very well," said I to Frank, "you may give me anything you have in stock."

He measured out half a glass of something and then absent-mindedly gave it to another man who had come in some time after I did, and, indeed, had not yet given his order. This was a distinct violation of the rules of the establishment, which was managed very carefully, so that the first man up to the fountain gets his medicine first. I do not know what happened to the gentleman who got my medicine. I heard an ambulance gong in the street some minutes later, but it may have been ringing for somebody else. However, Frank gave me my potion eventually, and I took it hastily, for I had already wasted much valuable time.

I walked four blocks and then went into the doctor's branch store and asked the boy to give me something which would neutralize the effect of what I had taken in the main store. He reached for a bottle marked "simple drunk," and I carried three fingers of it away with me. That was a few days ago, and I am now dictating this story to Maude, who is the only one in our family who is able to be up and about. I realize that the story is somewhat fragmentary and incomplete, but that is the fault of the druggist's boys. They gave me something lingering, so that I cannot tell whether to put a tragic end to this story, or to keep it within the milder miseries of melodrama.

HOWARD FIELDING.

A SUBMARINE BOAT.

If Successful It May Revolutionize Naval Warfare.

Mr. Baker's Wonderful Craft Which Has Been Repeatedly Navigated Under Water—Its Value in Defense of Harbors.

The hull of the boat is forty feet long from bow to stern, fourteen feet deep and nine feet beam. The hull itself, says the San Francisco Chronicle, weighs twenty tons, and with the machinery and ballast this is increased to seventy-five tons. The boat is built on perfect curves, and a cross section from side to side shows a perfect ellipse. The hull is constructed of oak sections six inches thick, laid with broken joints. This skeleton work, which really forms the hull, is covered with water-proof cloth, and then planked lengthwise with one-inch oak, the structure being capable of standing a pressure of seventy-five pounds to the square inch. On top of the hull and directly in the center is the conning tower, fifteen inches high and fitted with lights for observation. The tower has a watertight cover, through which entrance to the boat is obtained. In the rear of the conning tower is the movable smoke-stack of telescopic structure, so arranged as to be completely covered when the boat is under water. About the same distance forward of the center is a movable air pipe, through which the air is drawn down by means of a powerful electric fan. The smokestack, conning tower and airpipe are surrounded by a light and strong iron railing placed several inches above the twelve-foot water line at which the boat ordinarily floats.

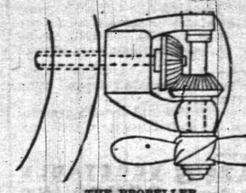
The deck is three feet from the bottom, and the space beneath is divided into bulkheads, filled with pig iron for ballast and compartments in which water ballast may be used, the water being let in from the bottom. By this means, when the wheels are started to submerge the boat, the ballast may be adjusted to keep it at any desired level. On the deck are arranged the boiler, motor and batteries. The boiler, located in the rear, is of 150-horse power,



THE PROPELLER.

oil being used for fuel. The engine is a common marine engine of sixty-horse power. The Jenny motor is located directly under the conning tower, and is capable of being used as a dynamo to supply the Woodward storage batteries. These are of 234 cells, divided into four series, and capable of giving a force of fifty-horse power for four hours. The steam power is used for navigation on the surface and to run the dynamo by which the cells are charged. In submarine navigation, of course, a water-proof boat is required, and electricity is then brought into use. The boat is supplied with incandescent lamps, and even the surrounding water can be illuminated by means of a powerful search light.

Although the general shape of the boat is Mr. Baker's own idea, the uniqueness of the concern lies in the propellers and the propeller shafts. The propellers, which are on the center of the sides of the boats, are on a cross-shaft and connected with mitre gears, the whole working in a movable sleeve controlled by a worm gear from the inside, and enabling the pilot to deflect the propeller wheels at will. The general construction of the propellers in Mr. Baker's invention is as seen in the illustration. Each propeller consists of a broad blade, to which is attached an ordinarily formed wheel. If the blade is horizontal the revolving wheels send the boat forward or astern. As the blade is elevated or depressed the motion of the wheels carries the boat down or up at an angle corresponding to the angle of the blade. At the same time the peculiar construction of the boat's hull keeps it perfectly horizontal, preventing its nose from running into the bottom as the boat approaches the bed of the lake or river in descending.

It is in defense of such harbors as San Francisco, San Diego, Puget sound, New Orleans, New York and Boston that such a craft would be especially serviceable. A fort on shore is at a great disadvantage in repelling the advances of a warship. A torpedo boat which navigates on the surface is more effective, but even it makes a conspicuous mark for balls from the warship. The submarine boat is different. Suppose, for instance, a cruiser is anchored out in the bay, the submarine vessel, with its load of destruction and its crew of three or four destroyers, can quietly and unobservedly slip away from shore. Hardly a ripple marks the course of the fish-like craft as it moves stealthily upon the enemy. The pilot fixes his eye upon the advantageous position and steers the craft for it. It is reached, all is made ready and the shot is fired. It does its work, and the men of the war vessel never know whence came the death-dealing cartridge.

TO STAY THE BLACK DEATH

Prompt Action By the International Health Board.

NO ABATEMENT OF THE DISEASE IN HAMBURG.

There is No Panic in London—Only Two Deaths Have Occurred—Forty-Eight New Cases at Havre—Great Alarm at Montreal—Extraordinary Precautions Being Taken to Prevent the Scourge from Spreading.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—A conference of the Executive Committee of the International Association of State Boards of Health has begun here to take steps to prevent the entrance of cholera into this country. Dr. J. N. McCormack of Kentucky, president of the association; Dr. C. O. Probst of Ohio, Dr. H. B. Baker of Michigan and Dr. C. N. Metcalf of Indiana are present. The committee decided to appoint what is to be known as the Quarantine Inspection Commission, which will be instructed to visit the quarantine stations of the United States, Canada and Mexico, inspect the stations and report upon their condition to the International Conference of the State Boards of Health.

The committee began telegraphing over the United States to find men qualified who would accept positions on the commission, and a communication was received from the Illinois Health Commission suggesting the expediency of memorializing President Harrison, praying that he issue a proclamation prohibiting immigration pending the prevalence of Asiatic cholera in Europe, signatures to be secured from boards of Trade and other similar organizations, from Representatives, Senators, Members of Congress and other influential citizens. To suspend immigration, it was added, is to make the prevalence of cholera in America impossible.

NO ABATEMENT IN HAMBURG.

Indignation Against Authorities for Suppressing the News.

HAMBURG, Aug. 27.—There are reported 202 fresh cases of cholera and 86 deaths. The weather is much cooler. In the vicinity of the harbor the disease shows no sign of abating.

Forty private companies are at work disinfecting dwellings in the city and suburbs. General indignation is felt toward the authorities because they suppressed for three weeks the fact that cholera was spreading in the city.

In Altona the water supply is failing. It is reported that in Pineneberg and Kiel several cases of cholera have been discovered.

The suspension has been ordered of all traffic on the Russian frontier, except at Eydtkuhmen and Prostken. A multitude of intending emigrants have been stopped at points on the frontier, and driven back to Russia. In the two stations named, travelers and baggage undergo rigid inspection and disinfection. Prof. Esmarch, of Kiel, and Dr. Glasser, have charge of the sanitary service on the frontier.

NO PANIC IN LONDON.

But Two Deaths Have Occurred—Vessels Not Allowed to Land.

LONDON, Aug. 27. — The Hamburg-American steamship Columbia will not proceed to Hamburg. She is unloading here and will start for New York to-day. The steamship Normandie, of the Hamburg-American line will not be allowed to land here, it is said, although she declined to take aboard 400 emigrants who applied for passage.

London is alarmed, although there have been only two cases here. There is no panic yet, as the health officials have given assurance that their barriers will prove effectual against future entry of the disease from infected ports.

The North German Lloyd steamship line has given notice that no emigrants from Russia will be carried in the steerage.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—Yesterday, according to the official returns, there were 7,362 new cases of cholera against 6,322 the day previous.

A Baltimore Lie Nailed.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27. — The dispatch sent out from Baltimore that cholera had been found on a European steamer in Chesapeake Bay is without foundation. The Dresden arrived in port via New York last evening with six hundred immigrants, having passed Quarantine with a clean bill of health. No other vessels have come in.

To Examine Hamburg Barracks.

HAMBURG, Aug. 27.—The military authorities have ordered a rigorous sanitary examination of the barracks, and in consequence of the danger which threatens the city, the Governor will not go away for his usual holiday.

Only One Way to Enter Austria.

DRESDEN, Aug. 27.—Notice has been received from the Austrian frontier that all people going to Austria shall be allowed to enter only by way of Bodenbach, where a thorough disinfection of all passengers will be made.

Preventives Measure in Kiel.

KIEL, Aug. 27.—Extensive measures are being taken for the proper quarantining of all steamships from Hamburg and Russia.

Forty-Eight New Cases at Havre.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—In Havre 48 fresh cases of cholera and 21 deaths are reported.

Idaho Rioters on the Rack.

COEUR D'ALENE CITY, Idaho, Aug. 27.—The United States Grand Jury has begun its work of investigating the riots in the Coeur d'Alene mines. Charles Sweeney, one of the owners of the Emma and Last Chance, was the principal witness examined. Several other residents of Coeur d'Alene were also before the jury. A week may elapse before the trials begin. The men indicted will be brought down from the mines as they are tried.

STRIKERS STILL GROWLING.

Grand Master Sweeney Denounced—Lackawanna Men Go Out Again.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The strikers are still very angry with Sweeney who has gone, it is said, to Chicago. A portion, at least, of the men have earnest convictions that the movement might have been successful if they had held out longer, and they are very outspoken in their denunciations of their leader, accusing him of having sold out to the railroads.

"Why, we had the strike practically won," said a switchman this morning. "All we wanted was time. We only had the roads tied up in Buffalo and vicinity. We could have extended the strike from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"What authority had Sweeney to call off the strike?" interjected another.

"He did not order it except to sign the order for the strike when the roads were read to go out. The strike was ordered by the local lodges, and should have continued until the local lodges declared the cause lost. Sweeney took upon himself an authority that did not belong to him. The strike was settled probably to his satisfaction, but not to the satisfaction of the men. The men may have something to say about this."

A number of the Rochester and Pittsburg striking switchmen called upon Supt. Bartlett during the morning and asked to be re-instated. They were told that there was no use of their applying, as not one of them should ever again be employed on the road. The Superintendent is quoted as saying that the company made every consideration possible to the men and had treated them fairly in every particular. They were determined to tie up the road, and now the road would tie them up.

The Lackawanna switchmen went on strike again yesterday. Several members of the crews at the foot of Main street were refused re-employment, and as the men had agreed not to go back unless all of their number were put at work, the 14 men who had already gone back quit work about 5 o'clock. A settlement was quickly arrived at, and shortly after the night crews were ready for duty it was stated that the men would resume their old places. The men immediately went to work.

What the Strike Will Cost.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Comptroller Wemple and State Treasurer Danforth estimate that the strike will cost the State about $275,000 for the pay, subsistence and transportation of the 7,500 National Guardsmen sent to Buffalo. Erie county will probably have to pay the bill in the end, but at first the money will have to be drawn from the general fund of the State. If the railroads present a bill for the property destroyed, cars burned, etc., after the sheriff was formally notified to protect the railroad yards and failed, their bill of expense for Erie county will foot up probably $400,000.

THE BORDEN HEARING.

Marshal Hilliard Will Not Allow Matron Reagan Retreat.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 27.—A sensational incident of the Borden hearing was when City Marshal Hilliard refused to allow Matron Reagan to sign a paper which Lawyer Jennings had drawn up. The paper was a denial of the information which she had been alleged to give to a newspaper man as to a quarrel between Lizzie and her sister Emma in the jail.

The marshal refused to allow the matron to sign the paper, whereupon the counsel for the defense in a loud tone denounced his action as an outrage, and asked all the newspaper men present to give the facts publicity.

The examination of Dr. Dolan in the hearing of Lizzie Borden was concluded. Several witnesses were examined to show Mr. Borden's whereabouts before his return to his house on the morning of the murder, and then John B. Morse was placed on the stand. He told of his visits to the family, his relations with Mr. Borden, and his own whereabouts on the morning of the murder. He was followed by Bridget Sullivan, who described so far as possible the actions and whereabouts of herself, Lizzie Borden, and Mr. and Mrs. Borden on the day of the murder. The direct examination of Bridget is not yet finished.

LOOKING FOR ROBINSKY.

He is Wanted to Tell What He Knows About the Borden Murder.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—The search for Saul Robinsky, whose alleged letter purporting to give an important clew to the perpetrator of the Borden murders was given out yesterday, has so far been unsuccessful.

He is unknown to the Hebrew settlement at Waltham and none of the Jewish peddler supply houses in Boston ever heard of him, though they keep regular lists of their customers.

The search for Robinsky will be continued, however.

Foul Play Suspected.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—The body of James Mahoney of this city, which was found in the water near Orange street bridge early in the morning, showevidences of foul play. Mahoney, in company with a companion, attended Charter Oak races, returning to this city at 8 p. m. Mahoney and his companion separated about 10 o'clock, according to the latter, for home. There are two wounds on Mahoney's head, but no symptoms of drowning.

One Killed, Another Fatally Hurty.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 27.—An explosion of two cylinders in the printing department of the Silver Spring Bleaching and Dyeing Company caused the death of Arthur Herter, a back-tender, and so seriously injured Joseph McKeon that he may die at any moment. Herter leaves a wife and child.

ALARM AT MONTREAL.

Every Vessel Will Be Thoroughly Inspected Until Danger is Past.

MONTREAL, Aug. 27.—The outbreak of cholera at Hamburg has caused considerable uneasiness in Montreal, as the steamships of the Hamburg-American Packet Company arrive weekly at this port from Hamburg and Antwerp.

W. C. Munderich, local manager of the company, states that every precaution will be taken on board the boats to prevent the disease, and he will afford the health authorities every assistance in his power.

The officer in charge of the River St. Lawrence quarantine at Gross Isle in a report to the government draws attention to the fact that, while he can handle isolated cases of infection, he could not cope with a ship arriving on board of which an epidemic had become general. He says for combating disease the appliances at his command are antiquated and obsolete, and are not up to the standard of those in use sixty years ago.

The steamship Mandrahm sails from Antwerp Thursday for Montreal, but she was in Hamburg five days ago. The next boat that will leave Hamburg for Montreal is the steamship Stelmhoft, on Sept. 15. Tramp steamers also leave Hamburg for Montreal, but none is on the way now.

Dr. Laberge, the city's health officer, says he will take every precaution against the landing of any immigrant or member of the crew of a vessel from an infected port until the vessel has been overhauled by the proper authorities.

LOSS OF THE WAPITI.

Eight Were Drowned—Mr. Sibley a Prominent Lumber Man.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—H. W. Sibley, who was drowned in Georgian Bay together with seven others, was one of the leading lumber men of the country, and had an office at No. 48 Wall street, this city. His home was in Rochester. Full particulars of the accident have not yet been learned.

From the accounts it seems that Mr. Sibley's yacht, the Wapiti, having on board the owner, Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley, two children, Ruth, aged 16, and Harper, aged 12; Miss Frances Durbin, of New York, a cousin of Mrs. Sibley; Miss Mary Hall, of Rochester, the family nurse, and Miss Maria Pond, of Rochester, was capsized in Georgian Bay in a squall.

Mr. Sibley left Rochester about three weeks ago and a few days later was joined by the party at Chicago. The particulars of the cruise are not known here, but the excursionists were heard from afterwards at Mackinaw. On Thursday a dispatch was received in this city from Collinwood, Ont., stating that all were well, and that the Rochesterians might be expected home on Saturday.

Miss Marie Pond, one of the passengers drowned on Mr. Sibley's yacht was a daughter of Col. N. P. Pond, secretary and a large stockholder in the "Democrat and Chronicle" Publishing Company of Rochester.

TRYING THE MINERS.

Prosecution of Tennessee Strikers Begun—No More Arrests.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 27.—All remains quiet at Coal Creek. A detachment of troops were sent to Oliver Springs to make arrests, but later advices say have returned to camp.

The trial of the arrested miners was begun before a justice of the peace at Clinton. The case of Monroe was taken up but was not concluded.

Budd Lindsey has been held for the Criminal Court. He gave bail in the sum of $5,000 and was released from custody. He got aboard a train and started toward Knoxville, but a squad of soldiers took him off the train and returned him to the guard house. They will do him no harm, but are determined that he shall not escape punishment.

Unless the Governor interferes, the military authorities will hold him indefinitely. His friends fear he will be lynched by the soldiers, but General Carnes says he will not allow it to be done.

Assistant Labor Commissioner Alleman went to Coal Creek and surrendered, but was released on bond.

In this city Superintendent of Prisons Wade is busily engaged securing guards to accompany the released convicts to the various mines, and it is expected they will be sent early next week.

NEWARK MILITIA MUTINY.

Much Comment Over the Action of Members of Company I.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 27. —There is much comment in military circles in this city over the action of 40 members of Company I, 1st Regiment of the State National guard, who held a meeting and decided to refuse to obey any further orders of their Colonel.

Company I was one of the companies which refused to parade in Paterson on July 5, and which led to the officers of the company being dismissed from the service recently. The company now seems to be thoroughly demoralized, and it is probable that it will be disbanded.

SIX BODIES RECOVERED.

Work of Rescue Progressing Slowly at Aberkenfig Mine.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The number of miners entombed at Aberkenfig, Wales, is 143, not 141, as before stated. Ventilation was partly restored in the mines after it had been stopped for four hours.

Six bodies have been recovered from the pit. The work of rescue is still in progress, but, owing to the difficulties with the ventilating apparatus, proceeds but slowly.

Hundreds of persons surround the pit's mouth, most of them waiting to identify the bodies of friends and relatives.

NO MORE IMPOSITIONS

Uncle Sam Will Not be Trifled With By Canada.

THE ST. LAWRENCE MAY BE CLOSED.

Likelihood That the Canadians Will Prevent American Vessels from Using It—A Dominion Journal Clamoring for a World's Fair Boycott.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—One thing demonstrated beyond a doubt by the latest Canadian correspondence is that this country does not intend to be trifled with by Canada. The general comment on the letter written by Secretary Foster is that it is strong and to the point, and is a suitable response to the extremely arrogant and impudent communication from the British representative on behalf of the Canadian Government. The policy of this Government from this time forward in dealing with Canada is well defined. The minimum measure of retaliation only has as yet been resorted to. What has been done does not fear more aggressive and damaging retaliation if there is a necessity for it. It may be accepted by Canada as settled that this country will tolerate no more impositions without full and proper resentment.

There is no intention to enter into jingoism; there is no purpose to interfere with the domestic affairs of Canada or Great Britain, but it is proposed to stand strictly on our rights and to compel them to be respected.

If it becomes necessary to erect an impenetrable wall between the United States and Canada it will be done.

It is regarded as not improbable that Canada will not hesitate to violate any or all of its treaty obligations to the United States, and there is a very clear understanding that this will result in cutting off all privileges Canadians enjoy by the generosity of this country.

The St. Lawrence may be closed against American vessels, and any burden that is possible may be imposed upon American commerce with Canada by Canadian action, but the injury that can be done us in this way is regarded at Washington as slight compared to the retaliatory measures which may be adopted by the State Department.

It is probable that not at a very remote period the retaliation by this country will extend to the transportation of goods in bond across this country if Canada maintains her present attitude.

TO BOYCOTT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Form of Retaliation Recommended by a Canadian Paper.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—The canal toll dispute will be further considered at a Cabinet meeting to be held Monday. Premier Abbott, owing to ill health, will not attend.

The Hamilton "Spectator" recommends that the Dominion Ministers stop all preparations for a Canadian exhibit at the Chicago Fair next year, and asks why Canada should spend $100,000 to aid a country which declares commercial war against her, and which may declare non-intercourse before the Chicago Exposition opens.

When Tolls Will Not be Taken.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—In reply to an inquiry as to the operation of the Canadian proclamation of the President, the Treasury Department telegraphs E. W. Meddaugh, Collector at Detroit, Mich., as follows: "Goods in transit on through bill of lading from one American port to another, transported partly by water by American vessels as is required by law, and partly by land through Canada, trans-shipped either at American or Canadian ports, are not within the prohibition of the President's proclamation. On proof of arrival of such goods in the United States, as provided in circular of Department, tolls will not be exacted."

For Free Canals in Canada.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—The "Mail's" Montreal correspondent says he is informed by a prominent Conservative who is in close relations with members of the Dominion Cabinet that the government will probably adopt a policy of free canals before the next session of Parliament. Color is given to this statement by a significant article in the "Gazette" (government paper), which advocates the freeing of the canals.

BLAZE ON A STEAMSHIP.

The Empress of Japan Had to Make for Hakodate—A Panic Averted.

VANCOUER, B. C., Aug. 27.—When the Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of Japan was 800 miles from Yokohama fire broke out in the afterhold. The first intimation was given by the electric lights going out, owing to the fusion of the wires.

Capt. Lee steamed for Hakodate, the nearest port, and water was forced into the hold through holes cut in the bulkhead. The vapor from the smoking tea which was on fire suffocated the men, and made it difficult to fight the fire.

On arriving at Hakodate 10 tons of burnt tea and sugar were discovered in the hold. There were 65 saloon and 165 steerage passengers, but there was no panic.

Buried in a Sewer.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 27.—A street sewer at Louisa, Ky., caved in during the night, burying five men. The sewer was 11 feet deep and very narrow. It took an hour's hard work to recover the bodies. Oscar Hughes was dead. Abe Webb was rescued more dead than alive with both legs broken. He will probably die. Leon Wilson is believed to be fatally hurt.

Jumped from High Bridge.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Frederick Gaylor jumped from the middle span of High Bridge into the Harlem River at noon. He was out of work and despondent. The span from which he jumped is 116 feet above the water. Gaylor was pulled out of the water alive, but dangerously hurt. He is, however, expected to recover.

Big Contract Awarded.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Aqueduct Commission has awarded the contract for building the new Croton dam to ex-Commissioner of Street Cleaning James Coleman. His bid was $4,150,971, and was $500,000 less than the estimate made by the chief engineer of the department.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

$500,000 BURNED UP.

NEW YORK'S MOST BEAUTIFUL PLAY-HOUSE A MASS OF SMOKING RUINS.

The Loss is Estimated to Be Not Less Than Half a Million Dollars—Engines Summoned to the Scene by Five Alarms from All Parts of the City.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Fire broke out in the Metropolitan Opera House, Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, a few minutes after 9 o'clock this morning.

The blaze started on the Seventh avenue side of the building, in the quarter where the large quantities of costly scenery and stage properties were stored.

Second and third alarms were sent in within a few moments. A fourth alarm was turned in at 9:36 o'clock, and the fifth at 9:54.

It was feared that the entire structure would be gutted, and at 10 o'clock it appeared to be all ablaze.

Hopes were entertained that the front part of the structure could be saved, but it seemed that the remainder would be totally destroyed.

Engines were brought from every section of the territory adjoining and strenuous efforts were made by the Department to save the Opera House and its valuable contents.

At 10:15 o'clock it was seen that the structure was completely gutted and would prove a total loss.

The Metropolitan Opera House was built at an expense of about $2,100,000 by seventy stockholders, each of whom subscribed $30,000, and each of whom became the owner of one of the seventy boxes, choice of which was decided by lot.

Besides the investment of $30,000, boxholders have had to pay an assessment every season amounting to from $1,500 to $2,500. When Mr. Abbey got his lease of the opera house at the end of last season it was made a condition that the assessments should cease.

ANOTHER FIRE.

One Hundred Girls Caught Behind a Blazing Stairway.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A fierce fire broke out about 9 o'clock in the five-story brick building, 122-124 Wooster street, occupied as a box factory by Richard A. Wagner. One hundred and twenty girls were at work on the upper floors.

It is feared some of them lost their lives.

The stairway was a mass of flames a few minutes after the fire broke out.

On the first floor was the establishment of the United States Frame and Picture company. The two upper floors were occupied by Wagner.

Four alarms were sent in, but the engines were slow in arriving owing to many of them having gone to the Opera House fire.

At 9:35 the north wall of the building fell in.

One fireman was caught in the falling wall and badly injured.

Three ambulances were called at 10 o'clock.

The Eighth Precinct Police Station-house on the south side of Prince street, stood in the fierce heat of the flames. The roof caught fire at 9:15, but the firemen saved the building.

Soon after this the roof of the big tenement-house, 118 Spring street, caught fire.

Should be Locked up for Life.

Yesterday afternoon a colored man created considerable anxiety among the ladies residing in the west end of Fanwood by indecent exposure. The gentlemen of the place being away nothing could be done with the fellow until late in the day when Ed. Verrity, a carpenter, and Larry Wallace, a mason, were on their way home from work and at the solicitation of the ladies arrested the scoundrel and brought him to Plainfield, where sergeant Patrick Lynch promptly jugged him.

His case will be heard by justice Nash this afternoon.

What the Grocers and Their Friends are to Devour.

Ex-chief Asfalk, of the Elizabeth Fire Department, will prepare the clam-bake for the picnic of the Grocers' association of Plainfield, Dunellen, Westfield, Cranford, and Roselle, to be held at Papiac, September 5. There will be a thousand guests. The supplies for the grand bake will embrace 20,000 clams, 1,000 ears of corn, one barrel of sweet corn, 1,000 lobsters, 150 chickens, 500 blue-fish, 1 barrel crabs, 2 barrels soft clams, 1,000 pairs frog legs, 5,000 squabs. Let everyone go and join in the feast and frolic.

Reopening of The Boys' Club.

The Boys' club will be opened Thursday night, September 1. Mr. Bond, the superintendent, will be at the rooms daily from 10 to 12 a. m. and 5 to 6 and 7 to 9 p. m. He would be thankful for any games, books, papers, etc., which may be donated to the club, and will receive them during the office hours at the club rooms, corner of North and Park avenues.

BASE-BALL BABBLE.

Elizabeth's Crack New Pitcher is Andy Riley, Who Will Make the West Ends Hustle.

Andy Riley will pitch for the Y. M. C. L. A. to-day against the West Ends. Riley struck out the strong Paterson club for eight innings. The club was composed of several players from the Central New Jersey League. He is a promising young player.

The League games to-day will in the opinion of the Elizabeth Journal afford no small amount of sport for the many backers of the four teams. If Plainfield should lose"—says the Journal"—"and Elizabeth win, there would be a good chance for the Y. M. C. L. A. to clinch into second place and the Somerville boys would have a better chance at first place."

The Cranford base-ball team comes to Dunellen to-day to play a return game with the team of that place. The schedule of future games for the Cranfords is as follows: September 3, Norwhich, of New York at Cranford; Labor Day, a. m., West Ends of Elizabeth at Cranford; p. m., Field Club of Elizabeth at Cranford; September 10, Bound Brooks at Cranford; September 17, Somerville, (probably) at Cranford; September, 24, Field Club of Elizabeth at Elizabeth.

WARBLINGS OF THE ENEMY.

(Somerville Democrat.)

The Plainfield Press says Umpire Sullivan suited everybody. This is the same umpire whom the Press of the week before gave such a roasting. Umpire Sullivan is a good man and knows what is right, and will do it too. [THE PRESS never said a word of anything but praise for Mr. Sullivan.]

The Plainfield Press report of the West End-Westfield game last Saturday is quite toned down; and more in the style of respectable reporting. It is just as easy to write a respectable report as a personal and scurrilious one.

Francis has been released by Elizabeth. He has been a faithful player, but the management evidently expected him to do more than could be expected. Last Saturday at Plainfield he pitched good ball for three innings, and then his arm gave out.

Plainfield did not gain much of a victory last Saturday over the Elizabeth team. Francis gave out, and the other men who went into the box were not pitchers. Sneeden was hit hard, but the usual luck of the Crescents made the balls come into the fielders' hands.

Those Costly Bicycle Prizes.

The prizes which the Somerset County Agricultural society will offer for the bicycle races which will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 14, the second day of the fair at Somerville, were on exhibition yesterday in the front window of the office of THE PRESS. That office was chosen by the fair officials as being the most conspicuous place in the city of Plainfield—a place where everyone comes for authentic news and on a street where more people pass than anywhere else in the city.

The prizes were exhibited under the direction of John D. Lathrop. They are very costly and handsome, and consist of gold and silver watches, diamond rings and pins, and gold, silver and bronze medals. The silver punch bowl which is the first prize in the team race, is a magnificent piece of plate.

The fair officials are determined to show the people of the State the prizes, which are the most costly ever given for a like number of races. To that end they will exhibit them as follows: Aug. 27 at Elizabeth; Aug. 29 and 30 at Newark; Aug. 31 at Orange; Sept. 1 at Morristown; Sept. 2 at Hackettstown; Sept. 3 at Washington; Sept. 5 at Phillipsburg; Sept. 6 at Flemington; Sept. 7 and 8 at Trenton; Sept. 9 at New Brunswick; Sept. 10 at Rahway.

Making a Bowling Record Early in the Season.

John Doane has been building up muscle and developing accuracy of aim, in the Pocono mountains. Last night he tried his hand at bowling, on the Crescent League alleys, and made three spares, eight strikes and one break for a total of 228, as follows:

18, 37, 57, 87, 117, 144, 161, 168, 198, 228.

Theatricals at Netherwood.

As already announced in THE PRESS, the junior guests of Hotel Netherwood will give a theatrical performance, under the direction of Mr. Harry Gwynette, Monday evening, for a charitable cause. The entertainment will open at 8:30 with selections by the Netherwood Glee club, to be followed with the screaming farce of "Turn Him Out", by the following caste:

Nicodemus Nobs	Williard Sneckner
Mr. Mackintosh Moke	Anastatius Gwynette
Mr. Roseleaf	Leroy Sneckner
Julia	Percy Sneckner
John, Porters	Frank Poe
Tom, Porters	Ray Street

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends. Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical—Clarence L. Huff Biddeford, Me.

Hard to swallow — the great, griping old-fashioned pill; and that's not the hardest part of it, either. Your troubles are only beginning when you get it down. It's all nonsense. You can get more good, and without having to suffer for it, with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Not merely temporary good, but help that lasts. In a perfectly easy and natural way they cleanse and regulate the whole system, and keep it regulated. Sick and Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

They're the original Liver Pills, the smallest, easiest and best to take—and they're the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. This is true only of Dr. Pierce's medicine.

A perfect vest-pocket remedy, in small vials, and only one necessary for a dose.

Awakening New Depths.

Featherstone—Well, old man, I am glad to hear that you are engaged to be married. Falling in love, sir, brings out qualities in a man that he never suspected.

Jacques—Pardon me, that's quite impossible.

Mabel—How impossible?

Jacques—Your eyes are incomparable.—Truth.

A Coming Star.

Manager—Your daughter would make a fine appearance on the stage. Has she any talent?

Proud Father—Well, when it comes to elocution, she can just elocute all the girls in town right out o' their boots; but when it comes to music, she ain't there. She can't play nothin'; and as for singin', she can't tell one tune from another.

Manager—That won't matter. She'll do splendidly for topical songs.—N. Y. Weekly.

RIPLEY AGAINST KEAN.

WESTFIELD'S PROMINENT CITIZEN NAMED FOR GOVERNOR.

He Wants a Lock of His Hair Tested by a Fortune Teller, but Editor Pearsall Turns Oracle Himself and Says Dr. Ripley Will Beat John Kean Out of His Boots.

The Westfield Leader having nominated Chauncey B. Ripley for Governor of New Jersey, and the Westfield Standard having said:

While Hon. John Kean, jr., and General Grubb are both openly seeking the Republican nomination for the Governorship it is interesting to report a spontaneous coinbustion, so to speak, in favor of Dr. Ripley of Westfield. Thus the prominence of our citizens brings Westfield into favorable public and popular notice.

The following correspondence is called forth:

Alfred E. Pearsall, Editor Union County Standard:

Inclosed is a clipping from the New York Evening World, of the 19th instant, with quotation from the Loon Lake Despatch, as follows: "Mr. Harrison even picked blueberries, having for his partner a tall blonde from Troy, and to wind up had his fortune told by a dimpled young miss, who wore a yellow calico gown. She predicted a straight Harrison victory, and His Excellency smiled". To fully comprehend the situation, I think you should study the illustration showing the extended hand of our Executive resting in the hand of the dimpled young miss so as to display all the wrinkles and lines of his magistrate's palm. You should also study the countenance of His Excellency, which he wears while his own hand is resting in that of the lady seer.

Now, as you know, Mr. Editor, I have been nominated for a high office, the highest office in the State, the office of Governor. I am nominated by one of your own craft, a newspaper man, and Editor-in-Chief of the Westfield, Union county, Leader. What shall I do in the premises? I appeal to you as an experienced journalist. Journalists know everything, or ought to know everything. You have a large experience and have canvassed the United States. You have traveled more, seen more, observed more, probably, and by good rights ought to be a better adviser in the matter of my canvass, than any other person within the proposed borough limits of Westfield, to speak within bounds. What I have thought is this: the best course to pursue is, go to Loon Lake at once and have my fortune told by the same distinguished, dimpled young miss that "predicted a straight Harrison victory to His Excellency" for the second time a candidate for the greatest office in the gift of the American people.

If President Harrison attached so much importance to the divination of this dimpled young miss; President Harrison, of whom Mr. Depew says, "He was greater than his grandfather"; if President Harrison, himself an astute politician, more than a match for Tom Platt, consulted this clairvoyant, and smiled as the artist in the World indicates at her prediction of victory, why should I do otherwise than consult the oracle? You are about to take an outing over the Dr. Webb Adirondack railroad, I understand, as the guest of the promoter. You will visit, among other places of interest, Loon Lake, as a matter of course. Suppose, instead of my going personally, if it is not asking too much, you take along a lock of my hair and submit it, with the whole case, for me, to Miss Young Dimple and report back her prophecy.

How does that strike you? I would also have you call at Elizabeth and procure a lock of the hair of Hon. John Kean, jr., and submit that too, since his political fortune necessarily affects my own. I am not unmindful of the fact that you are yourself a Prohibitionist, Mr. Editor, and that there may be a candidate of your own already in the field for Gubernatorial honors. If so, please take a lock of his hair, also, and report back the prophecy regarding his canvass as well. In case you have no candidate let the aspect of the heavenly bodies be ascertained at Loon Lake respecting his horoscope.

Having the prediction regarding the three, all before you, you will be able in your next issue to reduce the result of the election to a tolerable certainty and save the people much solicitude and the candidates bar'ls of money.

I consult you in this matter, Mr. Editor, for the reasons already stated, and moreover, because you have always been loyal to my interests; and I shall greatly appreciate what you may say in answer.

No one else has as yet been taken into my confidence, since the nomination last evening by your esteemed contemporary, except one worthy gentleman who applied for an office in case of my election.

Thrice happy he who has his quarrel just,
And four times he who gets his blow in fust.

The above couplet applies to the applicant and alike to the nominee of your contemporary, no nomination for Governor having been previously made.

Very truly,
CHAUNCEY B. RIPLEY.

"YOU'LL BEAT JOHN KEAN OUT OF HIS BOOTS."

This called forth the following from Mr. Pearsall;

Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley.

DEAR DOCTOR:—In answer to your appeal to me for advice as to whether you ought to go to Loon Lake and look up the Lady Fortune Teller that President Harrison is said to have consulted regarding his candidacy, my advice to you is: Do n't you do it. If John Kean is nominated by the Republicans, as he probably will be, and you on the other ticket, you will beat him out of his boots. I repeat it: Do n't go near the Loon Lake fortune teller.

A. E. PEARSALL.

Those New Signals on the Central.

For several months past the Union Switch and Signal company, of Pittsburg, has been busy putting the pneumatic signal system on the Jersey Central, as far west as Bound Brook. The work is now completed, and the signals will go into operation to-morrow. The semaphore blades work automatically, by means of electricity and compressed air. The power stations are situated at Communipaw, Roselle and Greenbrook. When a train enters a block both the red and the green semaphores are set so that another train coming behind will be signalled to stop. As the train leaves the block the red arm drops, leaving the green arm extended, showing that the train is in the second block. When both blocks are clear both semaphores are down. The signal posts are about half a mile apart.

What She Brings Home.

It is quite the custom of American heiresses after a visit abroad to come home with a count or duke in their eye. Foreign bodies in the eye are bad, but no more so than insidious affections of the eye that you at first know nothing of. These can only be detected by a test, and at Collier's this test will be freely and satisfactorily made.

For years I've made a business
Of interviewing freaks;
I've chased up each monstrosity
That creeps or crawls or speaks;
I've argued with the tattooed man
About the color line,
I've hobnobbed with the snake-charmer
And had her out to dine;
The albino, the Circassian,
The giant and the dwarf,
The skeleton, the dog-faced boy
Have gladly blown me off;
The bearded lady I have beered,
The Zulu wears my hat,
The fasting lady's asked me in
To luncheon at her flat;
But still I feel I've yet to meet
The freak who makes the pace—
The humorist who handicapped
Last Thursday's cycle race! T.

MORE TROUBLE IN VENEZUELA.

Gen. Urdaneta Taking Steps to Declare Himself Dictator.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Instead of coming to an end, as has been reported one way and the other lately, troubles in Venezuela are getting more and more complicated and aggravated.

The is the substance of the news which the red "D" line steamer Caracas brings from the South American Republic.

The passengers say that a new element of danger has made its appearance in the political edition of the country. It is the ambition of General Urdaneta, who, finding that his own interests have very materially suffered by the flight of Palacio, in support of whom he had fought manfully from the very breaking out of the revolution, determined to strike an audacious blow to recoup his lost fortunes.

He inveigled the Governors of several of the Western States into an alliance for the purpose and then marched upon Caracas, the capital, by way of La Guayra, the principal seaport of the Republic.

La Guayra fell into his hands, and the last the Caracas passengers knew of him was that he was preparing to pounce upon the capital with the avowed intention of declaring himself Dictator of the whole country.

AFFAIRS OF IRON HALL

Justice Somerby Says the Order is Solid.

NO OCCASION FOR A RECEIVER.

The Seventeen Lodges in Chicago Will Divide Their Reserve Funds—To Ask for a Receiver in Maine—Action of Hartford Branches.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27., Supreme Justice F. D. Somerby, of the Order of the Iron Hall, is at his home, 3402 Baring street, in this city. He arrived from Baltimore late in the evening and was tired and sick.

At first he declined to talk, but finally replied, when asked his opinion of the financial condition of the order: "You can say that Iron Hall, to my mind, is as solid as any institution in the country."

"Dispatches from Indianapolis quoted you as saying during the investigation that Secretary Hayes was responsible for $88,000 of the reserve fund being invested in Mutual Bank stock and that you knew nothing about it," said the reporter.

"That is absolutely false. While Secretary Hayes was the one who made the investment, still I knew that it had been done. I said nothing that reflected in any way upon J. Henry Hayes, for I believe him to be a thoroughly honest man."

"Do you believe that this $88,000 is lost?"

Mr. Somerby thought for a moment and then said:

"Yes, I am obliged to admit that I think it is."

When told that the Mutual Bank appraisers had finished their work and that the result is favorable to the institution, Mr. Somerby said:

"I am glad of that. But I felt sure of it all along, and was convinced that the $170,000 of Iron Hall was all right. There would have been no need for an assignee for the bank if it had not been for Supt. Krumbaar's interference."

"What will your movements be in the future?"

"That I cannot say. But, I am always ready to do anything for the good of the Order. My actions have always been straightforward and honest, and I can only say that I am very sorry for the whole affair. There was no occasion for a receiver for Iron Hall, and there was no occasion for a receiver for the National Bank, as both were perfectly solid."

Mr. Somerby was surprised when he learned that District-Attorney Graham had been appointed receiver for Pennsylvania.

IRON HALL MATTERS.

The Lodges in Chicago Will Divide Their Reserve Funds.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Officers of the 17 local Iron Hall lodges have decided to hold on to their reserve funds without going through any legal formalities. Members have reached the conclusion that the Order has collapsed, and that the best plan is to get all they can out of it.

Accordingly, the reserve funds, which range from $800 to $1,500, will be distributed among the paying members, and the local officers will resign, leaving nobody responsible to the Indianapolis receiver.

As the paying membership of the local lodges has dwindled to a small number, those dividing the funds will fare well. Supreme Justice Somerby was here to secure the money, but meeting with no encouragement he left town as suddenly as he arrived.

AUGUSTA, Aug. 27.—The is a movement on foot here to petition for a receiver for the Iron Hall Society's funds in the entire State, the receiver to make a prorata division of the money, about $12,000, among the members.

HARTFORD, Aug. 27.—The members of three branches of the Iron Hall Society of this city have enjoined the use of the funds of the society and applied for a receiver.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Justice O'Brien has appointed George E. Glines temporary receiver of the property in this State of the Order of the Iron Hall on petition, of Moses K. Glines.

ONE OF THE OUTLAWS IN JAIL.

Sam Yeager, Who Belongs to the Cooley Gang, Captured.

UNIONTON, Pa., Aug. 27.—Sam Yeager, one of the Cooley gang of outlaws that make their headquarters in the mountains in this vicinity, is now in jail here.

He and Brint Frey, another of the gang, went into into the village of Hopwood in the morning and boldly walked around the streets and into the stores.

Sheriff McCormick was notified and went to Hopwood. He captured Frey and left him in charge of Postmaster Dawson, while he went to capture Yeager, but that outlaw had already been captured by a deputy.

During the absence of the sheriff Frey got away from the postmaster and fled to the mountains. Yeager was brought here to jail.

Sick and Tired of New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—William Robertson of South Sixth street, Philadelphia, committed suicide early in the evening by shooting himself in the right temple. He committed the desperate deed in the street, and when found by an officer who heard the shot, was dead. In his clothes was found a letter addressed to Percy A. Robertson, his brother, of Philadelphia, in which the suicide said that he was sick and tired of New York.

The New York Columbus Celebration.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Twenty-five thousand school children have volunteered to march in the parade at the Columbus Celebration in October. The Art Committee has decided to have the city illuminated on the night of Oct. 11th, and prizes, in the shape of gold, silver and bronze medals, will also be awarded for the best decoration and illumination of hotels, clubs, business houses and dwellings, in separate classes.

Striking for a Nine Hour Day.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—Eighty employes of the Meadow Furniture Company struck in the afternoon. They demanded a decrease in the number of hours from 10 to 9 hours a day. It is feared that the trouble may extend to other factories.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:—"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest results. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use I have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health."

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?

A Big Ball by Secretary of Agriculture Rusk.

The proposition that the foreigner pays the duty has received a deadly blow in the house of its friends. Uncle Jerry Rusk, the secretary of agriculture, who has always seemed impressed with the idea that it is his highest duty to instruct the farmers of the country in the beauties of protection, has committed himself to a most astounding "free trade heresy," admitting even that the tariff tax is added to the cost of goods and is thus paid by the consumer.

The following communication tells its own tale:

WEATHER BUREAU, WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.
The Secretary of Agriculture:

SIR—I have the honor to return herewith house bill No. 3,947, appropriating $15,000 to establish signal display stations on Middle and Thunder Bay islands in Lake Huron, which you transmitted to me for suggestion. * * * This bill is of the same general character as senate bill No. 295, which I returned to you Dec. 28, 1891, and which appropriated $12,700 for this purpose. The estimate for this bill was originally made by this office, but since that time a change in the tariff laws has nearly doubled the cost to the government of telegraph cables. The government now cannot import free of duty as formerly. Instead of $1,500 a mile the estimates should be increased to—

7 miles cable, at $3,000 per mile.....$21,000
22 miles land line, at $100 per mile..... 2,200
Total.....$23,200

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
MARK W. HARRINGTON,
Chief of Weather Bureau.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Feb. 11.
Respectfully referred to the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, house of representatives. I approve of the recommendation of Professor M. W. Harrington.
J. M. RUSK, Secretary.

But there is one feature of the case here which Uncle Jerry did not point out in his formal approval of the weather bureau's report. He did not remind the house committee that when Uncle Sam pays duties at the custom house on telegraph cables for the weather bureau he merely pays the money from one pocket into another. The custom house returns are increased and the weather bureau costs more; but it is all the same to Uncle Sam, as he has the money in his other pocket.

Could not Uncle Jerry have pointed out to the American farmer that the same does not hold true of him, that when he pays the tariff tax his dollars are transferred to Uncle Sam's pocket, or, what is still worse, to the pocket of some protected tariff baron, and that they return not again?

Cheapness Under McKinleyism.

The fact that many articles are now cheaper than they were two years ago has been seized upon by Republican editors and stump orators as a proof that the McKinley law has reduced prices. But people who keep themselves informed as to the changing conditions of trade will not be deceived by this transparent humbug. Many raw materials—notably cotton and wool—are now much lower than they were in 1890, and this fall in prices was brought about in the main by far other causes than the McKinley law.

But there is another reason why some prices have not advanced, a reason that is never heard from protectionist speakers and newspaper organs. Honest trade papers, however, are telling some hard truths about the kind of cheapness which we are having under McKinleyism. Such a paper is The American Wool and Cotton Reporter, of Boston, a journal of the very highest character and edited by a Republican and protectionist. Here is what The Reporter says about McKinley cheapness:

"There is some complaint made by clothiers that the quality of the goods now being made by the domestic mills is not up to the old standard. The complaint is not alone with the manufacturing clothier, but is made also by the retail dealer; even some of the well known standard makes are put down as falling short of their old standard. No doubt some of the trade will remember that one of the leading clothiers in this city came out with a letter some two years ago, in which it was stated that as a result of the McKinley bill prices would either be higher or else the product of the mills protected would deteriorate. Almost immediately following the passage of the bill prices were advanced, but in many cases they did not hold, as public sentiment was strongly against a wholesale advance.

"When many of the prices returned to their old figures and business became more settled manufacturers commenced to make a poorer fabric, yet claim it was the same thing, and held to the old price. This practice must have proved profitable, at least for the time being, as it was continued and carried further, so that today the trade complains. To the eye many of the cloths appear fully up to the standard, and it is only after they are doing service for the consumer that the deception is discovered."

It is evident that under McKinleyism "cheap and nasty go together," and we are now buying the particular kind of coats made famous by President Harrison in his noted remark, "I cannot find myself in full sympathy with this demand for cheaper coats, which seems to me necessarily to involve a cheaper man and woman under the coats."

Depew's Tribute to Cleveland.

Chauncey M. Depew's famous speech in introducing Mr. Cleveland at a banquet in New York on Oct. 9, 1890, deserves to be reproduced now to show what a leading Republican orator thought of the Democratic candidate when he was not the standard bearer of his party. Here is what he said:

"If I were asked to name the most forceful character in American life, the man who best represents the energy, the unswerving determination and the courage of the true American; the man who knows duty, and it alone, when public service commands it; the man who wars in war and is for peace in peace, I would name General W. T. Sherman. But if I am to name the typical American, the man who loves and believes in his country beyond everything else; the man who, determining once in what direction his duty leads, cannot be swerved from the path—the man who is doggedly persistent in what he believes to be right—the man who thinks not of self, but of his country and its needs, I would name Grover Cleveland.

"What he has accomplished is the very highest attribute to the possibilities of American citizenship. A country lawyer in the city of Buffalo, he shed luster upon the high profession which he had chosen. As the mayor of his native city he presented as his record a clean and economical administration. Coming into the highest position in the land without previous experience, and with scarcely a precedent to guide him in the conditions which surrounded him, he won the affection of his party, and commanded the respect and admiration of his opponents. I find myself in one of the proudest positions of my life in being permitted to present to you Grover Cleveland as the typical American."

And it was Depew who nominated Harrison at Minneapolis.

A DAY AT CAPE MAY.

We Can All Go There When Our Ship Comes In.

Meanwhile We Have to Be Satisfied with Reading of the Beauty and Grandeur of the Ocean and the Charms of the Pebbly Beach.

[Special Washington Letter.]

There is no harm in envy unless it is permitted to grow into jealousy. You will all be envious when you hear the story, and yet I believe not one of my readers will be jealous.

Having received and accepted an invitation to make a trip to Cape May, N. J., and be a guest at the principal hotel there for four days, I started on Friday morning with my wife and baby and arrived at the Cape about four o'clock in the afternoon. First let me tell you about the hotel.

It is one of the largest establishments of the kind on the Atlantic coast and can readily accommodate a thousand guests, giving good bedrooms as well as the best of food with prompt attention to every one of that number. It is situated about one hundred yards from the beach, and is so planned and erected that nearly every room faces the sea and receives the ocean breeze. That same ocean breeze seems to be ceaseless in its efforts to fill the lungs and invigorate the systems of all who are fortunate enough to visit the coast.

The beach at Cape May is one of the safest in the world. For fully half a mile it slopes downward so gradually that an eight-year-old child can wade fully thirty yards into it without having the water come over his head, except as the big waves roll in. Under the circumstances, of course, there is no undertow along the beach, and no loss of life occurs at this point except through carelessness.

To reduce the peril of this pleasure to a minimum opposite each one of the hotels along the beach there is stationed a life-boat manned by four sturdy sailors. When the bathing hour commences these lusty lads push their life-boat through the breakers and row out beyond the furthest line of bathers, and there anchor with their oars ready at a moment's notice to rush to the relief of anyone who may by any mischance be in danger of drowning.

Although it is a generally accepted rule in the cities of the east that oysters are only fit for food during the months from September to April, the people along the Jersey shore regard them as healthful and wholesome the whole year around. At Cape May every meal commences with raw oysters on the half shell fresh taken from the salt waters near by. We also had clams and soft shell crabs in abundance; so that you see if it is true that products of the sea produce the phosphorescence necessary to recuperate the tired brain your correspondent must be in a very brainy condition at the present writing, because for three days we almost lived on the vertebrates, articulates and molluska of the deep.

On Saturday afternoon, joining a party of ladies and gentlemen, we chartered a large yacht, sailed seven miles out from shore and anchored there. Two gentlemen and one lady in the party gave up their dinner to the fish before we reached our point of anchorage. It was my good fortune not to get seasick and therefore the sport of fishing was the more thoroughly enjoyed. In about three hours' time with our hooks and lines we pulled in over three hundred ocean bass, flounders and other specimens of the finny tribe, until our boat was well loaded and each one of our party thoroughly sunburned and tired enough to enjoy our supper. Our skipper thereupon raised anchor, set his sails and with a southern breeze chasing us over the waves we sailed back to Cape May. Our fishes were given to the steward and everyone at the hotel table that evening had a portion of the catch of the afternoon.

Saturday night, in the great dining-room, which is larger than the celebrated east room at the white house, and in the adjoining ballroom, the young people enjoyed terpsichorean trippings for about three hours. On Sunday night in the same rooms, a sacred concert was given by the Cape May orchestra, assisted by New York, Philadelphia and Washington vocal talent. Whether it was the novelty of the occasion or not, it seemed to me that, in the salt sea air, the orchestration was more perfect and the vocalization more effective and enjoyable than I have ever experienced in any house of worship.

Although beneath the splendid roof, we seemed so near to nature that a worshipful sense pervaded the throng with an intensity of feeling akin to that which must have pervaded the hearts and minds of men when the groves were God's first temples, ere man had learned to hew the shaft or build the architrave. The interludes were songs of praise from the lovingly-laved shore of the ocean, as the snow-crowned waves ceaselessly kissed the silvery strand. One young lady in the improvised choir sang a peculiarly appropriate old hymn, a portion of the words being: "I love to think of Jesus as He walked upon the sea,

While the waves were rolling, murmuring on the strand;
Where He sat within a boat, on the crystal waves afloat,
As He taught the waiting people on the land."

That sacred concert Sunday night impressed me deeply. There were words said and songs sung which enabled me to turn backward the curtain of time; away back to those sunny-haired hours of boyhood when the happiest day of all the week was the day when my best suit of clothes was donned, every button and every garter and shoe-lace inspected by mother before we started for Sunday-school and joined in singing some of the very songs which now are sung on the Jersey coast to and by another generation.

After the concert while others were seeking their rooms to woo the goddess of slumber, and still others, alackeday, were undermining their constitutions by sipping that liquid devil which steals away men's brains, I strolled along the hard, sandy beach, picking from their desert hiding places the prettiest specimens of shells; little pearly beauties easily discoverable as they rested upon the silvery bed of sand, glistening and glinting in the light of the big round full moon.

BY THE DEEP, SAD SEA.

It is wonderful how invigorating is the air which comes sweeping in over the briny deep. A little walk of a few blocks in the city—say half a mile—makes one tired and weary in summer time. Yet along the ocean front one may stroll by the hour, covering many miles, without thinking of the world, or entertaining the idea of weariness. So that Sunday night, from ten o'clock until midnight, I must have walked six or eight miles back and forth along the smooth beach breathing the pure air and unconsciously humming old tunes to the accompaniment of the whispering, roaring, moaning, crooning and occasionally diapason-like orotund of the tossing waves. Once, very unexpectedly to the strolling dreamer, there came an unusually emphatic wave which seemed determined upon a conquest of the entire beach, and it broke noisily on the sand, then chased merrily upward over the smooth coast until it ran over my shoe tops, then silently hastened back into the bosom of the mighty deep, mingling with the other incoming breakers, so that I might never discover the culprit drops which thus disturbed me.

But as no one takes cold from such a briny wetting, I continued my stroll until the midnight bell struck, then went to bed and slept soundly until the sun was high above the horizon, and the hotel bell boy was banging at my door calling me to breakfast.

Three miles southwest of Cape May is a place called Cape May Point. An electric car line runs along the coast, above and below the Cape, and upon this line I rode speedily down to the Point to see the summer cottage of President Harrison. I must tell you that I was disappointed. There is nothing either romantic or beautiful in or about the president's cottage. It is square-built, two stories and an attic in height, surrounded by sandy yard, and fronted by sandy street. Its porches are inferior to those surrounding it, and the cottages of many workingmen in Homestead, Pa., where the great strike recently occurred, are handsomer and roomier than the summer residence of President Harrison. Of course, in a republic like ours, the plain people do not care to have the president become too aristocratic in manners nor in habits. But we naturally take pride in having our chief executive appear to good advantage in all things. I am really sorry that I went down to see the president's cottage, because it is certainly inferior to what you and I believe a president should have. It is good enough for him, individually, and would be good enough for any of us; but while he is president, we want him to have a little more style about him. At least that is the way it struck me, and I'm just an average sort of an American citizen, like yourself; and I know you'd feel the same way about it. SMITH D. FRY.

Singular Dreams of Cats.

A Portland (Me.) lady relates a curious experience in regard to a dream that both she and her father had several times. She would wake in the morning with the memory of hideous, snarling cats. This happened occasionally for some time, and the same was true of her father. Finally, while traveling a long way from home, she entered a picture gallery, and there were the very cats. She recognized the picture immediately, though she had never seen it before and did not know that it existed. Soon after her father saw it and exclaimed: "There are the cats of my dream."

HIS LADS DID NOT FIRE.

How Gen. Putnam Saved a Friend During the Revolution.

The following is a letter from Col. John Trumbull, an officer in the revolutionary war and president of the American academy of fine arts, to Daniel Putnam, dated New York, March 30, 1818:

"In the summer of 1780 I became acquainted in London with Col. John Small, of the British army, who had served in America many years and had known Gen. Putnam intimately during the war of Canada, from 1756 to 1763.

"From him I had the following anecdote respecting the battle of Bunker Hill. I shall nearly repeat his words. Looking at the picture, which I had then almost completed, he said:

"'I don't like the situation in which you have placed my old friend Putnam: you have not done him justice. I wish you to alter that part of your picture and introduce a circumstance which actually happened and which I can never forget.

"'When the British troops advanced the second time to the attack of the redoubt, I, with other officers, was in front of the line to encourage the men. We had advanced very near the works undisturbed, when an irregular fire, like a feu de joie, was poured in on us. It was cruelly fatal. The troops fell back, and when I looked to the right and left I saw not an officer standing.

"'I glanced my eye to the enemy and saw several young men leveling their pieces at me. I knew their excellence as marksmen and considered myself gone. At this moment my old friend Putnam rushed forward, and, striking up the muzzles of their pieces with his sword, cried out:

"'"For God's sake, my lads, don't fire at that man—I love him as I do my brother."

"'We were so near each other that I heard his words distinctly. He was obeyed. I bowed, thanked him, and walked away unmolested.'"—Boston Herald.

The Crucifix of Mary Stuart.

When Mary Queen of Scots on February 18, 1587, was led to the scaffold she held in her hands a precious crucifix, which has changed hands many a time since that date. The last owner of the greatly esteemed relic was the German poetess, Countess Hahn-Hahn, who left it at her death to the cathedral in the city of Mayence, where it has lately been deposited. It is no longer perfect, a number of small pieces having been broken off and lost, but the genuineness of the relic is proved beyond the possibility of doubt.

Counting the Enemy.

In the old days of impetuous warfare caution was not regarded as so much a virtue on the part of a military commander as it is at present.

In a battle between French and Austrians, in which Marshal Bugeaud commanded the French forces, an officer of the staff said to the marshal:

"The enemy are advancing. Shall I send a party to reconnoiter and see how numerous they are?"

"No," said Bugeaud, "we'll count 'em

Packard's BUSINESS COLLEGE

—AND—

SCHOOL OF STENOGRAPHY,

4th Ave. and 23d St., New York.

WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY, SEPT 6.

This is recognized as the leading Business College in the country. It is known for the work it has done, and the friends it has made. It is a New York institution, and has placed more young men and women in good paying positions during the past year than any other single agency. It has "the call" in the best business houses, and can always place to good advantage its competent students. It is the headquarters of Munson Phonography, and employs the most competent teachers in all its departments. Its classes are usually complete by the first of October. Those who first apply have precedence. Send for circular.

Growing More Liberal

That's what the human race is doing — particularly the American part of it.

There are a few left who are satisfied with ancient history. But most people are ready to apply modern progress and common-sense to the treatment of the human stomach—an organ that demands its rights whether or no; that resents the insults of worn-out methods. All this is to emphasize the facts about

COTTOLENE

There was once a prejudice against Cottonseed oil. But people who are alive, who investigate, who have no bigotry in their composition, have found that pure, refined cottonseed oil combined with selected beef suet is a better article in every conceivable way than hog's lard. And so they wisely use it for cooking—and are correspondingly healthy and happy. The sales of COTTOLENE are enormous and constantly increasing; a proof that it is appreciated by appreciative persons.

DAILY GROWING WORSE

The Cholera Epidemic at Hamburg Causes Gravest Alarm.

BERLIN FREE FROM THE DISEASE.

The Number of New Cases Reported Each Day Will Be Published—Many More Victims at St. Petersburg—Precautions Along the Canadian Border—Rigid Inspection of Vessels at New York—A Scare in the Metropolis.

HAMBURG, Aug. 29.—The number of fresh cases of cholera on Saturday was 469; the number of deaths, 197. Returns for yesterday show there were 510 fresh cases. The number of deaths has not yet been ascertained. The mortality from cholera has raised the number of funerals daily from an average of 85 to one of 320.

The city is not yet panic-stricken, but the presence of the plague is apparent everywhere. The usual Sunday excursions were abandoned. No excursion trains were run, and the steamers which usually take out parties lay idle at the docks.

Theaters, circuses and music halls were empty. Most merchants, and shopkeepers still stick to their business, but to-morrow may see trade practically suspended and the men who constitute the business world here leaving with their families for other parts of Germany.

The persons of wealth and no regular occupation have gone already to Rostock, Insbeck and Flensburg and other seaside resorts. Dissatisfaction with the measures adopted by the sanitary authorities and with their policy of trying to hold back the worst news is largely responsible for the growing unrest which may culminate almost at any hour in a panic.

The sale of fruit in the city has become a dead branch of trade. Dealers who sell Southern fruits find their stocks practically a total loss.

The funerals which take place constantly are conducted without the usual ostentation. Not more than two or three carriages follow a hearse, and in many cases the body is taken to the grave without a friend or relative to accompany it. The services are limited to a prayer, or at most to a prayer and hymn. This simplicity of ceremony is the result of the repeated warnings of the sanitary authorities and private physicians.

The Hamburg Senate has requested an extra credit of 3,000,000 marks for medical purposes.

In Altona, just below here, there have been 47 fresh cases to-day and 19 deaths.

RIGID INSPECTION AT NEW YORK.

Nothing Suspicious Yet Discovered on the Vessels Examined.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The steamship Sorrento, from Hamburg, arrived here yesterday. She was subjected to a close inspection before she was allowed to proceed from Quarantine. No case of a contagious disease was found aboard. The Servia also had a thorough inspection, but nothing suspicious was found.

If a case of cholera is found on any of the ships all vessels will be detained and a thorough system of isolation established.

It is believed that the present cholera will arouse the authorities in Halifax and Nova Scotia to a better system of quarantine. The last time the cholera epidemic struck New York it came by way of New Orleans, while the harbor was vigilantly watched.

There is every probability that the immigrant traffic will be suspended if the disease spreads much further, as every day brings the scourge nearer to New York. The first step has been taken by the Hamburg-American line which announces that it has decided to suspend its immigrant traffic between the home ports and New York until danger is over. This was done on the advice of the health board. Several ships belonging to this company are now on the way here, some of them bringing passengers from the cholera districts. Among these are Moravia, due here on August 31; the Nourmannia, due next Saturday, and the Rugia, which is due on the same day.

The Nourmannia was reported as having arrived Saturday in London, which port she left after taking passengers and mails on board without any inspection from the health officers.

VIGILANCE AT LONDON.

No Case of Genuine Cholera Known to Exist There.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The officers of the Local Government Board are showing the greatest diligence in performing their duty in regard to keeping the cholera out of England as far as possible. They all remain at their posts until late at night, receiving reports and issuing orders. High sanitary authorities are consulted constantly, and every precaution taken that can be suggested by experience or science.

As yet no case of genuine cholera is known to exist in London. It is believed that two genuine cases of Asiatic cholera have appeared in Glasgow.

Precautious Along Canada's Border.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—In reply to an inquiry as to what measures would be taken to prevent the importation of cholera from Canada, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spalding stated that the provisions of the department circular regarding the disinfection of baggage of emigrants would be enforced along the Canadian frontier. He also stated that the Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital service had taken steps for the appointment of medical inspectors at the different ports along the border.

To Enforce Quarantine Regulations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Orders have been sent from the Treasury Department to the revenue cutter Winona, now at Newbern, S. C., to proceed immediately to Delaware Breakwater to assist in the enforcement of the quarantine regulations. Secretary Foster of the Treasury Department requested the Navy Department to assign a vessel to the Marine Hospital Service for use in enforcing the quarantine regulations in Hampton Roads and vicinity.

On the Alert in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29.—By order of the Sultan all ferries and, in fact, all communication with Natolia and Northern Persia has been suspended. Quarantine is imposed on all caravans and travelers from Southern Persia. The last caravan that set out from these parts lost forty-seven members on the journey.

NO MORE DEATHS IN BERLIN.

The Number of New Cases Throughout Germany to Be Published Each Day.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—At the conference of the Ministry of the Inferior it was decided to publish daily the number of cases of cholera reported throughout Germany.

The Ministry of the Interior took this action at the suggestion of the Emperor, who believes that the plague can be fought most advantageously if the people understand the exact nature of the peril to which they are exposed. In Berlin especially such a course is regarded as advisable, because a panic can be averted by the publication of all the facts.

For the last 36 hours no new cases have been discovered.

While the authorities are enforcing the most rigid sanitary precautions, they profess to be satisfied that the cholera will make no serious progress in Berlin. There is no great panic among the people, and a general disposition to obey the sanitary regulations is manifested. The trains at the points on the Russian frontier, where access is permitted, are most carefully inspected, and all persons from the districts in which cholera has been prevalent are debarred from entering Germany.

New York's Postmaster Alert.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Postmaster Van Cott of New York asked the Superintendent of foreign mails for instructions as to what measures should be adopted to prevent the introduction of cholera through the mails. He has been instructed to confer with the New York health officers and to report what measures they deem necessary.

Still on the Increase in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 29. — Official cholera returns yesterday showed an increase of nearly 600 new cases and 50 deaths. There is no panic in this city as the inhabitants are being led to believe that the disease has done its worst. The approach of the frost is anxiously awaited as likely to put a stop to the further spread of the pestilence.

Cholera Scare in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A Pole who had come from Hamburg two weeks ago was taken ill in New York yesterday with symptoms resembling Asiatic cholera. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital and isolated. The doctors do not think his case is genuine cholera.

Three Deaths at Antwerp.

ANTWERP, Aug. 29.—Notwithstanding the assertions that there was no cholera here, eight new cases of cholera and three deaths from cholera have been reported since yesterday morning.

UNCLE SAM WILL SPEAK.

The Seizure of the Caracas' Passengers May Call Forth Vigorous Action.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The State Department officials await with no little interest the official report of Minister Scruggs apropos of the recent arrest of the six political refugees on board the American merchant vessel Caracas in the harbor of Puerto Cabello.

It is only on extraordinary occasions that the State Department has recourse to the cable, and Minister Scruggs' statement of the affair will therefore be received through the medium of the mails.

Secretary Foster has not said anything on the subject, but several officials expressed their gratification on the vigorous protests which both Minister Scruggs and Consul Reilly made against the seizure of the six Venezuelans after they had sought the protection of the American flag.

If Mr. Scruggs' report confirms the statement that the only charge against the gentlemen arrested was that they are political offenders, this Government will act promptly. In the Barrundai case President Harrison took the ground that political refugees who had sought an asylum on board any American vessel should not be delivered to the authorities of the Government under whom they had previously resided.

The failure of Mr. Misner, who was our diplomatic representative at Guatemala at the time, and of Commander Reiter, of the United States steamer Ranger, properly to protect Gen. Barrundia, led to the dismissal of the Minister and to the reprimanding of the naval officer and his suspension from duty for one year.

As Gen. Barrundia was dead there was nothing further that President Harrison could do in the matter, but so far as the dereliction of our diplomatic and naval representatives was concerned the punishment was both prompt and severe.

It will probably be some weeks before conclusive action regarding the affair will have been taken. A great deal of correspondence will pass in the meantime between the two countries and diplomatic correspondence is proverbially slow.

May Raid a Convict Camp in Georgia.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 29.—It is believed that the miners intend to attack the convict camp at Cole City, Georgia, and the warden and his officials are taking precautions to prevent a surprise. The attacking party, it is thought, will go from Whiteside, Tenn. Sheriff Bled and a small posse are at the scene of the expected trouble.

Lottie Collins on the Ocean.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Lottie Collins, the well known English music hall singer, sailed Saturday from Southampton for New York on the Hamburg-American Line steamer Normannia.

Weather Forecast.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair, preceded by showers, in Eastern Pennsylvania, cooler, followed by rising temperature, northwesterly winds.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Generally fair weather, slightly warmer, northwesterly winds.

For New England: Showers clearing, warmer, southeasterly winds.

HAS A GOOD CHARACTER.

The Question of Bridget Sullivan's Veracity—Hearing Continues To-Day.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 29. — The hearing in the Borden case was resumed at 10:45 this morning. The defence has been actively engaged in Newport learning something regarding the career of Bridget Sullivan, the servant, whose evidence seems to be so damaging to Lizzie Borden. Detective Richards and Attorney Phillips looked up her record there, but found nothing of importance except a rumor that she has a very hot temper.

She worked in two places besides the Perry House, as she stated on the witness stand Saturday. The purpose of inquiry is to determine how reliable her evidence is, also to learn if she could become so much provoked that she would quarrel seriously with Mr. and Mrs. Borden.

It is believed here that Miss Sullivan's character is above reproach. A search into her career while in this city shows that Miss Sullivan is a very truthful woman. Her past employers speak very good of her, and say she was always a devoted church member. Her unshaken testimony has done much to establish the strength of the case of the State.

The accused will be put on the stand this week and it is believed that her examination will consume fully three days. It is hoped that she may be able to greatly aid her case, for although many have been forced to believe her guilty, they still have a suspicion that possibly she is innocent, and as a consequence of this wavering belief there is really no animosity against her, but rather a feeling of sorrow and a hope that the authorities may prove themselves at ease in the matter.

Marshal Hilliard has repeated his instructions to the matrons in charge of Miss Borden, cautioning them to obey the police rules.

Some reporters have been admitted to Lizzie's cell since her imprisonment here, and other breaches of jail, prison and home discipline have been recorded.

Mr. Morse, Miss Emma Borden, Rev. Michael Burnham of Springfield, her father's former pastor, were among her callers during the Sabbath.

An official who stands high in the government's counsels was asked by a reporter his opinion concerning the guilt or innocence of Lizzie Borden. He said in substance:

"I have no hesitation in saying that I believe her guilty of the crime."

Being pressed for the ground on which his judgement is based, the official said it was largely founded on the evidence of Bridget Sullivan at the examination Saturday, although developments at the private examination which resulted in Lizzie's arrest were strongly condemnatory.

INTERIOR TOTALLY DESTROYED.

The Metropolitan Opera House Fire—Loss About Half a Million.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. — Crowds of sightseers visit the Metropolitan Opera House and gaze at the wreck caused by Saturday's fire. The four walls of the big building look as perfect as the day they were completed, but through the large door on the Seventh avenue side the dismantled Interior is visible. Inside where the immense stage had been, are three brick walls with twisted and broken beams projecting. The roof is gone and every vestige of woodwork and scenery is completely wiped out.

The loss, outside of scenery and properties, is $900,000. The total loss will be nearly $500,000. No official statement of the insurance has yet been made.

The loss is particularly great in more ways than one. Including the valuable property destroyed were many works of art, in different stages of completion, by Mr. Operti, the scenic artist. Upon these works he had spent considerable of his time and had traveled over the world to get sketches of. Most of the pictures which he was engaged on were for use at the World's Fair and Columbian celebration which is to take place in New York city during the coming October. These are all burned up or ruined, together with scenery for new plays to be produced in a few days at the Casino and Daly's theater and the Academy of Music. They are a complete loss and in consequence will possibly cause delays in the production of the plays.

FORTY-THREE RESCUED.

No Hope for the Others Buried in the Aberkenaig Mine.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Forty-three of the men imprisoned in the Parkslip mine at Aberkenaig have been found to be alive. Thirty-five of them have been taken out; the other eight were too weak to be moved and are still below.

For the remaining 100 miners there is no hope. Home Secretary Asquith arrived at Aberkenaig last night on a special train. The Lord Mayor has undertaken the raising of a fund for the families left destitute by the loss of fathers or brothers in the accident.

Committed Suicide at Sea.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Captain Wetherell, of the steamship El Calleo, reports that on July 25 his chief engineer, Mr. J. S. Turner, was missed. The ship was searched, but no trace of him being found it is supposed he committed suicide, as he had been acting strangely for some time. The ship was turned and steamed back for some miles. No trace of him being found they resumed their course.

Chinese Diplomats Enroute to Washington.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 29.—Chung Tai Chou and Chung Hin of San Francisco, members of the Chinese legation were in Omaha yesterday. The two gentlemen are on their way to Washington where they go hoping to secure some modifications of the Chinese Registration bill passed at the last session of Congress. They state that it will work a great injustice to their countrymen if its provisions are carried out.

THE SAME OLD STORY

Said Pasha's Lame Excuses for Outrages on Americans.

IT WON'T GO DOWN THIS TIME.

The Demand for Reparation for the Burning of Dr. Bartlett's House to Be Made In Spite of the Sorry Explanation — Cruisers Start Soon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Constantinople dispatches state that the burning of the house of the Rev. Dr. Bartlett, the American missionary in Bourdour, Asia Minor, for which prompt reparation has been demanded by the United States, has been traced to the carelessness of an American servant.

These dispatches are at variance with reports made by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and are also contradicted by dispatches received from Mr. Pendleton King, the American Charge d'Affaires at Constantinople.

The experience of the American Legation in Turkey with numerous preceding outrages of a like character has been that the facts in each case have been met by denials from Said Pasha, the Turkish Minister of Justice, sometimes in the face of clearest proof, and some plausible excuse, like that in the present instance, has been assigned to explain away the occurrence.

Minister Hirsch has more than once put on record, in his official dispatches to the State Department, that, though the Grand Vizier and the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Turkey were willing to do justice to American citizens when wronged, Said Pasha, by misrepresenting the facts to the Sultan, has delayed redress.

The present "explanation" of the Bartlett outrage is regarded as a repetition of Said Pasha's adroit manœuvres to defeat the ends of justice, and to shield Moslem offenders against the treaty rights of Christians.

It is understood that the explanation will not delay the peremptory orders given to the cruisers Newark and Bennington to proceed from Genoa to Turkish waters as soon as possible after the Columbus celebration of Sept. 1 to support the demand for reparation.

THEIR BUSINESS ILLEGAL.

State Bank Examiner Whitton Scores Building Loan Associations.

BUFFALO, Aug. 29.—The announcement Saturday that State Bank Examiner Whitton had found two savings and loan associations practically insolvent, and that many others are in an unsafe condition is still the exciting topic in this city.

The institutions reported as insolvent are the Third Ward Permanent Savings & Loan Association and the Erie County Permanent Savings & Loan Association.

"These associations," Mr. Whitton says, "have been doing an entirely illegal business. Their system was merely making false entries on somebody's books. They have been dividing and paying money representing a premium which could only be earned, so much per annum, during the life of a loan. The loan usually ran from ten to twelve years. Profits were declared the very night money was paid. They were anticipating profits by twelve years. These concerns should be wound up at once.

"There are probably eighty of these permanent dime associations, and I shall not be surprised to find most of them in a pretty bad shape. The larger associations are in good condition, and run their business on a different plan, declaring a dividend once in six months on what has been actually earned."

Mr. Whitton is awaiting the action of the Banking Department in regard to these two associations, and is continuing his examination of other concerns doing business in a similar way.

SUNDAY AT OCEAN GROVE.

The Largest Crowds of the Summer Attended the Meetings.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Aug. 29.—Yesterday was the greatest day in the history of this summer's "Mecca of American Methodism." The great camp meeting was never so great, the crowds never so large, the religious fervor never so deep. The meetings commenced at daybreak and continued without cessation until midnight.

An old-fashioned Methodist love feast was held in the morning from 9 till 10 o'clock. The sermon in the auditorium was preached by the Rev. Dr. George E. Reed, president of the Dickinson College. Overflow meetings were held in the Tabernacle, young people's temple and the only chapel, as well as at the two large bathing pavilions on the beach.

The afternoon sermon was by the Rev. Russell H. Cornwell of Philadelphia.

At 6 o'clock 15,000 people gathered on the beach for the surf meeting by the side of the breakers.

The Rev. G. B. McAmey of Tarrytown preached in the auditorium in the evening.

Non-Union Men Fired On.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 29.—A crowd of non-union men employed in the Carnegie works at Homestead came to Pittsburg early in the evening. They returned on a late Baltimore & Ohio train. The men got off at City Farm station, opposite Homestead. Just as they alighted and the train pulled out two shots were fired from the end of the rear car of train into the crowd on the platform. No one was injured. An investigation will be made.

Stock and Crops Destroyed.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 29.—The large barn owned by James Boyd, situated at Boyd station, on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, a short distance below this city, was burned in the afternoon. Three mules, one horse, one steer, one cow and all the crops, together with a large number of farming implements were burned. The loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000; partly covered by insurance.

Cresptero Captures a Venezuelan Town.

PANAMA, Aug. 29.—Puerto Cabello was captured by Crespiero on August 22. The storming force numbered 5,500. There was little opposition except at the fort of the port. The garrison repulsed two attempts to take the fort by assault, and according to the latest advices is still in possession. Four vessels with Government troops have set out from La Guayra to aid the garrison to recapture the port.

AT LEAST ONE PERISHED.

Searching for Other Victims of the Worcester Street, New York, Fire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The search for the body of Clara Mosey, who was employed by R. A. Wagner, a tenant of one of the buildings which fell in the Worcester fire Saturday, was continued throughout the night, but without result, and there is now no doubt that she perished in the flames.

A force of 120 men are now at work clearing away the debris and searching for other victims, and it is probable the work will be completed by to-night.

Of the persons injured in the fire all are doing well and the doctors extend hope for their ultimate recovery.

The injured are Morris Stack, fireman, skull fractured, left leg broken and injured internally.

George Winters, fireman, crushed under a falling wall.

W. D. Ferry, bruised about the head and body.

Mary Gunnizzo, arms badly burned.

Jacob Lewesser, fireman, badly injured about the head.

William McCroy, fireman, slightly injured.

Fireman Hussey, slightly injured.

GRANGERS AT CARLISLE.

Many Distinguished Speakers Will be Present During the Week.

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 29.—The 19th annual exhibition of the Grangers of the United States, and their families, was formally opened this morning. The opening address was delivered by Hon. Leonard Rhone, who is at the head of the Grange in this State.

Letters from President Harrison and Ex-President Cleveland have been received saying that they will be unable to attend. General James B. Weaver, candidate of the Labor Party, has written Manager Thomas that he will address the farmers Friday.

The other speakers will be Attorney-General Hensel, Adjt.-Gen. Greenland, Lieut.-Gov. Watres, Gen. Gobin, Col. Stewart, Gen. Hastings and Congressmen and members of the Legislature.

It is estimated that 200,000 people will be here during the week.

ANOTHER TICKET IN THE FIELD.

Socialist-Labor Party Elects Candidates for President and Vice-President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—At the National convention of the Socialist-Labor party yesterday, candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States were nominated. Representatives were present from New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut. David Taylor of Boston was chairman and Harry Glyn, of New York, secretary. Simon Wing, of Boston, a tailor, was unanimously nominated for President, and Charles H. Matchett, a carpenter, of Brooklyn, for Vice-President.

The Socialist-Labor party will make a big effort to elect its nominees. Leaders say that they expect to poll 100,000 votes this year and elect their own President fifty years hence.

Storm-Damaged Vessels Passed.

GLOUCESTER, Mass. Aug. 29.—Schooner Governor Butler, from Grand Banks, reports August 19th, encountered a hurricane from the east that lasted twelve hours. August 20th, passed a dismasted ship, name unknown, about forty miles south of Sable Island. Saw several persons on board but the vessel made no signals of distress. The same afternoon passed another ship with her sails all blown to pieces and the crew in the rigging bending others.

Julia Phillips Writes Home.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Julia Phillips, whose fate and whereabouts have been a mystery for several weeks, has been heard from. She writes from Chicago that she has been lying seriously ill in a hospital in Chicago, and did not hear of the reports of her death until a few days ago, when a friend found her and informed her. She says she will return to her parents at soon as she is able to travel.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—John Fitzpatrick was drowned while bathing at the foot of Pacific street, Brooklyn, last night.

—The headless body of a small child was found floating in Wilson Creek, a small stream running through Rock City, in the town of Milan, Dutchess county, N. Y., yesterday.

—Alice M. Young, aged 22 years, committed suicide at Altoona, Pa., last night by shooting herself through the head. Disappointment in love was the cause of her rash act.

—Walter Wood, a boy awaiting trial in the county jail at Newark, N. J., for stealing bicycles, attempted suicide by taking laudanum Saturday night. His life was saved.

—An execution has been issued in Camden, N. J., against the Haverstraw Gaslight & Fuel Company to satisfy a judgment obtained by the New Jersey Trust Company for $38,000.

—The condition of Daniel Dougherty, who is ill at Philadelphia, is very much improved to-day. Dr. Woods states that his patient improves steadily, indicating there is a fair chance for his recovery.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The family of Dr. J. L. Hurlbut returned home to-day.

C. B. Corwin is now at the Algonquin House, Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Miss Rosie Burke, of this city, has gone to Newburgh, for a few days.

B. D. Newell, of East Front street, left to-day for a needed rest at Ocean Grove

The Rev. Dr. C. B. Mitchell and wife are home from "The Portland", Asbury Park.

Mrs. J. F. Sheppard and daughter, of Orchard place, are home from Ocean Grove.

George W. Demeza is home again from Texas. He is in excellent health, and had a fine trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. MacDonald, of East Front street, returned to-day from a week's visit to Asbury Park.

Geo. Dupee and family have returned to their home in North Plainfield after a seven weeks' stay at Cascadeville, N. Y.

Mrs. Helen M. Eaton of 164 Broadway died suddenly at Jamestown, R. I., Saturday. Interment will be made at Catskill.

The Misses Holmes, of East Fifth street, are expected home to-day from Fitchburg, Mass., where they have been enjoying a visit with their sister, Mrs. John Faxon.

The sad news was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Helen M. Eaton, aunt of Mrs. Stephen Cahoone of Broadway, this city. The family are all out of town for the summer.

Chief engineer Doane and first assistant Martin visited the Paterson fire department yesterday. Chief Stagg of Paterson is an old army comrade of chief Doane, and royally entertained the visitors. The Plainfielders were highly pleased with the efficiency of Paterson's fire department.

Warren R. Marsh, son of Randolph Marsh of 44 Plainfield avenue, will visit Plainfield, after an absence of twelve years, and will help his father erect a Cleveland flagstaff, the latter part of this week. He says "No more Harrison for me!", and his brother is of the same mind.

The song service at the First Presbyterian church last night was greatly enjoyed by the congregation, who were especially delighted with the baritone solo sung by Townsend Fellows. Mr. Fellows is a brother of Miss Blanche Fellows, formerly soprano of the First Presbyterian church choir. He has a rich and powerful voice, and sings in two churches in Albany. He is at present visiting at the home of his mother on Duer street.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

GREAT JOY IN HARKINSTOWN.

PLAINFIELD'S DEFEAT BY THE TAILENDERS BOOSTS SOMERVILLE'S PROSPECTS.

Sneden Was n't Fit to Pitch Against a Team of Cross-Eyed Army Mules, Yet the Management Would n't Believe Him—Their Action Harshly Condemned by Those Whose Interests in the Pennant Have Been Imperilled.

Plainfield was eminently deserving of the defeat she got from the stalwart batsmen of Ripleyville last Saturday. Westfield won the game by superior playing. The whipping was a severe one, and was not altogether unexpected by the unprejudiced outsider.

In spite of the fact that Sneden pleaded that he was too sick to pitch and urged that Murphy twirl the leather for the Crescents, the management put him in the box and made him pitch for eight long innings, notwithstanding that in each inning he was as wild as a hawk and was batted all over the lot. Especially after the disastrous third inning did kranks of good judgment argue that Sneden ought to be retired to the bench, but the management insisted on his finishing the game; for that action the managers were severely criticized.

The Westfield players are heavy hitters, as was prophesied in these columns at the opening of the season, when THE PRESS urged the Crescents to " 'Ware of Westfield!" They took advantage of Sneden's weakness, and hammered his curves unmercifully. Besides their many safe hits, they made a number of long flies and heavy drives that only expert fielding captured. They had no difficulty in pounding the leather for runs whenever they desired, and that they did n't double their score is due to the rarest kind of luck favoring the Crescents. Time after time did the visitors fill up the bases and threaten to swamp the scorers with the runs that piled up in prospect, and time after time were they nipped just when it seemed impossible to check the deluge. Of the thirteen men left on bases fully ten gave full promise of scoring. But the Crescent luck had n't altogether deserted Plainfield, and the disaster was kept from being too mightily overwhelming.

To add to the misfortunes of the Crescents, they had to face that truly great twirler, Sharrott. He fooled the cleverest of them, and had he had a catcher of his class, worthy of his speed and curves, the Plainfielders would hardly have got a smell of the ball. He kept getting two strikes on the men just as easy as pie, but Warner could n't stand the pace, and he had to let up on him.

Doughty Chic Hofford was desperate. He told his men they must bat out a victory, and he set them a glorious example how to do it. He hit the ball hard every time he went to the bat, surprising and delighting all his friends. Three of his heavy drives were safe hits, and the first two were just when needed. His hitting brought in both of Freddie Jones's runs, and Murphy and Turner backed him up and helped him score himself. Freddie was a brave young fellow, and stole second twice and third once, most valiantly; but there was a noticeable lack of team work, at the bat, and individual brilliancy could n't accomplish much.

In the first two innings Plainfield went out in one-two-three order, while Westfield twice got a man to first. In the third inning Westfield earned two runs by hard and steady hitting, and got a third run by a base on balls, assisted by a hit, an error, and a wild pitch.

The prospects were alarming, but the despondent Plainfielders took hope when in the "lucky fifth" the Crescents gave promise of gaining a strong lead. Jones batted himself safely to first, and advanced to second on Bonner's sacrifice. Stealing third, he came in on Hofford's hit. Brady sacrificed for Chic's sake, and big Murphy's two-bagger brought Hofford home. Turner hit safely and stole second. A single hit meant two more runs, and Daley was due. But the erratic third-baseman had a very bad case of rattles. He had been playing a listless game, and had n't yet rid himself of his tired feeling. Much to everyone's disgust, he feebly struck out, with no apparent effort to hit the ball. That settled it. After that inning, Plainfield could n't score, though Jones made a desperate effort in the sixth and got left on third.

The "tieing" of the score did n't disconcert Westfield in the least. As a nineteen-year-old boy in the grand-stand remarked, Ripleyville was sure of winning, and her confidence could n't be shaken. The lad wore a straw hat, and was noticeable for the size of his feet, which he let fall on the floor from time to time with much vigorous enthusiasm. The noise of those feet thumping on the boards could be heard at the Smalley stone-crusher. The young man said: "Oh, there's only a few of us, but we're here with both feet! You hear us!" He and a hayseed with an Uncle Sam beard and a dwarfed intellect munched peanuts together and criticized "Maggie Murphy's 300-pound brother" in left field. The bearded buckwheat said "Gosh durn his hide, I kin beat him runnin' five miles eny day, and he kin set his own pace. Gosh-all-hemlock, guess I'm as good as eny high-toned Plainfielder! He needn't put on airs!"

Two bases on balls, with a two-bagger sandwiched in between, gave Westfield another run in the sixth, and she batted out still another in the eighth. The bases were full so often that it was only by a series of miracles that these singles were n't quadriplets.

If it was folly to keep Sneden in so long, when he was manifestly unfit to play, what shall be said of the crowning idiocy that came in the ninth inning? Silent Robert Murphy had been shivering in the cold for an hour and three-quarters on the bench. At the very last moment, when all the mischief had been accomplished, when it was too late for redemption, Sneden was taken from the box, and Murphy, stiff and frozen to the marrow, was sent out to pitch. Had he been put in the box in the fourth inning, he would doubtless have pitched one of the magnificent games that he has been putting up lately; but under the circumstances what was to be expected happened. Hits were heavy and well bunched, and three earned runs came in.

If the Plainfield followers had any hopes of run-making by the Crescents on the wind up, Sharrott speedily put their dreams to flight. He had Jones, Bonner and Hofford at his mercy. Jones batted direct to first, Bonner struck out, and Hofford hit an easy one back into the pitcher's hands. The great strain and its attendant excitement were ended, and frenzied exultation swelled the bosom of every krank from Ripleyville.

One of the most redeeming features of the game was the superb playing of Gentle Willie Murphy. He fielded with rare judgment, and by his clever playing held at least one runner to third who under most circumstances would have scored. His great running catch of Howe's hit in the fourth inning was one of the most magnificent plays ever seen on any diamond. He ran with the speed of a Blue-Line flyer to meet the ball, and without slacking one particle reached down below his knees, stopped the sphere, and prevented another run. Most people thought such an acrobatic attempt would result in a broken neck, but they did n't know Willie.

Hofford was on his mettle, and fielded his position it great shape. He made wonderful catches, and was unusually vigilant in guarding the plate and holding runners to their bases. His cool nerve and steadiness were all that kept Sneden from sending every ball pitched, over into the apple orchard behind the grand-stand. Freddy Jones as usual was all that could be desired at first.

The management should heed the lesson of this humiliating defeat. If Plainfield is to win the pennant, she cannot afford a repetition of such disaster.

BASE-BALL NOTES.

Whether the Crescents win or lose, they'll always enjoy the exclusive honor of having led throughout the season by their own exertions and abilities, without hiring the outside help of the George Gores, Jack Sharrotts and Jocko Fieldses of professional leagues.

THE PRESS is again and again asked why Brady is kept second on the batting list. The only explanation given is that he is a "great sacrifice hitter". This means in Brady's case that he always gets out himself or forces out the men ahead of him.

Captain Hofford wishes it put on record as a prophecy of his, that the Westfields won't get 16 hits off of Sneden next Saturday. But the Crescents will not escape defeat even at that, unless they hit Sharrott better.

A Sewaren Dog Party.

A line of carriages came into the city this morning from Sewaren attracting considerable attention not only that the vehicles were of the same pattern and finish and horses of the same shade, but the natty outing toilets and charming faces of the ladies beautifully beaming after their drive seemed to enlighten the humdrum of the busy streets. Under the direction of Mrs. Stewartson, the hostess of the Sewaren House, the carriages were temporarily exchanged for stages at Uncle Dan's stable, and the party proceeded to Washington Rock for luncheon. The return was made this afternoon leaving Plainfield at 3 o'clock. Not a man and no accidents.

You can escape just about one half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. When you feel dull, languid, "out of sorts" generally—then you may know that some of them are coming. Don't let them get any further. Brace the system up with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That prescription as well as cures: It invigorates the liver and kidneys, purifies and enriches the blood, sharpens the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor.

For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, the most stubborn Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

It's not only the best, but it's the cheapest blood-purifier sold, no matter how many doses are offered for a dollar.

MR. RILEY PITCHED.

But Mr. Anderson Did Too, and Won the Game.

Day before yesterday while the West Ends were slowly but unknowingly securing a grasp on the pennant, the other fellows, the quarter-mooners, were gradually losing the strong grip which they have had so long. The game in Elizabeth pleased the West End rooters, but when they reached Plainfield on their way home they found the other game suited just as well. The Westfield-Crescent game is told about in another column. Here's the story of the contest between Somerville and Elizabeth.

The principal feature was Bowes's kicking before the game, after the game and during each individual inning. He kicked systematically and thoroughly whether he had cause or not. Perhaps Bowes thought that was one way to win, perhaps he gets paid so much per kick. Anyhow the old man became frenzied and almost turned purple in the face because Farrell would not give him a runner from the plate in the third inning with a man on third and one on second. Bowes is pretty well bunged up. He is swathed in rubber bandages from his neck to his heels and looks like a damaged trotter, as he hobbles across the diamond. Lame or not lame, Frank got a couple of tearers Saturday that would have made things lively for a trapeze performer.

Pete Anderson had a choice collection of double hump-backed, puzzling curves, shoot, drops and teasers combined with the most ferocious speed, which he laid before the Elizabeth batters in his most systematic manner. The aggregation which Bowes has with him and calls ball players, fairly twisted their heads from their bodies, sprained the small of their backs, and grunted enough trying to intercept the ball as it passed between Anderson and Fields. The best thing they could do was, ten men only struck out in nine innings.

On the other hand the West End men got right into the game and stayed there until the supper horns were blowing. Especially did "Jocko" Fields, "Jack" Farrell, Harkins and Kennedy perform pleasingly. They had their eyes adjusted before the game and pitcher Riley's balloon-like curves exactly suited their fancies. The way the West Enders lined the ball out for meat, was very much enjoyed by the crowd. "Les" Moorehead met with what is known in the west as "an ovation". The spectators, some of them grew enthusiastic over the memories "Les" brought back to them when he walked to the plate in the first inning. It only shows that it will take some time for "Tommy" Murray to make Somerville forget "Les". "Tommy" may do it in time. Possibly when he leaves, Murray, too, will be embalmed in West End recollections. But "Les" must feel lonesome. As a first-class player he is almost alone. His team may play passably well at times, but they gave no evidence of such fact in Saturday's game. Their fielding was all right but their batting was the color of parsnips. Moorehead snatched some base hits, but his eyes were of glass. Anderson was a 15-puzzle to him and when he struck out the bleachers were rude enough to laugh. Such are the ups and downs of a sporting life.

Rafferty scored first blood for Elizabeth on a single, a stolen base and Jones's two-bagger. In the West End's half Carby walked to first, trotted to second on a passed ball and scored ahead of Farrell when "Jack" put the ball down among the bullrushes for a homer. In the second Elizabeth again drew ahead a run on two singles, an error of Fields and a sacrifice. But the hope-to-be pennant winners evened things up in their half by a clean two-bagger and Bowes's poor throw. Then in the third the West Ends forged ahead a run by clean hitting, and in the fifth clinched the victory by making two more circuits. After the second, Elizabeth drew blanks to the end. The only real exciting moments were when Anderson would strike the other men out, and when Bowes kicked. Anderson apparently went in for a strike-out record in the league, and probably he got it, as ten men are a good many. The weather was dull and gloomy with heavy clouds of mosquitoes. Attendance, 300. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Bowes's kicking proclivities do not keep him from striking out nearly every time he comes to the bat. He did so three times in succession on Saturday.

Farrell's home-run hit went down in left field in the bushes. Ordinarily it would have been good for only three bases, but it was lost.

Each of the West End team hit the ball safely except Ryman, and he was robbed out of a three-base hit by Jones's lively work.

Umpire Sullivan displeased the losing crowd by an exhibition of firmness seldom seen on a ball field.

The ball Riley pitched was a cross between a balloon and a marble. It was a case of now you see it and now you do n't.

"Les" Moorehead evidently tried to play the game of his life and "get square" with his old associates. He was kept jumping, gobbling safe hits, and he got 'em all.

Carby kept the bleachers guessing all the time, by his coaching. He made two runs, hit safely, and got his base on balls twice. But he could n't steal second on Rafferty. The little fellow has lost some of his speed.

PUT UP A JOB ON THE BARBER.

Hofford Easily Won the Race, But an Unfair Trick Was Played on His Competitor.

Several sports-about-town arranged a bicycle race between Chic Hofford and Eugene Laine, this morning, for a distance of five miles, over the Scotch Plains-Fanwood course. The start was made at 9 a. m., from Fifth street, at Scott's Press works. The signal was given by Sam P. T. Wilbur, and both men started even. But Laine lost his pedals soon after crossing the line, and fell considerably behind in regaining his foot-grip. Hofford was attended over the course by Jack Rafferty, who had loaned his racing wheel to the doughty captain of the Crescents. Hofford finished in 23 minutes, amid the applause of the crowd that had gathered. Laine did not show up till nearly half an hour later. He claimed that Gentle Willie Murphy had put rosin on his chain so that every turn of the pedals was like drawing in a ton of coal. The wheel certainly did run very hard.

The Winners and the Prizes.

Following is a list of the latest progressive-euchre victors at The Nethercwood. The contest took place at the hotel, last Friday evening, under the direction of Mr. Waddell:

1st prize, Mrs. W. B. Odgen, silver atomizer; 2d prize, Mrs. F. Pierce, silver bon basket; 3d prize, Mrs. J. M. Donald, silver cologne holder; consolation prize, Mrs. F. E. Miller, silver buttonhook.

1st prize, Oliver Bridgeman, gold pen and holder; 2d prize, C. W. Riker, silver mirror; 3d prize, F. E. Miller, silver soap box; consolation prize, G. W. Sutton, silver ink cleaner.

Werts! Werts! They Want Judge Werts!

Some idea of how fair-minded observers look upon the Werts movement is furnished by the Sunday Call of Newark. That newspaper is the only independent journal published in Essex county. It has freely criticised the Democratic party and its leaders in Newark, in Essex county and the State, but it said yesterday of judge Werts:

There are several reasons why judge Werts would be a strong candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket. One of them is that he was not a member of the last Legislature; another that he is a Democratic, approachable man, naturally genial and outspoken; another that he is the author of the Werts high-license law, which satisfied the liquor interest and did not arouse the antagonism of the other side; another that he is a justice of the Supreme court, a position which obtains a certain veneration under all circumstances; another that he has been a successful Democratic candidate in a Republican county. These and other things make him distinctly available, and added to them is a personal disinclination to become a candidate.

It is probably quite true that should he be nominated by the Democratic convention he could not then decline, whatever his personal objections might be. Indeed, unless judge Werts says at once—that is, this week—that he could not accept under any circumstances, he could not honorably refuse later.

News of the Wheelmen.

A favorite run for cyclers is the hard and smooth macadam between the two tracks of the Street Railroad company, on Front street.

The boys got up a series of juvenile bicycle races, Saturday afternoon, and Walter L. Hetfield, jr., won both the five-mile and single-mile races. He is in fine condition.

Another wheelman was taken before judge Codington this morning, for riding at night without a lantern. The court suspended sentence after a sharp reprimand. Fines will be imposed on the offenders shortly.

Dr. Kinch of Westfield says: "Cycling commends itself to the thoughtful. At any considerable gathering of wheelmen, one is struck by the large number of men above thirty-five. Gray hairs and bald heads abound, and spectacles are not infrequent."

Found the Friend Alive He'd Come to Bury.

"Colored Eph", a well-known character during the days of Plainfield's incendiary fires, and now a resident of Bound Brook, received a wire from this city Saturday to the effect that his old friend Bob Skinner was dead, and that his funeral would take place the next day.

So Eph arrived in Plainfield yesterday, dressed in his best suit of clothes and with tears in his eyes as big as marbles. He hurried around to Mr. Skinner's house on East Third street, and almost fell in a fit at the gate when he saw Bob walking about the garden in perfect health. They are now both on the warpath for the practical joker, with Skinner a little the madder.

A PLAINFIELD CONTRACTOR KICKS.

He Says Prohibitionist Brown Shan't Have Any of His Trade If He Won't Take It All.

George Brown is the owner of a large sand pit on Springfield avenue, Cranford. Charles Burnett, of Plainfield, has the contract for the erection of the Cranford opera-house block, which is to be of brick and stone. Burnett made arrangements with Brown to supply him with sand for the erection of the block. The sand was delivered day by day, and both men were well pleased with each other until a day or two ago when Burnett gave Brown another order for sand. Mr. Burnett also has the contract for Hess's new hotel near the station, which is to be of brick and stone. Burnett gave Brown orders to supply sand for the hotel. Brown is one of the strongest Prohibitionists in Cranford township (if not in the United States) and refused to cart, sell or give one grain of sand for the erection of any place where liquor was to be sold. Burnett informed Brown that if he could not furnish sand for the new hotel he should not supply any more for the opera-house block.

PLAINFIELD TO BOSTON BY RAIL.

A Continuous Track of Steel From This City by Way of the Reading's Poughkeepsie Bridge Route.

No longer do travelers between this section of the country and New England have to undergo the discomforts of street transfer through the city of New York. This has all been obviated, and the Reading railroad with its continuous line of steel rail now carries its passengers in trains, vestibuled from end to end, through Philadelphia to Boston without a single change of cars. This new route, which is via the great Poughkeepsie Bridge, has many attractions, and is rapidly becoming very popular. The accommodations are first-class in every respect; the trains are vestibuled from end to end and are scheduled on fast express time; the roadway is perfect, making the ride pleasant and comfortable; the country traversed abounds in grand and picturesque scenery, and the coaches are very models of the car builders' art. There are both day and night trains run in each direction, the day trains being vestibuled and having Pullman buffet parlor cars attached, and the night trains have Pullman buffet sleeping cars. The east-bound trains are the New England day express, which leaves Philadelphia, 9th and Green streets, on weekdays only at 10 a. m., and the New England night express which leaves 9th and Green streets at 6:45 p. m. and 24th and Chestnut streets at 6:20 p. m. daily, Sundays included. The west-bound trains are the Quaker City day express which leaves Boston, on weekdays only, at 9:30 a. m., and the Quaker City night express, which leaves Boston at 5:45 p. m. daily, Sundays included.

Plainfield Selected for Their First Appearance.

The appearance of Mattie Vickers, Florrie West and John T. Kelly on the same stage, is a feature of the coming season that is looked forward to by all lovers of farce comedy. Mr. Kelly was in Plainfield last year with the "U & I" company, and Music Hall was packed. The first appearance together of the three mentioned above, will take place in this city Friday evening. Mr. Kelly's new play will be rehearsed here, and the Plainfield public are to be the first favored with it. Tickets are now on sale. Last year, you will remember, there was standing room only when Mr. Kelly played in Plainfield.

Plainfield's Iron Halites Got an Endowment of Wisdom.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Plainfield has had a flourishing branch of the Iron Hall that included quite a number of the conservative business men of the place. They stood by the order as long as they could, but on Thursday evening they held a meeting at which they resolved to disband, after making an equitable distribution of the funds in the treasury among the members. They secured an 'endowment', however—of wisdom. It is that which comes of experience."

They 'll Formulate Demands Upon Both Parties.

A call for a colored State convention has been issued over the name of Charles N. Robinson, of Camden, and Jesse Lawson, of this city, who is now employed in the Pension Bureau at Washington. It is to be held September 12. There are fifteen thousand colored voters, and they propose to formulate a series of demands upon the two parties in the interest of the men of their race. Colonel Murrell will be at the front.

The Soldiers' Reunion Here.

Everybody is requested to hang out their flags on Thursday, when the 30th N. J. regiment have their reunion here. All old soldiers, too, will be welcome to the exercises at Reform Hall and the collation beneath. The visiting veterans will be met at the station at 10 a. m.

Badly Hurt By a Fall.

John Bryant, a Newark undertaker, living at the corner of Fifth and New street, fell from an apple tree in his yard to-day, and was badly hurt in the head. It is feared his injuries may prove fatal.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:—"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest results. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use I have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health."

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office. 5-16-y

TO REVIVE IRON HALL

Plans on Foot for Resurrecting the Defunct Order.

RESERVE FUNDS TO BE POOLED

The 1,200 Lodges in the Country Have Over a Million Dollars, and If This Sum Can Be Utilized the Order Will Be Reorganized.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 29.—The determination of the visiting members of the Iron Hall to call a meeting of representatives of all the branches throughout the country for Sept. 12, and endeavor to resurrect the order, is causing great activity among local members and they generally agree that something in the way of order may be brought out of the chaos of affairs.

There are 1,200 local branches, which have reserve funds aggregating $1,300,000. If this sum can be utilized by the new order it is believed that it will be maintained.

C. B. Feibleman, who is at the head of the movement in this city, said to-day that he expected all the branches to be represented either by credited delegates or by proxy, in the meeting, and the first step will be in the direction of making radical reforms in the constitution.

If the meeting agrees to continue the order the supreme officers will be formally deposed and new officers elected. The meeting will then ask the court to rescind the several orders recently made and restore the property to the new order.

It is the purpose of local members to present all the facts relating to Somerby's methods to the grand jury, which meets one week from to-day, and ask that he be indicted. One thousand two hundred circular letters addressed to the secretaries of the local branches were sent out to-day, and the projectors of the meeting believe that nearly all will be represented.

PROCEEDINGS AT BOSTON.

Petition Filed Praying that Iron Hall Moneys Remain in the State.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—Joshua B. Stearns, a member of local branch 34 of the Order of the Iron Hall, and other members of the organization have filed in the Supreme Court a petition asking the court to restrain the officers and agents of the order from removing any of the assets from the State, paying any money, transacting any further business in this commonwealth or withdrawing any assets from any persons or corporations with whom they are deposited.

The court is also asked to appoint a receiver to distribute the assets among the petitioners and creditors of the organization.

It is stated that the officers of branch 34, of Cambridgeport, have more than $10,000 as part of the reserve fund, and have also a part of the relief fund of the corporation. The petitioners claim that the corporation has become hopelessly insolvent and utterly unable to meet its obligations to its creditors.

BIG BET AT TEN TO SIX.

A New Yorker Reported to Have Placed $10,000 on John L.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—The city is looking forward with marked eagerness to the three fights of next month. The visitors have not begun to arrive yet. They are not expected until to-morrow, but the usual forerunners of large assemblages, the tramps and crooked gentry, are dropping into town and are being accommodated with jail facilities as rapidly as possible.

Col. Robert H. Garrett, of the Queen & Crescent route, says that the representatives of his line in Cincinnati are selling fight tickets to the value of about $500 a day.

The sale for tickets for the Sullivan-Corbett fight averages more than double that for the other two fights combined. The Q. & C. agents have sold more than 200 reserved seats for the Sullivan-Corbett fight and have sent to New Orleans requesting the allotment of another 100 seats to accommodate the Cincinnati delegation.

Col. Garrett says that besides the regular Sullivan excursion train from New York, two other fight specials will run into the city over his route. One of these will be run from Chicago to Cincinnati over the Monon route and the other will start from Cincinnati.

Henry Lehman has received a letter from Harry W. Donald, of the New York Real Estate Exchange, in which he was informed that the New Yorker had bet $10,000 to $6,000 that Sullivan would defeat Corbett.

CANDE PLACE INN, Aug. 29.—John L. Sullivan is now down to 205 pounds in weight. His exercises in the barn the past few days have been more severe than usual, but he showed no distress.

Labouchere Compliments Gladstone.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Henry Labouchere has written a letter to Mr. Gladstone complimenting him upon his chivalry in accepting the sole responsibility for the arrangement of the Ministry. In this letter Mr. Labouchere declares his unswerving loyalty to Mr. Gladstone, but advises him not to permit the pressure of the home rulers to swamp Radical measures.

Sibley Will Prosecute the Cook.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Aug. 29.—Capt. James Eldridge of the yacht Wahpiti says: "George N. Shomin, a half breed cook who spread the report that the yacht had been wrecked, was shipped at Mackinac Island and discharged here for drunkenness." Mr. Sibley, who is in Montreal, telegraphed Capt. Eldridge to prosecute Shomin and he has placed the matter in a lawyer's hands.

Will Not Affect Creditors.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It is stated that the assets of the firm of Sir Titus Salt, Sons & Co., are 250,000 pounds over the liabilities. The Times, in its financial article, says: "The wind up of the business of Sir Titus Salt, Sons & Co. will not effect the creditors, but only the proprietors, for whom general sympathy is felt.

Creditors Refuse to Compromise.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 29.—The affairs of the Printing Press Exchange Company, 151 Congress street, with offices also at 95 Nassau street, New York city, and 24 Bondenot street, Newark, N. J., are to be ventilated in the insolvency court, as the creditors will not accept 20 cents cash on the dollar, or 25 cents in notes.

FOR TENNIS HONORS.

Intense Interest in the National Saratoga and Newport Events.

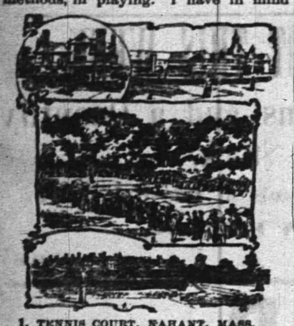
Chase and Ryerson Will Represent the West—Hobart, Hall, Campbell, Smith and Beach Will Probably Participate from the East.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Lawn tennis seems to grow to a glorious climax annually, and it is this climax, the championship series of the national association, which will this year develop into an unprecedented array of talent, of brainy effort, into a great fusillade of daring plays.

Tennis has become a game of intense interest, with the changes the past few years have wrought. Last year the eleventh annual championship at Newport had seventy-two entries. This year at Saratoga, I understand, there will be nearly a hundred in the eastern series.

Campbell's tour abroad seems to have aroused an unwonted degree of interest in the game, for we are morally certain now that as a class we are superior to the oft-praised English. I believe much of this success is due to our ability to "think out" improvements in rules, in methods, in playing. I have in mind



1. TENNIS COURT, NAHANT, MASS.
2. NARRAGANSETT PIER TENNIS COURT.
3. THE NEWPORT CASINO COURT.
4. THE SARATOGA COURT.

just now the admirable new scoring rules of Omar Carr, which were used in the recent tournament on the courts of the Columbia Athletic club in Washington. This scheme consists of counting a possible four points to each game, making a possible forty points to each set of ten games. Schedules of the tournament are so arranged that every player meets every other player, and his standing in the tournament is determined by the number of points he scores and not by the number of games won. Each stroke of the racquet counts and the final judgment is rendered on the player's general performance. Entries in the Washington tournament were divided into three sections, and the two leaders in each section were entitled to compete in the finals.

The west has already settled its championships, and the national events at Newport on August 22 will find that superb player, Sam T. Chase, again contesting. John A. Ryerson will be the western representative in singles at Newport, and Chase and Ryerson will meet the best eastern team to compete for the championship in the Narragansett tournament. I doubt if either Chase or Ryerson will be able to do much against Hobart, Hall or Hovey. Chase's play is swift, strong and brilliant, but faulty. His carelessness will serve him an ill turn in the east. Ryerson plays with judgment and force, but never really brilliantly.

TENNIS CHAMPIONS OF AMERICA.

But August 1 will see the advent of a glorious series of games. On the first at Saratoga the eastern double championship of the National league will be played and the handicap single championship. Then, on August 22, at Newport, the "East vs. West double championship" and the "national double championship," in both of which events there will be more interest than ever.

There have been many surprises so far this year and some new stars have arisen on the tennis horizon. R. V. Beach, who defeated M. D. Smith, just after the latter had won a victory over Hobart, is looked upon as an exceedingly clever and brilliant player. Beach, who is always in at the tournaments, has been ranked heretofore as a splendid player, in doubles, but never until now has he been ranked high in singles. I understand that Champion Campbell will be back in time for the Saratoga games, when he will defend his title and probably score a greater victory than before, as he will have had a splendid experience abroad. One excellent critic, F. A. Kellogg, talking of the changes in form of Hall and Hobart, said: "A feature of the year will be the playing of Hobart, Hovey and Hall, any one of whom, in my opinion, is a strong candidate for the all-comers at Newport. These men are likely to play better tennis than they did last summer. I am convinced that Hobart and E. L. Hall are already somewhat improved in form. The new rule as to the position of the server is likely to be a factor of no little importance in the contests of 1892. In the case of E. L. Hall its effect will be rather favorable, for he has already adopted the practice of standing over a foot behind the base line. The rule will militate especially against Campbell's game, yet I doubt that it will seriously affect it even under the most rigid umpiring."

THE NATIONAL TENNIS TROPHIES.

One of the interesting features of the year's tennis playing is the success which attends on Miss Mabel E. Cahill, still the best lady player in America. She has really improved during the past year, and the defeat of Miss Bessie Moore, the brilliant New Jersey player, was the best evidence of this. For without improvement, particularly in backhand, Miss Moore would have defeated her. As a matter of fact, had the element of endurance entered into the last contest, Miss Moore would have wrested the championship from brilliant Miss Cahill, for it was only by a long rest that Miss Cahill was able to score success. Her defeat of Miss Roosevelt, Mrs Morgan and Miss Burdette in Philadelphia assured her the title of championship. Her strokes are as swift as ever, and she is now remarkably strong at backhand.

During August there will be a number of interesting open and invitation tournaments, in many of which the best American players will compete. The first of these is the open tournament of the Nyack Country club of New York, which will probably not be well attended, as it conflicts in date with the National league eastern championship games. The invitation tournament of the Nahant sporting club on August 8, will, however, attract the best players from east and west. It was there Clarence Hobart won his greatest triumph last year. The court is delightfully situated. The Bar Harbor annual tournament occurs August 15, on the same date with the open tournament at Narragansett Pier. It is this latter which as a rule is a "trying" ground for the national championship played a week later at Newport. The Narragansett casino, a magnificent structure, with its adjoining buildings, incloses an acre of lawn, and its balconies and porches afford abundant means for hundreds to view the matches. With groups of beautiful women decked in soft-tinted gowns, contrasting prettily with the lawns and gray background of the casino, a scene of rare beauty is daily exhibited during these tournaments.

If the attendance at Newport last year is to be taken as a criterion, there will be a vast crowd of sightseers on hand. Last year the porches, balconies and lawn of the casino were filled to overflowing. In fact, at the final contests, seats were arranged in a rectangle around the courts and even then many a fashionable visitor was forced to stand.

DAVID WECHSLER.

THE DYNAMITE GUN.

Something About the Man Who Invented It.

Although a Native of Prussian Poland, Capt. Zalinski Is a Thorough American—His Genius as a Practical Inventor.

The introduction of dynamite into modern warfare, says the Mechanical News, was the means of adding another name to the galaxy of American inventors, for in 1884 Capt. Zalinski constructed a pneumatic torpedo gun which fired dynamite shells by the use of compressed air in place of gunpowder. At first a 2-inch gun was built. When this proved satisfactory it was speedily followed by one of 4 inches, when it was shown that shells of high explosives could be safely thrown some 2,000 yards. A year later an 8-inch gun was mounted at Fort Lafayette which was subjected to innumerable tests and always with gratifying results. One of these, on September 20, 1887, was the firing of six shots at a government schooner. The vessel was completely destroyed, four of the shots landing in practically the same spot at a range of 1,613 yards. The success of these tests led to the construction of three 15-inch guns for the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius. The Italian government also ordered one, and military critics agree that the invention will take a most important place in future warfare.

In general appearance the gun somewhat resembles a telescope. The barrel consists of a long tube of brass. The breech mechanism is a simple gate arranged so that the valve mechanism cannot work until the breech is properly closed. Perfect control of the range is had by regulating the amount of compressed air admitted in rear of the projectile and without a change of elevation or pressure. The valve admitting air is a balanced valve whose opening and closing is regulated; besides, the air can be throttled on its way from the reservoir to the valve, so that, though the valve may open and close in a uniform time, the amount of air passing into the gun in that time can be varied. As this can be regulated to a hair's breadth with great rapidity, the range can be better regulated for a moving target than by changing the elevation of the gun. Wrought-iron reservoirs, some 16 inches in diameter and 18 feet long, contain the compressed air. The reservoir tubes from which the air is drawn directly for firing are called the firing reservoirs. When a large number of rounds are required to be fired with great rapidity an auxiliary storage reservoir is used, charged with air compressed to twice the pressure to be used in the gun. After each discharge the air is drawn from these to restore the pressure in the firing reservoir. Compressed air is furnished by means of some standard air compressor. The shell, which is made as light as is consistent with strength, is of seamless brass. It is kept in the proper trajectory by means of a tail tube to which are attached spiral vanes, and it is centered in the bore and kept from metallic contact with the same by means of pins in the head, by a leather gas check at the rear end of the cylindrical part and by projections rivited to the spiral vanes of the tail. The conical point, while strong enough to resist crushing from impact with the water, is so thin as to readily crush when striking a solid target. The charge in the shell is uncamphorated explosive gelatine with a core of dynamite. When handled with care it is as safe from accidental explosion as gunpowder. Fitted to the shell is an electric fuse, so arranged as to explode after striking a target or descending below the water, a current being started by wetting the elements of a battery carried in the shell. The 15-inch gun is about 55 feet long and will throw shells containing 600 pounds of explosive gelatine to a distance of a mile. The gun can be loaded by hydraulic machinery in 30 seconds.

Edmund Louis Gray Zalinski was born in Kurnick, Prussian Poland, December 13, 1849. Four years later he was brought to this country and was educated in the schools of Seneca Falls and Syracuse. In 1864 he entered the volunteer service as aid-de-camp to Gen. Miles, now known as the Indian fighter. He was soon after made second lieutenant of the Second New York heavy artillery on the recommendation of his superior officer for bravery at Hatcher's Run, Va. At the close of the war, being mustered out of the volunteer service, he entered the regular army as second lieutenant of the Fifth United States artillery, in which regiment he has since been advanced to captain. From 1872 to 1876 he was professor of military science in the Massachusetts institute of technology. In May, 1880, he was graduated from the artillery school at Fortress Monroe, and two months later from the school of submarine mining at Willet's Point.

Besides perfecting the torpedo gun Mr. Zalinski devised a method for exact sight allowance to be made for deviations due to the wind in the use of rifled artillery and other arms. He has also invented an interlocking tool and a ramrod bayonet.

THE NEW BIRTH OF PHOTOGRAPHY.

A PLAINFIELD ARTIST ITS PROPHET AND EXPONENT.

HINTS AND SUGGESTIONS TO SITTERS AND AMATEURS—HOW BEST TO POSE AND DRESS—COPY FAMOUS PICTURES IN YOUR ATTITUDES FOR GOOD EFFECTS.

"Why is it that actresses make so much prettier and more graceful pictures than other women?" was asked the other day of a couple of young men who are the prophets and exponents of the new birth of photography in America. "They don't", answered both in a breath; "or if they do it is because they understand posing. The average photographer does not, and the poor victim who is set down before a camera, miserably posed, and taken in a strained, uncomfortable position, looks disgustingly from her own unpleasing image to the graceful picture of the theatrical woman and wonders why she is always so unfortunate in having her picture taken."

"It is a simple matter", Mr. Davis went on, "for a graceful and even picturesque result to be obtained, no matter how ungraceful the subject may be; but the artist must have such knowledge of what constitutes grace and beauty as to enable him to pose the figure, poise the head and place the hands so as to produce the effect of naturalness and grace. We get the best results from those who come with confidence in our skill and judgment, and submit themselves entirely to our ideas, without suggestions or objection on their part. We study them carefully and portray them in numberless ways. We all have our defects, but the photographer may remedy them. If the face is too long foreshorten it; the likeness still remains. If the hands are too large make them smaller."

"Easily said, but how?"

CHANGED BY THE MAGIC OF THE CAMERA.

He smiled and produced pictures of long chins made short and uncouth hands deftly posed and lighted, and compare them with casts of acknowledged beauty and symmetry.

"Go to the pictures of the masters, those which make the standards of beauty all over the world", he continued. "The women from whom they were painted are no lovelier than those who pose before the camera nowadays. The reason why so many pretty women make poor pictures to-day is because the average photographer pays too much attention to the face alone and does not sufficiently study the make-up and arrangement of the whole picture. Pose almost any woman after a picture of real merit, transfer her image to paper by means of the camera, and the result will be more satisfactory both from a personal and artistic point of view than if only her head and shoulders had been taken. The figure is as characteristic as the face, and is quite as important in forming a life-like image to be perpetuated.

"Carolus Duran was a perfect master of posing the full figure. We study his work much, and produce many portraits in his style, which compare favorably when the absence of color is considered.

THE SECRET OF A GRACEFUL PICTURE.

"The underlying principle of a graceful pose is a curve. The line of beauty is a return curve, like the letter S, only less marked. From the turn of the

IN MAIDEN MEDITATION.

"Many women who attract your attention on the street might not be as pleasing before a camera as others whom you would pass without a glance. It is not a question of whether blondes or brunettes take better, or whether one type of features is more promising to work on than another. It all depends on the man at the camera, we assert." Certainly these artists' productions, some of which are given here, attest the reasonableness of their theory.

ALL IN A TANGLE—A PICTURE-PORTRAIT.

toe to the crown of the head this principle must fit. A wrong turn of the foot changes the picture into a travesty. The poem becomes a jingle. The artist photographer must learn to see everything before him, for he is deprived of the portrait painter's power of selection—that is, he cannot leave out things that the painter can. Everything that is before the camera must be transferred to the negative, and if it becomes necessary to doctor and retouch the latter afterward, the individuality of the picture is instantly spoiled, and the sitter says: 'It is like me, but——' These buts will not be heard if the sitter is studied in front of the camera, and a skillful use made of the arts of lighting, perspective and clever composition to bring out the best points of face and figure, and eliminate as far as possible the defects. There is no art, or sense in perpetuating the least attractive view of one's self. For instance, if you have bones in your neck and a clear, full light is turned on you, they will not show, but if you turn yourself in shadow in hopes of hiding them, the ugly things will become the most prominent features in the picture. That is one secret for girls who would love to be taken in evening dress, but do n't dare.

"The simpler the frock worn the better. Plain, straight folds can be handled more attractively, and, by the way, the idea of dark gowns for photographs is obsolete. Contrasting backgrounds are not often necessary. One of the most successful pictures produced in this studio was that of a tall girl in a soft, clinging white gown against a dead white ground. The effect was ideal and created a sensation.

"The photographic artist should not have an undue confidence in his own power of originating poses, nor should he be conceited in considering his ideas better than any one else's. He should draw inspiration from every available source, photograph "gallery" as can be imagined. The principal room is a spacious apartment entered through a doorway adorned with one of the richest efforts of the Tiffany Glass company, of which business Mr. Davis was at one time superintendent. The floor is covered with a low toned carpet and many Eastern rugs and the center of the room is occupied by an immense divan that is a constant temptation to "Loaf and invite your soul", draped with Titian velvet of an indescribable green and loaded with pillows; old rose tinted walls, covered with Oriental from copies of world famous pictures down to a happy sketch in an illustrated paper. Keep in touch with all that is new and beautiful in the art world, and be you photographer or sitter you will be able to make as lovely and pleasing a picture as if you had been posed for a painter's study. There must be nothing hasty in the posing for a successful picture. Every accessory of drapery and detail must be studied and no time stinted. If a graceful pose of the hand or foot cannot be maintained support them in some way so that there may be no expression of strain or fatigue on the face. Each fold of the dress should be studied from the camera and then the sudden short gleam of the magic eye will transfer a delightfully complete 'picture' in the best sense of the word to the negative."

WHERE REAL PICTURES ARE MADE.

In the studio where these artists work together are examples of the successful practice of their theories, standing side by side with reproductions of the works of distinguished painters, and comparison is not odious. "A la Figaro" is a pretty French example. It is as dainty and clever as though it had seen the light in LaBelle France instead of New York. There are pictures in the studio that artists suppose to be copies of paintings until they find themselves alongside of the very "properties" that enter into the picture. Some of these are the spinning draperies; lamps that are marvels, chairs and desks of marqueterie, a piano, palms, pictures and paintings galore make up a room that instantly causes the beholder to feel that these young men possess the inborn taste of true artists.

Their pictures are finished by all processes and especially by their own exclusive method of "artist proof photogravure", which can only be compared to mezzotint etching. The color is varied, but generally approaches sepia tone considered so ideal by cultivated taste.

The work resembles that of Braun & Co., of Paris, but has more original features. The pictures published herewith give an idea of their style of portraiture and what they term "picture-taking by photography". To appreciate the marvelous beauty of the effects obtained, the reader must see the originals from whicir the drawings were made.

STEAMSHIP LINES AGREE.

No Dissent to the Strict Orders Issued by New York's Health Board.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—At the meeting between Health Officer Jenkins and representatives of all the foreign steamship lines in this city he read the orders from the Board of Health which provide that all vessels which arrive from ports infected with cholera, and even those carrying passengers from the infected districts, shall be put in quarantine for from two to five days before being allowed to proceed to their docks.

The steamship companies agreed to the orders without dissent. They will do all in their power to assist the Board of Health.

The order issued reads as follows:

"All vessels from cholera infected ports or carrying steerage passengers from infected localities will be subjected to quarantine of detention from two to five days. Passengers and their baggage will be transferred to Hoffman Island where they will receive a bath, while baggage and clothing are disinfected by steam.

"Immediately after such transfer steerage and cargo will be then disinfected.

"The passengers will be then returned to the vessel, which in the absence of any development of suspicious cases, will be allowed to proceed to her dock."

This regulation is in accordance with a telegram sent the Secretary of the Treasury requesting that the same regulation at the port of departure be enforced under the direction of the United States Consul.

If the Health officer is satisfied upon investigation that such regulations have been carried out at such ports in regard to emigrants, the above regulations will be modified.

The above regulations will entail on this department an enormous amount of labor but by the co-operation of the steamship companies it will be accomplished.

OUTBREAK NEAR BERLIN.

Kiel University Sends Out 150 Physicians to Combat the Plague.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Kiel University has sent out 150 physicians, under special instructions, to work in cities where cholera has appeared. About half of the more advanced students in the medical department are among the number.

Several cases of cholera are reported from Rendsberg, 18 miles west of Kiel, Oldesloe, about an hour's ride from Hamburg, and Neumiister, 17 miles southwest of Kiel. In all these towns families from Hamburg are said to have taken temporary residence within the last week.

Following the policy of the Kaiser to let the public know all about the progress and extent of the cholera visitation, official placards have been posted throughout the city, announcing that cholera exists here, and containing exhaustive advice to the public on the subject of sanitary arrangements.

The authorities are everywhere enjoining the strictest attention and obedience to sanitary regulations, and the streets are being cleaned with more than usual thoroughness.

Dr. Harris Graham, an American physician, said to have had experience with cholera in Syria, is organizing the medical students to act as assistants and nurses should cholera become epidemic in Berlin.

DETENTIONS AT BOSTON.

A Cholera Suspect and an Undesirable Immigrant Not Allowed to Land.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—A saloon passenger of the Cunard Steamer Cephalonia, which arrived here from Liverpool Sunday, a lady who moves in the upper circles of Boston society, was taken ill on the day of the steamer's arrival, and is detained on board as a precautionary measure against cholera.

Mrs. Lizzie C. McAndrews, aged 25, a native of Boxford, County Mayo, Ireland, a steerage passenger, is also detained on board the Cephalonia by order of Emigration Inspector Colcord. Her husband owns a public house in the old country, and can give her a comfortable home.

She deserted him and their six small children, on the ground that her husband was a drinking man and often beat and abused her. She has friends in Cambridge, but the chances are that she will not be allowed to land, as the officials think that a woman who could desert her six little children would not prove a desirable acquisition to our population.

Sixty New Cases at Havre.

HAVRE, Aug. 30.—Sixty fresh cases of cholera were found here yesterday, and twenty-four cases ended fatally.

KILLED UNDER A TRESTLE.

Two Citizens of Rockland County, N. Y., Crushed Beneath Falling Lumber.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Early yesterday evening while Henry O. Hutton, of the firm of Hutton Brothers, well-known in Rockland county, and Henry Maireis, who has been employed by the firm over 30 years, were under a lumber trestle, the supports gave way and both men were crushed under the weight.

Maireis was so badly hurt that he died at 6 o'clock. Hutton received a fractured skull and will die.

Hutton was 65 years old and Maireis 61 years.

Armor for the Cruiser New York.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—In regard to the contemplated changes in the armor of the cruiser New York, it is stated by Mr. Henry W. Cram, of the establishment which is building the cruiser, that the trouble arose from a fight in the Navy Department at Washington. The alterations had been ordered by the Ordnance Bureau. The most radical change was the substitution of the vertical faced for the inclined armor plate.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A new electric cable, weighing nearly two tons, was laid across Newark Bay Sunday.

—Chas. Matthews, drunk and disorderly, was fined $3 by justice Crosley this morning.

—Borough magistrate Crosley imposed a fine of $3 on a victim of intoxication this morning.

—The dog-cart of Mr. Beekman was wrecked by a runaway accident on Washington street this morning. There was n't a trolley in sight.

—Now that the schools are about to re-open, you will want good strong footwear for the children. Springer's, 32 West Front street, is the place.

—Seats are now on sale at the Central pharmacy for the appearance of Mr. Kelly, Miss West and Miss Vickers, at Music Hall, Friday evening.

—The curtains in the show-windows of the store at 44 West Front street caught fire at 8 o'clock last night. The blaze was promptly extinguished.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the city clerk on or before Thursday, Sept. 1, to insure action by the common council at its next meeting.

—John T. Meeker, driver for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company on Front street, was arrested for peddling without a license, to-day. He gave bonds for his trial on Sept. 29.

—A tea peddler from Newark was arrested in the borough this morning for peddling without a license. He gave bail before judge Crosley for a hearing at some future date.

—The Young Crescents will play the Park avenue base-ball nine on the Park avenue grounds to-morrow morning at 9:30. The batteries will be: for the Young Crescents, C. P. Sutphen and U. Boss; for the Park avenues, Finch and Smith.

—The Cleveland and Stevenson Campaign club held a regular meeting last evening. There was an enthusiastic attendance and many new names were enrolled. Delegates were chosen to represent the club at the convention of the State associations at Camden, next month.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Vanderbeek are home again from Denver.

Mrs. J. W. Yates has returned from Minnewaska, Ulster county, N. Y.

Mrs. A. W. Waldron and son will return home from Moscow, Pa., to-morrow.

The Rev. J. W. Mitchell officiated yesterday at the wedding of Miss Laura Valls to George Barber.

C. I. Ames and family of Crescent avenue leave town Friday for Maplewood Cottage, Maplewood, N. H.

Edward B. Daley, formerly of the Evening News, is dangerously ill of pneumonia at his home on Madison avenue.

By unanimous request of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, their pastor, the Rev. F. G. Warnick, has withdrawn his resignation and will remain as their leader. The present need of the church was Mr. Warnick's reason for complying with the request. He has refused the call in the West.

Laid It to the Woman.

Sigmund Frucht was tried at last, today, on the old charge of selling goods seven days in the week and observing no Sabbath. He sought to escape trial by claiming that the business was his wife's and that she if anyone was to blame. After hearing the evidence, judge Codington reserved his decision.

Varaties of the Peach Crop.

[Flemington Democrat.]

The peach is a peculiar freak. This year in a great many orchards he did not make his appearance at all, while in a few others, with nothing but a post and rail fence dividing them from non-bearing orchards, he came in great abundance. This is true in a marked degree on the premises of our friend George Alvater, near Sand Brook. He owns three orchards, and each one of them is producing many hundreds of baskets of extra fine peaches, while orchards adjoining and composed of very thrifty, hardy looking trees, are yielding next to no peaches. We agree with Mr. Alvater in his remark that it is better to be born lucky than good-looking.

Officers of the Borough Relief.

At a recent meeting of the North Plainfield Firemen's Relief association, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—L. B. Woolston.
Vice-president—G. H. Fairchild.
Treasurer—J.F. Buckle.
Secretary—W. T. Newman.

NO CHOLERA ON INCOMING STEAMSHIPS.

The Friesland and Circassia Held at Quarantine Under the Latest Regulation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The new quarantine regulation providing for the detention off the health station at Fort Wadsworth, S. I., of all vessels from the cholera-infected districts of Europe, or those with passengers on board who come from any of the affected localities, went into effect this morning. By noon three of the transatlantic fleet of passenger ships were ordered tied up there for a period not exceeding five days. These vessels are the Friesland of the Red Star Line, from Antwerp; the Circassia of the Anchor Line, from Glasgow, and the Veendam of the Netherland-American Line, from Rotterdam. The steamer Yucatan of the Ward Line, from Havana, is also detained at Quarantine, but her detention has no connection with either the cholera plague abroad or the unconfirmed report that the disease has appeared in Havana, one of the ports from which this vessels comes. It is customary during the summer months to detain all vessels from Cuban ports at Quarantine until five days have elapsed from the time of their departure.

Twelve ships were examined, and all got clean bills of health from Dr. Jenkins.

The detention of the steamships will mean a considerable loss to the steamship companies. Dr. Jenkins says that the best possible step that could be taken would be to prohibit all immigration from Europe until the danger is over. Whether the government will take such a step is doubtful, but it is conceded by all eminent physicians to be imperative.

As to the power of the government to effect the stoppage there seems to be no question. Many say that the President should assemble Congress at once if he finds he lacks power.

Congress can act promptly and effectively under the general welfare clause of the Constitution. That it is a case where prompt action should be taken there is no doubt. If immigration from infected ports threaten the health of not only New York city, but the entire country, as all eminent physicians say and agree, it should be stopped.

THE BORDEN MURDER MYSTERY.

Unexpected Testimony By Prof. Wood—No Trace of Poison in the Stomachs of the Murdered Couple, Nor of Blood or Human Hair on the Hatchet.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 30.—Counsel for the defence in the Borden murder case have been apprised of the location of a suspicious man, said to answer the description given two weeks ago by Dr. Dr. Handy of a man whom he saw near the Borden house at the time of the murder, and he is being watched by detectives employed by the Misses Borden until he is needed.

A denial was given out last night by Lizzie Borden's nearest friend, with the approval of her counsel, of the stories of the quarrel between the two Borden sisters.

Court opened this morning at 10:30, and the first witness called was Prof. Edward S. Wood, whose testimony has been awaited for days. He testified that a careful examination revealed no traces of poison in the stomachs of the murdered people, nor of blood on the hatchet.

THE BURNED OPERA HOUSE.

The Question of Rebuilding Referred to the Stockholders.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—At a meeting of directors of the Metropolitan Opera House this morning it was decided to refer to the stockholders the question whether or not the burned structure should be rebuilt.

The question accordingly will come up before the stockholders at their next meeting, to be held a week from Friday next.

Making Tobacco a Profitable Crop.

Drake Brothers, of Asbury, a station up the Jersey Central road, have fourteen acres of tobacco under cultivation. The crop is now being harvested. It is estimated at twenty-five tons, and is worth at a low estimate $500 a ton. They expect to realize over $11,000 from the fourteen acres. A number of farmers up in Pahaquarry township are also engaged in tobacco raising, and thus far have made a success of it. Last year they realized handsomely on their crop.

Sweet Corn Damaged by Grubs.

The farmers in this section of New Jersey are suffering from heavy losses this year through the destruction of large quantities of sweet corn by worms. The worms are similar to grub worms and eat out the corn in the centre of the cob. It is said that the large number of worms is due to drought. They are doing more damage this year than for several years past.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Henry C. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

"TURN HIM OUT!"

A Screaming Farce Cleverly Rendered by the Junior Guests on the Heights

NETHERWOOD, Aug. 29.—The hotel bulletin board announced the following event: "Monday evening, Aug. 29, grand performance by the junior guests of the hotel. The performance will commence at 8:30, with selections by the Netherwood Glee club, to conclude with the screaming farce entitled 'Turn Him Out!'"

Promptly at 8:30, this evening, the guests of the hotel and their friends assembled in the annex of the dining room. The room was handsomely decorated for the occasion. The drop curtain was a work of art, and particularly noticeable. The stage settings were all that could be desired. The Netherwood Glee club opened the evening's entertainment with several songs, which were received with hearty applause, after which the farce was produced, with the following caste, under the direction of Harry Gwynette:

Nicodemus Nobs.....Willard Sneckner
Mackintosh Moke.....Anastasius Gwynette
Mr. Rosecleaf.....Leroy Sneckner
Julia.....Percy Sneckner
John } Porters.....Frank Poe
Tom }
Susan.....Ray Streit
.....Miss Ellen Poe

To say that the play was a decided success, and that the young actors covered themselves with imperishable glory, is but faint praise. I know the young cavaliers will pardon me if I particularize only in the case of the sweet little fairy, Ellen Poe. Her acting was most remarkable, and she seemed to "the manner born". Frequent and hearty applause was awarded to all the young Thespians. Dear little Percy Sneckner, as Julia, was the sweetest little rosebud in the wide, wide world, and too cute for anything. The affair closed at 9:20, and one more delightful event was entered on the Netherwood roll. A handsome sum was realized, and will be devoted to a charitable object.

The two little Netherwood darlings, Eddie Green and Leonard Sneckner, made a little speech at the conclusion of the performance, which was very touching and beautiful.

DUNELLEN KEEPS PLAINFIELD COMPANY.

But Rocky Umpiring Is Said to Have Made Cranford Mad.

While Plainfield was losing to Westfield, Saturday, Dunellen was being whipped by Cranford. The score was 15 to 14. The Elizabeth Journal says of the game: "Four straight for the Cranford amateurs! That's the record. Saturday's game at Dunellen was won against heavy odds, and with a garrison finish, too. The Dunellen ground was not fit to play ball on, and the umpire was as rocky as the ground. Four times were decisions made against Cranford until in the sixth the Dunellens secured the lead 13 to 11, and it looked as if the Cranfords would have to go home defeated, but in the last inning, with two men out, the heavy firing began, and the visitors batted out a victory."

PLAINFIELD MARKSMEN ABROAD.

Jersey Wing Shots to Meet a Team from the Nutmeg State.

Enoch D. Miller, of Springfield, manager of the Union Gun club, left yesterday for New London, Connecticut., to take part in the fifth annual tournament of the Standard Keystone Target and Trap company. The shooting will begin tomorrow and continue until Friday night. On Friday a team from New Jersey, under the leadership of Mr. Miller, will shoot against a Connecticut team for a purse of $100. Each man will shoot at twenty-five Keystone targets.

With Mr. Miller the following shooters will represent New Jersey on the team: Ferd VanDyke and R. H. Breintnall, Newark; Wm. Sigler, Montclair; Neaf Apgar, Charles Smith and Thomas Brantingham, Plainfield; John Riggot, Rockaway; J. Warren Smith, Orange; Frank Post, Park Ridge; M. F. Lindsley and Ed. Collins, West Hoboken; F. G. Moore and J. R. Richmond, Claremont.

Plainfield Hears a Remarkable Preacher.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Osgood, of Cohasset, Mass., who preached in the Plainfield Unitarian church last Sunday, is seventy-seven years old and has been the pastor of one church, his only charge, for fifty years. He is a graduate of Harvard, and, in commemoration of the semi-centennial anniversary of his pastorate, that institution conferred of him at its last commencement the degree of Doctor of Divinity. His mental powers are unimpared, as his sermons, which are delivered extemporaneously, abundantly attest. In commenting on this, the Elizabeth Journal says: "While we are hearing so much about the vigorous old age to which public men of the European world attain, it is worth while to be reminded, now and then, that America can produce illustrations of intellectual activity equally remarkable."

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

Well, instead of sick and suffering; healthy and vigorous, instead of worn-out and worthless; bright eyes, clear skin, rosy cheeks — you wouldn't think it was the same woman, and it's all due to the use of a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

What this medicine has done for thousands of delicate women, it will do for you. If you're overworked and debilitated, it will build you up—if you're borne down with the chronic aches, pains, and weaknesses peculiar to your sex, it relieves and cures. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, invigorates the system, purifies the blood, improves digestion, and restores health, flesh, and strength.

For all the painful irregularities and diseases of women—periodical pains, prolapsus and other displacements, bearing-down sensations, and "female complaints" and weaknesses, it's the only remedy so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Reunion of Old Sailors and Soldiers.

Two coming important events of interest to sailors and soldiers of the late war will be the reunion of the Naval Veterans at Baltimore, September 15 to 19, and the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Washington, commencing September 20, immediately after the Sailors' reunion. Interest in the reunion will be heightened by the presence of the White Squadron in the harbor of Baltimore. The G. A. R. encampment will be the occasion of the greatest military assemblage in Washington since the grand review of 1865, following the fall of Richmond. For both of these events the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will sell tickets at greatly reduced rates. Tickets will be sold from September 13 to 20 inclusive, valid for return journey until October 10. During the encampment at Washington the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will run excursions daily to Gettysburg, Parper's Ferry, and the Virginia battlefield, to all of which points tickets will be sold at low rates. The Baltimore and Ohio is the familiar route to thousands of veterans who travelled over it early in the sixties as raw recruits to join the ranks.

For detailed information as to time of trains, rates, and sleeping car accommodations apply to A. J. Simmons, 211 Washington street, Boston; C. P. Craig, 415 Broadway, New York; James Potter, 833 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, or Charles O. Scull, gen'l passenger agent, Baltimore, Md.

Artist Davis's New Photography.

On the first page of this issue is reprinted an illustrated article, "The New Photography", from a recent issue of the New York Sunday Press. THE PRESS understands that some specimens of the work referred to in the article will soon be placed on exhibition in J. Hervey Doane's window on Park avenue.

Ploughing up Silver in Plainfield's Suburbs.

William T. Woerner, who lives in Piscataway, near New Market, while ploughing on his farm, Saturday, turned up an English half-sovereign silver piece bearing the date 1708. This was in the reign of Queen Anne. The coin is almost as perfect as on the day it was minted, nearly two hundred years ago. The camp is situated near one of General Washington's old camp grounds, on the post road leading from New York to Philadelphia.

BUYING GOODS "SIGHT UNSEEN".

Unique Auction Sale at the Jersey Central's Old Freight-house.

A unique auction sale began at the Central Railroad freight-house in Elizabeth at 11 yesterday, and will probably last three or four days. It is a sale of the goods that have accumulated in the old union station during the thirty years of its existence, and a more varied or motley collection of articles it would be hard to find anywhere.

An eager and jostling crowd of several hundred people surrounded sheriff Hicks, who conducted the sale. There were several amusing incidents, some bidders getting very little for their money, while others secured bargains. Joseph Cook, of 829 Elizabeth avenue, paid $4.65 for a heavy trunk which, when opened, was found to be filled with stones. Cook's wife burst into tears and began to berate him. Dan Carroll, a backman, paid 50 cents for a bag, which, when opened, contained only a loaf of rye bread about five years old. Another man bought a bag for $1 that contained a sealskin muff, a ladies' rubber cloak and several other articles, amounting in all to about $20 in value. Another had paid $1.25 for a bundle containing two pairs of overalls and two motheaten flannel shirts. A bundle containing a dozen or more umbrellas and canes was sold for 50 cents, and a sachel worth $5 brought 75 cents.

A man bought a small cask of whiskey for 40 cents. Another person paid $1 for what turned out to be a bundle of old motheaten rags of shirts. A woman bought for $1.80 a mammoth wooden chest bearing indications of having come from the Fatherland a score of years ago. She broke the engulfing receptacle open with a stone, and with many outward evidences of relish dove into it.

"Ah, ha!" she said as she grasped an old German Bible from off the top. "This is a fine book. It is well worth $1.80 itself. However, I can't read Dutch." She laid it gently aside. "Well, did I ever", she laughingly soliloquized as she unravelled a large package of men's underclothing. "If these ain't drawers; just the things John needs. Well, but won't he be fixed for the winter, and they are just his size, too. Ha! ha! ha!"

At this instant her eyes fell upon two huge, mouldy leather purses at the bottom of the trunk. With the agility of an eagle she swooped down upon them. As she hastily turned them over and about to find the best and quickest way to open them her hands trembled with nervousness. The spectators were also nervous and anxious.

At last the largest of the purses, which was pretty well bulged out, was opened. But there was no money. Its bloated condition was due to several old yellow letters.

A look of disappointment stole over the woman's face that was not wholly undeserving of pity. "No", she murmured, as she fumbled the letters, "they ain't no good. I guess it must be in the other one."

The second pocket-book was opened, and it, too, was devoid of treasure. For a moment the woman was silent. Then, seeming to recover herself and to notice the laughter of the onlookers, she sprang to her feet, and, with a grin that lighted up her whole face, she said:

"Well, I ain't stuck anyhow; them drawers are well worth the money, and do n't you forgit it."

The Standard Peach Basket Holds Sixteen Quarts.

Most of New Jersey's peach baskets are made right in the peach native district of Hunterdon county. The bottoms are made at the timber mills down South, but the sides and hoops are made here.

Maple and ash are the woods used. The different parts are cut by specially constructed lathes. Boys are employed to nail them together. They get seventy-five cents for every 100 baskets. Up to this year there has been no standard size for the baskets, but last fall the peach growers insisted that this should be regulated by law, and Assemblyman Benjamin E. Tine introduced a bill which passed the New Jersey Legislature, fixing a standard measure of sixteen quarts. The law not only covers the size of the basket, but requires that the words "Standard New Jersey" be stamped on the sides. If any grower uses other than the standard basket he is required to mark them that way. The new law will be of great benefit to the growers, enabling them to agree on a fixed scale of prices and affording protection in other ways.

The standard peach basket is just 13½ inches high, 13½ inches across the top, and 7⅞ inches in diameter at the bottom. In order that they may be of a uniform size they are made on a block. Baskets cost $30 a thousand, and you can form some estimate of the number required when you know that from 1,500 to 2,000 are used every day as long as the peach season lasts. The factories start in early in the spring to make baskets for the next summer.

A Westfield Man Was the Pioneer.

[Elizabeth Journal.]

Great things from small beginnings grow. The late Dr. Francis B. Brewer, of Westfield, was known as the "pioneer of petroleum", because he first conceived the idea of using it for commercial purposes. The original oil refinery was established by Samuel M. Kies, who set up a small refinery in Pittsburg in 1853. At first he used a one-barrel still, such was the small beginning of what is now one of the greatest of industries, but this was afterward enlarged to a capacity of five barrels, and it is said to be still in existence. Compare this with the plant of the Standard Oil company and ponder.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THEY DIVIDED THE JOKE.

And Miss Vickers and Mr. Kelly Will Now Play on the Same Stage.

The appearance of John T. Kelly and Mattie Vickers in the same company at Music Hall, Friday evening, recalls an incident that befell them when Kelly was starring in "U & I" and Mattie Vickers in "The Circus Queen".

It happened that they were opposing attractions at different theaters in a western town, one night last season, and Kelly decided to give Miss Vickers a surprise by taking advantage of a lengthy absence from the stage that fell to him in "U & I", to drive quickly to the other theater and rush on the stage during one of Miss Vickers's scenes and inquire solicitously as to the fair Mattie's health.

The scheme promised well; but meanwhile the comedienne's manager had said to her: "We'll play a joke on Kelly, tonight. You are not required on the stage during the first twenty-five minutes of the second act. As soon as you have changed dresses at the end of the first act, we'll jump into a carriage, drive over to the Academy and you can surprise Kelly by going on in one of his scenes."

In carrying out their little scheme the two stars started from their respective theaters at about the same time. It so happened that the two jehus driving their carriages in opposite directions met in an obstructed place in the street. The wheels got interlocked and a pair of drivers swore as only drivers can. Kelly's head popped out of the window of one carriage, only to come in contact with Mattie Vickers's blonde wig thrust from the window of the other.

"The divil!" said John in his rich Milesian brogue.

"Nein! Mein lieber John, only me," was Gretchen Vickers's reply, and they divided the joke, bribed the hackmen to say nothing, and hurried back to their respective theaters.

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

What the Cyclists Are Doing, in and Out of Plainfield.

At the fourth annual fall meeting of the Riverside Athletic club, Newark, the afternoon of Sept. 24, there will be a two-mile and a five-mile safety bicycle race, handicap, open to all amateurs. The handicapper will be F. P. Prial, who handicapped the men in the recent Crescent League road race. Besides the bicycle races there will be: 100 yards run, handicap; 300 yards run, handicap; 880 yards run, handicap; 1 mile run, handicap; 220 yards hurdle, handicap, (10 flights, 2 ft. 6 in. high); running high jump, handicap; 440 yards novice run, scratch. A handsome gold medal will be given to the first, and a silver medal to the second, in each event. These medals will be exhibited at Peck & Snyder's, 126 Nassau street, New York, on and after Sept. 12. The entrance fee is 50 cents for each event. The entries close Saturday, Sept. 17, with E. W. Pierson, secretary athletic committee, corner of Lincoln and Arlington avenues, Newark. There should be Plainfielders in these events. They are all open to all amateurs.

An "ordinary" ridden by a colored youth ran away with a base-ball, yesterday afternoon. Two lads were catching ball on North avenue, and one of them threw the ball just as the cyclist whirled in between them. The ball lodged in the spokes of the rear wheel, and the colored lad laughed gleefully. The ball players shouted to him to stop, but he put on steam instead. They chased him through Park avenue, but he soon outdistanced them, and the boys returned sorrowfully to their playground.

The sentiment is steadily growing among Plainfield wheelmen in opposition to road racing. Such an important cycling centre as Plainfield deserves a wheelmen's racing track. One would be laid out on the Crescent Lengue grounds, were it not that the trustees expect the Peace street extension to cut through the field.

Joseph Pike, of this city, is being generously voted for as "the most popular wheelman in America", in the columns of a New York paper.

Dishonesty and Nonsense About the Trolley System.

(New York Sun.)

We print elsewhere, from the Electrical Review, an article on the trolley system, which appears to us to contain a good deal of common sense. We have had no sympathy with the widespread condemnation by the newspapers of the trolley, because it seemed to us to be mainly rhetorical and to lack scientific and practical substance.

We have always held that there was only one sound and serious objection to taking a current of a high voltage from overhead wires in a city, and that was that in case of fires it would probably seriously interfere with the work of the firemen. We must admit, however, that it would be a very simple affair to introduce a device whereby the firemen could control or ground the current at any point where it threatened to affect their operations. Our elevated railroads are sometimes brought to a standstill by the firemen occupying the tracks with hose, but the trolley lines need not necessarily be stopped in their entire length, since it should be a simple thing to divert the current, let it make a detour and return to the main line at a point where it would not interfere with the firemen.

There has been a great deal of dishonesty and nonsense in what some newspapers have printed about the trolley system.

The Women Will Give a Banner.

Franklin council, Jr. O. U. A. M., is to have a banner presentation the evening of Sept. 8. The committee in charge consists of J. V. Beekmon, G. S. Martin, F. A. Long, C. I. Young and H. S. Thatcher. The banner will be presented to the council by the feminine friends of the council, who will meet at Mr. Thatcher's residence and proceed to the lodge rooms.

HE WILL VISIT NEW YORK

The President to Confer With Mr. Reid

ABOUT LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

No Formal Reception Will be Given Mr. Harrison on His Arrival—He Will Return to Loon Lake Thursday—To be Ex-Senator Miller's Guest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—President Harrison will arrive at the Grand Central Station at 7:30 o'clock to-morrow morning. The purpose of his visit to New York is mainly to confer with Whitelaw Reid about their letters of acceptance, so that immediately on arriving at 42d street, the President will take another train for Mr. Reid's country house at Ophir Farm. There the President will remain quietly, if the present plans are carried out, until Thursday, when he will return to Loon Lake.

President Harrison's journey from Loon Lake to New York will be at night and without stops, except those made by the regular train to which his special car will be attached. On the way to New York, therefore, there will be no speeches. It is probable that he will be greeted on his arrival at the Grand Central Station by National Chairman Carter, General Clarkson, State Chairman Brookfield and other members of both National and State committees. As he has arranged to leave at once for Ophir Farm, no formal reception or public demonstration is probable at that hour of the morning.

The President's exact movements after leaving Ophir Farm on Thursday are not yet determined. It is known that he is averse to making political speeches, because he is sensitive about being led into any position which would not be in accord with his official dignity. Nevertheless, Chairman Hackett of the State Committee is anxious that the President consent to a public reception of some kind during his journey back to Loon Lake, if not while in New York city.

Arrangements have partly been made for the President during his return journey to Loon Lake, to stop at Herkimer Thursday night as the guest of ex-Senator Warner Miller. These arrangements were not finally concluded because of the difficulty of communicating with Mr. Miller, who is on a fishing trip in Canada, but who is expected to return to New York in time to join the President at Ophir Farm to-morrow night or Thursday morning.

It is hoped, also, that the President will consent to short stops at Poughkeepsie and Albany on Thursday while en route to Herkimer, and also to make short stops at Ogdensburg and one or two other places in Northern New York between Friday morning and Saturday afternoon, when he will return to Loon Lake.

President Harrison's letter of acceptance, which he will bring with him, and which will probably be given out for publication within two days, has been written entirely during the intervals of his attendance upon Mrs. Harrison at Loon Lake. The President could find no time to give to preparing his letter during the closing weeks of Congress, so that the main body of the document has been written and dictated while sitting near the reclining chair of his invalid wife on the porch of the Adirondack cottage.

ARRESTS AT HOMESTEAD.

Secretary Lovejoy Resumes His Prosecution of the Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 30.—Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel Company, has resumed his prosecutions against the Homestead strikers again, and as a result six persons who were in Homstead on the 6th of July, the day the Little Bill was forced to surrender, were arrested yesterday, charged with conspiracy and aggravated riot.

Five of the men were arrested in Homestead. They are Burgess John McLuckie and George Ryland, charged with conspiracy; Thomas J. Crawford, chairman of the Advisory Committee, and William Gatches, charged with riot and conspiracy, and William Oeffner, charged with riot. John Edwards, the sixth man, was arrested in Allegheny last night at a museum, where he had secured a position as musician. Edwards is charged with riot.

The men all gave bail for a hearing and were released, with the exception of Edwards, who, in default of bail, was sent to jail.

The search for Pinkerton weapons at Homestead did not prove very successful, as only a box of Winchester rifles was secured.

ONLY A MEMORY NOW.

All Traces of the Railroad Strike at Buffalo Have Disappeared.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—All trace of the great railroad strike has disappeared. The soldiers have gone home, and the duty of protecting the property of the railroad companies has devolved upon Chief of Police Morgensern and Sheriff Beck. Everything is quiet in the yards, and the police details say they have yet to find the first sign of an outbreak.

West Side residents are to hold a mass meeting to take steps toward bringing to justice the soldier who shot and killed the boy, Michael Broderick, Thursday last. On that day a detail of of the 23d Regiment of New York were attacked by a crowd at one of the crossings. Broderick was in the party, although it was subsequently claimed that he was on his way home from work and that he had not participated in the assault upon the military.

When the soldiers charged upon the crowd Broderick took to his heels. As he was climbing over a fence he was shot. He died Thursday at the Emergency Hospital.

Gen. Husted Decidedly Improved.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 30.—There is a decided change for the better in General James W. Husted's condition. He partook of a considerable amount of solid food yesterday and slept well last night. Both New York physicians were up yesterday, and last night a long consultation was held between Drs. Leal and Pratt of New York, and Dr. P. H. Mason of Peekskill.

Wrecked Bank to Resume.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The Empire State Savings Bank, the successor of the defunct National Savings Bank which Treasurer Dann wrecked, will open for business Thursday. The resources are a little over $1,000,000, and the liabilities, after scaling down as per order of court are $30,000 less than the assets.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:—"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest results. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use I have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health."

MORE DEATHS IN LONDON.

Another of the Infected Gerona's Crew Succumbs.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—On account of the cholera the steamship service of Daniel Currie & Co. to Hamburg, Flushing and South Africa, has been suspended. The company, moreover, will not book passengers for Madeira or Las Palmas.

Ida Samyan, a Russian Pole from Hamburg, was admitted to the London Hospital yesterday, dying with a disease believed to be Asiatic cholera. Caroline Lane, an English girl, aged 10 years was also admitted to the London Hospital, believed to be suffering from Asiatic cholera.

John Carse, a seaman on the infected steamship Gerona, from Hamburg to Middlesborough, is dead in Middlesborough of Asiatic cholera. The Gerona seaman who died of cholera on Saturday, was buried in Middlesborough yesterday. Body and coffin were saturated with disinfectants.

The Gerona is the steamer whose crew appeared to be all right when they landed, but one of whose seamen was seized with cholera soon after, and died during the night.

The population of Middlesborough is unfortunately in altogether too favorable a condition for the spread of cholera, owing to the destitution and want and consequent physical debility caused among thousands of the inhabitants by the recent strikes in the coal regions, which supplied the iron and other industries of Middlesborough.

The local sanitary authorities are now doing what they can to prevent any serious result from their carelessness by tracing up and ascertaining the condition of every member of the Gerona's crew.

The steamship companies at Glasgow have telegraphed to their European agents to suspend for the present the acceptance of any immigrants by the Glasgow lines for American and other destinations abroad.

Considerable apprehension already exists in Glasgow in regard to the Russian and other immigrants who have recently arrived there to take passage.

At Gravesend two emigrant steamers arrived during the morning, one from Hamburg, the other bound for Hamburg. The steamer from Hamburg is the Portia. She was subjected to an examination and all the passengers were mustered for medical examination. Not a trace of cholera was found.

The steamer's physician reported the death of a baby on the voyage, and this occasioned alarm. Later it was found that the child had died from some infantile complaint.

All the emigrants were allowed to land at Tilbury, opposite Gravesend. They all belonged to the poorer classes.

A London House has received an order from the authorities of Hamburg for thirty-eight thousand gallons of disinfecting fluid and thirty-five tons of disinfecting powder.

To Investigate Canada's Quarantine.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 30.—Dr. J. N. McCormick, of Bowling Green, Kentucky, President and Dr. Probost, Secretary of the National Conference of State Boards of Health, and Dr. J. A. Watson of this city, Secretary of the American Public Health Association, will go to Quebec on Tuesday next where they will make an examination of the quarantine arrangements and regulations in force there and make an investigation as to what means are being used by the Dominion Government to protect the country from an invasion of cholera.

The Red Cross Called Upon.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—Emperor Franz Joseph has ordered the Red Cross Society to organize for the cholera service throughout Austria. Ten hospital barracks are to be erected in different parts of the Empire and most of these will be under the supervision of the Red Cross. The society will also undertake the transport service, it is said, for conveying patients from their homes to the hospitals.

Colombia's Prompt Action.

PANAMA, via. Galveston, Aug. 30.—The Federal authorities of the United States of Colombia have issued an order closing the ports on the Atlantic coast of Colombia to all vessels arriving from ports infected with cholera. This stops trade with Germany, France and Belgium, so far as conducted through Antwerp, Hamburg, Havre and other places where cholera is known or suspected to exist.

Say No Cases Exist in Bremen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Messrs. Oelrichs & Co., agents of the North German Lloyd steamships, have received a dispatch stating that it is officially denied by the authorities that a single case of Asiatic cholera exists in Bremen.

FRIENDS ARE DOUBTING

The Strong Evidence Against Lizzie Borden.

SHE TRIED TO BUY PRUSSIC ACID

The Testimony of the Witnesses Examined Yesterday Creates a Great Change of Opinion in Many Quarters—Miss Borden Denies the Drug Clerk's Story.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 30.—Long before the hearing in the Borden murder case was continued this morning the court room was crowded to suffocation. The examination was resumed at 10:15.

The testimony brought out in the hearing yesterday has caused a change of opinion among many of Lizzie Borden's friends, who have heretofore stoutly maintained her innocence. They consider the strongest evidence given against her to be that of Mrs. Addie Churchill, the neighbor whom she has known and loved since childhood.

Mrs. Churchill is a sister of City Auditor Buffington and daughter of the late Mayor Buffington, and her testimony has caused a profound sensation.

She stated positively that Mrs. Borden's door was open when she and Bridget Sullivan first discovered the body of the murdered woman.

Again, Mrs. Churchill stated positively that Miss Lizzie told her that Mrs. Borden had received a note to call on a sick friend. It has not been proven that any person in this city or elsewhere sent such a note or that Mrs. Borden left the house at any time during the day.

Like all the rest of the witnesses for the government, she failed to find any traces of blood on Miss Lizzie's clothing or her person. Miss Lizzie was in distress and greatly agitated when her life-long friend ran to her assistance, but she was not obtrusively sorrowful nor did she show painful emotion.

When Mrs. Churchill asked here where her mother was she did not say she was out. Her answer was: "Go see if you can find her. I don't know but she is killed, too." Bridget Sullivan was intuitively fearful of obeying Miss Lizzie and refused outright to go up stairs unless Mrs. Churchill accompanied her. During this testimony the prisoner bit her lips, flushed and bent toward Attorney Adams.

Following Mrs. Churchill's testimony came that of Miss Russell, the friend for whom Miss Lizzie sent at once. Unconsciously, perhaps, Miss Russell gave another insight into the unhappy domestic life of the Borden family. Mrs. Borden, the stepmother, was seldom seen in the guests' chamber, although witness was a frequent visitor. Coupled with Miss Lizzie's own words that she always locked her room door when going out, it was apparent that the pleasantest relations did not exist.

Miss Russell was a stubborn witness, in the opinion of a government official, while Mrs. Churchill, who was reluctant and tearful at first, told freely all she knew without hinting at the family relations.

The testimony of E. H. Bence, the drug clerk, Frank Kilroy, the Harvard medical student, and Fred Hart, the assistant drug clerk, all of whom were in Smith's drug store when Lizzie was there, seems very damaging to the defendant.

The different stories as to Miss Lizzie's purpose in visiting the barn and the time she spent there, are becoming great topics of gossip about town. If she went into the barn it has yet to be explained why she was not seen by Bridget Sullivan, who went there frequently to get water with which to wash the windows.

Miss Lizzie Borden denies positively that she was ever at Dr. Smith's drug store, where Eli Bence is clerk.

The Testimony in Detail.

Mrs. Adelaide B. Churchill was the first witness called. She said she lived next to the Bordens on the north side of the street and she remembered well the day of the tragedy. She first remembered of her attention being called to the affair when she saw Bridget going for Doctor Bowen. About the same time she saw Lizzie standing against the side of the side door, apparently distressed about something.

"I opened the window and asked her what was the matter and she said 'Oh, Mrs. Churchill, do come over; somebody has killed father.'

"I went over and asked her where her father was and she replied 'in the sitting room.' Asked her where she was when it happened and she said she was in the barn looking for something for sinkers."

Witness said that so far as she knows she was the first one outside of the family who was called to the house.

Witness asked Lizzie where her mother was, and she said her mother had a note to go somewhere, but she did not know but that she had been killed too. She wished somebody would go and try to find her, for she thought she had come in since. She said her father must have an enemy, for every one in the house had been sick. After the neighbors had commenced to come in Lizzie said again that she wished some one would go and try to find Mrs. Borden, for she was sure she had heard her come in, and here witness described finding Mrs. Borden.

Witness had seen Mr. Borden that morning about 9 o'clock; he was apparently going down town. Witness remembered seeing Bridget washing the windows but could not give the exact time.

Witness said she heard Lizzie ask Doctor Bowen to telegraph to her sister Emma, but to be careful and not tell the worst as the lady with whom she was stopping was old and it might affect her. Witness described the dress which Lizzie wore on that day as a dark blue cotton cloth dress.

Mr. Jennings subjected Mrs. Churchill to a severe cross examination, dwelling particularly on the excited condition of Lizzie when witness was first called to the scene.

Witness could not remember that there was the least sign of blood on Lizzie's dress, hands or face at the time she first saw her; her hair was "done up" and appeared not to be disarranged in the slightest and there was no indication of anything in her appearance that any changes had been made since she arose.

Miss Alice M. Russell, the next witness, who said she had known Lizzie about eleven years, created a sensation by testifying that immediately after the discovery of the murder Miss Lizzie Borden told her that her alleged visit to the barn was to procure a piece of iron or tin with which to fix a window.

It was evident that the evidence of Miss Russell had made considerable of an impression upon the defense, and when she had finished her direct examination Lizzie's lawyers put their heads together, and allowed the witness to sit down for a moment.

On cross-examination Miss Russell said she had bathed Lizzie's face after she went in and saw no signs of blood on it, nor did she see any on her clothing.

Miss Lucy Collett testified that she was stopping at Dr. Chagnon's house on the day of the murders to take care of a telephone. She sat on the piazza all the time because she could not get into the house. From where she sat, she said, she could see all of the yard of the Bordens.

During the time she was there she saw no one in the yard.

On cross-examination it took just 13 minutes for witness and Mr. Jennings to come to an understanding as to where the fence was located, and then witness admitted that she was where she could not see the whole of the Borden yard, but she was sure that if a man had entered the yard she would have heard him.

Eli Bence, a drug clerk, testified that Lizzie Borden called at his store three times before the day of the murder for prussic acid, but was refused.

Frank H. Kilroy, medical student, testified to conversing with Mr. Bence in his store Wednesday, but could not state the exact time. Knew Miss Borden; saw her that day.

Witness was sitting in the shop when she came in and Mr. Bence went behind the counter to wait on her. Heard her say, "Prussic acid," and him say, "Can't sell it without a license," and heard her say, "Sealskin cape." Then she went out.

Cross-examination: I am positive that that she said "cape" and not "sack," and she spoke loud enough for me to hear; she spoke out loud; did not observe any tremulous tones; quite sure she had a cape in her hand or on her arm.

Frederick B. Hart, employe in the drug store corroborated the testimony of the previous witness.

Lizzie had a cape on her arm and a purse in her hand. Witness heard her say she wanted to put the acid "on" or "around" the edges of the cape.

THE PUGILISTS IN NEW YORK.

Both Gave Exhibitions Last Night—The Start for New Orleans.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Both the pugilists who will battle for the heavyweight championship on Sept. 7, are in the city, and were greeted last night by thousands of admirers.

Sullivan arrived in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon. He rested quietly at Casey's place until 8 o'clock when he went to Clermont Avenue Rink where his big benefit came off. The event of the evening was the big fellow's bout with Jack Ashton.

Corbett got in town from Loch Arbour several hours before Sullivan and went at once to Madison Square Garden to meet Dominick McCaffrey and complete arrangements for their four-round contest later in the fall.

McCaffrey was on hand, but the men failed to agree and the proposed contest is off. During the conference Corbett and McCaffrey nearly came to blows. Corbett was in a bad temper and McCaffrey's taunts fired his excitement to such a pitch that had it not been for the interference of friends an unannounced contest would have occurred. The men parted in decidedly angry moods.

Corbett's benefit was well attended. The Calafornian sparred with Daly and McVay, after which there were social bouts between Muldoon's "Cyclone" and the "Cuban Wonder," "Harlem Coffee-Cooler" and "Mike" Brennan, of Montana; Prof. "Tom" Stewart and "Andy" O'Conner, "Joe" Hopkins and the "African Sailor Boy," "Harry" Livingston and "Jack" Burke, a six-round contest between "Bill" Cahill, the strong boy, and "Bull" Madden; also wrestling by "Black Sam" and "Mike" Condon.

After the entertainment Corbett went to the Coleman House, where he spent the night, returning to his training quarters in the morning. He will remain there until Saturday, when he will come up to Jersey City, whence his "special" leaves at 4 o'clock from the Pennsylvania depot.

He will arrive in New Orleans Monday evening and stop at the house of a friend adjoining the Olympic Club. He will keep fit at the rooms of the Southern Athletic Club.

After the Clermont Avenue Rink exhibition Sullivan returned to Casey's, and until Thursday will stay quietly there, playing handball and punching the bag.

On Thursday he will leave in his special car "Traveler" for New Orleans at 5 o'clock by the West Shore road.

$75,000 LOST IN DUTIES.

More Fraudulent Weighing in the New York Surveyor's Office.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Customs authorities have unearthed another case of gigantic frauds in the weighing department of the Surveyor's Office. The frauds consisted in the underweighing of sugar during the eight months between Aug. 1, 1891, and March 1, 1892, when the free sugar law went into effect.

The amount of duties lost to the Government by this systematic underweighing is estimated at $85,000 to $75,000. The results of the investigation have involved, so far, eight importers of sugar and a number of employes in the department.

The matter has been presented to the United States District-Attorney.

JUDGE MAYNARD DECLINES.

He Does Not Want the Nomination for Chief Judge.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Chairman Edward Murphy of the Democratic State Committee publishes a letter which he had sent to Judge Maynard, stating that the committee was in favor of nominating him for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Judge Maynard replied in a letter asking that his name be not considered as he had not enough experience in the court.

American Petition for Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—A petition from America for the release of Mrs. Maybrick, who is imprisoned for life under conviction of having poisoned her husband, was forwarded to Queen Victoria during the morning. The petition is signed by Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Blaine, and other well-known American ladies. According to the usual course the Queen will forward the petition to Home Secretary Asquith.

Nine Hurt by a Falling Scaffold.

IN MISS BORDEN'S FAVOR

Prof. Wood's Testimony Creates a Reaction.

THE PRISONER'S STATEMENT READ.

A Sensation Caused When the Poison Theories Were Demolished, and When Prof. Wood Stated That There Was No Blood on the Hatchet—The Prosecution Rests Its Case.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 31.—The court room in which the hearing of Lizzie Borden is being held could not commence to hold the crowd that gathered long before the hour set for the continuation of the case. The hearing was resumed shortly after 10 o'clock.

There were many surprises in the hearing yesterday, not the least among them being Prof. E. S. Wood's testimony. It was the popular belief that he would show some traces of poison in the stomachs of the murdered people and would produce a murderous looking ship carpenter's axe, having a blade from five to six inches in length.

On the contrary, he pulled out an innocent looking hatchet from a medium-sized traveling valise and quietly, but firmly, told the court he could not find the slightest trace of blood on it, nor was it allowed that such an instrument in the hands of a woman could inflict such ghastly wounds.

He also demolished the prussic acid and other poison theories, and the crowds in the court room wondered what was coming next.

Prof. Wood looked for traces of all kinds of common poisons. His failure to find them added much weight to Miss Lizzie's strong denials that she was ever in Smith's drug store, but, although popular opinion ran in those channels, the government officials did not depend especially upon the poison theory.

It is stated that all the District-Attorney hoped to prove by Prof. Wood's testimony was that Mrs. Borden was killed some time before her husband. This fact was well established. He said that the matter in her stomach showed that it had been undergoing the process of digestion for two or three hours, in his opinion about two and a half hours. This proved that Mrs. Borden died between 9 and 10 o'clock, probably about 9:30.

The State has already established that Lizzie was in the hallway leading to Mrs. Borden's room at 10:35 o'clock, and she has not yet been able to prove that she was not in the house between 9:15 and 11:15 o'clock, when both murders occurred.

The unfortunate quarrel between District-Attorney Knowlton and Mr. Jennings at the morning session causes much comment in intelligent circles.

The most interesting testimony of the day to the general public was that given by District Attorney Knowlton, when he read Miss Borden's testimony at the inquest.

There is a great deal of talk about the intentions of the defence. Mr. Adams and Mr. Jennings assert that the government's presentation of its case was incomplete, and have decided to call many witnesses who were supposed to have been summoned by the State. Dr. Bowen and many others will be called on.

Prof. Wood was the first witness called. He said he had received a package containing two stomachs on the 5th of August and two jars containing milk used on the 4th and 5th of August. All were properly labelled. The stomachs were labelled "Mr. and Mrs. Borden."

The stomachs appeared to be perfectly natural. Mrs. Borden's stomach contained about eleven ounces of solid food. The stomach was tested for prussic acid but with a negative result.

The stomach of Mr. Borden contained only six ounces, chiefly water. In his stomach there was only a small quantity of starch; the digestion in his case, the contents being nearly all water, was much further advanced than in the case of Mrs. Borden. There were a few threads of vegetable tissue in his stomach, which might have been apples.

Q.—Could they have been pears?

A.—Yes.

Witness had not yet analyzed the milk and could not report upon that.

"On the 10th of August I received from Dr. Dolan a hatchet, two axes, a blue dress-skirt, dress-waist, white starched skirt, lounge cover, and three small envelopes, in which were hair taken from Mr. and Mrs. Borden and hair taken from the hatchet. On August 16 witness received a pair of black stockings.

The hatchet contained a number of suspicious-looking spots, but careful examination showed no traces of blood. Every spot which looked like blood was examined but no traces of blood were seen.

A big smirch on the blue skirt looked like blood but was found not to be blood.

The white skirt had one spot which looked like blood and was found to be one and it was directly in front and about six inches from the bottom.

The carpet was blood-stained (this was the sitting-room carpet) and there was blood of course on that.

There was no blood on the lounge cover.

The envelope marked "hair from A. J. Borden" was simply white hair; Mrs. Borden's was dark.

The hair on the hatchet was not human hair (sensation), more like that taken from an animal. The spot on the right shoe was not blood and there was no blood on either shoes nor stockings.

There was nothing on the two axes. Near the edge of the hatchet were spots which seemed to be blood but were found not to be.

There was a spatter on the blade, but it was not blood and there were spots on the side of the head of the hatchet which looked to be like blood and I thought they were, said witness, but they were not. (Hatchet produced).

Lizzie examined it with as much interest as did her counsel.

One paper was produced by witness on which was written "hair" placed here at (time mentioned) but no hair was there.

On cross examination Prof. Wood said the spot looked larger on the outside of the skirt than on the inside. The size of the spot was about the size of a pinhead.

Q—This you say was human blood?

A—I don't know; I did not say so. I have not examined it.

Q—Could you tell in what direction this blood came when it struck the skirt?

A—I could not.

Witness said it was difficult to tell the difference in blood, its sources, etc., the grade was not so great as before science had progressed.

Q—If one were struck by some sharp instrument would there be any spurting of blood?

A—Yes, if an artery was cut.

Q—And there was an artery out?

A—There was one in the line.

Q—In what direction would the blood spurt?

A—I don't think the cutting of an artery would make any great difference. An artery never spurts over three feet.

Witness said it would be impossible for the assailant of the murdered ones to escape getting blood on his body in some way, and that the stains on the sitting room door might have gone over the head of the assailant as the instrument was lifted. The blood would hit the assailant from the knees up and the blood on assailant in the case of Mrs. Borden would be shown anywhere above the feet.

The examination of Lizzie Borden at the inquest was then read. Lizzie stated that she was 32 years old; that her father had been married to her stepmother about 27 years; she had no idea of what her father was worth, and only knew about part of her father's real estate.

Lizzie had had some trouble with her stepmother about five years ago, but it was trivial. In some ways her relations with her stepmother were not as between mother and daughter; changed from calling her mother to "Mrs. Borden" when there were some words over her stepsister, now Mrs. George Whitehead. Emma had stood as a mother to Lizzie.

Lizzie made two statements about her whereabouts on the day of the murder, when her father came home. At first she said she was upstairs, then she said she was in the kitchen and to this last story she stuck.

After her father went out, Lizzie never went upstairs, and so far as she knew she was alone in the lower part of the house for a large portion of the time when her father was away. The front door was locked and nobody could have got in there. When he came in she was in the kitchen eating a pear.

Lizzie said she went to the barn to get lead for a sinker; she got it from a box on a work bench; had not been in the barn for three months before.

Several pages of the stenographer's copy were devoted to a tilt between the District-Attorney and Lizzie, caused by his trying to find out just what Lizzie was doing in the barn to occupy 20 minutes; she ate three pears and looked out of the window, and overhauled a box for the lead; when she got back she discovered the condition of her father, that is, he was bleeding, but she could not tell the nature of the wounds.

Knew of nothing to cause blood to be on a hatchet. When she found her father she ran at once to call her servant, never thinking of calling her stepmother because she supposed she was out, and she said to Mrs. Churchill that she wished somebody would see if she was in the house. She thought it was not more than five minutes after her father came in when she went to the barn.

Lizzie could not tell how the blood came to be on her skirt unless it came from a flea bite. If the blood came from outside she could not tell where it came from. Lizzie said she never went into any drug store in New Bedford at any time to inquire for prussic acid; never went into any drug store for any such thing.

This closed the State's case. After the reading of the statement Dr. Dolan was called for the defense, and said he had filed the record of the Oak Grove autopsy with the court. The records of the autopsies on the two bodies were separate. Both were put in by the defense as evidence and were ordered put into the records.

The next witness for the defense, Dr. S. W. Bowen, when he heard of the murder, went directly to the side door of the Borden house, where he met Miss Lizzie, who said: "Father has been killed—been stabbed."

Mrs. Borden had called on witness early Wednesday morning, and she said she was afraid she had been poisoned, and that she was frightened. While she was there she came near vomiting. She said that Mr. Borden and herself had been ill the night before, between 9 and 12, and that Miss Lizzie had been sick about midnight.

This closed the investigation for the day.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Judge Morton in the Supreme Judicial Court has granted a temporary injunction against the Order of the Iron Hall, on each of the two bills in equity.

The first suit was that of Joshua B. Stearns, a member of a Cambridge Branch; the second suit was that of Abby F. Jones and others.

The latter bill is brought by a member of a Cambridge branch, and with her are joined as plaintiffs representatives of lodges in Northampton, Florence, Haydenville, Amherst, Springfield and Palmer.

The order entered by Judge Morton is that, for the purpose of preserving the status quo pending the hearing upon the application for the appointment of a receiver and an injunction, all moneys, books, papers and other property of the defendant corporation in Massachusetts remain as they now are till the further action of some Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Morton declined to include in the present order a protection of members in case they refused to pay assessments levied, saying that for that a separate application should be made by counsel.

Costly Barn and Contents Burned.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 31.—A costly barn with valuable contents, owned by George Meyers, located three miles south of Spring Valley, was destroyed by fire at an early hour in the morning. Loss, $10,000.

To Be Settled By Arbitration.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 31.—The striking granite cutters at Andrews & Wheeler's works have agreed to submit the matter to arbitration, and they have returned to work.

ALARM IN LIVERPOOL.

Four Suspected Cases There—Several Vessels Detained.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Four emigrants from Russia on their way to America have been stricken at Liverpool with what appears to be cholera.

They were sent to a hospital and the cases are being watched to see if the disease is Asiatic cholera.

Other emigrants are being closely inspected, both for local sanitary reasons and because the steamship companies are anxious not to carry any who are likely to cause trouble in landing.

The bark Helene, which left Hamburg on August 20, for America, has been detained at Dover, on account of sickness on board.

Last evening the Helene was towed to Gravesend, and two of the crew, afflicted with Asiatic cholera, were taken to land and put in the hospital.

The bark Silvio, of Hamburg, is detained at Gravesend, on suspicion that there may be cholera on board.

Donald Currie & Co., announce that the steamers of the Castle Line will henceforth cease calling at Hamburg and Flushing en route to Africa, and that they have ceased booking passengers for Medeira and Das Palmas.

The Right Hon. James Lowther, speaking at Ramsgate, urged that the public welfare demanded that the government, with or without warrant of law, should at once prohibit immigration while the danger from cholera menaced Great Britain.

He would pledge the support of the Conservatives should it be necessary to indemnify the government for any action it might take in defense of the public health against the cholera scourge.

This, declared the speaker, was not a time to be pedantic or to stand on the letter of the law in face of a great public danger.

Ida Samyan, the Russian Pole from Hamburg, who was admitted into the London Hospital, Monday, apparently dying from disease supposed to be Asiatic cholera, is still alive.

STRIKE IN PITTSBURG.

Four Hundred Men in Shoenberger's Mills Go Out.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31.—Four hundred men quit work in Shoenberger's mills, between 14th and 16th streets, yesterday. The announcement made by the firm that it would start up the steel departments attracted a large crowd of men, who refused to go to work, pending a settlement of the steel scale.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a sufficient number of men had been secured to start up the Bessemer department, and the converter was put into operation.

Some of the men at work were old employes. The remainder of the crew was made up of new men. Up to noon five heats had been cast into ingots.

As soon, however, as this was transferred to the steel departments, the puddlers, roughers, catchers, muck bar rollers and horseshoe workers came out on a strike. All the departments of the mill were then closed down except the Bessemer, which continued making steel ingots.

MR. REID'S GUEST.

The President Reaches Ophir Farm in Time for Breakfast.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—President Harrison and his party came down from Loon Lake on the night express over the Hudson River Railroad, and arrived at Mott Haven Junction at 7:30. The President was accompanied by Mr. Halford and Mr. Tibbetts, his stenographer.

His car was switched around to the Harlem Railroad, and a special locomotive took it to White Plains. There was no stop at Mott Haven.

Mr. Reid met the President at the depot in White Plains, and the short drive to Ophir Farm was made in time for breakfast.

President Harrison will spend the day and night with Mr. Reid. They will confer regarding their letters of acceptance. A distinguished party of Republicans will also be Mr. Reid's guests during the day.

Proceedings Against Homestead Strikers to Be Vigorously Continued.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31.—Hugh O'Donnell, the Homestead leader, was put under bail yesterday to answer to charges of conspiracy and aggravated riot. He waived a hearing on the charge of riot and gave bail for a hearing.

The information was sworn out by the Carnegie Steel Company. Mr. O'Donnell was the only striker who was placed under bonds. The hearing will take place to-morrow. Mr. O'Donnell said there were no new developments in the strike.

Wholesale arrests are expected for the remainder of the week. One of the spies employed to watch the Homestead strikers says that 44 informations have been made. He asserts that the papers in 106 other cases have been prepared.

Probable Contemplated Suicide.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 31.—A sensation was created here yesterday by the discovery of a knife and several feet of steel wire in the possession of William F. Keck, who is to be hanged at this place on Sept. 8. It is learned that he secured the knife and wire from Harry Bachman, who is serving a term for burglary. It is thought Keck contemplated suicide in the event of the Board of Pardons failing to take favorable action in his case.

The Sultan's Troops Were Beaten.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A dispatch says the story that the Sultan's troops were victorious over the Anghera tribesmen is false. The Sultan's forces were defeated. Two hundred and sixty of the Sultan's forces, it is said, were captured by the tribesmen.

PANIC BEGINS IN HAMBURG

Residents Badly Frightened and Leaving in Large Numbers.

RAILWAY STATIONS CROWDED DAY AND NIGHT WITH REFUGEES.

Alarming Increase in the Number of Deaths and New Cases—The Scourge Spreading Far and Wide—Steamers Detained at New York and Immigrants Not Allowed to Land—Reports From Many Infected Quarters.

HAMBURG, Aug. 31.—The sultriness of the atmosphere has caused the spread of cholera with increased rapidity and hopes of the near abatement of the disease have received a shock. Last night 810 new cases and 819 deaths were reported for the day. The number of interments yesterday was 990, almost three times the average in healthful times.

Many of the burials now take place at night, as then there is not only less danger of infection, but also fewer persons abroad to be panic-stricken by the appalling frequency of the funerals.

Most of the bodies are unaccompanied by friends or relatives. Persons of the poorer class dying in hospitals are buried without any attempt at ceremony and without having been even seen by friends or relatives.

The long expected panic seems to have come. The exodus of families of property is increasing. The railway stations are full night and day, and there is difficulty in finding porters enough to transport the baggage.

Business is dead. Most of the shops not dealing in the daily necessities are closed. Those that remain open are doing little business.

The loss of trade in the last three days is estimated to be over $2,000,000. The celebration of Sedan Day, anniversary of the surrender of Napoleon III., has been forbidden.

Dr. Harris Graham, an American physician, said to have had experience with cholera in Syria, is organizing the medical students to act as assistants and nurses should cholera become epidemic in Berlin.

Six cases of cholera are reported from the military camp at Lockstedt. Many of the soldiers are ailing, and a temporary hospital has been established.

EFFORTS AT NEW YORK.

A Number of Steamers Detained—Suggestions by the Health Board.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Board of Health of this city is continuing its effort to prevent cholera from entering the city. The Board has decided to retain the services of the summer corps of physicians during September. All police captains have been ordered to have the men of their command act each as a sanitary officer and look to the perfect condition of his post.

The Board has issued a circular descriptive of precautionary measures in detail. People are cautioned against the eating of uncooked articles of any kind, and are urged to regard cleanliness above everything else.

During the morning the Health officers were looking after the passengers of the Circassia, of the Anchor Line, from Glasgow. She carried 242 cabin and 269 steerage passengers. She had no cases of sickness on board. There was much complaint among the passengers when told of the new regulation, but there was nothing for them to do but submit.

By noon three of the transatlantic fleet of passenger steamers were ordered tied up for a period of five days.

In addition to the Circassia, there were the Friesland, of the Red Star Line, and the Veendam, of the Netherlands-American Line.

The Friesland lay at Antwerp for two days after the cholera made its appearance there, and she is the first vessel to reach here from that port since then.

For this reason the Health officials are anxious on her account.

Her passenger list numbers 328 cabin and 390 immigrants.

So far as could be learned, nothing to arouse the suspicions of the doctors who examined the passengers was found.

An early effect of the cholera epidemic is beginning to show itself among the exporters of this city.

Of all lines of business, the provision trade is, as a rule, the first to be affected by calamity, and the result of the present scare has been to shut off suddenly new orders for shipments of provisions.

According to an authority in the provision trade, there have been received no new orders for shipment to Europe for the last ten days.

The saloon and second cabin passengers of the steamer Circassia were allowed to land in the afternoon. The steerage passengers remain on board, however, and the work of disinfecting their baggage progresses.

Some of the saloon and second cabin passengers on the Friesland were transferred to the steamer John E. Moore. Only a portion of the passengers were landed, as they preferred to remain on board the vessel, owing to the customs officers refusing to allow them to take their luggage, not even the smallest piece of hand baggage.

The cabin passengers of steamer Veendam were transferred just before sundown, under the same restrictions as those of the Circassia.

Paris Hospitals in Readiness.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The hospitals are being put in a condition for an epidemic. More cases have come to light that are suspected of being genuine Asiatic cholera. There were four deaths, including one of a hospital attendant, yesterday from cholerine, and there were thirty new cases of the disease.

Denies That Cholera Is in Cuba.

New York, Aug 31.—The New York correspondent of La Lucha, published at Havana, Cuba, received a cable message yesterday from the editor of that paper, denying the story sent from Mexico that cholera had broken out in Cuba.

The Record at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.—Yesterday 156 new cases of Asiatic cholera broke out in this city, according to the official returns, and there were 41 deaths from the disease.

TRIED TO POISON THE FAMILY.

Attempt of a 14-Year-Old Servant Girl Who "Felt Ugly."

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Reuben Tanner, a farmer at La Grange, Dutchess county, reported to the police here that Mary Wyroneck, a 14-year-old servant, had attempted to poison his family Monday night.

He discovered copperas in his tea, and accused the girl. She confessed, and said she wanted to poison them because she felt ugly.

She was taken in custody last night by the authorities.

CLAIMS HE WAS A BURGLAR.

The Shooting of James Conroy by Alva Capewell at Gloucester, N. J.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 31.—James Conroy, about 23 years old, living at Market street, Gloucester, was instantly killed by Alva Capewell, aged 24, the proprietor of a meat stand in front of Coyle's saloon at The Point.

Capewell claims that he had been recently robbed and that he armed himself Monday night and Conroy, who was unknown to him, broke into his place shortly after midnight and he shot him.

Capewell is under arrest and the Coroner will hold an investigation.

Her Body Found in the Ruins.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—After digging for three days among the ruins of the Wooster street fire, the body of Clara Maere, the Italian girl, was found yesterday in 10 or 12 fragments, horribly burned and mutilated.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Tickets for Friday evening at Music Hall are now on sale.

—John Briant, the 80-year-old resident of West Fifth street, is recovering from his serious fall from a crab-apple tree.

—A notorious "old soak" was up before judge Codington this morning, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail, for drunkenness.

—Mattie Vickers and Florrie West are not the only pretty girls who will appear with John T. Kelly, Friday evening, at Music Hall.

—There will be a special rate of $1.75 for the round trip from this city to Mauch Chunk, Monday. The train leaves Plainfield at 9:27 in the morning.

—All the private boxes in Music Hall have been engaged by the guests of Hotel Netherwood together with a number of orchestra seats for Friday evening's performance.

—The persons interested flatly deny the Courier report that there was a boating accident at Tier's lake Monday night. They say that no boat was upset, and that no one fell into the water.

—The Academy base-ball nine defeated C. Sutphen's nine on the Park avenue grounds this morning by the score of 23 to 22. The batteries were: C. Castence and R. Finch, C. Sutphen and V. Faytel.

—Officer Frisbie has reconsidered his resignation, and to-day resumed the office of dog catcher. He says he is going to do his duty faithfully, and capture all dogs running at large, showing no favoritism.

—A framed set of finely engrossed resolutions, to be presented to the widow of Theodore A. Sofield by Gazelle Engine company, testifying his comrades' appreciation and esteem, are exhibited in S. E. Flower's window, next to the post-office.

—The Union County Republican Executive committee will meet at Republican headquarters, 52 Broad street, Elizabeth, to-day, to designate when and where the primaries shall be held to elect delegates to the Gubernatorial convention which will be held in Trenton Sept. 13.

—That F. M. Hulett is certainly a hustler. His latest enterprise is to provide a finely-furnished and convenient room where instructors in vocal and instrumental music may meet pupils and classes for practice. His excellent new orchestra will also make use of the apartment. Everything that Hulett does is first-class in every respect.

—The best, cheapest and biggest excursion that leaves Plainfield every year is that of the retail grocers of Plainfield for Papiac, Labor Day. This year the committee have made arrangements to stop at Dunellen at 8 a. m., Evona at 8:03 a. m., Grant Avenue at 8:05 a. m., and Westfield at 8:20. An old-fashioned Rhode Island clam-bake will be given on the grounds, and, with boating, crabbing, fishing and sailing, the day can be pleasantly passed at this favorite resort.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Counselor Wm. Stillman and wife returned home from Europe yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Roberts have left Moscow, Pa., and are now at Tobyhanna Mills, Pa.

Miss May Sheppard of Manning avenue has returned to her home after a pleasant sojourn at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. VanArsdale and children returned yesterday from Belmar. Mrs. VanArsdale is slightly improved in health.

The novel "Thumb Nail Sketches" by George Wharton Edwards, of this city, are continued in the current number of The Century.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Burr, of Putnam avenue, have been receiving congratulations, since Tuesday afternoon, on the birth of a son.

Manager T. S. Armstrong of Reynolds's pharmacy left town to-day for his vacation, which he will spend in the Maine woods near Jackmantown.

Borough attorney Reed and society leader Lyman left to-day on a fishing trip to Forked River, for a much needed rest. They will return Friday.

Frank Fulton, presiding genius over the Central pharmacy soda-water fountain, and one of manager Leggett's obliging boys, has been granted a week's vacation.

H. G. McCully, superintendent of the New Jersey division of the New York and New Jersey Telephone company, dropped in on Plainfield's manager, Charles W. Runyon, yesterday, and made a thorough examination of the local system. He was as usual highly pleased with the condition of affairs, and expressed in high terms his satisfaction over manager Runyon's exemplary work.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS DEAD.

Painless Ending of the Life of an Eminent Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—George William Curtis, the distinguished author, and editor of Harper's Weekly, died this morning, a few minutes after 2, at his home in Livingston, S. I. He was conscious at the end and suffered no pain. Dr. Frank G. Curtis, his son, was in attendance, and Mrs. and Miss Curtis were present.

Mr. Curtis had not been out of the chair in which he died for the past six weeks. His illness had all along been a puzzle to the physicians, and it is not now known exactly what was the cause of death.

As the family have decided that no post-mortem shall be held, it will probably remain a mystery always.

Dr. Curtis, his son, said this morning that it might have been cancer of the stomach, tuberculosis or chronic peritonitis. He has maintained all along that the disease was not cancer.

Mr. Curtis became ill the latter part of last June. He managed to keep up, however, and did his work for Harper's Weekly and Harper's Monthly. About the middle of July, however, his sickness became so serious that he had to stop work.

Born in Providence, R. I., on Feb. 24, 1824, George William Curtis spent his early school life at Jamaica Plain, Mass. When young Curtis was 15 years old his family moved to New York and the boy began business life as a clerk in a dry goods store. When he was 18 he went to Brook Farm in company with his elder brother, and remained there until some time in 1844. After leaving Brook Farm the brothers still kept together and began farming in partnership on their own account.

With this somewhat varied preparation Mr. Curtis started for Europe in 1846. He spent some time at German universities, and saw with his own eyes the art treasures of Italy at a time of life when his mind was most sensitive to the full impression of their beauty. He added a tour through Syria and Egypt to his other travels abroad. His impressions of these two latter countries were published in a series of sketches in the New York Tribune, and afterward collected in book form under the title of "Lotus Eating".

In 1852 Mr. Curtis gave himself entirely up to literary pursuits.

PLAINFIELDERS IN QUARANTINE.

Every Precaution Taken to Prevent the Entry of Cholera Cases.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—When the port was opened for business this morning there were at anchor off Quarantine ten vessels that had either been there since yesterday or had come in during the night. Of this number, three were detained for developments, and the others were cleared immediately after the health officer boarded them.

At eight o'clock Dr. Jenkins was notified that the Teutonic was coming in off Fire Island. This is the vessel having Dr. Davis and Mulford Estil of Plainfield on board. She was expected to reach Quarantine about noon, and will receive the same treatment as the less popular vessels. She will be thoroughly examined, and if found not to be infected will be permitted this afternoon to proceed to her dock and unload her passengers. The Plainfielders therefore hope to reach home this evening.

Thanks to Mayor Saunders, Mr. Hyde and Marshal Pangborn.

The Emmanuel Baptist church met last evening to hear the report of the committee on the camp-meeting. The following resolutions were adopted:

That the church extend to Mr. Hyde its sincere thanks for his liberality in granting the use of his grove; and to the mayor of North Plainfield hearty thanks for the kindly protection rendered in supplying an able corpse of marshals for the maintainance of peace, and also to marshal Pangborn for the deep interest taken in keeping order.

The above resolutions were unanimously carried

PLAINFIELDERS AT THE BEACH.

The Crescent City Colony Have a Jolly Bonfire Party and a Marshmallow Roast.

BELMAR, N. J., Aug. 30.—The Plainfielders who have been summering at this delightful resort are beginning to leave for home, for the weather here is very cool, even cold, and bathing in the surf is a shiversome operation.

Fishing has improved, and the masculine members of the Plainfield colony have been having good luck. A morning or two ago, before breakfast, three of them caught 63 fine fish, at the beach. They were immediately prepared for the table, and eaten with hearty relish.

Several Plainfield people have been at the Neptune house for 10 days, but all left yesterday. Among them were Fred. Brockway, Mrs. Brockway his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Ladd, and the VanBoskerck family. Mrs. VanBoskerck and daughters gave a sort of informal reception on the beach a night or two ago. The Misses VanBoskerck had gathered a big pile of driftwood in the afternoon, and at night they and their friends had a tremendous fire that lighted up the beach for a great distance. About twenty Plainfielders were there and enjoyed the jolly time. The refreshments were toothsome, and the fire was welcome for warmth, for the night was cold. The merrymakers toasted no marshmallows that night, but a few evenings later they stuck the powdered lumps of white upon sharp sticks and browned them in the embers.

DISPLAY YOUR BUNTING TO-MORROW.

Brave Heroes of the War Will Be in Plainfield, for Their Annual Reunion.

As has previously been announced in these columns, the 30th Regt., N. J. Vols., will hold its annual reunion in this city, to-morrow, and will be entertained by Major Anderson post, 109, G. A. R., and Garfield league, 22, Ladies' Loyal Legion.

The regiment will be met at the North avenue station at 10 a. m., by the post, and will march under their escort to Reform Hall, where the reunion will take place. The business meeting of the regiment will be held in the morning. This meeting is intended for members of the 30th only. At 1 p. m. a collation will be served to the regiment and its invited guests, by Garfield League, and at 3 p. m. a public meeting will be held in the hall, to which all soldiers and citizens are most cordially invited.

The 30th N. J. Vols. was mustered into the United States service at Flemington, Hunterdon county, Sept. 17, 1862, and bore on its muster roll the names of 1,011 men. After nine months' faithful service, the regiment returned to Flemington, where it was mustered out June 27, 1863. The 30th was assigned to the Army of the Potomac, and took part in the Battle of Chancellorsville, Va., May 2 and 3, 1863. Co. H of the regiment was commanded by comrade J. Frank Hubbard of this city, and many men from this vicinity were in its ranks.

The committee in charge of the entertainment of the regiment is composed of seven members: J. Frank Hubbard, Chas. H. Ranpolph and Edward J. Olssen, from Major Anderson post; and Miss Susan E. Wilson, Mrs. Julia H. Mackey, Miss Laura L. Brady and Mrs. Mary S. Olssen, from Garfield League.

The committee of arrangements requests the citizens to display their flags to-morrow in honor of New Jersey's volunteers.

Reunion of Old Sailors and Soldiers.

Two coming important events of interest to sailors and soldiers of the late war will be the reunion of the Naval Veterans at Baltimore, September 15 to 19, and the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Washington, commencing September 20, immediately after the Sailors' reunion. Interest in the reunion will be heightened by the presence of the White Squadron in the harbor of Baltimore. The G. A. R. encampment will be the occasion of the greatest military assemblage in Washington since the grand review of 1865, following the fall of Richmond. For both of these events the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will sell tickets at greatly reduced rates. Tickets will be sold from September 13 to 20 inclusive, valid for return journey until October 10. During the encampment at Washington the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will run excursions daily to Gettysburg, Harper's Ferry, and the Virginia battlefield, to all of which points tickets will be sold at low rates. The Baltimore and Ohio is the familiar route to thousands of veterans who travelled over it early in the sixties as raw recruits to join the ranks.

For detailed information as to time of trains, rates, and sleeping car accommodations apply to A. J. Simmons, 211 Washington street, Boston; C. P. Craig, 415 Broadway, New York; James Potter, 833 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, or Charles O. Scull, gen'l passenger agent, Baltimore, Md.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is now one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends. Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Look over these symptoms: headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat—sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. You won't have all of them at once; probably only a few of them; but they mean Catarrh.

And the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy mean to cure it, if you'll let them, no matter how bad or how long standing. If they can't, they'll pay you $500 in cash. They mean that, too, just as it's printed.

They offer you the money—or a certain cure, if you'll take their medicine. But if they weren't certain of the cure, they'd never offer you the money.

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

Details of the County Championship Race that Plainfield Will Contest in.

The entries for the carnival of sports that will take place on the Elizabeth Jockey club grounds on Labor Day for the benefit of the building fund of the local hospital, closed Monday night, and from their number and character give promise of well-contested events. In the morning, beginning at 10:30 sharp, the bicycle races will claim attention. The one in which the most interest is taken is the two-mile team race for the track championship of Union county. The prize will be the handsome silver cup given by H. L. Saltonstall, and will become the property of the club winning it three times.

The teams entered are the Elizabeth Wheelmen, Elizabeth Athletic Club, and Plainfield Bicycle Club. The team from the Plainfield Bicycle Club is composed of Martin, Hinrichs, and French, with A. S. Fritts and N. R. Titsworth as substitutes. The Union County Roadsters sent in an entry after the committee had adjourned, but it will no doubt be received. Special sanction has been received from the L. A. W. to count points in this race at the end of the two miles. At the request of nearly all the contestants the race has been changed from its position of last on the programme to third. The boys' one-mile scratch race has created a stir among the boys. There are seven entries, and the boys are training night and day.

When the entries in the athletic events closed, it was found necessary to withdraw several of the events on account of the small number of entries, but a substitution has been made that will amply compensate, and will not only furnish much fun, but will require no little skill to win.

A surveyor was at the track yesterday laying off the course for the three-mile cross-country run, one and a-half miles of which will be in the infield. The lines have been laid out with the idea of making it a pretty race and one of true cross-country fashion. There will be a clear half mile on the track for a spurt finish. The entries for the horse racing are coming along nicely, and there will be some highly interesting and exciting races.

NOTES OF THE CYCLING WORLD.

Zimmerman uses a 64-inch gear and a 6¼ to 6¼-inch crank.

Taylor rode to fame on a wheel geared to 66 inches weighing 26 pounds.

The wheelmen of the Jersey City Athletic club will "run" to Plainfield Sept. 5.

Borough clerk Brokaw was riding Will Cadmus's bicycle last night when the rear wheel utterly collapsed.

The Republican cyclers' campaign club met last night and decided to begin drilling for parades next week.

Zimmerman has won $2,000 worth of bicycles, in prizes, the past two years, besides his medals and other prizes.

Now the manufacturers speak below their breath of a leather pneumatic tire. It is an old saying that there is nothing like leather.

Windle, paced by Graves with a slow flying start, has ridden a half in 1:03 4-5. He 's about ready for the assault on the mile record.

The Louisiana Wheelmen's league threatens to withdraw from the League of American Wheelmen if colored men are admitted to membership.

Zimmerman in a competitive half at Toronto rode the distance from scratch in 1:05 3-5. It is a big improvement on his previous best half in competition, 1:06⅗.

To what figures will the mile record be lowered this year? Zimmerman guesses at 2:08, W. S. Campbell at 2:08 2-5, Taylor at 2:08, W. B. Troy at 2:06, Asa Windle at 2:09 2-5.

J. A. Bennett, the hero of the 100-mile Anfield road race, in which he established a world's record, has now won the fifty-mile handicap of the Anfield bicycle club from scratch in the fast time of 2:44.

VanSicklen, the old war horse, is 38 years old and has led an active racing life for fourteen years. He is a phenomenal man in physical development and apparently good for a score more years.

The world's 100-mile record for a safety now stands at 5:14:49⅘ and is held by W. H. Wilson, of England. Walsh had previously held the record at 5:19:37 3-5. Still, neither of these records is up to Edge's 5:06:51 3-5 or Shorland's 5:06:03 2-5, made on geared ordinaries.

It is officially announced that the racing board will not proceed against any men who are in the employ of manufacturers, and the rule governing this matter will be rescinded. Graves's case was so flagrant that the board could not help taking cognizance of it, although had the charges not been so openly preferred he would have escaped suspension, for the board some time ago resolved not to notice such infractions of the amateur role. Makers' amateurs will now be a class unto themselves, encouraged and protected.

It is hoped that Plainfield cyclers will secure some of the handsome prizes offered by the Somerset County Agricultural society for the races to be run under the direction of the Somerset Wheelmen, at Somerville, September 14. The meeting is held under the sanction of the L. A. W., and the following races will be run: One mile safety novice, open; one mile club team race, three men, open only to New Jersey bicycle clubs; one mile safety handicap, open; two mile safety handicap, open. The entries close with Dr. C. B. Mathewson, Somerville, September 7.

WANT THE FENCE REMOVED.

Westfielders Say the Inconvenience is Greater Than the Former Risks.

The Central railroad has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction among the Westfield commuters by erecting a long fence between its tracks in front of the station at that place. Early last spring work was begun on a handsome stone structure with large and comfortable waiting rooms, which was completed about two months ago. The station stands on the north side of the tracks, and the town lies north of the station.

A tunnel was cut under the tracks in order that passengers might not be obliged to run the risk of accidents by crossing the tracks, and still further to guard against accident a fence was built between the tracks used by trains bound east and west. The west-bound trains run on the two tracks on the station side of the fence. Unfortunately, the greatest travel is in the opposite direction, and passengers are compelled to purchase their tickets at the station and then pass through the tunnel to the opposite side in order to board the train for New York. A covered platform is the only protection afforded on that side.

The fence has proved such an inconvenience that many who travel on the road have signed a petition asking for its removal. Some have even threatened that if the fence is not taken down by the railroad company they would tear it down themselves. Although the crossings at all the other stations are equally dangerous, Westfield is the only station at which such extreme precautions have been taken.

But—says the Elizabeth Journal—Westfield is more excited over the fence erected by the railroad company between the east-bound and west-bound tracks, than it is over the proposed nomination of one of its "great" men for Governor. Wild threats that the fence will be torn down, if not removed, are said to be made by some of the most agitated of the people. We have seen babes resent the action of a parent which kept it from poking its fingers into a fire, and the protests of the Westfield citizen against the thoughtful endeavor of the railroad to prevent injury to life and limb reminds us of the infantile kicker.

WERTS'S GROWING BOOM.

Wage-Laborers, Regardless of Party, Will Vote for Him.

(Paterson Labor Standard.)

George T. Werts is not the candidate for Governor, of South Jersey or of any section or faction. He is New Jersey's candidate—the candidate of the masses.

Workingmen of all political opinions who desire to see an honorable, able and genial man, who is well and kindly disposed towards the interests of the wage-workers, placed in the Governor's chair, will work and vote for George T. Werts.

Judge Werts's record is above reproach. His every public act has been friendly to the common people. The common people are with him; the masses are on his side; the wage-laborers of New Jersey, regardless of party, will vote for him.

Judge Werts is the people's candidate.

Umbrella Talk.

Here is what comedian John T. Kelly, who is to appear at Music Hall, Friday evening, calls "Umbrella Talk:"

To place an umbrella in a rack at the club indicates that it will shortly change owners. If a cotton one is substituted for a silk, it means exchange is no robbery.

An umbrella held over a lady, with a man getting all the rain drops from the points, signifies courtship. But when a man keeps the lion's share of the article it indicates marriage.

To carry an umbrella with the arm at an angle implies that the individual following will lose an eye, while to hold it just high enough to injure the passer's eyes and men's hats signifies "I am a woman".

Lastly, the loan of an umbrella is synoymous with act egregious folly.

Give us a call and be convinced. Remember the store. Geo. Watson & Co., Broad and Market street, Newark.—The Newark Item.

An Ideal Summary.

In the game of base-ball between the actors and the reporters at New York, yesterday, the former won by the score of 24 to 12. The Herald's summary of the game is:

Earned runs—Too many to be counted. Two-base hits—Could n't get the names. Three-base hits—Same as two-base hits. Home runs—One apiece after the game ended. Sacrifice hits—None; everybody for himself. Stolen bases—Countless numbers. First base on errors—Same as stolen bases. First base on balls—Fifty at least. Struck out—Everybody. Double plays—Did n't know how to make them. Hit by pitched ball—Everybody tried unsuccessfully. Time of game—Not taken.

Great Expectations.

It is reported that a rich vein of copper has been found on a farm near Bound Brook. A corps of men has been at work for some time making excavations at the place where the vein is, and the nature of the work has been carefully kept secret. It has long been known that copper existed in Middlesex county, but it has never been found in sufficient quantities to pay the expense of mining. It is said that a company has already formed to work the new find.

For three weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. Harry C. Clarke, New York Appraiser's office.

CONTRACTOR ALLEN ASSAULTED.

One of His Workmen Viciously Attacks Him, Beats His Face, Holds His Head in the Brook, and Spoils His Clam-bake.

Contractor Sam Allen of this city is reported to have been well-nigh the victim of a murderous attack at the hands of a vicious Pole, Sunday. Allen was knocked down, beaten in the face and rolled into a brook where his assailant held Allen's head under water until he was almost suffocated.

This all took place, it is said, at a spot near the Allen farm where a clam-bake was being prepared by Allen and a number of friends who had each contributed $1.50 towards the purchase of the necessary edibles. The Pole, who is described as a strapping big fellow, appeared on the scene and demanded $19.50 which he claimed Allen owed him for work. It is said that the claim was not disputed, but that Allen did not have the money.

The Pole after attacking Allen as described, ate and drank his fill of the clam-bake and then destroyed everything that was left, even going so far as to mash each clam into pulp, tear the table cloths in pieces and empty every drop of drinkables on the ground. He then left with a threat that he would kill Allen if he ever caught him again.

Among the guests who expected to enjoy the bake were John Mantz, Joseph Pike, George Laidy, and a number of Mr. Allen's New York friends.

THIS CRIPPLE'S A FRAUD.

He Tearfully Asked for Help, But Had Lots o' Money to Bet Against Plainfield's Good Institutions.

A one-legged red-nosed tramp whose countenance bore traces of inebriety, and whose voice trembled with suppressed hiccoughs, shambled into THE PRESS office this morning and tremulously pleaded for alms for "a poor cripple". He was respectfully referred to the Y. M. C. A. or the W. C. T. U., with the remark that if he were a worthy object of charity they would help him.

The tramp's ire was instantly aroused, and he cursed the two worthy institutions mentioned, with great volubility.

"I used t' b'long t' 'em both,"—he said—"an' they ain't no good!

"An' you ain't no good, neither!"—he added—"for sendin' a poor helpless feller t' sech clammy-hearted people. I' ve been a-beggin' fur a livin' fur thirteen years, an' they never helped me onct."

Here he fished down into his pocket and drew out a handful of silver.

"Bet yer five dollars,"—he ejaculated—"an' put up the money, that they do n't help me a bit. I'll go to 'em, an' if they give me a cent I'll give yer five dollars."

The fellow was ordered from the office, when he became violently abusive, heaped wordy insults on everyone around him, flourished his crutch menacingly, and offered to "clean out the crowd".

He was promptly ejected, and this article is written to warn people who help such fellows that they are aiding the most worthless kinds of frauds. This tramp, and all of his ilk, are utterly undeserving of sympathy.

GUARDING AGAINST CHOLERA.

State Health Authorities Preparing to Fight the Disease Should it Appear.

The State Board of Health has been particularly active during the past week preparing to fight the cholera at the several ports of entry in this State. Dr. Hunt has visited the Health Inspectors at Hoboken, Jersey City, Camden and Perth Amboy, and given them full instructions as to how examinations should be made, and arrangement has been made with the health authorities of New York to receive a list of all the passengers arriving at that port and their point of destination and the condition of the emigrants arriving.

A circular has been prepared and sent to all the heath boards in the State, including those of this city and borough, calling attention to the necessary precautions and what to do if the disease makes its appearance. Dr. Hunt says there is no cause for a panic, but these precautions are wise considering that there is a direct line of steamers arriving at Hoboken from the infected localities.

THE DEADLY HORSE CAR.

Miss McCarthy Run Over and Killed on Broadway.

Within sight of the usual throng of people who pass up and down Broadway, New York, late in the afternoon, Miss Nellie McCarthy, a spinster, 40 years old, was knocked down at 5:40 yesterday afternoon by a Broadway car at the Great Jones street crossing. She died in a few minutes.

Miss McCarthy, in company of another woman, had just been to a dentist's to have her teeth fixed. It is supposed that she was still suffering from the pain of the operation, and was not in her usual calm state of mind. As the two women started to cross the street Broadway car No. 32 came along bound up-town. A truck in front hid the car from the view of Miss McCarthy and her companion. They crossed in front of the truck. Miss McCarthy, who was a large woman, could not get out of the way quick enough, and the car struck her and knocked her down. One of the wheels crushed in her skull. She was dead when an ambulance arrived.

They Meant no Harm, However, and Will Probably Pay up and Settle the Matter Out of Court.

W. Trust, M. Coyne, M. Turton, G. Houseman, C. DeGraw, J. Milne and W. Jukes are charged with having got away with about 180 hard shell crabs that were consigned to a guest of the City Hotel, by ex-councilman Stephen Ryder, from Bergen Point, yesterday. Inquiry at the city judge's office this morning, however, is answered by the statement that they will not be arraigned for trial to-day.

The crabs after being boiled were placed on ice to cool in a small room back of the bar. The persons mentioned above were discovered in the room a short time afterwards, up to their necks in shells, but not a crab was left. The owner of the crabs is out of town, and until he returns it will not be known when warrants will be issued. It is probable, however, that the young men who have got themselves in this trouble without any intent of wrong doing, will make up the cost among themselves and settle the matter.

T. A. Rogers, general manager of the hotel, is mad clear through. He paid 35 cents expressage on the crabs and did n't get a bite of one of them.

A Plainfield Contractor Abuses His Privilege.

Mr. Corbet, the inspector of the county roads, was in Cranford yesterday, and called on Charles Burnett of Plainfield, the contractor of the opera-house block. Burnett was given a permit to use a portion of the road for the building material, but within the past few days brick and sand have been unloaded in the middle of the road. Corbet left word that the county road must be cleared at once, and the gutters kept open, or else he would have the permit revoked.

Interesting Till a Home-Run Hit Was Made.

A game of ball was played Monday morning between the Atlantas of Plainfield and the Giants of North Plainfield. The game was very interesting until the sixth inning, when J. Scott of the Atlantas succeeded in knocking a home run. D. Kane of the Atlantas played behind the bat in a remarkable way. The batteries: Atlantas—D. Kane, J. Scott; Giants—Adams, Corriell. Score, 11 to 6 in favor of the Atlantas.

A Three Days' Tennis Tournament.

The second annual tournament of the Hillside Tennis club will commence on Saturday afternoon and is to be continued Monday, Labor Day, and the following Saturday. The events will be ladies' singles, and gentlemen's singles and doubles. No entries will be received later than Friday afternoon. Dexter O. Tiffany, James P. Murray, E. L. Walz, jr., Fred W. Walz and Howard W. Beebe comprise the committee in charge.

Big Refinery Burned.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 31.—John A. Casey's refining works, situated on the northeast corner of Richard and Commerce streets, Brooklyn, were totally destroyed by fire shortly after 6 p. m. Ten stills and a considerable stock of spirits, varnishes, resin and oil were destroyed, entailing, together with building, a loss of $125,000.

A Fireman Killed.

NEWARK, N. J. Aug. 31.—A steam feed pipe in the power house of the Newark Passenger Railway Company burst during the morning and Joseph Dazinger, a fireman who was in charge of one of the boilers, was blown against the side of the building and instantly killed. His body was terribly bruised.

Gov. Abbett and the Reading Deal.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 31.—Gov. Abbett said in an interview that if the Attorney-General did not have the power to enforce the injunction issued against the Reading coal deal that he would probably call an extra session of the Legislature for that purpose. Attorney-General Stockton is preparing a suit against the Lehigh Valley railroad.

Walked Backwards Nine Miles.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—James E. Bessom, champion backward walker of the world walked from the Anderson Hotel, Lynn, to Bass Point, Nahanti and return, in two hours and twenty minutes, Monday, winning a wager of $300 that he could cover the distance—which is about nine miles—in three hours.

PINKHAM'S PROVERBIAL PHILOSOPHY...

Coming events cast their shadows before.

The feeling of utter listlessness, lack of energy, desire to be alone, or the "don't care" feeling, are all shadows of coming events. No woman should permit those symptoms to gain ground, for, being forewarned, she should be forearmed. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will disperse all those shadows. It goes to the very root of all female complaints, renews the waning vitality, and invigorates the entire system. Surely such letters as this will support our claims:

DEAR MADAM,— . . . I think your Vegetable Compound saved my life; it is the best medicine for kidney and female troubles I ever saw. I induced my friends to use it, and it has never failed.—Mrs. H. E. FOSKETT, West Rutland, Vt.

Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. An illustrated book, entitled "Guide to Health and Etiquette," by Lydia E. Pinkham, is of great value to ladies. We will present a copy to anyone addressing us with two 2-cent stamps.

JERUSALEM THE HOLY.

Unquestionably the Most Interesting City in the World.

The Trip from Jaffa to Jerusalem—The Approach from the Bethlehem Road—Places Famed in Biblical and Profane History.

[Special Jerusalem Letter.]

What city in the world has connected with it such a crowd of immortal memories? By the Arabs it is called El Kuds (The Holy), and it is yet, despite the vicissitudes of time, the great world center of religion. There are cities more picturesque, cities possessing more extensive ruins, cities of greater commercial importance, cities which are the repositories of vast treasures of art and literature, but none of such vast importance in the development of human civilization. From the heights of the Acropolis at Athens came forth glorious art, and philosophy, and eloquence. From the heights of the seven hills at Rome came forth the splendid discipline of law and the mailed hand of Roman power and organization, but from the hills of Moriah and from the heights of Calvary there has come forth to the world the spectacle of the perfect life, and the Gospel of human brotherhood and the love of God.

A steady stream of travel sets toward Jerusalem, especially in the winter and spring months. The usual route is by steamer via Alexandria to Jaffa. Leaving Port Said in the evening the next morning early the coast line of Judea with the hills beyond is seen. At Jaffa there is no harbor, and landing can be made only in fair weather. Even then the ship rolls heavily. A line of cruel rocks against which the waves dash with great violence tell that this is a dangerous coast. Little boats shoot through an opening in the rocks and carry the steamer's cargo and passengers to the shore. I counted thirty-seven boats pulling for the steamer, manned by sinewy Arab boatmen. From Jaffa to Jerusalem is about forty-five miles, which by horse takes about two days with a night at Ramleh. But soon a railroad will be completed. Already the rails are laid 25 miles, and next year the Plain of Sharon will hear the shriek of the steam whistle. This may take much of the poetry out of the Palestine journey, but the march of the steam engine means better communication.

One of the first items of a stay in Jerusalem is to visit the site of the ancient temple, on which is now built the mosque of Omar and the mosque of El Aksa. To visit the Haram ares or the precincts of the mosque of Omar one must be accompanied by a kawass, or a guide from the consul of his respective country. He must also be accompanied by a Turkish soldier, no one being allowed in the sacred inclosure without such attendance. Securing our escort, we passed down through the bazars and were soon at the Haram area. This is an extensive rectangular level space, several acres in extent. Upon it are numerous buildings, large and small, with here and there cypress and other trees. On the west side eight gates and on the north three lead up by stairs to a slightly elevated platform, on which are the chief buildings, the mosque of Omar and the mosque of El Aksa.

What strange feelings come over us as we reflect that on this site was located the temple of Solomon, and its successors, the temple of Zerubbabel and the temple of Herod! The "Mosque of Omar," as it is called, is not properly a mosque, but a prayer station. It is a graceful building, octagonal in form. With its fine dome surmounted with gilded crescent, its exterior walls covered with blue Persian tiles and inscribed with sentences from the Koran, its delicate arches, its beautiful lattice work, the structure is a delight to the eye. To the Mohammedan the interior of the place of prayer is very holy, and one dare not enter with sandaled feet. Taking off our shoes we passed into the interior in our stockings. The interior is marvelously rich in its general effect, with its harmonious stained glass, its intricate tracery, and above all the lofty blue canopy of the great dome. In the very center, screened off by an iron screen, is the rugged mass of the native rock of Mount Moriah, perhaps the very spot where Aurana the Jebusite had his threshing floor. The Mohammedans consider this rock a very sacred spot, the center of the earth, whence flow the rivers of Paradise. They say that when Mohammed ascended to Heaven from the summit of this rock the angel Gabriel seized it and held it down. "Look," said the white turbaned Moslem who recounted these legends. "There is the print of the prophet's foot and also the print of Gabriel's fingers." Sure enough, there were clearly visible indentations which resembled such prints. Near by in the floor was shown a slab of jasper, originally said to contain nineteen nails which the prophet drove in. When all these nails are pulled out the end of the world will appear. The devil pulls one of these nails out when he can get a chance. Only three and a half still remain. As we moved about men were praying here and there, but did not seem to be disturbed by our presence.

Thence we visited the Mosque of El Aksa, which was formerly a Christian basilica, erected by Justinian in the Sixth century, and then descended into the vaults beneath the temple area, which are called the "stables of Solomon." Here we saw some of the immense stones of the ancient temple wall with the peculiar cutting called the Jewish bevel. Some of these stones are huge indeed. No wonder the disciples said to the Master: "See what stones are here!" Here is a wonderful field for investigation and study. A vast literature has been written on the temple area and the walls of Jerusalem. Authorities differ greatly, but there can be no doubt that on this site was the temple of Solomon and its successors. Twenty-seven times has Jerusalem been besieged and taken and several times destroyed. It has been thoroughly filled up with rubbish and every landmark except the bare rock has been swept away.

The next object of interest was the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, built over the supposed site of the tomb of ANCIENT OLIVE TREE IN GARDEN OF GETHSEMANE.

Our Lord. As we approached the church we noticed in the square in front a great number of venders of crosses, beads, pictures, etc., squatted on the ground. Entering, we were first confronted by a large stone slab over which was an elaborate canopy inside of which hung a number of large golden lamps. Many people were kissing the stone. This is said to be the place where Christ was laid after he was taken down from the cross. Going up a flight of stairs to the right we saw a recess, containing a rock in which was a gold star over a square hole let into the rock. This they say is the socket where the cross was placed. On the same level is shown the "tomb of Adam," cut in the rock.

Below under the great dome of the church is a small marble structure or chapel before and around which hang numerous beautiful gold and silver lamps. Inside of this reached through a low door is the "Holy Sepulchre" itself. Within is a slab indicating the tomb. Over this slab hang forty-three silver lamps, thirteen each for the Greeks, Latins and Armenians and four for the Copts. Below the main floor is a cavern called the chapel of St. Helena, where she is said to have found the true cross. Here are shown also the tombs of Joseph of Arimathea and the tomb of Joseph the Greek. Latin, Armenian and Coptic Monks divide this church among them. Often has their fanaticism come to blows and hence is explained the presence of Turkish soldiers in the church, to keep peace among the Christians.

The effect of all these fictitious sacred sites is at first to disgust the devout Christian as he witnesses the hostility of warring sects and ignorant credulity with which they accept the statements of their monkish instructors. Yet, while the site of Calvary, the place of burial and many other localities are uncertain, there can be no doubt whatever that here, in the ancient city on this site, Jesus taught and suffered and died. The mount of Olives, where he sat and taught and under whose trees he endured the agony, is there in all its grandeur. Here we meditated one beautiful Sabbath afternoon.

Before and below us lay the city over which from these very slopes he wept as he beheld it. Between us lay the valley of Jehoshaphat with the tomb of Absalom, the pyramid of Zechariah and the tomb of James. Yonder out of St. Stephen's gate came the procession which hailed him with hosannas. No one knows definitely the site of Gethsemane. It was, however, undoubtedly upon this mountain.

Elevated above all the legends and superstitions which ignorant zeal has thrown about these places, the intelligent Christian will find his visit to Jerusalem an increasing source of instruction, and as his journey leads him to traverse the land he will find that the land, the Book, Palestine and the Bible are so related that his faith in the historic verity of the record is strengthened at every step.

THE IMPASSABLE WALL.

Ropes Suspended Vertically Will Protect a Fragile Object.

If you strike with a cane the lower end of a cord or rope suspended vertically, you will be surprised at the slight effect which your blow will produce. Instead of throwing the cord or rope away back, it will be moved but slightly. The cause of the phenomenon is easily discovered. Because of the inertia, the lower end of the cord tends to remain still while the part struck tends to move. The result is that the end of the cord rises and winds around the cane, checking the blow completely. This simple observation will explain the little trick known as the magic or the impassable wall.

Suspend a series of these stout cords or small ropes, by stringing them on a broomstick, which you can support by laying across the tops of two doors, as indicated in the cut.

Behind these cords thus suspended, place upon the floor any fragile object—even a costly one, and defy one of your friends, placed outside the "wall," to break that object. No matter how hard he strikes at it with his cane across the ropes, he will succeed in doing nothing but getting wound up in the cords, and, strike as long as he likes, he will not hit the article aimed at.

ABOUT ESTIVATION.

Animals That Are Extremely Sensitive to Heat and Dryness.

A rarer and even more curious phenomenon than hibernation, or winter sleep, is the estivation, or torpidity during the dry season, of certain animals. As one of the mammals which is most sensitive to heat and dryness, M. L. Cuonot mentions the tanrec, of Madagascar, an insect-eating creature resembling the hedgehog. It is very active during the rainy season, but lies torpid in a shallow burrow for nearly six months in the dry period. The most remarkable summer sleepers, however, are found in the group of dipnoids, intermediate between the batrachians and fishes, and comprising at present but three animals—the Lepidosiren paradoxa of the affluents of the Amazon, the Protopterus annectens of Gambia and Senegal, and the Ceratodus forsteri of Australia. Their anatomical structure resembles that of the fishes, and a bronchial apparatus allows them to breathe in the water, while a pulmonary apparatus enables them to absorb the oxygen of the air. A careful study of the protopterus shows that during the entire dry season, lasting about nine months, it remains buried in the dried-up mud at a depth of five feet, and is surrounded by a sort of cocoon, which incloses it hermetically. Air penetrates through a narrow channel to the animal, which in this state breathes, not only through a lung into which the swimming bladder is transformed, but through its wide membraneous tail. On the return of the rainy season, the dried mucus covering the animal dissolves, and the creature straightens out from its doubled-up position, and swims in the water for three months.—Mediterranean Naturalist.

FAMILIAR SCIENCE.

How to Produce an Improvised Incandescent Light.

When you burn a wooden match, you find that there remains a little quantity of white ashes, which reddens with great ease if you blow on it. Fix some of these ashes on the points of four ordinary pens, and attach them around an ordinary cork, pierced in the center by a hole. If you find any difficulty in making the ashes stick to the points of the pens, stick half a match on each pen point, and then let each match burn down. Carefully place the cork, thus equipped, on a little lamp, filled with mineral oil, so that the wick of the lamp passes through the hole in the cork.

Now light the lamp and keep the wick well lowered, so that it gives only an almost imperceptible blue flame, and you will see the ashes of the matches, by incandescence, take on a magnificent blush, and for a moment the light will be almost as strong as that of the ordinary electric lamp.

Musical Item.

Mr. Jones, being on a visit to a friend in a Texas town, and having a fine voice, was urged to sing in the village choir. He at last yielded.

"I hear you have at last consented to sing in our choir?" said a lady in meeting him.

"Yes, I have at last yielded. I believe that when you are in Rome you should howl with the wolves."—Texas Siftings.
